Aitkin Member Would Put Additional Revenue Into Road Fund.

Spooner of Morris Would Create State Water Supply Commission.

Bill to Correlate State's Immigration Work With County Efforts.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The third week of the Minnesota legislature will begin tonight with evening sessions in both houses at which little or nothing will be done beyond the introduction of a few more bills. This week the committees will get to work actively as the twenty-day limit is rapidly running out on the bills already introduced, and the session will be in active operation by the end of the week.

Representative C. H. Warner of Aitkin will tonight or tomorrow introduce a bill proposing an increase in the railroad gross earnings tax from 4 to 5 per cent, the additional revenue to go into the state road and bridge fund. If it is adopted by the legislature it will be submitted to the people at the next general election.

Representative Lewis C. Spooner of Morris will tomorrow introduce a bill creating a state water supply com-

CLAPP WILL VOTE AGAINST LORIMER

Senator Nelson Not Yet Ready to Announce His Position.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Some light is being thrown on how Northwestern senators will vote on the question of unseating Senator Lorimer. Senator Clapp of Minnesota has announced that he will vote against Lorimer. Senator Nelson of the same state, says that he has not yet had time to look into the merits of the case and, therefore, is not ready to announce himself.

In South Dakota Senators Gamble and Crawford are divided. Crawford will vote against Lorimer; Gamble, as a member of the committee, signed a report in favor of Lorimer.

In North Dakota, McCumber has not yet made up his mind, while Purcell will vote against Lorimer.

In Iowa, Cummins will vote against Lorimer, while Young probably will refrain from voting, or may not be in the senate at the time the vote is taken.

Senator Clapp has been giving the Lorimer question a good deal of study. Announcing his position, he said:

"I am satisfied from the evidence that there is no question but that the senate should vote to unseat William Lorimer, and while I do not know that a poll has been taken of the senate, my impression is very strong that if a vote is reached, Mr. Lorimer will be unseated. While every one must decide this matter for himself, an examination of the evidence is to my mind overwhelmingly against him, and I shall therefore vote to unseat him."

FIGHTING FOR MANY HOURS

Battle Occurs With Revolutionists at Coyome Village.

Believed That the Losses Will Be Very Heavy.

Chihuahua, Jan. 16, via El Paso—A 16-hour battle between seventy government volunteers, so-called, and 100 revolutionists, occurred at the village of Coyome on Saturday.

This report reached Gen. Hernandez, commanding the military zone, today. No details were given, but from the duration of the engagement it is presumed the losses were considerable. The general expects an amplified report soon. Coyome is about midway between this city and Ojinja.

With Orozco holding the attention of Gen. Navarro in the Western part of the state, foreigners look for interesting developments in the Eastern part. The fight at Coyome is taken as confirmation of the insurrecto report that the revolution is being carefully fostered east and northeast of here. It is doubtful if there are more than five hundred federal troops in that section of the state.

Orozco in talking recently with a prominent railroad man, who met him in the mountains, stated that all told, since the revolution started, the insurrectos had lost 150 men in killed and those who died from their wounds.

NEW JUDGE NAMED IN NORTH DAKOTA

K. E. LEIGHTON,
Minot Lawyer Appointed by Governor Burke as Judge of the Eighth Judicial District of North Dakota, to Succeed Judge E. B. Goss, Raised to the Supreme Court.

LARGE SUMS ARE ASKED

Fargo Agricultural College Wants $353,000 for Biennial Period.

Minot Normal Requests $252,000 and State University $213,000.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 16.—(Special to The Herald.) — Appropriation bills, which will take up so much of the attention of the legislative assembly this winter, are already well represented in the 150 or more bills that had been introduced up to this afternoon.

This week there will be a large number of new bills added to the list of those already introduced, and among the measures that are expected are the appropriation bills of the Valley City normal, the Mayville normal, Bottineau school of forestry, Wahpeton state school of science and the Bathgate school for the blind.

In the agricultural college bills that have been introduced up to the present time, a total of $353,000, for the coming biennial period, has been asked for different activities of the agricultural college. This sum includes an annual appropriation of $50,000 for the government experimental station; $18,000 annually for the demonstration farms; $20,000 annually for mainte-

REBUILDING OF A GREATER MESSINA

Work of Constructing of New City of Stone and Concrete Begins.

Messina, Sicily, Jan. 16.—The rebuilding of Messina in durable masonry was inaugurated today when the cornerstone of the group of public buildings to be erected by the municipality was laid by Signor Sacchi, minister of public works; Signor Ciuffelli, minister of posts and telegraphs, and other members of the government.

The ceremony was witnessed by a great assemblage and aroused much enthusiasm and new hope for the future. The temperature was springlike, the sun was bright, and the city was more gay than it had been since it was devastated by the earthquake of December, 1908.

The ministers visited the temporary wooden structures that were put up for houses of the homeless thousands following the calamity and were especially pleased to note how well the buildings erected by subscriptions from America had been preserved. The new city will be built of stone and concrete.

The ministers go from here to Reggio, where there will be a similar ceremony formally opening the work of reconstruction.

ONE BODY RECOVERED.

Five More Supposed to Be in Ruins of Cincinnati Building.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 16.—Searchers early today recovered one of the six bodies supposed to be in the ruins of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce building destroyed by fire last Tuesday night. It was that of Brent Marshall, vice president of the Early & Daniels Grain company.

DISREGARD FIRE ESCAPE ORDINANCES

Few Hotels, Except Those of First Class, Observe Provisions.

Flagrant Violations Will Be Reported to the City Council.

No Red Lights or Gongs for Protection of Lodgers.

Flagrant violations of the ordinances regulating fire escapes in hotels and lodging houses of the city are said to have been found by the building inspector's office during the investigation which has just been completed.

The report was asked by the city council some three weeks ago and since that time Deputy Inspector Dave Nelson has been thoroughly examining all of the buildings of this class in the city. The report was finished today and will likely be handed into the city council at the meeting this evening.

In all but the first-class hotels it was found that the provisions of the ordinance were not being observed. In some of them practically every safeguard was lacking, making them the worst kind of fire traps. In case of a serious fire in these places it was ascertained that it would be practically impossible for the lodgers to escape with their lives. This is especially true should the blaze break out at night, when the rooms were filled with sleepers.

Most of these buildings are of frame construction, many of them being old and tumbling down. If fire once attacked them they would go almost in a puff, imprisoning the inmates and burning them to death before they would have a chance to make even a fair chance for their lives.

Provisions Are Stringent.

The provisions of the ordinance are

CHARGED WITH KILLING KETCHEL

Walter Dipley and Goldie Smith on Trial in Missouri.

Marshfield, Mo., Jan. 16.—Charged with the murder of Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion pugilist, Walter A. Dipley and Goldie Smith were placed on trial in the criminal court here today. Attorneys on both sides announced themselves ready and the selection of a jury was begun promptly.

Leon Ketchel, brother of the pugilist, arrived here today to take an active part in assisting the prosecution.

The prosecution will attempt to prove that robbery was the motive of the crime. It is said the defense will allege that Dipley was justified in taking the life of Ketchel because of alleged improper advances made to the Smith woman by the pugilist. Ketchel was killed on Oct. 15 last.

SHOULD NOT BE FORTIFIED

Six Reasons Why Panama Canal Should Be Neutralized.

Prominent Men and Women of the Country Issue Statement.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 16.—A statement embodying six reasons why the Panama canal should be neutralized, bearing the signatures of men and women, prominent in the United States and abroad, was made public today, Richard Olney, former secretary of state; David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Standford, Jr., university; William Dean Howells, author; Charles P. Anderson, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Chicago; William H. P. Faurce, president of Brown university; Jane Adams of Hull House, Chicago; George B. Holt, justice of the United States district court, and George Foster Peabody, the New York banker, are among the sponsors of the document. The statement follows:

Six Reasons Given.

"Why the Panama canal should be neutralized, not fortified—

"1. Because the canal would be safer in wartime without fortification. According to the agreement signed by The Hague conference in 1907, unfortified coast places cannot be bombarded.

"2. Because the original intention of our government, as distinctly expressed in 1900, and previously, was to prohibit fortifications on the canal. Though this prohibition was omitted in the finally revised Hay-Pauncefort treaty, signed in 1902, this in no wise implies that we ought to fortify it, nor was its construction proposed as primarily a military undertaking.

"3. Because, though the Suez canal was built with English money, England agreed to its neutralization. The Straits of Magellan are also neutralized

GUILTY MAY BE PLEA OF BOY BANDIT

Melodrowski May Be Allowed to Admit Guilt of Second Degree Murder.

Attorneys Confer With Judge Cant on Case of Policeman's Slayer.

Boys Indicted for First Degree Murder---Johnson Will Stand Trial.

Charles Melodrowski, the boy who, with Algot Johnson, held up the night clerk and porter of the McKay hotel and later in an attempt to escape, shot and killed Officer Harry Chesmore, may be allowed to plead guilty to second degree murder.

The matter has not been definitely decided upon as yet, but the lad's attorney, C. C. Teare, has taken the matter up with County Attorney John H. Norton and he in turn has taken it up with Judge William A. Cant of the district court, who is hearing the criminal actions this term.

The boys were both indicted by the grand jury on a charge of murder in the first degree. If Melodowski is allowed to plead guilty to second degree murder it will be because of his youth.

The matter was taken up with Judge Cant this morning and he has not as yet decided as to whether or not he will accept the plea. The attorneys, both Mr. Norton for the state and Mr. Teare for the defense, simply wanted to know if such a plea would be allowed if it should be given. It is expected that the judge and the attorneys will talk the matter over this afternoon and finally decide it.

This only applies to Melodrowski. Algot Johnson will probably stand trial.

DEADLOCK NOW SEEMS CERTAIN

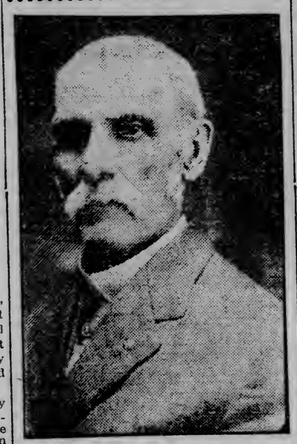

First Ballot for Iowa Senator to Be Taken Wednesday.

Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 16.—Iowa legislators returning to the city following the recess taken Thursday, say there is no indication of any break in the ranks of candidates for United States senator and a deadlock appears certain when the first ballot is taken at noon tomorrow.

The Democrats will support Claude R. Porter of Centerville, and he will have 54 votes in the senate and house. Senator Young's stand-pat strength is declared to be 41 votes in the both houses. Estimates indicate that other candidates, all of whom are progressives, will have approximately the following votes: A. B. Funk of Spirit Lake, 19; Judge W. H. Kenyon of Fort Dodge, 15; H. W. Byers of Harlan, 11; ex-Governor Warren Garst of Coon Rapids, 10; Former Speaker Guy Feeley of Waterloo, 6; Senator L. A. Franke of Parkersburg, 2. The first joint ballot will be taken Wednesday noon.

NURSE EMPLOYED TO TRAP MRS. SCHENK IS RELATIVE OF FAMILY

JUDGE PRESIDING AT THE SCHENK TRIAL

L. S. JORDAN,
Jurist Who Is Presiding Over Court at Wheeling, W. Va.

Revelation of Much Talked of Detective Causes Sensation.

Instructed By Prosecutor to Catch Wife By Any Means.

Famous Trial Is Likely to Extend Into Many Weeks.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 16. — There are so many sides and angles in the trial of Mrs. Laura Fansworth Schenk, charged with attempting to murder her husband, that attorneys are now convinced it will be several weeks before it is finally concluded.

Judge Jordan's expectation that it could be disposed of in a week has passed and he is uncertain as to the date for the close.

Mrs. Schenk spent Sunday quietly in her tower room and it was said devoted much of the time to reading letters which are pouring in on her at the rate of a hundred a day. One is said to have contained a proposal of marriage.

Miss Eleanor Zoeckler, the detective-nurse, was again called to the stand when court convened today. The crowd was as large as ever in spite of the biting cold.

"Mrs. Schenk told me on one occasion," said the witness in a voice so low that it could not be heard in the audience, "that when John Schenk died I would be well provided for. Friday following the offer to give me $1,000 to poison Mr. Schenk, Mrs. Schenk came to the hospital and asked to be left alone in the room with Schenk for a few minutes. We left them alone and there were high words between them. On one occasion I remarked to Mrs. Schenk 'Well, he's making some improvement,' and she replied, 'Yes, to my sorrow.'"

In answer to the question of Prosecutor Handian as to what Mrs. Schenk had said to the witness after her ar-

BIG SCANDAL IS AVOIDED

Rear Admiral Barry Hurriedly Placed on Retired List.

Officers of Fleet Contemplated Filing Charges Against Him.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 16.—Rear Admiral Chauncey M. Thomas, commander of the second squadron of the Pacific fleet arrived here on his flagship, the California, yesterday afternoon, after a hurried trip from Santa Barbara. Admiral Thomas at once relieved Rear Admiral Ward B. Barry as commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, in pursuance of an order received from the navy department. Admiral Barry has requested immediate retirement from the service under the rule of more than forty years' service.

The cause of Admiral Barry's sudden desire to leave the service after having held the post of fleet commander for only a few months, is the subject of a great deal of gossip and speculation in naval and club circles here. Stories reflecting seriously upon the character of the retiring admiral are being circulated widely, and naval officers in port have taken cognizance of them. There is an intimation in these

THIEVES DIVIDE SUM OF $286,000

Bellman Sees the Money and One Man Is Arrested.

Hot Springs, Ark., Jan. 16.—It developed today that the tale of a negro bellman at a hotel led to the arrest yesterday of Charles H. Everett, who is charged with having secured $1,800 from the People's Savings bank of Seattle, and for whom detectives have been searching through a half dozen states.

Four men occupied the room, according to the negro and when he was summoned to bring them liquid refreshments he saw huge stacks of bills on the bed and chairs.

When the police arrived the men had disappeared, but memorandums were found showing various groups of figures. The aggregate, $286,000, had been divided into four parts. Circulers brought bank detectives here post haste and the arrest of Everett who had engaged the hotel apartment followed.

According to the detectives, Pacific coast banks have lost heavily recently through the circulation of fraudulent papers and other arrests are declared probable.

ALDRICH GOES SOUTH.

Severe Cold Forces Senator to Seek a Warmer Climate.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island, who has been ill here for the past two weeks, will leave Washington this afternoon for the South. The senator's illness resulted from the contraction of a severe cold.

Until two or three days ago he did not think it would be necessary to seek a warmer climate, but his trouble hung on so persistently that he decided to go to Georgia. If possible he will keep his address secret in order that no business shall reach him until he is ready to return.

APPEALS TO THE HOME SECRETARY

Mormon Tells Churchill They Are Being Persecuted.

London, Jan. 16.—W. F. Monson, chief of the Mormon missionaries in England, has addressed a letter to Home Secretary Churchill seconding the request of certain English clergy that the home office investigate Mormonism in this country. Monson alleges that the Mormons are being persecuted.

An anti-Mormon campaign was recently organized at Liverpool by the bishop of Liverpool, and other prominent churchmen. The object was the expulsion from England of Mormon missionaries, who were charged with sending many recruits, chiefly girls, to the United States. The crusade has been taken up by the clergy of other cities.

CAMPAIGN GROWS HOT

Senatorship Fight May Go to Floor of New York Legislature.

Governor Dix Places Wishes of Constituents Ahead of Caucus.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 16.—Governor Dix today publicly advised the Democratic members of the legislature to consider the wishes of their constituents ahead of the decision of the majority at tonight's caucus of Democrats on senatorship. This may mean that the caucus will be unable to settle the contest and that it will be carried to the floor of the legislature.

The campaign for the United States senatorship will continue up to the last minute before the Democratic legislators enter caucus tonight to decide who shall be sent to Washington as the successor of Chauncey M. Depew.

The air of expectancy today at the headquarters maintained by the friends of Edward M. Shepard, contrasted with the quiet that seemed to prevail among the friends of William F. Sheehan.

Governor Dix was under fire all day. Two delegations called upon him this morning, one from Buffalo, in advocacy of Mr. Sheehan and another from Brooklyn favoring Mr. Shepard. In addition he was showered with telegrams and messages from the supporters of both candidates.

Some of the less sanguine of Mr. Shepard's friends said today that even if their candidate lost, the successful man would not be Mr. Sheehan.

Duluth individuals and firms will this year pay to St. Louis county a total of $367,713.56 in personal property taxes on a valuation of $9,356,480. Last year a total of $352,203.31 was paid on a valuation of $9,244,155.

The largest tax will be paid by the Duluth Street Railway company, which has been assessed $44,190.81 on a valuation of $1,124,448. The First National bank will pay $32,500.51 on a valuation of $826,955, while the American Exchange bank pays $24,346.39 on a valuation of $619,501. The Duluth Telephone company is on the tax rolls for a tax of $5,895 on a valuation of $150,000 and the Zenith Telephone company is taxed $3,930 on a valuation of $100,000. The entries on the books are in red ink, however, and they are not considered in the totals as the county has been defeated in the first court action to force payment of the taxes for last year. The matter is still involved in the test case, which will probably be appealed to the supreme court.

THINKS FIRE WAS INCENDIARY

Second Blaze in Three Weeks in Trunk Company's Store.

Fire, which is believed to have been of incendiary origin, was discovered in the basement of the store occupied by the Northern Trunk company, at 228 West First street, yesterday afternoon.

Oscar Ellert, a member of the firm, happened to visit the store yesterday morning, and smelled smoke. He investigated and found a fire in the basement, where a number of tables had been stored. A pile of papers had been placed under the tables, and these were blazing. One of the waiters from the Kitchi Gammi club was trying to extinguish the blaze, and with Mr. Ellert's assistance he succeeded.

This is the second fire in the store within three weeks, as a blaze was discovered on New Year's day.

Mr. Ellert says he cannot guess who was responsible for the fire, but that he believes that it was started by some person maliciously. The waiter, who helped him extinguish the blaze, knew nothing of its origin, but had been attracted by the smoke as Mr. Ellert had.

MANY IDLE MEN IN CITY

More Out of Work Than During Panic, Says James Walsh.

Men Willing to Take Day Work While Waiting for Jobs.

That there are at the present time more idle men in the city than at the time of the bread line in 1907, is the statement made this morning by James Walsh of the state free employment bureau.

Mr. Walsh says that, due to the floating population in Duluth, there are always two or three thousand idle men in the city, but that at this time there are hundreds more than usual. He states that there is but little building going on at the present time there is but little work offered by the railroad companies and that the work in the woods is not as heavy as was anticipated.

Each day the state free employment bureau is crowded with men looking for jobs. Contrary to the situation at some times during the year, the men are at this time ready and anxious to work.

The Associated Charities is daily sending men to the office for work. Mr. Walsh says that there is no work for them and the best he can do is to take the men in order and give them work as fast as it comes in. Some of the men have been waiting for jobs for several weeks past. They now grab at day work, such as shoveling snow and beating carpets. This same work was passed up a few weeks ago by the same men who today are anxious for it.

The stone yard of the Associated Charities is giving relief to a few men, but the institution is not going in first-class shape yet, and but a few can be cared for at a time.

NEW ORE DOCK AT MARQUETTE

Lake Superior & Ishpeming Road to Build Second Dock Next Season.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 16. — (Special to The Herald.)—The Lake Superior & Ishpeming Railway company, which has decided to build a second ore dock at Marquette the coming season, is awarded contracts for the materials. Fifty-four hundred pieces of piling, some thirt-five feet and some forty-five feet long, have been ordered from the Sagola Lumber company of Sagola for delivery by March 1 next. It is estimated that it will require 150 cars to transport the piling to this city. The ore dock will not go into commission until the shipping season of 1912, by which time it will be urgently need.

The Lake Superior & Ishpeming railroad is owned jointly by the Jones & Laughlin Steel company and the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company and is operated by the latter corporation in connection with the Marquette & Southeastern and Munising lines, owned by the Cleveland Cliffs. It extends from the shore of Lake Superior at Marquette to the district west of Ishpeming. The Cleveland Cliffs company is opening a number of new mines, which will be large producers and which the one ore dock now owned by the railroad will be inadequate to serve.

PLAGUE SPREADING.

American Consul at Harbin Given Permission to Close Office.

Pekin, Jan. 16.—One death from the bubonic plague at Tien Tsin is reported. Tien Tsin is about seventy miles from Pekin and is the port of the capital with which it is connected by rail and it is also so connected with Manchuria.

The American legation has notified Roger S. Greene, the American consul at Harbin, that he may close the consulate temporarily. Mr. Greene replied that he preferred to remain at his post.

The disease has now extended along the railway throughout Manchuria, though it has practically disappeared from Manchuria city, where the present epidemic originated.

Michigan Family Escapes After Dynamite Explosion.

Cadillac, Mich., Jan. 16.—It was thought that Henry Cottrell, his wife and two children were caught and buried under the burning ruins of their farm home near Deerfield, Isabella county, last night, when sixteen pounds of dynamite exploded in their attic, but not one suffered any injuries more than painful bruises. Cottrell was thrown into the cellar among the ruins and his wife and children were caught under falling walls, but all managed to free themselves.

JURY TO INVESTIGATE.

Will Take Up the Cases of Lynching Three Negroes.

Shelbyville, Ky., Jan. 16.—All is quiet here today following the lynching yesterday of the negroes, Gene Marshall, Wade Patterson and Jim West. It is believed that in the excitement the mob mistook Gene Marshall, accused of the murder of a negro woman, for another negro. That they wanted Patterson and West, charged with crimes against white women, is well known.

The grand jury, which will meet next Monday and which was to have taken up the cases of the negroes who were lynched, will investigate the lynching.

TAKEN FOR SPY.

American Arrested in English Fort for Carrying a Camera.

London, Jan. 16.—Dr. Champlain of Kansas City, Mo., proprietor of the Agricultural Journal, was taken for a spy at Guernsey today and arrested. He was soon afterwards released. Dr. Champlain had visited Fort George carrying a camera. His presence was noted by soldiers, who promptly took him into custody and handed him over to the civil police. The American had no trouble in convincing the latter of his identity and the innocence of his mission. The police apologized for the mistake of the military.

FOR CURE OF CHILDREN

Special Pavilion Will Be Provided in Connection With Sanitarium.

Statistics Show That Tuberculosis Is Largely a "Children's Disease."

By Dr. William M. Hart.

The problem for the prevention of tuberculosis is not recognized to be dependent chiefly on two factors, when viewed from the standpoint of institutional care.

First, to prevent the spread of infection, the advanced case, which is continually shedding the germs which cause the disease, must be segregated to prevent them infecting those associated with them. At the same time, they must be cared for in such a manner as to give them the best chance for recovery and also provide the essentials of comfort and the opportunity for improvement of health.

When provision has thus been made for the prevention of the continued spread of infection, the next duty involves the care and treatment of the children who have been exposed to the disease and are either suffering from it in an active form or are harboring disease in latent form, ready to burst into flame at the first opportunity.

Statistics go to show that few children, if any, even born of tuberculous parents, suffer from the disease if removed at an early date from the danger of infection and placed under the best hygienic conditions, and the cases usually cited as examples of hereditary transmission of the disease are, in reality, instances of the susceptible infant becoming infected from the carelessness or ignorance of the parents.

Whereas, it is recognized that the largest percentage of deaths from tuberculosis occur between the ages of 18 and 45 (one-third of all these being due to the white plague), it is also believed by most authorities that these cases of consumption arise from the infection which has lain latent since childhood.

In fact, many go so far as to say that tuberculosis is, in reality, a "children's disease," in so far as it seems to appear that cases occurring later in life are due to the fanning into flame of infection derived in childhood, while the comparative freedom of others who, though exposed, appear to escape the disease, may be at least partially explained by an immunity conferred by a slight attack suffered in childhood, from which recovery has been secured by proper environment and care.

Conditions Apply Here.

To St. Louis county, the above remarks apply, perhaps even more aptly, than elsewhere. Whether it be the large percentage of Scandinavian population (who are recognized as being especially prone to the disease) or the fact that, till recently, no concerted measures for combatting the disease have been attempted, or whatever may be the cause, at least it is true that, of the patients coming under the observation of the visiting nurse of the anti-tuberculosis committee and of the tuberculosis clinic, held at the courthouse on Tuesdays and Saturdays, an undue proportion of patients exhibiting signs of tuberculosis are of tender years. A hurried survey of records of patients now under observation reveals fifty-seven children who would be benefited by institutional care, twenty-six of whom are suffering from the disease in an active form. Since this is the case, it is not difficult to estimate how many there must be throughout the whole country, and a few moments' consideration brings one to a conclusion of startling proportions.

Under the county sanitarium law of 1909, the county commissioners of St. Louis county have already appropriated a sum sufficient to provide an institution to care for some forty adults, a definite proportion of whom will be in the advanced stage of the disease. Thus, the most crying need of the tuberculosis situation will be provided for by careful administration and expenditure of the money thus appropriated.

Unquestionably, at some time in the future, provision will be made for the care of children, but this time cannot arrive under two or more years, unless private assistance comes to the aid of municipal appropriation. Surely this purpose, that of the care of the children, is a worthy object for that private charity, which municipal provision of hospital care is too apt to throttle, both to the detriment of the institution and of the public.

To raise the $10,000 which it is estimated will supply an adequate pavilion for twenty little patients, in connection with which will be an open air school room, with quarters for the necessary nurse, school teacher, etc., and fully equip the same, a voluntary committee of some ten women, who are prominent both in social and philanthropic circles in Duluth, has been formed, and little doubt need be felt but their efforts will be crowned with success, provided their friends appreciate the value of the work attempted.

Should the money be forthcoming, it is probable that a separate frame one-story pavilion will be built and equipped. This will contain wards for the little patients with provision for open air treatments both night and day. A school room in the open air with adequate protection from snow and rain will probably also be provided, so that, in regaining health and acquiring robust bodies, the mental side of their development will not be neglected. Besides provision for the accommodation of the nurse whose special duty it will be to live with and superintend the treatment of these children and also a room for the teacher, no other provision need be made, as the dining room and culinary facilities provided by the county in the main building, as well as the administrative and medical offices can easily be utilized in connection with this pavilion. It is also assured that in future years the county will readily provide their proportion of the support of this pavilion to be provided by private funds.

BIG AUDIENCE AT "POP" CONCERT

C. O. Applehagen's Solos and Organ Music Make Delightful Program.

With a large and appreciative audience interested in the music presented, and that music splendidly rendered, the free concert given yesterday afternoon at the Masonic temple was a decided success and is another proof that Duluth is a musical city and the people desire to hear the best compositions, because of that kind the program was entirely composed.

Charles O. Applehagen was in great voice and sang with a feeling and spirit which enthused the audience. He has a voice full and round and with-al well trained and under control. The enunciation was good and the range complete. The first number was composed of some stirring words to the main theme of Tschaikowsky's "Marche Slav," which was splendidly sung and formed a rousing piece. For the deserved encore he sang Bullard's "Indifferent Mariner," one of the real good sailor songs, which seems to smell of the brine of the ocean.

His second selection, by request, was Watson's "Babylon," which gave the singer an opportunity to use his flexible voice to advantage, followed by Gounod's "Nazareth," also a tuneful and pleasing composition, which was sung with feeling and taste and pleased the audience greatly.

The program was opened by Goldmark's "Sakuntala," which is based on Kaladisa's epic poem founded on Hindoo mythology. Noticeable through it was the delicate love song, which forms the main theme with here and there, the strains peculiar to oriental music. The Eighth symphony of Beethoven, in four movements, was delightfully given on the organ, and after being explained by A. F. M. Custance its happy character and sprightly style were very noticeable and much enjoyed. This is perhaps the most enjoyable of the symphonies on account of its simple melodies and joyous nature. Others may be greater or grander, but to the popular taste, which always picks out, in time, the happy and bright, the Eighth is the favorite and deservedly so, each movement opening up some new view of musical vision which delights and does not tire by monotony.

The program was closed by a splendid rendition of the rousing, wild, stirring, "Marche Slav," so indicative of the humor and thought of that race to which such a musical debt is owed. The first song prepared the way for the appreciation and the organ music completed the satisfaction, so that the main theme was heard being whistled by several of the audience on the way home, perhaps unconsciously. The concert was a great success.

COAL COMPANIES BEHIND.

Unable to Take Care of Flood of Orders Brought By Cold Snap.

The unusual duration of the present cold snap has brought a deluge of orders on the coal companies and many of the companies are now a full week behind in their orders, although early in the season they were congratulating themselves on keeping right up to their orders.

In their endeavors to keep up now, they are blocked at every turn by their inability to obtain horses. They have taken every team available, but the number is not enough to supply the unusual demand.

Many people who thought that they had obtained their winter's supply of coal find that they are running short and they are sending in orders so that their stock may not be entirely exhausted. The greatest demand is for nut coal, which is used for heaters and kitchen ranges, and the coal men are beginning to fear they will run short of that variety before the end of the season.

MAY CUT ICE FROM LAKE

Duluth Companies May Draw Supply From Lake Superior This Year.

Sheet Four Inches Thick Extends Far Out From Shore.

A large part of Duluth's supply of ice may be taken from the lake this year. The long cold snap has spread a covering over the lake and the ice is now about four inches thick and extends as far as one can see from the shore.

The three Duluth ice companies have already made arrangements to cut their supply at Spirit lake, and are already filling their houses there, but they all have houses on the lake shore also, which are used when the ice on the lake may become thick enough to warrant their taking the supply from that source.

The ice companies would welcome conditions which would allow them to take their ice from Lake Superior, for the cost of harvesting the year's supply at Spirit lake is considerably greater than the cost of cutting on Lake Superior and for once the ice men would be glad to see continued cold weather.

WOLVES PROWLING NEAR TO CLOQUET

Man in Charge of Pumping Station Is Pursued By the Brutes.

Cloquet, Minn., Jan. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—A number of wolves have again been seen by the pumpman, Ed. Quinn, prowling around in the neighborhood of the city's pumping station at Spring lake. Mr. Quinn says tracks are numerous every day when he goes out. Mr. Quinn had rather an unpleasant experience early in the fall, when he was treed by several of the brutes.

SCANLON NEVER HAD ANY CENSUS

Town Grew Up and Declined Inside of Ten Year Period.

Cloquet, Minn., Jan. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The population of Cloquet is given by the federal census as 7,931, a gain of 125 per cent over the census of 1900. The population of the city five years ago, when the state census was taken, was 6,117, making a gain of 1,814 since that time. It is interesting to note in connection with the growth and decline of this milling section of the state, that since the government census of 1900 the town of Scanlon came into existence, grew to a population of about 1,000 at one time, and before the census of 1910 had almost gone out of existence, its population scattering to other milling communities to swell the population in those places at the time of the late census, and never being numbered by the government as Scanlonites. The town at the height of its sawmill prosperity had a larger population than Carlton, the county seat, and with one of the largest sawmills in the United States bade fair to rival Cloquet.

Scanlon's Growth and Decline.

In the summer of 1901 a station among the stumps and boulders marked the site of Scanlon. A few months later a row of houses sidling down a whole block of jagged rock, and each one the counterpart of its neighbor, evidenced Scanlon's growth, but the summer of 1902 saw a big town spring up, and there was talk of its killing Cloquet. A number of very pretentious houses were built from time to time, but no substantial buildings. It was a board town and a board town it remained. A fine eight-room school building was erected, and it and the original row of houses built on the rock, together with a few dwellings that have not been sold, are all that remain of the town. The planer, the last of the mills, was torn down a few months ago.

A. BLANCHET PASSES AWAY

Andrew Blanchet, proprietor of the Blanchet hotel, 522 Lake avenue south, died this morning after a week's illness of pneumonia.

Blanchet was 49 years old and besides a wife, is survived by a 17-year-old son. He also has other relatives in Quebec and pending their arrival in Duluth, no funeral arrangements have been made.

Blanchet was well known among the French people of the city, having resided in Duluth for the past fifteen years. He was a member of the St. Jean Baptiste society, under whose auspices the funeral will probably be held. He also belonged to the Maccabees and the Eagles.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

Plan for Employes of Armour & Co. Is Beng Perfected.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—J. Ogden Armour today confirmed a report from Kansas City that old age pensions were to be established for employes of the Armour companies in all cities. Mr. Armour said:

"For several months we have had a committee at work on a feasible and satisfactory plan for providing pensions for employes of Armour & Co., who have reached a certain age or have worked for the company for a certain number of years.

"The committee has not worked out all the details as yet, and has made no report to us. But it may be said that some plan of providing such pensions would be put into effect for Armour & Co. employes just as soon as this committee makes a report."

POSTAL SERVICE GIVEN SCORING

Employes of Postoffices Complain of Hitchcock's Economic Policy.

Washington, Jan. 16.—That there is dissatisfaction among employes of postoffices in several of the large cities and among railway mail clerks, with the retrenchment policy inaugurated by Postmaster General Hitchcock, was learned today from various members of congress from different sections of the country. The complaint appears to be strongest on the part of the railway mail clerks, particularly on the heavy runs.

Representative Miller of Duluth has received complaints from patrons of the department, rather than from the employes.

"The department has cut down deliveries in cities like Duluth," said Mr. Miller. "It has refused to establish free delivery service in cities entitled to it under the law, and has also refused to establish rural routes which have been approved for more than a year.

"I have protested verbally and by letter against this condition of affairs, pointing out that it is false economy and distinct hampering of one of the great government institutions which was established for the benefit of the people. But every time I make the complaint, I am informed that the financial condition of the postal business does not warrant further expenditures. I have doubt that if diligent inquiry were made among the employes it would be found that they are being pushed to the limit to sustain this false economic system. It would seem to me that the postmaster general is taking the wrong track in effecting this saving in the administration of the postoffice department."

SANCTITY OF AFFIANCED LOVE

Dr. George L. Robinson Draws Message From the Song of Solomon.

The song of Solomon, considered sensual by many critics of the Bible, really teaches a great moral lesson, according to Dr. George L. Robinson of McCormick Theological seminary, who spoke at the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Robinson admitted that the song of Solomon might have interpretations other than that given by him, but he said he preferred to give it the literal rather than the allegorical meaning. He pointed out that the real poetry of the song is in the girl Shulameth, who remains true to her lover and refuses to become part of the king's harem.

Dr. Robinson's subject was "The Sanctity of Affianced Love," which he held to be the vital message of the song of Solomon. He said the song teaches that true love cannot be forced even by a king. Sensual instead of spiritual love, he said, is one of the greatest menaces to modern civilization.

ARGUMENTS ON FREIGHT RATES

Western Rate Cases Heard By Interstate Commerce Commission.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Arguments in the Western rate cases were begun today before the interstate commerce commission.

In general the cases are similar to those involving the carriers in official classification territory which were argued before the commission last week. They differ from the Eastern cases, however, in an important respect. The latter involve only, or practically only, class rates, while the Western cases involve only commodity rates.

The territory involved in the direct advances in Western rates includes the states of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and Montana. The rates filed are effective between points in this territory and to and from Chicago and other basic points. The advances in rates affect not merely local traffic but all the traffic in the particular commodities named moving into, through, or out of the territory.

In a general way ninety-two commodities are affected. All of them are articles of daily consumption and, for the greater part, may be regarded as necessary to life and business. While no definite average of the advance is possible, it will approximate 16 per cent.

The commission is called upon, under the law, to pass on the propriety of this general advance. Sixteen hours have been allotted by the commission to counsel for argument.

EXPLOSION CAUSES FEAR.

Two Workmen Injured and Property Damaged at Lisbon.

Lisbon Jan. 16.—An underground explosion of gas near the railroad terminal last night, caused much alarm. The workmen were seriously burned and considerable damage to property in the vicinity was done.

The explosion was due to the gas main having been cut by the gas house workmen who are on strike, or by their sympathizers. The railroad service continued today as usual.

OPERA SEASON CLOSES

St. Paul's Gala Week of Melody Comes to End.

St. Paul, Jan. 16.—St. Paul's gala week of melody closed auspiciously yesterday with the Grand Symphony Orchestra concert, and the special vocal concert at night at which all the grand opera stars except Marguerita Sylva and Mary Garden were heard. Miss Sylva left yesterday. Her "Carmen" was the really artistic feminine interpretation of the season: John McCormick, the Irish grand tenor, pronounced by Mme. Melba as the equal of Caruso, was the feature of the concert, and his Irish airs were encored again and again, breaking a hard and fast rule against encores, at the insistence of the audience. The young man was in better voice than when he sang in Hoffman, and found his way straight to the hearts of his audience, in "the wild songs of his own native plains."

The St. Paul Symphony orchestra, which left for Duluth last night, was in great form yesterday, as if inspired by the presence and sympathy of the great company of artists headed by the eminent Maestro Campanini, that made a large factor in the audience. John McCormick and his beautiful young wife, occupying one of the boxes, were the observed of all observers.

Mme. Rothwell-Wolf, soloist for the Duluth concerts, left for the Head of the Lakes yesterday, that she might be in good voice for her heavy task.

The Duluth contingent formed a brilliant portion of the throng that made the auditorium and the corridors of the new Saint Paul a riot of beautiful color. The gowns worn by Duluth women were remarkable for their beauty.

Manager Charles L. Wagner was surrounded after the concert and told in various tongues just how great the song birds think his orchestra is, but the most prized comment of all came from Campanini, who expressed himself as being astounded to find an orchestra of such splendid attainments in a city of the size of St. Paul. Many of the maestro's players had played previously under Director Rothwell in "Parsifal." Mrs. Florence French, editor of the Musical Leader of Chicago was especially ardent in her expressions of approval. Mrs. French has been renewing old acquaintance with the local musical world here.

The Will of the Baby

By HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD.

The little child had not learned to focus his eyesight when, lying on his face across his nurse's knee, he may be seen to lift up his head and survey his surroundings. In that survey he has made up his mind about many things and evolved the germ of his selfwill. The problem that presents itself is not to break that will, but to direct it; never to awake it in contradiction to the superior will; never to let the child know the need of screaming or insisting, or the possibility of any gratification following such screaming or insisting; to let him find that, strong as his will may be, the superior will is stronger, and it is profitless to resist it; that there is to be no yielding or changing after refusal or command, no playing fast or loose, but wise determination in the first and a firm hold of that determination afterward, no matter under what pressure of the child's wish or of a personal desire to the contrary.

And with that the child is led to see that neither one will nor the other is of any use in contest with the facts of the universe; that fire will burn, that water will drown, that blows will hurt, and that there must be accommodation to the truth, and he will have taken then his first conscious lesson into the world outside his own narrow periphery—the world of law.

If one asked the young mother what was her first duty she would reply that it was to establish habits of health in her child. Undoubtedly she is right. But if she has fed her child at such regular intervals that he has never had to exercise his lungs, stomach or temper in demanding food; if she has put him to sleep so early that he has never had his way, and has never had to have his nerves rasped of his terrors excited by the unaccustomed fact, then she has already established some habits of physical health, even while attending at the same time and in a small way to matters of the higher nature.

Of course, it is a self-evident fact that no thoroughly harmonious nature can be expanded for an unsound body, and that the work calculated to achieve or maintain the sound body must be coincident with other work, and must be unremitting.

Rhyme and Reason

By FRANK L. STANTON.

No Bet on Blossoms.

I take no chance on the price o' meat,
An' I take no chance on the 'possum;
No cash to stake on a blizzard's sleet,
An' I jest won't bet on a blossom!

All o' the weathers may work their will;
I'm layin' low, an' I'm keepin' still.

A bird may perch on a leafless bough,
An' set the woods a-hummin',
But I've got no cash for to bet you now
That the gal called "Spring" is comin'.

I'm layin' low, an' I'm keepin' still,
An' I jest ain't payin' no weather bill.

Nuggets of Wisdom.

If the millionaire sees so much happiness in poverty, why don't they hike to a log cabin and spend the rest of their days praising Providence?

This world is such a fine, friendly old fellow, one hates to blame it for anything, and perhaps, if our appetites were right, we'd think cornbread was cake.

Don't wonder that misery likes company, because many people are inclined to be sociable with her when she hangs up her ragged old hat.

Room Enough for All.

Neighbor sorter pushin' me—he run me ter de wall;
Wonder ef he'll ever see dar's room enough for all?

Spring time and summer,
Winter an' fall;
Lots an' lots o' country—
Room enough fer all!

A Billeville Obituary.

Here is an obituary notice which seems to say all:

"He found a welcome in the sky
That's worth your while to win;
Paid up his debts and said good-bye.
And the angels said: 'Come in!'"

LECTURE

—By—
The Right Reverend Timothy Corbett, D. D., Bishop of Crookston.
In the Cathedral Auditorium.
Monday Evening, Jan. 16, at 8 P. M.

THE EVENING STORY

THE UNDERSTUDY

By Wilfred Martin.

"If it comes to pathos," intercepted the Very Clean Shaven Man with the slightly abnormal hair, "I can give you an instance which is somewhat unique. May I?"

The Literary Light, who has introduced the subject with the commendable view of amassing copy for his next article became on the instant all ears.

"Please do," murmured an Unconsidered Unit from the rear, and the Very Clean Shaven Man, whose voice was deep and full of thrillings and melodious tones, began thereupon.

"The hero of my story," he said, "was an actor with aspirations; the heroine was an actress without them. Inevitably the man rose, while the woman remained stationary. But before their ways parted they had once played together in a tragedy—played as lovers. It happened that illness gave the woman her chance—she was the understudy for the leading lady's part in this special melodrama. In the third act the hero, throwing all discretion to the winds, makes a passionate declaration of love to the heroine, who is socially far beneath him.

"'Let them do their worst!' he says, with her hands in his—'Let them say their most! So long as seas fret and worlds swing on through space, I love you— I love you—I love you!'

"He said much more, of course, but these words were the climax, so to speak, and midway through them, when he had drawn the Understudy quite close to himself and was looking deep into her eyes, he suddenly and greatly to his own amazement, read there a message as passionate and eternal that for a moment the auditorium swam out in mist and the stage rocked like a gale-oppressed steamer. The eyes of the Understudy told him that this was no make-believe to her, but heaven's sober ecstastic truth—that she had worshiped the actor in silence for years—that she would never cease to worship him whilst a heart beat in her body. * * *

"All this the actor read, gentlemen, and much more, just as a drowning man reads the history of his life in a few instants."

The Very Clean Shaven Man made an impressive pause.

Into the pool of silence which followed a Thoughtful Person in tweeds dropped staccato surmises as they might have been pebbles.

"That would have one of two possible effects on his performance," he said. "He might be stupefied and lose his nerve. He might be inspired. It's all according to disposition."

The Very Clean Shaven Man smiled, showing teeth that were beyond all criticism. "You are right sir," he said. "This actor hovered for the fraction of an ominous second between the two extremes, then the last extreme triumphed. He rose to a height he had never even viewed from the jealous distance before. In fact, that particular speech made him. The critics made much of it in the next day's papers. It was belauded to the skies, but the critics agreed that the Understudy's work had been common-place and unsatisfying. And afterwards the actor received an immediate engagement in America and played in many pieces and skimmed up the ladder three rungs at a time."

"And the woman?" asked the Unconsidered Unit, a little sternly.

"He only saw her again once. She was nothing to him, you see. He had a wife whom he loved devotedly. No, she was nothing to him. She had just acted as a passing inspiration. And yet the manner of their next meeting constitutes the pathos of which I spoke."

The Literary Light leaned forward and quivered with attention; the Thoughtful Person in Tweeds gave an anticipatory sigh.

"Ten years later the actor happened to be investigating a particularly sad case which had come before a dramatic benevolent society with which he was connected. Having a little time on his hands, he went himself to the mean street in which the case (she was a woman, poor soul) existed. He carried food with him, for report said that she and starvation were rubbing shoulders. A frowsy landlady admitted h'm, shaking her head.

"She don't let no one in. She don't never go out. There's some man always in there a-making love to her. It's my opinion—"

"But the actor did not wait for her opinion. He walked up the wretched stairs and paused on the third landing. He paused, gentlemen, because he feared that his senses were forsaking him, and that he had become suddenly subject to startling hallucinations. Coming from the room he distinctly heard his own voice—his own voice impassioned, pleading—using the words he had so often used in the play which had made him his fortune. The words fell one by one upon the murky silence.

"'Let them do their worst; let them say their most! So long as seas fret and worlds swing on through space, I love you—I love you—I love you!'

"The actor's breath came in gasps. He could stand no more; the whole uncanny thing made him feel sick and giddy. He had but one impulse—to solve the mystery. Without knocking, he burst open the door and then he saw a very curious sight."

The Very Clean Shaven Man let his hands (they were white and well formed) drop on either arm of his chair—his eyes were introspective.

"He saw the large red outline of a giant gramophone, which went on declaiming the rest of his speech with unabated fervor, and across the table on which the gramophone stood, like a martyred devotee before a shrine, he saw a woman—dead. Her arms were across the table, her stiff lips smiling. She must have fallen as she fixed in the record, and though her face was greatly changed, he had seen it before—on a night years ago, when its eyes had told him secrets."

The Literary Light fidgeted.

"Would not that be more in the nature of tragedy?" he asked. "Pathos is altogether a gentler and more refined thing. Death is so—"

But the Very Clean Shaven Man interuted him.

"The actor found out afterwards," he said, "that this woman had slaved her fingers to the bone—had given her last farthing for this toy with its memory-provoking record. She had gone without food to procure it. She had died happy because of its grotesque presence. In these days of lightly come and lightly go, it seems to me—"

"You are right," broke in the Unconsidered Unit, suddenly. "The sublime and the ridiculous came into close proximity yet she made the ridiculous sublime. That is a truly pathetic achievement."

"Well, the actor ought to have given her no end of a funeral," grumbled a morbid youth, who mistook a bad digestion for temperament.

"He did," said the Very Clean Shaven Man.

Then the Very Clean Shaven Man resumed a fur-lined overcoat and walked away with the short, graceful, characteristic strides of one who is accustomed to traverse constricted spaces.

Leather in the Toilet

By MARGARET WATTS DE PEYSTER

Leather plays an ever-increasing part in decoration. Although coats and skirts are composed of this substance, finely colored and fashioned after the latest tailor models, it is to be presumed that they are intended only for the use of motorists. Ladies who travel much by motor have been responsible for many of the practical and useful articles made of leather offered for the winter season.

It was for them that waistcoats were first provided, and the general appreciation of this garment leaves the possibility open that the coat and skirt of finely dressed leather may not remain the monopoly of the motorist.

Facings of this material are used with good effects. Buttons of it trim some of the new tweed coats as well as coats and skirts of even finer woolen materials than tweed.

Collars and cuffs of finely worked leather are decorative, and belts will be a feature of the winter fashions. In many colors these are offered. They are plain or tooled, with ornamentation such as touches of color introduced. Panels of highly-polished leather are held together by fancy metal clasps, three or five of them being used in the scheme of ornamentation.

Enameled placques, into which gold is worked, might be quoted as an instance of the standard of elegance attained.

Cameos have been brought once more into the fashion, and gray or mole soft suede, much in vogue, would lend itself very well to the combination. Leather hats are shown in an abundance, suggesting that much favor will be bestowed on them. They have ceased to be mere head coverings, and have become tasteful and pretty, both in color and design.

The Cheerful Wife

By AMANDA MOORE.

The charm of a calm, serene, and smiling wife is irresistible. Beauty at best is but a fleeting show, and comparatively quickly passes away. But amiability and cheerfulness, if practiced constantly, will become a part and parcel of one's nature, and will no more change than the color of one's eyes if it becomes a fixed habit.

A husband loves to have a cheerful wife always about him. Her smile acts as a soothing influence over him when, perhaps tired and dispirited, he returns home after a long days work. Her cheery presence, her bright words of welcome, and her neat, fresh appearance, will soon thaw all his depression away, and he will be thankful that he married such a bright, cheerful partner. It may be observed here that neatness and tidiness generally go hand in hand with cheeriness. For bright sunny natures always seem to know how to make the best of themselves in every way.

The wife who is constantly bemoaning her "lack of good luck," and who is ever complaining that no brightness comes into her life, whose whole outlook on life is one of black despair, is nearly always slatternly and untidy, for she hasn't the heart to do anything else. Think what that must mean to a husband who looks for companionship, sympathy and brightness in his life partner. It drives all the manhood out of him, and makes him seek companions that he would not otherwise chose were his wife different.

The cheerful wife and mother makes the home radiant with joy. Love and happiness lurk in every corner, and set the joy bells ringing from morning till night. The light-hearted wife and mother's attitude toward life is brave. She is like a fire in the winter and a lamp in the darkness.

In her husband's eyes she is a treasure beyond all price. She is her husband's best comrade in prosperity, and his mainstay in the time of trouble, for her smile, her cheery optimistic faith breathe fresh courage and hope into his life. And the love that she gives him, and he has for her, keeps ever brightly shining to the end.

The Nursery

Keeps Baby Warm.

Now that the cold weather is setting in a handy thing for the restless child at night is a simple sleeping bag.

Get a child's double blanket, crib size, not too heavy, sew up both sides from the bottom to within about six or ten inches (according to whether the child is small or big) from the top, then slip baby in and pin with good large safety pins in two sides over the shoulder, leaving plenty of neck room.

The safety pins should take the place of a seam from neck to edge of bag.

The Child's Hair.

In order to have a small child's hair look nicely it is necessary to keep it very clean. Castile soap and warm water are best, and if brushed after the hair has been dried with warm towels it will be soft and glossy.

A Change of Bed.

A large clothes-basket lined and filled with a many-times folded blanket or large cushion makes a cozy nest for a baby, and in this the little one has room to lie and stretch his little limbs about. It makes a change from the cot, and the child is more out of draughts in the basket than when tying on a heartrug in front of the fire.

Truth About The Bake Oven

Knowledge?—or Misinformation?—Which?

Have You the Facts Accurately? Or Have You Been Misinformed?

The doctor who conceals a useful truth is equally guilty with the propagator of an injurious falsehood.
—Augustine.

You either know what Bake Oven means—or you DO NOT KNOW. That is the long and short of it.

If you do know, then, of course, you are a Bake Oven advocate, just like—well, all of the folks who have found out. This little mention would have to grow to be a whole newspaper if it were to tell of all the prominent and competent people who have learned by personal experience what this new healing science can accomplish; and who are now its vigorous advocates.

Wouldn't you tell your friends about it if your health was unexpectedly restored by a new and natural method? Wouldn't you hand the good news along so that they might share it?

Of course. And that's just how the Bake Oven has grown from an infant thing to its present mature strength—holding its friends by the good it does and through them gaining new ones constantly. Its habit of bringing comfort and cure, even in the very difficult cases, fast makes partisans even of unbelievers.

If you are NOT an advocate of the Bake Oven, why, then, you simply don't KNOW. All of the folks who have REALLY found out have become enthusiasts—just as the writer became an enthusiast after he had seen a number of people made well and had himself experienced marked benefits from the Bake Oven treatment.

The Bake Oven is successful because it is reasonable and effective, and the most refined and educated people are its champions. If properly applied it is not too severe for the weakest or most sensitive, and yet it is forceful enough for the most rugged.

It is cheapest because it does the work and prevents a dribbling expense for years, or a costly and dangerous operation.

It has come to stay. The Home of the Bake Ovens is the third floor of the Christie building, Duluth, Minn., Fourth avenue west, between First and Second streets. The Bake Oven Specialists give Free Consultation, and they do not ask you what your ailments are. They are experts on diagnosis. They can tell you. Their hours are 8 a. m. to 7 p. m.; Sundays, 9 to 12 only.

WEST END NEW BLOCKS ARE PLANNED

Mild Building Boom Expected at West End This Spring.

Stores, Office Buildings and Apartment Houses in Prospect.

Business prospects at the West end look brighter than ever before for this spring and business men in the western end of the city look forward to a mild boom, at least as far as building activities are concerned.

At least one or two new business blocks seem assured for West Superior street this spring. M. A. Fedje, who has lots at 1911 and 13 West Superior street is now conferring with an architect and will soon have plans out for a handsome business block. Mr. Fedje states that no definite plans have been formulated as yet. It is also rumored that on the northwest corner of Twentieth avenue west and Superior street, a new business block is to go up this summer. The property is owned by the Gopher Realty company.

The Home Laundry company on Twentieth avenue west is planning on moving its plant to another structure, which will be built this spring at some convenient location. The building which it now occupies was recently purchased by the Excelsior Laundry company, which will occupy the building as soon as the other concern moves out. The Excelsior laundry now operates in the New Clarendon block, Garfield avenue and West Superior street.

Gust Nelson is planning the erection of a modern building on his lot on West Second street between Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth avenues west and it is understood that plans are out for a new brick apartment house to go up on West Third street.

The new Anderson-Thoorsell block at Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street, southeast corner, which is now being completed, will soon be occupied. The lower floor will be used by the Anderson-Thoorsell Furniture company and a drug store. The upper story will be devoted to office purposes.

There are but few idle men in the West end at the present time and when things open up in the spring, it is expected that there will be a dearth of labor.

AWAKES TO FIND CHILD DEAD

stories that the admiral has been forced to retire. In speaking of these rumors, Admiral Barry said: "It is not true that I have been forced to retire. Men have asked for immediate retirement before. The reasons that have caused me to do this are partly public and partly private.

"The man who is triumphantly vindicated under such circumstances, is as much a loser as if the charges were proved to be true. I believe that by requesting immediate retirement, I can save the navy a scandal."

The stories concerning Admiral Barry are of a nature reflecting upon his moral character. According to reports published here, the admiral sent his request for relief to Washington following a conference with the staff and line officers on board the West Virginia, Tuesday night. At this conference it is said that the suggestion was made that a loaded revolver be sent to the admiral's cabin, but the suggestion was lost on a vote. The officers present then took an oath of secrecy on condition that Admiral Barry forward his resignation to Washington at once.

Instead of resigning, the admiral requested retirement. After that fact became known, the subject matter of the conference leaked out until all the sailors of the fleet were talking.

Admiral Thomas held a conference with District Attorney G. M. Fickert, shortly after he arrived, but no definite course of action was decided upon.

Mr. Fickert said: "My office is investigating the stories regarding Admiral Barry, but I am not prepared to say what action we shall take. Even in case of an offense committed within San Francisco bay, there is a question as to whether the county courts would have jurisdiction. I have consulted with Admiral Thomas, but there is nothing definite to say at this time."

Barry Is Retired.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The application of Rear Admiral Barry for retirement has been approved by President Taft and he has been transferred to the retired list of the navy.

The navy department today received a telegram from Rear Admiral Thomas, who was appointed to succeed Admiral Barry, that he had assumed command of the Pacific fleet. The navy department issued the order retiring Admiral Barry on Saturday and advising him of that fact by telegraph.

This action was taken before the publication of the allegations that officers of the flagship West Virginia contemplated charges against the admiral reflecting upon his moral character.

stringent and if followed would give excellent protection to guests in case of a conflagration. Several amendments were passed some years ago, at the time of the Collingwood school fire, and they cover the ground fully, in the opinions of the authorities.

Among other things the ordinance provides that the building inspector shall serve notice upon the agent or owner of the building which does not conform to the requirements of this ordinance, notifying them in writing to make the necessary changes within thirty days. Failure to comply with the notice so is classed a misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment. It is expected that a considerable number of these notices will be served following the discovery of the conditions in most of these places. But little criticism can be made of the first-class hotels, but about seventy-five of the others are in need of radical improvements.

No Lights or Gongs.

The section applying to the placing of gongs and the posting of notices, as well as red lights to indicate the location of the fire escapes, was found to be generally unobserved. The red light is for the purpose of making it possible to locate the escape easily at night and the gong is supposed to be of sufficient size to awaken everyone in the structure. If one gong is not sufficient, more must be installed.

This section of the ordinance is as follows:

"The location of fire escapes in all buildings shall be conspicuously placarded during the day time, and all hotels, factories, workshops, schools, detention buildings, assembly halls and all other buildings requiring fire escapes, which are occupied at night shall have all public halls, stairways and passageways properly lighted, and at the head and foot of each flight of stairs, and at the intersection of public and private halls with main corridors, and at the point of egress to each fire escape, shall be kept during the night a red light; and one or more proper alarms of gongs, capable of being heard throughout the building shall always remain easy of access and ready for use in each said building, to give notice to the inmates in case of fire; and there shall be kept posted in a conspicuous place in every sleeping room a notice descriptive of such means of escape."

rest and they were alone, the detective replied:

"I said, 'Just look what you have got me into!' and she said, 'Shut up, you fool! Don't tell anything.'"

Miss Zoekeler said that prior to the time she had come here to work on the case she knew nothing of the Schenks, although she is distantly related to them. She reiterated that she had been instructed by Prosecutor Handlan himself to catch Mrs. Schenk by any means possible, and in spite of her connection with the Schenk family, was paid nothing but her regular salary for the work she had done.

The announcement that the much-talked-of detective-nurse was a relative of the Schenks created a profound sensation.

There was some question as to whether Mrs. Zoeckler should be cross-examined as the defense desired and the jury was sent from the room while Judge Jordan listened to the arguments. He found no reason why the detective-nurse should be exempt and she was questioned by Attorney Boyce for the defense.

"You were paid money for lying and laying traps for Mrs. Schenk, were you not?" asked Mr. Boyce.

"I was instructed to do what I could."

The private and public life of the witness was gone into in detail. She related that her husband, Dr. Klein, had secured a divorce from her and she had earned her living in Pittsburg as a nurse for a time and finally became connected with the police department of that city. She denied having been discharged from a Pittsburg department store because she had gone on duty under the influence of liquor. She said she became connected with a detective agency in August last and the Schenk case was her first work.

"What did you say to Mrs. Schenk when she said if anything happened to John, you were to get the keys of his safe deposit vault before Albert got them?" asked Attorney Boyce.

"I said I was afraid I would get into trouble. I was in the room with her that time almost thirty minutes. The next day I waited for her at the head of the stairs and took her into my room. She told me of Schenk having been worse and that the news made her the happiest woman in the world, also of her praying every night that he would die."

"This is not what you said Saturday, which is correct?"

"What I now say. The statement on Saturday referred to another date, not this one."

Representative G. H. Mattson of Roseau is preparing a bill to correlate the state's immigration work with county efforts to the same end. It will appropriate $20,000, which is to be used in preparing booklets for each county setting forth its advantages. The immigration board is required to send the name and address of all prospective settlers, who correspond with the board, to the clerk of the district court in each county, and the clerks are to distribute county advertising matter.

nance of the Hettinger, Dickinson, Williston and Langdon experimental stations; $10,000 for the establishment of an experimental station at Harvey; $85,000 for the construction of a chemistry building at the college, and $78,000 for the completion of a girls' dormitory and work on the boiler or power house. There is also a request for $4,900 from the Hettinger experimental station for improvement work during the coming year. And there will be more bills.

The Minot Normal school bill, in which $252,000 is asked, is the second largest appropriation measure before the assembly. This bill includes $125,000 as the cost of constructing a main building, together with $50,000 for the construction of a girl's dormitory.

The University Appropriation.

Senator J. E. Stevens of Grand Forks introduced the bill making an appropriation of $213,000 for the state university. This bill does not include any appropriation for the experimental station at Hebron for which it is understood that about $30,000 will be asked.

The university appropriation bill carries the following items:

College of law building	$ 60,000
Completing commons building	25,400
Furnishing commons building	5,000
Equipping engineering college	17,000
Maintenance, $12,500 annually	25,000
Reimbursing maintenance fund for money paid in permanent improvements	24,000
Establishment permanent lighting system	12,000
Library, books and magazines	7,000
For maintenance of grounds	5,000
Extension lectures and courses	5,000
Equipment biological department	5,000
Furnishing teachers' college	5,000
Replacing school of mines equipment	1,100
Equipment, school of mines	9,000
Equipment, chemistry department	2,500
Summer session, two years	5,000
Total	$212,000

Among the other appropriation bills is one for the state institute for feeble minded at Grafton, carrying $145,000 introduced by Senator Cashal, and one carrying $45,000 for the school for the deaf at Devils Lake.

Governor Burke is already being besieged by Minot people in view of the fact that he may shortly be called upon to name the members of a board to control the new normal school in Minot, under the terms of the bill introduced by Senator Wahlin. There is, of course, the probability that one board will be created for the control of all three normal schools. Two who are looked upon as practically certain to be appointed are Martin Jacobson of Minot and Percy M. Cole of Kenmare.

To Compel Connections.

Action compelling railroad companies operating in the state to lay connecting Ys wherever their lines cross is sought for in a bill introduced by Representative J. A. Englund of Kenmare. This measure, if passed, will particularly interest the people residing along the wheat line of the Soo railroad, and along the branch lines of the Great Northern running north from the main line between Grand Forks and Minot.

Up to the present time it has been impossible to force the companies to construct the Ys at a number of points along the Soo line where the Great Northern lines cross. This has resulted in no little feeling in some sections, particularly in Bottineau county, where repeated efforts have been made to get the connecting links. Even now that county is engaged in legal action against the companies seeking to compell them to make the improvement desired.

Proof conclusive that North Dakota is paying a large amount of money to indemnify owners of glandered horses killed at the order of the state board of veterinarians when such horses do not in reality belong to the state, is found in the case of Burke county. At Portal, through which city so many horses have been shipped during the last two years to the Canadian Northwest, claims are on file for 117 horses, making a total of $5,648 that will have to be paid by the state. During the two years the total number of horses killed in the state was 1,085, and they had an appraised value of $135,490. The indemnity that will be paid by the state is $53,298.

B. H. Rawl of Washington, chief of the dairy division of the department of agriculture, who has arrived here from the Pacific coast, says the department will locate an assistant dairyman at Bismarck. Heretofore the government assistant for this section of the United States has been located at Crookston, Minn.

Welcome An Investigation.

Members of the state game and fish board of control are not opposed to legislative investigation into the manner in which they have conducted their affairs during the past two years, according to J. L. Killion, a member of the board, who is here today. "Personally," said Mr. Killion today, "I am anxious that such an investigation be made, inasmuch as so much has been said on the question already. The board has not misappropriated any of the state's money, and the only questions that could be raised, as far as I can see, are on the number of deputy wardens appointed and on the monthly allowance that has been made for maintaining the secretary's office. On the latter question we had legal advice to the effect that such action was entirely within our power. On the question of the number of wardens appointed, it would be a difficult question for any one to determine whether we have had too many or not."

BRIGHT, BRAINY MEN ADDICTED TO DRINK

Many of the Very Ablest in All of the Walks of Life.

That many of the ablest men among us are addicted to the drink habit is not to be wondered at, for the fault lies at the very bottom of our social system. They commenced drinking in a social way.

Business and professional men who drink socially are forming the drink habit and they are really "burning the candle at both ends," and don't realize it.

Many a bright business or professional man in the midst of his successful career has been induced to come to the Neal Institute and take treatment. We have treated a large number of men in the better walks of life, who came to us with their nerves shattered, stomach on fire, brain weakened, mind wandering and so nervous that they are shaking like an aspen leaf. The poison of alcohol creates an insatiable appetite for liquor. The Neal treatment neutralizes and elliminates this poison from the system and the patient is put back in the same condition that he was before he ever tasted liquor, so far as the effects of alcohol are concerned. He is regenerated, made a new man, with all inclination for liquor gone, his nerves steady, mind clear and step elastic. He begins life anew.

Patients are afforded the comforts of a refined home and the utmost privacy is maintained.

CHURCH IS CLOSE TO MAN

Spirit of Brotherly Love Dominates Religion of Present Day.

Rev. George R. Gebauer Preaches on "The Higher Christianity."

"The Higher Christianity" was the subject of the sermon by Rev. George R. Gebauer at the First Unitarian church yesterday.

"In spite of all that may be said to the contrary, the world today is nearer to the spirit of Christ than at any time in the history of the world. Character has been exalted as the greatest thing in life, and the efficacy of religion is tested by its power to bring us into a humble attitude toward God and into loving relation with man. Yes, we begin to see, that while we may philosophize about God whom we have not seen, we can only revere him in the seen, in nature, and we can only truly love him in man. Gradually religion has become anthropocentric in the sense that the divine is supremely seen in the human and God worshipped in the service of man.

"And all this, I take it, is in accord with the teaching of the Master. Of course, He taught other things, but in His exaltation of the right life He proclaimed the great old truths of the prophets. Ethics and religion were to Him much the same, the inside and the outside of the cup of life. 'If you would have eternal life,' He tells the crafty lawyer, 'love God with all your heart and soul and mind and your neighbor as yourself.' Happily for Christianity this kernel of the gospels was never entirely forgotten, though it was overlaid with and hidden by impossible doctrines and pagan formalism. Yet our time has revealed the practicability of this teaching, and today Jesus the teacher is far overshadowing Christ the savior. In every church the stress is laid upon following the Master and not merely in believing in the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world.

"The great question in the religious world is not how to worship God in the most approved fashion, but how to serve humanity and how to find again the brother. Out of this attitude have sprung all those institutions and efforts, which, bearing the Christian name, make for the betterment of mankind, the amelioration of evil, the prevention of injustice. Everywhere, within and without the church, practical applied Christianity raises its banner. It affects the wealth of our day. To simply hoard up millions has become all but a disgrace. No matter how the millions have been acquired, no matter if the gold be tainted or no, it is given lavishly as never before, and the respectable millionaire applies as much acumen to the distribution of his money as to its accumulation. I do not know how future ages will look upon this plutocratic generation, but I believe they will recognize that the wealth accumulated by the few, served in many ways the people better than if it had been freely scattered among the masses. Certainly we may well doubt if we should have so many restitutions for the intellectual, moral and aesthetic uplifting of mankind. No matter how great private greed may be, it must in the end disgorge and in disgorging serve mankind, giving back with interest what was taken from the people.

Brotherhood in Socialism.

"And again, in such an anti-churchly movement as socialism, the reverse of capitalism and plutocracy, we find that spirit of brotherhood for which Christianity stands supreme. Time will tell how far the doctrines of socialism are truly beneficial and practicable. If it will bring about greater happiness, higher ideals of life, greater incentives for right, it will and ought to prevail. But if it fails in its mission for a greater humanity, the spirit of love which created it will also sweep away what is false and harmful in its doctrines. Nothing will prevail in the end but what is helpful to humanity.

"And while the church has created this spirit of pure religion and undefiled, the Christianized world today judges the church by that standard. The church which today keeps aloof from the stirring, vital interests of today is judged. The preacher who will unctuously preach about the virtues of David and Abram and Solomon and other doubtful worthies of forgotten ages is as dead as the past. The true disciple of Christ lives in the present; he is inspired by today and he has a message for today.

"When we do something in love for our fellows, then are we His disciples, little matter if we believe that He rose from the dead or no. We are only Christians when, like Christ, we can come to the Father with clean hands and a clean heart; with hands of toil for humanity's sake, with hearts aglow in love for our fellows."

HARDSHIPS WERE MANY

Wreckers Who Attempted to Save the Moreland Suffered Much.

Braved the Gales of Old Lake Superior in Midwinter.

Port Huron, Mich., Jan. 16.—The return of the crews of the tugs of the Reid Wrecking company, after an unsuccessful attempt to raise the steamer Moreland, wrecked in Lake Superior, reveals a story of hardships and daring seldom equalled in marine annals. For fifty-one days this little band of men defied the seas of Lake Superior in midwinter, suffering from the chilling blasts of raging gales, with sleet and snow. They worked hard and faithfully, but after many days of alternate hope and dessair were compelled to give up their task and return home for the winter.

Lake Superior yearly claims its toll from the ranks of mariners and is regarded as one of the most treacherous of the great chain of lakes. Yet, with navigation closed, and while the majority of the men who go down to the sea in ships were safe in their home ports, this hardy band of wreckers battled with ice and snow, and in the teeth of raging gales, to bring their prize into the harbor.

Accomplished Marvelous Feat.

It matters not whether the Moreland is ever taken from the rocks at Eagle river, for the Reid Wrecking company, and its handful of brave men, have performed one of the greatest feats in the maritime history of the lakes. Day after day the tugs Manistique and Sarnia City crushed their way through the ice from the Portage canal, out into the lake in the teeth of heavy gales, to reach the side of the Moreland, only to find that the sea was too heavy to effect a landing.

Time after time when it seemed that their work was about accomplished and the big steel steamer would be floated, a quickly forming gale compelled them to let go and make a wild dash for the harbor in a blinding snow storm. These were some of the disappointments which the men faced. Every ounce of human endurance was called into play and after the stormy night has passed, the morning found these men smiling and ready to again take up their task.

When the word was flashed over the wires that the big 600-foot steel steamer Moreland was on the rocks of Lake Superior at Eagle river it shocked the marine circles of the country. Over half a million dollars had been invested in this big boat and she had made but twelve trips.

Moreland is Big Loss.

Insurance companies stood to lose $400,000 on this one boat and marine men were appalled at the extent of the disaster. Two futile attempts were made to get the Moreland off the rocks and then it was called off. The insurance companies settled with the owners, Jones & Laughlin of Cleveland, and had a wreck on their hands.

The Reid Wrecking company of this city had established a reputation for saving boats when others have failed. The insurance companies made the Reids a proposition and it was accepted. The Reids had been told by other wreckers that they were wasting time but the Reids had not made their record by listening to the advice of others. They had to convince themselves and were willing to take defeat but not until they had tried.

The wrecking tugs Manistique in command of Capt. Tyler J. Crockett and the Sarnia City, commanded by Capt. John E. Hayes went from Port Huron to Houghton and on the morning of Nov. 19 tied up alongside the Moreland to begin active operations on wrecking the big boat. Previous to this James Reid and his sons and employes of the company had made a survey of the wreck and outlined the plan by which they intended to raise her.

Winter Work Begins.

From Nov. 19 to Jan. 6, when it was decided to abandon wrecking operations until spring, it was one unequal battle with the elements. The first move was to get the big pumps, owned by the Reid Wrecking company aboard the Moreland and prepare for action. The Reid's had decided that the steamer, although badly broken in two places, would hold together if patches could be placed in position.

So uncertain is Lake Superior weather that a gale was likely to spring up at any time and from any direction. This made the work of the wreckers all the more hazardous. In all the fifty-one days the wreckers never had an opportunity to work a full day on the Moreland. On many occasions it was impossible for the men to lay alongside of the wreck owing to the heavy seas and at other times after working a couple of hours a storm would come up in a twinkling and the tugs would have to scurry for shelter.

Dr. Cook and Commander Peary did not have anything on this hardy little band of wreckers. They were after a big prize and while there were no icebergs and polar bears to contend with, there was Arctic weather in abundance. At times the thermometer registered 20 deg. below zero and the wreck was a mass of ice, five feet thick. The two tugs were also encased with ice and it was necessary to use hot water and steam to clear a place in which to work on the wreck.

Battle Daily With Danger.

These incidents were but a few of the many difficulties with which the wreckers had to contend. Time after time patches were placed on the wounded sides of the steamer and everything was in readiness for the pumps to work, when a fierce gale would drive the wreckers away. When they returned to the scene it was to find that the heavy waves had torn away the patches and the hard work had counted for naught.

There was nothing to do but start over again and time after time these patches were placed in position and time after time they were wiped away by the angry waves. It seemed as if the elements had combined to defeat the work of this brave little band of men. Not content with driving them away from the wreck the gale would add a snow storm to its anger and on two occasions the tugs became separated and each one had to shift for itself. One of them made Portage canal after much hard work and the other had to run for Copper Harbor.

When it is taken into consideration that the distance from the Portage canal to the Moreland was twenty-two miles and that it was necessary for the Sarnia City to keep the channel open to Houghton, a distance of eighteen miles, the reader will have an idea of some of the difficulties which the wrecking crews had to buck.

Faint Ray of Success.

On Dec. 5, with the mercury trying to find the bottom of the glass the first ray of success shone over the wreck. After days of toil the men succeeded in getting up steam in the Moreland's boilers and the pumps were started. The patches held fast and a gulver passed through the big steel monster impaled on the rocks. Slowly the water went down in the hold. It was a critical moment for success seemed at hand. Soon the Moreland was practically dry and her bow had risen. The breaks in the big hull strengthened by the patches, held fast.

Lewis Meyer, the diver, put on his diving suit, his helmet was screwed on, and while the other members of the crew anxiously watched, he was lowered over the side into the icy lake and began his perilous trip under water to examine the bottom of the wrecked Moreland. The darling man's progress was traced by the line of bubbles which came to the surface. Soon he was under the Moreland and later on he placed patches on the break at No. 2 hatch. The hopeful feeling spirit with which these men went to work at that time can be better imagined than described. After days of hardship they were at the threshold of success. The Moreland was ready to move. The long-sought-for prize was in their hands.

Hope Is Dashed.

Within a few minutes this hopeful period was changed to one of dismay and dread anticipation. While the men were at work like beavers, the wind was rising, and across the waters there came the first warning of the storm that was approaching at lightning-like speed. To move the Mooreland at that time would have meant disaster. Between the big steamer and the sheltered harbor there lay a stretch of twenty-two miles of turbulent water, and even now the white caps were dancing. It was seen that the Moreland could not weather the gale, and to have taken her in tow would be to lose her entirely, for in all probability the big steamer would have swamped and gone down in deep water.

Capt. Tom Reid decided that it would be best to allow the boat to settle and remain in her present position until the storm abated. The pumps were stopped and soon the big ship settled to the bottom. The two tugs lay by until the morning of Dec. 6, when the storm became so fierce that they had to run for shelter. It was impossible for the tugs to again tie up to the Mooreland until Dec. 9. All that had been done counted for naught, as the gale had torn away the patches, shifted the pumps, and left everything in a chaotic condition. Having wreaked its vengeance, the storm king withdrew to see what this Spartan-like band of men would do next. Again they set to work. A fresh start was made, but it was the same old story. Just as soon as something was accomplished, along came the storm king and wiped the slate clean.

The Dawn of Christmas Day.

Christmas day was approaching, and still the men continued their work. Happy and contented, they cared not for the danger that surrounded them. There was turkey aplenty, jokes and laughter, and in the little cabins Christmas cheer reigned supreme. Scarcely had the Christmas dinner been stowed away when the order was given to cut and heat it, for across the lake came an unexpected storm. Christmas was forgotten and the scene of cheer was soon changed to one of anxiety, for a heavy snow storm was raging and it was difficult to see very far ahead. Both boats reached port in safety, and so ended Christmas day for these nervy men.

The Birth of the New Year.

Dec. 31—the death of the old and the birth of the new year. And again the two tugs and their crews started for the Moreland. The reader can get an idea of the Arctic weather with which the men contended when it is stated that on this trip the thermometer registered 22 deg. below zero.

It was impossible to make a landing at the wreck, and the boats returned to the Portage canal. On Jan. 6 Capt. Thomas Reid decided that it was useless to make any more attempts. The bulldog tenacity with which the Reids and their men clung to this almost impossible task is an epic in marine annals. The crews were notified that all work would be abandoned until spring, and it was home for all.

Their hardships were at an end and in short order the two tugs were placed in winter quarters at Houghton, the ditty bags were packed and all were ready for the train. The people of Houghton had closely followed the work of the Reids and their men. The dauntless spirit, the hopeful attitude with which they faced almost certain defeat, the nerve and pluck commanded the admiration of all.

Given a Royal Sendoff.

As the train pulled out with its Port Huron contingent aboard, cheer after cheer rent the air. There were cheers for Capt. Crockett, cheers for Capt. Hayes, cheers for all from the firemen to the steward and back again. The world loves a fighter and every man of the crew had shown his mettle.

There were many individual acts of heroism displayed in that fifty-one days' fight with the ice and storms—deeds of valor which would entitle many of those men to wear a Carnegie medal with deserved honor, but they passed them by as mere incidents of the day's work. There was the rescue effected by Capt. Tyler J. Crockett, when he pulled Jack Roberts from the icy water; there was the good work of Joe McLaughlin and some of the boys in rescuing their companions after they had broken through the ice; there was the daring work of Lewis Meyer, who took his life in his hands, when he went under the Moreland in a heavy sea, where the suction was so strong that it pulled rocks through the break in the steamer's hull; there were many acts of personal sacrifice which bring out the mettle of a man and because these men were men—real, live, big, open hearted, fearless men, they did these things and counted it in the day's work.

Members of the Two Crews.

The wreckers who battled these long days and nights on Lake Superior in an unsuccessful effort to release the Moreland in the middle of winter are as follows:

Wrecking tug Manistique—Tyler J. Crockett, captain; Melvin Larrabee, first officer; Henry Trombley, first wheelsman; Norris Smith, wheelsman; William Oakes, chief engineer for the Reid Wrecking company; William Carpenter, chief engineer of the Manistique; Patrick Powers, fireman; Joseph Ortner, chief engineer of the hoist; William Porter, second engineer of the hoist; Lewis E. Meyer, head diver; William Comfrey, tender for Meyer; John Martin, steward.

Tug Sarnia City—John E. Hayes, captain; Joe McLaughlin, first officer; John Roberts, wheelsman; John Shaw, wheelsman; Ray Hayes, watchman; Phil Smith, watchman; Abe McIntosh, fireman; John Taylor, chief engineer; Alex Ariel, second engineer; Thomas Tosseltop, steward; Alex Date, fireman. These are the boys who made history in the marine circles of the lakes and what is better still they all live in Port Huron. What if the storms of the winter and the heavy ice do crush the Moreland so that all chance of saving her in the spring is gone—a story has been written into the history of maritime affairs which stands unparalleled. It was written by men who dared.

Leaps to Death.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 16.—H. R. Whitmore, aged 68, leaped from a window in the eighth story of the Marquette hotel to the pavement below yesterday, killing himself instantly. Despondency over his continued illness and the death of his wife, who was the daughter of George Knapp, one time publisher of the St. Louis Republic, is given as the cause for the act.

NEW YORK'S MISSING CITY CHAMBERLAIN IS BACK.

New York, Jan. 16.—Charles H. Hyde, New York's missing city chamberlain, for thirty years, came back from Florida yesterday afternoon and alighted from his train, calm and smiling. Of the closing of two banks containing $800,000 of city funds, of which he was custodian, he would say nothing. Of the graft investigation now adjourned, he talked more freely. Briefly, as far as he was concerned, it was all "bosh." The Merritt committee tried for more than a month to serve papers on Hyde as a witness, others having testified that he was at an alleged meeting where an alleged $500,000 corruption fund was raised in an attempt to defeat the anti-racing bills at Albany.

Northwestern Fuel Co.,

Gentlemen:

During our recent Monarch Range demonstration at Smith & Borg Furniture Co.'s store we used Stott Briquetts as our only fuel for two weeks. We thought perhaps you would be interested in knowing what success we had with them. We wish to say that we think Stott Briquetts are about the best fuel we have ever found for a range, and they are certainly everything you claim for them. They are clean, last well, easily handled, give an intense heat when wanted and hold the fire well when under check. There is nothing left but the ash.

We can cheerfully recommend them to any housekeeper who appreciates a nice, clean fuel for her range.

Very respectfully yours,
J. P. West

ON THE IRON RANGES

MOTHER OUT; TOTS PERISH

Triple Tragedy When Home at Knife River Is Destroyed.

Presumed Children Upset a Can of Kerosene Near the Stove.

Knife River, Minn., Jan. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Left alone in their home here Saturday afternoon, three children of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bugge, ranging in ages from 1 to 6 years, are supposed to have upset a can of kerosene near a stove causing an explosion and fire that claimed their home and their young lives.

Mrs. Bugge left the home shortly after 3 to go to a neighbor's home on an errand and although she was absent barely ten minutes, that was sufficient time for the house to take fire and her off spring to perish.

The crew of a Duluth & Northern Minnesota train, which was standing at the station, saw the flames break from the roof of the one-story frame, occupied by the Bugge family and tooted the locomotive whistle. Everybody in the village responded, but the fire was beyond control and the terrified populace had to stand by and watch the flames eat up the house. Mrs. Bugge came running home and when she saw the house aflame she became frantic and it was with difficulty she was restrained from dashing into the house to add her life to the list of dead, as such an act would have been suicidal.

Bodies Burned to Crisp.

As soon as the fire subsided sufficiently the bodies of the two older children, burned to a crisp, were rescued, but the badly charred torso of the 1-year-old child was not found until several hours later.

The Bugge family had resided here about four years, the head of the house being employed on the Duluth & Northeastern road.

There were two stoves going in the house, both safe, Mr. Bugge declared. Near one of the stoves was a can of kerosene and it is supposed the children played with this, either upsetting it on the floors so that it ran to the stove and was ignited or threw some of it in the stove with fatal results. The first reports had it that exploding gasoline caused the trouble, but Mr. Bugge declared there was no gasoline in the house.

Coroner Christenson of Two Harbors is investigating the affair.

ITS NOBLE WORK IS GIVEN PRAISE

Eveleth Minister Lauds Accomplishments of the Associated Charities.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—After paying for the expenses of furnishing dinners to nineteen poor families for Christmas and relieving cases of distress, the local Associated Charities reports $227.84 in the treasury.

The reports show the organization sold 2,623 Red Cross seals during the holidays, a record considerably in excess of that of 1909.

In a short prelude to his sermon last evening, Rev. Philip A. Schwarz, D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, spoke of the work and needs of the local Associated Charities.

He said that he had recently attended a meeting of the board and been strongly impressed by the systematic and business-like manner in which the work of caring for the poor was being carried on. Those in charge of this work, he said, were men and women of high standing who volunteered their services and worked from disinterested motives for the welfare of the community, and they should have the loyal support and confidence of all right-thinking citizens. The pastor said he was glad that there was such an organization and that the work was in good hands. In speaking of the needs of the Associated Charities he mentioned especially the visiting nurse that the association will engage as soon as the funds permit and commended the plan. He also spoke of the membership campaign soon to be started and urged all to become identified with the new organization either as associate, active, annual or sustaining members of the same.

The services were well attended.

Hauling Lumber Long Way.

Biwabik, Minn., Jan. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Colvin-Robb Lumber company has started hauling lumber from their Loon lake mill to their planing and finishing mill at Bassett, a distance of some twenty-three miles. The hauling is being done with the steam hauler, and approximately 100,000 feet is taken at a load. It is not expected that the trip will be made oftener than every other day, as the record trip last year over the eighteen mile course was a round trip in nine hours. Generally it took longer.

BATHHOUSE BURNS; INMATES GET OUT

Overheated Stove Supposed to Have Set Fire to Nashwauk Concern.

Nashwauk, Minn., Jan. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—A number of patrons of John Humberg's bathhouse were hustled out by a fire about 6 o'clock Saturday evening, escaping into the 25 deg. below cold with few clothes. An overheated stove is supposed to have started the fire which ate the building up rapidly. The men in bathing and those dressing and undressing made dashes for the doors, the bathers wriggling into clothing as they ran, and all escaped safely. The firemen played streams upon the fire and on adjoining property, preventing the fire spreading. Humberg's loss is about $1,000.

Humberg and family were able to get away from the burning building without much risk. The hour at which the fire broke out was favorable therefor. Had it developed with some of the bathers putting in an all-night session and the Humbergs slumbering there might have been a tragic story.

At Tower a wedding was delayed from 5:30 until 11:30, as the minister who was to perform the ceremony was on the delayed train.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

SNOW

At last the cold snap shows signs of moderating.

Yesterday was delightfully clear and bright, but it was crisp, and the mercury hovered about the zero mark all day, in spite of the bright sunshine.

Today the weather man looks for warmer weather, with snow.

A year ago today it was mild.

The sun rose this morning at 7:49 and will set at 4:47, making eight hours and fifty-eight minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Cold weather continues throughout Canada and over northern border states, except in North Pacific districts. Temperatures 15 to 30 deg. below zero prevailed last night in Northern Minnesota, Western Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, but the slight barometric depression overlying Western Nebraska has caused milder weather over South Dakota, Wyoming, Montana, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Northern North Dakota. This disturbance also caused snow or rain over Western North Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, Oregon, California, Nevada, Arizona, Utah and Colorado during the last twenty-four hours. Another high pressure condition that has developed over the plateau region has resulted in colder weather there and over the extreme Southwest. Lower temperature also prevails from the Mississippi river eastward to the Atlantic coast."

and the interparliamentary union, in 1910, declared in favor of the neutralization of all interoceanic waterways.

"4. Because the United States in all its history has never been attacked and began every foreign war it ever had and it is too important a customer for any great nation at this late day to wantonly attack. Though an enemy and in stress of war be tempted to break its pledge to us, no nation would dare break its neutralization pledge with the combined powers, as the penalty of non-intercourse, which could be included in the general treaty, would involve commercial ruin.

"Because, with the experience of nearly a century's peace with England, ensnred by our undefended Canadian border line, until we have asked for complete arbitration treaties with all possible future enemies and have been refused, we should be insincere in increasing our war measures. This is especially true in view of the facts that, since 1902, the nations have signed 100 arbitration treaties and President Taft has made the impressive declaration that he sees no reason why any question whatever should not be arbitrated; that the second Hague conference in various ways diminished the likelihood of war; that not only the prize court but the court of arbitral justice is practically assured; and that in the summer of 1910 congress unanimously passed a resolution asking the president to appoint a commission of five to consider the utilization of existing agencies to limit the armaments of the world by mutual agreement of the nations and to constitute the world navies an international force for the preservation of universal peace and to consider other means to diminish expenditures for military purposes.

Expense Enormous.

"Because, in the words of Hon. David J. Foster, chairman of the committee of forign affairs in the house of representatives: 'The initial expense of the necessary fortifications would not be less than $25,000,000; in all probability it would not be less than $50,000,000. The annual expense of maintaining such fortifications 2,000 miles from home would probably amount to $5,000,000. With all the fortifications possible, it is still apparent that in order that the canal might be of military advantage to the United States in time of war a guard of battleships at each of its entrances would be an absolute necessity. It is equally apparent that with such a guard the fortifications would be unnecessary, if not entirely useless. We are bound by solemn treaty obligations to see to it that the canal shall be and remain forever open to British ships in time of war as well as in time of peace, and while it is probably true that no other nation could claim any advantage by virtue of this treaty, it is also true that we have thereby placed ourselves under moral obligations to maintain an open canal for the ships of all nations at all times, in war as well as in peace.'"

Tells How to Make a Pint of Laxative Cough Syrup Very Cheaply at Home.

The reason that most all cough syrups are ineffective, is that the ordinary preparations are very constipating and after a while they aggravate the congestion and bring on fever and pneumonia. To avoid pneumonia the bowels should be laxative and the cough will soon be overcome.

The finest acting, most pleasant tasting and laxative cough syrup can be made at home by any one. Obtain from a well stocked druggist 2½ ounces of essence mentho-laxene; empty it into a pint bottle. Make a syrup with a pint of granulated sugar and a half pint of boiling water; stir and let cool. Then fill up the bottle with syrup. Shake it well and take a teaspoonful every hour or two until the cough is cured. This is the quickest acting and surest cough remedy ever conceived. All wholesale druggists and most retail druggists sell essence mentho-laxene.

THREE NEGROES ARE STRUNG UP

Mob Breaks Into Jail at Shelbyville, Ky., and Lynches Them.

Shelbyville, Ky., Jan. 16.—Three negroes were lynched here yesterday morning after a determined mob of fifty masked men had stormed the county jail, where the negroes were confined. Two of the negroes were charged with insulting white women. The third was awaiting execution for the murder of a colored woman.

The bodies of two of the negroes, Gene Marshall and Wade Patterson, have been found. The third was seen in the hands of the mob with a rope about his neck. The third negro was Jim West.

According to Ernest Hornback, deputy jailer, the mob appeared at the jail at 2:10 o'clock in the morning. When they took the three negroes away, they left fourteen others in the same cell from which the three had been taken.

The two bodies recovered were found about a quarter of a mile apart. Marshall was found hanging from a bridge near the jail and Patterson was found in Clear creek. Patterson, it is said, attempted to escape from the mob, was shot and his body thrown into the creek.

According to Deputy Jailer Hornback, Jailer Edward Thompson hid the jail keys when the mob appeared. Later when the mob became more insistent, Hornback led the men into the jail office.

"They said there were three niggers they would get or else blow the jail up," Hornback said. "They kept yelling for the dynamite and some started to beat off the cell locks with a sledge hammer. About twelve men had their guns pointed at me demanding the keys. Finally, at 3:25 o'clock they broke the cell door open."

Patterson, it was charged, insulted two white women during the holidays and knocked both of them down. West's alleged crime was more recent and it is said he had often been seen throwing kisses at white women. He was a chauffeur. Marshall was convicted more than a year ago.

Both West and Patterson were to have been taken before a grand jury to be called Jan. 23 and a speedy trial was predicted for each.

COLD SNAP DUE TO END

Mercury Touches 16 Deg. Below Zero During Early Morning Hours.

The Weather Man Looks for Snow and Warmer Weather.

The cold snap gave Duluth another blow that sent the temperature to 16 deg. below zero at 7 o'clock this morning, and now the weather man holds out hope of its grip slipping tonight. Yesterday the mercury didn't get higher than 2 deg. above zero all day, although the sun shone brightly nearly all day and it was a beautiful Sunday, looked at from the inside.

With but two intermissions, temperatures very close to zero have prevailed day and night since the first of the year. Jan. 10 the mercury climbed to about 35 deg. above zero during the day, but it plunged during the night. Again Jan. 12 it forced its way to 17 deg. above, but was sent down by another cold blast.

The lowest mark during the snap was 30 deg. below zero and on another day 23 deg. below was recorded. On other days the temperature dropped to from 10 to 18 deg. below the zero mark, while on a number of days it did not get above zero at any time.

Duluth has not suffered as greatly as some points in North Dakota and Western Canada. At two or three points in Western Canada 50 deg. below zero was recorded last week.

H. W. Richardson, the local forecaster at the weather bureau, says that he expects the weather to moderate considerably tonight, with the temperature at 5 to 15 deg. above zero.

THAT GROSS EARNINGS TAX.

Duluth and St. Louis county are vitally interested in the decision of Judge Dibell barring local taxation of the telephone company on account of the terms of the state gross earnings tax. There ought to be a hard fight made of that case, and the announcement that it is to be appealed to the supreme court should be hailed with approval by every citizen.

There is a serious phase presented in the declaration of County Auditor Halden regarding the basis of that tax. If the point involved were carried out, he says, it would mean that St. Louis county could be barred from collecting taxes from any of the many interests centered here whose income is not derived wholly from local business. In other words, the state, under that decision, could step in and collect taxes from every firm that does more than purely local business, and by that action cut off the revenues of Duluth and St. Louis county, for it is held that the payment of the state tax constitutes an exemption from local taxation.

That would leave Duluth in a bad fix, and it would apply as well to the other cities and counties in the state. Every locality would find itself in the position of being compelled to furnish police and fire protection to concerns which contributed nothing whatever to the support of the local government. There is nothing just in that. On the contrary such a condition means injustice to both city and county. If these business houses are to receive the benefits of the local government, they ought to contribute something to the support of that government.

In the present instance it happens that this city and county are the ones directly interested. The principle, however, is state-wide, and if the decision of the supreme court should coincide with that of Judge Dibell, the principle would become state-wide in its possible application. For this reason every part of the state should take an interest in the case, and if the court's interpretation stands, there should be a united effort to have the law changed so as to relieve the separate localities of an unjust and costly burden.

COMMERCIAL SUICIDE.

Anybody who reads regularly the reports sent to Washington by United States consuls and there published in pamphlet form must find himself roused to both amusement and disgust at the plea of the ship subsidy advocates that government aid for steamship lines would increase the foreign trade of this country. The truth is that American exporters are committing commercial suicide week in and week out, not only by ignoring the simplest rules for meeting competition, but by going against the plainest principles of business. In the Daily Consular and Trade Reports are published repeated examples of senseless limitations on foreign trade, imposed, not by government restriction, but by the folly of American firms that are supposed to be bending every effort to secure business in other countries.

Reviewing the statements of Graham Clark, special agent of the department of commerce and labor, who recently returned from a trip of investigation to Latin America to study the conditions of American trade in those markets, the Indianapolis News says:

> Cotton goods to the amount of $120,000,000 annually are bought by Latin America. Of this amount we get less than 10 per cent. Now listen: We fail to adapt our goods to South American wants; fail to extend credit to substantial concerns; fail to send agents to the country who can speak the language of the country; fail to put up samples in attractive styles; fail to quote prices on stock that does not exactly conform, not to the standard of those to whom we wish to sell, but to our standards. Yet freight rates from New York to Buenos Ayres and other South American ports (where the subsidy beggars want to be paid to run ships) are now from one-third to three-fifths lower than from Liverpool to the same ports; and we could land our goods much quicker. Yet Great Britain alone does more than half the cotton trade of those countries while we get less than 10 per cent of it—barely more than Italy gets.

It is the some story over and over again. In one of the consular reports of last week another example, relating to India instead of South America, is given. In this instance the American consul got a firm that wanted to buy several automobiles for rental purposes to order a car from the United States as a trial. The firm selected its car from a catalogue and mailed an order with a draft for $200, enough to cover the cost of transportation both ways and provide a deposit of $100 toward payment for the car, all that was required under the terms prescribed in the catalogue. In reply the firm received a cablegram demanding the deposit of the full price of the car, enough to cover transportation both ways and a bonus, before the machine ordered would be shipped. The Indian firm, disgusted, cancelled the order and is looking to England and France for its automobiles.

Mexico, Italy, Germany, Norway, Sweden, England, Egypt, China, Japan—in fact all countries where there is a potential market for American goods report similar instances. Would the fact that an American flag flew over the ships engaged in foreign commerce overcome such stupidity as this? Not a bit of it. Meanwhile, under the protection of the tariff law, the American producers are provided with an artificially strengthened market here at home, and the people pay the cost of that protection along with the bills for the goods. Add ship subsidy, and the total cost to the American people will go up a little bit higher, while the returns to those same people will be no greater. Ship subsidy would be only a form of making the people, through the tax system, pay for the support of lines intended to help get a trade for which the American exporter cares so little that he will not even be decent enough to the men in foreign markets to get them to deal with him.

THE CAPITAL PUNISHMENT LAW.

Once more the state legislature is urged to repeal the capital punishment law in Minnesota. The action was recommended in Governor Eberhart's message, and a bill to that effect has been introduced in the house.

There is no more reason for repealing that law now than there has been in other years. Under the Minnesota statutes and decisions it is very easy for the state to avoid the execution of any person whose guilt is actually open to question, or in whose case there may be circumstances that the court and jury find to be of a mitigating nature. With the extensive alien population that Minnesota has, the possibility of infliction of the death penalty constitutes a restraint with which the newly acquired citizens were familiar in their native homes, and it would be very likely to give them a false idea if the legislature were to modify that provision of the law.

Italy is the only nation in which capital punishment does not prevail. Only seven states of the Union have tried the abolition of capital punishment, and two of them —Iowa and Colorado—later returned to the practice. In Wisconsin and Kansas there have been expressions favoring its re-establishment, but no legislative action to that effect has been taken.

There is an amendment that the legislature could make to that law, however, that would be of distinct advantage, and that is to provide that all executions of criminals shall take place in the state prison at Stillwater. At present they are obliged by law to be held at the various county seats, either in the jail or some other "suitable" place where nobody can see them, and if no such place exists the sheriff is compelled to erect one for the occasion.

This provision is expensive to the counties in which executions take place, and their effect on the populations of the county seats is not good. The knowledge that a man is to be hanged in the city on a certain date always excites the younger element and the more lawless as well. The sheriff invariably finds himself under unpleasant conditions regarding the attendance at the execution as those conditions are prescribed by the John Day Smith law, and the unfamiliarity of the county officials with the procedure of execution always is liable to result in a slip that transforms the carrying out of the law to a horrible piece of torture for both the condemned and those who see his death. All this could be avoided by providing that the infliction of the death penalty must take place in the penitentiary.

It is not unlikely that the idea of having the execution take place in the same community in which the crime was committed originated in the thought that the people familiar with the murder should have the privilege of seeing the law enforced. Under the present law in Minnesota, which excludes, or is supposed to exclude, spectators, this conception is done away with, and the execution of criminals in the state prison would be no violation of anybody's vested rights, while it would add materially to the peace of mind of the citizens.

Perhaps it would be well for Minnesota to follow the lead of New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Ohio, North Carolina and Virginia by substituting the electric chair for the gallows in the execution of murderers. If such action ever is to be taken, there must be a provision that the capital punishment law be enforced always at the same place. But even if the provision for death by hanging remain in force, it would be far better and more humane to change the law so as to make all executions take place within the state penitentiary.

STRAP-HANGING IN TEXAS.

This is the season of the strap-hanger. Behold how he standeth on the corner and shivereth in the icy blasts or squsheth his feet in the slushy snow. Cometh the street car and he boardeth it in hope and with feverish haste. He stampeth his feet on the platform and spatteretn the accumulated wetness about the lower ends of the trouser legs of his fellow-tractionists. He edgeth his way inside and casteth a glance of wonder and envy at the men and women who are squeezed together on the long seats or who sit idly fingering their carfare and cursing the multitudinous wraps of those beside them on the imitations of benches constructed for the accommodation of one and a half passengers who have moved-up-forward-please. He casteth his eye heavenward, but not in prayer. Nay, rather he seeketh a stray down-hanging bit of hide that he may seize upon it, and by swinging therefrom be spared the indignity of sitting on the lap of a stranger every time the car stops, starts or turns a corner. Meanwhile he giveth the conductor a nickel and wondereth if it got rung up. So he continueth his journey until the car reacheth so near the end of the line that he findeth a seat vacant and getteth into it first. And then he is a strap-hanger no more for that trip.

But it isn't that way in Texas, according to the report of a San Franciscan who has traveled in the Lone Star state. In many municipalities in Texas, says this man, ordinances have been passed providing that the man or woman who has to stand up need pay only 3 cents fare. Where the ordinance is in force great changes have come about in the service. Cars have been added and schedules rearranged so as to accommodate the people more readily. In fact the change has been so great that the word "strap-hanger" means nothing to the citizens unless they write to some other place and ask for a definition.

This man's story so impressed the people of San Francisco that an ordinance similar to those adopted in the Texas towns has been presented to the board of supervisors of that city, and there is said to be better than an even chance of its passage. Agitation in favor of similar action is on foot in Portland, Or., and the Telegram of that city, commenting on the justice or injustice of it says:

"The company will say that the present conditions are unavoidable. The public should say that a lower fare for those inconvenienced by the unavoidable conditions should also be unavoidable. There is an aspect of justice about the arrangement which one cannot ignore —unless, of course, he should happen to be engaged in the money-making business of running a street railway."

Texas is a good ways from Duluth, but Texas cities were pioneers in the adoption of the commission form of government. San Francisco is a good ways away, too, and so is Portland, but San Francisco has the recall, and Oregon has the latest method of picking United States senators. Those distant places are not all of them as slow as they might be. They solve lots of problems in very satisfactory manner.

Oh you curlers!

To the man who did it there isn't any particular difference whether you spell it "slipped" or "slipt."

Montana is trying to send the warden of its penitentiary to the United States senate, possibly on the theory that the senate needs that kind of supervision.

TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

The Beef Trust.

Mankato Free Press: An independent American corporation, said not to be connected with the beef trust, has secured special concessions from the government of Brazil, with a view to shipping meats into the United States. Is the Brazil concern trying "to beat the trust to it?"

Let it be hoped that the Brazilians will be successful. But the meat trust, as an infant industry, is probably more likely to pay heed to the Brazilian threat than to the reproving remarks of Uncle Sam.

Saving Souls of Solons.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: It is said that Representative Stone of Park Rapids considers it his special duty to save the souls of the members of the legislature. We wish him well, and we have great admiration for the man who takes so stupendous a job.

Wonder if he'll try to do it by passing a bill declaring all souls saved?

Arbitration in Georgia.

Cloquet Independent: Three brothers down in Georgia quarreled as to which was the owner of a certain mule. They used the beast as a fortification and when the gun play was over all four were dead. The puzzle is how many donkeys were in the fight.

This is easily solved, as there was but one real and valuable mule.

Rapiers in the Discard.

Winona Independent: More power to the Kansas City council, which passed the hat pin ordinance over the head of the mayor. The woman who has not sufficient regard for the safety of others should be forced by law to a respect for the public rights.

Wonder what that mayor thinks of the bobble skirt?

Tenure Long Enough.

Virginia Virginian: Champ Clark, who will doubtless be the next speaker of the house of representatives, favors a six-year term for presidents of the United States and a three-year term for congressmen. The congressman from the "show me" state will no doubt find many who will oppose him on the matter, as four years is long enough for most residents and two years is too long for some congressmen.

Wouldn't it be quite as true to say "most congressmen?"

Another Right Going.

Eveleth Star: The governor of Idaho, in his message, wants the limit raised to a residence of a year in that state before divorce can be secured. One by one the rights and privileges of the affinity go glimmering.

And the sooner the affinity follows her "rights and privileges" into limbo, so much the better.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "I don't know whether I ought to recognize him in the city or not. Our acquaintance at the seashore was very slight."

"You promised to marry him, didn't you?"

"Yes, but that was all."

Journal Amusant: Friend — You fought bare-headed?

French Duelist—Yes, and got a fine sunstroke.

Atlanta Constitution: "I sent a poem to that magazine, and now I hear it has failed."

"Too bad. But maybe they won't sue you for damages."

Punch: Mother (visiting son at preparatory school)—Well, my darling!

Son—I say, mother, don't look so ghastly pleased before all these fellows!

Chicago News: Elsie—Ethel's marriage was dreadfully unromantic!

Ida—Yes; even the man she married was the one she was engaged to.

Buffalo Express: "What is a gentleman, anyway?"

"A gentleman is a smoker who throws his cigar away before entering a car, instead of trying to keep it until he alights."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "What shall we say of Senator Smugg?"

"Just say he was always faithful to his trust."

"And shall we mention the name of the trust?"

Fliegende Blaetter: "The Cross of the Legion is a wonderful thing for health."

"How's that?"

"There's nothing like it to encourage long promenades in the park."

Life: Lady Guest—What do you do in case of fire?"

Clerk (ringing bell)—One moment, madam. (To bellboy)—Set the hotel on fire for the lady.

Baltimore American: "Your daughter, madam, has a rapidly growing mentality."

"Mercy on us, doctor! Will she have to go to a hospital and have it cut out?"

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "And you really think, doctor that you must perform the operation today?"

"Oh, yes. There may be no necessity for it tomorrow."

Boston Transcript: Employer (to office boy)—If any one asks for me, I shall be back in half an hour.

Patsy—Yes, sorr; an' how soon will you be back if no wan asks for you?

Puck: Teacher—Why, Jennie, what is the matter? Why is your hair cut off?

Jennie—Mother's going to wear puffs.

Boston Transcript: "He married her for her title."

"You mean the other way about, don't you?"

"No; her title to a lot of valuable real estate."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "So you are an automobile drummer?"

"The automobile business doesn't require drummers, my friend. I'm a distributer."

Detroit Free Press: "I don't like that woman."

"Why not?"

"She's the woman who is all the time teaching my wife a new way of serving up cold meat."

Philadelphia Record: Nell—Miss Antique likes to give the impression that she has a vivid past.

Belle—I don't imagine it has been so vivid as it has been long.

Boston Transcript: Caller (viewing the baby)—Do you think he is going to resemble his father?

Mother—I shouldn't be surprised. He keeps me up nights even now.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Hightower, the big center, doesn't play with the varsity team this season."

"Hurt?"

"No. He's got a weak memory and can't learn the rules."

Where?

Puck: "And where," demanded his wife, with flashing eyes, "would you be now, only for me?"

The man glanced at the clock. It was verging on midnight. He sighed, and was silent.

Which?

Puck: Editor—So you want a job? Any experience in this line?

Reporter—I covered the last prize fight in very graphic style.

Editor — Stenographic, telegraphic, photographic, or kinematographic?

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

ALGOT JOHNSON WAS AN HONEST BOY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have read the comment by P. F. Manley and W. A. Hall on Algot Johnson, who was connected with the McKay hotel holdup, and what they say is certainly correct. Algot worked for me last summer as chore boy about two and a half months at the Silver mine. I can truly say that from the time he started until he left, he was honest in every respect. I ran a commissary and sold tobacco and other things.

When I left the camp, I left Algot in charge. If he sold anything, he always turned in the money, which I consider he would not have done if he didn't mean to be an honest boy. Everybody who knows him here believes his downfall is due to bad company. I thought when I first heard of the holdup and murder that there was some mistake in the identity of the Johnson boy, and I was greatly disappointed when I found that I was wrong. Algot should be punished for his part in the crime, but I would like to see him get another chance when he becomes a man.

JOE REVELL.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 14.

THE PARCELS POST.

Frank B. Lord on "Parcels Post," in Norman E. Mack's National Monthly: If you are an American citizen and followed the custom so popular in this country, of making gifts to your friends at Christmas time, and, if you sent a parcel through the mails, from one postoffice to another anywhere in the United States, no matter how short the distance, you were obliged to pay a postage rate of 16 cents a pound, and were limited in the size of the package to four pounds. If you sent a 4-pound package from Washington to Alexandria, Va., a distance of less than ten miles, it cost you 64 cents.

But, if you had been a pig-tailed Chinaman, earning a livelihood by cleaning soiled linen, and wished to have sent a 4-pound package from Washington to a friend in Shanghai, a distance of more than 10,000 miles, you could have done so for 48 cents, or 12 cents a pound. Furthermore, you would not have been limited to a 4-pound package; you could have shipped, by mail, an 11-pound package at the same rate of 12 cents a pound.

Thus, does the United States discriminate against its own citizens, and in favor of the Chinaman whom it seeks to bar from admittance to the country. In other words, the United States government will aid in the transmission of fourth class mail matter for 10,000 miles, and even for a greater distance, and 3,000 miles of the way through its own postal system, at a rate cheaper than it will transmit the same fourth-class mail matter between the two nearest postoffices within the United States.

It will do more than that. It will aid in the transmission of a package two and three-fourths times as large to a foreign country, as it will permit to go through its own postal service between any two postoffices in the United States

All this is true because a Republican congress has failed to heed the popular demand to enact a modern parcels post law, in place of the United, indefensible and antiquated parcels post which is now provided under the postal system.

Enlarging the House.

Indianapolis News: With eleven of the thirteen members of Mr. Crumpacker's committee from states which would suffer a reduction in their number of congressmen if the new apportionment gave the house less than 435 members (including two new members from New Mexico and one from Arizona) it begins to look a good deal as if 435 would be the number agreed on. This is a total increase of forty-four members, or forty-one members from the states which are represented in the present congress. No state will lose a member, and this, to the politicians, seems more important than that the house should be an effective and economical organization. The states that will not gain any members are:

Arkansas,	Nebraska,
Connecticut,	Nevada,
Delaware,	New Hampshire,
Idaho,	North Carolina,
Indiana,	North Dakota,
Iowa,	Rhode Island,
Kansas,	South Carolina,
Kentucky,	Tennessee,
Maine,	Vermont,
Maryland,	Virginia,
Mississippi,	Wisconsin,
Missouri,	Wyoming.

Those that will gain one member are:

Alabama,	Minnesota,
Colorado,	Montana,
Florida,	Oregon,
Georgia,	South Dakota,
Louisiana,	Utah,
Michigan,	West Virginia.

Those that will gain two members are:

Illinois,	Texas,
New Jersey,	Washington.
Ohio,

Those that will gain three members are:

California,	Oklahoma.
Massachusetts.

Pennsylvania will gain four members. New York will gain six members. New Mexico, not heretofore represented, will have two members, and Arizona one.

With this increase in the size of the house the first problem that presents itself is that of seating the members. This it is proposed to solve by removing the desks and furnishing the chamber with benches after the manner of the British house of commons. This will probably seem something of a hardship to the members, but nothing like so great a hardship as the loss of some of their jobs would be. But this is the simplest and least expensive of the problems that the enlarged and unwieldy representation will cause. Indeed, even the $330,000 a year which forty-four additional congressmen will cost in salaries is comparatively a negligible sum. Every additional congressman means additional expense in every way that the house spends money—for secretaries, clerks, stationery, franks, mineral water and a thousand and one little items which the public seldom hears of, but which in total amount to a snug sum. But even this is not the worst in the way of expense. Every additional congressman means that the people will have to provide for the upkeep of the political fences in another district. In a word the pork will have to be passed around to more plates, and the people's purse will be called on to pay for more public buildings, more river and harbor "improvement," more private pensions and more allowances for this, that and the other thing.

It is probably hopeless to expect the members of congress to view the situation from the standpoint of the people's interest instead of their own interest; but if they would, they could organize a house that would not only be a much more effective legislative body, but would be a less costly one to maintain. A reduction in the membership instead of an increase is what is needed. If, for instance, instead of giving New York an increase of six members, that state were allowed to retain its present representation of thirty-seven, and the other states reduced on the basis of whatever congressional unit such an apportionment would work out, we should have a smaller house, a less expensive house, and a house that was generally more satisfactory to the people.

Thrift and Forethought.

Puck: The young husband and wife were charmingly busy feathering their nest.

"A little pains now," quoth they sagely, "may mean an extra cylinder or two when we come to mortgage later on!"

Showing that thrift and forethought were traits by no means extinct after all.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Not An Experiment.

Middleriver Pioneer: Duluth is about to embark under the commission form of city government. This plan has proven a wonderful success in Galveston, Tex., and Des. Moines, Iowa, and in other cities wherein it has been tried, and we believe it could profitably be put in force in nearly every city in the country. The experiment in Duluth will be watched with interest—though it can hardly be called an experiment either, as it has been tried and proven good in so many cities.

Entitled to Credit.

Vermilion Journal: The Duluth Evening Herald is entitled to great credit for the cheerful, liberal and effective way in which it has represented the interests of the Vermilion Iron range for the past year.

Every Word True.

Chisholm Tribute-Herald: The demand for a shorter legislative session has again made its appearance, the Duluth Herald being the offender this time. The Herald says the legislature can perform every function expected of it between Jan. 3 and March 1, adjourn and go home—and save the state a lot of legislative expenses. Every word of which is gospel truth. The members are no longer paid a per diem, but receive a fixed salary, so there can be no mercenary reasons for prolonging the agony, but The Herald has overlooked the third house in its calculations. Any resolution which has for its object the shortening of the session will have a hard time getting by their vigilance committee.

Duluth and the Ranges.

Virginia Virginian: Two more stories are to be added to the Wolvin building in Duluth, the home of the United States Steel corporation and subsidiary companies. It is improments of this kind which should put a brace in the backs of the jelatine spined people who are trying to make themselves and others believe that the range country has seen its best days. As the steel company grows the ranges will prosper for their interests in the raw product is largely in this section.

Looking Up and Going Forward.

Roseau Times: Duluth is looking up. The past year witnessed vast improvements, the most important being the steel plant, costing $10,000,000. Duluth in the nature of things will grow to a city of great manufacturing importance and in a few years rival the Twin Cities in population.

Source of Supply.

Cleveland Plaindealer: Boy bandits from Ohio kill a Duluth policeman. When it comes to producing boy bandits Ohio takes no back seat.

Duluth's Dairy Purchases.

Pillager Herald: One million dollars for dairy products, is what Duluth paid last year, and all came from land considered worthless a few years ago. This amount would have purchased all the cut over land in Minnesota ten years ago.

Country Weekly Replies.

Cass Lake Times: That was a big bunch of American Beauties the Duluth Herald handed out to the country weeklies. Isn't this one a beaut?—"The country weekly should by all means have an editorial column and its editor should guard it as the apple of his eye. We don't mind saying that some of the best things we have seen in print in Minnesota have been in the editorial columns of country weeklies." Compare this with what a Kansas editor, presumably one who is incapable of writing a readable editorial says, that the country weekly should abolish its editorial page since the daily paper furnishes all that is necessary in that line. It was this and more which provoked a just rebuke from The Herald whose sympathy for the under dog is always in evidence and whose words of encouragement to the country weekly, make glad many a thought impoverished place.

Makes a Guess; Try Again.

Princeton Union: The Santa Claus of the Duluth Herald's newsboys is an "unknown friend" who makes it a practice every Christmas to pay for the papers which the boys get from the office and sell on the streets. Hence, every copy which they dispose of is clear profit. This unknown friend the boys have never been successful in discovering, but they would like to do so in order to return thanks. Those big-hearted men at the helm of The Herald in all probability constitute the "unknown friend."

CHAMP CLARK.

Frank B. Lord on Champ Clark, in Norman E. Mack's National Monthly: Champ Clark's 60 years have rested lightly upon him. While his hair has grown white and thin on the top of his head, nevertheless his appearance is that of a much younger man than he actually is. With smooth shaven face, clean cut, near classic features, firm mouth, determined jaw and clear piercing eyes, and a kindly almost benevolent countenance, he might be as easily taken for a country parson as for a statesman, and the fact is that he is preacher as well as politician. For many years he has been a member of the Church of the Disciples of Christ, or rather as he prefers to call it, the Campbellite church, so designated because of its founder, Alfred Campbell. Under its tenets all of its members are licensed preachers and Champ Clark is one of them. Upon frequent occasions he has delivered addresses from the pulpit, and he is an authority on church history, particularly that of his own. In Washington he attends the Christian church on Vermont avenue, where the late President Garfield worshipped. Moreover, he lives up to the teachings of the faith and is as ardent in championing its cause as he is earnest in his Democracy is not merely a party affiliation. It is a deep settled conviction. He believes firmly in its traditions and its principles, glories in its past, rejoices in its present, and is convinced that in its teachings lies the hope of the republic.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A girl has to learn to sew, but she knows from the start how to flirt.

First a man wants to make a reasonable sum of money, then a lot more. A woman never wants to manage her husband till the honeymoon is over.

One of the best rules of life is not to think about yourself nor talk about the weather.

The sorrier you can be for something you have done the better it would be if you had been sorry before you did it.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Better a spoiled child than a fresh man.

Government ownership of brains might help some.

It isn't always the best-looking girl who looks the best.

A man should make his money first, then try to make it last.

When a standing army gets tired it might occupy the seat of war.

Beware of a woman who is unable to get enthusiastic over a baby.

You may lead a hen to an incubator, but you can't make her shell out.

Courtship is apt to make life brighter without increasing the gas bills.

Some men answer the call of duty only when it makes a noise like a dollar.

A young widow doesn't think much of a man who attempts to kiss her—and fails.

And a woman gets a lot of comfort out of believing things are true when she knows they are not.

The horse power of an automobile may sometimes be judged by the number of horses required to haul it to the repair shop.

The Conscious City.

Kansas City Times: The Denver Times, in urging the adoption of commission government for Denver, declares that it would "present the opportunity for attaining civic consciousness, without which no city can be great in the larger sense."

The new rule makes the city free. It first engages the attention and then the co-operation of the citizens in the administration of their own public affairs. It establishes responsibility on the part of the voters in the selection of officials and brings the people into an intelligent understanding of all civic problems. It gives the citizen something of the same feeling toward the city that he entertains for his personal business and that inspires the deepest respect for the municipality.

Commission government would certainly give Denver—or Kansas City, for that matter—an opportunity for attaining a civic consciousness that is not attained through a city government in which no one is interested and about which no one knows much of anything.

CHIEF WANTS THREE NEW HALLS AND A FIRE TUG

Many Improvements Needed By the Department, Says Randall.

Nearly Half-Million Fire Loss Fully Covered By Insurance.

CHIEF JOSEPH R. RANDALL.

Extensive improvements and additions for the fire department are recommended by Chief Joseph Randall in his annual report. He declares that in his opinion they must be made if the department is to retain its efficiency and keep pace even in a measure with the rapid growth and development of the city.

He asks for a new house at Lakeside; that the station at West Duluth be sold and a new house built on another site; that the hillside district be supplied with a new hall and apparatus; that a new blacksmith and wood shop be erected; that a fire tug be purchased; that a new aerial truck be supplied to replace the old one now in service at No. 1 hall, and that a new 10-circuit repeater for sending in alarms, with the necessary switchboard, be installed.

Chief Randall states that the house at Lakeside is in such dilapidated condition that unless it is replaced it will soon have to be abandoned. The walls are cracked, the foundation is giving away and the sanitation is extremely poor.

Fire Tug Needed.

He declares that the need of the blacksmith and wood shop is apparent to anyone who will make even a casual investigation. Touching upon the fire tug, he asserts that the need is so very evident, and that it has been commented upon so much in the past, that further explanation is unnecessary. He says that the hillside station ought to be equipped with a combination motor engine and hose wagon after the house is built. It will be able to cover a vast amount of territory, including Woodland and the normal district.

He says that the aerial truck now at headquarters has been in service so long that it has about worn out its usefulness and that it would cost about as much to repair it as to buy a new one. The same applies to the alarm system, which was put in in 1887. It is so old that it sometimes fails to repeat the alarms when sent in at different boxes.

Losses Nearly Half Million.

During the year the total fire loss was $122,000.45, covered by insurance amounting to $1,526,925, or $1,114,528.54 over the losses. The loss on buildings was $142,061.69, covered by $1,011,725 insurance. The loss on contents was $210,514.77, covered y $465,710 insurance. Other losses, mostly due to forest and brush fires, which were so numerous last year, were $70,000, covered y $53,500 insurance, the only case in which the insurance was less than the loss. The uninsured loss on buildings was $14,695 and on contents, $10,010.

An analysis of the fires shows that the department was called last year to fight 57 brush and 58 grass fires. There were 34 chimney fires, 2 caused by cigar stubs, 7 by fire works, 28 by various kinds of overheating, 69 by sparks from various sources, 9 supposedly incendiary and 124 unknown. Quite a number were caused by matches and explosions and one by smoking in bed. Altogether the department responded to 555 alarms, 419 of which were received over the telephone.

Some of the larger fires and the losses were: Torrey building $6,500; building at 1902 West Superior street, $9,215; Schulze Saddlery company and McClellan Paper company, $81,129; St. Clements church, $8,000; Bunker Lumber company and Gogebic Boiler works, $8,375; Ten Cent store, $16,053; Wilson Fruit company, $13,500; National Iron works, $12,000; Rieckhoff Box factory, $11,000; H. F. Thompson Furniture company, $25,000; Algers-Smith mill yards, $70,000; West Duluth Box factory, $7,000; Dixon and Lowry, $7,000, and Lundmark and Franson, $15,800.

Many Rescues.

The department made an excellent record in rescues the last year. Jan. 16 thirty men and women were helped from the Osborn block at Nineteenth avenue west and Superior street; Jan. 26, ten persons were taken out of the Clarendon hotel, including Mrs. A. S. Goodson, who was found in her room unconscious; Feb. 11, half a dozen or more employes were taken from the burning Schulze factory; March 20, Mrs. A. W. Anderson was carried unconscious from the burning home at 1701 West Superior street, and Oct. 27, Mrs. M. E. Thomas was taken from the roof of the porch of her home in the East end.

One man and one woman were burned to death in fires and quite a number of people injured in making their escape or being caught by gas or gasoline explosions. Several firemen were injured, but there were no casualties. Among the firemen who were hurt or overcome were, E. G. Wold, George Maghan, E. Ackerman, W. E. McLaughlin, J. Cribbins, S. H. Hanson, H. S. Nelson, W. A. Johnson, George Shaw, R. H. Cribbins, and J. T. Phillips.

The annual report of City Electrician F. E. Hough is appended. In it he recommends a new police alarm signal system as well as a new signal system for the fire department.

WITNESS FOR HIS FATHER

Frank Schmitz, 10 Years Old, Corroborates Testimony of His Parents.

Murder Case May Go to the Jury Tuesday Afternoon.

Little Frank Schmitz, 10 years old, went on the stand this morning in the case of the state against his father, Frank Joseph Schmitz, accused of the murder of George Riley, and corroborated the testimony of both his father and his mother in regard to the manner in which the gun was accidentally discharged when Mrs. Schmitz grabbed her husband's arm.

Although but 10 years old and a weak looking child, little Frank made an excellent witness for the defense. When he arrived in the court room this morning he ran to his father, who was sitting beside his attorney, A. E. McManus and kissed him fondly. "Frankie," as he is called by the other members of the family is undersized and his voice is so faint that he can hardly be heard in the jury box. There were some facts that he did not remember, but he did remember the most important ones.

He told how he stayed at home all day with his mother on the day of the shooting, because she was afraid to stay alone.

Aside from the going over the main features of the story told by the father and mother, Frank's attorney offered nothing new.

The state has rested in rebuttal and it is probable that the case will be in the hands of the jury before Tuesday night.

ENTERS NEW FIELD

After five years' phenomenal success as advertising manager of The Fair, one of Chicago's largest retail mercantile establishments, Julius Schneider has resigned to enter business for himself in that city.

Mr. Schneider will be remembered by many here as former advertising manager for the Panton & White company, where his success drew him to the larger field some five or six years ago.

Mr. Schneider is not only regarded as one of the veteran advertising men of Chicago, but he is widely known throughout advertising circles throughout the country having taken an active interest in the accociation affairs of that fraternity.

As advertising manager for The Fair, Mr. Schneider's advertising appropriation has been close to the million dollar mark. He is a strong advocate of the evening paper as the best advertising medium and, in his capacity, spent with one evening paper of Chicago alone, an average of $10,000 per month.

VERDICT FOR NOMINAL SUM

Adelmar Snyder Is Awarded $1.00 From J. T. McCarthy in Federal Court.

A verdict for the nominal sum of $1 was returned in favor of Adelmar Snyder in his suit against J. F. McCarthy in United States court. The jury reached the verdict Saturday evening, but it was not turned in to the court until this morning.

Snyder sued for $24,000, claimed to be a commission for the sale of 24,000 acres of Colorado land to Mr. McCarthy. Mr. McCarthy claimed that there was no agreement for a commission, but Mr. Snyder was to receive a commission from the resale of the land.

The jury in the case against William Hill, the young man charged with gaining possession of a registered letter by fraudulent representations, took the case about noon today.

But two more civil actions are to be tried at this term of court. They are the suits of Joseph Gauthier and Martha Gauthier against Jack Stone and they grow out of injuries alleged to have been received by Mrs. Gauthier when a horse which Mr. Gauthier purchased from Mr. Stone ran away.

ALABAMA INSURANCE LAW HELD TO BE VALID.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The law of Alabama, passed in 1897, to prevent agreements and combinations between insurance companies for the purpose of fixing the rates of fire insurance, was held to be constitutional today by the supreme court of the United States. The act provided that every policy of insurance should be interpreted, in event of loss, thereunder, to include a 25 per cent penalty if the insurance company, either at the time of the policy was issued or before the time of trial, was a member of a tariff association for fixing the rate of insurance.

The validity of the law arose in a suit of Foster K. Hale, Jr., against the German Alliance Insurance Company of New York to recover $4,000 insurance.

NOMINATIONS SENT TO SENATE BY PRESIDENT.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The president today nominated the following Minnesota postmasters: Francis S. Pollard, Morgan; Alfred J. Gebhard, Lamberton. Among other nominations sent to the senate by the president were the following: Brigadier-general to be, Maj. Gen. Charles L. Hodges; captain to be, Rear-Admiral Walter Cowles; pension agent at Washington, D. C., John R. King of Maryland; postmasters, L. C. Fensel, Kewaunee, Wis.; Lawrence Barrett, Peshtigo, Wis.; Morris F. Barteau, Appleton Wis., and Phil P. Solnorbach, Muskegon, Mich.

NO LETTER.

Chicago News: "Is there a letter here for James Foxworthy Shoonover?" asked the stranger at the general delivery window.

"There is not," said the village postmaster, with emphasis.

"How in thunder do you know there isn't, unless you look? If there's anything makes me red-headed, it's the arrogance of you official whippersnappers. I have every reason to believe there's a letter here for James Foxworthy Shoonover. I'm just as sure of it as though I saw it before me. I come in here politely and ask you in the most gentlemanly way possible if there is such a letter. 'No,' says you, 'there isn't,' and the tone of your voice intimates that I may go hang myself.

"Maybe the spineless citizens of this village will stand for your doggone insolence, but I won't. A postmaster isn't any bigger in my eyes than any other man, and the mere fact that you draw a salary from the government doesn't give you any right to insult a man whose father saved the union army at Antietam. So you just hand over that letter, or the first thing you know you'll get a telegram from my old schoolmate, Postmaster General Hitchcock, asking you to hand in your resignation."

"There is no letter here for James Foxworthy Shoonover," said the postmaster, calmly. "I have looked over the letters a dozen times in the last hour. If it will make you feel better, however, I'll go over them again."

"You'd better go over them, if you value your official scalp. And if that letter isn't there, the best thing you can do is to hunt around the office until you find it. I'm a bad man to fool with. For all I know you may have the letter in your hip pocket. A man who will insult a stranger who steps up to the delivery window and asks, in the most courteous manner, for a letter for James Foxworthy Schoonover, wouldn't hesitate to open other people's mail, especially if it looked as though there might be valuable inclosures.

"The impudence of a country postmaster is something intolerable. You swell up with false pride and imagine you are the flywheel of the government, when, as a matter of fact, you are the smallest cog in the whole blamed machinery. If you fell off the earth right now and took your one-horse post-office with you, the government would go along and never know it. A postmaster should be the most humble and obsequious of men, for he is enjoying a soft snap at the expense of the taxpayers. When one of those taxpayers drops in and asks if theres' a letter for James Foxworthy Shoonover the postmaster should take off his hat and make a bow, realizing his own unworthiness. But instead of that——"

"There is nothing here for anybody named Shoonover," said the postmaster, in a monotonous voice.

"I suppose you think I'll take your word for it!" said the stranger. "I am expecting a letter from my old friend President Taft. It should have been here two weeks ago, and I'm absolutely sure it has arrived before now. I have no doubt that when you saw a letter from the White House your curiosity mastered you and you opened and read it and then hid it to destroy the evidence of your crime. But wait until you see what Taft does about it. He won't stand for any indignities offered his old friend James Foxworthy Shoonover.

"When ho was a student at Yale I was the son of one of the janitors, and we often played leapfrog together. Taft isn't the sort of man to forget a friend he played leapfrog with. I wrote to him six weeks ago reminding him of those halcyon days and asking him to appoint me ambassador to the court of St. James. His answer should have been here two weeks ago, allowing for all accidents and delays, and yet you say there is nothing here for James Foxworthy Shoonover.

"Well, we shall see what we shall see! I'll report you to my old chum, Postmaster General Hitchcock!"

A PREHISTORIC ZOO.

The latest attraction at Carl Hagenbeck's famous animal park at Stellingen, near Hamburg, is a series of representations of the great monsters that inhabited this earth in the distant past. In all thirty have been erected, but more are to follow.

These beasts of the past occupy a portion of the grounds to themselves. They have been built up of cement by J. Pallenburg, around the shores of a little lake.

The animals are depicted standing by the water's edge amid the shrubs and trees, while in the lake itself, says the Strand, are shown huge crocodiles and strange looking creatures, half fish and half mammal. Additional realism is added by representing a few of the beasts in the act of battling with specimens of their kind.

There are several representations of the dinosaurs, including the iguanodon, which towers some twenty-five feet into the air, making the trees around look quite small; the diplodocus, whose length of 66 feet and height of 18 feet render the modern elephant a mere pygmy; the stegosaurus, with its bony plates on its back and spikes on its tail; the triceratops, with its three horns on its face and huge collar of spikes around its neck; as well as representations of the sloth, dodo and mammoth.

Then there are huge flying reptiles with an enormous spread of wings, birds with formidable teeth, not to mention giant lizards, tortoises and toads, compared to which the present living specimens are in size no more than a dog to a cart horse. Some of these tortoises and toads are twelve feet and more in length.

SERVED ACCORDING TO ORDERS.

Youth's Companion: In one of the companies of a Wisconsin militia regiment are two students of Lawrence college who are studying for the ministry. While the regiment was at Camp Douglass this summer some of the boys of the company thought to have a little fun at the expense of the two ministers. When the beer, which some one had sent to the regiment as a treat, was to be served they asked their captain if the two ministers might serve it.

He said they might. The boys were jubilant and served notice of their new duty to the two students.

One of them refused to have anything to do with it, but the other, Private Keith, took the notice, which read: "The beer must be served on the grounds and no man must get drunk." and said he would obey it.

He went to his lieutenant and asked him if the company might be held at parade rest while he served the beer. He was assured that it should be done.

Private Keith then rolled the keg up in front of his company, knocked out the bung and let the beer out on the ground. When it had all run out he turned to his lieutenant, gave the salute and said:

"Lieutenant, I have served the beer on the grounds and I am sure no man is drunk."

LETTERING ON HANDKERCHIEF.

London Globe: C. Van Noorden declares that he has sought during ten years for one of these articles in vain, but he has recently been rewarded by receiving a specimen of the true moral pocket handkerchief from a lady collector of such things, who had picked up this article in a curio shop at Hampersmith. The specimen is not of Pickwickian date, but is some sixty years old.

The lettering on this handkerchief is as follows: "Famous queens of England have worked with their own hands. Mary, queen of William III, when not better employed, wrought with so constant diligence as if she had been compelled to earn her bread by it. She looked on idleness as the great corrupter, of human nature, and that if the mind had no employment given it it would create some of the worst sort to itself. Some persons have worked to give away to others: Dorcas was a woman of this character, as is shown in the Bible: Acts, ix, 37-39."

Then follows the line in large letters: "Female industry in the use of the needle." A second morality printed below the picture refers to Dr. Johnson's views on the value of Bible reading.

The moral pocket handkerchief idea is an old one, as several passages in our seventeenth century drama show. Thus, in Jasper Mayne's "City March," played before royalty at Whitehall in 1639, these lines occur:

She works religious petticoats; for flowers
She'll make church histories; her needle doth
So sanctify my cushionets! Besides
My smock sleeves have such holy embroideries
And are so learned, that I fear, in time
All my apparel will be quoted by
Some pure instructor.

Political handkerchiefs have of course long been common and were issued as lately as the time of the Boer war.

BE CHEERFUL AND AVOID CHOLERA.

London Chronicle: A cheerful disposition is held by some doctors to be the best protection against cholera. When this disease first visited Paris in 1832 a notice was issued advising the inhabitants "to avoid as far as possible all occasions of melancholy and all painful emotions, and to seek plenty of distractions and amusements. Those with a bright and happy temperament are not likely to be stricken down."

This advice was largely followed, and even when cholera was claiming over 1,000 weekly victims, the theaters and cafes were thronged. The epidemic was in some quarters treated as a huge joke, and plays and songs were written around it. Rochefort, the father of the brilliant journalist of today, wrote a play, "Le Cholera Morbus," which proved a big success, and another production on the same lines, "Parismalade," also had a long run.

Suburban Life: A suburban chemist had been advertising his patent insect powder far and wide. One day a man rushed into his shop and said excitedly: "Give me another half pound of your powder quick, please.

"Oh," remarked the chemist as he proceeded to fill the order, "I'm glad you like the powder. Good, isn't it?"

"Yes," replied the customer. "I have one cockroach very ill; if I give him another half pound he'll die."

Fire Chief's Report.

According to the annual report of Fire Chief Olaf Johnson, the fire losses in Superior for 1910 were $140,789.11 and the largest and most destructive blaze was the Hanna Coal dock fire. The damage to the dock in this fire was estimated at $100,000. The total number of fire alarms during the year was 315, false alarms, 10.

Factory Resumes Work.

A large number of salesmen who have been in the city during the holidays left today for their respective territories.

Candle Starts Fire.

Fire starting from a candle, which had been taken into a clothes closet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Monger, 3713 John avenue, almost completely wiped out the upper part of the house, before the South end department put out the blaze. The damage was about $300.

DOG'S LONG LINEAGE.

London Globe: It is impossible to say when dogs were first domesticated, but some of the earliest traces are found on Egyptian monuments, with figures of dogs, somewhat of the greyhound type, which date back to at least 3500 B. C. Even in those remote days the dog was highly esteemed. Coming down a little later, we read that Ulysses, 3,000 years ago, was recognized by his dog Argus after his swineherd had failed to do so.

Plutarch speaks of Alcibiades, who cut off the tail of his dog, and Myron, the sculptor, immortalized the animal by chiselling his image in marble. The Romans valued their dogs and kept them for the chase and also as pets. Alexander the Great owned a veteran fit to tackle a lion.

PUTTING IN THE TIME.

Sacramento Union: A gentleman was engaging a general man and telling him what he wanted him to do. "You will have to clean the windows and the boots and the knives and go messages, chop wood, cut short grass, mind the horse and pony, look after the garden and keep the house supplied with vegetables, and do any old job that is required, and if suitable you will get 10 shillings a week."

"Is there any clay in the garden?" asked the man.

"What makes you ask that?" asked the gentleman.

"I was thinking I could make bricks in my spare time," said the man.

When The Stomach Stops

Working Properly, Because There Is Wind In It, Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to Set It Going Again.

A Trial Package Free.

The doctors call it flatulency, but unprofessional folks know it as "wind on the stomach," and a most distressing state of things it is. It is a serious condition of this great motor organ. Always annoying and painful in the extreme, at times often leading to bad and fatal results. The stomach embarrassed and hampered with wind cannot take care of its food properly and indigestion follows, and this has a train too appalling to enumerate. The entire system is implicated—made an active or passive factor in this trouble and life soon becomes a questionable boon.

All this is explained in doctor books: how undigested food causes gases by fermentation and fomentation in which process some essential fluids are destroyed—burnt up—wasted by chemical action, followed by defective nutrition and the distribution through the alimentary tract of chemically wrong elements and as a consequence the stomach and entire system is starved. Plenty of food, you see, but spoilt in preparation and worse than worthless.

A deranged stomach is the epitome of evil; nothing too bad to emanate from it, but the gas it generates is probably its worst primary effect and the only way to do away with this is to remove the cause. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets go to the root of this trouble. They attack the gas-making foods and render them harmless. Flatulency or wind on the stomach simply cannot exist where these powerful and wonderworking little tablets are in evidence.

They were made for this very purpose to attack gas making foods and convert them into proper nutriment. This is their province and office. A whole book could be written about them and then not all told that might be told with profit to sufferers from this painful disease, dyspepsia. It would mention the years of patient and expensive experiment in effort to arrive at this result—of failures innumerable and at last success. It would make mention of the different stomach correctives that enter into this tablet and make it faithfully represent all.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not alone intended for the sick, but well folks as well; for the person who craves hearty foods and wants to eat heartily and run no risk of bad effects, they act like a charm and make eating and digestion a delight and pleasure. They keep the stomach active and energetic and able and willing to do extra work without special labor or effort. Don't forget this. Well people are often neglected, but the Stuart Dyspepsia Tablets have them in mind.

A free trial package will be sent any one who wants to know just what they are, how they look and taste, before beginning treatment with them. After this go to the drug store for them; everywhere, here or at home, they are 50 cents a box and by getting them at home you will save time and postage. Your doctor will prescribe them; they say there are 40,000 physicians using them, but when you know what is the matter with yourself, why go to the expense of a prescription? For free trial package address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

The week will be a busy one and several hundreds of visitors are expected.

MAYOR WILL NOT SIGN CONTRACT

Crookston's Head Does Not Agree With Council on Paving.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor McKinnon announced today that he will withhold his approval from the contract for the asphalt paving which was awarded the General Contracting Company of Minneapolis, at the meeting of the city council last Tuesday evening.

He will not give his reasons, though he will submit a written opinion to the council which will be considered at the next meeting to be held a week from next Tuesday, and in this his action is proper, as it should go to the council first.

He arrived at this conclusion after a careful consideration of the plans and specifications for the work as prepared by the city engineer, and the bids given. The General Contracting company bid $2.13 per yard and P. McDonnell of Duluth, $1.90, on exactly the same work. Some of the councilmen also thought the bid of the General Contracting company was for a job exactly similar to the asphalt which has been in use here for many years. This is not the case, however, as the surface only is the same, but the foundation is cheaper.

Mayor McKinnon believes the councilmen will look at the matter just the same as he does upon close investigation, and as there is a total difference of about $2,800 in the two bids, it is believed that the matter will be settled in a manner satisfactory to all in the very near future and with the utmost harmony.

OWNS A GREAT COW.

Alexandria Man Has Animal That Is Great Producer.

Alexandria, Minn., Jan. 16.—L. Kellogg of this city owns a cow which he considers a pretty good producer. Some time ago Mr. Kellogg gained the impression that his cow was doing rather better than the average. He conceived the idea of testing out her capacity as a butter maker. He weighed the milk for some time and found that the cow was giving a strong forty pounds per day. At the same time Mr. Kellogg began weighing the butter made from the cream. He kept this test up for thirty days and at the end of that time Mrs. Kellogg had made from the one cow's cream sixty pounds of butter. The butter was all made from hand skimmed cream. This progress, it is generally considered, does not take all the cream from the milk. Besides the cream converted into butter, the table was amply supplied during the thirty days. Mr. Kellogg made no estimate or guess of the amount of butter made, it was all weighed when ready for the market. The cow received no extra care during that time. She was fed her regular ration and was cared for in the usual manner.

THAWING HOUSE IS BLOWN TO PIECES

One Hundred Pounds of Dynamite Explodes at Crystal Falls.

Crystal Falls, Minn., Jan. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—About 100 pounds of dynamite exploded in the thawing house, located about 100 feet away from the dry at the Hollister mine Friday night. The house caught fire and was burning when the explosion occurred.

The cause of the fire is a mystery. Supt. Scadden was at the place less than an hour before the explosion occurred and all was well then.

One man was slightly injured. He was changing in the dry in front of a window and flying glass cut him. Windows were badly broken on the location and some glass was broken at the Armenia. The shock was felt in the city, a distance of four miles.

Baking Helps

Learn to Regulate the Heat of Your Oven

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

There is just one way to make your cakes rise high and keep an even surface. Have your oven moderate at first, until the cake is fully risen; then increase the heat, so as to brown it over quickly. Extreme heat stiffens the dough. If you stiffen the outside of the cake before the rising is complete, you stop the rising process. Then the leavening gas, forming inside, will bulge up the center, where the dough is still soft, and spoil the shape of the cake.

NOTE—Biscuits or other pastries made from stiff dough, that are cut into shapes for the oven, bake in a hot oven. This is because the cut surfaces of the dough do not sear over, but rather leave the pores open, allowing the leavening gas to escape and the heat to penetrate readily. Small ovens cool quickly; therefore they should be made several degrees hotter than a larger oven, and the less the door is opened the better. Do not attempt to bake bread and pastry together. Bread requires prolonged, moderate baking—pastry the reverse.

Have a strong underheat for baking powder preparations, especially pastry.

These are only a few of the many baking helps found in the K C Cook's Book—a copy of which may be secured by sending the colored certificate taken from a 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the JAQUES MFG. CO., Chicago.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

RUMBLINGS OF BATTLE

Interesting Conditions May Develop at Meeting of Minny League.

Duluth May Be Party to Invasion of Association Territory.

(BY BRUCE.)

Jack Desmond will represent the interests of the Duluth Baseball association at the meeting of the Minnesota-Wisconsin club owners, which opens at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Arlington club, Winona. From the present indications the gathering will be one enlivened by some very interesting doings.

There will be a fight made on the guarantee, that is assured, and it is hinted today that something even more exciting than the guarantee will be introduced into the debate. News comes here presaging a fight for the organization of a new league, which will be the first move in a baseball war between the minors and the American association.

It has been given out flat footed that the men from the Head of the Lakes are ready and willing to force an entrance into the Twin City territory, should the magnates of the association finally decide to turn down the application for permission to invade, and in the event of such a happening the first gun in the long rumored baseball war may be fired.

There is nothing like frankness in this world, and right here it is said that it looks like Frank E. Force for president. John Desmond will go to Winona pledged for Barton and will make a fight for A. W. Kuehnow, should Kuehnow make a fight for the presidency. As between Force, Ritchie and Melnery, Desmond will cast his vote for Force.

As Barton seems to have raised the wrath of the somewhat misinformed writers at the other end of the circuit, by stating the truth, it may be that he is out of the race. It looks like Force, and the question is, what kind of a league will he have to rule after the meeting.

Duluth will have different baseball than last year, will insist that baseball is conducted along business lines, or will cease to take an interest in the game. From this point of view, it seems that the straightening out of affairs of the league, whether Duluth will continue a member or not, is of far more importance than the election of a president, right at the present time.

Several towns are inviting Duluth to join in an independent movement. It may be that Duluth will step out at the meeting tomorrow. Winnipeg is said to be game for an invasion of the Twin City territory, while men at Virginia have stated that they are ready to hitch up with Duluth in any movement that suggests a strong baseball combination.

Much Invasion Talk.

You can't blame men for looking for territory where there is money. It will be remembered that the American league invaded Chicago, New York, Boston and other cities, and that it is generally understood that the American association in turn is preparing an invasion of the American league and National league territory, and that teams will be placed in Chicago and Cincinnati within a year. If this is the line up, as several longheaded individuals have stated, some of the more enterprising baseball men around these parts might take the initiative and jump into the A. A. territory, whether the Cantillons and Lennon crowd would or would not have them.

Any revision of present baseball conditions is likely to get Duluth into better baseball company. The dope is that with the invasion of major league territory, one of the Twin Cities will be dropped from the American association, that the city dropped will go into the Western, of which the Twins were original members, and that Duluth will also slip into the Western with one of the Twin City teams.

This is all rumor, but baseball men have to take chances. The Duluth men will never get anything by sticking by the Minny league. Jump and take a chance of catching some drift wood.

The writer, for one, has the hunch.

WHYTE RINK LOOKED UPON AS LIKELY WINNERS

DINHAM MAY MAKE THE OLDER CURLERS GO SOME

"Billy" Dinham, it is expected, will make some of the older heads go some to carry off the trophies at the bonspiel which began this morning at the rink of the Duluth Curling club. Last year he made quite a showing. They have all heard of "Billy" and he is known as one of those curlers who never give up no matter how many he is "down."

FORTY-EIGHT RINKS ARE ALREADY ENTERED

Big Northwestern Bonspiel Promises to Be Most Successful Affair.

Ice in Perfect Condition—Play Begins in Opening Events.

There are forty-eight rinks registered so far for the big annual Northwestern Curling bonspiel, which was formally opened at 11 o'clock this morning on the rinks of the Duluth Curling club.

Part of this morning was taken up with the draw for the Duluth Curling club event, the Bagnell-Wilde system being used, which provides for the playing of a preliminary round.

It is expected that several rinks will be added to the registration. There are several that had not been heard from late this morning, which are expected to be here. Many of the curlers came on the morning trains, and it will be late when the draw is completed and preparations made for play, as club attendants were busy this morning getting stones, brooms and other property of the visiting curlers from the depot.

Practically all of the famous skips are here. Bob Dunbar is on hand, and as usual is attracting the attention of the other curlers, for Bob's coming is always an event that is greeted with formality. West Duluth, Superior and the range towns have a strong representation in the registration of rinks.

Ray Withrow will be manager of the bonspiel, and according to the excellent management of Harry Hurdon, every detail of the preliminary arrangements has been completed and the big spiel will be in full swing before noon.

Ice in Good Condition.

The ice is in excellent condition. It is in the finest shape it has been the present season, and the weather is ideal for curling. Every indication points to be the most successful bonspiel ever held in the Northwest.

Duluth curlers were at the clubrooms early this morning greeting the earliest of the visitors to arrive. The Winnipeg bunch is here in force, many of them wearing the Scotch caps and gay colors. St. Paul and Minneapolis curlers are also prominent among the earliest to reach the rink. The St. Paul people are confident of carrying off some of the honors.

Winnipeg is very strong, according to the early morning talk.

Preparations have been about completed for the big banquet of Wednesday evening. It was announced this morning that there will be over 200 curlers present at the dinner. It will start at 6:15 instead of fifteen minutes later, as it was originally announced, according to the statement of Charles Brewer, and the banquet will be followed by informal speeches and an entertainment that the committee is not ready to announce at the present time.

The office of Secretary Poehler will be transferred to the clubhouse, as was announced this morning, which will facilitate the disapatch of business. The secretary and his assistants were the busiest persons associated with the preliminary arrangements, completing the registration and the draw for the Duluth event. Every detail will be completed this morning, and the big event under way.

LEADERS IN HOCKEY LEAGUE WILL MEET.

Standing of League.

	W.	L.	Pct.
Big Duluths	1	0	1.000
Fairmonts	1	0	1.000
Adams	1	1	.500
Kodahpa	0	1	.000
Park Points	0	1	.000

The Big Duluths and the Fairmonts, leaders of the City Amateur Hockey league, are scheduled to meet tonight at the French rink, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Second street. Both teams won the first games which they played this year in the league series, and the contest should be interesting throughout. The Big Duluths won the pennant last year and are hard after it again. The Fairmonts have some good men and promise to give them a hard race.

The Adams team shows up strong in defensive playing but are not showing the best scoring ability. The Kodahpas have some of the city's stars in their lineup, but need practice. The Park Point team has shown good form and ought to improve.

Wednesday the Kodahpas will meet the Park Pointers and Friday the Adams will contest with the Fairmonts.

Deaths Due to Gases.

Winnipeg, Jan. 16.—A coroner's jury at Bellevue, Alta., has reported that the death of thirty-one miners, who lost their lives in the Bellevue mine, Dec. 19, was due to poisonous gases, engendered in the mine following a rock slide. The blame is placed to the negligence of the operators and the miners.

Is Jeff Really Planning Another Match With Johnson?—American Wrestlers and Hackenschmidt—The Curlers Are With Us.

(BY BRUCE.)

Do you suppose that Jim Jeffries is doing a little preliminary stuff before he works up interest for another fight with Jack Johnson?

Hardly anyone would seriously consider another fight between the two men. But here we have the repetition of the drug story, the statement from Tex Rickard that he is willing to stage the fight, and Barney Oldfield's statement about the wonderful endurance shown by the big fellow, causes a mild curiosity at least regarding the future frame that some one may be planning.

There is not a man in sight whom the public believes can give the champion a fight. Kaufman should prove only mild exercise for the Johnson person, if he is anything like his former self. Langford looks the most formidable man in sight, and should he beat Burns, it may be that the big black will have to meet him.

For some reason Johnson does not seem to hanker after the Langford lad. Burns wouldn't draw with Jack, and if Kaufmann, Langford and Burns are considered unable to cope with the big Buffalo, who have we left?

Jeff might come out and state that he was sick before the Johnson fight, which he was, by the way, and present many reasons for an return engagement with the only man who ever defeated him. He might do that, understand. It is hardly to be thought that such a lineup will ever go very far, and yet from certain things that have been said recently, one might be pardoned in idly wondering whether they were attempting to persuade old Jeff to seek another fight with the much hated hero of Reno's recent disappointment.

Not much progress has been made in the wrestling entanglement. Big Hackenschmidt continues to monopolize the attention of lovers of the sport throughout the length and breadth of the country. He is the biggest card in the wrestling world at the present time.

If Frank Gotch comes out, naturally he will command all the attention, admiration and almost hero worship that his wonderful ability entitles him to. Frank is a marvel at the mat game, and aside from his athletic ability, a genial gentleman and a man of intelligence, with the dress, conversation and manners of a prosperous American business man.

In fact, the able Iowan is a business man of rare ability, and even when he was rather green at the wrestling game, showed ability to handle his affairs; an ability that was at times very discomfiting to his managers.

The American people are hoping that Gotch comes out, for he is perhaps the greatest card the mat has ever produced. Harking back to the earlier days of Muldoon, Whistler, Evan Lewis, Tom Cannon, Tom Jenkins and the others, no where do we find a mat artist of the ability of Gotch. He is the first American grappler we have produced who has been able to cope successfully with the great European stars. His defeat of Hackenschmidt, while tragic it was, made him a hero, for very few of his warmest admirers believed he could defeat or even hold off the wonderful Russian.

There is no doubt that the match was unsatisfactory. Thousands of mat fans would howl with real delight at the announcement of a return battle, for battle the first match was. It should be the greatest contest of the age.

If Gotch is out of the game, where will this country find a successor to the marvel from Humboldt? Henry Ordemann, the large and modest Norwegian of Minneapolis, probably the greatest of the American school, who is slowly cleaning out the strongest competitors for the American crown, is perhaps the best man of the native mat stars.

Gotch has repeatedly stated that Henry is the greatest of the Americans, and a wrestler who will show a wonderful amount of improvement in the next two or even three years. Ordemann just came out last season, meaning that he really just broke in, and his wonderful progress the present season stamps him as the greatest prospect on the mat.

Ordemann will meet Hackenschmidt at Minneapolis, Jan. 17, and if he puts up a great contest against the wonderful Russian, the performance will stamp him as a man to be reckoned with in the future. In Minneapolis they believe the big Norsk has a chance of victory, so great has his improvement been the present season.

Westergaard, Cutler, Roller and Americus are others of the great American stars, never forgetting little Freddy Beell, if the most wonderful of all little men should come out of retirement. There is no discounting Fred; he is one of the marvels of the wrestling world, in some respects the greatest grappler the world has ever produced.

Those who know of that private match he wrestled Tom Jenkins, when Tom was in his prime, and Fred was just coming, remember what little Fred did to Tom on this occasion. The gamblers behind Jenkins, an elenept, by the way, that has been divorced from the game, would not stand to see their money lost, and little Beell was thrown into a brick wall and disabled.

A man who saw that contest informed the writer that Beell made Jenkins look like a mutt. It is a well known fact among wrestlers that for years Gotch feared Beell as he feared no other living wrestler.

Up here in this city we have a man who should make a national name. The bitterest enemies of Karl Lehto have admitted on numerous occasions that the young Finn had every element that goes to make a champion, save a thorough and deep knowledge of the game. Langford looks the most formidable man in sight, and should he beat Burns, it may be that the big black will have to meet him.

For some reason Johnson does not seem to hanker after the Langford lad. Burns wouldn't draw with Jack, and if Kaufmann, Langford and Burns are considered unable to cope with the big Buffalo, who have we left?

Today we have with us, ladies and gentlemen, as guests of our city, the visitors from many neighboring cities, the salt of the earth, the best fellows who make the annual bonspiel an event to be eagerly looked forward to, the curlers, the boys with brimming hearts and beaming countenances. Again let us rise to our feet and give them the keys of the city.

While they are with us let us make them feel that they are the welcome guests, that their visit has been anticipated and that we are out to give them the time of their lives. They are with us, ladies and gentlemen, and let us combine, plot, plan and devise ways and means to make their trip to Duluth one long to be remembered.

They are jolly good fellows, the best in the world. We have been welcoming them, fellow citizens, these many years past, and once more let us get together and make the occasion of their visit the most successful in the history of Northwestern curling.

Their presence inspires us with joy and that feeling which chases dull care to the burrowing hole of oblivion. They have come for a good time, and pray let us furnish the sinews of war. Fellow citizens, break forth from the busy habit long enough to make the welcome to the curlers one that you will take some part in. On this auspicious occasion we are here to provide, create and to mirthfully bubble forth radiant happiness. Let us all get in the game and make the occasion one that will be talked of around the hearts of every curling club in the big Northwest.

Our next speaker will discuss the folly of carrying a persevering peeve.

COMEDY BILL AT THE ORPHEUM

Howard and Howard Feature Program in Yiddish Songs and Dances.

A red-clad young Jewish boy who sings a Yiddish song and does a Yiddish dance kept two big Orpheum audiences in roars of laughter yesterday.

The youth in question is Willie Howard of the team of Howard and Howard, who are the headliners on one of the best comedy bills yet shown in the new theater.

The new show is pretty much all comedy and Howard and Howard more than hold their own in this free-for-all laugh contest. Willie is the "porter" in "The Porter and the Salesman" duo, his brother appearing as an immaculately clad traveling salesman. Both of the brothers have voices that are far above the average and their singing is a very pleasing feature of their act, but it is Willie's Yiddish dances that make it the tremendous hit that it is. They stopped the show yesterday while the audience insisted on repeated encores.

Probably next in popularity to the headliners were Lola Merrill and Frank Otto. Their success is largely based on the most contagious smile exhibited by Mr. Otto, who is a clean-cut looking youth, and the dainty appearance of his partner, Miss Lola Merrill. Their act is one of those fresh, bright and snappy turns that has the appearance of having just stepped off Broadway. There is nothing shop-worn about either their clothes, their jokes or their songs. Done by less attractive performers their act might not be much of a success, but that engaging smile ought to make the average matinee girl leave home, and Miss Merrill is about as attractive a young woman as has been seen on the Orpheum stage in many weeks.

Fred Singer adds a touch of variety to this comedy bill, his act being one ot two that are not built for laughing purposes only. He calls his turn "The Violin Maker of Cremona," and it gives him an excuse for presenting impersonations from famous violinists, including Kubelik, Paglini, Sarusate and Remenyo. His changes require only a few seconds and he plays the selections for which these violinists were most famous. His Kubelik makeup was not good, although no fault could be found with his playing or the mannerisms. His Remenyo was probably his best impersonation, as any one who has heard this famous artist will testify. In spite of his English name, Singer is a foreigner and unable to speak English. His selections consisted entirely of the so-called "classical music," some of them being quite technical, but he was one of the hits of the show with the Sunday afternoon audience and will doubtless be even more popular during the week.

Harry Linton is a familiar name. Mr. Linton is an old-time producer of popular price attractions and is quite a well-known figure in the show world. He has a clever little sketch which he ought to know better than to call "In the Piano Store." Such a title conjures visions of uniformed performers playing countless instruments, but it is far from that. It is a most amusing little turn, which is featured by two good comic songs, a very good burlesque acrobatic dance by Miss Laurence and some good comedy. There isn't a xylophone in the act or any sign of a set of musical sleigh bells. The only thing that needs to be changed in the act is the name.

Jimmy Barry is about as well known in vaudeville for his "rube" characterizations as Rose Melville is in "the legit." His act this year is known as "At Hensfoot Corners."

He wrote the act himself and he and his wife and daughter are appearing in it. The Barrys are old-time favorites with Orpheum audiences are always relied on for a laugh. Their act this year is about as good as anything they have done.

The Gus Onlaw Trio presents one of those big nickel plated, bespangled foreign acrobatic acts, with some distinct novelties. The trio is composed of two men and a woman. The men balance themselves on their hands on some elevated platform and hold a wire in their teeth, on which wire the woman performs, playing a guitar, walking and riding a bicycle. It is about the last word in an acrobatic line, and the costumes and stage fixtures are most elaborate.

Four frolicsome and frisky little acrobatic dancing act by Frank and Rose Gordon opens the show. Gordon keeps things moving with some odd tumbling and real acrobatic dancing and a capital acrobatic waltz makes a good finish to the turn.

The usual Orpheum motion pictures close an excellent bill, which will continue all week, with a daily matinee.

A COMEDY HIT AT THE EMPRESS

All-Star Bill Featured By "The Happy Medium" Is a Treat.

Clayton Kennedy and Mattie Rooney nearly broke up the show yesterday at the Empress theater when they put on their one-act playlet "The Happy Medium."

What the happy medium has to do with the play is not explained. It would be a great deal more appropriate to call it the farthest limit but that really makes but little difference as the act is a riot of laughs from start to finish. It is one of those boisterously merry, hilarious knockout comedy acts that gets you giggling at the beginning and develops that first laugh until you are weakly hanging on to one arm of the seat.

As the original department store bundle of mirth, Mr. Kennedy is the goods. He is an actor, an acrobat, a contortionist a dancer and a piano-player all in one and he goes from one to the other with such lighting-like rapidity that it is difficult to remember all that he does in the short while that it takes to put on his act. "The Happy Medium" is just a bunch of fun that Mr. Kennedy and Miss Rooney seem to be having all to themselves, with the audience let in on it. Mr. Kennedy dances, attempts to sing, Kennedy dances, attempts to sing, plays and dresses each up with a lining of funny stuff that gets across in perfect safety. He is assisted by Miss Rooney who is good to look at and can dance and sing and change her clothes equally well.

The Empress bill this week embraces as good a line of vaudeville as has been seen in Duluth in some time. It is one of those whirlwind, go-with-a-rush-bills that give you no time to wonder what is coming next.

Miss Itala opens the show with an equilibristic novelty that is not only new but prettily staged. The young woman lets the audience see her first upside down and the audience at once decides that she is good looking. She does all sorts of balancing on the top of the brilliantly lighted stand. A mighty clever dog also figures in the act.

Manning and Ford call themselves the ginger boys, and if that means that they can dance and are not afraid to boldly assert the same, no one will enter into a dispute with them, for their feet are certainly well trained. These young men have a something-doing-all-the-time act that would make a good many old-time dancers sit up and take some interest. They have a lot of new steps and they spring them.

G. Herbert Mitchell tells stories and sings. G. Herbert didn't make much of a hit when he came on, but he is of the kind that grows on you, and you finally like him whether you want to or not. His stories are funny and his songs are worth hearing.

The Finneys, James and Elsie, father and daughter, the original Finney swimmers, give a performance that is extremely interesting and entertaining. One stunt is particularly good, that of diving for coins. Mr. Finney throws a bunch of coins into the tank and picks sixty-four of them up in his mouth without coming up from under the water. He then slumbers under water for 2 minutes and 15 seconds. They also eat and drink under water. His daughter Elsie is a very graceful swimmer.

It would be hard to beat the show at the Empress this week. There will be three performances daily, one in the afternoon and two each evening.

"THE LION AND THE MOUSE."

Old Time Favorite Pays Return Visit to the Lyceum.

"The Lion and the Mouse," an old favorite with Duluth audiences, was at the Lyceum again Saturday night, yesterday afternoon and last night. An adequate presentation of the piece was given by a capable company. Although the drama has been on the stage for some years, it has lost none of the power which caused it to leap into public favor when it was first presented. Conditions such as Charles Klein wove into the play have been exposed more generally in the past few years than they had been at the time the play was produced and the lesson is just as forceful now as it ever was.

The company which appeared this year is headed by Morris Burr, as John Burkett Ryder, the lion, and Miss Bessie Lee, as Shirley Rossmore, the mouse. Miss Lee is a winsome young woman with a proper conception of the requirements of her role. She did not overdo, which is very easy in the role, nor did she fail to come up to the heights of dramatic power required of her.

Morris Burr is an accomplished actor. He made John Burkett Ryder the true money king with the weight of a nation on his shoulders. He gave him the snappy, time-saving voice, the gruffness to cover his better nature and, with the touches of a master actor, brought the unrelenting despot to the feet of the clever girl.

The company was a capable one, on the whole, an especially good characterization being given by Arthur Verner as Hon. Fitzroy Bagley, private secretary to Ryder.

The engagement ended last night.

NEW ULM BREWER DIES.

Otto Schell, Public Spirited Citizen, Victim of Choking.

New Ulm, Minn., Jan. 16.—There is general regret here over the sudden death Saturday of Otto Schell, president of the August Schell Brewing company and one of the most public spirited of citizens, who expired suddenly during a fit of choking.

Mr. Schell was 50 years of age, born and raised in this city and has always been one of the most active workers in the affairs of the public. Besides his position in the brewing company, which was founded by his father and is one of the best known institutions in the state, Mr. Schell was president of the New Ulm Stone company, president of the park board and president of the Brown County agricultural society. He was prominent in politics and, although a brewer, was a strong advocate of temperance.

His home, which is near the brewery, is surrounded by a large park and together with the grounds and buildings is one of the most interesting sights in New Ulm. He kept a large herd of deer in the park that is one of the sights which all visitors to the city make it a point to see.

Mr. Schell is survived by a wife and two children, his son Walter, 15, and a daughter, Miss Cleveland Frederich of Springfield, Minn.

RHEUMATISM

PAINFUL & DANGEROUS

Rheumatism is due to a diseased condition of the blood cells and corpuscles, brought about by an excess of uric acid in the circulation. It is not only a very painful disease but an extremely dangerous trouble. The briny, acrid state of the blood gradually forms a coating over the muscles, and by depositing a cement-like substance in the joints frequently terminates fatally, or leaves its victim a hopeless cripple. It is natural to "doctor" the spot that hurts, and it is quite right to use liniments, hot applications, etc., to get temporary relief from a painful joint or swollen tendon; but Rheumatism is not a skin disease, and such things, when depended on alone make one careless, and the disease gets a firmer hold on the blood. S. S. S. cures the disease because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It goes into the circulation, and removes every particle of the irritating uric acid, builds up the blood, makes it rich and oily, and in this way prepares it for the proper nourishment of all joints, muscles, nerves and bones. If you have Rheumatism, get the uric acid out of the blood by taking S. S. S., a purely vegetable medicine, and enjoy freedom from its misery. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.

PIERS FOR BIG BRIDGE

Foundation Completed for Structure on Canadian Northern Road.

Steel Cannot Be Delivered on the Site Until Spring.

Thomson & Stewart, contractors, have completed the work of placing cement piers for the new 250-foot steel bridge, which will be constructed by the Canadian Northern railway at Smithville over Stuart's creek, and have moved their camps to Munger, Minn., for similar work.

Two large cement piers and eight small ones will support the spans. It is not thought that the American Bridge company, which has the contract for the bridge construction, will be able to finish the job until spring, on account of the inability to get the steel to the site of operations.

It is probable that tracks will be laid from West Duluth to Smithville this winter and that the steel needed at Stuart's creek will then be forwarded to its destination. The American Bridge company, which now has several crews at work at the head of the Lakes, will then rush the bridge to an early completion.

Several small bridges and culverts have been constructed along the right-of-way between the tunnel cut at Short Line park and the terminals at West Duluth. The bridge over Stuart's creek, however, will be the only one this side of the tunnel to be constructed of steel, the others being of cement or timber.

T. B. Cambell, bridge engineer for the road, is supervising the work and has designed the bridges and culverts.

FOUR IN RACE FOR ALDERMAN

Interesting Fight Is in Prospect at West Duluth.

Thorgier F. Olsen, a local newspaper reporter, officially entered the spring aldermanic contest, as an independent candidate from the Eighth ward by filing a petition with the city clerk late Saturday. The paper had 108 signers.

As has been predicted, the affair from now on will take on the form of a four cornered fight, Mr. Olsen being the last one to enter the race. The other candidates are: Otto Krueger, Republican; David Sang, Democrat; and Charles Stevens, Public Onwership.

That Otto Krueger, the Republican nominee, will carry the up-river district by a substantial plurality, is generally conceded. His greatest support, it is said will be at New Duluth and Smithville. He figures it that he will also hold his own in the eastern end of the ward and is confident of victory.

David Sang, Democrat, is making a strong fight. Ever since the primaries, he has been campaigning industriously and claims to have a good line on the situation. He is also confident of winning at the general election.

Charles Stevens, Public Ownership candidate, has also been busy electioneering. He is as well known to West Duluth people as the other candidates having lived in the Eighth ward for the past twenty years. He also expects to get elected.

T. F. Olson, the last to enter the race, is not standing on any particular issue. In politics, Mr. Olsen is Republican, and he is making a strong bid for a seat in the council on the argument that the Republicans should elect a man to represent them who lives in the eastern end of the ward.

HUGE RECORD BEFORE COURT

Over 11,000 Pages in Oil Case Staggers Justices.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Members of the supreme court of the United States have balked at reading the entire record in the dissolution suit against the Standard Oil company. The court today entered into the fourth day of oral argument in the case.

It takes twenty-two large volumes of more than 500 pages each to tell the history of the litigation. Spread out in a line, these volumes extended half way across counsel's table in front of the court. As the gaze of Chief Justice White fell upon them, he inquired of John Milburn, who was talking for the Standard Oil company if it would be necessary for the court to go over the entire record. Mr. Milburn replied that it would not. He asserted that within the two covers of the Standard's brief had been collected all the facts that were in controversy. The same might be said with regard to the government's brief, he added. The latter had been prepared with such genius, however, as to make it somewhat unfair from the point of view of the defense, he said.

Frank B. Kellogg, the government's special "trust buster," informed the court that only the government's brief told the cold unbiased facts.

The court let it be understood that it probably would refer to the record frequently in digesting the briefs.

SNOW HAMPERS LOGGING.

Upper Michigan Concerns Find Work in Woods Difficult.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The snow is so deep in this portion of Upper Michigan that logging operations have been greatly hampered and in some instances have been entirely suspended. Many idle woodsmen have come back to the towns, having been laid off by the companies employing them and which have found it impossible to get their timber to the skidways. The season is proving a most disastrous one for the loggers. According to the weather bureau reports, the snow is much deeper in this region than in any other part of the United States. It ranges all the way from two to six feet on the level. The operation of the Manistique railway, extending from Grand Marais to Curtic, has been abandoned and will not be resumed until spring, if even then.

General Secretary of Seamen's Union Uncommunicative on Strike.

London, Jan. 16.—Joseph Havelock Wilson, M. P., general secretary of the National Seamen's union, is uncommunicative on the subject of the suggested strike of seamen at all British ports and possibly of those engaged in the American Atlantic coastwise service. He refused to confirm or deny the report that coronation week has been fixed upon as the time when the men will go out.

Benjamin Tillett, secretary of the Dock, Wharf, Riverside and General Workers' Union of Great Britain and Ireland, however, insists that undoubtedly the strike will be declared and that all American and German, as well as British ports, will be involved. Tillett threatens that when the plans are completed no time will be given to the ship owners in which to prepare for the emergency. A complete tie-up will be effected within twenty-four hours, he says.

FLOATING CHURCH SAILS TO NEW LOCATION

One of the picturesque features of the water front of New York has been shifted to a point where few visitors to the city will see it. It is the only floating church and it used to be moored at the foot of Pike street in the East river. It was conducted as an adjunct to the Seamen's Church Institute and services were held in it every Sunday. But the water front of new York is less infested with sailors than it once was, or else the sailor is growing less Godly, for the church services were so poorly attended that a day or two ago the Church of Our Savior set sail from Pike street and made landing at Mariner's harbor, Staten Island. At Mariner's harbor is a home for aged seamen, who no doubt will find the floating church a solace and diversion.

BODIES FOUND IN THE BASKET

Ballonists Lose Lives By Drowning in Prussian Lake.

Berlin, Jan. 16.—The German balloon Hildebrandt which had been missing since its ascent at Schmargendorf on Dec. 29, was found in a lake in Pomerania province, Prussia, today. The bodies of both aeronauts were in the gondola.

It had been believed that Dr. Roehrs and his companion had met death in the Baltic sea, the balloon having taken that direction on rising. The aeronauts had planned a forty-eight hour aerial voyage and nothing was seen of them after the start, though an airship thought to be the Hildebrandt was sighted passing over Hoeganaes, Sweden, Jan. 4.

THE RAJAHS OF BUSTAR.

The Rajahs of Bustar are hybrid Rajpoots, claiming to be of the family of the moon, and have reigned in Bustar for between 500 and 600 years.

The family bears the name of Rathputty, and every year the rajah has to sit on the Rath at the festival of the Duseerah wearing the jewels of the goddess Dunteswarree, the tutelary goddess of the state, which are brought from Dantewara temple for the purpose.

"Save for the jewels he is clad only in wreaths of flowers, saws a writer in The Wide World, "and when we saw him he looked very solemn—almost ashamed of himself—as he passed us.

"In conection with this ceremony there used to be a brutal custom of dragging the Rath, a huge sort of juggernaut weighing many tons, over the bodies of live buffaloes, often only partly killing them.

"This horrible practice we determined to put an end to, and through the priests my husband sent an order to this effect to the palace the day before the ceremony. Of course we always respected their religious ideas as far as possible, but this was too much.

"The senior Ranee, the practical ruler of the state till we arrived and a very clever and imperious old lady, sent to say, after much argument and hesitation, that the new order should be obeyed, and we breathed more easily.

"During the evening, however, we got information that this was only a blind and that she and the priests were determined to carry out the usual brutality. My husband accordingly sent for the head men of the police force and gave them strict orders that on no account was the buffalo crushing to be permitted. If it occurred, he said, he would cease to be administrator next day.

"We spent a sleepless night and a very anxious morning. Fortunately we had some very loyal Mohammedan constables, headed by a faithful inspector, Ahmed Hussain Khan, and these men were told to accompany the procession. My husband had a further contingent, with the elephants—the best means of dispersing a riotous mob—were ready to act if required.

"The procession was accompanied by thousands os people, and at one point of the route an attempt was made to carry out the juggernaut ceremony, but, thanks to the firmness of the police and some respect for the administrator's orders on the part of the leading men, the Rath proceeded to its destination, a small temple about four miles off without the loss of a single life, man's or beast's. It was a great triumph for the British Raj and made us feel we had not been sent to Bustar for nothing."

GAME OF CRIBBAGE HAS LASTED EIGHT YEARS AND IS NOT YET FINISHED

THE PLAYERS IN THE MILLION POINT CRIBBAGE GAME, Ward, Neidig, Loper and Heaton.

Four men whose combined ages cover more than 270 years are playing a game of cribbage for 1,000,000 points in Des Moines, Iowa. The players, all prominent men, are Milo Ward, Sam Neidig, Col. J. C. Loper and W. N. Heaton. They meet once a week at the home of one of the players and play their unique game. Though they have played for eight years and run up a score of 800,000, none of the players has ever yet held the possible "29 hand," though several "28 hands" have materialized. The players have ascertained that at their rate of playing the "29 hand" has a mathematical chance of appearing once in 100 years. They have almost abandoned hope of seeing it played before their 1,000,000 points it finished. In the novel contest, Milo Ward and W. N. Heaton are playing against Sam Neibig and J. C. Loper. There is a stake at the end of the game, but it is a sworn secret.

COPPERS DECLINE IN DULL MARKET

Values Weak and Depressed —Trading Light— Locally Active.

The copper market was dull and weak today and featureless. There was some liquidation on account of the supreme court hearings in the Standard Oil and American Tobacco cases.

The local market was fairly active. Keating was the feature, more than 3,600 shares being absorbed on an advancing market that carried the stock from $1.50 to $1.56¾ and then to $1.62½ at which price the bulk of the offerings were accepted. The little Scott sold at $1.93¾ to $2, Denn at $5, $5.06¼ to $4.93¾, Red Warrior at $1.31¼, Butte & Superior, old, at 90c, Calumet & Montana at 73c, 74c and 73c, Calumet & Corbin at 30c, Carman at 74c to 70c to 72c, Summit at 60c to 57c, North American at $2.37½.

Amalgamated sold at $64.12½, $63.25 to $63.50, North Butte at $28 to $27.50, Butte Coalition at $18 to $17.75, Superior & Pittsburg at $14, Shattuck at $22, Butte Ballaklava at $6.37½, Greene at $6.50.

Hoval A. Smith of Bisbee, Ariz., is in the city on business. He is associated in the management of several copper companies, including Live Oak, Warrior and Savanna. He said that 9,000,000 tons of ore have been shown up on the Live Oak and drills are steadily adding to the tonnage. The exploration has shown up at least 15,000,000 tons, said Mr. Smith. Ores of exceptional value have been disclosed in the Superior & Pittsburg ground in the last six months. The Shattuck is shipping and extending its ore bodies.

Concerning North Butte, Hayden, Stone & Co. say: The year just ended has been one of extraordinary development and exploratory work at the North Butte, total new openings created for the period being placed at about 18,000 feet.

Sinking at the Speculator, the main operating shaft, is in progress to the 2,800-foot level, which, however, will not be reached much before April. The Speculator claim furnishes a creditable tonnage of rather low grade ore.

Probably the most important development work receiving attention is that contemplated following the completion of the cross-cut from the Speculator shaft, now in progress, to the Edith May and Jessie veins.

The sharp decline in North Butte shares two years ago was due directly to the marked falling off in the copper values of the Edith May and Jessie veins at the 2,000 and 2,200-foot levels Since then the belief has been entertained in some quarters that with added depths these veins will disclose a zone of secondary enrichment. Should the forthcoming developments prove that such conditions obtain, North Butte will regain much of the favor it once enjoyed in circles of investment and speculation.

In the meantime the company has greatly strengthened its position for the handling and supplying of a larger ore tonnage, and should not again be handicapped as it was two years ago.

Within a comparatively brief period a new 50-drill compressor will be doing duty at the Lake property, when conditions will permit of development work on a maximum scale, which up to the present has not been possible, owing to a lack of requisite drill power. The company has also ordered a Nordberg hoist, capable of hauling a 10-ton load from a depth of 5,000 feet. This plant will be in commission by the time its services are needed.

The Live Oak company issued this week report No. 5, as of Jan. 1.

Since the last report, as of July 1, development has been exclusively by churn drilling, and since that date there have been driven 14,557 feet.

As of Jan. 1 there were thus in sight a total of 9,000,000 tons of copper ore, of which 6,000,000 tons are classed as fully developed and 3,000,000 tons partially developed, averaging 2¼ per cent copper.

It is pointed out that the cost per ton of developing this ore has been very slight indeed, and it is proposed to continue this cheap method of adding to the company's assets on a large scale.

As of Jan. 1 the company had cash on hand of $89,219. It is proposed to increase the authorized capitalization from 50,000 to 100,000 shares, of a par value of $10 each, and to offer additional stock to the shareholders from time to time, as funds are needed. Such issues will be underwritten.

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial said:

"Copper is weaker and fractionally lower. Lake is 12⅞c to 13c, and electrolytic is 12⅝c to 12¾c a pound. The statement of the Copper Producers' association, covering the month of December, was favorable inasmuch as it showed a further reduction of 8,358,874 pounds in the American surplus. This, together with a decrease of 5,494,720 pounds in the foreign visible supply, made a total shinkage during the month of 13,853,494 pounds in the world's accumulation.

"The statement was construed as unfavorable, however, it having been generally expected that the decrease in the surplus would be very much greater than it was. Exports were even larger than anticipated; but domestic deliveries were only 43,594,018 pounds, compared with 67,814,172 pounds in October. This sharp falling off is practically unexplainable. That home consumption has shrunk in anything like this ratio is incredible. It would seem that December statistics must reflect a period of delayed deliveries. If this is the explanation, there will be a very great increase in this item shown by the statistics to be published a month hence.

"Outside of America the world is consuming an unprecedented amount of copper. Exports are almost at the high record point, and notwithstanding this the foreign visible supply is steadily decreasing. I do not believe that home consumption has fallen off materially, and I anticipate that the shrinkage in the world's surplus will continue uninterruptedly. The recovery from the present period of depression, however, is likely to be much slower than has been hoped heretofore. Producers and selling agencies report a considerable increase in the inquiry from consumers since the first of the month, and there is now a good prospect that January sales will be very large."

HEAVY EXPENDITURE FOR IMPROVEMENTS IN 1910

Much of the Work Was Crowded Into Last Half of Year.

Revolving Fund Pays $257,791.89 on Improvement Contracts.

The expenditure for new improvements in the city last year was the largest in the history of the city, according to the annual report of the board of public works, which was presented to the board this morning by R. Murchison, clerk of the board.

This record was attained despite the fact that practically all the work was crowded into the last half of the year, making it difficult to manage in an entirely satisfacory manner. The board asks that steps be taken to put the fund in shape to start operations at least May 1.

The remarkable growth of the city and its great strides in the way of improvements is shown by the fact that in the face of the vast amount of work done, it did not begin to keep up with the work for which petitions were presented.

During the year $257,791.89 was paid from the revolving fund, making the total cost of work contracted for under the revolving fund since it was started, $1,861,251.42. In 1910 4.24 miles of street were graded and paved, comprising twelve contracts and 8.82 miles of sanitary sewers were built. Forty-five sewer contracts were let, totaling $73,428.10. The total cost of twenty-eight miscellaneous contracts, including sidewalk construction, sprinkling and other unclassified work, was $99,944.85. Over twenty-five miles of street were sprinkled with water and an experiment was made with calcium bicloride on London road. The latter was so successful that the board will recommend its extended use the coming year.

Stair on Avenue.

Attention is called to the improvement of Sixth avenue east, where a cement stair was built because the grade was too steep to grade. It was parked on both sides. The board suggests that other streets and avenues in similar condition can be greatly improved in the same way, adding much to the beauty of the city, whereas they are now eye sores.

The board states that the policy of allowing lateral sanitary sewer connections with storm sewers is being discontinued, as it is a menace to the health of the city, and that the council will be informed of these conditions where they now exist.

The report comments upon the success of the aerial bridge, which cost $6,328.80 to maintain during the year. The traffic has increased greatly since it was installed, but it has been a decided success, little trouble being experienced.

The expenditures of the board from other funds than the board of works fund was $70,008.85. This includes about $34,000 for lighting, $2,030.22 for drinking fountains, sprinkling, $21,656.85; advertising, $1,964.55, and assessment expenses $1,168.37. The expenditures from the works fund totaled $114,410.19, which includes maintenance, cleaning streets, the cost of the chain gang, the work at the Point of Rocks, inspections and other miscellaneous work.

FOR RELIEF OF SETTLERS

Nelson's Bill on Sale of Burnt Timber Favorably Reported.

Will Aid Those Burned Out in Forest Fires.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The senate committee on public lands today made a favorable report on Senator Nelson's bill to authorize the sale of burnt timber on public lands. This bill is primarily for the relief of settlers who were burned out by great forest fires which swept Northern Minnesota several years ago and is also so framed as to cover similar conditions in other sections of the country where great forest fires raged about the same time.

President Taft today approved the bill introduced by Representative Miller to authorize the Great Northern Development company to construct a dam across the Mississippi river from a point in Hennepin county to a point in Anoka county, Minnesota.

W. H. Stanford of Duluth is in Washington as one of counsel in the Holet and Campbell land cases, on call to be heard this week.

Representative Miller this morning escorted Joseph Dickey of Pine Island, wife and son, to the White House and introduced them to the president. Mr. Dickey and family are en route to Florida, to join the remainder of the winter in the Palmeto State.

Representative Volstead today recommended T. D. Gonlund to be postmaster at Tyler Lincoln. This is reappointment.

SCIENTISTS ARE BACK

Reach Winnipeg After Long Trip of Great Hardship.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 16.—Prof. J. L. MacCoonn, and his party of fifteen scientists, who have been on a geological survey in the Hudson Bay country, arrived here today after a trip of extreme hardship. Arriving here they finished a walking trip of 1,100 miles with the mercury registering 60 deg. below.

Capt. Harold Bartlett of the wrecked schooner Jeanie, a brother of the commander of the Peary polar expedition, and his crew accompanied the party here.

Their vessel was dashed on the rocks in Hudson bay last September during a violent storm and completely wrecked and those on board lost all their personal belongings, but no lives were lost.

After reaching land, and being supplied with food by Eskimos, a broken lifeboat was repaired, and in this they made their way to Fullerton.

The whaling schooner A. T. Gicord, which was in winter quarters at Fullerton, took them to Ford Churchild, from whence on Dec. 5 the party started through deep snow on foot for Norway House.

Sergeant Nichols of the Northwest Mounted Police guided the party safely to Winnipeg.

Thief River Falls city, the principal place in the new county, has 3,714 inhabitants, compared with 1,819 in 1900.

COMER TAKES A PARTING SHOT

Roasts Corporate Interests on Relinquishing Governorship.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 16.—Governor Braxton Bragg Comer, in relinquisting the office of chief executive of the state of Alabama to Emmet O'Neil, took a parting shot at corporate interests. He said:

"Both in congress and before the federal courts at Washington there is now going on a gigandic struggle to wrench from the vitals of the government and the people the grasp of the strongest combination of allied interests ever formed and against which every party platform, whether Republican or Democratic, gives the fullest condemnation. Never before in the history of the nation has there been such an insurrection against their selfish rule."

A CHEROKEE BALL GAME.

The ball game as played by the Cherokees is as important to them as football or any other popular game is to other people. The eastern band of Cherokees live on the Qualla reservation in Western North Carolina.

The neighborhood in which I live, writes an Indian girl in the Red Man, is divided into four main sections, namely: Yellow Hill, Soco, Big Cove and Birdtown. The Indians living in one of these sections will challenge those living in another to a game of ball. They choose their players and agree upon the time and place for playing the game. It is generally played in an open field far different from the well graded field upon which the game of football is played.

The evening before the game the Indians, the women included, hold a dance in their respective sections of the country. These dances are held in the open air, usually near some small stream. The women do the singing while the men dance. In their songs they make all kinds of remarks about those of the opposing side. These dances continue all night long. From the time of the dances until after the game the players are not allowed to eat any food.

The following day the people from the different sections gather at the appointed place to witness the game. They either sit or stand around the edge of the field. The ball players each have two sticks similar to those used in the game of lacrosse, only smaller. The ball is tossed up in the center of the field and the game begins. The object is to get it around two poles placed at each end of the field a certain number of times. They cannot pick up the ball in their hands. The players who succeed in getting the ball around the poles at the end of the field the greatest number of times win the game.

JAPAN'S "PUSH-MAN" TRAIN.

Wide World Magazine: One of the quaintest sights in Japan is the "push-man train," a little railway which runs for nineteen miles along the seacoast between Atumi and Odawara, taking four hours to complete the journey. Each car is hauled and pushed uphill by coolies, and then allowed to run down the next incline by its own momentum, the coolies jumping on behind. When skirting precipices and rounding sharp curves this becomes somewhat exciting; the sensation is rather like being in a runaway switchback car.

NORTHWESTERN BONSPIEL IS NOW IN FULL SWING

First Games Are Played in the Duluth Curling Club Event.

Many of Famous Curlers of Northwest Are in Attendance.

Shortly before noon today the big Northwestern Curling bonspiel got under full headway, the first games of the Duluth Curling club event being completed early this afternoon. The games in the 10 o'clock draw are now in progress.

Bub Dunbar stated this morning that he has a very strong rink here. He will meet Ron Smith this afternoon and one of the best games of the bonspiel is looked for.

In the games this morning Brewer's rink won from Montgomery of Port Arthur, by the score of 16 to 12. Brewer's curling was one of the features of the game, the Duluth skip making some very difficult shots.

McLennan and Chase of Superior played off in the first draw this morning, Chase winning 14 to 6. The other scores of the morning play are shown in the table.

The ice is in excellent condition, and if the curling shown in the first games today is a criterion, the sport will be the best ever witnessed at a Northwestern bonspiel.

Superior is here with nine rinks, and the people across the bay are very proud of the fact. After the victory in the Manley-McLennan trophy events, the Superior people are very confident of carrying off some of the prizes.

McDermott's rink of St. Paul is believed to be one of the strong visiting quartets. McDermott is an old curler and he has some clever curlers with him. This rink is classed in St. Paul next to the Dunbar rink, which is very strong the present season. In fact, both Dunbar and McDermott expect to make a very good showing.

The Local Rinks.

Of the local rinks Ron Smith is looked upon as the most likely to win the highest honors. Visiting curlers would not be in the least surprised to see Smith win from Dunbar this afternoon, though the St. Paul and Minneapolis delegation say that the veteran St. Paul skip is playing his best game the present year.

The games were late in opening this morning, because of the fact that most of the curlers got in on the morning trains and the registration of rinks was not completed until after o'clock. The games will continue all afternoon and evening. The draws for the Duluth event and the St. Paul Jobbers' event have both been made, but no games were begun in the latter until the 4 o'clock draw this afternoon.

Open to Public.

The curling club officials wish to have it announced that the galleries of the club are open to the public. There was a very large crowd on hand this morning, and the indications point to more interest in the present spiel than in any former curling event held in this city.

Most of the famous old timers are on hand. Bob Dunbar was the most conspicuous figure at the clubhouse this morning. Casey of Phillips, Wis., is another prominent curler here, and Conkle of Arlington, Wis., is said to be a very good man. Montgomery of Port Arthur is another man from whom much is expected, although Brewer beat him this morning.

The "Kid" Rink.

The Murray Kid rink of Minneapolis, shy one of the kids, and substituting Who Shuler, a veteran, who used to play with Sam Hastings' rink, come from Minneapolis with a great record. The Murrays are scheduled to play their first game this afternoon, and their work will be watched with interest.

Chadwick from Superior is looked upon as a skip who is liable to curl his way into the finals of some of the events. He has been showing good form all season, and the Superiorites are pulling for him to show the Duluth curlers some great work.

Atkinson of Rainy River and Sutherlund of Selkirk are two of the Canadians who come with reputations of being very strong skips. They stated this morning that their rinks were fairly strong, which is taken to mean they are pretty well satisfied. Some of the Canadians this morning stated that Atkinson may be counted on as one of the hard rinks to beat in any of the events.

Of course, Reedal of Phillips is counted upon as one of the cracks of the spiel. Reedal meets Ralph Bradley for his first game in the Duluth Curling club trophy and a great game is looked for.

As to the visiting curlers, there has never been such enthusiasm shown, according to some of the veterans who have attended nearly all of the Northwestern bonspiels. The get together spirit was shown with the earliest arrivals this morning, and it is predicted that by this evening the big show will be going with all the enthusiasm that is peculiar to the great sport.

Ray Withrow is managing the bonspiel, and so far there have been no hitches in the program. If the Duluth man continues as he started, the present spiel will be run as smoothly as the spiels conducted by Blackwood here last year, and Blackwood's work in this regard was considered a standard.

Following are the draw in the Duluth event, the morning scores, and the games scheduled this afternoon.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

CORBETT HAD MANY BLOWS

Former World's Champion Was the Originator of Punches Used Today.

Kid McCoy Started the Famous Cork Screw, a Combination Hook.

Occasionally in the dispatches from the training camps of the higher grade of boxers we read reports of new blows that are invented by this or that fighter to be used in his coming battle with the fellow for whom he is in training. But when it comes to the day of the mill the men slam away at each other in the same old way, and nothing that suggests anything like a new move materializes.

The enthusiasts on the fistic game have become tired of reading of these alleged new swats, which only exist in the minds of some overzealous young journalist, anxious to tear off something out of the ordinary for the readers of his paper.

As a mater of fact, there have been few, if any, new blows sprung on the public since the advent of Kid McCoy's corkscrew and Jim Corbett's hook. All the other so-called blows said to be of more recent discovery have proved to be nothing more or less than the old wallops used generations back under different names.

The Corbett Hook.

Some of the old-timers even claim that the hook was not new when Jim Corbett launched it in his memorable battle with John L. Sullivan. They said that Jack Dempsey used the same blow in nearly all of his fights half a dozen years previous to the Jacksonville mill.

In this our ancient friends are mistaken, however. Jack Dempsey used a regular swing, and it was almost a duplicate of the haymaker of the present day. But Jack sent it around with such wonderful speed that it looked neater and more like the hook.

Corbett figured out this blow while training for his bout with John L. He realized that the straight left for the face could be blocked with apparent ease owing to its being in such common use, so he conveived the idea of hooking the forearm as he let fly with the left from the shoulder.

This motion caused the blow to twist around the other fellow's parry and have the same effect as a right swing to the point of the paw.

Blow Puzzles John L.

Corbett landed this blow on Sullivan repeatedly, and got away without a return. Every time he started the blow John would prepare to block a straight left as he rushed in to meet the shifty Corbett, and Jim's left would describe a semi-circle around the big fellow's right glove, crashing against his jaw with marvelous accuracy each time.

Occasionally, as the fight progressed, Corbett used the left straight, and by mixing them up in this manner he had John guessing all the time.

Later on, while training for Charley Mitchell at Mayport, Fla., Corbett improved upon the hook, and in the fight he gave Mitchell a terrible lacing. Instead of being on his toes all the time as in the bout with Sulivan, Jim set himself nearly every time he let drive at the little Britisher, and his hitting was effective throughout.

He finally dropped Charley with a left hook in the third round, and when he arose to his feet again a terrific right to the jaw put him down for the final count.

Another Corbett Invention.

Another thing that Corbett invented was the perpendicular guard. Previous to this time the fighters used a horizontal parry, and it was not difficult for a swift opponent to get over it. The old timers evaded swings for the jaw by either ducking or stepping back.

Corbett inaugurated the present method of turning his hand so that the knuckles were toward the approaching blow and directly alongside of the jaw. It is a perfect block for a swing, as may be seen in many contests between clever boxers.

It is an indisputable fact that "Jim" Corbett invented most of the scientific moves used at present in pugilism. "Kid" McCoy and Tommy Ryan added to Corbett's discoveries and other skillful men launched other improvements.

Griffo, the erratic Australian, was the first boxer who evaded swings by stepping inside of them and countering straight to the face or body as he stepped in. If he slipped inside the swings went harmlessly over his head, and he had two free blows to plant wherever he pleased to put them.

Fitz Gets the Credit.

"Bob" Fitzsimmons is credited with having invented the shift owing to his defeat of Corbett by that move. Old-timers, however, will recall that George La Blanche, the marine, used the same move and the same shift blow years previous to the Corbett-Fitz fight.

He knocked out big Jim Brady with it in 1885, and later on in a bout with "Reddy" Gallagher showed the shift to perfection. Reddy picked it up from the marine and knocked out Dick Collier and Sam Bittle with it. "Buffalo" Costello also used the shift in several of his fights in the early '90s.

Fitzsimmons was the first fighter to use the inside right cross with any effectiveness. He used it when an opponent swung at his jaw with the left, and when old Bob landed with this blow the fight was over. He knocked out Jim Hall and Dan Creedon with this blow.

Joe Choynski used a short downward chop blow with which he knocked out many an opponent.

LAJOIE MAKES GREAT RECORD

In Four Different Years Larry Makes Over 200 Base Hits.

In the ten years that the American league has been a rival of the National league only three players—Napoleon Lajoie, George Stone and Tyrus Raymond Cobb—have turned the trick of making 200 or more hits in a season. The Clevelander was a double-century plant in 1901, 1904, 1906 and 1910 (Larry was with the Athletics in 1901); the St. Louisan was in this highly select class in 1906, while the thumping Tiger entered the 200-wallop-per-season society in 1907 and renewed his membership two years later.

In the campaign of 1910 Lajoie smashed all records for the American league clouters by making 227 hits. He took part in 159 of the 161 games played by the Naps. The average number of hits made per game by the pride of the Forest City was 1.43 which did not come up to his 1901 record, when the American league's expansion movement was in its infancy and when Baltimore and Milwaukee were the holders of the franchises now owned by New York and St. Louis.

Larry was credited with 229 safeties in 1901, the American leaguers then being content with the 140-game schedule. The king was in 131 battles that year, and the average number of hits he made a game was 1.88, the Johnsonites not then having adopted the foul-strike rule, and the spitball being unknown.

In 1902 no American league player made 200 safeties, "Cheerful Charles" Hickman, then of the Naps, being the top-notcher among the manufacturers of bingles and having 194 wallops to his credit. There were no double-century men in 1903, Patsy Dougherty setting the pace in making hits that year with 195. In 1905 the American leaguer who made the greatest number of safeties was George Stone, then known as George All Right and now called by the Sporting News fans George All Wrong. He got 187 drives out of the reach of the fielders. Nineteen-eight was another campaign in which no player tore off 200 or more clouts. Cobb set the pace that season with 188 safeties.

The American leaguers who have made 200 or more hits from 1901 to 1910, inclusive, are as follows:

Year. Player and Club—	Games.	Hits.	Av. per game.
1901—Lajoie, Philadelphia	131	220	1.68
1904—Lajoie, Cleveland	140	211	1.51
1906—Lajoie, Cleveland	152	214	1.41
1906—Stone, St. Louis	154	208	1.35
1907—Cobb, Detroit	150	212	1.42
1909—Cobb, Detroit	156	216	1.38
1910—Lajoie, Cleveland	159	227	1.43

Lajoie, besides possessing the honor of having made more hits in a season than any other player in the B. B. Johnson organization, past or present, enjoys another distinction. In 1901 he crossed the plate 145 times in 131 games, a record never equaled. American leaguers besides Lajoie who have scored 100 or more runs in a campaign are Mike Donlin, Jimmy Collins, Fielder Jones, Jimmy Williams, "Chick" Stahl, Ollie Pickering, Irving Waldron, Jimmy Barrett, "Dummy" Hoy, Jimmy Casey, Jack Farrell, Tommy Dowd, Ed Delehanty, Bill Bradley, Dave Fultz, "Topsy" Hartsel, Sammy Strang, Pat Dougherty, Davy Jones, Sam Crawford, Matty McIntyre, Donie Bush, Eddie Collins and Ty Cobb. The full list of American leaguers who have scored 100 or more runs in a season, from 1901 to 1910, inclusive, follows:

Year. Player and Club—	Games.	Runs.	Av. per game.
1901—Lajoie, Philadelphia	131	145	1.11

GARIBALDI'S HOME.

Glasgow Herald: There is in Caprera a peculiar scent of cesin and incense baked in the sun, and it is precisely this sun, not as in Africa, which brings out the aroma of the lentisk of the low growing pines and of the myrtles.

The pungent perfume of these island shrubs explains the desire expressed by Garibaldi in all his wills (not excepting the last in 1877) to have his body burned on a funeral pile of the wood of the island "before letting any one know of his decease," in the open air, his face turned to the sun like Pompeius, and then to have the ashes placed in the wall behind the tomb of his little grandchildren, Anita and Rosita, and beneath the shade of a leafy acacia.

But when he died his will was disregarded by friends and relations, and against this profanation Glosne Carducci, the greatest of modern Italian poets, has protested—a protest approved by the most eminent men of science and of the democracy. Thus the body of the hero was embalmed and placed in a tomb covered by an enormous block of Caprera granite and inscribed on it only the name, Garibaldi.

A tomb worthy indeed of the hero and which reminds the visitor of the modest grave of Gladstone's father in the little cemetery at Leith near Edinburgh. Garibaldi's resting place is in an olive wood between the general's house and the seashore. Five other tombs surround his now, those of Menotti and Manlio, his eldest and his youngest sons; of his daughter Teresita, wife of Gen. Canzio, and of Rosita and Anita. A sailor of the Italian navy mounts guard at the tomb.

In his home at Caprera Garibaldi rose very early in the morning and with his hat well pulled down over his eyes proceeded by a tiny footpath to a prominence and thence admired the wide view of sea and horizon. After his morning walk he returned home in a cheerful frame of mind, had a kind word for everybody and went with the peasants to look after the cultivation of his fields.

During the last years of his life being crippled hand and foot by arthritis he seldom left his room, but he sat with the windows open and the sparrows hopped in and took food from his hand. On his deathbed he had the windows opened to let two little tame tomtits into his room. He generally dined at noon, then played a game of draughts; after that he dictated his correspondence or some lines from memory, retired to bed at 9 and there read his favorite authors.

WHEAT OFF; FLAXSEED UP

Values Decline on Profit-Taking and Milder Weather in the Southwest.

Foreign News Bearish---America Again Becomes a Flax Buyer in Argentina.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 16.—Wheat declined today. May lost ¾c and July receded a similar distance. Cash wheat was 1c under May. Rye and barley were unchanged, oats gained ½@¾c, durum went off ¾c. The weather in the winter wheat region, it is predicted, will be warmer. Nebraska may get snow.

Flaxseed was stronger. May gained 3c to $2.61 and cash seed was $2.61, also the closing cash price at Minneapolis. Winnipeg May closed $2.50 bid, a new high record for flaxseed in the Winnipeg market. Prices have about 20c to go here before a new market is established. Crushers were moderate buyers. Offerings are scarce and receipts are small. There is no possibility that they will increase materially. La Plata linseed for January-February shipment was quoted at Antwerp at $2.24 a bushel. The United States is reported to be a buyer of Argentine seed again.

It probably would be in error to say that the bull campaign has collapsed. It is safer to say that on account of a lack of leadership and an absence of scientific generalship the desertions from the ranks of the bull army have been large and the front of the bull cohorts, which seemed impenetrable a few days ago is now considerably riddled. The bull movement has met with a temporary setback. Its future success will depend to a large extent on the progress of the winter wheat plant. There has been a lack of moisture in the winter wheat states and the plant is in a deteriorated condition. The snow line has been moved further north and there are great stretches of winter wheat in Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri, say reports, which are without proper covering. The winter has been unusually cold. To what extent the plant has been affected by the rigors of the severe winter is [illegible] tical as it is too early to judge the extent and the nature of the damage.

With the professionals inclined to desert the bull side until more definite news arrives from the winter wheat country, values were put downward today under pressure from profit takers. The selling was not heavy but the market did not get any support. Confirmed bulls were well protected and they were content to see values subside so they could get in again at a lower level.

The news was bearish. There was no new factor. The developments consisted in the culmination of certain factors which have been brewing for some time and which might have been expected. These were the pressure to sell wheat by the countries which have just grown moderate crops and which have wheat to sell at lower prices than this country or Canada. Offerings from the Argentine republic were large and cheaper. Russian shipments were unexpectedly larger. There was pressure to sell Australian cargoes. Argentina and Australia promise to be liberal offerers of wheat. The increased Russian shipments are of especial significance to the United States. This country cannot export any wheat until the Canadian surplus is out of the way. That surplus probably will not be sold unless Russian shipments decline. If Russia continues to send wheat out heavily there will be very little opportunity for this country to become an exporter of wheat outside of the amount included in brands of flour which have a world-wide sale. Because of the bearish foreign news the Liverpool market closed lower and affected the opening sale which was off from Saturday's close. The unexpected increase in wheat on passage and world's shipments contributed to the weakness abroad. The reported decrease of 625,000 bu in the visible supply of wheat in this country and Canada did not have much effect. Values stiffened perceptibly and then eased off again.

Receipts of wheat at country elevators in the Northwest are negligible and the interior movement is at a standstill. Even if the weather were not so unfavorable it is not likely that the movement to elevators would be larger as farmers are disposed to hold their wheat. In North Dakota supplies in farmers' hands run from 10 to 25 per cent. Owing to the diverse reports from stations it is manifestly impossible to arrive at an accurate estimate of the wheat in first hands. In territory where the crop was poor supplies on the farm probably average 12 to 15 per cent to 20 to 25 per cent in regions where the yield of wheat was good.

The stocks in the Northwestern primary markets overshadow those of last year amounting to 18,120,302 bu, compared with 6,169,401 bu a year ago. Minneapolis decreased 362,000 bu last week to 14,229,554 bu. Duluth increased 219,350 bu to 3,890,748 bu. In two days of the current fiscal week Minneapolis stocks decreased 190,000 bu.

The Flour Situation.

In the last week the flour trade not only has advanced, but it has maintained the improvement without undergoing a setback. The upward movement of millers' quotations has been steady, so that present prices are from 15c to 25c a barrel higher than a week ago. The change is due wholly to the condition of the wheat market, which in the last ten days has shown considerable strength and activity in speculative operations. At both Minneapolis and Duluth prices are several cents higher than two weeks ago and 9c or 10c up up from the low levels of last month.

In the flour market the feeling is improved and both buyers and sellers are talking more encouragingly about the situation and the outlook. Much greater interest is displayed, the demand for flour is improved and the volume of business is greater. The general situation is helped by the increase in the retail movement, supplies moving with greater freedom in the channels of consumption. The retail trade is inclined to anticipate a little further in the future in placing orders, an attitude that it has not maintained toward the flour market in several months.

Mills reporting to The Herald say that most of the new business received is from buyers who have run out of flour and who are prepared to book orders for immediate shipment. There apparently is as much disinclination as previously to buy in advance of requirements and a certain amount of hesitation all around about buying until it is determined whether or not the advance in wheat will hold. The best feature of the last week was noticeable increase in shipping instructions. Those who have flour coming to them and who have been slow about ordering it out on account of the declining market of the last six months and their own ability to move what stocks they had on hand, are more inclined to meet their engagements. With these accumulations out of the way improvement in the general situation undoubtedly will result.

Six dollars for standard spring patent is asked by some mills, and $5.90 and $5.95 by other Minneapolis producers. At $5.95, the price quoted for one of the most popular brands, there is an advance of 20c from the lowest open price previously asked for the same flour. Advances on the prices ruling a week ago range from 15c to 20c per bbl. These quotations, however, have not been established by sales, and are important only as showing the tendency of the market. It is not claimed by sellers that they are obtaining them. In fact, sellers are not getting much of an advance from the lowest prices recently made. Very little flour has been or can be sold at over $5.70 per bbl, though if the firmness of the situation is maintained it is reasonable to expect that improvement in business will continue, and that prices will be actually established on the advanced basis. The way things are shaping themselves, it would seem to be good policy for buyers to take advantage of any reactions.

As high as $5.30 and $5.35 are quoted for fancy Kansas flour by some mills, and for standard $5.10 to $5.25 per bbl for supplies in sacks. But while the market is firm from the millers' standpoint, it is not possible to make sales at the prices quoted, and it is said that no business has been recently accomplished at prices within 20c of what is now asked. Buyers are still indifferent to offerings of Kansas flour, having still on hand and coming to them supplies that are not giving satisfaction.

Soft winter wheat flour is higher and difficult to quote, the range of quotations being wide. Many millers will sell only for immediate shipment, and on this basis it is difficult to move supplies just now. The interest in soft winter is largely in offerings of New York state mills at $4.35 to $4.50 per bbl. Ohio and Indiana mills generally quote extreme prices and are not in the running. For winter wheat patents from $4.70 to $5.10 is quoted.

There is entire absence of export business in flour, and as foreign markets have been rather indifferent to the advance on this side, American millers are hopelessly out of line, and the prospects are that this situation will continue indefinitely.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: The wheat market opened easy at ¼d decline and following the opening prices further declined ⅝d to ¾d. Selling was in the way of realizing on the weakness in American markets on Saturday, larger Russian shipments than expected, freer and cheaper Argentine shippers' offers. There was also pressure to sell Australian cargoes and the general market lacked support. At midday there was a weak undertone with prices ⅝d to a penny lower than Saturday. Corn opened ¼d to ⅜d lower. Following the opening the Plate grade held unchanged with American grade further declined ¼d, thus making ⅝d decline since Saturday. Parcels of American were pressed for sale and it is feared that the market has been overbought. The spot demand was very small.

A. D. Goodman said he probably would reduce flour prices 10c before the day was over.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Larger Russian Shipments Than Expected Depress Wheat Prices.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—Larger Russian shipments than looked for had a depressing effect on wheat prices today. Liverpool also reported freer and cheaper Argentine offers, with much pressure to sell cargoes from Australia. News was at hand, too, that beneficial rains in North India assured a good harvest. Moderate temperatures throughout the winter wheat belt of the United States were likewise regarded as favorable to the bear side of the market. The market opened ¼@¾c to ⅝c lower. May started at $1.00⅝ to $1.00¾@⅞, a loss of ⅝@½c to ⅝c, but rallied to $1.00⅞@1.01.

In the last half of the day tired owners tried to unload, but found that the market had support only at much reduced figures. The close was weak with May at $1.00¼@1.00⅜, a net loss of ⅞@1c.

Expected liberal receipts of corn put the bulls on the defensive regarding that cereal. May opened ½c to ⅝c down at 45⅝c to 45¾c and steadied at the last named figures.

The market slumped with wheat, but rallied because of reports that the European hog supply had been nearly doubled. The close, however, was weak, with May ½c down at 49¼c.

Oats were slow, and were dragged under by the influence of other grain. May started a shade off at 34½c, and sold at 34⅝@⅞c.

Liquidation in butter and eggs gave a somewhat heavy tone to the market for hog products, but not so much as many traders thought probable. First sales were 2½c lower to 5c higher with May options at $15.97½ for pork, $19.02½ for pork, $10.02½@10.07½ for lard and $10.00 to $10.02 for ribs.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Liberal Receipts and Heavier World Shipments Make Wheat Easier.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 16.—The wheat market was easier again today. Liberal local receipts, heavier world shipments than expected and a falling off in the cash demand caused a decline. Minneapolis was relatively weaker than outside markets. May closed ⅞c lower than Saturday and July ⅞@1c lower. Local elevator stocks of wheat decreased 140,000 bu for two days. Minneapolis today received 490 cars of wheat against 504 a year ago; Duluth 25 against 100 and Winnipeg 19 against 99.

May opened $1.08 to $1.07⅞; high, $1.08; low, $1.07¼; closed, $1.07⅜. July opened $1.08¼; high, $1.08½; low, $1.07⅝; closed, $1.07⅞@1.08.

Cash wheat easier on account of heavy offerings and not as active demand. Mills and elevators both buying. No. 1 northern sold in a range of 1c above May to ½c below. Closing cash prices: No. 1 hard, $1.08½; No. 1 northern, $1.06⅜@1.08; to arrive, $1.06⅜ to $1.08; No. 2 northern, $1.04⅜ to $1.06½; to arrive, $1.04⅜@1.06½; No. 3 wheat, $1.02⅜@1.05; No. 3 yellow corn, 43¾@43½c; No. 3 white oats, 31c; No. 2 rye, 80½@81c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,984 tons. Market held firm. Demand strong. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $21.00@21.50.

Flour—There was no notable change in the flour market today. Demand fair for patents and slow for clears. Prices firm, shipments 57,855 bbl. First patents, $4.96@5.35; second patents, $4.85@5.25; first clears, $3.35@3.75; second clears, $2.35@2.95.

Flax—Receipts, 18 cars; year ago, 71; shipments, none. Demand continued strong for both spot and to arrive, closing, $2.61.

Barley—Receipts, 122 cars; year ago, 133; shipments, 35. More liberal receipts; not such an urgent demand and a weaker Chicago market made the malting barley 1@3c lower than Saturday. Feeding grades held steady. Closing range, 62@90c.

South St. Paul Livestock.

South St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 16.—Cattle—Receipts, 1,000; market generally steady to 10c lower; stockers and feeders, strong to 15c higher; steers, $4.00@6.50; cows and heifers, $2.25@5.00; calves, $3.00@7.75; stockers and feeders, $2.35@5.25. Hogs—Receipts, 5,100; market strong; range, $7.65@7.75; bulk of sales, $7.70@7.75. Sheep—Receipts, 1,700; market 10@15c lower; sheep, $1.00@5.00; lambs, $2.00@5.75.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Close Heavy With Prices Fractionally Below Saturday's Figures.

Movement Is Generally Narrow and Devoid of Significance.

New York, Jan. 16.—The stock market today opened irregular with a sprinkling of nominal gains and losses, the latter predominating. Some strength was shown by Lehigh Valley, but this was offset by declines in New York Central and other active issues. Trading was light except in United States Steel and Reading.

Spasmodic efforts to stiffen the market by bidding up special stocks such as Lehigh Valley, Norfolk & Western and the Rock Island group were defeated by persistent selling of the professionals, who met every rally with considerable stock. New York Central, Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting lost a point below Saturday's closing and other active issues a large fraction.

Professional selling was inspired by reports of expected unfavorable developments at Washington. Some comment was also made about the large increase in the number of idle freight cars and the large reduction in the outstanding short interest by the recent sharp advance. Saturday's favorable bank statement apparently did not arouse any great public procession in the market for dealings continued to be almost wholly professional. The Moore-Reid stocks were supported but some sharp declines were effected at other points. During the latter part of the morning there was a moderate covering movement, which rallied the list a good fraction. Bonds were irregular.

The market closed heavy. Talk of an increased dividend on Norfolk & Western accounted for the heavy buying of the stock and the 4 per cent convertible bonds, both issues selling above 104. International Paper preferred also made a sudden upward spurt of over 2. Elsewhere the movement continued narrow and devoid of significance, with prices ruling fractionally below Saturday's final figures. Bull leaders professed some satisfaction in the dullness of the market on the decline.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case, Alworth building.

Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 16.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 3@9 points in response to easier cables, and during the early trading sold off to a net loss of from 10 to 11 points, under scattering liquidation and local bear pressure. Private cables from Liverpool claiming somewhat easier offerings of spots seemed to offset Saturday's bullish advances as to the firmness of interior Southern markets, but while local professionals were evidently against prices, the market received some support from leading bulls at the decline and fluctuated during the middle of the morning irregularly, at a recovery of 3@4 points from the lowest.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points lower; middling uplands, 14.80; middling gulf, 15.05. Sales, 2,300 bales. Futures closed steady; closing bids: January, 14.52; February, 14.63; March, 14.64; April, 14.84; May, 14.93; June, July, 14.93; August, 14.62; October, 13.31.

HAIRCUT FOR AN EMPIRE

Feb. 14 Is Date Set for Removal of Chinamen's Queues.

Wu Ting Fang Will Visit the Barber on That Day.

An imperial decree has been issued to all celestials in Duluth that on the sixteenth day of the first month of the third year of the reign of Suen Hung, the present emperor, they are to part with their queues.

After wearing a braid for about 250 years John Chinaman has come to the conclusion that it is a nuisance and a—it would hardly do to say "a relic of a barbarous age." China has awakened to the fact that its advancement has been retarded by the way it wears its hair, and the whole empire it going to have a haircut. The matter has been agitated for some time by leading Chinese, among them Wu Ting-fang, former minister to the United States.

Sets Time For the Cutting.

A cablegram has been sent out by the government of China announcing the date for disposing of superfluous appendages. The message reads:

"His excellency, Wu Ting-fang, having given the matter deep consideration, has come to the conclusion that the most auspicious time for the removal of the queue will be the sixteenth day of the first month of the third year of his imperial highness, Suen Hung. On that day, therefore, he will order the barber to cut off his queue."

The date in the Chinese calendar corresponds with Feb. 14 in the Gregorian calendar, the Chinese new year falling on Jan. 30.

"It is a good, sensible idea," was what Hung Chin, employed in a West Superior street restaurant, said, in effect, his broken English being translated by the reporter. "I had my queue cut off several years ago and I don't know that I ever felt the loss of it. It is no good, anyway, and it makes lots of work for the weaver. It has got to be braided every day and washed once or twice a week and that's no small job."

"The Chinese did not always wear a queue. This fashion of wearing the hair was introduced by the Mantchoo dynasty about 250 years ago. The Mantchoorians, or Mongolians, as they are called, had more hair than they knew what to do with. In some way they seized the reins of government and the first thing they did was to issue an imperial order that every Chinaman must wear a queue. Before that the Chinese wore their hair like the Japanese and Coreans. If a Chinaman refused to wear a queue his head was chopped off. He was compelled to adopt the Mantchoorian style of wearing the hair.

"Heaven" Story Myth.

"It is a common belief among Americans that the reason a Chinaman doesn't cut off his queue is that he thinks he cannot enter heaven without it. That's only a story. Chinamen, the world over, will welcome the decree to cut off their queues. In Duluth there is a Chinese population of about 100 of which about one-fourth have no queues. The other three-fourths, with few exceptions, will climb in the barber chair on Feb. 14 and say, "Give me a haircut."

EXPLAIN PLAN OF MERGER

Directors of C. & A. and S. & P. Issue Statement to Stockholders.

Directors of the Calumet & Arizona and the Superior & Pittsburg companies have issued a statement as of Jan. 10 to stockholders explaining the desirability of a merger of the two copper companies.

The directors point out that the properties are contiguous and that the shafts are so situated as to be mutually beneficial, that the ores of both would be conserved and more economically produced and that the amalgamated company's stock would have a greater standing in the financial investment world than the individual stocks of both companies.

The communication says the directors recognize the difficulty of placing a value on the property of the two companies. The appointment of L. D. Ricketts and James S. Douglas as examiners of the two properties is told of and the plans of merger, formulated with the engineers' report as a basis, are detailed as follows:

"1. That the organization of the Calumet & Arizona Mining company be used as the basis of the merger by increasing the authorized capital stock from 250,000 to 650,000 shares of the par value of $10 each.

"2. That one share of the increased capital stock of Calumet & Arizona Mining company be exchanged for three and one-half shares of present outstanding capital of Superior & Pittsburg Copper company.

"3. If 50 per cent of the stock of Superior & Pittsburg Copper company is deposited for exchange prior to April 1, 1911, the board of directors of Superior & Pittsburg Copper company will declare to its stockholders a dividend equal in the aggregate to two and one-seventh times the aggregate of all the dividends Calumet & Arizona Mining company may pay its stockholders between Aug. 15, 1910, and April 1, 1911.

"4. To amend the articles of incorporation of Calumet & Arizona Mining company to make the number of directors ten and elect Henry R. Rea of Pittsburg, as the new director."

In order to carry out the plans a special meeting of stockholders of the Calumet & Arizona will be held at Warren, Ariz., Feb. 15, when the articles of incorporation will be amended as recommended.

Holders of stock in the Superior & Pittsburg are requested by the directors to deposit their certificates with the State Street Trust company of Boston, Mass., for exchange. After 50 per cent of the stock of the Superior & Pittsburg has been deposited the dividend to stockholders will be declared and the exchange of the stock made.

When all of the stock of the Superior & Pittsburg has been exchanged there will be outstanding 628,571 shares of Calumet & Arizona, leaving 21,429 shares in the treasury.

Australia Fails to Renew Mail Service at Canada's Request.

Melbourne, Australia, Jan. 16.—Andrew Fisher, premier of Australia, made a statement today concerning the cablegram, which he received from Sir Wilfred Laurier, premier of Canada, in which the latter expressed regret that Australia had declined to renew the Vancouver and Australia mail service with calls at Auckland and Sydney. In his message Sir Wilfrid added that as a consequence of the commonwealth's attitude Canada had decided to enter into a contract with the Union Steamship company of New Zealand for a five years' service between Canada and New Zealand.

Premier Fisher stated that the Australian government did not decline to permit the New Zealand call, but that Australia was unable to enter an arrangement under conditions that would have had the effect of subsidizing a trade competitor. He said the shipping companies for their own profit must establish a service between Canada and Australia providing for calls at Honolulu and the Fiji Islands.

ABOLITION OF STATE EDUCATIONAL BOARDS IS FAVORED BY KUNZE

Is Preparing Bill Providing for State Board of Education.

Would Take Charge of All Educational Work, Except University.

Rural School Commissioner One of Features of the Plan.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St Paul, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sweeping changes in the administration of the educational institutions of this state, involving the abolition of the state normal school board and all other boards of similar kind, except the board of regents of the state university, are contemplated in a bill which W. F. Kunze of Minneapolis, chairman of the house committee on education, is preparing for introduction later in the week.

Mr. Kunze is keenly interested in educational matters, having until recently been superintendent of the Red Wing public schools, and he has given a great deal of thought to this subject, the fruit of which is the measure which is now being worked into final shape for introduction in the legislature.

His bill will provide for a state board of education, to consist of five or seven members to be appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the senate. The terms will be long, probably five years, and only

SHOTS FIRED AT PREMIER

M. Briand Unhurt While M. Mirman Gets Bullet in Leg.

Paris, Jan. 17.—Two revolver shots were fired at Premier Briand in the chamber of deputies this afternoon. He was unharmed.

M. Mirman, director of public relief, received one of the bullets in the leg.

This is the second recent assault upon the premier. On Nov. 20, in the course of the ceremonies in the Tuilleries gardens in connection with the dedication of a statue of Jules Ferry, M. Lacour, a royalist struck M. Briand twice in the face with his cane. The premier was not seriously injured. Lacour subsequently was sentenced to three years imprisonment. Seven months earlier a workman named Duplanil, armed with a brace of revolvers and a knife, was arrested as he attempted to force his way into a hotel at Cainte Ftianne where the premier was stopping. The prisoner was thought to have been unbalanced mentally. His grievance was the premier's attitude in the electoral campaign.

TWO HARBORS ASKS RELIEF

Taxpayers Burdened Because Railroad Property Escapes Local Taxation.

Similar Situation to That in Duluth, Only in Worse Degree.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. M. K. Knauff, mayor of Two Harbors, is here conferring with Senator Cheadle and Representative N. S. Hillman of Two Harbors to see if there isn't a possibility of getting through at this session legislation that will relieve the situation in communities in which, as in Two Harbors, the greater part of the property is owned by railroads and is therefore exempt from local taxation and assessment.

This is the same problem with which Duluth has wrestled, so far in vain. In Duluth one-fourth of the property, or thereabouts, in proportion to valuation, is owned by railroads and is therefore exempt from local taxation and assessment under the gross earnings tax law. The city is compelled to provide police protection, fire protection, street improvements and all other

CENTRAL BANK OPPOSED IN ALDRICH'S FINANCIAL PLAN

INQUIRY IS PROPOSED

Into Affairs of the North Dakota State Treasurer's Office.

Resolution Mentions Rumor That Shortage of About $60,000 Exists.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Investigation into the affairs of the state treasurer's office is proposed by Representative Nels W. Hawkinson of Ramsey county in a concurrent resolution presented to the house yesterday afternoon. The resolution reads as follows:

Whereas, It is represented that a shortage of $60,000 and upwards exists in the funds belonging to the state of North Dakota in the state treasurer's office, and

Whereas, Cognizance of said matter must be taken by this assembly; and

Whereas, If such condition exists or has existed such action should be taken by this legislative assembly to prevent a recurrence thereof; be it therefore

Resolved, By the house of representatives, the senate concurring, that a committee be appointed, consisting of three members from the house of representatives and two members from the senate, for the purpose of examining into such matter and ascertaining if any change in the law relating to state funds is necessary; be it further

Resolved, That the committee shall

TWO CHILDREN FATALLY BURN

Boy, Aged 6, and Girl, Aged 6 Months, Perish Near Frazee.

Frazee, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The home of Elmer Botts, living near here, was completely destroyed by fire yesterday morning and his two children, a boy aged 6 years and a girl aged 6 months, perished.

Smelling smoke, while she was upstairs dressing the children, Mrs. Botts started to investigate and becoming panic stricken when she discovered part of the house burning fled to the barn to notify her husband and hired man who were milking. The children attempted to follow but perished. By the time the men arrived the house was wrapped in flames and attempts to rescue the children fruitless. The house was burned to the ground.

The origin of the fire is unknown.

PROVISIONS OF SCHEME

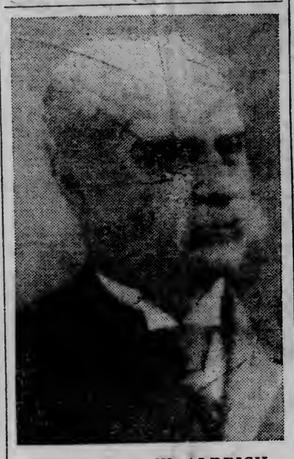

Establishment of Reserve Association of America Proposed.

Federation of Local Associations Formed By National Banks.

Washington, Jan. 17.—Senator Nelson W. Aldrich's long-awaited "plan for the revision of the national banking legislation," as he himself calls it, was made public today. It does not contemplate the establishment of a central bank. It is so far from what most people have expected Mr. Aldrich to propose, that those who have not been in his confidence, may look upon it as a notable surprise.

The plan was submitted today to the national monetary commission at a meeting called for the purpose, but Senator Aldrich was not present. There was a suggestion almost of the tragic in the fact that when the hour came for the formal promulgation of what Senator Aldrich is known to regard as the crowning constructive effort of his life, he was hundreds of miles away, speeding to the South on a compulsory search for health. His communication was presented to the commission

DEMOCRATIC OPPORTUNITY

Governor Harmon Says the Party Must Now Make Good.

People Have Turned to It for Redress of Their Wrongs.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 17.—Prominent Democrats from all sections of the country, invited to take part in the Jackson Day celebration of the Democratic victories of 1910, gathered in Baltimore today. Governor Harmon of Ohio led the vanguard of incoming Democrats. He was met at the train by a distinguished committee.

The greatest throng of the out-of-town contingent will arrive later in the day when a special train will be run from Washington for the special benefit of senators and representatives.

Governor Harmon was the principal speaker at the afternoon meeting at the Lyric. He said:

People Turn to Democrats.

"The people have turned to us, so far as they can at this time, and they have done it with full knowledge of our views on the tariff. They know we believe the raising of public revenue to be the proper object of all taxation; that whatever the process, the government can and does tax nobody but its own citizens, from whom comes every dollar it gets; that tariff taxes, being laid on articles for consumption, apportion themselves among the people

MINE WORKERS OF AMERICA GATHER

Annual Session Begins at Columbus With Lewis Presiding.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 17.—The United Mine Workers of America met in annual session today at Memorial hall. About 1,200 delegates from all over North America were present when President Tom L. Lewis rapped for order and introduced John Y. Bassell of the chamber of commerce, Mayor Marshall and Judge Long, all of whom welcomed the miners to Columbus.

The convention had scarcely gotten under way when there were indications of trouble over the bringing of the convention to this city, but President Lewis emphatically declared that he would not favor or consider any motion to move the convention to St. Louis, Indianapolis or any other city.

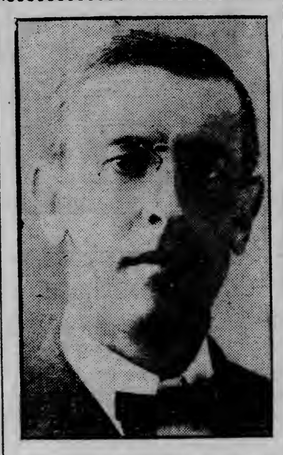

SWEEPING REFORMS IN LEGISLATION FAVORED BY GOVERNOR WILSON

Woodrow Wilson Urges Tasks That Are Evident and Pressing.

Employers' Liability, Direct Primary and Revision of Taxation Methods.

Abuse of the Privilege of Incorporation Should Be Prevented.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS OF PROGRESSIVE TYPE

—Copyrighted by George Grantham Bain.
WOODROW WILSON, Democratic Governor of New Jersey.

STRIKING UTTERANCES BY GOVERNOR WILSON

"Corporations are organizations which have proven very useful, but which have for the time being slipped out of the control of the very law that gave them leave to be and that can make or unmake them at pleasure. We have now to set ourselves to control them, soberly but effectively, and to bring them thoroughly within the regulation of the law.

"Our law with regard to the relations of employer and employe were framed for another age which nobody now living remembers. New rules must be devised for their (employes') protection, for their compensation when injured, for their support when disabled.

"I would urge the imperative obligation of public policy and of public honesty we are under to effect such changes in the law of the state as will henceforth effectually prevent the abuse of the privilege of incorporation which has in recent years brought so much discredit upon our state.

"Scrutiny and regulation ought also to be extended to corporations already operating under the license and authority of the state.

"Our whole system of taxation, which is no system at all, needs overhauling from top to bottom.

"Our primary laws should be extended to every elective office, and to the selection of every party committee or official.

"It is estimated that most of the food supply of the people of Northern New Jersey and half the food supply for New York city is kept in cold storage warehouses in Hudson county, N. J., awaiting the state of the market. The result is not only to control prices, but also to endanger health. I earnestly urge that the legislature push some effective law of inspection and limitation to enactment."

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 17.—Governor Woodrow Wilson today assumed the duties of chief executive of New Jersey and delivered his inaugural address.

Sweeping reforms in legislation, "not the foolish ardor of the sanguine or too radical reform," the governor says, "but merely the tasks that are evident and pressing," are urged. Chief among

Expected to Give Sensational Testimony in Schenk Trial.

Prosecutor Fails to Have Newspaper Man Excluded.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 17.—Lundy Wilson, the Schenk chauffeur, is expected to testify for the state today in the trial of Mrs. Laura F. Schenk, charged with poisoning her husband, John O. Schenk. Wilson, it has been said, drove Mrs. Schenk at times when a man other than her husband accompanied her on motoring trips.

At the opening of court today the presence of a newspaper correspondent whom Prosecutor Handlan wanted excluded on the ground that his paper misrepresented the situation, caused discussion. Handlan declared the headlines in the paper misrepresented the detective-nurse, Mrs. Zoeckler. The correspondent was allowed to explain his position before the court, and he was permitted to remain.

Rev. G. W. Way, the spiritualist minister whom Mrs. Schenk is alleged to have consulted, according to Nurse Evans, and who said Schenk would die before Christmas, was absent.

Mrs. Zoeckler was again called to the stand.

CLAPP EASY WINNER IN SENATORIAL ELECTION

Even Majority of Democrats Cast Their Votes for Him.

Hillman of Two Harbors Votes for Socialist Candidate.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

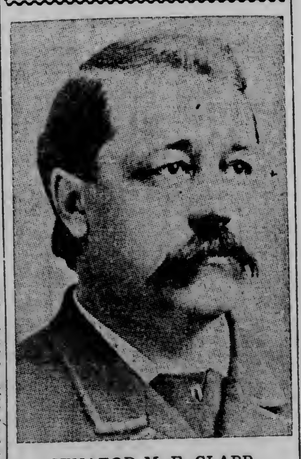

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Moses E. Clapp was an easy winner as expected, in today's senatorial election, even a majority of the Democrats voting for him. In the senate the vote was 55 for Clapp, 4 for R. T. O'Connor of St. Paul and 3 for Congressman W. S. Hammond of St. James.

In the house the vote was 106 for Clapp, 9 for O'Connor and 1 for Thomas Van Lear, Socialist candidate for mayor of Minneapolis at the last election, who was proposed and voted for by Representative Hillman of Two Harbors. A Democratic caucus held this morning resulted in no action, except that Senator Schaller and Representative J. R. Keefe stated that they had letters from A. C. Weiss of Duluth asking that his name be not used; and there was a tacit agreement that most of the Democrats, whether pledged or not, would vote for Clapp.

The nominating speeches were brief. Senator Dunn of St. Paul named Clapp in the senate, Senator Handlan proposed O'Connor and Senator Works named Hammond. In the house, Representative Orr of St. Paul nominated Clapp. A strong seconding speech was made by Representative Knapp of Chisholm. Representative O'Brien of St. Paul nominated O'Connor. Tomorrow the legislature in joint session will confirm today's election.

VISITS HIS OLD PARISH

Bishop Corbett's "Lecture" Develops Into Friendly Talk With Friends.

Tells Them of Indian Frauds and His Work at Crookston.

Rt. Rev. Timothy Corbett, bishop of Crookston, visited his old parishioners of Sacred Heart cathedral last night. The big auditorium in the Cathedral school building was crowded with people, among whom Bishop Corbett labored for twenty years before his elevation to the episcopate last spring, and when he appeared in the hall, the enthusiastic round of applause was ample evidence of the esteem in which he is held by his former parishioners.

Bishop Corbett was down for a lecture. As he said himself, among old friends anxious to know of his labors in his new field, he couldn't talk on any ordinary subject of the lecture stage. Instead, he talked of himself, his labors, the diocese and parishes under his charge.

Bishop Corbett went into detail in telling of his travels over his diocese, a vast territory still in the early stages of development. His address was interspersed with stories rich in humor and his audience was kept in almost constant laughter over his sallies. It was a family gathering of parishioners and the bishop entered into thes pirit of a pastor talking to old friends.

Indian Frauds.

Bishop Corbett explained the present trouble over Indian lands in the White Earth country. He said that the half-breed Indians were given the right to sell their allotments and much fraud resulted, through unscrupulous dealers buying the allotments for very little money, under cover of alleged mortgages, options, etc., of which the Indians knew nothing. Seeing the half-bloods with money and assuming princely airs, he said, some of the full-bloods claimed white blood also, with the result that 600 fraudulent sales of allotments were uncovered. White settlements intruded on the reservations, liquor was introduced and trouble resulted.

The bishop paid a high tribute to the Catholic priests and sisters laboring among the Indians of Northern Minnesota. He told of the work of Father Aloysius, Father Roman and other priests, whose hearts are in the work of bettering the conditions of the Indians, many of whom are still in a primitive state. Many, however, are cultured, educated, devoted to music and arts and displaying all the tastes and customs of civilization.

Teaching Lo to Farm.

"With an experimental station of an acre and a half, Father Roman has taught the Indians under his charge agriculture and livestock raising and he is doing a great work among them," said the bishop.

Bishop Corbett said that he has the distinction of having in his diocese the only full-blooded Catholic priest in Minnesota. The priest was educated in Rome and in capabilities, education and theology, he measures up to the standard of the white priests of the state.

The speaker touched on the Indian character in detail, relating stories of their superstition and tenacity to old customs. He said that under the tutelage of priests and sisters, who have worked untiringly among them, they are giving up their pagan gods and pagan customs, are adopting Christianity and civilization and of a high standard and many of them are striving to emulate their white brothers in the better things while avoiding the vices.

In the fertile Red River valley and the border country, which is fast being settled, a great empire is being developed, said the bishop, rich not only in agricultural resources, but rich in good, Christian manhood and womanhood. The Crookston diocese will develop, he said, temporarily and spiritually, and the state has reason to be proud of the district."

one will expire each year, so that it will be impossible for any governor to overturn the board if he desires to do so.

The state board of education will take over full charge of all educational work in the state except that of the state university, which will remain in the control of the legislature and the board of regents. The state normal school board, the high school board, the public school library commission the boards in charge of the state public school at Owatonna and the school at Faribault for the deaf, dumb and blind, will be abolished, and their functions taken over by the single central body. The state superintendent of public instruction will be placed under the board, and will be appointed by it instead of by the governor, as at present.

Two main results are sought: First, to correlate all state educational work; second, to remove all such work from politics and local considerations. The board will be non-partisan, and will be paid only nominally; perhaps only its expenses, perhaps a per diem and expenses while actually at work. These details are not yet worked out.

"Our system of public education," said Mr. Kunze yesterday, "has grown up by degrees, and necessarily is a patchwork. There is overlapping of energy and expenses and a division of responsibility that works against both economy and efficiency. The state, under this system, is not getting the returns that it should get from the energy and money expended."

Rural School Commissioner.

One interesting feature of the proposed change is the provision for a rural school commissioner who shall be an expert fully conversant with rural school problems and with the best and most modern ways of meeting them. It will be his duty to keep in touch with the rural schools, and particularly to advise with and assist county superintendents of schools. At present there appears to be an utter lack of co-operation between county superintendents. Each must work out his local problems as best he can, and the result is that during the greater part of the first term of a new superintendent, his time is taken up with getting in touch with conditions and working out ways of governing them. Through the medium of the commissioner of rural schools, each county superintendent would be put in touch with the best and most successful methods that have been worked out in this state and elsewhere, and would be informed of what was being done in other counties by other superintendents. In short, the commissioner of rural schools would be a sort of clearing house for educational information that would be of great benefit to county superintendents and to the rural schools in their care.

Another valuable provision is that authorizing the state board of education to employ experts in various lines for such time as their services would be needed. If it were desired to extend technical training, an expert in that line would be employed to direct the work. If it were desired to put school building on a more systematic basis, an expert in school building would be temporarily employed.

The measure promises much, and it is certain to attract great interest among educators and lawmakers.

Spooner Water Supply Bill.

The Spooner water supply bill, briefly described in these dispatches yesterday, was introduced in the house this morning by Representative Lewis C. Spooner of Morris, who will follow it in a day or two with the so-called Mershon inland waterway development bill, which Mr. Spooner introduced two years ago and put through the house with but one negative vote, and which involves the creation of an elaborate system of inland waterways, connecting Duluth with Northern and Western Minnesota by a combination of canals and natural waterways.

The water supply commission bill is thus described by C. R. Barns, who at Mr. Spooner's request prepared an abstract of the bill:

"It is hereby declared that the beneficial use and the natural energy of the waters of all streams, navigable or non-navigable, in lakes, reservoirs, swamps or percolating (ground) water in the state, are owned by the state and subject to state control, for all purposes save such as are reserved by the Constitution of the United States to the federal government, and should be regulated by state law.

"Such is the sweeping declaration which serves as the foundation for a remarkable measure introduced by Lewis C. Spooner of Morris. The bill voices the rapidly growing sentiment that the waters of the state are not only a valuable, but a limited asset, an asset the proper administration of which is of invaluable importance to the people, and whose waste or monopolization by special interests means the dwarfing of the state's possibilities of future growth and prosperity.

"The bill vests the control of all the waters of the state for all purposes in the hands of a salaried commission of three members, to be appointed by the governor and to hold their offices at his pleasure. They are to give bond, and the chairman, who is to be the executive officer of the board, may engage in no other business during his term of office. The commission is to employ, as chief engineer, a hydraulic engineer of high standing and reputation, and, when necessary, a competent consulting engineer, also a secretary and such assistants as may be required, from time to time, in field or office, and is to fix the salaries of such employes.

"It is made the duty of the commission to study and report upon the best methods adopted, here or in Europe, for the improvement of navigation, the deepening of channels, the promotion of river commerce and the prevention of damage from floods. It is to co-operate with the United States engineers, when possible, in securing a deep channel in the Mississippi between Minneapolis and St. Louis.

"The supreme importance of a supply of pure water for drinking and domestic purposes, and the necessity of preserving from contamination the rivers, lakes and reservoirs from which this water is taken, is recognized in the bill. The commission is required to ascertain the sources of the water supply of the villages, towns and cities, the amount used by each, the names of corporate and other agencies supplying them with water, the prices charged and how collected, so that it may have a complete record of all waters used in the state of Minnesota and of the uses to which they are applied.

"The disposal of the sewage of towns, villages, cities and manufacturing plants is another matter committed to the study of the commission, and where sewage is emptied into the waters of the state, that body is to confer with the state board of health with a view to securing better conditions and of preventing a pollution of the waters of the state hereafter.

"Such measures are to be adopted for utilizing, conserving, purifying and distributing water as will give all communities in the state the best and purest obtainable. But the commission shall not have jurisdiction to interfere with the method of distributing water to consumers in incorporated villages, towns or cities.'

Regulating Water Supply Companies.

"No municipal corporation or water supplying agency, not already vested with such power, is to be permitted to condemn lands or take waters for any new or additional supply, except according to plans approved by the commission, and on a petition showing the details of such plans and the reasons for such extension, which petition shall have been given due publicity. The decision shall be given after a hearing of all interests affected by such extension.

"On approval, a license shall be issued by the secretary of state for the diversion of water and the operation of water works in accordance with the plans filed.

"The commission is clothed with power for the enforcement of the law, to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of books and papers; also to call upon the attorney general for the prosecution of offenders against its regulations.

"It is given power also to investigate water supplies furnished by corporations and to direct such changes as are necessary to the public health.

"The expenses of the commission are provided for by the authorization of a moderate schedule of fees for the filing of papers and of a license fee for the use of water, based on each million gallons used. All fees thus received are to be at once turned over to the state treasury.

"Important as are the foregoing provisions, as affecting water transportation and the drinking supply of the state, they are transcended, from a business point of view, by the provisions of the bill which propose to check the monopolization of the state's water powers by private or special interests and to control their development and their use, hereafter, in the interest of the whole people of the state.

"First of all, the commission is required to take a complete inventory of the state's resources in water powers, developed and undeveloped, with a statement of the power already developed, or obtainable, its source and the use, if any, to which now put, and by whom, and the price charged per horse power; also the extent to which each power has been already improved and the amount of additional power which may be obtained—and its probable value.

"As a preliminary to further regulation, it is provided that 'every franchise for the erection and maintenance of any dam, wharf, pier or abuttment in or across any stream, or in any lake or reservoir, granted prior to the passage of this act, and which is subject to repeal, is hereby repealed' and all franchises for such erections are hereafter to be granted subject to the provisions of this act.

"Franchises and leases under the proposed law are not to be granted for a longer period than twenty years, subject to two consecutive renewals of ten years each, or a total of forty years. At the end of forty years, a longer period may be secured under whatever legislative restrictions may be then imposed.

"A license fee of not less than 10 cents nor more than $2 per horse power per annum is to be collected by the commission on every horse-power put to beneficial use by any appropriator of water power.

"The franchise value of each and every horse power is defined as meaning the difference in cost between the product of a horse power by water power and the production of a horse power—in the same place.'

"The amount of the payment required is to be based on the value and such valuation is to be re-adjusted at stated periods.

"Ten hours' use of a horse power is to constitute a 'day's use' thereof in computing payments to be made therefor.

"A horse power is defined to be 'the energy developed by eight and eight-tenths cubic feet of water falling through a vertical distance of one foot of space.'

"There are provisions for preventing unreasonable delays in the development of water powers—after a franchise has been granted; and for compelling development thereof, where desirable, to the full capacity of the water power site; also for preventing any dam or other construction from becoming an obstruction to navigation; and for adequate 'fish-ways.'

"The bill is especially careful to disown any purpose of attacking vested rights; and provision is made therein, in several places, for an appeal to the courts in case any person or corporation is justly aggrieved by the action of the commission; but the measure bears evidence, on almost every page, of having been framed in the interest of the people at large and in antagonism to monopoly or special privilege in the use of the state's 'water wealth.'"

Democrats Get Credit.

The Democrats in the house are a trifle amazed at the fact that the country newspaper correspondent who acts as the personal representative of the radical county option forces in the house gives them the credit for the adoption of the 20-day limit on the time bills can stay in committee.

While the radicals in the house did ask for a fifteen-day limit, the provision adopted by the house rules committee, in slightly different form, originated with the Democrats in the house. It was proposed before a meeting of the Democratic house members early in the session by Representative Frank E. Minette of Sauk Center, was unanimously approved by them, and was presented to the rules committee by Representative Albert Pfaender of New Ulm, the Democratic floor leader in the house.

The elections committee of the senate will meet tonight to consider the Emmel-Ahman contest, and Ripley B. Brower of St. Cloud, attorney for Senator I. J. Ahman, will move that the contest be dismissed on the ground that no sufficient basis for a contest has been established. The contest is based on the claim that Senator Ahman is not a citizen of the United States, as he was born in Germany, has never taken out naturalization papers, and his father did not do so until Ahman was more than 21 years of age. At that time voting on first papers was allowed, and Ahman's father was a voter on first papers long before the present senator reached the age of 21.

At tonight's meeting dates will be set for hearings on the Farrington-Froshaug and the Stephens-Saugstad cases, and the committee will proceed actively in an effort to determine all three cases as speedily as possible.

MELODROWSKI ON TRIAL FOR FIRST DEGREE MURDER

Alleged Slayer of Patrolman Faces Jury in District Court.

Not Allowed to Plead to Second Degree—Curiosity Squad Barred.

JURORS SWORN IN.

William F. Murnian, 509 Third street, electrician.
E. F. Heller, 230 West Fifth street, carpenter.
Clayton Van Brunt, 1617 East Second street, manager package delivery.
Elmer E. Doan, 416 North Fifty-ninth avenue west, sawyer.

CHARLES MELODROWSKI.

Charles Melodrowski, who shot and killed Officer Harry Chesmore Jan. 6, was placed on trial for murder in the first degree in district court this morning. Out of nine men examined for jury duty during the morning session four jurors had been sworn in when court adjourned at noon.

The rumors that Melodrowski would be allowed to plead guilty to murder in the second degree did not materialize. It may have been under consideration by the attorneys, but Judge Cant stated at the opening of court that he knew nothing of it and the boy would stand trial for the alleged crime.

The curiosity squad, inspired by a morbid desire to watch the proceedings in the trying of a boy of 15 on a charge of killing a human being, was out in force, but was given a cruel blow. The statute which provides for the exclusion of all except court officers, attorneys, relatives and friends of the accused from the trial of a minor under 16 years of age on any charge, was invoked by Judge Cant. The curiosity squad loitered around the corridor on the fourth floor of the courthouse all morning, now and then one tried to gain entrance to the court room, only to be repulsed by the deputy sheriff in charge of the main door, and there was a look of deep disgust on the faces of those who were barred by the law from witnessing the proceedings.

The proceedings this morning held little of interest for any spectators. The veniremen were called in one by one and examined as to their qualifications to sit on the jury. County Attorney John H. Norton is conducting the case for the state, while Melodrowski is represented by Attorney Charles C. Teare. Melodrowski, a mere boy in years and appearance, sat beside his attorney, but he was otherwise unattended.

Johnson, the other boy in the case, was brought to the courthouse this morning, but he was not in the court room. Attorney E. J. Kenny, who has been appointed to defend Johnson, was present.

Johnson and Melodrowski have both been indicted on a charge of murder in the first degree for the killing of Officer Chesmore, who had them under arrest for holding up the night clerk and porter in the McKay hotel and taking about $50 from the cash register. The shooting occurred on an interstate car between Sixth and Seventh avenues west. Officer Chesmore died about a half hour after the shooting, either of two wounds being sufficient to cause death. The boys escaped, but were captured the same night in a lumber camp about twenty-two miles from the city.

WEST END THEY LIKE HIS FLOUR

Burglars Take Eight Sacks From Store—Sampled Four a Year Ago.

West Enders Think Organized Gang of Burglars Is at Work.

Burglars last night or early today broke into the feed store of Helmer Jentoft at 2024 West First street and took away eight sacks of flour. About a year ago burglars entered the place and took away four sacks of flour. In both instances entrance was effected in the same way. A pane of glass in one of the front windows of the place was broken and the thieves crawled through. The window that was demolished last evening corresponded to the one broken a year ago.

The police were notified of the theft this morning and are investigating. There have been numerous burglaries in the West end during the last few months and there are some who believe that there is an organized gang at work.

Recently an attempt was made to break into the department store of J. J. Moe & Sons, Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street, but the intruders were foiled by a double lock.

DULUTHIANS WHO ARE DOING "THINGS WORTH WHILE"

J. Allyn Scott Has Taken Off His Coat and Tackled a Big Job.

J. ALLYN SCOTT.

J. Allyn Scott, appointed city assessor by Mayor M. B. Cullum, has a big job on his hands; he has undertaken to make a complete revaluation of the property of the city.

Anyone who knows anything about the work in the assessor's office may have an idea what that means, but those who have had no experience in this line cannot apprehend the magnitude of the tremendous task. But the mayor declares that he has a first-class man and is confident that "J. Allyn" will make a decided success of it.

To aid him the work Mr. Scott has started to list the property of the city under a card system, similar to that which is used for personal property. This card will show what the lot is worth, and the reason for it. If he or his deputies find that the property is mostly rock or mostly gulch, or stuck away off on the side hill, the card will so state. Then when anyone comes in with a kick, claiming that there is a difference in the assessment of his lot and that of his neighbor, the assessor will be able to tell him in a minute the wherefor of it. He will not have to take the other fellow's say so and not be in a position to come back at him.

In conjunction with the card system he is having plats made of all the divisions of the city. The work is being done by Elwin Berg and is in itself a big chunk to bite off. But they are coming out in fine shape at a rapid rate, and when the time comes to make the assessment, they will be in shape for use.

Mr. Scott has tackled the job of giving the taxpayers a square deal, with his coat off, and is determined to have his assessment complete next year.

NO INTEREST IN ELECTION

Jan. 24 and 28 Will Be Registration Days in Duluth.

Candidates Are Beginning an Active Campaign in Several Wards.

Interest in the coming municipal election is not noticeable in Duluth. The people know a lot more about the bonspiel than they do about the candidates who are running for various city offices.

But 2,495 voters registered at the primaries Dec. 20, and it is not anticipated that the number will be doubled at the coming registration days Jan. 24 and 28.

Several of the wards have contests. In the Fifth Alderman John A. MacDonell is opposed for re-election by Harvey A. Wing. Mr. MacDonell is finishing his first term in the city council and is confident that he will pull through again with a comfortable majority. He is well acquainted in the ward and has adopted the "gumshoeing" tactics of Mayor Cullum with considerable success, making it a point to see each voter before he casts his ballot election day, which falls on Feb. 7, this year. Mr. Wing served several terms in the council some years ago and has had considerable experience in ward politics.

In the Eighth ward, T. F. Olson, a newspaper reporter, has filed as an independent against David Sang, Democrat, and Otto Krueger, Republican. Mr. Sang is also an ex-alderman and was formerly a member of the board of public works.

In the Second ward there is a close fight scheduled between W. M. Miller, Democrat, and Robert Lueck, Republican. In the Sixth, Alderman Charles Hoar, Democrat, is opposed for re-election by George M. Jensen, Republican. Mr. Hoar has been a city father for two years and has made an excellent record. He has an extensive acquaintance and says that he has no doubt but that he will occupy the same chair another two years. Mr. Jensen has also lived in that locality many years and will make things interesting.

The full list of candidates is as follows:

BREAD LINE NOT NEEDED

Idle Men Numerous in City But Are Well Cared For.

The Stone Yard Has Kept Unworthy Subjects From Applying.

Although it is said that more idle men are in Duluth now than during the panic of 1907, their condition is not so serious and no such destitution is to be found among them.

The number of lodgers in the police station is not as great, the institution of a "bread line," such as was established at the Bethel in 1907 is not necessary and the presence of so many idle men in the city is not so noticeable.

Several reasons are ascribed for the condition, principal of which is the fact that most of the men in the city now are willing and anxious to work, that the people working among the men have learned a lesson from the conditions which prevailed in Duluth in 1907 and are taking more efficient measures in caring for their present condition, and that no unworthy men are given aid which they do not deserve.

"The men who have applied to us for aid have nearly all been anxious and willing to work if they could find work," said Secretary Dinwiddie of the Associated Charities today. "We are anxious to avoid helping anyone who is willing to help himself. Our stone yard we have found in the short time it has been in operation is an eficient means of weeding out the unworthy. We do not pretend to give men work for any length of time. Sometimes they work only part of a day, but for their labor they are given just enough food for their needs and they must earn their lodgings. We want them to get steady work if they can, but if they are really in need and cannot get work we try to give them odd jobs for just such time as will tide them over until they get work."

The Bethel is using the same system. Men applying for aid are given the work test. If they are willing to work, they can earn the necessities of life, and very little more, until they can get steady work of the kind they need through the employment agents.

The extreme cold weather has put a damper on railroad operations and employment agents have found a great falling off in the amount of orders for men for that class of work. Every employment office in the city has a large waiting list. Duluth is a poor place for men to come to look for work just at the present time, and the charity workers have adopted means for preventing an influx of the other class of men who always flock to any city in which a "bread line" or other means of aid is established, without a work test being connected with it.

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure

Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.

This recipe makes a pint of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pine is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

them are the enactment of an employers' liability law providing for compensation to injured and disabled workmen; the perfection and the extension of the direct primary law to all elective offices, and to party nominations; a law restricting the issuance of charters to corporations and providing for close scrutiny and regulation of existing corporations; the enactment of a conservation law and revision of the existing method of taxation. He said, in part:

Signs of the Times Are Plain.

"The opportunity of our day in the field of politics no man can mistake who can read any, even the most superficial, signs of the times. We have never seen a day when duty was more plain, the task to be performed more obvious, the way in which to accomplish it more easy to determine. The whole world has changed within the lifetime of men not yet in their thirties—the world of business and, therefore, the world of society and the world of politics. The organization and movement of business are new, and upon a novel scale. Business has changed so rapidly that for a long time we were confused, alarmed, bewildered, in a sort of terror of the things we had ourselves raised up.

"But the corporations are no longer hobgoblins which have sprung at us out of some mysterious ambush, nor yet unholy inventions of rascally, rich men, nor yet the puzzling devices by which ingenious lawyers build up huge rights out of a multitude of small wrongs; but merely organizations of a perfectly intelligible sort which the law has licensed for the convenience of extensive business; organizations which have proved very useful, but which have for the time being slipped out of the control of the very law that gave them leave to be, and that can make or unmake them at pleasure. We have now to set ourselves to control them, soberly but effectively, and to bring them thoroughly within the regulation of the law.

Antiquated Laws.

"In the first place it is plain that our laws with regard to the relations of employer and employe are in many respects wholly antiquated and impossible. They were framed for another age which nobody now living remembers, which is, indeed, so remote from our life that it would be difficult for many of us to understand it if it were described to us.

"We call these questions of employers' liability and workingmen's compensation, but these terms do not suggest quite the whole matter. There is something very new, very big and very complex about these new relations of capital and labor. A new economic society has sprung up, and we must effect a new sort of adjustments. We must not power against weakness. The employer is generally, in our day, a powerful group of individuals, and the workingman is still, under our existing law, an individual when dealing with his employer, in case of accident, for example, or of loss, or of illness as well as in every contractual relationship. We must have a workingman's compensation act which will not put upon him the burden of fighting powerful composite employers to obtain his rights, but which will give him his rights without suit, directly, and without contest, by automatic operation of law, as if of a law of insurance.

"This is the first adjustment needed, because it affects the rights, the happiness, the lives and fortunes of the greatest number, and because it is the adjustment for which justice cries loudest.

Too Free With Charters.

"We are much too free with grants of charters to corporations in New Jersey. A corporation exists only by license of law, and the law is responsible for what it creates. It can never rightly authorize any kind of fraud or imposition. It cannot righteously allow the setting up of a business which has no sound basis or which follows methods which in any way outrage justice or fair dealing or the principles of honest industry. The law cannot give its license to things of that kind. It thereby authenticates what it ought to forbid.

"I would urge the imperative obligation of public policy and public honesty we are under to effect such changes in the law of the state as will henceforth effectually prevent the abuse of the privilege of incorporation which has in recent years brought so much discredit upon our state. It will be necessary to regulate and restrict the issue of securities, enforce regulations with regard to bona fide capital, examine very rigorously the basis of capitalization, and to prescribe methods by which the public may be safeguarded against fraud, deception, extortion and every abuse of its confidence.

"Such scrutiny and regulation ought not to be confined to corporations seeking charters. They ought also to be extended to corporations already operating under the license and authority of the state."

Public Service Corporations.

The power to originate and conduct investigations of public service corporations, regulate the rates and adjust the service of such corporations operating within the state, should be bestowed upon the New Jersey public utilities commission, the governor declares. Were the commission clothed with such power, the governor says, their rulings would serve to establish definitely debatable values upon which many questions of taxation turn. "The whole system of taxation," Governor Wilson asserts, "is no system at all, and needs overhauling from top to bottom."

The conservation of natural resources within the state is strongly urged.

One of the greatest needs, Governor Wilson declares, is the perfection and extension of the existing state primary law. He says:

"Some persons have pointed out that with our present methods of machine nomination and our present methods of elections, which were nothing more than a choice between one set of machine nominees and another, we did not get representative government at all—at least not government representative of the people, but government representative of the political managers who served their own interests and the interests of those with whom they found it profitable to establish partnerships.

Oregon Laws Needed.

"The laws in recent years adopted in the state of Oregon seem to me to point the direction which we must also take before we have completed our regeneration of a government which has suffered so seriously and so long from private management and organized selfishness. Our primary laws, perfected, should be extended to every elective office, and to the selection of every committee or official as well, in order that the people may once for all take charge of their own affairs.

"We have here the undoubted sound chain and sequence of reforms: an actual direct choice by the people of the men who are to organize alike their parties and their government, and those measures which true representatives of the people will certainly favor and adopt—systematic compensation for injured working men; the careful regulation in the common interest of all corporations, both in respect of their organization and of their methods of business, and especially of public service corporations; the equalization of taxes; and the conservation of the natural resources of the state and of the health and safety of its people.

"Another matter of the most vital consequence goes with all these; namely, systematic ballot reforms and thorough and stringent provisions of law against corrupt practices in connection allke with primaries and elections."

Economy in the administration of the state government, by the abolition of useless state boards and commissions, is advocated by the governor who announces his intention of indicating from time to time, the means by which this end may be attained.

Cold Storage Abuses.

Announcing his departure from "the beaten track" of precedence, Governor Wilson calls to the attention of the legislature the maintenance and use of large cold storage warehousss in the northern section of the state. Immense quantities of meats, poultry, eggs and fish are stored and held in these plants, some times for years, awaiting a favorable market, Governor Wilson asserts, the "results being not only to control prices, but to endanger health." He urges the legislature to push rapidly to enactment a proper measure of inspection and of limitation of the length of time such commodities may be left in storage. He concludes:

"We are servants of the people, of the whole people. Their interest should be our constant study. We should pursue it without fear or favor. Our reward will be greater than that to be obtained in any other service. It is not the foolish ardor of the sanguine or too radical reform that I urge upon you, but merely the tasks that are evident and pressing, the things we have knowledge and guidance enough to do; and to do with confidence and energy. I merely point out the present business of progressives and serviceable government, the next stage on the journey of duty. The path is as inviting as it is plain. Shall we hesitate to tread it? I look forward with genuine pleasure to the prospect of being your comrade upon it."

benefits and protections that go with citizenship, but it is at the expense of the average property-owner, who has burdens enough to bear, and the railroads—except where the city had driven a shrewd bargain and has made the railroads pay local assessments—pay not a thing.

In Two Harbors the situation is vastly worse. This year's tax rate is 62 mills, which ought to look big to citizens of Duluth who are restive because their tax rate is approaching 40 mills, partly because Duluth is in a growing period when expenses are heavy in proportion to assessed valuation, and partly because bonded indebtedness makes a large expense for interest and sinking funds.

The assessed valuation of Two Harbors is a little under $1,000,000. Railroad property in Two Harbors is worth, roughly, $6,000,000. If it were assessed and taxed on the ad valorem basis, it would add probably $3,000,000 to the assessed valuation of the village. That would cut the tax rate down to a quarter of its present size, and make conditions pretty easy for the ordinary property-owner.

Dr. Knauft hopes that a bill can be passed that will apportion the gross earnings tax to the communities in which the railroad property lies on a pro rata basis. Senator Cheadle and Representative Hillman are much interested in his plan, and probably one or both will introduce a bill carrying it out.

Would Abolish Oil Inspector.

The repeal of the law providing for the inspection of illuminating oils, the abolishment of the office of state oil inspector, now held by Guy A. Eaton of Duluth, and the release from state employment of a small army of deputy inspectors scattered all over the state, are provided for by a bill introduced in the house last night by Representative John P. Nash of Minneapolis, a Republican member of the house. Mr. Nash states that he intends to push the bill, on the ground that the oil inspection department is useless to the people and that it has become a political appendage of the state administration.

The bill was referred to the committee on illuminating oils.

When Senator Ole O. Sageng of Otter Tail county, the lone Populist member of the legislature, introduced in the senate last night his bill proposing a constitutional amendment admitting women to the right to vote on equal terms with men, the senate chamber was suddenly showered with roses. This spectacular effect was achieved by the board of directors of the state suffrage association, which delegated to a committee of five the responsibility for carrying it out. They had company and assistance, many other advocates of the suffragists' cause being present and helping in the dainty bombardment of the senate. The bill was referred to the senate elections committee, which is understood to be favorable to its passage.

Governor Eberhart presented to the senate last night in a special message a petition from the settlers in Koochiching county asking that, since state lands cannot be taxed for local purposes, the legislature appropriate an amount equal to what the state lands in that county would pay if they were subject to taxation, the money to be used in supporting schools in districts that are handicapped because of the large amount of state lands exempt from taxation.

The governor approved the plan, not for Koochiching county alone, but for all counties similarly situated.

Expenses of the Sessions.

The sessions of both houses last night were brief and perfunctory, though the house managed to work itself into a semblance of dissension over the bill to provide for the expenses of the sessions. The house bill, which took cognizance of the fact that the omnibus bill of two years ago made a standing appropriation for the legislative sessions, which the senate had overlooked when it passed its own bill, was substituted for the senate bill and passed, after the house had voted down Kerry Conley's amendment reducing the amount appropriated from $125,000 to $115,000. The amendment was immaterial, since the bill provides that $125,000, "or so much thereof as may be necessary," shall be the amount of the appropriation. In other words, though $125,000 is appropriated in addition to the amount of the standing appropriation, the legislature needn't spend it unless it wishes to do so.

Senator Bedford introduced a bill reducing the mortgage registry tax from 50 cents per $100 to 10 cents per $100.

Representative Sulerud of Halstad tries to reach the same subject in another way in a bill introduced in the house last evening, which provides that if the lender of the money doesn't pay the mortgage registry tax, as the legislature intended when the law was passed but as has never happened since, so far as rumor has recorded it, the borrower may collect ten times the amount of the tax from the lender.

Representative C. W. Bouck of Royalton would prohibit plays, ball games and amusements of all kinds on Sunday, and last evening he introduced a bill making it a misdemeanor to be merry on this wise of a Sabbath, with penalties of a fine of $50 to $100 or imprisonment of thirty to ninety days.

* * *

Bills Introduced.

Among the other bills introduced last night were the following:

Senator Murray — Establishing a branch school of agriculture at Olivia.

Representative Spooner—Appropriating $35,000 to construct a ditch to relief of settlers on the Mustinka river in Traverse county, whose lands have been flooded by drainage from the Mustinka ditch.

Representative Mattson — Providing that the state immigration commission must mail weekly to clerks of district court names and addresses of homeseekers who correspond with the board; the idea being to let the counties get in touch with those seeking lands, so that they may inform them of the advantages of their lands.

Representative Holmberg — Requiring that primary election candidates must receive 20 per cent of the vote cast at the preceding election for the party candidate for secretary of state in order to get on the general election ballot as party candidates. Failing to get that many votes, they can go on only as independent candidates. This is to prevent intermingling of voters in party primaries.

Representative Fuchs of St. Paul—Exempting firemen and policemen from the anti-pass law, so they can get street car passes.

Representative Spooner — Appropriating $850,000 to redeem state capitol certificates now held by the permanent school fund. A matter of bookkeeping, to keep one state fund from paying interest to another.

Representative Campbell — Providing for a dog tax of $1 per dog, to reimburse those whose domestic animals and poultry are damaged by dogs. If the fund amounts to more than $25,000, the surplus is to go into the state school fund.

Representative Frankson — Providing that all chattel mortgages are to be transferred from city and village clerks' offices to the office of the register of deeds, where such instruments are to be filed hereafter.

UNNATURAL THINNESS EASILY CORRECTED.

By Clever Prescription which Can Be Filled at Any Drug Store.

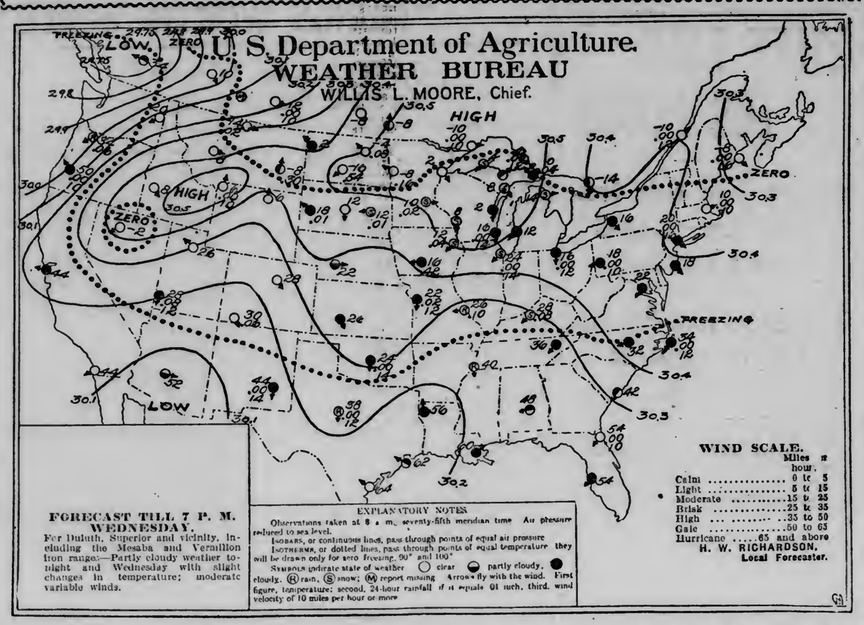

No Need to Be Thin Now as Reports Show This Method Effective.

People who are very thin and scrawny ought not to be so. Undoubtedly they are more subject to disease and contagions than the normally fleshy. Thinness is usually accompanied by weakness, and weakness subjects any one to colds, coughs, consumption, pneumonia, etc. It has been discovered, almost by accident, that tincture cadomene when combined in a prescription with proper accelerative medicines, becomes one of the most valuable, effective, and reliable nutritive or flesh making medicines known to science. It is especially beneficial to men and women between the ages of sixteen and fifty-five, who from lack of proper nerve force and digestion, remain undeveloped in body, limbs, arms and bust. A well rounded symmetrical figure in man or woman indicates health, magnetism, stamina and happiness.

The reader who wishes to add from ten to forty pounds should not fail to begin with this valuable prescription.

First, obtain of any well stocked druggist, three ounces of essence of pepsin and three ounces of syrup of rhubarb in an 8 oz. bottle. Then add one ounce compound essence cardiol. Shake and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom). Shake well and take one teaspoonful before each meal, one after each meal. Drink plenty of water between meals and when retiring. Keep up this treatment regularly and of a certainty from one to three pounds will be added to the weight each week, and the general health will also improve.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

CLOUDY

The lowest point reached by the thermometer last night was 2 deg. below zero, which is comparatively mild for this cold spell.

The weather man does not look for much change in temperature tonight. It will be cloudy with variable winds.

A year ago today it was clear and cold.

The sun rose this morning at 7:48 and will set tonight at 4:48, making nine hours of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Zero weather continues over most of Canada and from Montana eastward over Northern border states to Maine, and in Nevada. Milder temperature prevails this morning over Western Canada, the lower Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys. An increase in pressure over Montana, the Dakotas, Wyoming, Utah and Idaho is attended by somewhat colder weather in those states. During the last twenty-four hours more or less snow or rain fell over the Mississippi and Missouri valley states and Colorado and Utah, due to the influence of the disturbances central over Western Mexico and British Columbia. During the ensuing thirty-six hours the temperature in St. Louis and Douglas counties will fluctuate between points slightly above and slightly below zero."

FOUND FROZEN STIFF.

Bachelor of Holdingford Township Found Dead in Field.

St. Cloud, Minn., Jan. 17.—Neighbors of Zacharias Zura, a bachelor, aged 50, who lives on a small farm near Holdingford, made a ghastly find when they came upon him lying in a plowed field frozen stiff and in a condition which indicated that he had been dead for at least two days.

The dead man lived alone on his farm, about half a mile from the village, but usually had little to do with his neighbors. As far as is known he has no relatives living near here. Just what the cause of death was is unknown. He may have been stricken suddenly while at work, or may have fallen off a team and became injured and frozen to death before he could get to his house.

DON'T CONDEMN THE DRINKER

Go Back and Trace The Cause and You May Suspend Judgment.

There are many things in this life that are sufficient to drive a man to drink, for there are many things that are a great deal worse than the drink habit. To justly pass judgment on the drinker, you would first have to search his heart, his mind and his life. This you cannot do.

A PERFECT CURE.

The Neal internal treatment cures the periodical, occasional or moderate drinker, the habitual and excessive drinker, and the nervous man who has to drink to keep from becoming more nervous. It takes away all inclination to drink, all desire and craving to drink, by neutralizing the poison of alcohol in the system and ridding the blood of the poison by a rapid system of elimination, leaving the drinker in the condition that he was before tasting the liquor, so far as the effects of alcohol may be concerned—all appetite for drink gone—and he a new man.

COMFORTING WORDS

Many a Duluth Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Duluth readers.

L. P. Schneider, 210 W. Fourteenth St., Duluth, Minn., says: "The public statement I have given in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills still holds good. In 1898 I said that for a considerable length of time, I had suffered from pains in my back. My condition finally grew so bad that I could not stoop or lift without being tortured. It seemed as if a sharp knife were piercing me. I could not lie in one position long without becoming stiff and sore. The kidney secretions passed irregularly and contained sediment. I found no relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They drove away my trouble and during the twelve years that have since passed, I have never had any serious recurrence."

SCHMITZ ACQUITTED OF KILLING GEORGE RILEY

"Not Guilty," Is the Verdict of District Court Jury.

Lakewood Settler Given Freedom After Three Hours' Deliberation.

FRANK JOSEPH SCHMITZ.

Frank Joseph Schmitz, charged with murder in the first degree, was acquitted by a jury in district court after about three hours' deliberation yesterday. The jury retired at 5:35 and returned to the court room shortly before 9 o'clock in the evening with a verdict of "not guilty."

Schmitz, who was accused of killing George Riley, a neighboring settler in the town of Lakewood, received the verdict calmly. Before the finding of the jury was announced, he was confident of acquittal. All through the trial he had maintained confidence in his right to an acquittal on the charge and he gave no sign of elation when his confidence was vindicated by the verdict of the jury.

In his address to the jury, Assistant County Attorney Warren E. Greene dealt with the inconsistencies of the defense and the difference between the stories told on the stand and those which were told immediately after Riley's death. He maintained that the statements attributed to Schmitz as having been made before the shooting showed that the crime was premeditated and he said a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree should be returned.

Attorney A. E. McManus laid stress on the contention that the verdict should either be murder in the first degree or not guilty. He maintained that a verdict should not be returned for a degree of crime less than first degree murder. He said the story of Schmitz and other witnesses for the defense was naturally told, without coaching, and was the true story of the occurrences at the Schmitz cabin on the day of the shooting and the relations between the two men prior to that time.

Judge Cant's charge covered murder in the first, second and third degrees and manslaughter in the first degree.

The killing of Riley, out of which the charge against Schmitz grew, occurred Oct. 24. Riley and Schmitz had had trouble and Schmitz claimed that he had been shot at from ambush the day before the shooting of Riley. He claimed that Riley had shot at him. He had come to Duluth on the day of the shooting to get a warrant for Riley and on returning to his home, he had found Riley there.

The state claimed that he shot at Riley, but Schmitz said that he had taken his rifle only to scare Riley and that his wife had grabbed his arm, accidentally discharging the gun. A bullet entered Riley's arm and after Riley had run some distance on the road, he fell and died from loss of blood.

by the vice chairman, Representative Vreeland of New York.

Opposes Central Bank.

Far from recommending the institution of a central bank, Mr. Aldrich expressly disclaims belief in it.

"While we have found much that is admirable in the government banks of Europe, none of them is applicable to our needs. Their good results can, I believe, be reached without a central bank."

What Mr. Aldrich does propose is the establishment of the "Reserve Association of America," a federation of local associations, formed by national banks. Briefly the essential provisions of the plan are:

Local organizations of representatives of banks; directors elected by these to the board of "branch" associations; one branch for each of fifteen financial districts into which the United States would be divided; directors, forty-five in all, to the Reserve association.

There would be also six ex-officio members of this board, namely, the secretary of the treasury, the secretary of commerce and labor, the comptroller of the currency, the governor and two deputy governors of the association.

Appointed by the President.

The governor and deputy governors of the association would be appointed by the president of the United States and be removable by him for cause.

The association would be the principal fiscal agent and depository of the government, would fix from time to time the rate of exchange or discount, and eventually its notes would replace those of the national banks.

The system of mutual support by which the association's members would meet currency emergencies, is detailed at length.

In a letter to Mr. Vreeland, dated yesterday, Senator Aldrich tenders his plan as "tentative" and subject to discussion and debate.

"It is obvious," says Senator Aldrich, "that one of the principal needs is the unification of our banking institutions. Under our faulty system reserves are unavailable in time of trouble.

"If we can so amend the national banking act so as to permit the formation of an association of all the banks of the country, and if we provide a scientific basis for bank-note circulation, we shall, I believe, have met the two main requirements.

"I believe that the conclusions which I present herewith meet these conditions and that the proposed organization will not run any risk of creating a financial institution which can be controlled by ambitious monetary interests or dominated by political influence."

The senator proceeds then to the description of his proposed "Reserve Association of America."

Principal Fiscal Agent.

It is proposed to charter the Reserve Association of America, which will be the principal fiscal agent of the government of the United States. The authorized capital of the Reserve association shall be approximately $300,000,000. The length of its charter shall be fifty years. The head office of the association shall be in Washington, D. C.

The country shall be divided into fifteen districts, and a branch of the Reserve association shall be located in each district.

The association and its branches shall be exempt from taxation, except upon real estate.

Only national banks of the classes hereinafter named may subscribe to the Reserve association.

A national bank having a minimum capital of $25,000 may subscribe to an amount of capital stock of the Reserve association equal to 25 per cent of the stock of the subscribing national bank, and not less, and each of such subscribing banks shall become a member of a local association. Fifty per cent of the subscriptions to the Reserve association shall be called in cash; the balance will remain a liability of the stockholders, subject to call.

Shares of the association will not be transferable, nor may they be owned by any national bank in any other amount than in the proportion here provided. In the case of a national bank increasing its capital, it shall subscribe for an additional amount of the capital stock of the Reserve association equal to 20 per cent of the increase of capital. In the event of a bank decreasing its capital, it shall surrender a proportionate amount of its stock of the association; or if a national bank goes into liquidation it shall surrender all of its stock of the association and shall receive a sum equal to the then book value of the stock so surrendered. The earnings of the eReserve association shall be distributed as follows:

Distribution of Earnings.

After the payment of all expenses, stockholders shall receive 4 per cent. Further earnings shall be devided, one-half to go to the surplus of the Reserve association until that surplus shall amount to 20 per cent of the paid-in capital; one-fourth to go to the government of the United States and one-fourth to the stockholders; but when the stockholders' dividends shall reach 5 per cent, they shall receive no additional dividend.

After the stockholders receive 5 per cent the earnings shall be divided, one-half to be added to the surplus of the association and one-half to go to the government.

After the stockholders receive 5 per cent and the surplus of the association amounts to 20 per cent of the paid-in capital, all excess shall go to the government. The minimum dividends to the stockholders shall be cumualtive.

All subscribing banks shall be formed into a local association of national banks. Every local association shall be composed of not less than ten banks and the combined capital and surplus of the members of each local shall aggregate not less than $5,000,000.

All the local associations shall be grouped into fifteen districts. Every national bank will be located within the boundaries of some local association and every subscribing bank shall become a member of the local of the territory in which it is situated.

Each local association shall elect annually a board of directors in the following manner: The number of the directors may be determined by the by-laws of the local association. Three-fifths of that number shall be elected by the representatives of the banks that are members, each bank having one representative. Two-fifths of the whole number of directors of the local association shall be elected by the representatives, but in voting for these additional directors each representative shall have as many votes as his bank holds shares in the association. At such elections there shall be no proxies. The representatives of a bank must be the president, vice president or cashier.

Branch Associations.

There shall be in each district a branch of the association. Each of the fifteen branches shall have a board of directors to be elected in the following manner:

The board of directors of each local shall elect one member of the board of directors of the branch. In this manner there will be elected as many directors of the branches as there may be local associations in the district in which it is located.

In addition to that number, there shall be elected a number of directors equal to two-thirds of the number of local associations in the district. Such additional directors shall be elected as follows: There shall be chosen by the banks composing each local a voting representative. In choosing such voting representative, each bank shall be entitled to as many votes as it holds shares in the association. The voting representatives shall meet at the office of the branch and elect an additional number of directors of the branch equal to two-thirds of the number of local associations composing the district.

Other Interests Represented.

The first business of the board of the branch as thus constituted shall be to add to its numbers by the election of an additional number of directors equal to one-third of the number of local associations situated in the district. Such additional directors shall represent the industrial, commercial and agricultural and other interests of the district, and shall not be officers of banks. Directors of banks shall not be considered as officers.

The manager of the branch shall be ex-officio a member of the board of directors of the branch and shall be chairman of the board. All of the members of the board of directors of the branch, except the ex-officio member, shall at the first meeting be classified into three classes with three classes with terms of office, respectively of one, two and three years. Thereafter members shall be elected for a term of three years.

The board of the reserve association shall consist of forty-five directors. It shall be composed as follows:

First: Six ex-officio members, namely, the governor of the reserve association, who shall be chairman of the board; two deputy-governors of the reserve association; the secretary of the treasury; the secretary of commerce and labor and the comptroller of the currency.

Second: Fifteen directors to be elected, one each by the board of directors of each branch of the reserve association.

Third: Twelve directors, who shall be elected by voting representatives, one representing the banks in each district. Each voting representative shall cast a number of votes equal to the number of shares in the reserve association held by all the banks in the district which he represents.

Fourth: The board shall select twelve additional members to represent the industrial, commercial, agricultural and other interests of the country, and who shall not be officers of the banks. Directors of banks shall not be considered as officers.

At the first meeting of the board, all the members of the board, except the ex-officio members, shall be classified into three classes, with terms of office respectively one, two and three years. Thereafter members shall be elected for three years.

No member of any legislative body shall be a director of the association nor of any branch nor local.

The directors of the reserve association shall annually elect an executive committee and such other committees as the by-laws may provide.

The Executive Committee.

The executive committee shall consist of nine members, of which the governor of the Reserve association shall be ex-officio chairman and the two deputies and the comptroller of the currency ex-officio members.

The executive committee shall have all the authority which is vested in the board of directors, except such as may be specificially delegated.

There shall be a board of supervision elected by the board of directors from among its number, of which the secretary of the treasury shall be ex-officio chairman.

The executive officers of the Reserve association shall consist of a governor, two deputy governors, a secretary and such subordinate officers as may be provided by the by-laws.

The governor and deputy governors shall be elected by the president of the United States from a list submitted by the board of directors. The governor shall be subject to removal by the president of the United States for cause.

The term of office of the deputies shall be seven years, but the two deputies first appointed shall be for terms of four years and seven years, respectively.

Each branch shall have a manager and a deputy manager. The powers and duties of the manager and deputy manager and of the various committees of the branches shall be prescribed by the by-laws of the Reserve association.

Any member of a local association may apply to that local association for a guaranty of the commercial paper which it desires to re-discount at the branch of the Reserve association in its district. Any such bank receiving a guaranty from a local association shall pay a commission, to be fixed by the board of directors of that local. The guaranty shall be met by the members of the local in the proportion of their capital and surplus to the capital and surplus of the local association. The commission received for guaranty after the payment of losses and expenses, shall be distributed in the local in the same proportion.

The total amount of guaranties by a local to the Reserve association shall not at any time exceed the aggregate capital and surplus of the banks forming the guaranty association.

The Sole Depositors.

The government of the United States and banks owning stock in the association shall be the sole depositors in the Reserve association. All domestic transactions of the Reserve association shall be confined to the government and the subscribing banks, with the exception of the purchase or sale of government or state securities, or securities of foreign countries or of old coin or bullion.

The government of the United States shall deposit its capital balance with the Reserve association and thereafter all receipts of the government or (when necessary) with such national banks as the government may designate for that purpose in cities where there is no branch of the association. All disbursements by the government shall be made through the Reserve association.

The Reserve association shall pay no interest on deposits. The Reserve association may rediscount notes and bills of exchange with the indorsement of any bank having deposits with it. Such notes and bills must have a maturity of not more than twenty-eight days and must have been made at least thirty days prior to the date of rediscount. The aggregate of such notes and bills bearing the indorsement of any one person, company, corporation or firm, rediscounted for any one bank, shall at no time exceed 10 per cent of the capital and surplus of said bank.

The Reserve association may also rediscount for depositing bank notes of exchange having more than twenty-eight days but not exceeding four months to run, but in such cases the paper must be guaranteed by the local association. Whenever the public interest so requires, the Reserve association may discount the obligation of a depositing bank, indorsed by its local association, providing that the indorsement of the local shall be fully secured; but in no such case shall the amount loaned by the Reserve association exceed two-thirds of the value of the security.

Fixing Rate of Discount.

The rate of discount of the Reserve association, which shall be uniform throughout the United States, shall be fixed from time to time by the executive committee and duly published. The Reserve association may, whenever general financial conditions warrant such investment, purchase a limited amount from a depositing bank acceptances of banks or houses of unquestioned financial responsibility. Such acceptance must have a maturity not exceeding ninety days.

The Reserve association may invest in United States bonds and obligations—not having more than one year to run—of the United States, or of any state, or of certain foreign governments to be named in the act.

The Reserve association shall have power at home and abroad to deal in gold coin or bullion to grant loans thereon and to contract for loans of gold coin or bullion, giving, when necessary, acceptable security for their repayment.

The Reserve association shall have power to purchase from its depositors and to sell, with or without its endorsement, checks or bills of exchange payable in England, France or Germany and in such other foreign countries as the board of the Reserve association may decide.

The Reserve association shall have power to open and maintain banking accounts and to establish agencies in foreign countries.

In addition to the rights now conferred by law, national banks shall be authorized to accept commercial paper having not more than ninety days to run. The amount of such acceptances shall not exceed one-half the capital and surplus of the accepting bank.

New Class of National Banks.

There shall be established a new class of national banks, to be known by a specifically designated name. Such banks may have savings departments and may make properly secured loans on real estate.

There shall be no change in the percentage of reserve required by law in national banks.

The Reserve association shall make a report to the comptroller of the currency once a week. These reports shall be public. In addition, full reports shall be made to the comptroller of the currency coincident with the five reports called for each year from the national banks.

National banks of all classes shall hereafter make a weekly report to the comptroller of the currency, such reports to be available for the use of the executive officers of the Reserve association.

There is to be no further issue, beyond the amount now outstanding, of bank notes by national banks.

National banks may maintain their present note issue, but whenever a bank retires any part of its existing issue it will surrender its right to reissue the notes to be retired.

The Reserve association must, for a period of one year, offer to purchase at a price not less than par and accrued interest, the 2 per cent bonds now held by national banks and deposited to secure their circulating notes. The Reserve association shall assume responsibility for the redemption of outstanding notes secured thereby.

Secure Bond-Secured Notes.

The Reserve association shall issue its own notes as fast as the outstanding notes secured by such bonds so held, shall be redeemed, it being the policy of the United States to retire bond-secured circulation and to substitute notes of the Reserve association.

The Reserve association agrees to hold for not less than ten years the bonds purchased or any government security which may be exchanged for them by refunding or otherwise.

The Reserve association, however, shall have the right, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury after two years to dispose annually of $50,000,000 of the bonds held by it to secure circulation.

The government reserves the right at all times to purchase at par from the Reserve association, through the trustees of the postal savings bank or otherwise, any or all of such bonds so held.

In addition to the authority to issue notes to replace national bank notes, the Reserve association will have the right to issue additional circulating notes.

The whole or any part of the first $100,000,000 of such additional notes shall pay to the government a tax of 3 per cent annually above $100,000,000, and not more than $200,000,000 may be issued at an annual tax of 4 per cent; above $200,000,000 and not more than $300,000,000 may be issued at an annual tax of 5 per cent; all above $300,000,000 shall pay an annual tax of 6 per cent.

All note issues of the Reserve association must be covered to the extent of at least one-third by gold or other lawful money and the remaining portion by bonds of the United States or bankable commercial paper. It should be provided either that the Reserve association may also hold in its reserve foreign coin, or that the treasury will issue gold certificates against foreign coin. The notes are to constitute a first lien upon all the assets of the Reserve association.

The notes of the Reserve association shall be received at par payment for all taxes, excises and other dues to the United States and for all salaries and other debts and demands owing by the United States except obligations of the government, which by their terms specifically are payable in gold.

organize by electing one of its members chairman, and that the powers usually conferred upon committees of investigation be conferred upon this committee, and that the state examiner shall be subject to its orders during such investigation, and that said committee report its findings and recommendations on or before the thirtieth day.

After Representative Hawkinson had moved the adoption of the resolution, Representative Doyle moved that it be sent to a standing committee. Hawkinson declared that inasmuch as there was so much talk of the supposed shortage the house could not afford to longer ignore the situation. The resolution was finally adopted and sent to the senate.

Favor One Board.

Arguments in favor of the proposition of placing the three normal schools of the state under the control of a single board were advanced at a meeting here today by the normal boards of management of the Valley City and Mayville normals. Those two institutions are favorable to such a plan of action with Minot opposed to the move, supporting instead the plan of the individual boards. That city has already evidenced its belief in the old form of management by introducing a bill into the legislative assembly providing for the creation of the board of five members.

Institute For Feeble Minded.

The report of the board of trustees of the institute for the feeble minded at Grafton for the biennial period contains a number of recommendations, the most prominent probably being a second appeal for legislation preventing the marriage of mental defectives. The report says: "Coming in monthly contact, and at our board meetings, with these people and thus being afforded an opportunity for observation and study, which are not had by other members of society differently situated, the necessity for legislation of this character appeals to us with peculiar force." A request is made, owing to the overcrowded condition of the institution for the erection of a new fire proof custodial building large enough to accommodate 100 inmates besides rooms for matrons, attendants and help, and an appropriation of $150,000 is asked for maintenance and improvement.

The Reapportionment Problem.

To increase or decrease the membership of the house of representatives is one of the features of reapportionment that will find an almost hopeless division of opinion. Radical changes in the population of the state in which the tendency has been toward the West will bring about a greatly decreased membership for many of the Eastern counties of the state if the house roll is decreased, or even if it is left at its present size.

Opposition to any plan of decreasing the membership may be expected from Eastern counties unwilling to give anything in the way of numbers. All that the West asks is a proper and equitable apportionment, and the sentiment of the solons seems to favor any plan of apportionment that will bring this about, as they recognize the justness of the claim the West is making.

WOMAN MURDERED IN CROWDED STORE

Wife of Prominent Attorney Fires Five Bullets Into Saleswoman.

Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 17.—Mrs. T. M. Brooks, wife of a prominent attorney here, fired five bullets into the body of Mrs. Mary Binford, in a crowded department store yesterday. Mrs. Binford died almost instantly.

Walking into the store, Mrs. Brooks greeted persons she knew and proceeded to where Mrs. Binford was employed. She asked for Mrs. Binford and, as the latter approached, Mrs. Brooks drew an old fashioned 38-caliber revolver from her muff.

The women grappled and in the scuffle the weapon was discharged, the ball passing through the hand of Mrs. Binford.

Freeing herself, Mrs. Brooks stepped back and deliberately fired four shots putting the bullets close to the head of her adversary. As the limp form of Mrs. Binford sank to the floor, Mrs. Brooks fired the last shot, the ball entering behind the ear.

Mrs. Brooks placed the pistol back into her muff and walked out of the store and to her husband's office.

Both she and her husband refused to make a statement. She waived hearing and was released on bond of $10,000.

Before obtaining her divorce from her husband two years ago, Mrs. Binford was wealthy. No cause for the killing is definitely known.

DAMAGE ACTION IS TRANSFERRED

Case Against Butler Brothers Will Be Tried Later at Virginia.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The damage case of George M. Houlahan against Butler Bros., stripping contractors, which was to have been tried here this week during the last week of district court, was continued by Judge Hughes yesterday afternoon until the term of court beginning in Virginia next Tuesday. The continuance and transfer of the action was made on the motion of the defense.

The suit is to recover $20,000 damages for injuries sustained by Houlahan, Sept. 17 last, when employed by the defendants as brakeman he fell from a car and had one foot crushed.

It is claimed that the handholds and footholds of stirrups of the three-car train were insecure and not properly placed so that he was exposed to unnecessary risk.

John Jenswold of Duluth is counsel for the plaintiff, and Howard Abbott represents the corporation.

PEDDLER TAKEN FOR A "SPOTTER"

Stove Polish Man Badly Beaten When He Enters Adams Location House.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Carr, an itinerant peddler of furniture and stove polish from Duluth, was beaten in an Adams location house yesterday afternoon by Matt Rebrovich and Steve Pegjo as accessary. Carr claims he entered the house to sell his polish, whereupon Rebrovich assaulted him, knocked him down and beat him about the head and body with his own can of polish.

Pegjo, it is claimed, aided to the extent of preventing Carr's escape. The case will come up for hearing today. The unprovoked assault, if Carr's story is true, is ascribed to the fear of strangers who enter such homes they may prove to be spotters for the blindpig crusade inaugurated last week, wherein six suspects were arrested and now are being tried for the offense.

STORK FAR IN LEAD.

Births Exceed Deaths in Hibbing and Stuntz Township.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Vital statistics for 1910 for Hibbing and the township of Stuntz, just issued, show that during last year there were 440 births and 245 deaths in this community.

The Austrians come first with the number of births, thirty-five within the township limits; next come the Finns, 21; Americans third with 18; Italians, 14.

None of the other nationalities come within the double figures, Canada being nearest with 6; Norway follows in the rear of the procession with 3; and England, Germany, Ireland, Russia, Sweden and Belgium each contribute pairs to the grand total, one solitary Montenegran, and a few mixtures finish the dissection.

As is usually the case in a mining community the most prolific case of death was accident, eleven passing away that way. Pneumonia claimed 9, typhoid, 1, and dyphtheria, 1; the remaining 13, dying as the result of old age or ordinary ailments.

EVELETH GETS MUCH IN TAXES

Range City Will Derive $317,338.78 According to Halden's Figures.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—A tax statement from Auditor Halden has been received by City Clerk McIntyre that shows the following: Eveleth's total value of real estate, $11,939,944; personal property, $456,114; grand total of $12,396,046. Total taxes derived are $317,338.78, from a tax rate of 25.6 mills. Of this the principal items are 9 6-10 mills for schools and 5 mills for the new county court house at Duluth, the remainder being divided for town and township purposes, state, road and county taxes. Of the total of $317,338.78 derived from taxes the schools receive approximately $65,000, and the city $125,200.06, apportioned to general fund, $85,532.97; bonded interest, $5,082.37, and permanent improvements $85,532.72, nearly treble what it has heretofore had for the purpose.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Specitl to The Herald.)—Of the six suspects for blindpigging arrested last Wednesday and held to answer yesterday in municipal court, before Judge Prince, testimony in two of the cases was completed, the judge reserving his decision. Three youngsters, ranging in age from 17 to 19 years of age, are the witnesses for the prosecution, the boys testifying to having bought beer in all six places. They are Paul Picciano, Carl Falkenburg and William Moylan. Assistant County Attorney Boyle is prosecuting, and Judge McGillvery defending. Great interest is felt here in the outcome, due to sentiment against unlicensed liquor places and the occasional quarrels and crimes committed that originate from the sale of liquor in these so-called blindpigs.

COHASSET IS PLEASED

That Pokegama Lake District Mines Are to Be Worked.

Cohasset, Minn., Jan. 17.—On account of Cohasset's close proximity to the Poole and other iron mine locations at the northerly end of Pokegama lake, the news that the Poole and other iron properties in that district are to be developed, is of much interest here.

The iron properties of the Pokegama lake district are within easy distance of Cohasset, being reached either by navigable water or by the new wagon road built into the district last fall from Cohasset, a distance of only two miles. As the waters of Pokegama lake empty into the Mississippi river at Cohasset, and are navigable to steamboats and other craft all the way to these new mining properties of the district, it is expected that the mine owners will take advantage of this cheap means of transportation between the Great Northern railway at Cohasset and the mines, as well as also use the direct route via the new wagon road, which is a distance of less than two miles over a high and level section of country from Cohasset. The distance between the steamboat docks at Cohasset and the Poole mines is but a little farther than by wagon road.

Cohasset built new docks on the river front last season on account of the increasing river and lake traffic, and the docks have the advantage of the sidetracks of the Great Northern railway running alongside of them, thus making the transfer of freight from rail to water handy and inexpensive. And boats or barges loaded from the cars at the Cohasset docks can be transported direct to the mines which are situated near the shores of Pokegama lake.

Oberg, Mrs. Huisko, S. Helkkala and Alex Koskila. Rev. Kalanen, who resides at Eveleth, is the pastor in charge, and the church organization is showing a pleasing growth.

New Market Manager.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Manager of the People's Co-operative Co. meat market, William Thiese, has resigned and returned to his home in Superior. It is thought that Mr. Thiese will start a market of his own. Charles Carr of Harbor Springs, Mich., is now manager, assuming the position on Monday.

according to the amounts consumed, so that levying them properly means an adjustment of burdens among consumers according to their ability to pay, and not a distribution among manufacturers of rights to collect tribute from consumers.

"Also that what the government needs, is known, and the way to collect it without injustice to any citizen, is easily found, while no man or body of men can discover, or apply, a proper rule for levying taxes on all citizens for the benefit of a few, and besides, what is wrong cannot be made right by the way it is done; that taxes on imports for needed public revenues afford the only advantage to American manufacturers which the government justly can give or that the country ought to be burdened with, in view of the cost and risk of the long shipment of imported goods must undergo; and that American labor does not get the benefit of exactions from the people demanded and authorized in its pretended interest.

Commission From People.

"We hold from the people a commission to institute the tariff on these principles. We would not know how to do it in any other way, as we do not believe in special favors to anybody we could not undertake to award or distribute them."

Mr. Harmon urged care and prudence in tariff reform. He said the risk of disturbance, whatever it may be, must be run some time, and the sooner the better, "unless we are to go on forever under the oppressive, demoralizing, corrupting system of favor taxes, and never regain our share of the commerce of the world."

The speaker further said the confidence of the people in the Democratic party could only be justified by everyone, individually, devoting his time and talents to the public business, with an eye single to the general good, and by all acting in cordial harmony to accomplish the common purpose.

Must Be Faithful.

"Personal preferences," said Mr. Harmon, "jealousies and ambitions must not be allowed to spring up and breed confusion in council and action. We are not only on trial, but it is a limited trial. We must be faithful in a few things entrusted to us before we can hope to be given more, or even to keep what we have. A party must now reach the reason and conscience of the voters, or the years of its rule are soon numbered." Discussing governmental expenditures, Mr. Harmon said: "For sixteen years the Republican party has controlled the body which originates and appropriates all money collected from the people. During that period the expenses of the army have increased four fold; of the navy five fold; of the sundry civil service, four fold. The cost of other branches of the government has greatly swollen, too. Are these enormous sums really required for the proper conduct of the public business? Give us a look at the books and into the methods of doing business and we will tell. We now have the opportunity. Let us take it."

NO "DOLLAR DINNER" ABOUT THIS SPREAD

Democrats Will Sit at a Feast of Terrapin and Duck.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 17.—Content during the lean years of defeat to meet at "dollar dinners" with "hog and hominy" as the central theme and spring water on the side, the militant Democracy of 1911 will sit at a feast in this city tonight where diamondback terrapin will alternate with canvas-back duck in the courses of a banquet to celebrate the Democratic victories of 1910.

The banquet will be the closing feature of a day given over to harmony conferences among Democrats from various sections of the country. Governor Harmon of Ohio, and Champ Clark of Missouri are to be the central figures in the day's doings. Both will deliver formal addresses in the afternoon and both probably will be called for impromptu remarks at the banquet although neither one is on the announced list of speakers.

Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas, Governor Eugene N. Foss of Massachusetts, Senator Robert L. Taylor of Tennessee, Senator Shiveley of Indiana, Representative-elect Martin W. Littleton of New York and National Chairman Norman F. Mack, are among those who will deliver speeches during the afternoon or at the banquet.

A special train from Washington will bring to Baltimore practically every Democratic member of the United States senate and house of representatives. Altogether it is expected that more than 1,000 Democrats will be seated in the Fifth regiment armory tonight.

Before the toastmaster reports for order, however, the diners will have an opportunity to make away with 7,000 Lynnhaven oysters, seventy-five gallons of diamondback terrapin, 1,650 pounds of Jersey capon, 550 canvasback ducks, forty-five Smithfield hams, 1,000 cocktails, 550 quarts of champagne, 400 quarts of sautern and the smoke from 3,000 perfecto cigars will ascend during the evening.

Will Include Students From Both Eastern and Western Universities.

College men at the Head of the Lakes and on the iron ranges will hold a banquet at the Spalding hotel Feb. 21.

Graduates of colleges and universities in this country and elsewhere, and men who have attended any college for at least two years, will be eligible to an invitation to the banquet.

Two years ago college men held a banquet at the Commercial club. On that occasion only graduates of institutions in the East and Canada could be guests, Michigan and Minnesota men being barred, as they had banquets of their own. At the forthcoming event there will be no geographical restrictions, and a man does not need to be a graduate to attend, two years' attendance being sufficient.

The speakers have not been selected. The committee in charge of the banquet is arranging what it believes is an excellent program, announcement of which will be made later.

College men desiring to attend the banquet are requested to communicate with P. H. Welch, 701 Wolvin building, or I. K. Lewis, Alworth building.

WILLIAM HILL FOUND GUILTY

Jurors Recommend That the Court Show Him Leniency.

A jury in United States court late yesterday afternoon returned a verdict of guilty in the case of William Hill, charged with obtaining possession of a registered letter by fraudulent representations. A recommendation was made that the court show mercy in dealing with him.

Hill was accused of having represented himself as another man in order to obtain possession of a registered letter at the Virginia, Minn., postoffice. The letter contained £150 sterling from England in international postal money orders. Hill had indorsed one of the orders but had not cashed it when he was arrested.

COUNCIL RECOMMENDS FIVE BILLS FOR PASSAGE

City Fathers Tell State Legislators What Their Wishes Are.

Building Inspector Is Directed to Enforce the Hotel Ordinance.

The legislative committee of the council last night reported five bills which the present legislature will be asked to pass, in the interests of the city. All of them are considered important and vital to Duluth.

The first authorizes the city to issue bonds for acquiring and constructing an electric light plant. The second enables the city to exchange lands acquired for parks and playgrounds for other lands to be used for the same purpose. The measure is primarily to legalize the exchange of Fairmont park between the city and the railroad company.

The third requires any county treasurer now empowered by law to collect assessments to do so at the same time he collects the general taxes. It is stated that many people now avoid the payment of their assessments because this is not done, allowing their property to be sold for taxes. It is explained that they bid it in for a nominal sum and that in this way the payment of the assessments is avoided.

The fourth is an act regulating the rank and priority of liens for general taxes and assessments for local improvements in cities of over 50,000 inhabitants, and the fifth is an act to legalize and validate bonds heretofore issued and sold by the city for the purpose of a permanent improvement revolving fund. Specifically, it is to validate bonds issued last year for that fund, the bonds being taken by contractors and citizens to the extent of $25,000 in lieu of cash. The council unanimously voted that the bills be forwarded to the legislature with its indorsement.

The building inspector sent in a report stating that not one of the many hotels which were examined for fire escapes and fire appliances complied with that section of the ordinance which calls for the placarding of fire escapes, the burning of a red light to indicate their location at night, and the installation of gongs sufficient to awaken every roomer in the place in case of a conflagration. Most of them are vertitable fire traps and do not begin to afford protection to their guests. The council passed a resolution instructing the building inspector to enforce the ordinance in this respect. Another section of the ordinance provides that the building inspector shall serve a written notice upon the agent or occupant of the building to comply with the provisions of the ordinance. Failure to do so within thirty days is made a misdemeanor, punishable by fine and imprisonment.

The resignation fo Harry W. Cheadle, now state senator from the Fifty-first district, as city clerk, was accepted. The same resolution incorporated a brief eulogy of his many services to the city during the many years he has acted as city clerk. Deputy C. S. Palmer was elected city clerk to succeed him on the first ballot. City Clerk Palmer made a short speech in which he thanked the aldermen for the honor bestowed upon him and stating that he will endeavor to fulfill the duties of the office to the best of his ability.

The naval militia sent in a communication asking that a space about 15 by 25 feet be set aside in the basement of the Armory for the placing of a 4-inch gun which has been sent to the local body by the government.

The West Duluth Commercial club sent in an invitation to the city fathers to attend their meeting Jan. 20, at which time the Canadian Northern railroad crossings over Fifty-ninth and Grand avenues will be discussed.

D. A. Lindsey of the state board of control sent in a request that more bedding be placed in the lockup at West Duluth.

A petition was received for the paving of Tenth avenue east, between Fourth and Sixth streets.

The board of fire commissioners asked permission to advertise for bids for a combination chemical and hose wagon. If secured it will be placed at Lakeside. The matter was laid over until next week.

A resolution was passed giving it as the sense of the council that the posts of the Northern Pacific railroad in the Jenswold street tunnel are a menace to safety and should be removed.

Following the mayor's recommendation last week the council directed railroads to place lights on their crossings on Birch avenue on Rice's Point and at Eighteenth, Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues west.

EXPLOITED MINE WITH BANK'S COIN

Receiver of Suspended Bank Declines to Return Money Deposited.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—Judge Kenesaw M. Landis of the United States district court is hearing the demurrer to a suit of C. L. Williams, receiver of the First National bank of Mineral Point, Wis., to recover $150,000 and the Kennedy Mining company's property, the latter of which he charges was exploited with the money of the bank.

The case is a complicated one, the history being in substance as follows, as alleged in Receiver Williams' complaint: Two days before the bank went into the hands of a receiver on Oct. 11, 1909, the mining company, of which Richard Kennedy, Calvert Spensley, Phil Allen, Jr., and C. W. McIlhon, former officers of the bank, were organizers, deposited $150,000 with the bank in an effort to prevent its failure. When it failed they asked the return of their deposit, but the receiver claimed it was not theirs, that they had taken the money unlawfully from the bank in the beginning to foat their company and that should remain as an asset to stockholders.

The named men sued for recovery of the sum, Williams filed a cross suit and the hearing is on a demurrer to the cross suit.

NATALIE VON CLAUSSEN ILL.

Child Who Started Diplomatic Turmoil Undergoes an Operation.

New York, Jan. 17.—Mrs. Ida Von Claussen's 9-year-old daughter, Natalie, whose childish desire to present some flowers to the late King Oscar of Sweden four years ago made her the innocent cause of all the diplomatic difficulties between the mother and Minister Graves at Stockholm, is seriously ill. She was operated on Sunday for mastoiditis. A second operation may be necessary.

When 5 years old, Natalie found King Oscar at their hotel in Weisbaden, and it being his birthday, took him some flowers. King Oscar was charmed with the child's attention and invited her mother to the court at Stockholm, but when she asked Minister Graves and Mrs. Graves to present her they are said to have refused. Mrs. von Claussen appealed to President Roosevelt and he declined to interfere. Mrs. von Claussen is suing her divorced husband, Dr. W. Francis Honan, in Saratoga, for additional income for the support of her child.

DESPERATE STRUGGLE

Ends in Horseman and Employe Falling to Their Death.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 17.—As spectacular as any thrilling melodrama was the killing of John Anderson, a well-known and wealthy Seattle horseman, and an employe, Ben Christenson.

Early morning pedestrians heard cries proceeding from the top floor of the Lexington hotel and saw the shadows of two men in a desperate struggle thrown on the window by a strong light behind them. Suddenly the men moved closer to the window and without a moment's warning both crashed out through the glass to the street, three stories below.

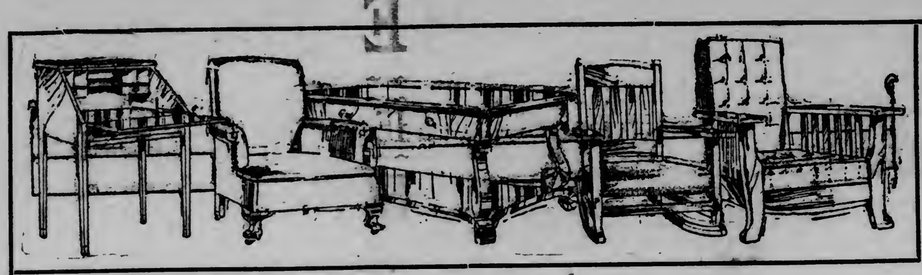

Both were instantly killed. Which was the aggressor will never be known as the cause of the struggle is shrouded in mystery. It is supposed that Christenson went to his employer's hotel and started a fight over his wages.

WELLS ARE GOING DRY.

Menace Confronts Railroad Stockmen Around Crookston.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lack of rain in this section last fall and summer is making itself apparent to the railroads. Old railroad men, who have been here for the past twenty-eight or thirty years, state that the railroad never before had the trouble in keeping a supply of water in the tanks as now.

The situation is getting to be real serious and at many of the pumping stations the wells are being sapped dry every day and the engines are taking on only just what they can get along with at such places and tanking up full at the few places where there is an abundance of water.

One official stated that for the next eighty or ninety days the situation was going to be most perplexing and cause much trouble and great expense to the railroad companies. Wells which heretofore have appeared inexhaustible, are giving out completely, or the supply is very limited. Surface wells on the farms are also giving out, and many of them are hauling water long distances for their stock.

LOGGERS BRANCHING OUT.

Upper Michigan Concern to Raise Fruit and Poultry.

Northland, Mich., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The National Pole company, one of the biggest logging operators and shippers of forest products in Upper Michigan, and which has a farm in Delta county that is one of the largest and most highly improved in the peninsula, has decided also to turn its attention to new branches of industry. It planted 500 apple trees last year and it has ordered 500 more for delivery the coming spring. The orchard will be made one of the most extensive in the state. Aside from fruit culture, the company proposes to engage in the chicken business on a large scale. A poultry house has been built at the farm at Whitney and it will be stocked with a choice breed of hens. An agricultural expert of college training has been placed in charge of the farm and its kindred departments.

Pleads Not Guilty.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Mrs. Edith Melber pleaded not guilty yesterday to the charge of murder in the first degree before Justice Cochrane in the supreme court after being indicted by the grand jury for killing her 5-year-old son, George Melber, by giving him carbolic acid to drink.

How to Gain Flesh.

A simple but sure way to increase the weight, it is asserted by several well known physicians, is to take regularly for several months, one or two 5 grain hypo-nuclane tablets after each meal. They are obtainable in sealed packages from physicians and well stocked apothecary shops.

STILLWATER STORE IS DAMAGED BY FIRE.

Stillwater, Minn., Jan. 17.—Fire in the stone building, Main and Chestnut streets, owned by the Joseph Schienck estate of St. Paul, did $20,000,000 damages Sunday. The blaze was ignited by the furnace. The St. Croix Drug company and John Caeser, jeweler, are the heavy losers, their property being almost totally destroyed, but covered by insurance.

Furnishings in the offices of Dr. B. J. Merrill and Dr. E. F. O'Donnell, dentists, also was damaged. The St. Croix Shoe company's plant was damaged by smoke. The building was damaged about $2,000.

SEEK ROUTE TO DULUTH.

Surveyors for Soo Line Working Around Frederic, Wis.

Frederic, Wis., Jan. 17.—A large crew of surveyors in the employ of the Soo line has been encamped in this village for the last month. The crew is making a complete survey of the surrounding territory, trying to find the best branch of the Soo line, north to the Head of the Lakes. The surveyors are now about five miles northeast.

Although there is nothing definite to indicate the direction the extension of the road will take, the best founded rumors are that the road will probably be built northwest to connect with the Soo line at or near Moose Lake, Minn.

It is known that some of the officials of the Soo line have large land holdings in Pine county, and it seems likely that an effort will be made to reach this property by the railroad.

Rumors are persistent, however, that the road will run northeast and connect with the Wisconsin Central at Gordon or Solon Springs, Wis.

SENATOR CLAPP.

It is Senator Clapp again. The Minnesota legislature has voted to return the "Black Eagle" to Washington for another six-year term. The Herald congratulates both Senator Clapp and the state, for any man who is honored by re-election to the United States senate is entitled to congratulation, and the experience of states in which there have been sharp conflicts over the senatorship is not the kind of experience which is beneficial to the state itself. Minnesota is fortunate in having avoided a bitter, long-drawn fight and possibly a legislative deadlock with its attendant evils.

But Senator Clapp must make up his mind to the fact that his new term in the senate is to be passed under even closer scrutiny than the last. Considering the complexion of the Minnesota legislature and of the state's delegation in the house at Washington, he was elected as a progressive, and the people of the state are in a mood to brook no temporizing with the special interests to whose depredations the progressives of both parties are opposed. Senator Clapp has succeeded in getting himself classed as a progressive in the senate, but he is far from being entitled to such a rank as was accorded to Cummins, La Follette, and the late Senator Dolliver. Still, he stood with them in some of the most important of their fights, and his support of progressives in the campaign last fall indentified him a little more closely with that element.

Nevertheless Senator Clapp's past performances were not of a nature to clear away all possible doubt as to where he stood on legislative measures, and it was on that account that talk of opposition to his re-election, though it ended only in talk, began. By the time his present term is ended it is easily possible that the separate states will be electing senators by the direct vote of the people, therefore it behooves those men chosen to that body this winter to keep in closer touch with the voters of the states than has been the custom of senators in the past. Senator Clapp knows this, and his alignments at the last session of congress should make it possible for him to take a rank that will give Minnesota at least one out-and out progressive in the United States senate.

AN OBJECT OF PITY.

Let us pause long enough to drop a tear of pity for poor Mr. Lorimer. Instead of being content with merely holding him up to scorn, his opponents are seeking to drag him down from the high place which he has gone to Washington to occupy, and substitute somebody else, perhaps even somebody with whom Mr. Lorimer has not even a speaking acquaintance.

Think of this culmination to a series of events that must have thrilled this public spirited man with the noblest impulses as they progressed! To go back to the very beginning, in the primary election held Aug. 8, 1908, Congressman Lorimer was not even considered for the senatorship. Four other men were voted on, and A. J. Hopkins led, but Mr. Lorimer was not even mentioned. But the primary vote was only advisory as far as the legislature was concerned, and a battle ensued in that body which must have made Mr. Lorimer and all other honest Illinois citizens blush for shame. Day after day the balloting went on, but no decision was reached. There were stories of attempted trades and deals, but the deadlock remained absolute. How the heart of the congressman must have throbbed with fear that the legislators, impatient at the delay, might ultimately choose the less worthy of the candidates rather than stay longer at Springfield. How he must have racked his brain to try to find some way of settling the dispute, of bringing peace out of strife, of giving Illinois a senator who would be worthy to bear the honor.

But day after day, beginning Jan. 19 and continuing until May 13, the struggle continued, and through all this time this poor congressman was obliged to sit idly by and watch the heart-breaking scene. There was no change in the voting that amounted to anything, and it is easy to see that Mr. Lorimer's patriotic soul must have been sadly torn as he gazed on the rottenness at Springfield.

At last there came a suggestion—where it came from nobody knows, but now there can be no doubt that it was heaven-born. Why should not this poor, humble, high-minded congressman present his own name to the legislators that they might unite by sending even so humble and insignificant, but honorable, a person as himself to the senate? Timidly, oh, so timidly, and with infinite self-abasement, he made the suggestion, and on May 13 his name was presented to the legislature—and it got one vote.

What a blow, if Mr. Lorimer had been proud. But he was not proud. He was humble. He knew that he had acted only in accordance with patriotism and the best interests of all, and in this hour of apparent defeat he was borne up by consciousness of his high motives. It was all over, now. He had offered himself as a sacrifice and had been rejected. What more could he do? Nothing, except to spend more long days watching the disgrace of his state, an ordeal that to one such as he must have brought infinite pain and sorrow.

But was it all over? Were his earnest willingness to be sacrificed for his state, his high intent and his noble action to go for nothing? No. On the next day he again got one vote. Also on the next Monday. Was he, so humble, so insignificant, so poor, to win the high honor? Even up to May 25 that one vote for him persisted, and then, on May 26—what honor for simple worth! what a triumph for silent integrity!—on May 26 he landed a majority and was elected.!

Shall the honor be torn from his grasp, the honor which came thus unsought, which he had not even considered as a possibility for so poor a one as he? Picture his position: Elected to the United States senate under such conditions; approved for that position by men who ought to know whether he deserved it if they were capable of knowing anything respectable at all; going expectantly to Washington to assume the place thus accorded him; and instead of finding himself hailed as a hero in the campaign of humble virtue, he finds himself villified for things of which he himself says he knew nothing, dreamed nothing, suspected nothing—deeds of the like of which he never even had heard, in which he would have scorned to participate if there were any likelihood of its becoming generally known.

Truly it is a spectacle to make men and devils weep; a triumph ruined by treachery; an honorable office put on the market and sold like so many pounds of fertilizer to a man who never bought it. Is it not pitiful? Yes, it is not. Let us all join hands and pity Lorimer—when we have finished everything else we can find to do.

TECHNICALITY ONCE MORE.

An attack on laws passed under the operation of the principle of the initiative is the latest thing in the technicality line. The Pacific States Telephone & Telegraph company has sued the state of Oregon to recover $10,450.68 paid by the company as taxes under the gross earnings tax law passed June 4, 1906. The company attacks the law as unconstitutional because it was passed as a result of the operation of the "initiative," which the company claims is a violation of that clause of the United States Constitution that guarantees to every state of the Union a "republican form of government." Where the initiative and referendum are in force, according to the corporation attorneys, there is not "republican" government, therefore a law passed under those provisions is invalid.

No less authority than the supreme court of the United States is to pass on the point, and though the question hangs less on a principle than on a technical quibble over the definition of a word, it is on that kind of question that the people of this country have been beaten in more than one instance.

Under the original definition of a republican form of government, the term meant strictly a government which was conducted by chosen representatives of the electors. Taking this definition literally, and applying it alike to legislators and executive officers, there is a possibility that the contention of the company is correct. But words change with changed conditions, and there probably would not be one person in one thousand who would consider the adoption of the principles of the initiative and referendum, as adjuncts to the older method, a violation of the essentials of republican government.

In these days when the adoption of the initiative and referendum has taken place or is being considered in probably not less than a third of the states of the Union, the question as presented to the supreme court is of vital interest, and the decision of that body, when it is announced, will have a strong bearing on state affairs.

KANSAS HAS AN IDEA.

Somebody has evolved a new solution of the problem "What is the matter with Kansas?" and is trying to put the idea into practice. He says (it must be a man's idea, for women in these days scorn such subjects) that one trouble with Kansas is that the girls there grow up without knowing how to take care of babies, and so when they become mothers themselves they are unfit for the new duties. So he has proposed the establishment of a school where the art of rearing babies will be taught. He wants the young women of the state to learn what to do for colic, for croup, for stubborn teeth, for wakefulness, and for other troubles that beset the young human animal in the first months and years of its existence.

That Kansas man (we insist that the idea is masculine in origin) is all right. His "hunch" is good, as far as it goes, but it stops too short. There is more to a baby than teeth and a stomach, and if he is going to teach the young women that much he had better go a little further and give them lessons that for their effect on the next few generations will discount anything yet tried in the educational line, to say nothing of the benefit that could be given to the present generation.

This step should be extended to give instruction in the care of children and mothers before the days and nights of colic and croup and teething begin. Many and many a young wife finds herself confronted with a condition that she never has considered as concerning her personally. According to her nature and temperament, she faces it in a spirit of exaltation or terror, but none the less under a burden of ignorance that bears a fearful fruit in mental and physical distress for herself and perhaps worse things for her children. She cannot realize that her condition is normal, and she does not know what steps to take to prevent disaster, to insure that there shall be no pre-natal influences such as would cripple the child mentally or physically or both. She should be taught, of course, but in a matter so important to the welfare of the race it is not enough to wait until the condition actually arises. There should be foreknowledge that will prevent the terror of the first few weeks, and that will forestall the first mistakes.

Within recent years much has been said and written on the subject of reproduction. Evils have grown and multiplied as a result of ignorance that was only the natural product of senseless and even vicious sensitiveness in the homes of the country. It is being recognized more and more every day that here is an enemy that must be met and conquered, and it is for the good women of the nation to fight for future generations by overcoming in themselves and others a "squeamishness" that is reaping a frightful harvest of lame, halt and blind, mentally and physically. This Kansas idea is all right as far as it goes, but there is more to the raising of heathy families than combating croup and teething and colic. There are rules of health and comfort, mental and physical, that should be observed in the pre-natal period, and until there is some means provided for the instruction of women in these matters, the health and mortality records of our country will continue to contain reproaches to American motherhood.

TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

Twins Don't Look Alike.

Princeton Union: The fellow who named St. Paul and Minneapolis the "Twin" Cities was a mighty poor judge of similarities. They bear no more resemblance to one another than Stockholm does to Dublin.

And in their hearts—everybody's heard of the "heart of the city"—they are pleased that it is so.

From Quarry to Oven.

Pine Poker: It is said that a good many of the quarrymen of Sandstone have engaged in the bakery business Yes, Geraldine, they have become regular loafers on account of the laxity of work in the quarries.

Perhaps in the future when you ask for stone at that place they will give you bread.

The Lonely Ones.

Carlton Vidette: If there are any honest men in Adams county, Ohio, their names ought to be published.

Suppose the lonely ones were picked out and turned over to some modern Diogenes for cross-examination. That might result in a confirmation or refutation of the axiom that to be good is to be lonely.

Knockers of the New Plan.

Willmar Journal: An exchange says that the men who are the strongest in denunciation of the commission form of government are the politicians who have discovered that they are not wide enough between the eyes to serve as commissioners. That's what hurts them.

They're not particularly sensitive chaps in most cases, at that.

Roosevelt and Lorimer.

Winona Independent: If the senatorial committee appointed to "vindicate" Senator Lorimer's election is correct in its "verdict," then Col. Roosevelt owes the senator from Illinois an apology.

If the Colonel told his opinion of this congressional miscarriage of justice he would be liable to imprisonment for contempt, if the committee possessed judicial powers.

May Have Been 9,999?

Moose Lake Star-Gazette: A St. Louis woman says she has been kissed by 10,000 men. We do not believe that any woman could stand the test of being kissed by 10,000 St. Louis men.

And Ananias had a wife.

Needs of the Insurgents.

Madison Independent-Press: It is said that the insurgent Republicans do not like the appointment of White to the chief justiceship. Well, these so-called insurgents are getting a bit tiresome and it will not be long before they will be dead and down timber if they do not do something to show that they mean what they say.

The chief need of the insurgents is to get all of their forces actively into the field. That done, the stand-patters would be pronouncedly in the minority. Soldiers who don't fight do not help their cause.

Worth Copying.

St. Peter Tribune: Owatonna has a new ordinance compelling the sale of potatoes by weight instead of by measure, and making it a misdemeanor to do otherwise. Such an ordinance ought to be in force everywhere, and would work no hardship on any one, but would tend to protect the honest merchant and dealer, as well as the consumer.

An ordinance that might be studied to advantage by Duluth city dads.

Formosa.

Washington Post: "America does not get the highest grade of coffee produced in Java, nor the best grade of tae from Formosa," said Horace T. Tompkins, an American tea exporter from the island of Formosa, at the Raleigh.

"It is somewhat strange that it is almost impossible to get good coffee in Asia, as it would seem that Java could supply that part of the world, but it is a fact that good coffee is unknown in the Orient. One can get first class coffee in Belgium, in France or in England, and good coffee in the United States, but here we get only the second grade of the coffee bean. In fact, there is not a great quantity of first-class coffee produced, and it all goes to England, where the demand for the finest grades of everything to eat is limited. Formosa sends to the United States every year about 18,000,000 pounds of tea. It is of good quality, but not the highest grade. In the whole island no more than 1,000 pounds of the very best tea is grown, and this is shipped to various countries. But a small quantity of it goes to New York.

"Formosa has a population of 3,500,000, most of whom are Chinese. There are about 35,000 Japanese. The Viceroy of Formosa, Satsuma, is a man of great ability, and is friendly to the United States and Americans. Dartotol, the principal city of Formosa, has a population of 135,000."

Rewards of Education.

Omaha World-Herald: We notice in the news from a Nebraska town of some 2,000 population that the high school principal, who is highly commended as one of the best of his kind, is about to leave the teaching profession and engage in the running of a lumber yard. For directing the education of perhaps a hundred young men and women through the years when they are most susceptible to influence he receives the sum of $900 per year, which is about equivalent to the reward of the humblest employe of a first-class lumber yard.

The truth is that there is strong competition in the teaching business—competition to see who can get out of it first; and naturally the best men win. The brightest, most energetic and most capable men in public school teaching have such a palpable advantage that they walk right away from their less gifted brethren, just as the fleetest soldiers have much the best show in a general retreat.

If good, capable high school principals should by some revolutionary movement in our society be put on a pay scale approximately equal to that of ordinary county officials, it is likely that clever men might acquire a liking for teaching jobs as they now fall over each other in a wild scramble for the office of county clerk or sheriff. There would still be competition, but then it would be to get in, where as it is now to get out. And then, as now, the best men would win.

Loneliness.

It is dreary at the North Pole
When the winds of winter howl
And the icebergs are a-crunching
And the polar bearlets growl;
And the Eskimo then murmurs
"None can half so lonely be"—
Yet the baseball fan in winter
Is far lonesomer than he.

It is fearsome in the jungle
In the silent tropic night
When no living thing is stirring
In the pale and ghastly light;
And the savage breaks the silence
With a sigh: "Ah, woe is me!"
Yet the baseball fan in winter
Is far lonesomer than he.

On the farm and in the village,
Time hangs leaden on all hands,
Folks are sighing, folks are crying
'Cause they're lonely, in all lands;
But the baseball fan in winter,
When no athlete swats the ball,
Is the one who gets our pity—
He's the lonesomest of all.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

EXPLAINS CLOSING OF MIDWAY SCHOOL.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your valued paper of the 13th inst. I find in the West Duluth department a news item concerning the Midway schools, which is misleading, therefore, with your permission, I desire to offer the following explanation. It is true that one of our schools was closed for the reason that said school was not really needed and that the funds at our disposal did not warrant the maintenance of four school houses. This action, however, was not taken until it had been submitted to a vote of the citizens. The statement made that the children, who formerly attended the closed school are compelled to walk three miles to school is wrong, as all these children who belong to our school district are furnished free transportation to and from the "Midway" schoolhouse, which is located exactly one and one-half miles from the one closed up. They are driven in a covered rig at the expense of the school district. Another misleading statement is that thirty-seven children are affected by the change, when in fact, not over nineteen are affected. The total attendance at the closed school during the 1909-10 term was thirty-two, and out of these twelve were not residents of our district, but of adjoining territory, and were permitted to attend the school out of the kindness of the school board. C. C. Miller, the gentleman referred to in the news item, is not a resident of our township or school district and never was. His farm is located in that part of Carlton county which adjoins Midway township on the west. Mr. Miller certainly cannot expect our school district to continue to furnish his children with an education, when he is not a resident thereof. He must look to the authorities of his own county.

Respectfully yours,
HENRY NORMAN.

PRIVATE FUNERALS FOR TUBERCULOSIS VICTIMS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Certain matters are delicate subjects to be treated of in newspaper communications, but there is one which I think should be touched upon in the Open Court column. That is the subject of funerals of victims of tuberculosis.

In other contagious and infectious diseases, funerals are private. In cases of death by tuberculosis, the infectious nature of which was long disregarded, public funerals have been held with never a thought of restrictions, disinfecting the house before the funeral or of other precautionary measures.

The opening of windows, the isolation of tuberculosis patients, sleeping out of doors and other measures for the prevention and cure of tuberculosis were not thought of a few years ago. They are in effect in almost every case of tuberculosis now and I think that funerals of tuberculosis victims should be private as an added precaution.

When public funerals are held, the friends of the family do not like to remain away. Out of justice to them the funerals should be private, in order that they may not be exposed to the disease. I think the health department should take the necessary measures, if the families of tuberculosis victims do not do so.

UNDER THE COMMISSION.

Kansas City, Kan., Dispatch: Kansas City, Kan., has rounded out her first fiscal year under the commission form of government, and she is well pleased with the showing. She has put herself on a business basis, has increased her income, lopped off unnecessary expenditures, and increased efficiency in public service.

When the commission went in last April it found about $30,000 in the general fund, and $40,000 in the general improvement fund. It costs $12,000 a month to run the city.

The commission got busy. They reduced the police force from ninety-five men to fifty-six, and the fire force from seventy-four to fifty-seven, and by furbishing up the departments got just as good protection as was secured under the old regime.

Then they went after the money. They got all the money that was coming to the city. For instance, they got for franchises last year $16,000, whereas the year before, under the same conditions, the city got but $9,000.

This is the way the collections of last year and the year before look in comparison:

	1909.	1910.
Occupation licenses	$38,885.14	$51,450.45
Police court fines..	6,228.75	11,373.76
Dog tax	3,084.25	6,796.50
Interest on deposits in banks	3,688.01	10,971.07
Franchises	9,000.00	16,000.00
Motor car taxes.....		359.95

According to the report just submitted by the commissioners this is the way they went about it to collect moneys due the city from franchises:

"The franchise given the Kansas City Western Railway company required the payment of 2 per cent of each 5-cent fare originating in Kansas City, Kan. This never had been collected by the city until the current year. The commissioners collected not only for this year, but for all previous years.

"Prior to this year the Bell Telephone company never had paid to the city one cent for the rights granted it under its franchise, the only thing granted the city being eight free telephones. Without granting any additional rights to the company, the city now is collecting from the company 2 per cent of its gross receipts and receiving the free use of sixteen telephones. This item amounts to about $5,000 for this year alone."

During the past year the city has laid more pavement than in any other year, and has done it at a lower rate than heretofore. Brick paving has been reduced from $1.70 per square yard to $1.50, and asphalt from $2.10 to $1.85.

Furthermore the city is now building two new fire stations and a new city hall.

Altogether Kansas City, Kan., is well pleased with her experiment in the commission form of municipal goverument.

Perfect Peace.

Pearson's Weekly: The shivering carollers had just selected a pitch beneath a lamp in a back street, when a small boy emerged from a house opposite and beckoned mysteriously to their leader.

"Mother says you're to sing something loud," he whispered. "That bit about 'Peace on earth' will do fine! She don't want no others. Just you go on hollering 'Peace on earth.'"

For ten minutes the willing minstrels yelled their loudest. Then a little woman, armed with a copper saucepan, appeared upon the scene.

"Thanks!" she said, handing the collector three-pence. "That 'Peace on earth' as done it beautiful! My ol' man went to fetch the turkey 'e won in a raffle tonight, an' comin' 'ome, 'e made one or two calls and lorst it, so I've jest been a-teachin' 'im to be more careful, an' I didn't want none of the neighbors to interfere when 'e 'ollered out."

A NEW MAN FROM OHIO.

Boston Transcript: In the selection of a candidate for the United States senate the Democrats of Ohio have risen to the full measure of their opportunity. In Lieutenant Governor Atlee Pomerene, they have chosen a man worthy of the best traditions of that commonwealth. The result is all the more gratifying because it was not wholly expected. The chairman of the state Democratic committee was a seeker for the honor and had the advantage, if it was one, of the regular organization behind him. But better judgment and counsel prevailed and the better man was taken.

Mr. Pomerene has never been an office seeker in the usual sense of the term, though he has held public positions before the present time and always with credit. It would probably be necessary to go a long way back or around, in political history to find a precedent for conferring this honor, perhaps the highest that a state can bestow, upon its lieutenant governor, so it was the man himself and not any fortuitious prominence of place that put him in the foreground. And the man is well known throughout the state of Ohio. A townsman and friend of the late President McKinley, he is one of the ablest lawyers of the state. Eleven years ago he was candidate for circuit judge in the Fifth judicial district, and though he was not elected, the press said of him at the time: "No attorney is held in higher regard by his fellow practitioners. As a public servant he was fearless in the conduct of his office and won for himself many words of warmest commendation. A splendid lawyer and an affable gentleman, he combines with these qualities a well poised mentality that eminently fits him for the position."

He was one of the honor men in the class of 1884 at Princeton university, having among his associates the witty Job Hedges, former assistant attorney general of New York; Dr. J. M. F. Finney, now head of the Johns Hopkins hospital; Prof. Reeves of the New York law school, who was one of those mentioned to succeed Judge Gaynor, and a number of others who have attained prominence and success in various callings. A man's measure is pretty well taken by his classmates and the reputation and character of Mr. Pomerene are entirely safe in their keeping.

Republicans and Democrats alike feel that the dignity and interests of the state will suffer no impairment at his hands. He comes of good old stock, being one of eleven children, all of whom were given excellent educations. One brother who though blind had won credit in the ministry, was killed in a railroad accident a few years ago We like to see our senators look the part as well as act it, and in this respect Mr. Pomerene is rather unusual. His presence is striking. He is quite bald and this brings into strong relief a dome-like brow, which is an indication of good furnishing behind it. In other words, he is the kind of man that attracts attention in a crowd. As a court pleader he is famed in this state for his eloquence. The Democrats of Ohio and Maine have given good account of themselves in senatorial nominations. There are some other states in which we have less confidence.

Evers Planning to Start a Baseball Correspondence School—The Curlers' Banquet—Papke's Fall—Baseball Again to the Fore—Gotch to Re-Enter Game.

(BY BRUCE.)

Johnny Evers, perhaps the greatest and brainiest man that baseball has produced these last few years, is, if we can believe the press reports, about to open a baseball correspondence school. The idea is highly original and worthy of the man who once robbed New York of a pennant by the exhibition of a flashy piece of brain work.

Sure, it sounds fine, but will it work? The guy from the city lots who in many cases is hardly able to sign his name to the pay roll, is often the superior to the college player in the matter of quick thinking in pinches and inside baseball, which the least observing of fans will admit requires some kind of brains.

Therefore some that might come along fine in the correspondence school, as far as mastering the lessons that Prof. Evers prescribed, might prove dumbheads when it came to pulling off the plays when they should be performed on the actual field of battle. We have made lots of progress in baseball and it is not in the least surprising that the correspondence school should loom up. It will serve to spread the fame of Evers, which at the present time extends from one coast to the other, and at that may set the youngsters coming up thinking on the possibilities of baseball. This man Evers has done more than his share in bringing brainy baseball to the foreground of practical use, and it will at least prove an interesting experiment to ascertain just how far the correspondence school of the great national game, if the press stuff is not a myth, does benefit the young player.

The Jolly Curlers' Banquet.

According to present arrangements the curlers are going to be given an entertainment Wednesday evening that will make them remember kindly the good time they had while in this city. It is expected that the banquet will be the biggest ever held in connection with a Northwestern curling gathering. Not only this, but it promises to be the jolliest, which is going some, for has there ever been a curling bonspiel that has not been filled with the cheer that radiates around the cockles of the heart?

These curlers are the boys of all boys. Figuratively the city annually throws its arms around their necks and kills the fatted calf for them. The keys of the city will be swung carelessly on the latch string for them, and they have the freedom of the city during the present week. But returning to the banquet, it may be said that some speeches that will be well worth preserving will be let loose on this festive occasion.

They are not in the least supposed to be prepared; not in the least. But it is whispered around that some of the prospective speakers, receiving the hunch that they would be called upon, have set to work to prepare works of oratory that would make the tongue of the Bryan boy cleave to his mouth in dumb dismay.

The banquet is really the get together event of the week. Here the curlers meet and forget the very fact that there is trouble in the world. Good cheer reigns and genial souls comingle to pass the brimming dish of happiness. It is an event that some of the more enthusiastic of the old school look forward to for months. The time is near, and one might say the time is dear, and those in charge are working to make it an event that will make memories rosy until the dim past smears them with its fading light. Outside of that, it should be some grand time.

Did He Fall, Or Was He Pushed?

Reports from Australia, relative to our old friend, William Papke, Esq., of Kewanee, Ill., once a poor and humble coal driver but now a lofty and proud pugilist, do say that Bill was feeling plum bad before the fight with Mons. Smith, the boy who won on a foul from the Illinois Thunderbolt.

If Bill was feeling plum off his feed before the fight, what must have been his feelings after the battle? That is a question that has been utterly ignored in the reports that have been hastily gathered from the land of the Kangaroo.

There is also the distant dope regarding the return battle of the pair. Either Smith is awfully good, or Papke has hit the toboggan with a running slide. For a man who has been industriously claiming the middleweight championship of the world, reports would indicate that Papke did not put up much of a fight.

But bet your money on Willie in the return battle. He probably was somewhat affected by the climate and also held this fellow cheap. Papke can fight when in shape, though some do say as how he has not the best heart in the world. He is not nor never will be the great fighter that the late Ketchel was, for he has not the natural fighting instinct that was part and parcel of the makeup of Steve. But Bill is one of the best and it doesn't seem reasonable that Smith could lick him, unless something was wrong with Kewanee's favorite son.

Next month some of the more rheumatic and stiff kneed of the baseball brigade will hike for Hot Springs. Old Cy Young and some of the old boys who are compelled to boil out each season before their joints will even give them a pleasant word, let alone be of actual service, will make up the advance guard of the spring training cavalcade.

Here We Are Again, Baseball With Us.

Already many of the major league teams have selected their training camps. Within two months almost, we will begin to receive reports of the preliminary games of the big league teams. These days of the fight for pennants the season of rest is indeed of short duration. Think for a minute of the brief respite some of the players who made the Cuban trip, will have. They will hardly have time to take on any flesh, which is a very good thing for an athlete. The spring training season starts in March, the regular season lasts until sometime in October, and then we have the winter baseball tour. We are rapidly approaching the time when there will be baseball all the year round.

The spring campaign is ever interesting from the very fact that there is the element of uncertainty. There are a lot of teams which will try out any number of young players, and the past season probably saw the passing from big league baseball of a number of stars. In the spring training tour the youngster generally stars, shines with that brilliancy that is only eclipsed with the rapidity of his fall when he gets into the real games and runs head foremost into the competition that often gets the goat of the kid players.

We are all awaiting the opening of the season, for there is the case of the Cubs, Pirates and Giants, and we are wondering if Wagner, Steinfeldt, Mathewson, Brown and some of the other great men of the past have really reached the place where they will be forced to give way to younger men.

Gotch Is Surely Coming Back.

The writer has it from no less an authority than Emil Klank, who has for the past few years looked after some of the business interests of Frank A. Gotch, that the big fellow is coming back and will, at least, wrestle a few matches. The welcome news can be given out at this time that the world's greatest wrestler will very probably, almost surely, be seen in a finish match in this city.

Gotch has always been a favorite here, both for his great ability on the mat and because he is a gentleman making friends wherever he goes. The Iowan numbers his friends in this city by the scores, and every time he comes up this way he holds an informal reception.

It is very probable that only the coming of Hackenschmidt to this country could have drawn Gotch out of the shell of retirement. He has been sincere all along in his desire to stay away from the grappling game. But it will also be remembered that he has long wanted to show the public that he could beat Hackenschmidt.

It must be said that there is a reasonable doubt on this score, and probably no one knows the public mind better than Gotch. He wants, no doubt, to convince the American public of his supremacy, and will come out for this purpose.

Nothing but praise should be given to Hackenschmidt. He has gone along in the manner of a gentleman, has simply stated that he would be glad to wrestle Gotch, should the Iowa farmer come out of retirement. He has not barked at the moon, as has this Mahmout person, and when some one offered some money Hackenschmidt seemed perfectly willing to gamble with his own earnings.

The wrestling world wants to see these two giants of the mat in a finish battle, and the good news given out this way relative to the future movements of Gotch, should convince most discriminating observers that Gotch is going to meet the Russian Lion in a match that should decide once for all the long drawn out question of supremacy.

FAIRMONTS LOSE AT HOCKEY

Big Duluths Play Fast Game, Defeating Opponents By 6 to 1.

Last evening the Big Duluths, champions of the city hockey league last season, defeated the Fairmonts by the score of 6 to 1. The Fairmonts proved rather easy and those present were somewhat disappointed because of the one-sided victory. The result of the contest last evening places the Big Duluths as favorites for the 1911 pennant, as in both games the present season they have shown very good form.

George Wood proved one of the stars for the victors, and Brown at right wing also played a very strong game. Bartlett also played a star game, his work in this regard being up to the high average he has maintained the present winter. Ashley made the only goal for the Fairmonts.

Clever stick handling and fast combination plays marked the playing of last year's champions. The play of the winning team was about the best that has been seen in the city league the present season.

The lineup and score:

Fairmonts.		Big Duluths.
H. Johnson	rw	Brown
Renaulds	lw	Ostergren
Ashley	c	Bartlett
Bljold	r	Poissant
Berg	c	G. Wood
MacKenzie	p	E. Wood

FRANK GOTCH WILL MEET ORDEMANN.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 17.—Frank Gotch last night agreed to meet Henry Ordemann in a finish match at Convention hall here on the night of Feb. 8.

MINNY LEAGUE MEETING HELD

Winona, Minn., Jan. 17.—The annual meeting of the directors of the Minnesota-Wisconsin baseball league is being held here today. Much interest has been manifested in the election of a president to succeed Elliott of La Crosse, who refused to again accept. Frank Foree of the Minneapolis Tribune, has the best show although A. W. Kuehnow of Duluth is a close second.

All teams in the league were over the salary limit last year and a scrap will be made over holding the teams down this year. One thing is certain that if the league is to remain intact business methods must prevail.

There is some talk of an independent league, taking in some Iowa cities, but this is not thought likely to go through.

LAMY DEFENDS HIS SKATING TITLE.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—Edmund Lamy of Saranac Lake, N. Y., successfully defended his title of American amateur skating champion last night, winning three title events in the international championship skating races here. Lamy won the quarter-mile race in 42¾, the mile in 2:09 and two-mile race in 6:34 2-5.

Emersons Want Games.

The Emerson hockey team of Duluth issues a challenge to any amateur hockey team in the city of Duluth or nearby towns. They will meet any team at any time or place that is satisfactory to both.

A. J. Bawden is manager and can be reached at 1591-Y, new 'phone.

LEHTO WILL MEET GOTCH

World's Greatest Wrestler Will Be Seen Here the Present Season.

Henry Ordemann, American Champion, Will Wrestle Finish Match Here.

Frank A. Gotch, champion wrestler of the world and perhaps the greatest athlete before the public today, will meet Karl Lehto in this city either next month or early in March. Word to this effect was yesterday received from Emil Klank, manager of the able Iowan.

The match between Gotch and Lehto will be one of the best wrestling attractions ever staged in this city. Duluth has shown a fondness for the game that has warranted the promoters bringing the greatest stars of the wrestling world here.

The showing made against Roller and Hackenschmidt by the young Finn entitles him to consideration among the best wrestlers. While no one in the wildest and most untrammeled flight of feverish imagination, would compare Lehto with Gotch, the meeting of the two will furnish lovers of wrestling with some great sport.

On Jan. 26, a week from the coming Thursday, Henry Ordemann, America's champion wrestler and the man who is generally picked to wear the shoes that have been so ably filled by the great and only Gotch, will go to a finish with Lehto, and the match is expected to be one of the best ever pulled off in the West. George A. Barton, sporting editor of the Minneapolis Daily News, and one of the best judges of wrestling in the Northwest, has written that he is coming to the Head of the Lakes to witness the contest, as he believes it will be one of the best seen in the Northwest the present season.

Lehto is coming into his own as one of the cleverest young wrestlers of the country. He has shown a wonderful amount of improvement the present season. He will meet Carl Mattson of Minneapolis in the Copper country before the match of Ordemann, which will add to the stock of experience the young Finn has gained.

Without doubt Ordemann is the greatest of the American wrestlers. The present season he has wrestled his way to the front rank. He meets Hackenschmidt this evening, and the battle resulting is expected to be one of the best seen on the American mat the present season. Later he meets Zbyszko at Detroit, and then comes the match in this city. Lovers of wrestling have been inquiring about this match for the past month, but yesterday was the first time the definite date of the meeting was made known.

"For a number of years we have been agents for ORRINE. During that time we have had occasion to be convinced beyond a doubt, that ORRINE is a reputable remedy, worthy of recommendation. One of the many cases coming to our attention, a mechanic, earning $22.50 per week, who had not taken a full pay envelope home for over five years, was induced to try ORRINE, a complete cure being the result. The man became worth more to his firm, receiving an advance in pay, and has purchased a home. The house stands there showing the merits of ORRINE. We cannot help but feel that we were most fortunate when we secured the agency for this reliable liquor cure."

ORRINE is prepared in two forms. No. 1, secret treatment, a powder, absolutely tasteless and odorless, given secretly in food or drink. ORRINE No. 2, in pill form, is for those who desire to take voluntary treatment. ORRINE costs only $1.00 a box. Write for Free Orrine Booklet (mailed in plain sealed envelope) to ORRINE CO., 457 Orrine Building, Washington, D. C. ORRINE is recommended and is for sale in this city by W. A. OBJECT TO THE POSTS

West Duluthians Want No Obstructions on Grand Avenue.

May Resort to Injunction in Overhead Crossing Case.

West Duluth Commercial club members will confer with the city engineer and a number of the aldermen at a special meeting Friday evening for the purpose of discussing ways and means of preventing the Canadian Northern railroad from carrying out its plans in regard to an overhead crossing on Grand avenue west.

The bone of contention is the plan to have posts in the street to support the trestle which will span the roadway. The club members and the city will insist that the spans be left clear, so as not to impede traffic in any way, especially on Grand avenue, the principal thoroughfare between Duluth and the steel plant.

The matter of having clear spans on all crossings of this character was discussed by Alderman W. L. Bernard of the Seventh ward at last evening's council meeting. Mr. Bernard introduced a resolution, which in effect will mean that the Northern Pacific road be asked to remove the supporting spans from the overhead bridge at the Jensweld street cut. Alderman Bernard pointed out that several accidents had occurred within the past few months and stated that it was a hindrance to traffic.

The road proposes to set two rows of posts in the center of Grand avenue to support the overhead bridge with a space of twenty-four feet between them for street car traffic. On the south side there would be twenty-eight feet for team traffic and the north side sixteen feet. This is exclusive of sidewalks.

When the ordinance was passed designating the route that the road was to follow, it carried with it a provision that the plans and specifications for the overhead bridges for street crossings should be filed with the city clerk and accepted by the council.

Later when, after a conference with Pomer Mayor Haven, the railroad officials and the city agreed to an alteration in the route selected, no further plans or profiles of the bridges were submitted for approval. The second ordinance that was passed gave the company permission to change the route, but subject to the provisions of the original ordinance.

The second ordinance was passed by the council without any new plans for overhead bridges having previously been filed with the city clerk. The railroad officials now contend that, should they feel so disposed, they can erect the overhead bridges in accordance with the original profiles filed. This the city objects to and at the meeting Friday evening, steps will be taken to find out the legal statue in the matter.

Alderman L. A. Barnes states that he believes that should the road make any attempt to construct the bridge with the posts in the street, that the city will take immediate steps to prevent it, probably in the form of an injunction.

DULUTH PASTOR ACCEPTS CALL TO ST. PAUL CHURCH.

Rev. Bergel A. Johnson, for the past two years pastor of Immanuel Norwegian Lutheran church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Roosevelt street, will sever his connection with the local congregation to accept a call to a St. Paul church.

The congregation of St. Stephen's Danish Lutheran church in St. Paul made him a flattering offer which, after considering, he has decided to accept. Rev. Mr. Johnson left today for St. Paul to make arrangements to take charge of the pastorate there.

Mr. Johnson has a number of friends in West Duluth who will regret his departure. The West Duluth charge was his first, as he had but recently graduated from the Norwegian Lutheran seminary at St. Paul prior to coming to West Duluth.

He came here to succeed Herman Sauer, the former pastor. With his family he resides at 605 North Fifty-seventh avenue west.

BUILDING BOOM IN PROSPECT AT SMITHVILLE.

Home building will be active at Smithville this spring, according to Claus Johnson, a resident of that suburb, who was in West Duluth yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Johnson says that several new houses have gone up there within the last few months and that more are planned for this spring.

The Duluth Ice company now has a large crew of men at work at the foot of Clyde avenue, where two of the company's large storage houses are located. The cutting will last about two weeks longer.

COPPERS ADVANCE; KEATING A FEATURE

Trading Light and There Is No Pressure to Values---Market Featureless.

The copper market opened firm and strengthened steadily from the opening. The advance was sharp toward the close as a few shorts in the leaders rushed to cover and the market lacked pressure. The better feeling was caused partly by the opinion of professionals in the East, that the government has made an exceedingly weak case against the Standard Oil company in the hearing before the United States supreme court.

Consumers are buying a little red metal. They are generally holding aloof, however, as they look for lower prices.

The local market was moderately active. Keating was strong and advanced steadily from the opening. The upturn in this stock in a dull market has been the feature of the month. Developments at the property are showing up added tonnage, which is revealing increased values with depth. The earnings of the mine continue to increase from week to week. Keating sold at $1.62½ to $1.68¾ to $1.75, Sumsmit at 59c, Butte Alex Scott, part paid at $2, the full paid at $5.87½, Red Warrior at $1.31¼ to $1.37½, Butte & Superior, old, at 93c, Calumet & Montana at 72c, 74c and 72c, Calumet & Corbin at 30c, Cliff at $1.50.

Amalgamated sold at $63.87½ to $65, North Butte at $28, $28.25 to $28, Butte Balaklava at $6.12½, Giroux at $6.62½ to $6.50, Superior Pittsburg at $14, Greene at $6.62½, Cactus at 20c and 21c, Butte Coalition at $17.87 to $18.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 17.—"The High Ore mine fire situation remains serious and although fairly under control, the fire has gained some headway in the lower workings of the High Ore mines. Owing to the gases the Mountain View mine of the Anaconda company has been closed down and the Diamond, Bell and North Butte have closed for several days. It is said that the loss at the Anaconda Copper mining company will reach millions. There is danger that many of the older workings may cave in, thus disabling many portions of the mines."

Butte wires Paine, Webber & Co.: "Fire has been definitely located on the 1,400 level instead of the 1,200-foot level of the High Ore mine, as supposed, and streams of water have been turned on it and it is now under control. This inspires clearing of the Speculator, Diamond and Mountain View and all other mines drained through the High Ore, and sets at rest any fear that they might be closed. The B. & M. mines and smelters at Great Falls resumed operations today.

Butte Ballaklava people call attention to the fact that the hearing on an application for a temporary injunction against Butte Ballaklava sought by the Anaconda to prevent the former from mining ore from disputed veins, is not final. Montana courts grant temporary writs of injunction freely on the theory that the ore cannot get away. Temporary injunctions, the Butte Ballaklava people point out, are not significant in Montana. Most people expect that a temporary injunction will be issued against the Butte Ballaklava after which the contending companies will begin their real legal warfare.

The United Metals Selling company, it is reported, has reduced its price for electrolytic copper from 13 cents to 12¾ cents a pound; a nominal reduction only, however, as the company has not been selling copper for two months past, while other agencies have been selling regularly at the lower figure.

The big steam pumps at the 1,200-foot level of the Giroux shaft will be started up within a week or ten days. When the pumps are in operation sinking will be resumed in the main shaft, which is now about fifteen feet above the 1,400-foot level, and work will also be resumed in the crosscut toward the Alpha workings.

An accident to the hoisting machinery at the Emma shaft of the Boston Ely company caused a temporary suspension of operations at the property. About fifty feet of sinking was accomplished last month in the shaft, which is now more than 1,200 feet in depth.

The new rates of commission effective on the Duluth stock exchange are: On stocks selling at 1c and under $1 a share, 1c a share; on stocks selling at $1 and under $10 a share, 6¼c per share; on stocks selling at $10 or more, 12½c a share. LARGE FORCE ON G. N. DOCK JOB

Barnett & Record Resume Work on New $1,000,000 Structure at Allouez.

The Barnett & Record company, with a large crew of men, has resumed work on the new $1,000,000 Great Northern ore docks at Allouez and is now engaged in completing the timber approach on which work was stopped last fall.

The concern expects to have its part of the contract finished by April 1, so that the American Bridge company can go ahead with the steel superstructure. The big dock may be ready by June 1, although it is hardly expected that it can be used for some time later.

Much of the steel to be used in the construction of the dock is now on the ground and more is arriving daily. The Barnett & Record people, however, do not have to wait for the steel to do timber and concrete work.

It is understood that the Great Northern will expend thousands of dollars in addition to the ore dock job in putting in new yards between the old yards and Dedham. A new storehouse will be erected and a roundhouse and other buildings constructed.

ROSEAU NEWS NOTES.

Boy Aged 5 Accidentally Shoots Self—Other Current Items.

Roseau, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Presbyterian ladies' aid held their annual election of officers today.

The land contest case of Alfred Heggland against August Holmberg has resulted in a final decision against Holmberg, who thus loses his homestead and valuable improvements.

The vault in the courthouse has been fitted with an adjustable roller shelf cabinet for the books of record.

Roseau is now assured of a co-operative store, as the two movements started a couple of weeks ago by W. Oveson and S. T. Holdahl respectively, have united forces and a majority of the subscribers favor the plan. It has been decided to purchase the stocks of the two firms and combine them under one management.

Mrs. Christina Palm, wife of Erick Palm, died at her farm home east of town at an age of 68 years, after a severe four-days' illness. She came from Sweden in 1891 and has lived near Roseau since. Besides her husband, three sons, two orphaned grandsons, who have been adopted in the family, survive.

Arthur, the 5-year-old son of N. Wold, shot himself with a loaded revolver Monday. He found the weapon in a bureau drawer and in trying to solve the mechanism of the weapon, discharged it, the bullet going through the fleshy part of his hand.

The ceremonies throughout were of the simplest character. The governor-elect was cheered as he turned toward the great crowd to deliver his inaugural address.

Briefly stated, the governor recommended abolishing the present railroad commission and substituting therefore a public commission vested with power of general supervision and control over all corporations and individuals having to do with public utilities. THE FIGURE.

How Too Much Fat May Be Safely Reduced at Home.

"Oh, that this too, too solid flesh would melt!" cry the ladies nowadays as they try to squirm into a princess frock. How much would the too generously proportioned dame not give up for four inches less in the waistline as she compares herself with the more fortunate one hundred and twenty-five pound sister. Various devices are suggested to arrest the flesh producing tendency and keep the figure trim, including exercising, walking and dieting as well as numerous patented remedies, but there are objections to all of these. Exercising is hard work and takes up precious time; dieting is distasteful and a real punishment, and most of the patent remedies are dangerous to health.

The very best thing for the overfat, whether male or female, is a simple home receipt: ½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, 3½ oz. Peppermint Water, which can be obtained of any druggist at small cost. This should be taken a teaspoonful at a time after meals and at bedtime, and results will be both speedy and certain. This is a harmless mixture that cannot bring on any stomach trouble nor cause the dried-up wrinkled appearance of those who starve or take "patent reducers" to get thin. On the contrary, although it often takes the fat off at the rate of a pound a day, it is really very beneficial to the system, cleansing the blood and causing the complexion to become fair and beautiful. The cost of the three ingredients is a mere bagatelle, and one may, if they prefer, get them separately and mix them together at home.

SIMPLE TREATMENT FOR A VELVETY COMPLEXION

Mrs. Mae Martyn, authority on health and beauty, writing for the New York Herald, says: "Society women are discarding face powders and cosmetics and taking to liquid preparations, because powder tends to stop up the pores and roughens the skin, ruining a complexion, while a good lotion clears the skin and keeps it in a healthy condition.

"The lotion most popular in exclusive circles is made of spurmax and is prepared by dissolving 4 ounces of spurmax in ½ pint hot water, then adding 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine. This is much nicer to apply than powder and does not rub off easily. It is inexpensive, and its use soon produces a soft and velvety complexion.

"Women using this recipe find it splendid for rough or oily skins, as it clears as well as beautifies."

Beauty Hints

By MADAME MAREE.

TO REMOVE SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS

The unsightly fuzzy growth on face, neck or arms can be quickly removed without resorting to the painful electric needle, if a little powdered delol is used. This can be had at any drug store, and a little should be mixed with water to make a paste, then spread on hairy surface. After two or three minutes wipe it off and wash the skin. While delol is a trifle expensive, it rarely fails to remove superfluous hairs with the first application.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

F. W. S.: You say you are "flat and shapeless." Nature did not intend you to be so, and if you will try the popular Vaucaire method your figure will soon become plump and symmetrical. Get an ounce of true gallol at the drug store and put in a syrup, made by dissolving a cup and a half of sugar in water to make a pint. The dose is two teaspoonfuls before meals. This treatment nourishes delicate, starved tissues; and once they are in a healthy condition all scrawniness disappears.

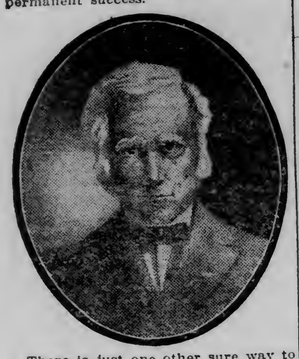

Juliet: (1) Read answer to F. W. S. (2) You will find eggol delightful for shampoiong, as it penetrates, cleanses and invigorates and leaves the scalp feeling good. This shampoo used every two weeks for a time will correct itchiness, dry scalp, oiliness and excess dandruff. Any druggist can supply eggol, and after using it the hair dries soft and glossy and has an even, natural color.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

DRIVEN OUT HALF NAKED

Fire in Bunk House Forces Lumberjacks to Flee for Lives.

Partly Clad, Walk Three Miles Through Snow---Mercury 40 Below.

Little Fork, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday morning the logging camps operated by Ridge Lewis, twelve and a half miles from here, were discovered to be in flames by the cook who was preparing breakfast. The twenty-five men who were staying at the camp were notified but before they could dress the flames were upon them. Most of the men clad in nothing but their underwear were forced to wend their way out into the 40 deg. below zero weather and travel several miles to the nearest camp. Several arrived at the camp almost frozen while others were less badly off. None of the hardened woodsmen will suffer serious results after such a terrible experience.

A number of the men arrived in town today after borrowing what clothing they could from the refugee camp and their tale is a pitiful one They say they were just getting up when the cook yelled fire and hardly were the words out of his mouth when the flames were upon them. It seemed as if the entire camp was saturated with kerosene, judging from the rapidity of the spread. Grabbing what they could they darted out into the cold and frosty morning and journeyed to the nearest camp which was about three miles.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed to have been caused by an exploding lamp. The camps were the property of Charles Peterson, a well known resident of Little Fork and as no insurance was carried a total loss is the result.

Ryder, N. D., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new operator at the depot at Thunderhawk created considerable excitement in the village when he made a murderous attack on the agent who escaped with but a badly scratched face. The new man got into a controversy with the agent as to what constitued his duties and when the agent was sitting in a chair he walked up behind him and made a slash at his throat with a knife. He missed his aim, however, only cutting his cheek, and the agent after a short scuffle soon overpowered him and called for help. The operator was taken into custody and a bottle of alcohol found in his pocket explained the cause of his rashness.

RECOGNIZES PENNINGTON.

Postoffice Department Issues Bulletin Devoted to New County.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The postoffice department recognizes the newly organized county of Pennington by issuing bulletin No. 1159, which recites the creation of the county and gives the names of the postoffices and mail routes. Several of these offices are only five years old, being located on the Eleven Towns which were a part of the Red Lake Indian reservation until the opening six years ago. This whole territory is prairie and is nearly as thickly settled as like areas in the central sections of the state. Rural delivery routes, star and other mail routes traverse the towns, and schools, churches and comfortable homes are seen on every hand. The Washington authorities also call attention to the fact that the county government is located in the court house in Thief River Falls.

TRACED GIRL TO DULUTH.

Thence to Fargo Where Erring One Was Discovered.

Minot, N. D., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Police Commissioner Peter Vandenoever has returned from Fargo where he located a 14-year-old Minot girl who ran away from the sisters' school at Devils Lake and afterwards attempted to take her life by drinking carbolic acid. She is now in the charge of Sheriff Kelly.

The girl is supposed to have been influenced by women of bad repute and left the school by saying she was going to visit an aunt in Minneapolis. The police commissioner learned that she had no aunt in that city and traced her from that city to Duluth, thence to Wahpeton and then to Fargo where she had secured employment at the Prescott hotel. It was while there that she attempted to commit suicide.

When within a few miles of there, Hammershake refused to proceed further and his companion left him and went alone the rest of the way. The man evidently fell asleep on the track and was struck soon afterwards by a train and killed. The body was found by section men.

PREDICT BIG RUSH TO WEST

Soo Officials Say Movement to Canada Will Break All Records.

Soo Road Will Send All Its Immigrants Through Duluth.

Harry Lewis, assistant general passenger agent of the Soo, and W. H. Schutt, assistant to the manager of the road, are in the city today. The two officials are here on an inspection of the Duluth affairs of the road and will make a further trip of inspection over some of the territory around Duluth.

Like Traveling Passenger Agent Thompson of the Milwaukee, Mr. Lewis states that the coming spring will witness one of the biggest rushes of immigration that the Canadian Northwest has ever beheld. Mr. Lewis states that present indications point to the biggest immigration movement of the last five years.

How much Duluth will be benefited in a passenger way by this movement, is shown by the statement of Mr. Lewis that the Soo will move practically all of its passengers east of Chicago and in that surrounding country, who are bound for the Canadian country, by way of the Duluth gateway.

One of the reasons ascribed by Mr. Lewis for the promised immensity of the immigration movement the coming spring, is the vast amount of new territory which has been opened by the Canadian Northern, the Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk. Immense railroad mileage has been constructed the past year by these three roads, the Canadian Pacific being directly affiliated with the Soo, and more rail expansion will be made this spring. With the opening up of new lines has come naturally the opening up for settlement of new and vast areas of virgin land. It is to this land that the vast tide of immigration, part of which will pass through this city, will set forth in the spring.

"Naturally the coming of the Soo will increase the amount of passengers who will pass through this territory," said Mr. Lewis. "We will draw from a large territory east of Chicago and our direct line with this city will mean that many passengers will come through here. Up in Canada they say the movement will be the heaviest for the past five years. This means that thousands of settlers from this country and many more from Europe will hit the broad highway of travel for the great farming and wheat raising region to be found in the provinces of Western Canada. The feature of this movement for Duluth, is that this city will at least be benefited to the extent that many of these passengers will come through this way."

Mr. Schutt has taken a personal pride in the Soo depot here and also in seeing that the road's affairs up at this end of the line are kept in tiptop condition. His trip to the Head of the Lakes is for the purpose of inspecting the train service both here and on some of the branch lines of the Soo.

MILLER CLASHES WITH SOUTHERNER

Disagree Over Matter of Local Bills in the House.

Washington, Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Miller of Minnesota, and Representative Hardwick of Georgia, clashed in the house over local legislation relating to the erection of bridges and dams across the Mississippi river in Minnesota. Hardwick is a fiery little Southerner and Miller is something of a legislative fighter.

"How do you expect to get similar bills through when you are holding up everything by such tactics?" asked the Duluth member.

"Now I thought you were a genuine insurgent," answered Hardwick.

"These bills are up under the new rules," Miller declared, but all appeals were in vain and hundreds of local measures went down in a legislative log jam.

In voting to overturn Speaker Cannon's decision the Insurgent Republicans and Democrats got together for the first time this session and are again jubilant over downing "Uncle Joe" and the regular standpatters on the first vote to lay an appeal from the speaker's decision on the table.

Tawney, Stevens, Nye and Volstead voted for Sereno Payne's motion to sustain Speaker Cannon's ruling. Davis, Lindbergh, Hammond and Steenerson voted with the insurgents against the motion. On the second vote which was the direct issue of sustaining or overruling the speaker, Tawney and Nye stood by Cannon; Hammond, Lindbergh and Steenerson voted to overrule the decision, Miller, Stevens and Davis not voting.

Free Remedy Helps Children

Many a mother has learned of a way of avoiding sickness in her family, especially among the children, by the use of a free sample bottle of the famous laxative, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This offer of the doctor's to send a free sample bottle has been responded to by thousands of women in all parts of America.

This Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a truly wonderful laxative and especially adapted to the needs of babies and children because it is pleasant to taste and no child will refuse it. Then, it is mild and never gripes. It is all that a child's remedy should be, though it is a good laxative for the whole family because it is effective at all ages. It is simply not dynamic like salts, pills and powerful cathartics, which should not be given to children anyway.

Nine times out of ten when a child complains and you don't know exactly what is the matter with it, it needs a laxative—its bowels are constipated. Syrup Pepsin will correct the trouble, tone up the child and soon it will be well again—over night wonderful results have been secured with Syrup Pepsin.

You can buy it of any druggist at fifty cents or a dollar a bottle, the latter being the family size, but you are invited to make a test of it first at the doctor's expense. Send him your address today and he will send you a free sample bottle direct to your home. Then when satisfied buy it of your favorite druggist.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B Caldwell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Another Bill Is Introduced in the California Legislature.

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 17.—A bill for the segregation of Asiatic pupils in the public schools of California was introduced in the state legislature yesterday by Assemblyman Hall, Democrat, of Bakersfield.

MEN ENTOMBED ON SUBMARINE

German "U 3" Goes Down in the Harbor of Kiel.

Kiel, Germany, Jan. 17.—The German submarine "U-3" sank today in Heikendorf bay in the harbor of Kiel. The number of men on board was not known.

The submarine salvage ship Vulcan, equipped with powerful cranes and other apparatus for the raising of submarines, was sent to the assistance of the submarine.

The "U-3" was built at Danzig in 1909, and has a displacement of 300 tons. In November, in company with submarine "U-4," the vessel made the passage from Cuxhaven round the Skaaw to Kiel, a distance of 540 miles, in about forty hours, without a convoy.

In spite of his English name, Fred Singer, who is appearing at the Orpheum this week, is a Hungarian.

His native city is Budapest and he has made many concert tours in Austria and Hungary, where he is well known as a violinist.

The sketch in which he is appearing is known as "The Violin Maker of Cremonla," and it shows the old violin maker falling asleep over his work and dreaming of the famous violinists who will play his instrument. All except the dream part is based on fact. Cremona is a village in Italy. It was the home of the Amatis, a famous family of violin makers. The old man was the instructor of Stradivarius, who also lived in Cremona, and the younger Amati, Nicolai, manufactured a violin which Mr. Singer is now using. It was handed down to him by his grandfather, also a famous violinist.

"The Amati violins are probably not as well known as the 'Strads,' said Mr. Singer, yesterday, in his queer broken English, "but I think they are just as good instruments. They are very rare and valuable. I do not know what mine is worth, but it is probably worth more to me than anybody would be willing to pay me for it."

The Finneys are probably the most famous family of swimmers in the world.

The father, James Finney, who is appearing at the Empress this week with one of his daughters, is said to be the champion swimmer of the world, and holds the record for distance and time under water. On one occasion he remained under water for more than four minutes, and during his act he remains under the surface for more than two minutes.

One daughter appears with him, and two other daughters have an act of their own which was recently seen in Duluth.

The girls have been instructed in swimming from their early childhood by their father, and they are as much at home in the water as mermaids.

Mr. Finney has a cartload of medals which he has won in various swimming contests in all parts of the world.

At the Lyric theater this week there are two interesting dramatic films, "The Bolted Door" and "The Redeemed Criminal," and an amusing film, "Girls Will Be Boys." I. S. Mistachkin sings "Don't Wake Me Up, I'm Dreaming."

At the Odeum an exciting picture is "The Runaway Engine." An amusing film is "The Italian Barber." Miss Mattox sings "Always Thinking of You." The films have been passed upon by the national board of moving picture censors.

The recent agitation for a theater ordinance in Duluth has increased the attendance at both these theaters, as many who are interested in the campaign have dropped in to investigate. They went away satisfied, however, that no immoral pictures were being shown, and also well pleased with the entertainment. Manager Furniss invites all who are interested in the new ordinance to visit the theater this week and satisfy themselves of the standard of pictures shown.

PLAN SOCIAL SURVEY IN INTEREST OF CHARITY

The social survey committee of the Associated Charities held a meeting in Secretary Courtenay Dinwiddie's office in the courthouse this morning and made tentative plans for the preliminary survey, which is proposed for the city.

Definite plans, including just what subjects will be covered and what the extent of the survey will be, have not yet been completed, but will be at a later meeting. The committee proposes to make a preliminary survey at this time, going over the field generally and also taking up in considerable detail some specific branches of social work for investigation. A determination will probably be reached as a result of the preliminary survey as to whether a more searching investigation by a trained investigator is necessary or advisable at this time.

"All charitable organizations are engaged daily in dealing with poverty—or with the temporary relief of poverty," said Secretary Dinwiddie of the Associated Charities this morning. "While dealing with the temporary needs of poverty, there is room for determining the causes of poverty and that is the object of the social survey. Poverty is certainly caused, in the great majority of cases, by some definite condition or circumstances. In many cases, it is desertion. In many others, drunkenness is the cause. A social survey would give us an opportunity to determine whether the means we have for dealing with desertion, drunkenness and other causes of poverty are adequate.

"Of course, the subject is a large one. To make a complete survey going deeply into the economic and social problems of the city would take much more time and much more effort than we would care to put forth at this time. We will make a preliminary survey, going specificially into some features of the work, and it is possible that a more complete and searching survey will be made at some future date."

The members of the social survey committee are: Bishop James McGolrick, chairman; L. A. Barnes, Dr. E. L. Twohy, Mrs. James E. Rockwell, Mrs. R. H. Marble, Miss Jean Poirier, Rev. Hugo Selinger, C. W. Jerome and ex-officio, Mrs. Otto Hartman.

PLAN OPPOSED BY HOVLAND

Does Not Think Professors Should Be Members of Commissions.

H. B. Hovland of Duluth, a regent of the state university, is opposed to the proposition to make deans and professors of the university ex-official members of state commissions.

Mr. Hovland does not believe that the interests of the university or the state government will be best served by such procedure. He says that the university has no desire to have a voice in the management of state affairs. It is content to serve the state to the best of its ability. It is willing at all times to co-operate with branches of the state government, and its friends think that discord would result from laws imposing upon a state department the duty to secure its required professional services from university professors and imposing the duty upon the university to perform such services for a department of the state.

Says Mr. Hovland: "For the purpose of carrying out their respective functions, the state departments require technical work. The university departments have trained men and equipment to perform technical work. A request upon the part of any state department for technical work from the corresponding university department will be met by ready response, and after the requirements are clearly outlined, the board of regents will make arrangements to meet the demands of the state department, and the university will be glad to perform the work for the state department without charge in so far as its resources will permit."

THE TERROR OF THE CAMP

Woodsman Under Arrest Said to Have Fought All Fellow Workmen.

Harry Tamazko is a terribly aggressive man, according to Jean Felgon, who caused his arrest yesterday on a charge of assault.

He stated in court yesterday that Henry has had fights with about every man in the camp in which they were working near Knife River, and that he was the last one Tamazko tackled. Felgon alleges that although he is an employe, Tamazko demanded that he pay him. When he told him that he couldn't, it is alleged that Tamazko called him some nasty names, which he resented, slapping Tamazko, despite his reputation. This led to a fight, which was followed by the arrest. Tamazko pleaded not guilty and his case will be taken up later.

OFFICE OF VISITING NURSE WILL BE OPEN ALL DAY.

Mrs. Florence Lee, visiting nurse of the Duluth tuberculosis committee, received a letter today from Supt. J. W. Coom of the state sanitarium at Wales, Wis., stating that he has received a patient for treatment who first came under the observation of Mrs. Lee. The patient was visiting relatives here, and her brother, who is now at the county institution, insisted that she be examind to determine whether or not she was affected. The examination showed that she had the disease and when she returned to her home she started treatmnt. Mrs. Lee is much gratified to learn that the Wisconsin authorities are glad to co-operate with those who are fighting the plague here.

In the past the office of Mrs. Lee in Room No. 1 in the basement of the city hall has been open but an hour each morning. She has secured an office assistant who will be there all day and will take care of all calls.

EPIDEMIC SPREADING.

Deaths in Chinese Suburb of Harbin Average 150 Daily.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 17.—Advices from Fudziadian, the Chinese suburb of Harbin, state that the deaths there from bubonic plague average 150 daily. The epidemic is spreading to Mukden, Kirin and places in Northern China having commercial intercourse with Russia.

The council of ministers met today and discussed the matter of the plague in Manchuria and the advisability of making representations to the Chinese government and suggesting that Fudziadian be cleaned under the supervision of Russian authorities and physicians.

Certain Cure for Nasal Catarrh.

Nasal catarrh is both dangerous and embarrassing. Here is a treatment which promptly cleans, soothes and heals the nasal passages, while destroying all the putrid, slimy matter and preventing its further formation. Obtain of any well-stocked druggist two ounces of antiseptic vilane powder. Use a half teaspoonful to a pint of warm water. Snuff up into the nostrils 6 to 8 times. Use two or three times daily and catarrh will vanish. Gives a delightfully clear feeling and makes breathing easy. Also apply the following splendid catarrh balm to the nostrils: Mix a teaspoonful of vilane powder with a five-cent jar of vaseline.

WILLARD DECISION IS BEING STUDIED

Ballinger Will Soon Formulate a Report to President Taft.

Washington, Jan. 17. — (Special to The Herald.) — Representative Miller has received a certificate copy of Judge Willard's decision, in which he holds that under the enabling act by which Minnesota was admitted to the Union of states, all Indian treaties entered into as between the United States and the various Indian tribes prior to that time were annulled by that act. It is the belief that should the decision of Judge Willard be sustained it will settle forevermore the vexatious problems which have recently been disturbing the state as to its power to police its territory as to the regulation of the sale of intoxicants.

Secretary Ballinger is also in possession of a certified copy of Judge Willard's decision and is understood to be perusing it most carefully and formulating a report upon it to present to President Taft. The Willard decision, Congressman Miller said today, seems to cover every treaty with the exception of that of '62 applying to the Red river about Moorhead and the treaty of '67 which involves a triangular strip in the central portion of Minnesota. Congressmen Miller, Steenerson and Lindbergh are awaiting to see what, if any action, is taken by the president. It now appears to these representatives that the Willard decision will settle the matter and that no congressional action would now seem to be necessary.

Governor of Alabama So Recommends in Message to Legislature.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 17.—Liquor was again the principal subject in the message of Governor Emmett O'Neal, submitted to the Alabama legislature today, fully one-third of his message of seventy-five pages being devoted to a discussion of this subject. He recommended the repeal of Alabama's statewide prohibition law.

Governor O'Neal also advocated the passage of a general law permitting the manufacture and sale of liquor in all cities containing a population of 13,000 and over, under numerous restrictions.

CURED TO STAY CURED!

Records of the Progressive Medical Association Show That If Once Cured the Disease Will Never Return.

Twenty-five years age, when these scientific specialists settled down in Duluth, they had scores of patients come to them who had been fooled by men who could not cure them. People had parted with their money, but had not parted with their diseases. The principle of the Progressive Medical doctors always has been to do what is right; and if a man could not be cured they have not kept him guessing about it, but told him the truth; they never charged a patient for any disease which they could not thoroughly cure him of. This primciple could not fail to lead them to success, fame and reputation.

MISTAKES. People have read of late many glaring ads of so-called specialists in Duluth papers, they promise everything in the way of cures. Some of them stayed for a few months, and quietly disappeared; others have a hard fight to keep up expenses, because it is hard for them to find enough people at the Head of the Lakes who can be fooled all the time. All of these glaring advertisers have fooled people in other cities and states, till they could fool them no more, and then came to Duluth. The doctors of the Progressive Medical association had such tremendous success for more than twenty years in Duluth that they did not need to go somewhere else. They have always been successful in their cures, they avoided operations, charged a moderate fee for their work, and never charged if a cure could not be effected. People they cure stay cured for life.

EQUIPMENT. For the last five years the doctors of the medical association have equipped their offices with every latest machine and instrument which Medical Science has invented, so that people who were in their office fifteen years ago would not recognize it to be the same office. They have invested thousands of dollars in their office, and have by far the best of medicines, of which probably not one ounce could be obtained from any drug store in Duluth or Superior. These specialists go even so far as to give a legal guarantee where they know they can cure a case. They cure all diseases of men, rheumatism as well as lung troubles, catarrh and stomach diseases, strictures and bladder trouble, blood poison and all acutely contracted men's diseases. Their offices are on Lake avenue and Superior street, which are open from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m.; Sunday, from 10 to 1. Consultation is always free of charge.

MORNING GAMES PLAYED UNDER IDEAL CONDITIONS

Curlers in Great Form for the Second Day's Play.

Rapid Progress Being Made in Duluth Curling Club Event.

Under weather conditions much nearer ideal than those of yesterday, the second day of the great Northwestern bonspiel opened at the Duluth curling rink bright and early this morning.

Fresh from a sound night's sleep after the hard grind of the opening day, the curlers in high glee hopped about on the ice like so many sparrows.

A greater portion of the games played this morning were in the Duluth Curling club event, which was the first to begin on the opening of the 'spiel yesterday.

Whyte of Duluth had a harder game with Russell of Superior than the score, 9 to 5, would indicate. Both rinks curled splendidly and it was nip and tuck with the result of a number of the heads depending upon the last stones.

Ray Withrow is manager of the 'spiel. He is a good manager and he is keeping the men on the jump all the while. "It is just one d— game after another." He is the whole works behind the desk and no matter how many questions you ask him or how foolish is the question, he never gets peeved.

Jimmy Myron, the singing curler, was not at his best yesterday. He didn't sing very much. "Jimmy" states that he is a sick man and ought to be given a Carnegie medal for attempting to go through the bonspiel.

Dunbar of St. Paul had a frolic with Southerland of Selkirk, leaving the Canadian at the post and winning in a walk. The score was 12 to 2. Dunbar is in fine form and is playing stronger at the present time than any other skip at the bonspiel.

Richardson of Duluth defeated MacAuley of West Duluth, 15 to 5. The Richardson rink is laying low and winning games. They have shown themselves to be surprisingly strong in the games played thus far.

Roup of Port Arthur lost this morning to A. K. Smith of Superior, 12 to 6.

This is Elmer Whyte—Mister Elmer Whyte. He is hot after some trophies. No telling, he might land, you know, he came mighty near getting away with some of the goods last year before he was caught.

Charles Brewer was drawn against the same man in two events yesterday. He won both games and the man was Montgomery of Port Arthur. "Chas" is some curler.

The Superior rinks are developing a habit of winning games.

Country Rinks Win.

Schemmel of Cambria, Wis., won from Chase of Superior by a score of 19 to 8. The Schemmel rink is one of the strong country rinks in attendance at the 'spiel.

Conkel of Arlington, Wis., won from Cameron of St. Paul, 13 to 10. This Conkel rink is another one of those strong country rinks and they are showing up in great form.

Grace of Superior beat McLeod of Duluth, 9 to 7. This was one of the best games of the morning. It was first one up and then the other. Grace finally nosed out a victory by great individual work.

In the St. Paul Jobbers event there were three games played. Duncan of Duluth defeated Bruder of Superior, 20 to 7. Duncan was playing strong and Bruder did not exhibit the class that he has shown in other games.

Dunlop of Duluth and Robertson of Arlington had a mighty tight tit-for-tat game. The final score was 12 to 11. First one was up and then the other. It was anybody's game until the final stone had been played.

The Murray "kid" rink of Minneapolis defeated Evered of West Duluth, 15 to 8. The "kids" from the Mill City seem to have set a pace and look as though they could keep it up.

Three events are well under way at the present time and the contests are going off with a rush. There is something doing every minute and every ice is busy all the time. Large crowds are attending the games and great interest is being taken in the bonspiel.

A special telegraph wire has been installed at the rink for the convenience of the curlers who wish to let the home folks know how they are coming out.

A lunch counter has been set up and it is proving a valuable asset for the saving of time.

The standing of the rinks up to the noon hour today in both the Duluth Curling club and the St. Paul Jobbers' event follows:

"Ron" looked just like this last night when he was playing with Dunbar of St. Paul. Oh, how "Ron" would have liked to have beaten Dunbar in a romp. He certainly would never have curled again. He would never have risked his reputation. It is all for the best, no doubt, for it wouldn't seem like a curling season if "Ron" was not in the game.

TO TRAIN BRITISH WAITERS.

The Queen: Some attempt is at last being made to train British waiters to compete with their foreign confreres. For this purpose a school has been formed at a London hotel, where a practical course can be taken by would-be waiters prior to being transferred to a Continental hotel for the purpose of acquiring some knowledge of languages. The experiment is being tried chiefly with intelligent youths who have been in the telegraph or district messenger service.

THE FIRESIDE CLARION

EXTRA "Oh wad some power the gifttie gie us to see ourselt's as others see us."—Burns. EXTRA

EDITOR'S NOTE—Issued every once in a while at The Herald office for the benefit of curlers only.

THE GREATEST CURLER EVER CAPTURED ALIVE.

The Clarion wishes to announce "Bob" Dunbar, the greatest curler of them all. Mr. Dunbar, ladies and gentlemen.

With these few simple words, Mister Dunbar is announced. Mr. Dunbar advances to the center of the stage, bows, smiles, take a broom from an attendant and says: "Gents, I am the greatest curler in captivity." After letting that sink in he at once begins his act. To-wit:

He then gives a curling skit which embraces everything in curling. He illustrates the in-turn, out-turn, correct position while sweeping and a man at the right of the stage announces the different poses and tells what they are.

They wanted "Bob" to pose for moving pictures once, but he wouldn't do it. He said it was worth more than 10 cents to see him in action. He was offered more than that, you will understand, but the fact that people would be allowed to see him for that small sum sort of riled "Bob," you know.

Seriously: Dunbar is the great howling noise when it comes to curling. They probably know as much about "Bob" over in Scotland as they do over here. His name is a household word and his playing is discussed from every bit of reading imformation that can be obtained.

Dunbar played to big business at the Curling club yesterday. Where the big crowd is you can bet your bottom dollar that is where Dunbar's performance is on. As a drawing card he is the money.

Last night in his game with Ron Smith a large crowd watched the play from both ends of the ice. Ron played a good game against the veteran curler, but "Bob's" draw shots usually settled the matter.

Before curling Dunbar used to be a sprinter. And they do say that he was as good a spinter as he now is a curler.

"BILL HALL" IS "IN OUR MIDST" FOR THE SPIEL.

"Well, look who's here! Old 'Bill,' Mapleton 'Bill.' Howdy Will."

Last evening a grizzled veteran of the curling game, and also of the greater game of life, made the rounds of the curlers, always being greeted with a smile and affectionate pat on the back, for is there a curler who has followed the bonspiels of the past few years who does not know or has not heard of "Bill" Hall?

"Bill," for he is one of the kind of men you can call "Bill," has been curling since the early '60s. To an interested and eager bunch of the fireside members last evening, he stated that he first curled with old flat irons. "We used to swipe our mothers' flat irons and go off on the pond and curl, and then we used to get spanked," said the old curler, and he grinned like a kid.

"Then we got the wooden stanes. But we found, as curling began to grow in this state, that the wooden stanes shut us out of competition, more or less, and we finally came to the granite rocks."

Mapleton, Minn., had the first curling club in this state and the little band of stane pioneers are naturally proud of the fact. Just think of it, some of these members of the Mapleton rink have been curling for the last fifty years, and some of them, like the veteran, Hall, are hale and hearty, the more so because of the grand old game, and are still active players.

"I came up here last year merely as a spectator and they pulled me into the game," said "Bill" last evening. "I just came up this time to see some of the boys. I knew Bob Dunbar when he was a stripling. Bob used to be a runner and bicycle rider. Bob is a regular sport, he is."

It is very probable that old "Bill" will curl a game in the bonspiel, as a place will possibly be secured on some rink that is a man shy. He is one of the characters of the game, a walking encyclopedia on the grand old game of curling and perhaps the best informed man in the state on the development of the game in Minnesota.

"BOB" DUNBAR.

And here is little "Johnny" "Dub" Tresise. John is greatly interested in the 'spiel this year and is doing what he can to help Harry Hurdon win a few games. There is no use in talking, "Dub" certainly is the candy when it comes to a draw shot.

DON'T WANT PAY FOR SERVICES

Bemidji People Who Succored Fire Sufferers Against Claiming Pay.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several local people who were mentioned in Bemidji dispatches as joining in an appeal to the legislature for reward for their services when they volunteered and hurried to the fire-stricken region of Northern Minnesota last fall, claim they do not favor such a bill and contend that to ask the legislature for remuneration would reflect seriously upon local pride.

Among those reported as being opposed to accepting any relief for their services, claiming they were prompted by the highest motives of charity and humanity in going to the relief of the sufferers, are: P. M. Decaire, Rev. S. E. P. White, W. C. Branberg, G. L. Crothers, T. J. Burke, J. O. Harris and R. F. Murphy.

BEMIDJI POSTOFFICE BUSINESS INCREASING.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—During 1910 the local postoffice did a business of $20,375.29, an increase of $3,375.29 over the year 1909.

When Postmaster A. R. Erickson first took hold of the postoffice the business amounted to only $13,000 a year.

Mr. Erickson and his clerks will receive an additional $100 per year in salary because of the increased business of last year over the previous year, if the business of the first three months of 1911 is as good as that of last year.

"We Handle Nothing But the Best"

WOMAN'S REALM.

Duluth's musical future enjoyed its annual orchestral concert at the Lyceum yesterday afternoon, when the St. Paul Symphony orchestra appeared in the city for its initial performance. Duluth's musical future enjoyed itself with the frank abandon that characterizes the age from 6 to 11, and it sat on the edge of its seat palpitating with interest or it frankly leaned back and yawned when its interest flagged. The hope of Duluth musically was gathered at the Lyceum in droves.

The event was, of course, the children's matinee, arranged by the committee interested in the series of concerts by the Symphony orchestra. The children's matinee is the most valuable feature of the orchestral concerts. Every member of the committee and others vitally interested would sacrifice any and every other feature before the children's matinee. Tickets are sold for a very small sum, and the children are rapidly forming a taste for orchestral concerts that eventually will be satisfied with nothing but a symphony orchestra of their own.

The lobby of the theater at a few minutes before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon was a crush of thrillingly excited little girls and happily agitated little boys. There were the usual varieties seen in every garden of small morsels of humanity. There were the inevitable self-conscious little girls with perky hair bows, and little boys who almost escaped having noses, so diminutive and perky were they.

When every seat was taken, Mr. Reyner, the patron saint of the folks who are the attendants at school children's matinees, explained in happy fashion the rules for the occasion, which included the omission of whistling in expressing pleasure at the numbers, and also great care in descending from the top gallery when leaving the theater. With the acceptance of these conditions the bout was on.

Mr. Rothwell, who is the conductor, is a crisp young man and very businesslike. He is not so much fun to watch as Mr. Oberhoffer, whom the children know from his previous appearance with his orchestra, but he satisfied them completely. A Mozart march followed by Mendelssohn's "Fingal's Cave" and two Grieg Lyric pieces, and a Saint-Seans number and a beautiful Strauss waltz, were the numbers Mr. Rothwell chose to present to his first Duluth audience. The soloist was the harpist of the orchestra, Mr. Attl, and he pleased the young folks so much that he had to come back for several encores. Unlike the pugilistic gentleman who one time occupied much of the public print, Mr. Attl proved conclusively that he could come back, and each rolling solo that he rippled from the harp caught the fancy of his auditors.

With the last strains of the lovely waltz the afternoon was over, a great success, of course, and the achievement of one of the most satisfying efforts in connection with all the symphony concerts provided for Duluth.

A LIFETIME OF DISFIGUREMENT

Mothers Should Realize What Neglect of Skin Troubles May Mean to Children.

A lifetime of disfigurement and suffering often results from the neglect, in infancy or childhood, of minor affections of the skin and scalp. A mother overlooks a little rash or attempts some simple treatment and in a day, perhaps, the little one is covered with severe eczema or other distressing eruption. Then the struggle for a cure begins.

A multitude of remedies are tried, doctor after doctor consulted and hospitals visited, but too often the suffering extends, without substantial relief, from days to weeks, weeks to months and months to years. Added to this is the ever-present fear that the itching, burning and disfiguration will become chronic, marring future welfare and making life miserable.

In the prevention of the simple skin affections from which all this suffering so often arises, and in establishing a condition of skin health, mothers are assured that nothing is purer, sweeter or more effective than Cuticura soap, assisted by Cuticura ointment. And greater still, if possible, is the success of these simple household remedies in the treatment of the severer skin troubles themselves. With the first warm bath with Cuticura soap and gentle application of Cuticura ointment, the itching and burning usually cease, the child falls into a refreshing sleep, the mother rests and for the first time, possibly, in many weeks peace falls on a distracted household. Frequently a single cake of Cuticura soap and box of Cuticura ointment are sufficient.

Mrs. Morse Working Hard For Pardon of Husband

MRS. C. W. MORSE.

Since he was locked up at Atlanta for violating the banking laws, the pardon of C. W. Morse has been sought with unremitting energy by his wife. She has strong hopes of success in the near future.

WILL RETURN TO STAGE.

Mme. Rothwell-Wolff Plans Return to Opera.

"I think that if any one is enthusiastic and interested in any work they are bound to be successful," said Mme. Rothwell-Wolff today.

"Oh, I am so pleased with Duluth in every way. The musical audience was splendid last evening and received my songs so well that I was delighted. Duluth is really a musical city and it is too bad that they have no place large enough for the presentation of grand opera here, although they are in quite easy reach of it when it comes to St. Paul. The grand opera season there last week was a huge success in every way.

"And then your city is so beautiful. We went up on the hill yesterday and the view certainly is magnificent. Just as soon as we can, Mr. Rothwell and I want to take the trip down the lakes to Buffalo, going from there to Boston.

"Oh, yes, I certainly am going back on the stage some time, but I am staying in St. Paul with my husband this year. In the spring I am going with him on the tour which the symphony orchestra will take and will sing at some of the concerts."

Mr. Wagner, manager of the St. Paul Symphony orchestra, says that Mme. Rothwell-Wolff is one of the most human artists he has ever known without any hobbies or eccentricities which so many artists suffer from and she is just not "one bit of a crank."

"I believe," he continued, "that it is just this womanly sweetness and warmth of feeling which makes her the tremendous success she is. The American public get those characteristics and accept her at once because of them. She certainly is one of the greatest artists that I have ever met."

ST. PAUL ORCHESTRA CONCERT DELIGHTS LARGE AUDIENCE

From the opening movements of Schumann's Symphony No. 1 to the Grand March from "Tannhauser" which was insisted upon as an encore, the concert of the St. Paul Symphony orchestra last evening was a delight.

The "Tannhauser" march was played as an encore to the last number on the program. The audience remained seated and insisted on an encore, and it was well worth waiting for, for the grand march proved one of the most delightful numbers on the entire program. The theater was well filled and the audience most appreciative.

The feature of the program was the symphony. It was written by Schumann toward the end of the winter of 1841, and is meant to express the longing for spring and the vernal passion. The first call of the trumpets sounds the awakening and the shaking off of the bonds of winter. This is followed by the gradual warmth that comes as the sun's rays dissipate the ice and snows of winter. The finale is meant as a goodbye-to spring. This was the thought that was in the mind of the composer when he wrote the symphony, and it was splendidly brought out last evening. The symphony is popular, and the themes are quite easily followed even by a person who is not a thorough musician or a student of symphonies. There are many greater symphonies, but few that are more widely known and more easily appreciated by the layman.

Isolde's "Liebestod" from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" sung by Mme. Rothwell-Wolff completed the first part of the program. The number was given with great feeling and dramatic power.

The aria from "Madame Butterfly" which was the soloist's second number in the last half of the program, was much more warmly received, however, probably because it was better known to Duluthians. Mme. Rothwell-Wolff was one of the original "Butterflies" when the opera was first produced in America, and she sang the beautiful and appealing aria in a most finished manner. She was forced to repeat it before the audience was satisfied.

The orchestra numbers in the second half of the program were "Norwegian Carneval," by Svendsen, which was substituted for the Tschaikowsky number previously announced, and the "Entrance of the Gods into Valhalla," from Wagner's "Rheingold." The former selection has quite a marked rhythm and melody and proved popular. The Wagner number was also splendidly given, and earned a well deserved encore, for which the Grand March from "Tannhauser" was played.

The program as a whole was thoroughly satisfying, and the orchestra engagement promises to be a fitting climax to the series of three musical events planned by Duluth's musical triumvirate, S. H. Jones, T. W. Hugo and Horace W. Rayner.

The programs for this afternoon and this evening follow:

Child-Raising Task Grows

By HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD.

Although so gradual, the task of directing the child's growth is an unceasing one; for going along at the same time with the destruction of evil influences and inheritances and the stimulation of good ones, there is usually also the implanting of other distinct and positive characteristics as they are seen to be necessary. It ought not to be a difficult one, however, for some of the desired traits are but the revival of those originated or taught by our earliest Aryan fathers—courage, truth and worship, and much of it is done by letting our children see the noble qualities in our own lives and conduct.

There is a sort of creative happiness in the work in the meantime. We have seen a young mother who experienced deadly fear in a thunderstorm, her heart sinking with every flash, hold her babe up to look at the lightning with smiles on her face, as if nothing were to be more admired than the blue and rosy flash, and lift her finger the while, inclining her head to listen, as if the reverberations of the thunder storm, the house shaking with the concussion, were music in her ears, because she was determined the child should not be the heir of the tremors and sufferings of others.

It may have been an ordeal to her, but it would have been a worse ordeal to have her son a coward; and she was but repeating the first lesson the Aryan mother taught her son far away in the abyss of past ages, and she as a joy in doing it that more than compensated her, for she was creating a hero.

Deny the existence of original sin, as we may, the survival and reappearance of these ancestral traits, whether rudimentary or full flowered, which we shall constantly see in our children, if we look for them, amount in practical dealing to the same thing. Selfishness, fear, falsehood, cruelty, sensuality, will be the ghosts coming to revisit the pale glimpses of the moon, vastly modified, it is to be hoped, but still the same as the mother of all the Jukes, and some of them probably to be contended with by any one who has the care of the last inheritor of all virtues and vices gone before, the last heir of all the ages, the child of any household.

Yet it is not to be forgotten that good has been inherited with evil, the good of all the struggles against temptation, the effort toward the better and higher, the refusal to surrender to sin, till that effort, that struggle, that refusal, till, in short, virtue becomes a hereditament. Hence to stultify the evil, to foster the good, is the burden that the parents take up with the first-born's first breath. It is a burden they have no right to lay down for a day. They are responsible for the child's existence, and so for what he does with his own existence. It was they who called these spirits from the vasty deep.

THE EVENING STORY

The Steward's Claim

By J. M. Crawford.

The old steward opened the door of the deckhouse and stepped over the coamings with an alacrity hastened by the froth of a sea as it spread across the deck.

"Now b'ys," he said, producing a plate of cold cracker hash from the folds of his dirty blue and white striped apron, "divide up fair an' gimme a match."

As he settled down comfortably in the snuggest sea chest against the warm corner of the gallery bulkhead and tucked his apron around his waist, he stooped with a grimace of pain and gingerly stroked the calf of his right leg.

"What's up, uncle; got the rheumatics?" queried the senior apprentice solicitiously through a mouthful of hash.

"Rheumatics?" repeated the steward with withering sarcasm. "Ho, no; it ain't nothin' 'arf so serious. It's only an old bullet wound as aches in bad weather.

"But if you want to 'ear about it," he suggested moderstly, when he had got his pipe to draw properly, "it 'appened when I were in the Gosshawk, the v'yage arter me an' Cap'n Morgan laid out them pirates single 'anded as I told you about the other night.

"We was layin' in 'Obson's bay, ready loaded for sea with a cargo of wool an' just waitin' for a fair wind, when a feller came into Rooney's s'loon one night an' told us 'ow new diggins 'ad been discovered up country 'an there was as much gold layin' about as would set every man jack of us in a quiet public for life. Well, there was six of us awaitin' in the bay, all full-rigged ships bar one, an' she a lump of a barque, an' next morning there wasn't as many 'ands left aboard them ships as would navigate a 'ov out from Blackwell to Margit on an ebb tide. Me an' the bos'n, a Liverpool Irishman of the name of Whelan, was about the first to make tracks, 'avin' 'eard the news while awaitin' outside Rooney's to 'elp the old man abroad, 'e not being exackly a teetotaler out of smell of the owners, as it were.

"An' if I told you of the sufferin's we 'ad to endure on the road to Kimberley it would mebbe make you more grateful to be sittin' 'ere in a warm 'ouse in front of a plate of cracker 'ash, as the skipper wouldn't eat becos 'e found a cockroach in 'is first 'elping."

"But Kimberley ain't in Australia, uncle," interrupted the junior apprentice, whose sense of justice had been outraged by the division of hash.

"Who said as it were, m' lad?" the steward retorted with asperity. "Things 'as come to a fine pass when a boy as ain't 'ardly found in 'sea logs puts words into the mouths of 'is betters as they didn't say. If I'm a-tellin' of this fac', I'm a-tellin' of it, an' if I say as it were Kimberley, it were Kimberley. An' if you don't believe as I've been where I says I've been, look at this 'ere."

He cautiously unbuttoned his jacket, and drew from under his shirt a little chamois leather bag, from which he decanted a couple of small nuggets upon the chest.

"That's virgin gold, that is, as I'm goin' 'ome to float on the London stock exchange. I've a letter from the comp'ny as I could show you, leastways the envelope, letter bein' market strictly confidential. Naturally, of course, it ain't for the five quid a month as I shipped on this rotten old lime-juicer, but the old man bein' so set on 'avin' me, I didn't like to disobilge him, seein' as I might as well go 'ome this way as any other.

"'Ere, wot are you blowin' at?" he demanded, shielding the precious metal with his hand from the undue proximity of the junior apprentice.

"'Aven't you never seen gold afore?

"Well, as I was a-tellin' the rest of you when this young varmint interrupted, me and Whelan arrived at Gum Tree Gulch—Gum Tree Gulch," he repeated, eyeing the junior apprentice sternly. 'P'raps you'll tell us as that ain't in Australia.

"Bein' strangers, as well as Whelan 'avin' a powerful nose for the smell of ticker, we just naterally dropped into the Metropolitan 'otel, which was a shanty not 'arf so big as its signboard.

"Things was pretty lively inside, some of the boys 'avin' struck it good the day before, an' the rest of 'em 'elping to celebrate the occasion. Of course, the boys could see as we weren't no ordinary sundowners, so wot with keepin' quiet an' Whelan managed to get a matter of four drinks or so before the bartender began to throw nasty 'ints our way. When we saw as none of 'em was in a 'urry to offer another, though Whelan was standin' patient with 'is empty glass in 'is 'and, an' agreein' with everything that was said, we thought we'd go out and 'ave a look around.

"We 'adn't no more'n cut of sight of the s'loon when we came to a bit of a water course, as Whelan, who 'ad an uncle bartendin' in Sacremento at the time of the rush 'ad described to 'im.

"Some one 'ad 'appened to leave a spade 'andy and an old sluice box, 'arf full of dirt, so we set to at once, me rockin' the box and Whelan just directin' generally on account of 'is uncle 'avin' known so much about minin'.

"But, I tell you, gold diggin' ain't what it's cracked up to be, not by way of bein' a soft job. 'Arter I'd 'ad 'arf an 'our of it I was as sore acrost the back as I'd been 'olystonin' this deck 'ere right through an afternoon watch, with the mate standin' by to see there were no holidays.

"But Whelan, who made out as we'd struck wot 'e called pay dirt, wouldn't 'ear about rellevin' me. By an' bye we began to see the yellow lumps in the bottom of the box, an' Whelan, castin' the figures up rough in 'is 'ead, reckoned there was a quid's worth in it anyway. We sat down for a spell an' cclculated 'ow long it was goin' to take us to make our fortunes, though with whisky sellin' at the shameful price it did, we wasn't too bloomin' opeful. 'Owever, 'avin' divided the dust into two 'eaps after a lot of arguin', we reckoned as we'd go back to the 'otel.

"W'en we come in, the bartender didn't look too pleased, but w'en Whelan put 'is 'and in 'is trousis pocket and took out a fistful of dust an' planted it on a 'andy barrel, 'e was too surprised to object.

"'You ain't been long in strikin' it, mates,' he says, a bit suspicious like.

"'There's plenty more where that comes from,' says Whelan, puttin' 'is 'and into 'is other trousis pocket and fetchin' out another fistful.

"When he started in to describe the lay of the land, one or two of the others began to look up interested like, 'specially one ugly ruffian with red whiskers, as axed quite sharp 'ow far we 'ad gone an' 'ow we had got there.

"When Whelan came to the bit 'ow we'd found the spade and the sluice box all layin' 'andy, I ain't never seen a man change the way old whiskers did.

"'You'd 'ave thought 'e was goin' to 'ave a fit. Made out, 'e did, as it were 'is claim we'd struck, which 'e an' 'is mates 'ad left for a day's spree, an' 'ow we was standin' ourselves drinks out of 'is own dust.

"An' 'is crowd, when 'e'd talked to them, be'aved just as excited. It wasn't no manner of use arguin' with 'em — they beln' six to two, an' in liquor at that. They went through our pockets, 'elped by the measly bartender, an' swore shameful when they found a 'ole in one of mine, as they made out some of the dust 'ad gone through into my boots. When they'd taken the boot off and shook it to make sure, they 'elped me an' Whelan out of the saloon door, 'elpin' me 'ardest on account of the 'ole in my trousis pocket.

"There was a straight bit o' track to a gum tree about a hundred yards away, agn' old whiskers took out 'is gun an' lit a paper spill just as cool as if 'e was strikin' a match.

"Then 'e 'inted to me an' Whelan as if we weren't down 'e wouldn't answer for the consequences, 'is finger bein' a bit snaky on the trigger, an' no wonder, too, considerin' the amount of drink 'e 'ad in 'im.

"Seein' resistance was 'opeless owin' to us 'avin' no shootin' irons, we took the 'int and lit out. But, of course, it was odds on Whelan, 'e 'avin' two boots an keepin' me between 'im an' the s'loon while h was a-runnin'.

"'Ow, Lord, it do give me a twinge when I think on it," he said as he bent to rub the afflicted member.

"'But that ain't the leg you rubbed before, uncle," the junior apprentice observed, shrewdly.

The steward rose with dignity. "It's time as I were makin' the mate's coffee 'ot for 'im," he said, "instead of sittin' 'ere among a lot of ignorant boys as was never taught no manners."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To Mix Colors for Special Shades.

Many women like to dye their ribbons, laces and blouses at home, instead of sending such things out, and it is some times that a particular shade of some color is desired, where it cannot be obtained in a sufficiently small quantity in the usual, bought dyes. Here are a few hints which will be of use in such cases:

First, you must test all the shades and you will easily understand that chiffon and fine muslin take less dye than cotton or a similar thick material. The material to be dyed should be dipped in water and wrung out, and a small piece of sponge, dissolved in water in which the dye is mixed, will prevent streaks and patchiness.

To make a pretty salmon shade, add a little cream dye to pink; a rich dark coral is made by stirring a little brown to the pink dye. Turquoise is obtained if you mix a very little pale green to pale blue. A good shade of golden brown is arrived at by mixing yellow with brown.

A little apple-green mixed with midblue give a peacock blue, and for peacock green you must add a touch of pale blue to the apple-green. For heliotrope, add blue to pink.

Moss-green—the ever popular shade—is made by adding a very little rich black low to dark green.

Paris-shade, so fashionable a few years ago, is very easily obtained by adding black to cream, and gray is a mixture of black and white—the quantity of black depending on the shade of gray.

These hints will be of use also to amateur painters and artists who are uncertain about mixing their colors.

Simple Pickle for a Tongue.

Lay the tongue in a pan and take enough cold water to cover it, a tablespoonful of course brown sugar, two tablespoonful of salt, one of saltpetre, and a clove of garlice. Set the pickle in a saucepan. When it boils remove the liquor and let it cool. When quite cold, place the tongue in the pickle, turn it daily for a fortnight, when it should be ready for use.

Polish for Silver and Plated Goods.

Take one-half pound of each of whiting, soda, and common soap, cut the soap very small, put all into an old saucepan, and let stand by the side of the fire until all is dissolved and smooth; put it into jars or tins. If this is used when washing up plate no other cleaning will be necessary, as it removes all tarnish and stain, and leaves a brilliant polish. Wash in hot water and apply with a soft cloth:

Dry Cleaning Jerseys.

White woolen jerseys can be easily dry-cleaned at home in the following way: Spread on a table, sprinkle well with corn flour, roll up tightly, and leave for two or three days, or as long as convenient. Then take the coat outdoors, and shake well in the breeze until all the corn flour has disappeared, when the coat will be perfectly clean.

BIG EVENT WEDNESDAY

Winnipeg Rinks Are Expected for the International Contest.

Only Three Canadian Rinks Here Now---Banquet in Evening.

The play in the international event will begin tomorrow afternoon at 2 p. m. This is the big event of the bonspiel and it is expected that there will be a number of rinks down from Winnipeg to enter it.

At the present time there are but three Canadian rinks at the 'spiel. This event has always been a feature of the Northwestern bonspiel, and it is hoped that there will be more Canadians here to enter it.

The bonspiel management requests that the curlers who are drawn at 8 o'clock be on hand promptly so that there will be no delay in getting the International started at the time designated in the afternoon.

The play tomorrow will consist of two draws, the 8 o'clock and the 11 o'clock. The International will take up all the afternoon.

The big banquet to be held at the Spalding hotel will come at 6:15. This is the climax of the 'spiel and it promises to be the biggest affair of the kind ever given at the Head of the Lakes.

Because if their names were announced they would stay away from the banquet, the bonspiel management refused to give out a list of the speakers. They will be called on at random.

"GENTLE" HORSE RAN AWAY; PURCHASER WANTS DAMAGES

The case of Joseph Gauthier vs. Jack Stone, the last to be tried at the January term of United States court, was taken up this morning. Mr. Gauthier is suing for $5,000 damages for loss of services of his wife, medical attendance for her and damage to a buggy and harness, all of which he alleges grew out of a runaway of a horse which he purchased from Mr. Stone.

Mr. Gauthier alleges that when the horse was sold to him by Mr. Stone, the seller alleged that the horse was gentle. The horse was vicious, Mr. Gauthier claims, and ran away, injuring Mrs. Gauthier and smashing the buggy and harness. Another action, brought by Mrs. Gauthier and growing out of the same runaway, is pending, but it was continued from this term of court.

William Hill, who was convicted yesterday of having obtained possession of a registered letter at Virginia by fraudulent representations, will be sentenced this afternoon.

CAMBRIA RINK IS MAKING GOOD RECORD

This rink is from Cambria, Wis. Do they look it?

They are the original "pajama" rink. All other rinks that wear pajamas are infringing on the rights of these Cambria men.

The two men on the top are baseball players. In the summer time they are said to be the goods when it comes to drawing 'em down and batting 'em out. These Sandersons are some curlers, too. They are "crazy" about the game. At least, they say they are, and it is not hard to believe them, for one of them has the "lton" Smith spat while watching a stone, and the other stands on one foot while watching a rock.

Laying aside all the joke stuff, this Cambria rink is all to the good. They play a rattling good game, as some Duluth men can truthfully testify.

"MURRAY KIDS" AFTER THE GRAND AGGREGATE

THE "MURRAY KIDS."

Here are the Murray "kids." They are from Minneapolis and they seem to be glad of it. Their official title is "The Murray Kid Rink of Minneapolis."

The Murray rink is winning games all the time. The man with the mustache persists that he is a "kid." The Duluth curlers say that he is the chaperone but this is stoutly denied by the Mill City men. They say they don't need any. Outside of Bob Dunbar, who is the greatest curler in the world? "Harry Hurdon or Ron Smith" is the quick answer, but no, that is not right. There are no others in the Murray-Dunbar class. At least, that is what the members of this rink say, and in an enthusiastic moment they have even dared think that Murray is greater than the mighty "Bob." What was that about the grand aggregate? Oh, yes, Mr. Murray wants to take it back to Minneapolis with him.

In their white caps and sweaters this rink presents a natty appearance on the ice and many compliments have been dropped regarding it.

Say what you will, they are good curlers—these boys.

It opened for a four-day session here this morning, when Mayor Lovel extended the freedom of the city to the delegates and welcomed the visitors to the twelfth annual gathering of the big farmers' organization.

The other speakers this morning were Prof. Dolve of the agricultural college on "Good Roads," State Engineer Atkinson on "Farm Drainage," Prof. Thompson of the Edgeley sub-station on "Trees on the Farm," and Prof. Waldron of the sub-station at Dickinson on "Alfalfa."

MOTHER INSANE; CHILD DIES

One of the saddest cases to appear in probate court in some time is that of Mrs. Clara Toivialnen of Chisholm, who was adjudged demented and committed to the state detention hospital at Fergus Falls today.

At the Toivialnen home at Chisholm lies the body of Mrs. Toivialnen's infant child, whose attack of illness unbalanced the mother's mind.

Mrs. Toivialnen is 30 years old and came from Finland two years ago last July to join her husband, John Toivialnen. A few nights ago, the youngest child was seized with convulsions. Fear for the child's life brought on the mother's attack and it was found her mind was unbalanced. While she was in the county jail last night, the child died at the home in Chisholm.

The woman talks incoherently, thinks her home has burned and her children have gone with it and also has religious mania.

MANY BILLS PRESENTED

Flood of Measures at Morning Sessions of the Legislature.

Repeal of Personal Property Tax System Proposed By Coller.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was a rush of new bills at this morning's session of both houses. Senator Coller offered a joint resolution declaring that since the personal property tax system in this state is "crude, obsolete, grossly unfair, unjust and unequal," the tax commission be instructed to prepare a bill repealing all present laws providing for such taxes, and to substitute an income tax for individuals and a gross earnings tax for all corporations and partnerships.

Senator Wilson offered three bills, by request, affecting social relations. One raises the age at which marriage can be contracted from 18 to 21 years in the male and 15 to 18 in the female. Another requires that five days shall elapse between the issuance of a marriage license and the marriage unless a court of record shortens the time. Their votes are kept separate and are sent to the county in which the voters live, and are counted there.

This is a copy of the Kansas law, and it is introduced at the request of the railroad employes, who say that at present 25 per cent of the railroad men are disfranchised every election by absence from home.

Senator Pugh introduced a bill authorizing street railway companies to issue passes to policemen and firemen. The anti-pass law was not particularly aimed at them, but it hit them and it has been a hardship which Senator Pugh's bill would remedy.

Senator Sundburg — Constitutional amendment authorizing the state to insure against hail by taxing the benefited lands for that purpose. The same amendment has been twice before the people and has failed.

A GOOD SHAMPOO FOR ONLY ONE CENT

"It is hardly believable that women will pay a dollar for a shampoo," says Mae Martyn in the Philadelphia Inquirer, "when they can give themselves a better one at home for about one cent. Yet such is true, and invariably women paying the exorbitant price have thin, straggly hair.

"Every woman can have fine, glossy hair if she will carefully dissolve a teaspoonful of canthrox in a teacup of hot water. This should be poured over the scalp and rubbed until it lathers well, then the hair rinsed thoroughly.

"You will find this canthrox shampoo not only restores natural lustre to the hair, but makes the head feel good and banishes itchiness of the scalp. Be sure to get an original package of canthrox."

DRIVEN INSANE BY HYPNOTISM

John R. Cobham became so interested in hypnotism that he became demented on the subject, according to the testimony given in probate court yesterday afternoon when Cobham's mental condition was examined into. He was declared insane and was committed to the state hospital at Fergus Falls.

Cobham became interested in hypnotism in England, it is said, and was a deep student of the subject. He is said to have exerted a strange influence over people and he, himself, claimed to be a great exponent of the science. Whether he really has hypnotic power or whether the claims to hypnotic ability grew out of his mental state, the physicians who examined him were unable to determine.

SUPPLIES ARE SMALLER

World's Visible Wheat Decreases—Market Is Oversold and Advances.

Bullish Crop Reports From Missouri—Flaxseed Strong and Higher.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 17.—The wheat market advanced today. May closed ½c up and July ⅝c. Cash wheat was 1c under May. Oats, rye and barley were unchanged. Durum gained ¼c.

Flaxseed was strong, crushers scrambling for seed. May gained 6½c after bulging 8c. Cash seed closed 2c under May. Winnipeg closed $2.55 bid, 5c up. Antwerp was $2.24 and Minneapolis spot closed $2.67½, 3c under our May and 1c under Duluth spot.

The wheat market opened lower on account of depressed wheat markets abroad and bearish foreign news. Australian and Argentine offers were heavier at a slight decline. The market abroad was inclined to be affected by the heaviness of the Buenos Ayres market. Rains in the Argentine republic were confined to the province of Rosario and were unimportant.

The market was adversely affected by heavy snow in Central Illinois and warmer weather in the Southwest. The market drifted aimlessly until toward noon when the news suddenly assumed a bullish aspect and values firmed with shorts getting under cover. Evidently somebody is trying to use the Argentine news as a lever. Reports from the country were conflicting, but the bull news was more potent as it was in line with previous reports.

A contributing factor to the firming of values was reported from the winter wheat states. A message said ice covers a large area of winter wheat in Missouri and that the plant is liable to be smothered. The decrease in the world's visible was 4,162,000 bu as follows: East of the Rockies, 406,000 bu, Canada 656,000 bu, United States and Canada 1,062,000 bu, afloat and in Europe 3,100,000 bu. Corn decreased 416,000 bu and oats decreased 456,000 bu.

The flaxseed market was strong, crushers being eager buyers. Reports from the Argentine republic were bullish. Some people have reduced estimates of the exportable surplus from 24,000,000 bu to 14,000,000 bu. The Buenos Ayres flaxseed market advanced 20c today and the local market reflected the strength. Winnipeg was up several cents. Antwerp was unchanged but firm at $2.24. The estimate of 14,000,000 bu probably is about 6,000,000 bu too low, and was put out for its effect on the market.

The Daily Market Record, published by Charles H. Thornton, has suspended publication, temporarily at least. The board at present is without an official daily report.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: The wheat market opened easy and ⅜d lower, and, following the opening prices declined ¼d further with undertone heavy and offerings large. Selling was in the way of realizing, due to increasing La Plata offers, weakness of cargo offers, which were 1½@2d lower, and continued free Australian offers at a decline. The continued easiness in America, which has been shown for the last few days, together with the heaviness in Buenos Ayres, prompted some speculative selling. Just before midday there was some little show of strength and prices rallied slightly on the decrease in the European visible. At this time the market was heavy and ½d lower than yesterday. Corn was steady at the start and unchanged to ¼d higher on unfavorable Argentine news. Later there was a decline from the opening in La Plata grade on reported showers in Argentina while the American grade was rather firmly held. There was a poor demand for both cargo and parcels and there were large arrivals of American new corn.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Mixed News Influences Keep Meat Prices in Uncertain Condition.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—Indecision was the most noticeable feeling in the wheat market today. Prices varied in a most uncertain fashion both above and below last night's level. News influences were decidedly mixed. Quite general snows were shown, but where most needed, Kansas and Oklahoma, did not amount to much. Liverpool reported weakness there and at the same time attributed the greater part of the heaviness to the declines on the American side of the Atlantic. There was a big decrease in the European visible supply. However, cash demand continued distressingly slow and speculators seemed inclined to be cautious in taking a positive stand either way on the market. The opening was ¼c lower to a shade higher. May started at $1.00⅛ to $1.00⅜, a loss of ⅛@¼c to a gain of one sixteenth cent, and after much wavering touched $1.00¾.

Reports of sleet and ice damage southwest helped prices later to show considerable firmness. The close was strong with May 1⅛@1¼c net higher at $1.01½.

Light offerings and export buying made corn strong. May opened ⅛@¼c to ¾c up at 42⅜@42½c and advanced to 43⅝c.

Cables telling of alarm over the Argentine drouth added to the upward impetus. The close was firm with May at 50⅜c, a net advance of 1⅛c.

Shorts in oats covered because of corn strength, but prices showed practically no alteration. May started a shade lower to a shade higher at 34⅜c to 34½c and seemed inclined to keep within that range.

An advance in hogs gave firmness to provisions. First sales were 2½c to 12½c higher with May options at $18.85 to $18.87½ for pork, $10.00 for lard and $9.92½ to $9.95 for ribs.

Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 17.—Cotton opened barely steady at a decline of 2@7 points under commission house liquidation and local bear pressure inspired by relatively easy cables, smaller English spot offerings and selling against Egyptian. ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Buoyant Rise in Canadian Pacific in the Opening Trading.

Speculation in General Strong and Bullish Sentiment Dominates.

New York, Jan. 17.—A further marked advance in Canadian Pacific to 210⅞, making a gain of 3⅛ points, was the principal feature of the opening of the stock market today. The entire list was strong with a gain of 1¼ in Union Pacific, 1½ in Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie, 1¾ in Sears Roebuck, 1 in Tennessee Copper and United States Steel and material advances in all the other active issues.

The street was disposed to regard the buoyant rise in Canadian Pacific as conforming the reports of a forthcoming issue of new stock with resultant valuable rights to stockholders. Norfolk & Western's gain of 2⅜ was similarly regarded as corroborating gossip of an increased dividend and a possible merger with the Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis under a lease to the Pennsylvania. Speculation in general was strong and there was an active inquiry from the shorts, which accelerated the rise in the important stocks.

The principal argument heard in explanation of the market's early buoyancy was the favorable trade statement for December showing an enormous excess of exports over the same month of 1909. Arbitrage brokers reported some further demand for Canadian Pacific from London and the continent. Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie and other issues related to Canadian Pacific moved up in sympathy with the latter. Norfolk & Western issues made further substantial gains on rumors of Pennsylvania control involving an increased dividend, but Pennsylvania participated only slightly in the general advance. The grangers and the Pacifics sold higher after the market became dull. Fractional recessions in Canadian Pacific, Reading and Norfolk & Western restricted general buying, but prices were maintained. Chesapeake & Ohio, Lacledde Gas and the Wheeling & Lake Erie stocks advanced one. Pittsburg, C. C. & St. Louis gave way 1¼. Bonds were firm.

The market closed strong. Business expanded and there was a more diversified inquiry, many stocks which had not figured notably in the earlier dealings rising a point or more, particularly the Southern and Southwestern stocks. Northwestern was pushed up 2¼ and Chesapeake & Ohio 1¾ and leading started vigorously upward again and there was a further rise in United States Steel and the general active group.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case, Alworth building.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 18.—(Special to The Herald.— Elaborate regulations of elections are provided in bills introduced in the house this morning by Representative Fisher of Minneapolis and Representative Stone of Park Rapids. Both offered corrupt practices acts, going into infinite details. Dr. Stone's bill, among other things, prohibits treating and taking treats. Fisher's bill limits the purpose of campaign expenditures to a narrow list, and limits the amount to 25 per cent of the yearly salary of the office sought at primary elections, and allows 10 per cent more for the general campaign. Both men also provide for campaign text books to be issued at public expense, the candidates getting pictures and reading material into these books by paying fees intended to meet the cost.

Representative Fisher also introduced a bill extending the primary election system to state officers and United States senators.

State Aid For Schools.

Representative C. H. Warner of Aaltkin introduced his bill providing for state aid to school districts in counties having unsold land, along lines previously described in The Herald. The state is to pay to each county for such purposes at the rate of 5 cents

TWENTY-FIVE ARE TO BE EXECUTED

Japanese Anarchists Receive Sentence for Conspiracy.

Tokio, Jan. 18.—D. Kotoku, his wife and twenty-three fellow anarchists, were today sentenced to death for having conspired against the life of the emperor and other members of the imperial family. Two other men similarly accused were released.

Kotoku, who was formerly identified with a Tokio newspaper and had at one time lived in San Francisco, where he is said to have been associated with a political organization, was the alleged leader of the plot discovered last September.

All of the prisoners were first arraigned before a special court, the duties of which are similar to those of a grand jury in America. On Nov. 9 this court announced the prisoners had been found guilty and asked that they be punished under clause 73, which provides capital punishment for plotters against the imperial family.

The wife of Kotoku was the only woman in the band. The trial proper opened in the supreme court on Dec. 10. The public was excluded on the ground that publicity in connection with the proceedings might be prejudicial to peace and the maintenance of public morals.

GENEROUS STATE AID

Is Desired for System of Consolidated Graded Rural Schools.

Dr. Stone Would Fit the Children for Their Life's Work.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. W. T. Stone of Park Rapids, a member of the house from the Hubbard-Todd-Wadena district, is preparing for early introduction several important educational measures, including a plan for the state board of education to take over all the educational work of the state; and he has about completed a very interesting measure providing for a system of consolidated graded rural schools to be assisted out of the state treasury.

The purpose of this system is twofold: First, to do away with the scattered, isolated, ill-equipped one-room rural school and to replace it with a centralized school which will be better equipped and will do better work at less expense than the several old-style schools it will replace. Second, to do away with the old plan of shaping all pupils for the university instead of for life, and to replace it with a practical system of training in agri-

Engineer Mershon's Scheme Would Require Expenditure of $25,000,000.

Bill Introduced to Investigate the Feasibility of the Plan.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 18.—(Special to The Herald.) — Representative Lewis C. Spooner of Morris this morning introduced a bill providing for an investigation of the feasibility of about the most stupendous plan of internal development in Minnesota ever devised in the brain of a human being.

It involves elaborate waterways, stretching from the Lake of the Woods down to Lake Traverse, from Lake Traverse down the Minnesota river valley to its junction with the Mississippi, from Granite Falls across the plateau to the Mississippi at Sauk Rapids, from there across country to the St. Croix, and thence by way of the St. Croix and Brule rivers to Lake Superior and Duluth.

If carried out in the form in which it has been conceived by R. J. Mershon of Chicago, an engineer who has devoted half a dozen years to investiga-

STATE HAIL INSURANCE

Senator Plain Has Bill Before the North Dakota Legislature.

Jud La Moure Would Stop the Sale and Use of Snuff.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator C. W. Plain of Cavalier county has a new idea on the question of establishing a state hail insurance department and his ideas on the subject are contained in a bill introduced by him. The placing of the hail insurance department on a cash basis is the particularly striking feature of the bill. Practically all other measures proposing the creation of a state hail department have provided that such departments be operated on a tax levy basis, but Senator Plain believes that method to be faulty and impracticable. He made the commissioner of agriculture and labor the commissioner of hail insurance as well. Assessors in different townships would act as the agents of the state hail department and it is made a part of their duty, when listing the property for taxation, to inquire of the farmer if he desired hail insurance. A premium of 16 cents has been fixed by the bill but that amount could be increased if necessary. All applications for insurance

MONETARY PLAN MEETS APPROVAL

Assistant Secretary of Treasury Pleased With Aldrich Report.

Proposed Reserve Association Will Solve Many Difficulties.

Hard to See How Solvent Bank Could Be Forced to Wall.

Washington, Jan. 18.—The Aldrich plan for monetary legislation marks "the most profound and comprehensive attempt at constructive financial legislation which the country has witnessed since the time of Hamilton," said A. Piatt Andrew, assistant secretary of the treasury, today, in addressing the business men's monetary conference held by the National Board of Trade. It was the first public discussion of the Aldrich plan.

Mr. Andrew defined six existing deficiencies in the present monetary system and explained the remedies suggested in the Aldrich plan. Speaking of the proposed Reserve association, Mr. Andrew said: "With such an institution in existence, it is hard to see how solvent banks could ever again be forced to suspend, or how our domestic exchange could ever again cease to operate.

"The Aldrich plan," continued Mr. Andrew, "embodies most of the features which are common to the banking systems of other important countries and which we have hitherto lacked. Yet it does not attempt to reproduce in this country any institution existing elsewhere. The Reserve association is not like the Reichsbank, or the Bank of France, or the Bank of England, yet it embodies among its functions the valuable features common to all of those institutions."

Mr. Andrew declared that the Aldrich plan presented well contrived arrangements for avoiding control of the Reserve association by particular interests or political influences.

Binghampton, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Prompt work by firemen and attendants of the Susquehanna Valley Home is thought to have saved the lives of all of the 155 children inmates when fire broke out in the boiler room of the dormitory building at 5 o'clock this morning.

After a careful search of the building the firemen failed to reveal any bodies. Dozens of the children were carried out unconscious from suffocation.

COAL MINERS TO CONSIDER STRIKES

Resolutions Will Be Introduced at the Convention.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 18—Resolutions calling for a general strike of all miners in the Irwin coal fields of Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, and a general strike of United Mine Workers in Colorado, will be the first important business to come before the convention of the United Mine Workers of America at Memorial hall. The subject will be presented to the delegates for a vote either today or Thursday by Philip Veatch of the Nealesville district.

A partial strike was called in the Irving field March 7, 1909, because of the refusal of the operators to recognize the union. The resolution calling a general strike states that some of the miners have been arrested for picketing and hundreds of others have been discharged. Members of the union claim that the operators are leagued in a fight against the unions.

Among other resolutions to be introduced into the convention will be: To prohibit members from joining the Civic Federation, and to eliminate the docking systems from all agreements as soon as possible.

It became known today that a resolution would be introduced by local No. 2708, Illinois, calling for strikes in protest against jail sentences imposed on Fred D. Warren at Fort Scott, Kan., editor of the Appeal to Reason, and Samuel Gompers and John Mitchell, president and vice president of the American Federation of Labor.

W. J. BRYAN ELIMINATED AS NOMINEE

Personal Friend Says Nebraskan Must Not Be Considered.

Fate Has Decreed That He Cannot Be President.

Bryan Element May Line Up for Champ Clark.

Washington, Jan. 18. — Democratic senators and representatives who attended the Jackson day banquet in Baltimore last night were discussing with unusual interest today the significance of a warnig not from Former Representative Theodore Bell of California, generally recognized at the conference as the personal representative of William J. Bryan.

Mr. Bell eliminated the Nebraskan from any further consideration as the Democratic nominee either in 1912 or any succeeding presidential year.

"Fate undoubtedly decreed," he said, "that Mr. Bryan shall never be elected president of the United States."

But Mr. Bell warned his hearers that if they were seeking a harmony which might bring about future Democratic success they must not continue a policy which omitted Mr. Bryan from consideration as a leader in the party councils. Mr. Bell declared that the affections of millions of American people still were centered on Bryan and that his views must be given the most serious consideration.

Previous to his references to Mr. Bryan, Mr. Bell had taken occasion to pay a high tribute to Champ Clark as a man in whom the Middle and Far West had implicit confidence. He did not go so far as to name Mr. Clark for the presidency, but by inference his meaning was clear and there are many political watchers in Washington who regard the incident of last night as the limbing up of the Bryan element in the party behind Mr. Clark as against Governor Harmon, Woodrow Wilson, or any of the others who have been mentioned for the Democratic leadership.

TWO FISHERMEN RESCUED BY TUG

Lexington, Mich., Jan. 18.—William and Herbert Walker, the fishermen who were adrift on a Lake Huron ice floe since Tuesday morning, were rescued early today and taken to Port Huron on the tug Diver. SHEEHAN LACKS NINE VOTES OF ELECTION ON FIRST JOINT BALLOT

Secures Ninety Out of 197 Cast By Legislature.

Shepard Comes Second in Line on the Democratic Side.

Senator Chanler Changes Vote From Sheehan to Shepard.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 18.—The first joint ballot for the United States senator resulted as follows:

Democrats—Sheehan, 90; Shepard, 13; Parker, 7; Gerard, 3; Littleton, 2; Herrick, 2.

Republican—Depew, 80. Necessary for choice, 99.

Senator Chanler, who yesterday voted for Sheehan, changed today to Shepard.

Before the Joint Ballot.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 18.—The legislature of New York faces a deadlock on a senatorial election for the first time since 1881 when Senators Conkling and Platt resigned.

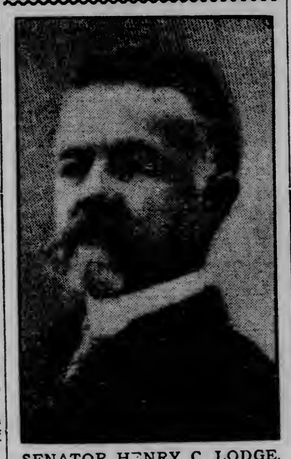

William E. Sheehan now leads the field with ninety-one votes and the anti-Sheehan men are concentrating their efforts to cut down his strength rather than attempting to agree on a candidate to beat him. The first joint ballot will be taken at noon today.

Of the twenty-six Democrats who voted against Mr. Sheehan yesterday, twenty-one have solemnly pledged themselves not to abandon their stand. Three of the remaining five voted for Mr. Shepard yesterday and Mr. Sheehan's opponent declared that five of his ninety-one votes would desert him after the first joint ballot today.

The chiefs of the Sheehan campaign called on every one of the ninety-one who voted for him yesterday and told Brunswick, Me., Jan. 18.—Fire destroyed the armory of the Tenth company, Maine Coast artillery, early today, causing a loss of about $30,000. Officers of Submarine Stand By Their Injured Vessel.

Ventilator Breaks and Their Air Supply Is Cut Off.

Kiel, Germany, Jan. 18.—The sinking of the U-3, the German navy's first submarine disaster, cost three lives.

The dead are the captain of the submarine and Lieutenants Fischer and Kolbe, the latter the helmsman. Their deaths were due to an unforseen mishap at the moment the officials of the navy were receiving congratulations upon the supposed successful raising of the U-3, and the rescue of the crew.

When the submarine, three hours after she sank, had been brought to the surface by the salvage ship Vulkan yesterday and twenty-seven of her men had made their way to safety through the torpedo tube, the captain and the two lieutenants elected to stand by their ship until she was once more master of herself.

LAKE CARRIERS ARE IN SESSION

Representatives of Lake Traffic Gather in Annual Convention.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 18.—Representatives of every branch of lake traffic, with the exception of package freight and passenger lines, met here today for the annual convention of the Lumber Carriers' association; the Great Lakes' Protective association and the Lake Carriers' association. The Lumber Carriers and members of the Protective association opened their session today and the Lake Carriers will convene tomorrow.

Lake lumber rates will be increased by the lumber carriers at the present meeting, according to H. L. Wilson, a local member of the organization.

"It is a case of raise rates or go out of the boat business," said Mr. Wilson. "For years rates have been going down and expenses going up. We can scarcely cut wages at this time, so our only recourse is a raise in rates.

Opening sessions of the Protective association were taken up with strictly routine matters. President William Livingstone of the Lake Carriers', predicts there will be little business for his organization to take care of outside routine matters.

CARING FOR THE INDIANS

Commissioner Valentine Makes His Annual Report.

Much Progress Made in the Way of Education.

Washington, Jan. 18.—In attempting to put Uncle Sam's Indian wards on a self-sustaining basis, the bureau of Indian affairs, during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1910, bent every effort to bring about that end, according to the annual report of Commissioner Robert G. Valentine to the secretary of the interior. Through the efforts of its educational, farming and employment branches the bureau has been well rewarded in its efforts to make the Indian a competent citizen of the United States.

Wonderful progress was made during the year covered by the report in teaching the Indians how to work their own lands, says the commissioner. Speaking on the farming problem, Commissioner Valentine says: "The Indian service realizes that instruction in farming is an essential basic part of its present educational policy and is, therefore, making use of every possible resource in order to promote farming among the Indians." During the year a number of expert farmers were employed to teach the Indian the art of agriculture. Declaring that the agricultural fair has been convincingly proved a means of stimulating interest in farming among the Indians by its success among the Crows, Commissioner Valentine continues: "The fair promotes healthy rivalry among the Indians and furnishes a rational basis for meeting together, which ought eventually to take the place of the indiscriminate gatherings of Indians, which are usally productive of considerable harm."

Opportunities For Boys.

Reporting that two large railway systems have offered to provide opportunities for school boys who are learning trades or who are mechanically inclined, the commissioner says that "the systematic connecting of the industrial education of the schools with the real work of the world will mean the dawning of a new day in Indian education, and, from the human side, the bridging over of that critical period in a boy's life when he leaves school and starts to work, is a service of far-reaching importance. Sympathetic direction during those two or three critical years," the commissioner goes on to say, "will mean the economic and moral salvation of many boys and young men."

In declaring that the health work of the bureau is not merely to care for and cure those who are sick nor the reduction of the death rate, but "rather to increase the vitality of the Indian race and to establish for it a new standard of physical well-being," the commissioner says that one of the principal features of the attack is "an intensive attack upon the two diseases that most seriously menace the health of the Indians—trachoma and tuberculosis.

To Suppress Liquor Traffic.

As a result of the increased appropriation for the suppression of the liquor traffic, the report says, unusually "extensive operations were conducted covering practically every state of the Union in which Indians reside. During the year," the commissioner says, "1,657 new cases were placed on the dockets, 1,657 arrests were made, 747 indictments secured and 1,055 convictions obtained. Cases against 280 persons were dismissed and 23 persons were acquitted."

The commissioner says that the bureau has been aided in its efforts in this line by the co-operation of the state officials and continues:

"It is gratifying to find in a few cases that the Indians themselves have circulated petitions addressed to the home city or town councils asking that saloon licenses be revoked and the places closed."

Indian Schools.

Progress, says the commissioner, is being made in the work of connecting the Indian schools with the public schools, and the association of Indian children with white children will be a definite means of promoting the assimilation of the Indians into American life.

"A comprehensive survey of the condition of the schools throughout the service was made during last year," reports the commissioner. "Out of a school population of about 40,000 (this does not include the five civilized tribes), there are in school 29,185, leaving out of school 10,815. Including public schools within reach of Indian children, there are accommodations for 6,344 being unused, thus leaving 4,471 for whom there would appear to be no school accommodations. The chief supervisor of schools is of the opinion, however, that with the exception of the Navajos and Apaches, all other Indian children can be well cared for in schools already in existence."

After saying that there are millions of acres of Indian lands in Indian reservations, the report says that thus far about 160,000 acres have been irrigated; of this number 118,640 have been irrigated by Indians and 42,080 by white lessees and purchasers.

"The government no longer looks upon its duty to the Indians as merely involving an honest accounting for its trusteeship of Indian lands and funds," says the commissioner. "It considers the trusteeship of this property as the means of bringing the Indian to a position of self-reliance and independence, where he may be able to accept the opportunities and responsibilities of American citizenship."

SEWING CLASSES FOR YOUNG GIRLS

Advanced Pupils Will Be Given Diplomas as Dressmakers.

Sewing classes for young girls are one of the features of the work carried on at the Neighborhood house of the Twentieth Century club at 2423 West Superior street, this year.

Classes, comprising nearly 100 girls, are taught Saturday afternoon under the direction of Mrs. Catlin and Mrs. W. G. Bonham of the Twentieth Century club. Girls ranging in age from 5 to 16 are members of the classes.

Plain everyday sewing is first taught and then the fancy articles are worked at. The class of those who are most advanced will soon be given certificates as dressmakers. Considerable progress is being made in all the classes.

The older girls have an auxiliary organization, the Willing Workers, which meets every Friday afternoon for a social session. A literary program is generally held in connection with the gatherings. The girls are now taking up the study of American history from a humorous standpoint.

There are also four boys' organizations at the Neighborhood house, the same as last year. The boys' clubs are under the supervision of Miss Jean Poirier. The Neighborhood house also is the home of the West end branch of the public library, which is open to the public Monday, Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

ENGAGEMENT COMES TO END

St. Paul Symphony Orchestra Closes With Two Delightful Concerts.

The St. Paul Symphony orchestra brought its most successful engagement in Duluth to a close last evening, with a concert that was fully as well attended and much more enjoyable than the one of the previous night.

It was the second grand symphony night, Beethoven's symphony No. 8 being featured, with Mme. Hesse-Sprotte as soloist for the evening.

Beethoven's eighth symphony is pure comedy in music. Its themes are light and graceful, and the entire tone of the symphony is cheerful. The themes are very prominent and very easily followed, and the symphony is one of the most popular in the entire library of music. It was delightfully rendered last evening and thoroughly enjoyed. The orchestra seemed to have more confidence last evening, and gave a much more finished concert than the one of the previous evening. There were some criticisms heard after the Monday concert but none after last evening's.

The program was changed back to the one originally planned. So many protests had been received regarding the substitution of two new numbers, that the management insisted on the orchestra giving the program originally announced, and Tschaikowsky's "Marche Slav" and the overture to "Sakuntala" by Goldmark were reinstated, much to the delight of the audience and to the betterment of the program.

No soloist in Duluth in recent years has been given a warmer reception than that accorded Mme. Hesse-Sprotte, contralto. She sang the prison scene from "La Prophete" for her first number, and was forced to respond to an encore. She might easily have given a second encore, in response to the insistent demands, but wisely decided that "enough was enough," and left the audience wanting to hear more.

Her second number also drew an enthusiastic encore, for which she sang a dainty little German number, "Unter Den Linden."

The afternoon concert was fully as enjoyable as the evening program. The Grieg suite from "Peer Gynt" was splendidly rendered and the harp, clarinet and cello solos drew well merited applause.

The engagement as a whole was a most successful one from every standpoint, and yesterday's two concerts established a reputation for the St. Paul orchestra here that fully equals that left by the Minneapolis organization last spring.

Green Room Gossip.

The name of Harry Linton, who is appearing with Linton and Laurence in a clever little sketch at the Orpheum this week, is a familiar one in the show business. Mr. Linton is a well known theatrical producer, and has made and lost several fortunes in the show business. Three years ago he was coining money with popular priced attractions, playing the Stair & Havland houses, but the following year was a disastrous one, and he lost practically every dollar he had. He then wrote his present sketch and took it into vaudeville. He composed the songs himself and his wife wrote the lines and the lyrics.

"I hope to get back into the producing line some time, said Mr. Linton. "You can lose money rapidly in it, but you can also make it rapidly, and I enjoy the excitement, although I like my vaudeville work also."

Empress patrons this week have marveled at the length of time that James Finney remains under water, and at every performance there are people in the audience who take out their watches and time him. The length of time he remains under the surface varies, but it is always over two minutes. An interesting experiment is to try to hold one's breath while Mr. Finney is under water. The spectator generally gives up before Mr. Finney is half through. He has a record of staying under water for more than four minutes.

She Broke Down Entirely

Lantz, W. Va.—Mrs. Tebe Talbott of this place says: "I had been troubled with womanly ailments for some time, and at last I broke down entirely. I got so weak I could scarcely walk across the room. Thanks to Cardui, I improved right off. Now I do my housework, and am feeling well." During the past 50 years, more than a million women have been benefited by taking Cardui. You must believe that Cardui will help you, too, since it helped all these others. Cardui is a safe, harmless, vegetable remedy, of positive, curative merit, for women. At drug stores. Try one bottle. It will surely help you.

HURDON GIVES DUNBAR HOT FIGHT LOSING ON LAST SHOT

Great Contest Is Feature of Morning Play in Bonspiel.

Dunbar Leading for Grand Aggregate---May Tie Up Spiel.

The feature of the morning's game at the rink of the Duluth Curling club, where the annual Northwestern bonspiel is going on, was the game between Harry Hurdon of Duluth and "Bob" Dunbar of St. Paul, which was won by Dunbar, 14 to 9, after a struggle which the score does not fairly describe. It was in the Minneapolis event.

Hurdon had Dunbar six down at the end of the seventh head. It looked like Hurdon and the word quickly passed about the rink that Dunbar was "getting his." It certainly did look for o time as though the mighty "Bob" was in for a trimming. He came back strong in the last four heads, scoring 3, 1, 2 and 5.

In the first head Hurdon scored one, and in the next Dunbar came back strong with three. From that time on until the eighth everything looked like Hurdon. He scored 2, 1, 2, 2, and 1 and then stopped. The score at this time was 9 to 3. In the eighth Dunbar by great playing laid three. In the ninth Dunbar laid another and in the tenth Hurdon helped him to score two, for in attempting to raise one of his own stones, he got a chip off one of Dunbar's and raised it into the ring. This made the score a tie, 9 and 9 in the tenth head.

Last Stone Fatal.

The eleventh head started off with a rush, the men on both sides laying and taking the other out with almost perfect shots. Near the end of the head Dunbar had four stones in the ring. In attempting to guard them he drew into the ring and laid his stone beside another exactly in the center of the ring. Hurdon had the last shot and he tried to lay up to the two stones, but the ice was tricky, he misjudged it and he got a trifle narrow and got a chip off the guard. Dunbar laid five and the game was over.

More interest was taken in this game than any other that has been played during the bonspiel. The other curlers dropped their games and lined up along the side to watch the Hurdon-Dunbar contest. It was in doubt until the last stone had been played. If Hurdon had made the shot he would have been one point to the good. The twelfth head was not played out as with a lead of five it would have been impossible to have even tied the St. Paul man in one end.

It was a great game and will be talked about at future 'spiels for many years to come.

Dunbar now looks good for the grand aggregate, as he has not been beaten. If also looks as if he would tie up the 'spiel. His men are all playing a strong game and "Bob" is as strong as ever. For Hurdon "Dub" Tresise, Johnny Pugh, Walter Poheler, played mighty well.

Conkle of Arlington is running Dunbar a strong second for the grand aggregate.

The ice was in the best possible shape this morning, the weather being a trifle warmer. The draw was made in the Western Curling club event and play was begun, there being five contests in this event run off.

Curlers Getting Tired.

The curlers are beginning to weaken. Instead of playing the full twelve ends, many of them, this morning, stopped at the tenth and eleventh. It is no joke to curl as many as five games a day, as some of them have, and those who were not on this afternoon went to their homes and to their hotels to rest up.

There were four games in the Minneapolis event. The Dunbar contest was one of them. Zauft won from Murray of Minneapolis, 13 to 8. The Murray rink of Minneapolis began to slide last night and they were still on the slide this morning.

Schemmel of Cambria defeated McDonald of Duluth this morning in a close game, 10 to 8. McDermott of St. Paul won from Richardson of Duluth, 12 to 4.

There was but one game in the St. Paul Jobbers, Grace of Superior losing to Dunlop of Duluth, 14 to 7.

In the Western Curling club event, which began this morning, McLeod lost to Dr. Catterson, 18 to 5. McLeod of Minneapolis won from Chadwick of Superior, 15 to 1, almost a free silver game. Iltis of West Duluth beat Strickland, 10 to 9. Wade of West Duluth defeated Cameron of St. Paul, 12 to 7. Smith of Duluth defeated Johnson of Virginia, 16 to 6.

The International.

The great International event will be played off this afternoon between three American and three Canadian rinks. If the Americans win, they will at once begin to play down for it.

The banquet and annual election of officers of the Northwestern Bonspiel association will take place this evening at the Spalding hotel.

The bonspiel will probably be over by Saturday evening. A number of the curlers are already planning to leave Saturday night so as to be home Sunday. The events are being run off in first class shape. There are no waits which is saying something for the management.

The lineup of the rinks in the International follows:

American.

Wisconsin rink — Schemmel, lead; Cambria; Joe Raup, second; Portage; Robertson, third, Arlington; Reedal, skip, Phillips.

Superior—Miller, lead; Grace, second; Gates, third; Chase, skip.

St. Paul—Nelson, lead; Strickland, second; Halstead, third; R. H. Dunbar, skip.

Canadian.

Rainy River—Calvert, lead; Bradford, second; Jackson, third; Chapman, skip.

Port Arthur—Merrill, lead; Rogers, second; Honnigan, third; Montgomery, skip.

Selkirk—Maynard, lead; T. H. Sutherland, second; McLeod, third; M. Southerland, skip.

SUPERIOR

RAILROADS ASK TO COMPROMISE

Offer Council Dock Site to Stop Suit for Street Ends.

A compromise may be effected between the city and the railroads which have been defendants in a suit scheduled for the January term of the federal court, in which the municipality seeks to recover riparian rights to the street ends on the bay front at Central park.

The proposition is that the city will be given a valuable piece of dock property should the litigation be dropped. Mayor Crumpton appointed a committee of five last evening to confer with the railroad officials in the matter.

Alderman Robert Kennedy of the Ninth ward spoke against extravagant expenditures, in connection with a resolution which came up to buy an automobile frame for the fire department. The resolution was laid over until the next meeting.

The legal department in a communication advised the council that the city can organize a health board as outlined in the Ekstrom ordinance without any charter amendments. This matter was also laid over.

SUPERIOR BOY ON THE DELAWARE CREW.

Victor Long, aged 18, son of W. F. D. Long, agent for the Great Northern railway at the Central avenue station, is a member of the crew of the battleship Delaware, on which there was a fatal explosion yesterday, when the lives of eight were snuffed out.

The vessel was en route from Guantanamo to Hampton Roads. Young Long, who, it is presumed, was not hurt, was a student at the Blaine high school until the spring of 1910 when he enlisted in the navy. The Long family reside at 5829 John avenue.

LOCATION NOT CHANGED.

Twohy-Eimon Mercantile Co. Directors Decide to Build Next Spring.

At the annual meeting of the directors of the Twohy-Eimon Mercantile company yesterday no action was taken in regard to changing quarters. Another meeting will be called in April to dispose of this matter.

The concern has four lots at the corner of Banks avenue and Winter street, and it is planned to build on them and move the wholesale house from the present quarters on Hughitt avenue and First street to the new building.

The old directors were re-elected.

WILL ELECT OFFICERS.

Annual Meeting of Superior Public Welfare Society Jan. 23.

President W. C. Lounsbury has called a meeting of the Superior Public Welfare society, formerly the Superior Anti-tuberculosis society, for Jan. 23. The gathering will take on the form of an annual meeting and officers for the coming year will be elected.

Miss Florence Two, social worker, will give an address. She will discuss her work in the city. Others will also give talks.

HIGH MACCABEE WILL VISIT IN SUPERIOR.

John W. Brown, great commander of the Maccabees, will be a Superior visitor Thursday night and will be guest of honor at a reception held at the East End Music hall, Becker avenue and West Sixth street. The annual installation of the Superior lodges will be held in connection with his visit to the Head of the Lakes.

ARREST DULUTH MAN FOR AUCTIONEERING.

M. Oreck of Duluth was arrested by Detective Galvin of the Superior police department yesterday on a warrant charging him with auctioneering without a license. On bonds put up by N. Peterson of 702 Tower avenue, at whose store he was working, Oreck was released. He will appear in court this afternoon.

WANT APPROPRIATION.

Spanish War Veterans After State Aid for Charitable Work.

Members of Hector Swift Camp, Spanish War Veterans, are much interested in the movement to secure an annual appropriation through the state legislature for the benefit of needy veterans, widows and other charitable work in connection with the organization.

The Superior camp is the first to try to secure the passage of a law which would allow such an appropriation. The G. A. R. has such a benefit fund, which is a certain per cent of the county levy. This year it will amount to about $4,000.

The plan is to have the law amended so as to include the Spanish War veterans.

FOUR SUPERIOR TEAMS AT BIG BOWLING TOURNEY.

The City Bowling league will send four teams to the international bowling tournament, which will be held in St. Paul next month. It is possible that a fifth team may also attend from Superior.

If any prize money is won by the Superior representatives at the St. Paul meet, it will be turned over to the league, which in return has agreed to pay the expenses of the trip.

Columbia $12 suit sale starts tomorrow.

IMITATIVE SUICIDE.

The Lancet: The subject of imitative suicide has recently attracted attention in the public press. The mental condition of an individual who commits suicide is difficult to fathom. In one class of case a person will fancy that he is being constantly persecuted, that he is always watched, or that he is financially ruined—all these ideas being contrary to fact; he destroys himself in order to escape these imaginary evils.

Such a man is obviously of unsound mind. In another class of case a man has committed a crime or disgraced himself in some way, and in order to free himself from the consequences of his act he takes his own life in preference to facing exposure or the punishment entailed. Such an individual is not necessarily insane.

But there is yet another class—people who are subject to attacks of depression and who are apt to brood over real or imagined injuries. These are weak-minded, or may be on the border line between sanity and insanity.

Or another class likely to act upon some sudden impulse are the alcoholics. In these a passing suggestion is likely to result in some deed of violence often of a suicidal nature. Such impulses are susceptible of being spread by imitation. Reading in the newspaper of a mode of self-destruction which is likely to excite great notoriety has been known to induce a similar act in the reader; a suicide by coal gas, especially when a description has been given of the exact manner in which the deed was carried out, has found imitators.

More particularly, however, the sight of a particular spot or locality where previous suicides have taken place may induce a person, who may hitherto have been unsuspected of any such disposition, to destroy himself. Falls from heights especially come under this heading. Numerous suicides have taken place from the Suspension bridge at Clifton. A writer in the Yorkshire Evening News has recently said that much harm is done by pictures and descriptions, and that imitative suicide may follow. We agree with him that the necessary suggestion may be evolved by such means. The suggestion may act on the conscious mind or the subconscious.

THE NEAL CURE FOR DRINK HABIT

Appeals Particularly to the Business and Professional Man and the Well-to-Do Drinker in All the Walks of Life.

Cures Him of the Drink Habit in Just Three Days Without Hypodermic Injections—at the Institute or in the Home.

Business and professional men who drink socially are forming the drink habit and they are really "burning the candle at both ends" and don't realize it.

Many a bright business or professional man in the midst of his successful career has been induced to go to the Superior Neal Institute and take treatment. We have treated a large number of men in the better walks of life who came to us with their nerves shattered, stomach on fire, brain weakened, mind wandering and so nervous that they were shaking like an aspen leaf. The poison of alcohol creates an insatiable appetite for liquor. The Neal treatment neutralizes and eliminates this poison from the system and the patient is put back in the same condition that he was before he ever tasted liquor, so far as the effects of alcohol are concerned. He is regenerated, made a new man, with all inclination to drink, all desire, craving and appetite for liquor gone, his nerves steady, mind clear and step elastic. He begins life anew.

Patients at the Neal Institute are afforded the comforts of a refined home and utmost privacy maintained.

POULTRY SCHOOL TO LAST A WEEK

Forty Students Will Be Enrolled in Y. M. C. A. Class.

A. D. Wilson, superintendent of the division of agriculturel extension work of the University of Minnesota, has notified A. B. Hostetter that the proposed poultry school will be held in Duluth for one week, beginning Feb. 27.

A great deal of good is expected to result from the holding of this school, which will be in the Y. M. C. A. It is desired to have at least forty students enrolled by the time the date of the school's opening is reached, and the eagerness with which the movement has been welcomed is taken to insure the attendance and enthusiasm that must be secured to make it a complete success.

COPPERS WEAKEN TOWARD CLOSE

Values Advance and Then Fall—Trading Light and Featureless.

The copper market showed a little strength today, but toward the close there was some opposition to the advance and values receded to about yesterday's closing level. The market was lifeless, listless and featureless. Consequently there was not anything doing and values held to a narrow trend.

The market has been well liquidated and stocks have adjusted themselves to new conditions. The market seems to be in a position where it could undergo a rally. There is a small short interest out, but it is not confined to any one group of issues.

Butte Alex Scott, part paid, sold at $1.87½ to $2, Denn at $4.93¾ to $5, Red Warrior at $1.37½ to $1.43¾ to $1.50, Calumet & Montana at 74c, Keating at $1.75 to $1.62½ to $1.75, North American at $2.25 to $2.31¼, Vermilion at $2.31¼.

Early last year an effort was made by the Cole-Ryan-Amalgamated interests to secure control of the Arizona Copper company, which is largely owned in Scotland. This company, operating in the Clifton, Arizona district, has been producing about 30,000,000 pounds of copper per annum, its copper being sold by the United Metals Selling company. The Cole-Ryan people had conferences lasting several weeks, the Arizona Copper company being represented by John Gill of Edinburgh, Scot., who was chairman of the board of directors. An offer at 50 shillings per share for the control of the Arizona Copper company was made, but Mr. Gill demanded 70 shillings per share and no trade was made. The stock is now selling at about 30 shillings. Within the past few weeks Mr. Gill died, and as he was the active man in the organization, although nearly 80 years of age, there are possibilities that by his death this famous property may now revert to American interests, especially as the company now faces heavy construction charges amounting to several million dollars, which in turn may result in a temporary suspension of dividends.

WANT FEWER COURT TERMS

Duluth Attorneys Will Meet to Take Stand on Legislation.

Five Terms at Duluth and Two on Range Enough, They Say.

The attitude of the Bar Association of the Eleventh Judicial district, or the Duluth members of the association at least, on legislation pending at the current session, will be determined at a meeting of the association to be held in the Commercial club rooms next Saturday afternoon, at 1:30.

The principal matter on which the attorneys will express themselves is the fixing of the number and time of the terms of court in the district. The Duluth attorneys want the mistake made at the last session of the legislature rectified so that there will be but five terms of court annually in Duluth, instead of eight, which will be a return to the system which operated before the last session of the legislature made provision for eight terms.

Opposition has developed among Duluth attorneys to the bill introduced by range people to have six terms of court annually on the range, three at Virginia and three at Hibbing. Duluth attorneys will oppose the proposed legislation as unnecessary. They claim that one term at Virginia and one at Hibbing would be sufficient for the transaction of all business of the range court and would be a great saving to the county as well as a convenience to the attorneys who believe they are called upon too frequently to appear before the range court.

Before the error of the legislature in 1909, terms of court were held in Duluth in January, March, May, June, September and November. The Duluth attorneys want a return to that system, eliminating the terms in April, July and October, which were intended only for the range court, but which were made to apply to Duluth by a strict construction of the law.

Just what attitude the attorneys will take on the terms of court for the range is not known but many Duluth attorneys are in favor of asking the legislature to provide for one term of court at Virginia and one at Hibbing, or two at Virginia and one at Hibbing at the most.

Since the court on the range was established and the number of terms increased, the cost of maintaining the courts of the county has mounted to an amazing size and opposition to the increasing number of terms on the range has developed on that score. If the legislation proposed by range people should be adopted, it would be necessary for the county to maintain offices for deputy sheriffs and clerks at Hibbing as well as at Virginia and the cost of transporting six jury panels to the range towns each year would be greater than many of the county officials want to see incurred.

With eight terms of court in Duluth and four on the range each year, attorneys have found themselves involved in so many terms that the business of the court is retarded rather than facilitated. They believe if there were fewer terms and less necessity for preliminaries, calling juries, convening grand juries and such other proceedings, better progress would be made in disposing of legislation.

The association will probably arrange for the introduction of a bill fixing the time for the term in Cook county at the third Monday in June, instead of the last Thursday as at present. Duluth attorneys would then be able to attend the opening of court at Grand Marais, dispose of their business and return to Duluth within one week, whereas the term has often run into the second week when court convened on Thursday.

Attorneys are also interested in other legislation which is proposed for the present term of the legislature and a stand may be taken on it at the meeting Saturday.

STRIKES HAVE COST $8,089,986

Mine Workers Pay Out That Amount in Ten Years.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 18.—President Tom L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America in presenting his report to the twenty-second annual convention today recalled the fact that the United Mine Workers were organized twenty-one years ago at Columbus.

"Nearly 350,000 men are now employed under joint agreements," said Mr. Lewis.

"The controversy with Francis Feehan of the Pittsburg district is reviewed and President Lewis declares that the strike in the Irwin district of Pennsylvania has cost the organization $329,900.

"It is my duty to tell you frankly that it is a waste of money to continue the Irwin district strike under the present circumstances.

"Those men have been misled and deceived long enough and the international organization has contributed to their support, without authority to settle the strike."

The total amount paid out in support of strikes for the past ten years is given as $8,089,986.16.

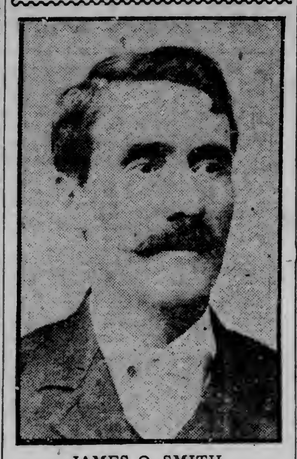

"The joint conference method adopted by the operators and the miners for the purpose of negotiating wage contracts has done much to establish peace in the mining industry.

"There is much agitation at the present time in favor of conservation of our natural resources. The advocates of conservation should direct their efforts to investigating why 50 per cent of our coal is wasted," said Mr. Lewis in his report.

The funeral of James O. Smith, 59 years of age, the youngest G. A. R. man in Duluth, will take place Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the family home at Lakeside. Interment will be at Forest Hill cemetery. Mr. Smith was well known in Duluth and the upper part of the state, having been engaged in the lumber business the last twenty years. Willis A. Gorman post and the Sons of Veterans will attend the services in a body.

EXHIBIT AT THE CORN SHOW

Northern Pacific Will Show Minnesota Products at Columbus.

Notice was received at the local office of the Northern Pacific this morning, stating that the road will make a very comprehensive exhibit of Minnesota products at the Fourth Annual National Corn exhibition, which will be held in Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 30 to Feb. 13.

The wire to the Duluth office states that space has been secured for a very large exhibit. A large electric sign will point out the place where the products of this state are housed, among them many of the agricultural offerings from the northern section, and literature describing in detail the resources of Minnesota, will be given out.

Names of all those interested will be secured by the employes of the Northern Pacific exhibition, with the intention of interesting these persons in the immigration movement to Minnesota.

DULUTH MEN BOOST FAIR

Craig and Hostetter Take Leading Part in Agricultural Society Session.

Move for Fine New Building Pushed By Them at St. Paul.

Charles P. Crag and A. B. Mostetter of Duluth took a leading part in the proceedings of the Minnesota Agricultural society in St. Paul yesterday, and as a result of their efforts it is probable that the state fair will soon possess an agricultural building adequate in extent and design to house the agricultural exhibits, one that will more fitly represent the importance of Mnnesota's agricultural resources than is done now.

"There can be no question as to the need for such a building," said Mr. Craig this morning. "Agriculture is the basic and the chief interest in which the state fair is interested. It is for the purpose of making known the agricultural wealth of the state that the state fair was instituted, and it is no more han right that the agricultural exhibits should be cared for with this idea in mind. That means that the agricultural building should be the biggest and the best on the grounds. I am optimistic on the subject, and it is my belief that the legislature will appropriate sufficient money to carry this project through."

Strong for Simpson.

Mr. Craig is an ardent admirer of John Simpson of Des Moines, who was elected to succeed C. N. Cosgrove as secretary of the state fair association, and in his opinion this selection marks a distinct departure from the lines along which the affairs of the association have been conducted, especially so far as political activities are concerned.

"Mr. Simpson has been thoroughly trained in his business of managing fairs," said Mr. Craig. "He began his connection with the Iowa state fair as a stenographer and continued in the employ of the fair until he attained to the secretaryship, where he has most decidedly made good." I have heard of some criticism of the society because of its selection of a man from outside the state, but I do not think it is well considered. We must take the best men we can find, wherever they are, and that is what we have done. It is my opinion that our selection will be vindicated. Mr. Simpson will bring to the Minnesota state fair the benefit of his long experience as a manager of fairs. He has no alliance which might be calculated to induct politics into the affairs of the state fair.

Is a General Clean-up.

"As a matter of fact, we have started on a campaign of housecleaning such as has not been witnessed in state fair affairs for many a year. Efficiency is what we are striving for, and I think we will get it. Not only did we elect a new president, but all the way down the line we made changes, and it is within the direct line of probabilities that the state fair from this time on will be bigger, greater, better than ever before."

Concerning the proposed new agricultural building to replace the present frame structure devoted to that department, Mr. Craig is extremely enthusiastic. As superintendent of the agricultural department of the fair last year he worked zealously for the advancement of that feature of the exposition and he has its interests very much at heart.

"Agriculture is the basis," said Mr. Craig. "Without successful agriculture there would be no stock raising, for the fodder must be grown where the stock is raised. The stock raiser cannot profitably import the stuff the stock eats. And so it is in every way, and it follows that agriculture necessarily is the basic industry, and further that agriculture is the most important division with which the state fair is concerned. Then the agricultural building should be the biggest, the best building on the grounds."

BOOTH BOAT ON LAST TRIP

Takes Cargo of Provisions for Residents of Grand Marais.

The Booth line steamer Easton made her last trip today.

The boat left for Grand Marais with provisions and settlers' stores. The Booth line boats have been running up the north shore for the past month. No boat has gone to Isle Royale for the past two months, and as far as is known at the Booth office, there is no one at the island the present winter.

According to the officials of the company there is not much ice to break before getting out in the lake, and no tug has been needed to break a way for the company's boats.

ARRIVES WITH DEAD.

Battleship Delaware Steams Into Hampton Roads Early in Morning.

Old Point Comfort, Va., Jan. 18.—The battleship Delaware dropped anchor off Fortress Monroe early today, the storm abating at daylight, making it possible for the vessel to enter Hampton Roads. As soon as the ship was sighted coming in, the tug Mohawk was sent out from Norfolk navy yard to meet her.

The Mohawk will bring ashore the bodies of the eight men who were killed aboard the Delaware yesterday in a boiler room explosion at sea.

Upon the arrival of the tug at the yard preparations will be made to ship the bodies to relatives where requests have been made. Those not shipped will be buried in the Norfolk naval cemetery with full honors by their comrades.

The body of Laurence Thomas, the victim of the explosion, whose identity was not established in yesterday's dispatches, probably will be shipped to his mother in Little Rock, Ark., notification of his death having been sent to Mrs. Thomas.

INSPECTING NEW SOO LINE

Through Service to Winnipeg Is Not Possible as Yet.

With the ispection of the Thief River Falls line of the Soo by W. H. Schutt, assistant to the general manager of the company, comes the rumor that several important recommendations will be made in regard to the service of the line. What the nature of these recommendations will be cannot be learned at the present time.

According to the statement today of an official of the company, through service to Winnipeg cannot be thought of for some time to come. The track from here to Thief River Falls is not in shape as yet for fast running time. Today Mr. Schutt is making thorough inspection of the track, and may have some interesting information to report to the officials of the general office at Minneapolis.

ASSAULTED BY THUGS.

Laborer Badly Beaten and Robbed of $50 Near St. Peter.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Tayro, a laborer employed on a railroad section near St. Peter, is dying in a city hospital as a result of injuries received at the hands of a gang of thugs, near a St. Peter railroad camp yesterday.

Tayro, who is 53 years old, was making his way in the darkness last evening from the spot where he had been working, to the railroad camp, when the gang set upon him, beating him almost into insensibility, and robbed him of $50 in cash. He managed to crawl to the camp, where he was rushed to Minneapolis.

At the hospital it was found that seven of his ribs had been cracked and that he was also suffering with a severe scalp wound. The hospital authorities fear that he will die.

SHERIFF FAILS TO FIND INSANE SUSPECT.

Deputy Sheriff Ed Schisbiskey made a trip to a point about three miles east of Lakewood this morning to get Gust Furman, who is believed to be demented, but when he arrived there his quarry had disappeared and he is believed to be either in Duluth or in the woods near Lakewood.

Furman, John Thorson and another man had a fishing camp on the north shore. Last evening it is said that Furman demanded that Thorson give him a dollar and he threatened to kill Thorson unless he was given the money. His actions were such that Thorson believed him to be demented and Thorson fled to the pumping station, called up the sheriff's office and reported the case. Furman is said to have left the camp shortly after his attack on Thorson.

THOUGHT TO BE COUNTERFEITERS

Secret Service Officers Arrest Three Men in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Three men were arrested here early today by the United States secret service men, charged with being counterfeiters. An alleged counterfeiting den was raided and a quantity of material said to have been used in manufacturing worthless silver dollars was taken.

One of the men, Lewis Schicter, is said to have confessed to the police and to have implicated Arthur Schicter, his brother, and Walter J. Kuiros, who were arrested later.

The proprietor of a boarding house where Louis Schicter lived found a false dollar and some cyanide of potassium in the house. He reported it to the police, who traced the drug to a pharmacy. The drug clerk identified Schicter as the man who purchased it. Schicter was examined and, the police assert, several worthless coins were found in his possession. Moulds and dies were found, as well as plating materials and silver polish.

WANTS LAW REPEALED.

Governor of Tennessee Says There Are No Honest Elections Under It.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 18.—Governor Patterson, in his annual message to the legislature today, recommends the repeal of the present election law of the state, on the ground that it is partial in its operation. He states that in his opinion this law was designed by fraud, and that there has not been an honest general election in Tennessee since its enactment.

Governor Patterson strongly condemns prohibition, pronouncing it "fundamentally and profoundly wrong as a governmental policy."

TEN JURORS ARE SWORN TO TRY CHARLES MELODROWSKI

One Man Chosen Out of Eleven Examined at Morning Session.

Bloody Clothes of Murdered Officer Taken to Court Room.

William F. Murnian, Duluth.
E. F. Heller, Duluth.
Clayton Van Brunt, Duluth.
Elmer E. Doan, Duluth.
D. A. Springer, Eveleth.
L. C. Sumicola, Eveleth.
Alfred Thoren, Duluth.
E. J. Millett, Eveleth.
John Warn, Eveleth.
Fred B. Freeman, Hibbing.

The examination of eleven venlremen this morning placed but one additional juror in the box to try Charles Melodrowski, the boy charged with murder in the first degree for killing Policeman Harry Chesmore. Out of the eleven men examined, Fred B. Freeman of Hibbing was the only one selected and he was challenged for bias and the challenge found not true before he was sworn. When court adjourned at noon, ten men had been chosen and the number of available men had dwindled so that a special venire may be necessary before the jury is completed.

Thirty-nine men have been examined for jury duty. Yesterday morning, out of the first nine examined, four were selected. Yesterday afternoon nineteen were called and five jurors were secured. This morning the ratio fell off and much less satisfactory progress was made. The wide attention which the case attracted, the avidity with which people read the newspaper accounts of the crime, opinions formed on the basis of newspaper accounts and scruples against capital punishment have all entered into disqualifying men called to sit in the case.

The defense had exercised ten of its peremptory challenges up to noon, while the state had used only four. One man called was disqualified for jury duty on account of not being a citizen of the United States.

Everybody Is Excluded.

The curiosity squad had dwindled to small proportion this morning and very few people attempted to gain entrance to the court room. Anxious to avoid a mistrial, Judge Cant and the court officers are insisting on a strict compliance with the law, which provides for the exclusion of all except those directly interested in the case from the court room. The law excluding the public from the court room during the trial of minors under 16 years of age for penal offenses, has been on the statute books since 1905, but has never been invoked in the local court, except in juvenile court. Even the newspaper men are excluded from the court room during the present trial.

The supreme court of Minnesota has held that a jury trial, whether there are spectators present or not, is a "public" trial within the meaning of the Constitution, which provides that in a criminal action the accused is entitled to a speedy and public trial. It has also been held in the supreme court of the United States that a trial judge has the right to clear the court room on account of overcrowding or a demonstration, even though he have no direct statutory right to do so. There is no bar for the satisfaction of the morbid cravings of the curiosity squad while the two boys are being tried.

The proceedings this morning were uninteresting. The venlremen were called individually from the corridor and examined at length by both attorneys. The proceedings dragged at times and many questions were necessary to determine the exact state of mind of some of the men called. It is expected that a jury will be obtained this afternoon and the taking of testimony may begin late this afternoon or early tomorrow morning.

Chesmore's Clothes in Court.

The bloody clothes worn by Officer Chesmore when he was murdered on a Duluth-Superior car the morning of Jan. 6, were taken to the court this morning to be used as exhibits and evidence against Melodrowski.

They included the large fur coat, the star still attached; his uniform coat, his sweater jacket and his underwear. Through each of them was a bullet hole where the shot entered before it pierced his breast. The garments worn nearest the body were saturated with dried blood stains. The authorities also brought in the police cap, which he wore the morning he was shot down. Through the top of it is a bullet hole the same size as that in the other clothes. Half of the flat top is scorched with powder, blown into the cloth. An examination of the inside of the head piece disclosed blood and brains splattered in the front and top. The clothes were taken from the undertaking rooms of Flood & Horgan on East First street, where the body was removed after Chesmore had died at St. Mary's hospital about an hour after he was shot.

Shots Through Window.

One of the most important exhibits of the state was taken to the court room yesterday. It was the window of the car in which the shooting took place. It will be used to show that Melodrowski fired the first shot point blank at the policeman as he sat opposite them on the long seats. Melodrowski stated at the police station the day after he was captured in the logging camp that he fired the first shot into the floor for the purpose of scaring the officer, and that the shots which killed him were discharged in the scuffle which followed when the policeman made a jump for him.

The statement of the conductor, who was in charge of the car, is directly the contrary of this. He claims that Melodrowski shot right at the policeman. If it can be shown that the shot shattered the window it will go a long ways to sustain the allegations of the conductor and establish the state's case of first degree murder.

would pass through the county auditor's office and be transmitted to the state department. The county treasurer handles the money collected and turns it over to the state treasurer. In case of hail losses the county commissioner of the district in which the damaged farm is located is made the adjuster and he, together with a disinterested party chosen by him, make the adjustment.

Good Friday as a legal holiday in the state, proposed by Senator Pierce, was looked upon with favor by the state affairs committee of the upper house and a report favoring the passage of the bill will be made.

Would Stop Sale of Snuff.

Senator Judson La Moure's bill doing away with the sale and the use of snuff in the state, and providing a penalty for violation, is in line with a campaign that has been inaugurated by Prof. E. F. Ladd of the state agricultural college.

Another proposition in which Prof. Ladd is interested is the continuation of a series of milling tests, and for which an appropriation of $6,000 is asked in a bill introduced by Senator McDowell.

Representative De Nault's bill declaring that cities, towns, villages and school districts shall receive interest and penalty collected by the county treasurer on special assessments goes a step farther than a measure introduced by Mr. Edwards of Pembina county, last week. In the Edwards bill such provision is made for the cities only, while in the De Nault bill all municipal and local districts will be benefited.

An increase in the appropriation of the state live stock sanitary board is included in the bill fathered by Representative Anderson of Ramsey county. During the two last years the board has been unable to meet its expenses under the old appropriation, and now asks for $15,000 per annum. There is also a bill before the assembly, introduced by Representative Morrison, to provide for the deficiency that has been incurred.

Senators Declared Elected.

In joint assembly at noon today, the legislature officially declared the election of Porter J. McCumber and Asle J. Gronna to the United States senate, the former for a term of six years and the latter for a term of four years, succeeding the late Martin N. Johnson.

Secretary J. J. Grassiel of the state board of health urges the legislature to make an appropriation for the collection of vital statistics. The board indorses the request of the school for feeble minded, numbering about 1,200 in the state. Summing up preventative methods that should be adopted in dealing with this class of people, the board suggests, in addition to the prevention of marriage of defectives, custodial care of the majority of cases as well as desexualization of selected cases. Hope is expressed that an appropriation be made for a state sanitarium at Dunseith for tuberculosis patients. The abolition of the public drinking cup is recommended.

State Treasury Inquiry.

Speaker J. M. Hanley has announced the appointment of Representatives Norheim, Ployhair and Hawkinson as the members from the house of the joint committee to investigate into the affairs of the state treasurer's office. The resolution already adopted by the house did not come before the senate for consideration yesterday, but it is expected that it will be transmitted to that body today.

H. D. PAULSON.

SHEEHAN LACKS NINE VOTES OF ELECTION ON FIRST JOINT BALLOT

them that they were still bound by action of the caucus at which Mr. Sheehan received the majority vote Monday night, but how far this caucus obligation extends, seemed to be a matter of personal opinion.

Former Lieutenant Governor Chandler, who voted for Sheehan yesterday, said that he did not consider the obligation extended beyond the first joint ballot. Others who were reported to be ready to break from Sheehan after the next ballot, were Senator Bayne and Assemblymen Seeley, Lareau and Shortt.

The real test, it is believed, will not come until after the first joint ballot today. If it results in no choice, friends of D. Cady Herrick, who received two votes yesterday, declare he will withdraw as a candidate.

Edward M. Shepard came next to Mr. Sheehan with fourteen votes—two senators and twelve assemblymen.

The organization presented by the twenty-one Democrats who bolted Monday night's caucus, are led by Senator Franklin D. Roosevelt, a young millionaire of Duchess county and a distant relative of Former President Roosevelt.

Mr. Sheehan and Charles F. Murphy remained in their suites at the hotel most of the day and refused to comment upon the situation.

Efforts to induce Governor Dix to declare for some candidate continued, but the governor reiterated his refusal to interfere. Last night he made this significant statement, however.

"I think the atmosphere will probably clear after the joint ballot Wednesday.

WIFE BEATING CASE IS DISMISSED.

Louis Hall was arraigned in police court today on a charge of beating his wife in their home at 329 West Fifth street, but the case was dismissed, as there was not sufficient evidence to convict.

The police were called yesterday by a neighbor who telephoned that Mrs. Hall was being terribly injured by her husband. When the police arrived they found the doors locked and had to force their way into the house. Hall helped his wife into the police auto and remarked that it was the first ride they had had together for a long time. Mrs. Hall fainted twice in the police station before she was able to go to the court room.

WILL REPLACE FULLERTON

James A. Larson Temporarily in Charge of Exhibition Car.

James A. Larson, assistant secretary of state, has gone to Southern Illinois to relieve Sam S. Fullerton, who has been in charge of the Minnesota exhibition car in the train sent to the Middle Western states by the Great Northern railroad.

The exhibition is one prepared by State Immigration Commissioner George Welch. Mr. Larson will be with the car only until other arrangements can be made. He is adequately equipped to extoll the excellencies of Minnesota, having had experience in that line while with Commissioner Welch at the Chicago and Omaha expositions.

Mr. Fullerton started out with the car when the train was made up, and his reports have been invariably favorable. Thousands of Illinois people have visited the car daily, and it is probable it will be sent into Indiana in the near future.

Commissioner Welch has received hundreds of letters of inquiry about Minnesota lands from places the exhibition car has visited. Northern Minnesota being particularly favored in this respect.

When The Stomach Stops

Working Properly, Because There Is Wind In It, Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to Set It Going Again.

A Trial Package Free.

The doctors call it flatulency, but unprofessional folks know it as "wind on the stomach," and a most distressing state of things it is. It is a serious condition of this great motor organ. Always annoying and painful in the extreme, at times often leading to bad and fatal results. The stomach embarrassed and hampered with wind cannot take care of its food properly and indigestion follows, and this has a train too appalling to enumerate. The entire system is implicated—made an active or passive factor in this trouble and life soon becomes a questionable boon.

All this is explained in doctor books; how undigested food causes gases by fermentation and fomentation in which process some essential fluids are destroyed—burnt up—wasted by chemical action, followed by defective nutrition and the distribution through the alimentary tract of chemically wrong elements and as a consequence the stomach and entire system is starved. Plenty of food, you see, but spoilt in preparation and worse than worthless.

A deranged stomach is the epitome of evil; nothing too bad to emanate from it, but the gas it generates is probably its worst primary effect and the only way to do away with this is to remove the cause. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets go to the root of this trouble. They attack the gas-making foods and render them harmless. Flatulency or wind on the stomach simply cannot exist where these powerful and wonderworking little tablets are in evidence.

They were made for this very purpose to attack gas making foods and convert them into proper nutriment. This is their province and office. A whole book could be written about them and then not all told that might be told with profit to sufferers from this painful disease, dyspepsia. It would mention the years of patient and expensive experiment in effort to arrive at this result—of failures innumerable and at last success. It would make mention of the different stomach correctives that enter into this tablet and make it faithfully represent all.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not alone intended for the sick, but well folks as well; for the person who craves hearty foods and wants to eat heartily and run no risk of bad effects, they act like a charm and make eating and digestion a delight and pleasure. They keep the stomach active and energetic and able and willing to do extra work without special labor or effort. Don't forget this. Well people are often neglected, but the Stuart Dyspepsia Tablets have them in mind.

A free trial package will be sent any one who wants to know just what they are, how they look and taste, before beginning treatment with them. After this go to the drug store for them; everywhere, here or at home, they are 50 cents a box and by getting them at home you will save time and postage. Your doctor will prescribe them; they say there are 40,000 doctors using them, but when you know what is the matter with yourself, why go to the expense of a prescription? For free trial package address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

FINE CHISHOLM BUILDING BURNS

Peter Martin's Two-Story Brick Structure Is Destroyed.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire starting about 1:15 p. m. yesterday in the Variety store owned by N. Karlinsky in the Martin block, a fine, new, two-story brick structure, also partly used by the Laird and Dryman families, destroyed the building and caused a loss of about $16,000. The origin of the fire is not known.

The proprietor, Mr. N. Karlinsky, had just returned from lunch and on opening the door discovered smoke. He immediately turned in an alarm. The department made a fast run and fought the flames with its whole force and the assistance of volunteers, but without avail. The entire building and stock was destroyed, besides the furniture of two families who resided in the upper portion of the building.

Saloon Also Damaged.

The saloon building belonging to Mike Anda adjoining, was with its contents, damaged to the amount of $2,000 by fire, water and smoke, and had a narrow escape from total destruction. Only the heroic work of the fire department saved it.

The building was the property of Peter Martin of Chisholm, and was a fine, new, two-story brick. It was valued at $10,000 and was insured for $6,000. The stock was valued at $6,000 and was insured for $2,000. The furniture of Ed. Laird and Mr. Dryman, who lived above the store, was not insured.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The water and light commission has awarded the contract for furnishing a new steam boiler for the local plant to the Gogebic Iron Works of Duluth.

A factor in coming to a decision to award the contract to the Duluth concern was the speed with which delivery could be made, this being guaranteed within one week from today. Eight tenders were received by President Angst of the water and light commissioners, the prices ranging from $887 to $715, as follows: National Boiler Works, $809; S. Freeman & Son, $775, and a second bid of $715 for a boiler with somewhat altered specifications but with a Hartford Insurance policy covering the boiler, Robinson Carey, $860; Marshall-Wells Hardware company, $850; Clyde Iron Works, $887; Gogebic Steam Boiler Works, $820; A. C. Shirmer & Company, of Hibbing, Crane Norway, $818. The specifications called for a seventy-five inch by eighteen foot horizontal tubular boiler, Hartford standard.

VIRGINIA HALTS LICENSE BOOST

Ordinance Increasing Fee Beaten But New Ordinance Will Be Drawn.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The much-talked-of ordinance to double the present saloon license fee of $500 per annum went into the discard at the council meeting last night, when it was beaten on the third reading by a vote of 6 to 3, Aldermen Boylan, Weber, Heritage, Staff, H. O. Johnson and Osborn voting in the negative, and Aldermen Kimball, Mollan and E. C. Johnson in the affirmative. The opposition contended that the ordinance as read was not the same as the original one with the amendments agreed upon at a previous meeting. Alderman E. C. A. Johnson then moved that the original ordinance as amended be read, but his motion was lost by a vote of 5 to 4. Alderman Boylan then moved that the ordinance amending an ordinance, which has been in vogue for many years, and which had been laid upon the table several weeks previous, be taken from the table and read, and his motion was lost by a vote of 6 to 3. Upon motion of Alderman Kimball it was agreed that the ordinance committee, together with Mayor Hawkinson and City Attorney Poirier, draft another ordinance, and when it was completed, to submit it to the council as a committee of the whole before it be taken up by the council.

Aldermen Heritage, Mollan and Weber, members of the ways and means committee, to whom was referred the claims of Mrs. B. Wigan and Jacob Johnson for damages alleged to have been done their property as a result of lowering the grade on Mesaba avenue, reported that in their opinion the claimants have no right to damages.

The council passed a resolution agreeing to appropriate 10 per cent of $50,000 for the maintenance of a public library, provided that Andrew Carnegie donate the sum of $50,000 for the erection of a new library building to take the place of the present library quarters. The library board also asked that land upon which the present library building stands be vacated so that the board can obtain a clear title to the premises, as the board has had several offers for the property.

A communication was received from Judge James P. Carey of the municipal court, stating that the records of the court were not properly indexed for fifteen years past previous to about three years ago, and asked for an appropriation of $75 with which to pay for the work of inedxing. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

After passing upon the annual report as submitted by the park board a vote of thanks was tendered the members of the board and the superintendent for the good work accomplished during the past year.

H. Free of Duluth contemplates expending $25,000 in the construction of a playhouse.

Mr. Free has rented two lots from William Moulton for twenty-five years at an annual rental of $250 and announces that he will begin the work on the foundation soon for a building capable of seating 650 people, which will be up-to-date in every way.

The health inspector's report for 1910 showed: 263 births, 131 male, 132 female; deaths 84, 66 male, 18 female; need of detention hospital; 100 per cent collection; 45 per cent of deaths under 5 years of age, and recommending that precautions be taken to preserve the standard of the water at St. Mary lake.

The city treasurer reported a balance of $18,644.43 in the current expense fund for 1910; $6,553.37 in the water works department; $11,458.60 in the permanent improvement fund; $242.73 in the interest fund, and $52.33 in the park fund.

Saloon License Granted.

The application of Alex Hietela, for license to conduct a saloon at 303 Grant avenue was granted on a 7 to 1 vote. The saloon application of Frank Winchester was granted, following a favorable report from the police and license committee. The applications of Antonius Stehl, for transfer of his license to 508 Grant avenue; Angela Renni to Louis Accefero; William J. Archer, attorney for Donald B. McDougal, to Reni and Columbo, and Louis Accefero for a renewal of his license, were all referred to the police and license committee.

An ordinance governing playhouses and theaters and public performances, fixing $25 as the license fee for resident theater managers, $25 charge for circuses charging 25 cents, $50 for circuses charging 50 cents, and holding all offenders of the ordinance liable to a fine of not more than $100 or ninety days in the county jail, was given its first reading.

An ordinance governing the keeping of gasoline, kerosene, etc., and fire improvements was given its first reading. Ordinances amending ordinances 82 and 84 were also given their first readings. Ordinance No. 92, regulating the sale of milk, was given its final reading. The health ordinance was also discussed and it was deemed best to embody the new sections of the new health ordinance into the old one.

The committee on city property was instructed to consider sites for a new fire hall.

Capt. Cornwall of the militia was given permission to erect a storeroom erected at the Armory to replace the old one at the city hall.

JURY STRIKES AVERAGE

In Fixing Damages for Horse Killed By Train.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the municipal court yesterday A. L. Lawrence, a farmer residing near here, was awarded $116.66 for damages to a horse that had to be shot. The animal had been struck by a Great Northern train and had its leg broken in two places. The remarkable feature of the case was the manner in which the jury came to a decision. The members of the jury each set a price on the dead horse and wrote the figures on a slip of paper, after which the figures were collected and an average made, the result being $116.66.

SURVEYING RANGE TROLLEY LINE STARTED TUESDAY.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eleven surveyors of the Duluth Engineering company commenced work here yesterday on the proposed range trolley line, laying out routes from here in the direction of Gilbert. Another crew is at work between Virginia and Mountain Iron.

HIBBING COURT ENDS.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The term of district court here concluded yesterday afternoon and next Tuesday Judge Hughes will open court at Virginia. The jurors who have been in attendance were paid off. The last case was brought to prove whether Hugh McCoy had been merely engaged by John S. Dougherty to act in the capacity of manager in the saloon owned by the latter at the Kinney mine, near Buhl, or whether he was a full partner. The claim by McCoy is that he is a full partner with the other man and that he is entitled to a full share of not merely the profits, but also the value of the stock when sold out at the time the saloon was closed.

ELABORATE WATERWAYS

tion of the project, it will call for the expenditure of $25,000,000 to $30,000,000, it will provide 605 miles of internal waterways, and it will develop water power running all the way from 225,000-horse power — Mr. Mershon's conservative estimate — up to twice that amount.

"If it is carried out," said Mr. Mershon to The Herald yesterday afternoon, "I will guarantee that the plant that will be created, for water power purposes alone, can be sold for three times the cost of putting the plan into effect."

Mr. Spooner, who has been converted to the Mershon plan, and who urged it two years ago, has prepared a bill which directs the governor, state auditor and attorney general to employ the necessary engineers to investigate the feasibility of the plan and to report to the legislature. For that purpose the bill appropriating $40,000 or so much thereof as may be necessary.

Scheme Is Far Reaching.

The scheme is so big and so far-reaching that it is difficult to seize hold it and cramp it within the limits of a necessarily brief survey.

First, it contemplates a canal running from Warroad on the shore of the Lake of the Woods, to Lake Traverse, a distance of 240 miles. This canal will intercept the tributaries of the Red River of the North, relieving the Red River valley of the surplus waters that often work havoc in that fertile valley, and will carry them down to a gigantic reservoir, 115 miles long, formed of the gorge of the Minnesota river below Lake Traverse.

Along this gorge four dams will be built, where water power will be developed, at Granite Falls, Redwood, New Ulm and Mankato.

The ditch from the Lake of the Woods to Lake Traverse will, of course, be navigable for barges. It will be 100 feet wide at the top and sixty feet wide at the bottom, and it will be twelve feet deep.

This will make the Minnesota river navigable to the Mississippi, and it will, according to those who have dreamed this plan, increase the navigability of the Mississippi below the junction with the Minnesota.

At Granite Falls it is proposed to cut across the plateau in a northeasterly direction to the Mississippi near Sauk Rapids, from which point vessels can float down the Mississippi to the Twin Cities. From that point the canal will be continued northeasterly to the St. Croix, up the St. Croix and across the height of land to the point where the Brule drops to Lake Superior and so to Duluth.

Said Mr. Spooner to The Herald yesterday: "The great difficulty about effective drainage in the Minnesota Red river valley is the lack of adequate outlet. The proposed canal between the Lake of the Woods and Lake Traverse—Interstate Crossing—when constructed will furnish the completest and most adequate and feasible outlet for all drainage propositions in that part of Minnesota that any one can desire; and, moreover, the canal will bring south into Lake Traverse and Big Stone lake and Lac qui Parle lake the flood waters of the very many rivers of the Red river valley which naturally flow westward to and empty into the Red River of the North, causing the tremendous and incalculably disastrous overflows of that river and of the Red river valley that work millions of dollars of damage to the inhabitants of that section. This will prevent these floods because the rivers that empty into the Red river from the west are negligible.

To Control Volume of Water.

"Moreover, in this canal, at each river crossing, will be flood gates through the use of which the volume of water allowed to pass beyond the canal to the Red river will be regulated, so that the water powers on these rivers between the canal and the Red river will be furnished with ample water supply without the possibility of damage from oversupply.

"Through this canal, and the connecting canals which you have described, will be brought south to Lake Traverse, there for transhipment over the connecting inland sea to Eastern ports by way of the Great Lakes, the products of the Red River valley and of all western north Minnesota at cheaper rates than now available; and back up this canal to all points in western north Minnesota will be brought, at cheaper rates, the heavier freight commodities of the East, such as coal, etc., to the very great benefit of the people of that part of our state.

"A canal may also be built between Vermilion lake and Red Lake, and along it may be developed, at different sites, hydro-electric power aggregating at the least 200,000-horse power available not only for the development of local manufacturing industries but for the lighting of towns and and villages in all western north Minnesota, and for the propelling of thousands of miles of electric railway lines which the early future should see developed in that section. At the lowest estimate of $15 per horse power per annum, this power is worth $3,000,000 annually enough to pay the interest at 5 per cent on an investment of $60,000,000 or more than ten times the cost of all the canals contemplated in Minnesota north of Lake Traverse.

"The high dam at Granite Falls is expected to develop an equal amount of power, which will be worth there a higher amount per horse power—at $25 it would come to $5,000,000 a year; which is interest at 5 per cent on $100,000,000 or twenty-five times the probable cost of the inland sea to be created between Granite Falls and Lake Traverse including the cost of dykes and dams, the landed needed for over-flowage, payment for all damages to Brown's Valley, Ortonville, Montevideo and other intermediate points. There there is to be considered the value of the fisheries rights of this inland sea likely to contain over 200,000 acres of water surface, on which the fisheries rights would yield something more than $2,000,000 a year.

Revenue of Ten Millions.

"Here, then, in three points, we find a prospective, at least a possible revenue derivable on a total outlay not likely to exceed $10,000,000, of $10,000,000 per annum or 100 per cent on the investment; and this without taking any account of the value of the prevention of the disastrous floods of the Red River and Minnesota valleys, both of which will have ceased to exist when this enterprise has been completed. Again, in these figures no account is taken of the value of what is proposed in the way of aiding drainage in western north Minnesota and elsewhere, and in that respect alone the value of the return will be well nigh immeasurable.

"Cutting a ship canal from Granite Falls through to Duluth and canalizing the Mississippi river into the Twin Cities, the construction of the proper high dam between said cities, creating an inter-city harbor, are calculated to suggest such beneficial results to the early future of the Twin Cities and to the state at large that are not suspectible of measurement. With the great vessels employed upon the Great Lakes bringing their cargoes from Eastern ports, sailing into an inter-city harbor and there reloading and returning again to the Eastern ports, who is the man who shall say what it means to the future of the Twin Cities?"

And much more to the same effect. Feasible or unfeasible, sane or mad, practical or a chimera, the plan is big enough to suit anybody's taste. It is going to have some investigation this winter, and the legislature may pass the Spooner bill providing for a thorough inquiry into its feasibility.

union men. They represent the free expressions of the employes.

Men Have Common Sense.

"It might be urged," suggested Mr. Morrissey, "that these employes, not having made a close investigation of the financial situation or analysis of rate question, are not in a position to pass intelligently upon the subject. This may be technically true, but the employes have a good general idea of industrial conditions of our country and they have observed signs and conditions of the times impressed them in a common sense way with the belief that the railways are entitled to greater compensation.

"In no other industry in our country is labor so largely employed as on the railway and none in which so large a proportion of its gross earnings goes directly to labor. Labor got $1,005,349,958 from the railroads in 1907, about 41 per cent of their gross earnings. It is estimated that labor will get at least $80,000,000 more when the increases for 1910 are added. Manufacturing gave its labor but 21 per cent of its gross in 1905, the last year for which we find any statistics.

Rights of Railway Workers.

"The right of the railway worker to a voice on a question that vitally concerns his welfare cannot be denied, nor can he remain disinterested when theories are being exploited which involve his relation to his employers, his safety, or the earnings that are the reward of the activities of his brain and muscles. They will still ask for more if the economic conditions of the country continue to develop as they have in the past ten years. The wage standards of these classes have been increased approximately 40 per cent in the last decade. Yet they have done but little, if anything, more than keep pace with the increased cost of living. They know, too, that transportation has not been a serious element in increasing the cost of living, because rates generally have not been increased."

Improvements Cost Money.

Mr. Morrissey reviewed briefly the adoption by the railways of equipment and appliances tending to the comfort, convenience and safety of the employes, as well as of the public. All these, he pointed out, cost immense sums of money.

"The railway employes for whom we speak," he continued, "favor a liberal constructive policy towards the railways."

Referring to the arguments advanced by Louis D. Brandeis in support of the introduction of methods of scientific management of railway properties through which, Mr. Brandeis believes, a million dollars a day could be saved by the railways, Mr. Morrissey as a practical railroad man, said he did not believe that American workingmen would labor under such conditions as he thought such a system would impose upon them.

"They decline," he declared, "to bear the additional burdens that such a system would impose. If there should be a saving of a million dollars a day by the more economical operation of the railways for the benefit of the shipper it would come largely from labor."

tower L, which remained submerged when the vessel rose obliquely. Here the men might have stayed without danger for some time as the boat had a considerable supply of oxygen but for an accident that shut off this supply from the tower.

Word was sent out that the raising had been successful and that the crew was safe. The work was continued, when suddenly a ventilator gave way, permitting the water to rush into the submarine, isolating the tower and cutting off the oxygen upon which the three officers were dependent.

With the inrush of water the bow of the ship rose quickly but the stern, where the tower L is located, sank deeper.

Rescuers Work Desperately.

Recognizing the peril of the officers the rescuers worked desperately to reach them but it was sixteen hours before an entrance to the tower could be forced. Long before that time the men had died of suffocation. They had failed to answer the signals of the Vulkan's crew and apparently death had come hours before the bodies were recovered.

With little hope artificial respiration was attempted, but the futility of this was soon evident. Lieut. Fischer was married a week ago.

The loss of the officers is peculiarly distressing as the fatalities are attributed to a too hasty attempt to raise the submarine with a small crane before the arrival of the more powerful Vulkan. The crane lifted only the bow and after twenty-seven of the crew had made their escape the small crane released the submarine to permit the Vulkan to operate.

A rising sea complicated the subsequent operations, which were conducted throughout the night with the aid of a searchlight. The heavy sea is held responsible for the giving way of the ventilator, the immediate cause of the tragedy.

FIDO WAS PROBABLY MOST FRIGHTENED DOG IN DULUTH

A slide was taken on the toboggan at the Duluth Ski club the other day without permission from the directors and without the authority given by the possession of a member's ticket. Although conditions for tobogganing were ideal and the weather was perfect, it is not likely that the rider will take the plunge again.

A small, black, wuzzy dog that got away from its mistress and started out to see the world followed several children to the top of the slide. On the platform there is a board on which the toboggans rest. One end extends out over the slide, so that when the other end is tilted upward the toboggans are dropped into the slide. This pup cautiously crept toward the end of the board that is over the slide. When Fido got well along toward the end he straightened up and peered over the side. As Fido drew a long breath after having arrived at such a perilous place in safety, the board wobbled. Then it slowly began to tip. Fido made a wild dash for the end that rests on the platform, but it was too late.

People climbing the stairs by the side of the toboggan slide were astonished to see a small, wuzzy, black dog shooting down the toboggan on his haunches. He was travelling about sixty-two miles an hour. His mouth was open but he could not yelp on account of the breeze that whistled through his open jaws. When he hit the upturn at the bottom he tried to put on the brakes and went head over heels, yelping at each revolution. When he shot out on the snow he picked himself up, tucked his tail between his legs and hit the trail for Superior street, uttering sharp wails of anguish at every jump.

RETURN FROM MEETING OF DEPARTMENT HEADS.

"The selection of James A. Farrell for the presidency of the United States Steel corporation pleases every one," said W. A. McGonagle yesterday. With President W. J. Olcott of the Oliver Iron Mining company and President F. E. House of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, he attended the annual meeting of presidents of subsidiary companies of the Steel corporation, representing the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, of which he is president.

"Mr. Farrell is very well known and has the respect and friendly regard of men in all divisions of the corporation, and besides he enjoys the confidence and esteem of the Steel men who are not associated with the corporation."

The selection of President Farrell was announced at a banquet given at Sherry's in New York for the presidents of subsidiary companies. Messrs. McGonagle, Olcott and House returned to Duluth yesterday.

While in the East, Mr. McGonagle visited friends in Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia. He went to St. Paul last evening to attend the annual meeting of the grand lodge A. F. & A. M. He is past master of that lodge.

DULUTH, MINNESOTA

RED HEADED AND IRISH

James Manahan of St. Paul and His Campaign for Reform.

Still on Trail of Express Companies---Saved Public $2,000,000 Yearly.

A red headed attorney of St. Paul was in town yesterday. His name is James Manahan.

With his hat on he might be any prosperous and determined citizen of modern height and build, but with his hat off he is a red-headed Irishman like others who have turned various parts of this country upside down and wiped their feet on them.

Manahan's hair is not the only feature of interest about Manahan. In fact the chief item of news, as the cub reporter says, with which Manahan and the public are both concerned is the fact that the St. Paul attorney recently saved the people of the republic $2,000,000 a year when he forced the Pullman company to reduce its rates 25 per cent on upper berths and about 5 per cent on lower berths. Another bit of information of more or less interest is that Manahan has a grip on the tail of the express octopus and if something does not break he expects to swing the octopus three times around in the ambient and then snap off its head like Jim Dahlman of Omaha, an Irish friend of Manahan's, used to take off the poisonous part of a Texas rattlesnake.

Mr. Manahan was in the federal court here attending to the trial of a lawsuit. He returned late yesterday afternoon to St. Paul. Mr. Manahan apologized to a newspaper man because the train left in ten minutes. That was the second time Manahan ever apologized for anything. The first was when he was standing the railroad men of this state on their heads before the interstate commerce commission at a hearing in St. Paul. Mr. Severance of the law firm of Davis, Kellogg & Severance was representing the railroads. Manahan appeared for the Minnesota Shippers & Receivers' association, which comprised the George S. Loftus Commission company of St. Paul, George S. Loftus, George Loftus, G. S. Loftus and Loftus.

Cushman K. Davis, senior member of the firm of Davis, Kellogg & Severance, was a United States senator. Mr. Kellogg was and is the attorney for the United States Steel corporation in this state, and Mr. Severance was counsel for the railroads in the hearing before the Interstate commerce commission. Mr. Severance's attitude, so Manahan thought, implied, "Who is this Manahan," and evidently Manahan stood it as long as he could, which was about a minute and a half. Then he passed out a few remarks about the honor accruing to him because of the distinguished legal firm which had been chosen to oppose him. Also he handed out an observation to the effect that one member of the firm was the representative of the steel branch of Standard Oil, the other stood for the railroad branch, and the third (meaning Senator Davis) was shoveling coal. This remark convulsed a state and the echoes rattled around the country. Manahan apologized later.

"Go to It."

The world usually does not take kindly to reformers. Neither does a child warm up to anybody who tries to wash its face. Manahan and Loftus have been endeavoring to make over many things connected with this earth and they have had considerable success. Folk who looked upon them with alarm now have no doubts as to their feelings. They hit the trail when Manahan starts one of his where-did-you-get-it-gentlemen investigations. Other folk who regarded Manahan with amusement now send him night letters telling him to "go to it."

This started to be an interview, but the man is as interesting as what he might have to say. However, George Loftus, St. Paul commission man, was in Chicago. He couldn't get a lower berth to St. Paul. He slept badly in an upper and when Loftus got his clothes on his necktie probably got caught in his collar and the porter stabbed him in an eye when he was trying to brush a thin dime out of his pistol pocket. Anyway, Loftus was peeved. When he got to St. Paul he sent for Manahan. The attorney sympathized with Loftus and said he would do something. He did.

When the interstate commerce commission met in St. Paul Manahan was there. So were fifty-seven varieties of former Pullman porters that Manahan had collected on the highways and byways. These porters said they had received $25 a month, paid for their meals and uniforms, replaced lost combs and brushes, bought the shoe blacking for their customers and practically paid for everything in the Pullman service except the cars themselves. Manahan showed that $91,000 a year was earned on cars that cost the Pullman company $15,000. Well, for the sake of brevity, the Pullman company has accepted with some reluctance an order from the interstate commerce commission to reduce rates. Loftus and Manahan have put $2,000,000 a year into the pockets of the public through their little sortie against the Pullman company. Their attack was one of the most successful ever conducted against a predatory corporation and the government didn't have anything to do with it.

The Express Campaign.

B. E. Sundberg, a senator in the upper house in the state, paid an express company $36 to deliver him a casting that cost him $2 in Minneapolis. After many years he became a state senator and was named a member of a committee which investigated railroad and express rates. Sundberg remembered that $36 and he found that the express companies had accumulated immense surpluses after paying enormous dividends annually and that the express business was simply a duplication of the fast traffic service of the railroads. What right had an express company to exist? A lot of people have entertained a similar doubt, but they didn't know Manahan. Sundberg did. He sought Manahan and they served subpoenas personally on the presidents of the express companies. When the hearing was called the express companies had a long and brilliant array of experts to answer to the charges of the Minnsota lawyer and the Minnesota farmer. The government had never been able to get the presidents of the big express companies on the witness stand in a similar hearing but Manahan and Sundberg waved their hands at the experts and clamored for the heads of the express companies. When Manahan clamors it is a small sized riot. The president came and they fed out of Manahan's hand like sick kittens. This action is still pending.

Before that interview is forgotten. "We are still camping on the trail of the express companies," said Mr. Manahan." We hope to have the same success in our contentions that we secured in our fight against the Pullman company."

Manahan is a follower of William J. Bryan and he and Loftus think a lot of Senator La Follette. Manahan is gradually breaking into polite society. It's a hard job, though, for he is a red-headed, Irish reformer.

REPORT OF STATE TAX COMMISSION

Not Disheartened Over Failure of Legislature to Pass Bills.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state tax commission, in the first chapter of its biennial report, shows that it is a good loser when it relates that of a dozen recommendations to the legislature of two years ago only one became a law. The commission places the caption "Tax Commission Courteously Treated by Legislature," over a summary of the list of defeats in the legislature.

The commission says in summary of the fate of the suggestion for laws made in the last report: "Of the bills introduced along the line of our recommendations three were passed, two were defeated and five did not reach the final action, and of the bills passed two were vetoed by the governor. The showing is not impressive, but the outlook is none the less hopeful."

In the section covering mines and minerals a full explanation is given of the method of valuing mines and ores. The commission says that it has on record the results of examinations of each 40-acre tract in the iron region and has increased the valuation of mines on which taxes are paid 248 per cent in the four years covered by the commission.

The report says that the commission has the situation well in hand.

THE PURCHASE PRICE

By the Author of 54-40 or FIGHT

A New Novel

EMERSON HOUGH

"'The Purchase Price' is as good a story as 'The Mississippi Bubble' and a better one than '54-40 or Fight.' Like the latter, it is an American historical romance with a mysterious and fascinating woman in the leading role, but the heroine is of a nobler sort and the story is finer in spirit as well as in art. 'The Purchase Price' is a fine, clean, spirited romance of sentiment and action."—Chicago Record-Herald

ALDRICH'S CROWNING WORK.

After the many pessimistic predictions regarding the national monetary and banking reforms which were being prepared by Senator Nelson W. Aldrich for presentation to the national monetary commission, there is sure to be considerable surprise at the character of the plan proposed by the veteran senator. In that it does not involve the predicted central bank it is calculated to remove much of the suspicion that has grown up in its path. There will be many, however, who will suspect the motives back of the proposed arrangement, even without a complete understanding of the work which it is proposed shall be done.

As the senator says in his letter transmitting the first draft of the plan to the commission, this form is nothing more than an outline. Many details will have to be worked out by those in whose hands will lie the application of the system to the national needs. A survey of the proposal, however, gives the impression that while the proposed machinery might prove cumbersome, it would operate practically to relieve much of the difficulty that now exists in financial matters.

There probably will be general acquiescence in the idea of a national assocaition which shall take the place of the central bank which some have advocated. Such an orgnization as Sentor Aldrich contemplates would be much more acceptable to the country at large than would the grouping of certain interests from any one section for the purpose of controlling financial affairs.

Another important provision is that for representation in the association of other than strictly banking interests. Yet another is the plan for operations by the association in other countries, which would keep the American monetary system in close touch with the world-wide situation, though not dependent on conditions in foreign lands. Such an arrangement, it would seem, might put the United States in a position to take advantage of foreign money markets, particularly in the exercise of the provision for dealing in gold coin or bullion.

An especially important point as far as the effect would be seen by the citizens at large is the provision for the organization of a new class of national banks with permission to conduct savings banks and make properly secured loans on real estate. The first of these provisions would only unite the operations of many national banks which now conduct separate savings departments. The second provision would meet the wishes of many national banks that have been forced to refuse business on account of the provision forbidding loans on real estate.

Senator Aldrich's plan provides for emergency currency through a system of graduated taxation of note issues such as has been suggested in one form and another, insuring the retirement of the extraordinary issues as soon as they grew to constitute a surplus, and so solves a problem that presented itself with the first effort to provide for emergency issues. In some points, such as control of discount rates, it apparently is patterned after English and other foreign systems.

All told, the Aldrich plan will appear to the layman to offer many excellent features. Whether it would have advantageous in its operation must be left to the judgment of men who are intimately familiar with the operation and control of financial matters. In the light of some of the work Senator Aldrich did in congress there is ground for suspicion of the presence somewhere of a hidden plot to gain control for ambitious financiers of the country's financial affairs. If such a scheme exists, it is the duty of the national commission to dig it out and expose it. But if the plan as proposed is all it pretends to be, Senator Aldrich will have accomplished as his "crowning work" something that will be of perpetual benefit to his country.

BAILEY IS MISTAKEN.

Senator Bailey's speech at Baltimore last night serves a good purpose in warning the Democrats of what they must expect from a certain element when the Sixty-second congress meets. According to the Associated Press dispatches, Senator Bailey said:

> I believe that the only way to revise a bill like the Payne-Aldrich act is to cut its head off and to cut it off as soon as you get to it. Every schedule in it is bad. Take them all out. As between rotten apples, there is no choice. Let us prepare a tariff bill exactly as if we had control of the senate and the presidency, and then if those Republican heathen and infidels refuse to take it up, that will be time enough to talk about revising the tariff by schedules.

Senator Bailey may not realize it, or perhaps he realizes it but for reasons best known to himself chooses not to appear to do so, but such action as he proposes is the very thing that would give "those Republican heathen and infidels" the most pleasure the Democrats could afford them. It would plunge the country into the business reaction that the Republican orators predicted during the campaign, and it would result, moreover, in a tariff bill with no more definite basis for its schedules than was secured for the Payne-Aldrich bill.

Senator Bailey is wrong, and it is sincerely to be hoped that he is alone, or almost alone, in holding such views. The Democratic party will do better to take the advice of Governor Harmon of Ohio, and go about the tariff revision with a view to securing justice and equality, not with the sole purpose of wiping out all trace of the action of the Sixty-first congress. It might be well to correct some of the most flagrant abuses of the Payne law at once, when congress meets. But by the time the Democratic house begins its regime, there will be, or should be, accurate data at hand on which to base tariff legislation. In any event, there would be no prudence or even common sense in the Democratic party's committing suicide by any such violent and spectacular course as Senator Bailey proposes.

PLAIN TALK BY BIG MEN.

Two interesting statements by prominent men appeared in The Herald's telegraphic dispatches last night, and both were important, not only as they expressed views which are held by thousands of others besides the men who voiced them, but as they indicate the positions of the speakers on matters which one or both of them may be called on to present to the voters of the country in something less than two years hence. These were statements by Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey and Judson Harmon of Ohio. Both of these men are recognized as leading possibilities for the choice as leader of the Democratic party in 1912, and both must be conscious of the fact that their political utterances now will be heard with the idea of later presidential candidacies in the minds of the listeners. Yet both were free from demagogic platitudes in what they said, and both gave their auditors some pointers on public affairs that are worth considering.

In Governor Wilson's plea for legislative action to control the corporations of New Jersey there is more than purely state interest. There is earnest of good for the entire country in his attitude toward such commercial combinations, for that state bears a peculiar relation to the rest of the country in the nature of the organizations which have been formed under its lenient laws. Of them Governor Wilson said:

> Corporations are organizations which have proved very useful, but which have for the time being slipped out of the control of the very law that can make or unmake them at pleasure. We have now to set ourselves to control them, soberly but effectively, and to bring them thoroughly within the regulation of the law.

Here is none of the bombast of the agitator, none of the fireworks of the panderer to public prejudice. It is a plain statement of the relation of the state to its creature, and it indicates an attitude which, if he can induce the legislature to act upon it, cannot fail to strengthen the hold which this man has on the minds of the nation. In the questions that concern the state itself more closely than the nation at large, Governor Wilson is no less keen in his demands for popular rights and welfare, and his recommendations are in line with the progressive thought of the country.

Governor Harmon, addressing a national gathering instead of a state legislature, dealt perforce with questions of wider application than did Governor Wilson. He spoke of Democratic opportunity, not simply to take ad vantage of Republican error, but to right the wrongs that have grown up under Republican administration. His definition of the purpose of taxation, which has been wrested to unfair ends by Republican cottoning to special privilege, is worth framing and memorizing. He said:

> Levying them (tariff taxes) properly means an adjustment of burdens among consumers according to their ability to pay, and not a distribution among manufacturers of rights to collect tribute from consumers.

Governor Harmon urges the new congress to take up the matter of the tariff without fear or favor. He sees the importance of regard for general welfare, and rightly believes that such regard will bring its reward. Reason in government, both in expenses and administration, furnishes the keynote of Governor Harmon's speech. It is an admirable supplement to that of Governor Wilson. With two such men prominent in the party, Democracy need only heed their counsels to win and keep the confidence of the nation.

MEN OF MODERATE MEANS.

For the last few months, in fact ever since serious agitation throughout the country regarding the high cost of living became general, certain magazines have been devoting space to discussions of saving and spending incomes, thrift, frugality and kindred topics. They have told how to make stated amounts of earnings go the farthest, and what amounts can safely be spent for amusements and recreation.

In at least ninety-nine out of every hundred of these articles the writers have missed the mark by over-stating the amount of the income. Any reader of the articles must have been struck by the earnings credited to the individuals and families, for these have been placed at anywhere from $2,000 to $3,500. This indicates one of two things: Either the writers do not realize that men and women of education and intelligence, of culture, if you like, are living on smaller incomes than that, and by that lack of realization prove their incompetence to discuss the subject of which they write, or they have tried to imagine a family subsisting on less than $2,000 a year and have become discouraged at such an outlook, thereby proving conclusively their unfitness to discuss the average man's problems intelligently.

If some of the pseudo wise men would look a little more closely into the question they woud find thousands of families subsisting on from $900 to $1,500. The heads of the families are able men, they are earnest, industrious, steady, reliable, and everything else that could be required, but their incomes remain low, either because of the standards of wages set by the employment they have entered or from some other reason that is hidden in the mysteries of employment and recompense. These people read the articles referred to and try to reduce the proportions to fit their own incomes, but it won't work. Then they look with growing envy at those more favored, and grow to regard their own incomes as less than moderate. So that these articles, instead of doing any good, create discontent and make the struggle to get along just that much harder for thousands of readers.

All of which raises the question, "What is a moderate income?" Of course the question can be answered only on a basis of relative ratios. Mankind is so constructed that the indivdiual's desires grow with possibility of realization, and a family that might get along fairly well on $1,500 a year will feel pinched on $2,000 just because of the larger view of the possibilities of $2,500. If the writers of cost-of-living articles want to do something of real value, they will solve the problems of the family living on $1,500 or less and give that solution to the world.

The tobacco trust will see something sinister in Justice Harlan's complaint about the quality of chewing tobacco.

President Taft is trying to get the postoffice out of politics. A good many men get most of their politics out of the postoffice.

Now it appears that Peary missed the North Pole by four and a fraction miles. Suppose we make him just that much short of a rear admiral?

TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

Will Be Market For All.

Brainerd Dispatch: The manufacturers of harvesting machinery in the Northwest are to make an onslaught on the legislature with the hopes that the state prison management may be prevented from manufacturing machinery of this character and selling it to the farmers at a price which will cause a reduction in their profits.

Northern Minnesota will need a whole lot of harvesting machinery pretty soon, and the market will be big enough then for all—including the state.

"Just Like a Woman."

Greenbush Tribune: The women of South Dakota, that is some of them, are going to have a lobby during the session of the legislature in that state. They don't know just what they are going to lobby for, but they are going to lobby anyway. That's just like a woman.

Oh, is it?

Praise and the Earning Thereof.

Crookston Times: A man often deserves praise for doing his duty.

Yes, but he deserves to do his duty more frequently than is the common habit.

Standing Very Pat.

Red Wing Republican: Secretary Ballinger has lately withdrawn some public lands in Idaho. Now if he would withdraw himself all would be forgiven.

A consummation devotedly to be wished—but there's Taft.

With Appropriate Apologies.

Mankato Free Press: An exchange wants to know why so many thieves and "yegg" artists are rounding up in St. Paul. Now, don't charge it to the legislature.

Well, you did it.

Rich and Poor.

Bemidji Sentinel: The kind of waste and extravagance indulged in by a few of the wealthy, at the expense of millions of suffering men and women all over the country, will not go unpunished.

But that won't help present day sufferers to any appreciable extent.

Setting Them Right.

Cloquet Independent: Duluth is making big plans for her first annual poultry show. Nearly 1,000 birds are expected to be on exhibition and it is hoped that the event will be a long push forward for the poultry industry in Northeastern Minnesota.

There will be more than a thousand birds and it will not be the first annual show. It will be the fifteenth annual. And it's no slouch of a show.

Messages of Executives.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The trouble with the usual executive message is that the members of the legislature do not take it very seriously. If all the good recommendations of all the governors were adopted by the state legislatures what a well governed country we should have.

Every executive will agree heartily with that sentiment.

Packages and Prices.

Winona Independent: The American Tobacco company says that no increase in the prices to the consumers have been made since the organization of the corporation, but the price of leaf tobacco had nearly doubled. It is true that the price of the package of tobacco is the same, but in many instances the package is smaller. What's the difference?

There's some weight to that argument.

We Like Potatoes.

Youth's Companion: The country now raises annually about 300,000,000 bushels of potatoes, more if the crop is good, and consumes nearly all of them at home. It exports a few, mainly to Canada and the West Indies, and imports a few from Canada and Great Britain, but it is an exceptional year in which either the imports or the exports go much beyond 1,000,000 bushels.

Wherever the American table is spread there is the potato, boiled, baked, fried, stewed, hashed, scalloped, in salad or otherwise. A foreign visitor once said that it was impossible to order even a carriage in America without having potatoes brought on the side. It is hoped he spoke in appreciation, rather than derision, for the great food value of the potato is beyond question, and a much larger production and consumption would be a national blessing.

Maize, tobacco and potatoes are the three great products of the soil which America gave the world. The potato is a native of South America, but was early introduced to this country and to Europe by the Spaniards. From Virginia it went to England in 1586. Not until the eighteenth century was the humble potato properly appreciated in the Old World, but it has now become a staple food in all temperate climates.

Lost—100 Pounds.

Harper's Weekly: Years ago when the electric telegraph was a new idea and a mystery to the masses, there came trouble one Saturday night in the Bank of England. The business of the day had closed, and the balance was not right. There was a deficit of just 100 pounds. It was not the money, but the error that must be found. For the officials and clerks there could be no sleep until the mystery had been cleared up. All that night and all Sunday a force of men were busy. The money was surely gone from the vaults, but no one could discover whence.

On the following morning a clerk suggested that the mistake might have been occurred in packing, for the West Indies, some boxes of specie that had been sent to Southampton for shipment. His chief acted on the suggestion. Here was an opportunity to test the powers of the telegraph—lightning against steam, and steam with forty-eight hours the start. Very soon the telegraph asked a man in Southampton, "Has the ship Mercator sailed?"

The answer came back, "Just weighing anchor."

"Stop her in the Queen's name," flashed back the telegraph. "She is stopped," was returned.

"Have on deck certain boxes (marks given), weigh them carefully and let me know the result," telegraphed the chief.

This order was obeyed, and one box was found to be somewhat about one pound and ten ounces heavier than its mates—just the weight of the missing sovereigns. "All right. Let the ship go!" was the next order.

The West India house was debited with the 100 pounds, and the Bank of England was at peace again.

Can It Come Back?

Chicago Record-Herald: It seems probable that the "business face"—the type predominant through America—might profit by a little softening. It is also likely that the opposite sex, if permitted to indulge in plebiscite on the mustache, would favor its cultivation. The revival of the mustache might indeed lead to the revival of other hirsute adornments, thus heightening the desperation of the barbers, who are already up in arms against the safety razor, yet if the new movement presently gains any great headway in our institutions of learning, it will sweep the country. The desire for a change of physiognomy appears to be in the air; even the people who draw the strong-jawed, smooth-shaven youths that advertise clothing must be about ready, in their secret hearts, for a change.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT AND THE DIETZ CASE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I noticed your editorial in this evening's paper on the question of capital punishment. In my opinion it was timely and good. I wish you would impress it upon the minds of the present legislators. If Wisconsin had retained said punishment, it is very probable that it would have been spared the late drama recently had in said state. Judging from the attitude Mr. Dietz took when he discovered blood on himself, it can safely be said that he would have submitted to the law before he did. In this state it is too early to think of giving the outlaws freedom of killing as many as they have an opportunity to, and then be assured that the most punishment they will get is state imprisonment for life. It will have the effect of encouraging crime. Many will deliberately kill innocent persons simply because they think they have some grievance, whether it is well founded or not. The late episode in your own city ought to be a lesson to the present lawmakers. The old countries consider such punishment necessary. No doubt Italy will again adopt it. One man's life is as precious as that of another, and any man who deliberately kills another ought to fare likewise. However, one place should be designated as the place for enforcing said punishment. It will cost less, and the several communities will be spared the unpleasantness of being stirred up when the act takes place. When Minnesota has advanced so far that less irresponsible persons exist, then it is time enough to consider that matter. The southern part of the state has not the same conditions we have in the north part. Yours truly, JOHN OLSON.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 16.

THINKS IT A CASE FOR THE RELIEF COMMITTEE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I acknowledge your favor of Jan. 14, with check of $2 for Swan Brown. I have delivered this to him today and hand you herewith his receipt.

He is very anxious to procure sufficient help to construct a dwelling house, and I suggested that he go to Duluth, hoping that the fire committee could arrange to give him this help, as I understand they have considerable funds remaining in their possession. I believe that most of the people contributing to this fund intended that the money should be used to help any fire sufferer, and it seems to me that this committee, in proper cases, would be authorized to give assistance of this nature.

Possibly, through your paper, you could induce the fire relief committee to help him, as he certainly seems worthy of some assistance. He has lost his home and all contents, and is in as bad a position as the Baudette fire sufferers.

If you desire further information regarding him, please call on me.

OTTO A. POIRIER.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 16.

Mr. Brown's case was told of in The Herald. The Associated Charities gave him $25, but he said he needed at least $65.

A NATIONAL FLOWER.

Boston Globe: We have a national drink in whisky, a national anthem in the "Star Spangled Banner," and a national fault in bigheadedness, but we have not yet settled upon a national flower. One by one flowers have been proposed for the honor, only to see some objection arise that has withered the beauty of the hopeful aspirant. The chief reason why no national flower has been selected will be found perhaps in fundamental requirements that were laid down in 1896 by the National Flower convention at Asheville, N. C.:

"Resolved, That a plant to serve properly the purposes of a national flower should be a native of the United States and should grow wild over the greater part of its area; it should bloom on one or more of our national holidays; it should be capable of easy cultivation in any garden; it should not be a weed, or in any way offensive, or harmful to health; it should bear what in the popular sense is called a flower, and should not be merely a foliage plant or one chiefly valued for its fruit; it should lend itself readily to floral decoration by variety and purity of color and distinctiveness of form, and the features characteristic of its form should combine such simplicity and gracefulness that, when used conventionally in decorative design, the flower may be readily recognized independently of its color."

These rules governing the selection naturally have dashed some hopes. The mountain laurel was doing very well until the people on the plains kicked and Frederick L. Sargent, instructor of botany at the University of Wisconsin, pointed out that it contains deadly poison. The rose might win the prize if it had fewer thorns and didn't thrive in so many different colors. The daisy has bugs. The pansy costs too much. The clover suggests bees and pigs. The columbine, with its red, white and blue, is the right color, but it is scarce. The girls would like to see the mistletoe chosen, but it is a parasite. And so on through the catalog, objections rising to crush each flower to earth as soon as it lifts its head.

To end such a distressing deadlock, why should not the Kentucky colonels rise to suggest as a compromise something that is neither a flower nor a weed, but which literally ought to fill the aching void, viz: the mint julep.

Military Punishments.

Tit Bits: In times past the military code was no less stern and uncompromising than the civil. Sentence of death was readily decreed and as promptly executed. Where offenses multiplied and wholesale executions would have weakened the army numerically, decimation—the slaughter of every tenth man—was the rule, or the troops gambled for their lives by casting dice upon a drumhead or drawing lots undo the gallows tree.

Lesser penalties, not capital, but physical and causing pain with permanent degradation, were maiming, branding the cheek or forehead, boring the tongue, or cutting the nose and ears. These last named were retained upon the military statute book until the reign of Queen Anne. The "trappado" was a fiendish device by which a delinquent was hoisted on high by a rope fastened to his arms and then dropped down by a sudden jerk that often dislocated his shoulders. Hanging by the thumbs, sometimes called "picketing," was also practiced; while the body was raised to such a height and its whole weight rested on one toe, and that again on a sharp-pointed spike.

To "ride the wooden horse" was to be mounted on a razor-edge, with weights fastened to the extremities.

Running the gantlet, or "gantelope," was as old as the Cromwellian army, and it is thus described in an army order about 1649: The culprits (who had been guilty of blasphemy as well as deer stealing) were to be "stripped naked from the waist upward, and a lane made by half the lord general's regiment of foot and half Col. Pride's, with every man a cudgel in his hand. They were to be run through in this posture, so that every soldier might have a stroke at their naked backs, breasts and arms, wherever it might alight."

And Quicker.

The man who burns the midnight oil
May rise to heights of fame;
But the man who sells that midnight oil
Gets there just the same.

The Duluth Sestalit & Stove company has prepared articles of incorporation with a capital stock of $300,000, nearly all of which has been taken by Duluthians, many being members of the chamber of commerce. The company will manufacture at Duluth stoves and other articles for the consumption of the wonderful fuel sestalit, over 100 different articles in all, besides the production of the fuel itself on a very large scale. Sestalit is manufactured from ordinary charcoal and a few chemical ingredients by a patented process owned by the company. It is odorless and smokeless, and no article used for its consumption requires a pipe or chimney for the carrying away of smoke or gases. Duluth will be the headquarters for nine Northwestern states, from Michigan to Montana.

COLOR AN APPETIZER.

New York Herald: The color of the food we eat has a marked effect on appetite and digestion. All human beings, and some animals, are very sensitive as to the color of their food.

Experiments have shown that the cat, for example, is much influenced in this way. If you place a number of pieces of meat, each tinted a different color, before pussy she will look at each piece carefully and then select the red-colored meat. Dogs, on the other hand, are influenced by the smell of their food rather than by its color.

Color is an important factor with persons of all ages and ranks. Caterers tell us that chocolate-colored foods are the most popular among the educated classes. In poor neighborhoods cakes, buns, etc., which are colored a bright yellow have the largest sale. One of the reasons for this may be that such foods are thought to be richer than others. Pink is by far the most popular color with children of all classes. Offer a child the choice of a pink or yellow sweet and he will invariably select the pink. Blind people, who cannot use their visual sense in selecting food, appear to like a strong flavor best, certain vegetables being very popular with them.

Certain colors stimulate the appetite and digestion; others have the reverse effect. White foods, such as white fish, are stimulating, but all foods artificially colored green appear to be avoided by every one. In fact, neither blue nor green is conductive to a healthy appetite. To sit down to dinner in a green-papered room often destroys one's desire for food at all.

Color has also a striking effect upon the nervous system. Red produces the most exciting sensation, and instances are numerous of those who, living in rooms papered and furnished in red, become cases for nerve specialists. When yellows, greens, browns or tans are substituted for the reds the improvement in health is most noticeable.

Photographers have discovered that the use of red in their "dark rooms" has caused the nerves of the worker to be wrought upon; they become restless, noisy and often quarrelsome. When the experiment has been made of substituting orange light, which is the next strongest to red in power, the result has invariably been a diminution in the nervous excitability of the workers in the "dark room."

Red has also a strong effect upon children. The teacher of a Sunday school infant class was assigned a room with a bright red carpet. The children became restless and unruly. Suspecting the cause, she had the carpet changed to one of a soft green tone. The quieting effect on the children was marked.

Violet, the color of sadnes and grief, is the most depressing of all the colors, and when persons are exposed to its exclusive influence the most terrible dejection and stagnation is produced. This fact has been made use of by the Russian autocracy, which has, or had, rooms in one of its places of "retirement" from the world in which are confined those men of unusually brilliant mental attainments who oppose its government policies. All rays of light whose vibrations are slower than those of blue or violet are excluded from these rooms. In every case the mind of the occupant, once brilliantly alert, becomes so dulled that he is unable to cope with the simplest facts of life.

A woman takes the greatest pride in how she is so free of jealousy that everybody is mean enough to say she has it.

Life-Saving Shoes.

New York Press: It is hard for a man to keep healthy and free of cold and catarrh and escape pneumonia, without good shoes. During this cold weather heavy shoes are necessary, and two or three pairs are better than one, because the feet do best changing the shoes every day, if not in the middle of the day, and then, again, it is best to have a pair always in a warm, dry place, ready to put on when you come in with a damp, cold pair on, and need a change to make the feet feel good and warm before going out again. Good shoes have saved many a man's life, and bad shoes have put more in a midwinter grave from pneumonia and grip.

The Hardship of Fashion.

Puck: The woman looked up brightly into his face. "I see by the paper," she remarked, "that hips are coming in again!"

But the man tore his hair.

"In that case we shall have to move into a larger flat!" he cried, in the utmost dismay.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Cleveland Leader: "What happened to Babylon?" asked the Sunday school teacher.

"It fell!" cried the pupil.

"And what became of Nineveh?"

"It was destroyed."

"And what of Tyre?"

"It was punctured."

Life: Willie—Here's a sign I got from the postoffice.

Mrs. Slimson—Why, Willie! What do you mean? It's the sign "For Transients." You just take it right back.

"I thought you might like to hang it up in your kitchen."

Exeter Express: Frank Polygamy—"For tomorrow's official ceremony invitations have been issued to 200 of the leading residents of the district, who with their wives will number, it is expected, nearly 500, which is the full capacity of the hall."

Detroit Free Press: "How does that young man impress you?"

"Not at all. I never take kindly to a young man who wraps a twenty-dollar bill around two ones and then insists upon displaying the bankroll."

Puck: Mrs. Blase—Have you begun your suit for divorce?

Mrs. Highupp—No, but I've begun the suit I'm going to wear when I get my divorce!

Cleveland Leader: Newritch—So you want me to give you a job?

Wellbred—Yes, sir. I am willing to work, even though it is for a mere pittance.

Newritch—Git out! The nerve of you, callin' me a name like that!

Washington Star: "I supose we will soon be hearing the joke about the big fish that got away."

"My friend," replied the fisherman, "with food at the present prices the fish that gets away is not a joke."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Pardon me, madam, but the way that man across the table is staring at you must be very offensive?"

"Oh, no; thank you. That's my husband."

"Your husband."

"Yes. He's very nearsighted, and thinks I'm somebody else."

The "Electric" Eye.

St. Petersburg Cor. New York American: Prof. Rosing of the Institute of Technology, is announced to give a public lecture on a discovery which he claims to be one of the most remarkable ever made by a scientist.

He declares that, after fifteen years of incessant labor, he has succeeded in constructing an electro-telescopic apparatus which has all the virtues of what might be termed an "electric eye," and which will enable the fortunate owner to see anything and any one he chooses.

By the adjustment of an apparatus an employer sitting in his office will be able at will to "see" other parts of the building and watch his unconscious employes at work.

A man will be able to sit at home and witness a theatrical performance, or arrivals at a railway station, or any event of interest that may be happening a long distance away from the observer.

Prof. Rosing claims that a general who used this invention will be able to observe the movements of the enemy as well as the movements of his own forces. He promises to give a full explanation of his invention in the near future.

HUSBAND IN SLEUTH ROLE

Saginaw Man Traces Faithless Wife to West Duluth, Causing Arrest.

Mary Erickson and George Rodovich Plead Guilty in Police Court.

After having been traced to Duluth from Saginaw, Minn., where, it is alleged, she deserted her husband six months ago, Mrs. Mary Erickson, 20 years old, was arrested last evening in company with George Rodovich, aged 22, at a West Duluth hotel, where they were registered as man and wife.

Rodovich is a joint owner of a saloon on Raleigh street near Fifty-eighth avenue west. In police court this morning both entered pleas of guilty and were fined $25 and costs each or thirty days in the county jail.

Edward Erickson, the woman's husband, started the investigation which led to the arrest of the pair. He learned of his wife's whereabouts, he told the police, a few weeks ago when she was living in Superior. He then followed her movements and when she came to West Duluth to live with Rodovich, he asked the police to make the arrest.

Rodovich claims that he met the woman in Superior. The police say that they have been living together in rooms over Rodovich's saloon on Raleigh street, for about three weeks.

Another charge may be preferred against the woman, say the police. Before she met Rodovich she was engaged as a domestic in the East end home, and upon leaving the place it is alleged that she took a lady's coat that did not belong to her. Owing to the reluctance of the East end woman to appear in court, it is probable that the case may be settled out of court.

BURIED UNDER FROZEN EARTH

Fond du Lac Man Has Narrow Escape in Gravel Pit.

Edward Olson, 24 years old, employed by Edward Swenson at the gravel pit at Fond du Lac, was brought to the Duluth hospital late yesterday afternoon, suffering from a broken collar bone and a number of bad bruises, sustained in an accident while at work. He will recover.

A huge mass of frozen earth became loosened, and Olson, who was in the pit, was caught between a portion of it and a stump car. He was pinned in so firmly that it was necessary to tip over the dump car to release him.

Olson boarded with C. O. Berquist at Fond du Lac.

RED MEN INSTALL THEIR OFFICERS.

WOMAN BUILDS FIRE AND BURNS TO DEATH

Mrs. Elizabeth Lang of Milwaukee Had Wood on Body.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 18.—That Mrs. Elizabeth Lang, 45 years old, was burned to death from a fire built by herself is the belief of the police after investigating a fire in the basement of the Lang home today.

The remains of Mrs. Lang were found with some pieces of kindling wood strewn across her body.

Investigation develops the fact that Mrs. Lang had suffered from melancholia for many years, and that she had been in a sanitarium at different times, and had only recently been released. The coroner is making an investigation. The fire was discovered by Anton D. Lang, husband of the woman, who was awakened by the smell of smoke. Lang rushed to his wife's bedroom, and failing to find her, tried to locate the blaze. He was unable to get to the basement on account of the dense smoke, and sent in an alarm, which brought the fire department to the scene. The blaze was subdued in a few minutes.

NO PROOF OF BRIBERY

Senator Burrows Comes to the Defense of Senator Lorimer.

Says the Testimony Given in Case Is Not Reliable.

Washington, Jan. 18.—"There is absolutely no proof in the case, direct or indirect, from which a legitimate inference could be drawn that a single member of the general assembly was corruptly influenced to vote for Mr. Lorimer."

This was the conclusion of Senator Julius C. Burrows of Michigan, in a speech in the senate today, defending the majority report of the committee on privileges and elections, of which he is chairman, confirming the right of Senator William Lorimer of Illinois to his seat in the senate.

Senator Burrows reviewed the whole case and cited again much of the evidence from which the committee arrived at its conclusions, because, he said, of "the criticism passed upon the report of the committee."

After summarizing the testimony of Witnesses White, Link, Beckemeyer and Holstlaw, Senator Burrows declared:

Nothing to Show Bribery.

"It is obvious that there is nothing in the statements of any one of them, or in all of them taken together, to justify a conclusion that their testimony as to bribery is true or could be relied upon in a matter even of minor importance."

In beginning his speech, Senator Burrows reminded the senate that it was a court of ninety-two judges and that no member of that tribunal should "permit his judgment to be warped by public clamor, however boisterous, or private appeals, however potential and commanding."

"The labors of the committee," said Senator Burrows, "were greatly lightened by the admission of the prosecution that it was not expected to connect Senator Lorimer with any acts of bribery. There was no evidence submitted to the committee or obtainable so far as known, implicating Senator Lorimer in the bribery or attempted bribery, if such there was, of any member of the legislature. Nor was there any evidence that Senator Lorimer had any knowledge whatever, that such bribery or attempted bribery was perpetrated by any one."

Dismissing the matter of the integrity of Senator Lorimer, Senator Burrows related the details of the inquiry into "the integrity of the election."

White Denounced.

The testimony of Charles A. White, a member of the Illinois legislature, who wrote the first article in the Chicago Tribune on April 30, 1910, charging that eight jars in the election of Senator Lorimer, came in for severe denunciation by Senator Burrows. He said:

"This testimony, briefly stated, is as follows: Charles A. White was called before the committee and testified in effect that he was paid $1,000 for his vote for Mr. Lorimer for senator; that he first talked with Browne about voting for Lorimer on the night of May 24, 1909, in Browne's room in the St. Nicholas hotel. White says he asked if he could vote for a Republican, and he told him he could, and then says, 'He asked me to keep it strictly under my hat. He said it would not be any chickenfeed, either.'

"Whatever impression the testimony of White may make upon the senate to the committee, the conviction was irresistable that, if he told the truth to the committee, he was devoid of all sense of honor or shame and was ready to make merchandise of his position, violate is oath of office, betray the people who trusted and elected him, and barter his vote for anything to anybody which would bring to him personal gain.

Dickered Over Price.

"When he says Browne offered him $1,000 to vote for Lorimer instead of rebuking him and resenting the insult, he calmly commences dickering about the price to be paid by asking 'How much are we to get from other sources,' and when, as he alleges, advised that there would be about as much more from the jackpot, his sordid soul seemed to be satisfied.

"If White's testimony is discredited, then practically nothing remains which would cast any shadow of doubt upon the right of Senator Lorimer to hold his seat. It is evident that the testimony from Browne and Broderick was purposely shaped to corroborate White's story.

"Michael Link claimed in his testimony before the committee and before the grand jury and under all circumstances, that the money he received from Browne was not compensation for his vote for Lorimer. The whole power of the people of Illinois, acting through their legal representatives was brought to bear on Link to compel him to admit that he had received money on account of his vote for Mr. Lorimer.

Testimony Useless.

"Another witness upon whose testimony great reliance is placed by those who are opposing Senator Lorimer is H. J. C. Beckemeyer. His testimony is as useless as that of Link.

"Furthermore, it is important to note that he was compelled to invent this story. He was taken to Chicago, taken before the grand jury, and there persisted in his denial that he had received any money. He was then placed in charge of an officer, plied with liquor, taken to a theater, afterwards to a disreputable resort and by these means was induced or compelled to change his story, under assurance of indemnity in case he did so. Any testimony or any statement that might be made by him under such circumstances would be of little value even if uncontradicted.

"The only other witness whose testimony could be considered as supporting the charges made against Senator Lorimer was D. M. Holstlaw.

"Holstlaw's testimony as to bribery is contradicted by Broderick. It is impossible of belief if uncontradicted by any one.

"From this hasty review of the testimony of the witnesses, White, Link, Beckemeyer and Holstlaw, it is obvious that there is nothing in the statements of any one of them, or in the statements of all of them taken together, which would justify a conclusion that their testimony as to bribery is true, or could be relied upon in a matter of even minor importance."

GOVERNOR ANGRY.

Refuses to Deliver Inaugural Until Legislature Is "Organized."

Charlestown, W. Va., Jan. 18.—Governor Glasscock formally refused to recognize the Democratic organization of the state senate today by declining to send his biennial message to the legislature until that body was "properly organized."

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 18.—Governor Glasscock of West Virginia was in communication late last night with the fifteen Republican senators of that state, who have taken refuge in Cincinnati, to prevent the Democrats of the senate at Charleston from perfectimb a legal organization of that body.

The governor talked by long distance telephone to Senator Meredith, chairman of the delegation, and it is understood that the governor stated emphatically that he would refuse to recognize the organization made by the Democrats of the senate yesterday.

The action of the fifteen Democrats—just one-half of the membership of the senate—ousting Senator J. G. Harne, Republican, and seating Charles F. Caldwell, Democrat, and then forming a permanent organization, is declared to be absolutely illegal by the Republican senators in Cincinnati.

WHERE THEORY FAILED.

Chicago Post: "The jewelry was stolen," says the eminent magazine-story detective, pursing his thin lips and squinting through his nervous eyelids, "by a young man of fair education. I deduce this from the fact that a copy of Hugo's 'Les Miserables' had been taken from the bookshelf and glanced at. He smoked cigarettes. I find this from the sweepings of the floor. He wore eye-glasses but did not have them on at the time. This I know because he bumped into a divan and shoved it out of its usual position. He had been disappointed in love. This is shown by the fact that he did not take a sma.. piece in the shape of a heart. He was five feet eight inches tall, weight 150 pounds, walked with a slight limp, had not been shaven within a day of the crime, and is very fond of beefsteak and onions. These facts I deduce from certain indications."

The talented young author glances victoriously at the village marshal, who has been listening to the eminent magazine-story detective with open-mouthed admiration.

"Well," says the village marshal, "this beats my time. I reckon we'll have to let the fellow go that we caught comin' out of the winder with all that jewelry. He's a little bow-leggeu man, with one eye and red whiskers. I'd 'a' told you about him first off, but this author here has been insistin' for a long time that I get this here detective to solve the next crime in this town."

SOME ECCENTRIC LAWS.

New York Sun: In Chicago recently an ordinance regulating the length of hat pins created much outcery, though the reason for objection is not clear to a mere man.

But Chicago women would doubtless start a revolution if they lived in Lucerne, where a law forbids women wearing hats of more than eighteen inches in diameter or the wearing of foreign feathers and artificial flowers.

If one wishes to wear ribbons of silk and guaze a license must be procured, which costs 80 cents a year.

According to the Green Bag, Norway not long ago passed an act to the effect that any woman wishing to wed must first present to the authorities a certificate showing that she is competent in the arts of cooking, sewing, knitting and embroidery.

Germany has an intelligent and practical method of dealing with men who illtreat their wives. Instead of sending them to jail for a continuous period, as is done in this country, and thus depriving the family of the man's wages for that time, the German offender is arrested on Saturday afternoon as he leaves his work and held in prison until time for work on Monday morning.

This plan is followed until he has served the number of days of his sentence. During the period in which the German offender spends the week-ends away from his home his earnings are handed over to his wife.

In Belgium they place a premium on marriage by allowing a married man two votes at an election, as against the single man's one. In Madagascar one must be a father or pay for the default. If a man is unmarried or childless at the age of 25 he must contribute annually $3.75 to the support of the state, and each woman who has remained single or is childless at 24 is taxed $1.80 per year.

In Austria a heavy fine is imposed upon any actor who wears a military or ecclesiastical costume on the stage. In Germany such costumes may be worn, but the actors will find themselves in a serious situation if they are not absolutely correct down to the last loop and button.

Some of the Participants in New York's Pomeranian Dog Show

MRS. GEORGE R. PEABODY AND "MAUCHI." MISS M. KENNEDY AND "POMERANIAN BUTTERCUP." MRS. L. C. DYER, Judge at "Pom." Dog Show.

Mrs. L. C. Dyer was brought over from Great Britian by the Pomeranian Club of America to judge at the annual show held at the Waldorf Astoria last week. Mrs. Dyer is an expert of world wide fame and her judging seems to indicate that honors in past exhibitions of this club have been unjustly awarded. Mrs. Dyer has turned down the gold prize winners and exalted unknown dogs until there is a general air of unhappiness in the sun room of the Waldorf. Some of the former prize winners which have failed to win prizes at this show are Miss Marion Kennedy's "Pomeranian Buttercup" and Mrs. J. A. Stillman's "Dare Sable Mite."

RECEIVER FOR BOILER WORKS

Northwestern Company Said to Be Operating at a Loss.

On petition of Alexander Scully, acting as trustee, David Davis has been appointed by Judge Page Morris of the United States court as receiver for the Northwestern Steam Boiler Works, a boiler manufacturing concern on Garfield avenue. Michael A. Ryan is president and treasurer and Margaret A. Ryan, his wife, is secretary of the involved corporation.

The papers filed in United States court allege that the company is indebted to the extent of $101,000, exclusive of outstanding preferred and common stock and that $35,000 of that amount is due and payable. The company has no money and no means of raising money, with which to purchase materials for carrying on the business, it is alleged, and the application for a receiver is based on the allegation that Mr. Ryan, discouraged over the financial difficulties of the firm, has given little attention to the business during the months of November and December and the personal attention of a receiver may allow the business to pay some of the indebtedness against it. The concern lost $1,600 in November and $2,900 in December.

The Northwestern Steam Boiler Works was organized as a corporation in 1903 with a capitalization of $200,000, divided into 200 shares of stock at $100 par, 1,735 shares being common stock and 265 shares preferred stock.

DOCTORS OF PLANTS.

London Daily Mail: "For the last twenty years I have been preaching that what botany is suffering from is that it is generally too academic and not sufficiently in touch with the practical needs of mankind."

The remark was made by Prof. Farmer, F. R. S., head of the botanical department at the Imperial College of Science, South Kensington, who is at present engaged in the organization of a new department of vegetable physiology and pathology at the college.

In brief, the new department will train a new race of "plant doctors"—young men who will be as well acquainted with plant diseases as with the character and constitution of plants.

"The tendency nowadays," said Prof. Farmer, "is more and more to study advanced science from the point of view of its application to industry. There is a constant demand for young men who are able to deal with plant diseases and plan sanitation. The demand is far greater than I am able to supply. I could send three young men abroad tomorrow if I had them to posts each worth £300 a year.

"The demand is largely in connection with big tropical and colonial industries, such as rubber, sugar, tobacco, cinchona and cotton growing. It should be borne in mind when considering the scope of the new department that the sole value of a very large area of our colonial possessions depends entirely on the value of their vegetable products and that millions are lost every year through preventable causes.

"There is ample scope for such work at home as well as abroad. There is constant trouble among our crops with diseases, many of which at present are only imperfectly understood.

"The words 'plant physiology' as concerned with the new training mean simply looking at plants as going concerns. We intend that the new professor who shall direct the department shall be the very best man available."

GOODMAN IS KNOCKED OUT

Packy McFarland Sends New York Boy Down for Count in Fifth.

Goodman Never Had Chance in Slashing Bout With Chicago Youth.

New York, Jan. 18.—Packy McFarland of Chicago knocked out Jack Goodman of New York in the fifth round of a 10-round bout at the Fairmont Athletic club last night. The stockyards lightweight first floored Goodman for the count of nine with a right swing on the jaw. When Goodman arose unsteadily, McFarland sent him down for the count of ten.

Goodman was outclassed and outfought in every round. McFarland was the aggressor from the start. In the second round McFarland opened a gash under Goodman's left eye and split his lip with straight lefts to the face.

When the third round opened McFarland showed his confidence by a vicious rush and from that moment never let up. He smothered Goodman's body play, blocked his leads for the head and bored in harder at each lull. Goodman took five stinging uppercuts and one hard slam to the wind in this round alone.

In the fourth round Goodman found himself for a moment, but did no damage and the round ended with Goodman in his own corner, covering up and McFarland hammering him on the head.

In the fifth and last round Goodman was slow and weak. McFarland swung three times to his jaw without a return, took two light blows to the mouth himself while still boring in and, chasing Goodman to the ropes, caught him with a heavy right-hand uppercut to the point of the jaw. Down went Goodman to his knees and hung there swaying till the count of nine. He was still groggy when he rose and helpless before the rain of blows McFarland showered on him. A heavy right-hand swing to the jaw dropped him flat on his face in McFarland's corner for the full count. While he lay there, Packy did a buck and wing dance around the ring.

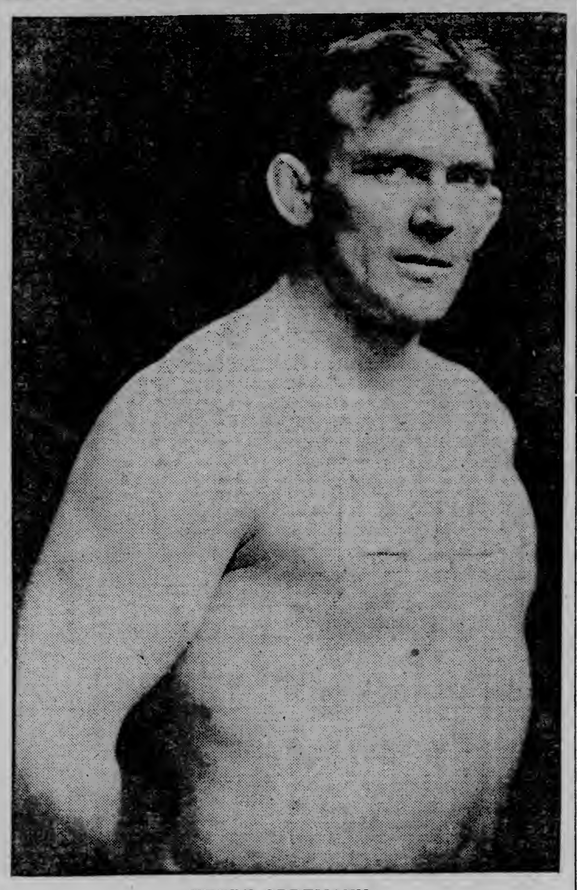

PACKEY McFARLAND,
Who Defeated Jack Goodman Last Evening.

Both men weighed 135 pounds at 3 o'clock. Before the bout was put on Philadelphia Jack O'Brien announced that "Knockout" Brown will meet Ad Wolgast, champion lightweight of the world, Feb. 8, in a six-round bout before a Philadelphia club.

DATES ARE FIXED FOR GOLF TOURNAMENTS.

New York, Jan. 18.—Dates for the national championship golf tournaments fixed by the executive committee of the United States Golf association, were announced yesterday. The amateur championship will be held at Apawamis from Sept. 11 to 16 inclusive, while the women's fixture is carded for Oct. 9 to 14 inclusive, over the links of the Baltusrol club. The open is scheduled for June 23 and 24 over the links of the Chicago Golf club.

ORDEMANN GIVES RUSSIAN LION HARD BATTLE, BUT IS DEFEATED

HENRY ORDEMANN.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 18.—Completely worn out by the greater strength of his opponent, Henry Ordemann of Minneapolis was last night defeated in the most thrilling wrestling match this city has seen, George Hackenschmidt, the Russian Lion, winning two falls from him.

The first fall took 2 hours, 27½ minutes, Hackenschmidt gaining it by slamming his fatigued opponent to the mat and lying on him. The second fall took but 2½ minutes, Hackenschmidt picking up the local man and throwing him in much the same manner as in the first fall. The bout was the main event of a long card and lasted until close upon 2 o'clock.

Ordemann was clearly the more skillful and displayed great ability on the defensive, but his physique was not equal to the muscular power of the Russian.

FRANK FORCE IS PRESIDENT

Harmony Prevails at Annual Meeting of Minnesota-Wisconsin League.

Winona, Minn., Jan. 17.—At the annual meeting of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league here yesterday, Frank E. Force was unanimously elected president, secretary and treasurer for one year, succeeding John A. Elliott of La Crosse. A. J. J. Ferrin of Red Wing was elected vice president.

Winona, Duluth, Eau Claire, Wausau, Rochester, Red Wing, Superior and La Crosse will again comprise the circuit, there being no proposition offered to change the lineup. The reports of the officers showed the league in a flourishing condition.

PERSON MAY MEET JOHNSON

Two Rivals Angling for Finish Match When Ordemann Appears.

Martin Johnson of this city and Chris Person may meet in a finish match as the star preliminary of the Ordemann-Lehto match, which will be staged at the Lyceum theater next week. The Duluth fireman has been after the veteran for the past two months, fully believes he can defeat Person, and would probably jump at the opportunity.

Person has stated that he doesn't in the least see where and how the fireman can even begin to beat him, but there are a lot of fans who have been looking forward to a meeting between these two men.

The rights to the Gotch - Zbyszko wrestling pictures, said to be the clearest films ever shown in this city, are being negotiated for at the present time, and it is very probable that these pictures will be shown as a preliminary to the Lehto-Ordemann meeting.

These pictures were given a private trial at one of the local theaters and were so clear that every detail of the famous world's championship struggle could be plainly observed.

Carl Lehto is due to meet Mattson of Minneapolis, one of the toughest heavyweights in the Twin Cities, in the Copper country before meeting with Ordemann in this city. Mattson is a big chap, weighing around the 200-pound mark, and has been wrestling some of the best men of the East during the past year. He is well known in this city, having met all comers for a week in the days of the old Metropolitan. A victory over a man of Mattson's class will mean a feather in Lehto's cap, and the young Finn is confident of his ability to defeat the husky Minneapolis heavyweight.

Manuel Harris of Superior, who claims the lightweight wrestling championship of these parts, wants to meet any of the cracks of these parts in one of the preliminaries to the big match of the evening, and may go on.

CHAMPION LAMY TAKES HONORS

Saranac Lake Skater Wins All Except One Event at Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Edward Lamy of Saranac Lake, N. Y., garnered most of the honors at the international skating championship events here last night, retaining his titles as half-mile and 220-yard champion. The mile interstate championship went to Robert McLean of Chicago. Lamy also was an easy winner in the three-mile race in 8 minutes, 53 seconds. Charles Fisher of Milwaukee was second and Lot Roe of Toronto, Canada, third.

PARK POINT AND KODAHPA TEAMS WILL CLASH.

The Kodahpa hockey team will meet the Park Pointers this evening at the French club rink, Twenty-fifth avenue west, in what should prove one of the best games of the season. These teams are keen rivals and will play hard for victory. Since their last defeat the Kodahpas have been practicing hard and should put up a much better game than they played against the Adams.

The Kodahpas are not out of the race by any means, while the Park Points are strong contenders for the pennant. Every team in the city league is playing a fast article of hockey, and the contest sheduled for this evening promises to be in line with the other well played games that have delighted large crowds so far the present season.

BORGEN CHOSEN DELEGATE TO NATIONAL SKI MEET.

H. H. Borgen will attend the national ski meet at Chippewa Falls, Wis., as the delegate of the local club. He was chosen at a meeting of the directors of the club held last evening. The meet will be held Jan. 28 and is expected to be one of the greatest ever held in the Northwest.

GOSSIP PICKED UP ALONG THE SPORTING HIGHWAY

Ordemann and Lehto Should Put Up Great Battle—Langford - Johnson Six-Round Meeting—Murder of Stanley Ketchel—Frank Force, President of "Minny" League—Ordemann's Great Showing.

(BY BRUCE.)

Lovers of clean wrestling of this city will have the opportunity next week of seeing one of the greatest wrestlers in the world in action, when Henry Ordemann, the great heavyweight of Minneapolis will meet Karl Lehto, the young Finn who has made such a wonderful showing the present season, in a finish match. By his draw with Dr. Roller, which was a highly creditable showing, even though the Seattle physician was not in the best of shape, and by his remarkable struggle with the great George Hackenschmidt, and his decisive defeat of Chris Person, Lehto has earned the right to being considered as one of the coming grapplers of the country.

In Ordemann Duluth lovers will see the greatest American wrestler, barring Gotch, before the public today. The big Minneapolis Norwegian has the present season defeated Charles "Kid" Cutler of Chicago, Dr. B. F. Roller, big Fenby, Winkiehoffer and Adolph Earnst of Chicago, considered one of the greatest of the present day grapplers. Henry is the man Gotch has selected as the man best fitted to wear his crown, as the greatest American representative, and these honors are all the more appreciated by the wrestling fans in this part of the country, when it is considered that Ordemann is a Minnesota boy.

Here in Duluth, we have for some time taken more than a passing interest in the development of Ordemann. When Frank Gotch picked the young man up, this was one of the first places in which he showed the raw youth. At that time judges of wrestling laughed when Ordemann was even associated with championship possibilities. But Gotch saw something in the big Minneapolis boy, and despite the laughter of the knowing ones, continued to believe that Ordemann had a future.

At that time it would have been impossible to find a more awkward and clumsy looking wrestler than Ordemann. He was slow and only possessed enormous strength. A year with Gotch worked wonders with Ordemann. The crowd of fans who remember his work last winter in the match with Chris Person, will recall the speed and finish shown by the man who has slowly but surely forced his way to the front rank of American wrestlers.

When Ordemann defeated Freddy Beell last winter he established his right to be classed as the greatest of the American wrestlers. For years this Beell has been the bear-cat of those ambitious grapplers who believed they were about ripe for championship honors. He has beaten them all, and when the little Marshfield wonder was compelled to bow in defeat to Ordemann, the victory of the big Minneapolis man marked the coming of another champion.

During the remainder of the present season Ordemann will probably make secure his title to the American championship. He has yet hope to dispose of Westergaard and Americus, and the Baltimore man is attracting a great deal of attention at the present time, and of course, Henry has not as yet disposed of Karl Lehto, who by his remarkable wrestling, has won the regard of a large number of the Duluth fans. With his remarkable improvement in the mat game, the friends of the game Finn will concede that he hasn't a chance with any wrestler anywhere near his own weight.

Outside of his fame as a wrestler, Ordemann is known personally to many residents of this city. He rowed on one of the crews of the Duluth Boat club for a short time, being employed in this city. He has wrestled as a partner to Frank A. Gotch, during the old and flourishing days of the Metropolitan.

For the past year there has been talk of a meeting between Ordemann and Lehto. The Copper country made repeated bids for the match, but not until the present winter have the efforts to match the two men met with success. The match is attracting attention over the Northwest, as Ordemann is today the most famous of American grapplers and the work of Lehto has begun to attract attention.

There are few who really believe that a very definite conclusion will be obtained from the six-round meeting between Jack Johnson and Samuel Adams Langford. Johnson isn't in condition at the present time to beat the stubby Boston black in six rounds, and it is very doubtful if he will try. This is not in the least saying that the big black could subdue the little black in that length of time, for it is very doubtful if the man lives who can beat Langford in that decidedly limited time.

The Langford Johnson Meeting

Lovers of boxing are hoping that the little chimney goes smoking after the taller smoke stack, and the whole nation would yell with collective delight should Langford put a lucky one over that would spell the count.

This Johnson is the most hated champion we have ever had. He was brought the ill will of the sporting fraternity down on his head by his own uncalled for actions, and if Langford should straighten out the big buffalo with one of those long lefts of his and then step in close and cross the right—well, say, he could have most anything that is hidding in the pugilistic pantry at the present time.

Both men have developed much since their last meeting. Some believe that Langford has shown the greatest relative improvement, because he was nothing more or less than a husky welterweight when the hulking Johnson fought that famous 15-round battle with him. Always a cautious fighter, and probably highly respecting the punch of the Langford baby, this Johnson man may remember some of the experiences of that other fight and refuse to carry the battle Langford's way.

At least the fight will be interesting, as it is generally believed at this time that Langford is the only heavyweight that has any possible show with the champion, and to be frank with you, the best of the students of ring affairs do not credit Samuel with having anything but an outside chance, at that.

When Charlie Comiskey was here on his hunting trip, the murder of Stanley Ketchel was still being talked of among followers of sporting events. The cause of the deed and the probable fate of the murderer, were being discussed. It was here that the old Roman expressed his opinion on the probable outcome of the trial.

The Murder of Stanley Ketchel.

"It is very hard to convict a man for shooting a pugilist," said Commy. "Read of the different cases in which prize fighters have been killed, and note the light sentences, if the culprit has been sentenced at all. Many juries believe that a man has a right to use a gun on a pugilist. That is why so many men have escaped with light sentences for the gravest offense on the criminal calendar."

The words of the old Comanche are of interest at this time, since the murderer of the young pugilist has been brought to trial, together with the woman who is believed to have been an accomplice. In the eyes of most people the killing was the work of a bloody assassin, a murder, brutal, cold blooded and perhaps premeditated.

Mayhap the trial will bring out some evidence that has not been given to the public. There may have been circumstances warranting the terrible action by the cowpuncher; but until the public mind has been convinced of these circumstances, if there be any, that part of the public which has taken any interest in the tragic death of Ketchel, will believe that the man committing the deed is a murderer in the full meaning of the word.

Ketchel may have had his faults, and there is no denying that. But the very fact that he was a human, and the further fact that the man killing him crept up behind him when his back was turned, would make the case one entitled to the consideration of those loving fair play.

This trial will be watched with interest in many quarters, simply from the fact, as Comiskey stated, it is very hard to convict a man for killing a professional pugilist. The famous case of Jere Elliott, one of the most famous shootings in sporting history, is a very good example of the attitude of the public mind on cases of this kind.

Frank E. Force, sporting editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, was yesterday elected president of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league. Another important matter that was not done at the meeting, and which was seriously threatened, was the pulling down of the $40 a game guarantee.

Force Will Head The Minny League

George A. Barton, sporting editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, and considered by many who are personally acquainted with him as a better and abler man than Force, was turned down at the meeting because of some utterances in regard to the fate of some of the towns at the southern end of the circuit. The question that will come up next, is whether the chance to get into St. Paul and Minneapolis, a dream that has long been before the yes of baseball men of Duluth and Superior, will be followed up.

Duluth men are thoroughly in favor of the invasion, for the Minny league holds little interest for the fans of this city, and the actions along this line will be watched with interest during the next month or so.

Henry Ordemann made a wonderful showing against the Russian Lion last night. It required the big Russian over two hours to secure the first fall, and this is the most wonderful showing any man has ever made against Hackenschmidt, not even barring Gotch. Ordemann may well proud of the stand he made against the Lion, for there were many who did not believe he could withstand the Lion's wonderful strength for over an hour.

Ordemann Makes Wonderful Showing.

The battle put up by Ordemann stamps him as one of the greatest men in the world. It has always been claimed that he was the best of the Americans, barring Frank Gotch, and with the showing against Hackenschmidt, it may safely be said without fear of contradiction, that the Big Minneapolis Norwegian has developed into one of the world's greatest wrestlers.

JAPANESE ARE BASEBALL MAD

Nippon Sends Delegate to America to Learn Game Under McGraw.

New York, Jan. 18.—Not satisfied with developing some of the best baseball players in the United States, John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, is going to act as tutor to the Japanese nation in the great Yankee game.

Togo S. Hamamoto of Tokio, has applied for the position of baseball apostle to his countrymen and McGraw plans to do all in his power to spread the game in foreign lands.

Hamamota, who has the backing of a number of influential citizens of Tokio, will go to Marlin Springs with the Giants when they start training and will devote his time to mastering the game. His backers plan to develop professional baseball in their own country as a great popular sport. With their characteristic enterprise, when desiring to learn something from the Western nations they decide to send a delegate to America to study the game and bring back the best of American methods and training.

As a matter of fact, the Japanese have been playing a sort of indifferent baseball for several years, but the game has not been brought to a high stage of development. Several of the college teams of this country have made excursions over there, among these being the trip of the University of Chicago nine last fall.

While the Japanese do not play much of a game as yet, they are said to be alert and quick. Their speed makes them promising material and Manager McGraw is prophesying that some day a real world's championship will be played with the United States and Japan as rivals.

Y. M. C. A. LOSES TO BLAINE

Association Team Defeated After Hard Basket Ball Game, 25 to 16.

Last night in the big gymnasium of the local Y. M. C. A. building, the Blaine Alumni team of Superior defeated the local team by the score of 25 to 16. The contest was hard fought all the way and was also one of the most interesting exhibitions of basket ball played here the present season.

In revenge for the beating administered to the first aggregation of the local association, the second team of the Y. M. C. A. defeated the second team of the visitors by the score of 19 to 8.

From the first the Blaine Alumni bunch held the lead. Long proved the star for the visiting basket throwers, securing six field goals and also throwing one basket from a foul, Boerner threw five baskets for Duluth, while Vince O'Donnell threw one of the prettiest goals of the evening, making a long and perfect throw from a difficult angle.

Hamilton played a strong defensive game, while the entire association team showed individual and collective improvement over the form shown in the last game.

In connection with the playing of Long for the visitors, mention should be made of Welter, who was a tower of strength to the alumni team on the defense.

The lineups:

Y. M. C. A.	Position.	Blaine.
O'Donnell	f.	Clarke

THE FIRESIDE CLARION

SPECIAL BONSPIEL EDITION "Oh wad some power the gifte gie us to see oursel's as ithers see us."—Burns. SPECIAL BONSPIEL EDITION

C. A. DUNCAN, TOM GIBSON, E. D. FIELD, W. W. McMILLAN, RON McLEOD AND F. W. HARGRAVES.

——— Duluth club.

Introducing a bunch of "prominent cits" selected at random from the ranks of the local curlers.

This is a most interesting bunch. There is so much to tell about them that one helstates as to where to begin. There is so much good and so much that is not so good, (the latter refers to their curling) that it is a hard matter to determine which side over balances and should therefore be told.

As has been stated it is against the editorial policy of The Clarion to say any thing very good about anybody and it therefore behooves some of the members of this rink to hold their breath at this point. Are you holding your breath? Well, breathe easily for ye editor had a good luncheon at the Curling club counter feels just like saying as many decent things as possible.

First of all we have Charles A. Duncan. That is the way it reads on the card, but the curlers know him and call him "Charles," or "Charlie" or "Chas."

"Charlie" goes South every winter after curling about two games. The two games, let it be said, are usually lost. That is the reason he goes South, maybe. He can go down South and live it down. This is one instance, where looks and ancestry are deceiving. He has all the attributes of a curler, including Scotch ancestry, but ———.

Tom Gibson is next in line. Tom plays with the Woodland colts when he has time. He has the reputation of being the only man that has found a way to make money at a bonspiel. Tom went up to Winnipeg one bonspiel and came back with loads of money. It was all in $1 bills. It seems that on the train they made a little wheel out of card board and numbered the spokes. Tom guessed the right spoke more often than the others. When he isn't taking money away from innocent curlers he is at some thing else.

E. D. Field plays with George Stillman. Field is said to be as bad a curler as George. W. W. McMillan also plays with Stillman and they might just as well be classed together. Both are cautious curlers. They are timid and always play a bashful game. So timid are they that they seldom win. They are polite too and they have the Alphonse and Gaston act beaten a la Roosevelt, meaning to a frazzle.

Ron McLeod plays with the Woodland outfit and he is one of the old-time curlers. He remembers when they first started the game. He used to carry a muststache. He says times are far different than they were in his days. Nowadays any young fellow can have one. That is what he thinks of Elmer Whyte and Billy White.

Hargraves plays with Mr. Duncan—when Mr. Duncan is here. When Mr. Duncan is sipping—sipping we think is good—lemonade in a hammock down South somewhere, Hargraves is telling where they would be. Hargraves is the only member of Duncan's rink who is always here. The other members go away, away, away and leave him all alone. Almost any night you may find, if you look closely, Hargraves behind the "Round Oak" at the curling club sort of pining away for his skip to come back.

Truthful Jim Emerson.

This is "Truthful Jim Emerson" of St. Paul. Truthful Jim is curling all the time. He is mighty busy at the present bonspiel.

CONKLE IS TIPPED BY THE WISE ONES TO BEAT DUNBAR

Watch Conkle in the coming games of the bonspiel.

The playing of the attenuated chap from Arlington, Wis., has attracted the attention of the rail birds, and some of the wisest last evening were tipping the Conkle rink off to defeat Dunbar. At least one of the interesting events of the bonspiel will be the meeting between Conkle and the St. Paul star.

So far Conkle has proved one of the cards of the meet. He is a comedian of rare vintage, and his following of his stone down the ice has been one of the distinct hits of the big show. In addition to the playing of Conkle, which has been high class in every game he has participated in to date, he has a very classy rink.

One might notice that the Wisconsin clubs are represented by some very classy curlers. Reedal is strong and now comes Conkle with one of the best rinks entered in the spiel, according to the wise dope.

Wait until Conkle and Dunbar meet. That's what a lot of the lovers of the game are waiting for, and the meeting promises to be one of the best of the spiel.

BETTER AT PREACHING THAN AT CURLING.

Rev. Knowles of Superior is a better preacher than he is a curler, it is said. At the time this sketch was drawn he was watching "Bob" Dunbar of St. Paul play the game. "Bob" certainly did make Mr. Knowles take an active interest in life for a few minutes. The "Rev." is not such a slow curler himself but after seeing Dunbar play he was moved to ejaculate: "Well, that beat's me." There are a good many redeeming features about Mr. Knowles even though he does live in Superior, but is is against the policy of The Clarion to state just what anyone's redeeming features are: Let it be said that Mr. Knowles is a better curler than some of his fellow townsmen, so he must be some preacher.

The Daddy of Them All.

"Bill" Hall is the father of Curling. He is to curling what Mr. Chadwick is to baseball. He lives down Mapelton way and each year he comes to Duluth to attend the bonspiel. He is going to play with a St. Paul rink. Down at Mapleton they played the roarin' game years and years ago. It was at Mapleton that the first curling club in Minnesota was organized and it is said that Mr. Hall was a charter member of the organization. He has got a lot of good curl in him yet and whatever position you put him at he makes good. He is as full of energy as a man half his age and the way he handles a broom would put to shame a great number of younger men. "We were glad to have you, 'Bill.' Don't forget to be around next year."

JUST A SHORT PRIVATE TALK WITH READERS OF THE CLARION.

To those who thought The Clarion had suspended we will state that there is the proverbial second guess coming. Just look at this special bonspiel edition.

No, we didn't suspend. We didn't have to. Now will "Old Subscriber" lay away from the peeved feeling, put his foot up on the stove, get on both pairs of glasses and read on.

We think, however, some explanation is due "our readers." We skipped one day. That was partially because the editor was too busy helping them run the bonspiel.

But since "Hank Weever" sent in his subscription we are able to hire an assistant and go on with the good work.

Aside from all other reasons the editor of this sheet wants it understood that he can take a day off whenever he feels like it. Fishing time is coming and we want to protect ourselves at all times.

The Clarion is the rag that will be on the job throughout the rest of the 'spiel. Don't forget that.

"Come Again, Tom."

And this is Tom Cameron of St. Paul, also a "vet." There is something the matter with Tom when he can't sneak in and lay shot in almost any head. You can't guard up so that Tom can't nestle up to the shot stone and lay on the button so well guarded that the would take a shot by himself to win the game for the other side. Tom has been curling these many years. It is good to have the old timers show us something about the game and we are mighty glad you are here, Tom. Come again and again.

In Memoriam.

(By Tom Cameron of St. Paul.)

These were all good curlers bold,
Whose presence brought good cheer,
Whose voices rang out with a joyous shout,
As each stone to the tee drew near.

But they heard the call of the master skip,
The call that comes too soon,
And they've each drawn in to their lang, lang hame,
For they seldom missed the broom.

Some we'll find near the outer ring,
And some will rest near the tee,
But we'll ken them a' as brithers ken,
And we'll hold a jubilee.

WE ARE CERTAINLY LOOKING FORWARD TO THE BIG FEED.

The big banquet takes place tonight at 6:15 at the Spalding hotel.

Don't forget it. To miss it might prove to be the only regret of your life. Don't give yourself a chance to regret.

There will be room for all and the feed will be a good one. Leaving the fodder out of it altogether, there will be enough amusement to keep everybody in a happy frame of mood.

There will be songs, recitations and other vaudeville attractions. Some surprises are sure to be sprung as the officers are not giving out the list of speakers and singers.

It is pretty safe to say, however, that if "Jimmy" Myron, "Dub" Tresise and M. F. Jamar escape murdering something they will have to leave mighty early.

GET HEP TO THAT JOKE ON BERT HALSTEAD OF ST. PAUL

Will some one please ask Bert Halstead, the midget third for Bob Dunbar of St. Paul, what he did with the final stone in his last game at the Twin Cities? This is already a famous joke. If you don't know the story you won't get it. The key is on the editor's desk. Anyway, a reporter figured in it.

Just a little more about the diminutive third. He is manager of the Aberdeen hotel and he is some curler. When he lets a stone go on a hack shot, it looks as though it would break through the end of the rink and land in the street.

In 1896 he came to Duluth with a "kid" rink from Winnipeg. He didn't win anything, but that is no doubt because he was not as good a curler those days as he is now.

He says that nothing will ever again keep him away from a Duluth 'spiel.

WILL STAND FOR THIS ONLY DURING THE BONSPIEL

Here is one that was slipped over on the editor of the Clarion. The tune is that of an old Scotch song. The man that turned it in says it is awfully funny, but he says that none but curlers will understand it. It will be sung at the banquet tonight, behind a wire netting to protect the singer from dishes.

Here's the gag:
"My name is Doctor Fullerton,
"I'm a man of Education;
"I mind my business, stay at home
"And always spake the truth;
"I met a bunch the other day
"That was racing for the station
"They were loaded down with curling stones
"For the bonspiel at Duluth.
"There were Billie Stewart and Bruno,
"Alex Lawson and Barlow,
"The pick of the Nushka Curling club,
"That was all they could get to go."
That's an awful thing to print.

"King Bob."

To "Bob" Dunbar you have to give the plum. He is the greatest curler of them all.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

COLDER

Snow flurries early today were a forecast of what the weather man said may be expected by Thursday morning. Snow is predicted for late today, after which it will be much colder. From zero to 10 deg. below may be expected in Duluth and vicinity. The wind was raw and the atmosphere seemed to be damp.

A year ago today it was clear and cold. The sun got up this morning at 7:48 o'clock and will set this afternoon at 4:50 o'clock.

Discussing the weather, Forecaster Richardson says:

"Low pressure areas overlying Manitoba and the Oregon-Washington coast caused snow or rain over the Mississippi and lower Ohio valleys, Middle Atlantic states, Oklahoma, Texas, Oregon and Washington during the last twenty-four hours, besides milder weather over most of the West and Northwest. A high pressure area that has developed over Alberta is causing a turn to colder in that section, which condition will doubtless affect the Head of the Lakes tonight and Thursday, with probably zero temperature again by Thursday morning."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Upper Michigan—Snow tonight or Thursday; slightly warmer tonight in east portion.

Wisconsin—Unsettled weather with light snow tonight or Thursday; warmer tonight; colder Thursday.

Minnesota—Generally fair in west, snow flurries in east portion tonight or Thursday; colder Thursday and in north and west portions tonight.

Iowa—Cloudy weather with probably snow flurries in east portion tonight or Thursday; warmer in east and colder in northwest portions tonight; colder Thursday.

North Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; colder tonight; cold wave tonight in east portion.

South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Thursday, much colder tonight.

Montana—Unsettled weather with rain or snow in west portion tonight or Thursday.

Shippers forecast: Protect 36-hour shipments of perishables against zero temperature in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Western Wisconsin, and zero to 10 deg. above in Eastern Wisconsin and the Michigan Copper Country.

culture, mechanics and domestic science that will fit the pupils who attend the public schools for their life's work.

Dr. Stone's bill provides that only districts whose total assessed valuation exceeds $100,000, and which contain more than forty resident pupils, may avail themselves of its privileges. Each such school is to be managed by a board of three members, one to be the county superintendent and the other two to be elected for four-year terms. The board is to provide proper transportation for the pupils. Before the proposed state aid is provided the district must furnish a site of at least ten acres, properly equipped with school house, residence for the principal, barns, sheds, stock, tools, etc., suitable for an agricultural experiment station—for one interesting feature of the measure is that it provides that each such school shall be a school in winter and a state experiment farm in summer. The principal must be a qualified expert in agriculture and industrial work and must be paid at least $2,000 a year in four-department schools, $1,800 in three-department schools and the same in two-department schools.

The state is to loan to the districts half the cost of buildings and equipment, which is to be paid back through a tax to be levied by the county auditor to provide interest and sinking funds. In addition the state is to give $3,000 annually to four-department school, $2,700 to three-department schools and $2,200 to two-department schools.

Arguments in Its Favor.

The details of the plan are carefully worked out in the bill. In support of it Dr. Stone has prepared a statement in which he outlines the arguments against the old-fashioned school and in favor of his plan. In part it follows:

"What in your judgment constitutes an education? Is it a practical training that fits the boy and girl for the position they must occupy for the duties and obligations they must meet? A training that leads up to life rather than one that leads up to the high school or university?

"For the great mass of humanity this training must be agricultural, industrial and found if at all in the rural grade schools and public schools. For the great number of our future citizenship these will be the only schools attended. Here the high school and university course ends.

"I am preparing a table of figures I am certain will convince any taxpayer that we have been and are now giving in attention, buildings and money beyond all right, reason and justice to the top of our educational system while comparatively neglecting the common schools which are the foundation of civic life, for in them are found 500,000 students, while but 5,000 are in the university. Yet this latter institution cost the state last year nearly $1,000,000; while the state has 3,000 common schools receiving no state aid; 300, where attendance is less than ten pupils; 2,000, with less than twenty pupils.

"We hear much of the threatening drift of population to the city. The great causes of this constantly increasing movement to the city are an unlawful, unjust discriminating railroad tariff and an equally unlawful, unjust, discrimination in educational opportunities and advantages furnished the city child as compared with their country brothers.

"The laboring man must live where exists the demand for his labor. This demand, this location, depends entirely upon the power and inclination of the railroads as to what sections may and may not develop.

"The parent desires to educate the child. As a people, in theory at least, we believe in equal opportunities; that the country child is entitled to equal educational advantages with his city cousin, at least so far as furnished by the state. They are his by right and it is our duty to provide them for him.

"The weaknesses of the average country school are inherent in the system and the system must be changed.

"The remedy is the consolidation of small, weak, badly supplied, poorly taught rural schools into properly taught, well equipped, central graded schools with a course of study bearing on the life of the community they are designed to serve.

"The consolidated graded rural industrial schools will do even more for rural education than farm machinery has done for the industrial situation.

"School taxes are the most profitable investment of public moneys made, elevating the body politic by educating the citizenship.

"Cost is not measured by the dollars and cents spent but by what is obtained in return for the money.

"The education of our children is worth the money paid for it. Modern advantages amid rural surroundings is the ideal home for a child. A wider diffusion of knowledge because of the greater opportunities for receiving it and the larger number making use of these opportunities. Carry the schools to the farm and not the farm to the schools. Educate the children to love the farm by making it lovable, by giving them modern methods and modern means, by teaching them that as a life profession it may be made second to no other profession.

Temperance Committee.

The house committee on temperance yesterday afternoon considered two bills by Representative F. S. Converse of Detroit, one prohibiting county boards from issuing liquor licenses, and the other empowering train officials to arrest intoxicated persons and to keep them off trains. Both bills were laid over temporarily for minor amendments, and will be considered again later.

Speaker Dunn has gracefully escaped the fight between John T. Jones of Minneapolis and W. J. Brown of Warren for the office of speaker's clerk. Seeing no possibility of a harmonious settlement of the dispute, he has appointed as his clerk T. J. Knatvold of Albert Lea, a former state senator and former national bank examiner.

The senate railroad committee will take up the Cashman distance tariff bill Thursday evening, when Senator Cashman will present his plea for the measure. Railroad officials and representatives of Twin City commercial interests are expected to be present to oppose the bill, but it will be necessary, in all probability, to have several hearings before the arguments are all in.

The organizations of railroad employes of the state all have representatives attending the session to look out for their interests, and two of the four stationed here for the winter are from Two Harbors, D. J. Hayes representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and R. E. Jones representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers.

The women's organizations of the state are up in arms against the bill offered by Senator Denegre of St. Paul authorizing husband and wife to transfer her or his property without the other's joining in the deed. The suffragists have adopted resolutions condemning the bill as reactionary, as destroying the community of interests essential to the best preservation of the marriage relation, as likely to work a hardship on married women because while it works both ways few women own property in their own right, and as withdrawing the present legal safeguards of women with profligate or irresponsible husbands.

SALOONS MUST OBEY THE LAW

Recent Indian Closing Order Expected to Have Salutory Effect.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Much as many condemn the saloon closing order of Special Agent Johnson in the Indian country that has been knocked out by the federal court, many in this section believe it will have a salutory effect in the long run in bringing about a stricter enforcement of all laws dealing with the saloons.

An official from East Grand Forks while here stated that the present administration intends to inaugurate a strict policy in handling the saloons, as the saloon keepers who showed a tendency to evade the law will find it absolutely impossible to get licenses again, and will have their present licenses revoked if they show a tendency to get too strong, which in times past they did with impunity.

Bemidji Saloon Men Warned.

Sheriff Hazen of Beltrami county, while in the city yesterday, stated that in Bemidji the policy which had been maintained since the recent trouble assumed pronounced proportions, will be maintained in the future, and that all places will have to conform strictly to the law, or the licenses will be revoked. He also said that some of the saloon keepers would never again be granted licenses there, so strong was the public sentiment against unrestricted saloons.

Mayor McKinnon has given the local saloon keepers warning that any tendency toward law violating regarding closing hours, keeping open on Sundays, selling to minors, selling to habitual drunkards, or selling to men who neglected their families will mean denial of licenses in the future and revocation of the present licenses. The same sentiment is expressed by residents of other places in this section.

PURSE SNATCHER ESCAPES WITH $23.

An unknown man snatched a chain purse from Miss Ethel Pierce of 311 Eleventh avenue east, about 7:30 o'clock last evening as she was returning to her home from a trip to the downtown section. He sneaked up behind her near Tenth avenue east and Third street and grabbed the purse from her hand. It contained about $23. The thief darted down the nearest alley and was soon out of sight in the darkness. The police were notified and immediately started an investigation. It is thought that there is small chance of apprehending the purse snatcher.

Mushroom Corns

Most Painful of All Foot Ailments—How to Cure Them.

The Mushroom corn is so called from its pitted cone top, resembling a tiny mushroom. It burrows deep into the toe and gets more inflamed than other corns. For the quick relief and cure of these and all corns and callouses the following is the most effective remedy known to science. Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of hot water. Soak and massage the feet in this for fifteen minutes. All soreness instantly disappears and the corn or callous can easily be peeled off. It may be necessary to repeat this for a number of nights for a complete cure, but if adhered to it will surely succeed. A little olive oil rubbed on the part is very beneficial. This Calocide is a very remarkable preparation for all foot ailments and is no longer confined to doctors' use, any druggist has it in stock or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent package is usually sufficient to put the worst feet in fine condition. Bad smelling feet and tender feet need only a few treatments; likewise with frost bites and chilblains. This item will be welcomed by persons who have tried ineffectual powders and tablets.

S.S.S.

CURES RHEUMATISM

There is no subject about which we can talk with more confidence than that of curing RHEUMATISM with S. S. S. Forty years is a long time, and when a remedy consistently performs any work for such a lengthy period there can be no doubt about its value. This is the record of S. S. S. in the treatment of Rheumatism. For nearly a half century it has been curing sufferers of this disease, and has more living witnesses as to its curative virtues than any other remedy. Each day's mail brings letters from men and women who have been afflicted with this trouble, telling us that S. S. S. has cured them, and they are once more free from its aches and pains.

Rheumatism is a blood disease, due to an excess of uric acid in the circulation. Its primary cause results from weak kidneys, constipation, indigestion, etc. In other words the eliminative members do not carry off all the urea and refuse matters of the body, and these impurities being left in the system soon sour and ferment, causing uric acid, which passes from the stomach and intestines into the blood.

When the uric acid gets into the circulation it causes a partial fermentation of the blood, which changes it from a thick, rich fluid to a thin, acrid stream, whose nourishing properties are greatly impaired. Through the circulation the uric acid is carried to every muscle, joint and nerve of the body, and then the pains and aches of Rheumatism commence. The longer the blood is allowed to remain in this acrid, weakened condition the more severe will the disease become; gradually the muscles harden and lose their elasticity, the joints begin to stiffen, and frequently calculous deposits collect and form lumps and knots at the finger joints.

HIS RHEUMATISM CURED.

I had a severe attack of Rheumatism from which I was unable to leave my room for several months. I was treated by two doctors and also tried different kinds of liniment and medicines which seemed to relieve me from pain for awhile, but at the same time I was not any nearer getting well. One day while reading a paper I saw an advertisement of S. S. S. for Rheumatism. I decided to give it a trial, which I did at once. After I had taken several bottles I felt a great deal better, and I continued to take it regularly until I was entirely cured. I now feel better than I have for years, and I do cheerfully recommend S. S. S. to any one suffering from Rheumatism.

The pains of Rheumatism can sometimes be temporarily relieved by the application of plasters, liniments, hot cloths, etc., but such treatment can have no possible curative effect on the disease because it does not reach the blood where the real trouble is being harbored.

There is just one way to CURE Rheumatism, and that is to cleanse the blood of the uric acid poison. S. S. S. goes down into the blood, and attacks the disease at its head, and by removing every particle of the cause and PURIFYING the circulation cures Rheumatism permanently. S. S. S. eliminates the uric acid because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It filters out every trace of the sour, inflammatory matter, cools the acid-heated blood, furnishes the material for multiplying the rich, nutritious corpuscles of the circulation, and by its fine tonic effects assists the system in rapidly overcoming every effect of the disease. S. S. S. contains no minerals but is made entirely of botanical roots, herbs and barks. It may be taken, therefore, by any one without fear of the bad effects that so often follow the use of medicines containing mineral salts. It has cured thousands of cases of Rheumatism and it will cure you. Special book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.

WOMAN'S REALM.

Duluth people ought to be healthy. That is, if there is anything in the "fresh air" talk so frequently heard. Bridge is almost a thing of the past here, and who wants to have teas and receptions when they can slide down hill?

Society seems to have gone crazy about tobogganing, skiing and snowshoeing. You can go up to the ski club any day or evening and the slides there will be black with people coasting. You go out in the woods on Saturdays or Sundays and you will meet hundreds of people on skis or snowshoes, taking the many pretty tramps offered by the hills and woods. The trail from Woodland to Lakeside ending at the car line is perhaps the most favored one.

The ski club has built a ski slide with a smaller jump for amateurs, and quite a number of young Americans have become proficient in taking the jump. The club has in view for later in the season an amateur tournament for Americans only, when prizes will be awarded for all the events.

On Tuesday evening of next week the club will have an "open night" when all of the privileges of the club will be free to anyone who cares to use them and the hill and the slides will probably be worn much smoother than they now are.

Did you ever go down that toboggan slide? You climb the hill with great enthusiasm, and laugh gleefully at the people who are on their way down, you see them fly up in the air for a ways and come down with a bump and you climb all the faster. But when you get to the top and look over, it takes all your nerve not to be a "quitter," but you smile and think of mother and then the toboggan tips off the spring board and you quit thinking at all. It seems an eternity until you get to the bottom, but when you do and the toboggan leaves the slide and goes sailing through the air you look as trimuphant as though you had planned the whole thing, and then comes the bump, and the first thing you know you are on your way up to the top again just as fast as you can go, to be sure not to lose any time. They say if you turn your head sideways when you go down you won't lose your breath so much and then you are not nearly so liable to bump your nose on "anyone's" head. Of course, if you sit in front you can't bump your nose, but—anyway the sport is growing in favor all the time and the club will soon have to build more slides.

To see a plump, middle-aged matron and the dignified father of a family take the slide is a sight to be remembered. Literally hundreds of Duluthians seem to be in their second childhood and are again living the days when they used to "slide down hill."

Claims to be the Daughter Of the Late "Lucky" Baldwin

BEATRICE ANITA BALDWIN.

This is Anita Baldwin, whom her mother calls "Miss Lucky" after her father. "Miss Lucky" is the product of one of the many adventures of the late E. J. Baldwin of California. Mr. Baldwin knew there would be claims on his estate made by women of his acquaintance and he formally repudiated them in his will. But the mother of "Miss Lucky," who lives in Massachusetts, went out to Los Angeles and contested the will, claiming that Baldwin, when she was a young girl, had gone through the ceremony of marriage with her. The case is still on in the Los Angeles courts.

THE EVENING STORY

THE FRAUD

By G. H. Elliott.

Gilbert Guyon was a disappointed author—not by any means uncommon—but his streak of originality lay in the fact that he was disappointed in spite of having achieved a fair measure of success. He owed this success to a poem called "Sylvia," which appeared above his name in one of the most popular places and was afterward copied, commented upon and eulogized in every influential paper. There was no doubt of its success. It was a brilliant piece of writing, and all agreed that the man who could write like that should go far on the road to fame.

But, strange to say, Guyon did not go far. On the strength of Sylvia" his work was accepted everywhere, but none of it ever attained the height of his initial effort. It was undoubtedly clever, but the public had been led to expect so much, and all his later work lacked that divine spark of genius which illumines the lines of "Sylvia." It was as though the man had put all his soul into the one effort, and had only the dregs of cynicism left. The steady stream of adverse criticism which set in against his work did not tend to improve its quality. The MSS, which publishers begged for after the publication of "Sylvia" now began to return to him with a regularity which became monotonous. Yet he was still famous in a way. Everywhere he appeared he could hear the words "author of 'Sylvia'" spoken of in tones of admiration.

As time went on and failure piled on failure, even this notoriety palled upon him. He began to hate 'Sylvia" and wish it had never been written. In vain he endeavored to escape from it. He was branded. The author of one success. And now he was dying. Had it not been for the small income which his wife earned by song writing—pot boilers as Guyon called them—he would have been dying in poverty. She was a frail little thing who idolized him. It was this semi-idolatry which had made him marry her, for he was incapable of any affection except for his work. This was his life. And dying, he realized that his life, in spite of "Sylvia," was a failure.

His wife, poor woman, tended him day and night, bore all his peevish snubs with wonderous patience, and still found time "to keep the pot a-boiling" with her own small literary efforts.

They occupied two small attic rooms, poorly furnished, but they were as clean as a new pin in every detail. It was nearly 8 o'clock in the evening, and Maisie had been interrupted with her work by the postman, who delivered three foolscap envelopes containing rejected manuscripts with the editor's regrets, and a fourth letter, in a much smaller envelope, which she placed unopened underneath a song MSS, at her elbow. She sat and thought once again about her plans for the future after her husband was— What a cruel thought to the outsider! But it was quite a just one.

There in the next room lay her disappointed husband on his death-bed. The doctors had told her that he would never rise again, and she believed them. The blow, although anticipated, would be a sad one, but she was a woman with a will and a heart. If she had not been faithful Gilbert would have been left to himself long ago, for she had a most passionate suitor whom she refused to see, but who persisted with his entreaties. At such times as these, when all the world seemed against her, she thought of this early lover, a man who at one time had implored her not to marry Gilbert, and who had since in his mad passion asked her to leave her husband.

"I once loved De Berts," she remarked to herself, as she took the letter from underneath the papers. It was from him—she knew his handwriting too well. "He has asked me to share his success, now that my work has brought him fame, and I guess this letter is another invitation to leave my husband behind."

But she was mistaken. She read and reread the letter she had just opened. It read:

"My Dear Maisie—You remember the day I arrived in London from Berlin, and you and I met at the music publishers for the second time? I thought of our early days at Trouville, when you were so pretty and vivacious. It was flirtation on your part, but not on mine. I loved you madly, and you almost broke my heart when you told me you were betrothed to another. Then you left and married the man I warned you against. My hopes had gone until I met you in London. Poor little woman. You were troubled, the vivacity had gone, and you were left a serious-looking woman, but, nevertheless, very beautiful to me. You promised to write songs for me, and you did. They brought me success, and it was then I schemed to allure you from your husband's side. Thank heaven you had the strength of will to resist and remain faithful. What a heart you must have. You have wrought a complete change on my life. Forgive me, I implore you, for harboring such designs upon your fair character. Time will change all things. Perhaps when Gilbert has gone you will come to me and brighten my life. We both know he cannot live long. Afterwards I will claim—"

Maisie burst into tears, the letter slipped from her hands into her lap, and she sat with her head resting on her hands.

An impatient rapping on the floor brought her to her senses, and she rushed into the next room to the bedside of her husband. The hectic flush on his cheeks was rivaled by the one on hers. Her eyes were hollow and sunken by the incessant strain of combining day and night the duties of a sick nurse with those of a literary hack.

Gilbert gazed at her with a feeling of dissatisfaction. "What are you doing now?" he queried.

"Writing, Gilbert," she replied. "I have an order from De Berts for a serio-comic song, and I must get it away today."

"That low-down brute!" said Gilbert. "I thought you had stopped writing trash for him."

"He pays so well, dear," said Maisie apologetically. "We can't afford to—"

"Oh, yes, I know," interrupted the sick man, raising himself with difficulty. "No need to throw that in my face. Give me something to drink, please."

Silently and swiftly she prepared the cooling draught but just as he was about to take it a paroxysm of coughing seized him. Setting down the glass she held him in her arms and tried to steady his shaking frame. Suddenly he gave a choking sob and fell forward from her grasp.

The dreadful thing had happened. A blood vessel had burst. The doctor had warned them and this would be the end, and both realized that death had placed hands upon his prisoner.

"Good-bye, Maisie," whispered the man, as she gently laid him down. "Good-bye, dear. Kiss me."

Tenderly she bent over him and laid her lips upon his. No tears, no hysterics—the time for tears was to come, these last flying moments were all her life.

Placing his hand upon her head, he kept her face by his, and whispered in her ear:

"Sorry! Don't grieve much. I've been a failure all along—wanted to tell you before—hadn't the courage—'Sylvia' was not my writing—I stole it."

"Hush, dear, hush!" She tried to soothe him, but he went on.

"Yes, stole it, and it's been my curse. 'Sylvia' appeared first under the title of 'Glory' in a magazine which failed under its first number. I renamed it and put my own name to it. No one ever claimed it."

"Yes, dear, yes. I know, Gilbert. I've known it all along."

"You—you knew?"

"Yes, dear, yes. I know, Gilbert, Years ago, before I met you."

The man looked long and wonderingly into her loving eyes. Slowly comprehension dawned on his failing senses, he patted her hand once or twice, then sighed and turned his face towards the wall, and so he passed away.

Eighteen months later Maisie and De Berts stood in a graveyard before a humble tombstone which bore the words:

"Guyon Gilbert, aged 36. Author of 'Sylvia.'" etc.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

The Care of Marble.

To remove iron mold from marble rub the marble with a cut lemon dipped in common salt. If this does not remove the stain try rubbing it with spirits of ammonia, which is often successful when other treatments fail. In either case it is well to afterwards rinse the spot and polish it with a soft cloth.

To Stop Leaks.

Sealing-wax is usefully employed to mend household articles which leak. Anything, indeed, except pots and pans, or things which are exposed to fire heat. An enamel basin, for instance, may have a hole filled with sealing wax and be in daily use for long afterwards. Chinaware and zinc articles may be successfully treated in the same way. The articles to be repaired ought to be well heated and the wax must be melted.

TO EXCLUDE THE WOMEN

Will Not Be Allowed to Attend Schenk Trial in Future.

Physicians Continue Testimony on the Hypothetical Question.

Wheeling, W. V., Jan. 18.—Following its successful attempt yesterday to show that poison was obtained by the accused, the prosecution in the trial of Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk, charged with administering poison to her husband, caused an air of expectancy when the trial was resumed this morning by the intimation that still another physician would be put on the stand to testify that he had supplied Mrs. Schenk with sugar of lead.

It was asserted by counsel for the prosecution that the source of all the poison alleged to have been administered by Mrs. Schenk will be disclosed before the day is over and the "mystery" cleared up. With the presentation of this portion of the state's case and a little further technical testimony, Prosecuting Attorney J. B. Handlan will have completed his case and it is expected that the prosecution will rest late this afternoon.

There was a chorus of sighs when during a short recess Judge Jordan announced that "for the sake of the morals of the community all women would be excluded from the court room in the future." Then Dr. J. T. Thornton was called and like the others answered the hypothetical question by saying that Schenk suffered from lead poisoning later complicated with arsenical poisoning.

Several women asked Prosecutor Handlan why they were excluded from the court room. He referred them to Judge Jordan and then hurried away. The judge also was in a hurry when the women tried to interview him.

When Prosecutor Handlan called Dr. J. W. Meyers, a prominent South side physician, yesterday afternoon, Meyers declared that Mrs. Schenk had secured from him about an ounce of sugar of lead, one of the poisons alleged to have been given to Schenk, and that she had tried hard to get about two ounces of Fowler's solution of arsenic. Upon being refused, he said Mrs. Schenk finally declared that she had bought the other poison from another physician whose name she refused to give.

The sensation produced when Dr. Meyers claimed that he had given the woman the sugar of lead came upon the top of another, when Lundy Wilson, the chauffeur employed by the Schenks, testified concerning Mrs. Schenk and Daniel S. Phillips, who on the stand last Friday admitted taking long automobile trips with the accused. Wilson declared that Mrs. Schenk admitted improper relations with Phillips to him, giving several instances to corroborate this statement.

Dr. Meyers testified that on the night Mrs. Schenk was to have secured the poison she attempted to buy Fowler's solution of arsenic from him and the chauffeur told on the stand of having driven Mrs. Schenk in her car to a point near the Meyers residence on that evening and that Mrs. Schenk had gotten out and walked the balance of the distance.

DISCUSS EVILS OF IMMIGRATION LAWS

Council of American Hebrew Congregations Held in New York.

New York, Jan. 18.—A discussion of evils in the enforcement of laws governing the admittance of European Jews into the United States and suggestions for the amelioration of these conditions, formed the program of the morning session here today of the council of American Hebrew congregations.

A lengthy address, summarizing prevailing conditions in the enforcement of the immigration laws criticizing immigration inspectors for "seeking now almost to a man—merely to reach the results which their superior requires," and urging elimination of abuses was delivered by Max J. Kohler.

Ex-President Roosevelt, Mayor Gaynor, Oscar S. Straus, the Rev. Dr. David Phillipson of Cincinnati and Judge Josiah Cohen of Pittsburg, are on the program for speeches at a banquet to be held at the Hotel Astor tonight.

ISLE OF PINES.

Is it not true that every man is looking forward to the day when he can be independent?

Every man is working, some one way, some another, to attain that enviable position in life.

Is it only a question of which is the easiest and quickest way to reach the goal.

Right here in Duluth you see men on every side of you struggling along trying to make ends meet, and it's dollars to unpaid bills that the ends never will meet with their present methods.

Why not investigate some other method of reaching the desired position?

A ten-acre grove of grape-fruit, or oranges, or lemons, or one or two acres of pine apples on the Isle of Pines will make you absolutely independent. This is no guess. It is an undisputed fact. Others are doing it, so can you. Nearly every grower on the island owns an automobile, and he made it off his grove. We can't go into particulars here, but we can in our office. We have facts, figures and testimonials to show that will convince the most skeptic. You owe it to yourself to see us anyway.

The postponement was due to the fact that one of the material witnesses for the defense is out of the city.

FAVORABLE TO THE STEENERSON BILL

Sub-Committee Will Report It But Its Future Is Doubtful.

Washington, Jan. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A sub-committee composed of Representatives Campbell of Kansas, Latta of Nebraska, and Hanna of North Dakota, as a sub-committee of the Indian affairs committee, today held a meeting and practically decided to report favorably to the full committee on the Steenerson bill, which provides for a re-enrollment of so-called mixed and full blood Indians in the White Earth reservation.

Commissioner Valentine will stand by the enrollment of some 4,000 of mixed bloods, but does not favor an entire reopening of the entire question.

It is learned today that should the sub-committee report favorably upon the Steenerson bill there would be to say at least considerable discussion in full committee and the chances are small that the Steenerson bill even should it be reported to the house would have but the merest ghost of a show to even go through the house, at this session to say nothing of running the gauntlet of the senate.

DULUTH'S PROXY TO MINNEAPOLIS

Minikahda Club Will Vote for Duluth at Golf Meeting.

The proxy of the Northland Golf club was this morning sent to Minikahda Club of Minneapolis, and the representatives of the Mill City club will use the vote of the Duluth club to the best advantage at the annual meeting of the Western Golf association, which is called for Chicago, Saturday evening.

Golf lovers in this part of the country will watch this meeting with interest, as there is a movement to change the name of the Western Golf association to that of the American Golf association, which would enlarge its territory and jurisdiction, expanding the association to embrace the golf clubs of Canada, the American possessions and South America.

Several prominent members of the local club interviewed today, stated that in their opinion there was no need for the expansion of the Western Golf association, as at the present time it covered enough territory and fulfilled amply the needs of the Western clubs.

The Northland club is a member of the Western Golf association, and naturally its members are interested in the prospective action of the meeting set for Saturday. The changing of the name of the Western association to that of the American Golf association, with the enlarging of its territory and jurisdiction powers, may mean a war with the United States Golf association, the body that has in the past reigned supreme in the Eastern territory of this country.

Local players believe that such a war should be avoided and pacific means adopted to prevent any misunderstanding. The meeting called for Saturday is attracting attention all over the country.

WILL HOLD ONLY ONE SKI TOURNAMENT THIS YEAR.

It has been decided that but one tournament will be held in this city the present season by the Duluth Ski club.

The date has been set for Feb. 12, and plans are already being made to make this the biggest ski tournament ever held in the Northwest, bigger in fact than the national set for Chippewa Falls, Wis., Jan. 28.

It was decided at the meeting of the directors of the club, held last night, that three professionals and three amateurs will be sent to Chippewa Falls to represent the club. The names of the jumpers who will be sent to the national, have not been made public as yet.

WILL PROBABLY ACCEPT.

Secretary-Elect Simpson of State Fair Will Soon Decide.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Assured that his election was unanimous, that he would have largely a free hand, and that the legislature positively would not reduce his salary, John Simpson, secretary of the Iowa state fair, who was yesterday elected to succeed C. WHEAT IS STATIONARY

Market Dull and Listless—May Marks Time While July Advances.

Damage Reports Sent From Kansas---Foreign Crops Are Improving.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 18.—Wheat closed unchanged today in a listless market. July gained ¾c while May was stationary. May was knocked down at the close, but there was no interest in July. Cash was 1c under May. Oats, rye and barley were unchanged. Durum gained ¼c.

Flaxseed was in demand again by crushers and values advanced until toward noon when offerings knocked prices down. There was no significance in the selling, as some of it came from people who had been trying to buy and who evidently were not disposed to put up values further. Duluth may closed ½c off at $2.70 asked.

Wheat was dull today and there was very little interest in the market. While the usual support was lacking, yet there was no pressure to values. So long as the bulls were content to stand pat the bears were afraid to sell the market short. Evidently the bulls are resting for their next attempt to put the market up and are inclined to wait for the development of factors in relation to the winter wheat crop, which will be of value to them.

Cables were higher as shorts got under cover. Foreign crop news was favorable and Plate and Russian offers were liberal. There was pressure to sell Plate offerings, which were quoted at a decline. Freezing weather continues in southwestern part of Russia, but no damage to the crop has been reported. Additional precipitation has occurred in India.

The cash demand was slow. In the Southwest the cash markets were dead. Mills were out of the market except to pick up occasional lots of high grade spring wheat. Primary receipts were small and the Northwestern movement continues exceedingly slim. The domestic situation seems moderately bullish although supplies are large and will be pressing if the winter wheat crop gets needed moisture in the spring.

Reports indicated ice covered fields in many parts of Missouri and along the Rock Island lines in Kansas. Despite the damage reports from the Southwest, farmers do not appear to be alarmed. It will be impossible to determine the extent of the winter killed area until spring.

From an advertisement of John Wanamaker's New York store in the New York Post:

"It is no longer the valley of the Nile that supplies the world's linen needs. As a matter of fact, the only linens that come from Egypt in these days are the "finds" of the Egyptologists—the mummy wrappings that prove how sturdy was that flax-weaving of 4,000 years ago.

"Today the flax harvest of the world waves in the wind on the plains of Russia, in the fields of Germany, France, Belgium and Ireland. Instead of Homer's picture of the mother of Nausicaa "spinning soft fleeces by the hearth, in the early dawn," we have now the busy spinning and weaving mills of Europe."

This is important, if true. We have always supposed, however, that a little flaxseed was raised elsewhere than in Germany, France, Belgium and Ireland. Flax specialists in this market have referred without charge to Mr. Wanamaker's advertisements for the latest flaxseed news.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Sleet Damage to Wheat Sends Prices in Upward Direction.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Sleet damage extending from Illinois to Kansas turned wheat prices today in an upward direction. In many places where the Illinois fields were covered with a heavy glaze of ice, a deep snow was reported to have fallen on top. Kansas City reported that the sleet would prove injurious in the extreme, having spread over the section where wheat looked the best. Because of the relatively slight response made by foreign markets yesterday, the advance in America yesterday, the market here showed an easy tone at the outset. Offers, however, were scarce, the bears being timid. Quotations opened the same as last night to ¼c below. May started at $1.01¼ to $1.01⅜, a loss of ⅛c to ¼c and then rose to $1.01¾.

Assertions that flour business was poor, caused a reaction at the close, which was easy with May at $1.01¼, a net loss of ¼c.

Argentine news regarding the corn outlook remained bad, but the effect here was nearly nullified by the fact that Liverpool prices kept almost stationary. May opened unchanged to ⅛c off at 50¼c to 50⅜c and advanced to 50⅝ to 50¾c.

Increased offerings from the country caused a decline. The close was easier with May ¼c net lower at 50¼c.

Oats though dull rallied with wheat and corn. May started a shade down at 34⅞c but sold later at 35 ¼c.

Provisions were slow with price changes of no great consequence. First sales ranged from a shade lower to 2½@5c up, with May options at $19.55 for pork, $10.10 for lard and $10.05@10.07½ for ribs.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Shows Stubborn Undertone With Prices Closing Trifle Lower.

Minneapolis, Jan. 18.—Although closing prices on wheat were a trifle lower than yesterday, the market showed a stubborn undertone. There was a difference of ¾c between the high and low of May. STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Canadian Pacific and United States Steel Decline at Opening.

Tone Became Stronger But Turned Heavy Near the Closing.

New York, Jan. 18.—The stock market opened active today but with an irregular tendency. Three thousand shares of United States Steel sold at 77¾@77⅝ as against 78⅛, yesterday's close. Canadian Pacific declined 2 and Reading showed some heaviness. Colorado Fuel advanced a point, St. Louis Southwestern preferred ¾ and Wabash preferred ⅝ point. Rock Island also was strong.

Early dealings in the stock market were very much confused, many of the important stocks fluctuating widely in either direction. Canadian Pacific made up half of its initial loss and there was a stronger tone generally after the opening, but free profit-taking and short selling depressed some of the favorites to the low point again. Union Pacific in the early dealings fluctuated from 176¾ to 177¼. Some of the specialties and low priced railroads were notably strong, American Smelting, National Lead, Laclede Gas, General Electric, Rock Island preferred and St. Louis Southwestern improving a point or more. Reading and United States Steel were under pressure while Norfolk & Western, the Eastern trunk lines and some of the Grangers were distinctly firm.

The irregularity of the morning session was probably due to professional selling of Reading, United States Steel and the gas stocks, on the theory that a further advance was unwarranted at this time. Norfolk & Western held firm in the face of a semi-official statement that rumors of an increase in the dividend rate was premature. The strength of American Smelting was ascribed to the favorable character of the favorable semi-annual report. The professionals apparently changed their tactics toward Reading near midday, rallying it from 156¼ to 157½. The general undertone, however, was rather heavy. Bonds were steady.

The market closed heavy. A further rise in the coal stocks stimulated buying elsewhere and the list moved up a fraction. Reading's rise reached 2 and Lehigh Valley touched 180, but they reacted a point later.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case, Alworth building.

Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 18.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 3@5 points on covering by recent sellers, buying of near months by spot houses, and some fresh support from bullish sources, which was undoubtedly influenced by the larger English spot sales and relatively firmer cables.

Private advices stated that Liverpool had responded to bullish trade reports and it was rumored that one of the leading English authorities had had issued a circular reiterating an American crop estimate of 11,600,000 bales, and again placing the probable consumption of 12,500,000 bales. The advance here met considerable opposition, selling being encouraged by reports that South Carolina mills had decided to curtail, but the market during the middle of the morning ruled some 8 to 12 points net higher.

Spot closed quiuet, 10 points higher. Middling uplands, 14.90; middling gulf, 15.15; sales, 300 bales. Futures closed firm; closing bids: January, 14.64; February, 14.69; March, 14.80; April, 14.89; May, 15.04; June, 15.02; July, 15.05; August, 14.73; October, 13.39; December, 13.25.

DULUTHIANS WHO ARE DOING "THINGS WORTH WHILE"

Capt. Fred Krause of the Salvation Army and His Efforts to Clothe Shivering Bodies.

CAPT. FRED KRAUSE.

Always a friend to those who are really in need, Capt. Fred Krause, manager of the industrial department of the Salvation Army, provides a sort of a "stepping stone" for Duluth's idle men, who are in search of work and is one of the Duluthians who are "doing things worth while."

His work is a practical one and one which requires considerable time and energy. The industrial department embraces the "Poor People's store" at 1606 West Superior street, and the industrial home at 1605 West Michigan street.

The store is not a second-hand shop, as it is sometimes considered by the public. It is maintained for the poorer classes and well stocked with clothes and household necessities, most of which are second-hand. All of the goods in the store have been solicited by the Army agents.

Poverty-stricken people come to the store and ask the price of the goods. The storekeeper has instructions from Capt. Krause to inquire into the domestic affairs of the callers so as to ascertain the circumstances that they are in. Prices are then made accordingly and in many instances the goods have been given away.

The industrial home at the rear of the store is a new feature inaugurated by Capt. Krause in Duluth. It gives employment to about a dozen men, who collect waste paper, old clothing, bedding, furniture, etc., for the Army. The men receive their board and room and a small remuneration. The aim is to give the men temporary employment and a chance to earn some money so that they can secure a better job.

In the capacity of manager a person capable of judging human nature is needed, and Capt. Krause meets every requirement in this respect. He has a splendid staff of co-workers.

Capt. Krause came here a few months ago from East St. Louis. He has been engaged in similar work about the country in the larger cities for the past ten years. He says that Duluth people have done splendidly in the matter of making contributions.

FARRELL'S SALARY FIXED AT $50,000

Former Presidents of Steel Corporation Received $100,000.

New York, Jan. 18. — Although Charles M. Schwab and William E. Corey as presidents of the United States Steel corporation received $100,000 a year, James A. Farrell, the new president, will receive but $50,000.

The finance committee of the corporation is empowered to fix salaries and it was learned yesterday that Mr. Farrell's salary has been placed at just one-half of what his predecessors received. He will not assume his duties until Feb. 1, after his election by the board of directors, Jan. 24.

YOU ARE ROBBED IF GAME IS CROOKED

Judge Says It's Larceny When You Have No Chance to Win.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 18.—When a man entices another to hazard money in games where the latter has no chance to win, larceny has been committed. Judge Jesse Edgington has so instructed a grand jury now in session here. "If one induces another to gamble at a crooked roulette wheel or in a poker game where marked cards are used or in a crap game where crooked dice are used," Judge Edgington says, or in shaking poker dice where crooked dice or electrical batteries are used, or if a man plays in a fair or crooked game with a man so intoxicated that he has no chance to win, the courts' instructions to the grand jury are to return indictments charging larceny and not gambling.

HAS LIVELY MEET.

Finnish Mutual Fire Insurance Company Elects Directors.

Hancock, Mich., Jan. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Calumet and the Finnish Mutual Fire Insurance companies have just held their annual meetings. The meeting of the last named company was the hottest on record, a fierce fight developing over the election of nine directors from a list of twenty-seven nominations. These were chosen: Andrew Johnson, Henry Kitti, Charles Heusa, John Waatti, Charles J. Tolonen, Dr. O. H. Sorsen, Jacob Uitti, I. W. Frimodig and Jacob Pesonen. Messrs. Frimodig and Pesonen are the new members of the board, defeating Messrs. Nissula and Jaskalainen, who were members of the retiring board. The other seven were re-elected.

Uitti and C. Heusa received the largest number of votes, consequently being elected for a three-year term, while John Waatti, Henry Kitti and O. H. Sorsen were elected for a two-year term, and A. Johnson, C. J. Tolonen and Jacob Pesonen will act on the board for one year. The directors meet this evening to organize.

The Calumet Mutual Fire Insurance company passed a resolution making the board of directors nine instead of twelve. The following comprise the members of the board, elected for terms of from three to one year: Three-year terms, John R. Ryan, Ole Olson and Frank S. Carlton; two-year terms, Joseph Vertin, Frank H. Schumaker and Joseph Asselin; one-year term, Joseph Hermann, Michael Jerling and George Hall. The members who retired from the board are Messrs. E. T. Daume, Herman Haas and Charles A. Anderson.

The newly-elected board will meet a week from Friday evening for the purpose of reorganizing.

TOWER CITY, N. D., WINS SCHOOL ANNEXATION CASE.

Tower City, N. D., Jan. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The residents of school district No. 94 won out in the school annexation case which has been before the courts since 1909. Tower City desired to enlarge its school district by annexing the rural district and under the new law circulated a petition among the residents, claiming that they had received the necessary two-thirds signers. The residents who objected to becoming a part of the city district took the matter to the courts and the district court decision was in favor of Tower City. It was appealed to the supreme court which ordered a new trial and in the course of a controversy a number withdrew their names from the petition.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANK AT MANITOWOC POPULAR.

Much Pneumonia in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 18.—Pneumonia, for the first fifteen days of January, broke all records so far this year, if not for last. There were forty-five deaths. This is one and a half a day and makes a death rate of three and a half to the thousand, while the health department tries to keep the rate down to eleven for all causes. Dr. Hall does not expect an immediate decrease, but says that by using proper precautions nine-tenths of the cases could be avoided.

Clark, S. D., Jan. 18.—The reports that appeared in several newspapers a few days ago as to the announcement of the candidacy of C. G. Mr. Sherwood himself is authority for the statement that he has not at any time announced himself as such candidate.

DULUTH MAN A SUICIDE

Wayne Hayden Kills Himself in Apartment House in Richmond.

Is Said to Have Been Contemplating a Blackmailing Plot.

Wayne Hayden, about 35 years old, well known in this city and at one time manager for B. J. Cook at the Eagle Clothing company, was found dead in bed in a fashionable apartment house at Richmond, Va., Monday. The room was filled with gas and the ject was wide open, leading the coroner, who investigated the case, to declare that Hayden committed suicide.

Hayden was employed in Duluth about three and one-half years and was a high class salesman. Mr. Cook stated when informed of Hayden's death today that he was one of the most efficient men he ever had in his employ. He left here a few years ago.

According to accounts received from Richmond, the police believe that he ended his life because he was under the impression the authorities had learned of a blackmailing plot which he had planned. It is stated that he had intended to use his wife, described as a beautiful young woman, as a decoy in a scheme which would have been a source of considerable revenue. Fear of arrest for having compelled a man, at the point of a revolver the day before, to insult Mrs. Hayden, is also asserted to have been partly a cause for his taking his own life.

Was a "Healer."

After leaving Duluth, Hayden graduated from a suggestive healing institute at Nevada, Mo., and was practicing at the time he is said to have committed suicide. One of the stories which has reached Duluth is as follows:

Dr. Wayne Hayden, aged 32, former traveling salesman of Albert Lea, Minn., and at one time head manager for B. J. Cook, a clothing merchant of Duluth, Minn., was found dead in bed Monday in a fashionable apartment house. The room was filled with gas, and, according to the verdict of the coroner, the man committed suicide.

Hayden graduated from a suggestive healing institute at Nevada, Mo., July, 1910. He married Miss Anna Sides of Sedan, Kan., whose mother he had treated while a student at the institute. He settled in Wichita, Kan., but on account of the drink habit left that place. He came East in December, accompanied by his wife and her mother, who has not been able to walk in eight years and has apparently been benefited but little by the treatment. Mrs. Sides came to join her aged mother in Maryland, while the young couple came on to Richmond.

Crazed with drink Sunday, it is alleged, Hayden held a revolver to the head of a man friend and made him grossly insult Mrs. Hayden. Fear of arrest for the act is believed to have been partly responsible for his suicide. Mrs. Hayden, who is barely 25 and very pretty, has no funds, but will not be allowed to want for anything until her relatives are heard from.

"Hayden came to Richmond three weeks ago. He claimed to be a psychologist of considerable note and discussed the subject with intelligence. The couple appeared well-to-do and were accepted in the homes of some of the best people of Richmond. The dead man was evidently a scholar.

"It was not disclosed until the body of Hayden was found in his room this morning that he has been planning what the police declare was a bold and unusual plot to extort money by using his wife as a decoy for blackmail. It is thought that the healer learned that his secret had been given out and thus took his life. The police refuse to state what the nature of the plot was, but say it would have been a source of great revenue had they not been posted by a well known citizen, who in some way learned the plans of the healer.

"When the wife of the suicide was called to his side yesterday she was deeply affected and apparently bore great love for the man. She admitted he had badly mistreated her and often threatened her life."

CANADIAN CANTEEN RAISES A PROTEST

One Established at Halifax Arouses Temperance People.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 18.—The recent establishment of the first canteen in the Canadian navy has called forth a storm of protest from the temperance element throughout the province. A few days ago a part of one of the naval buildings at the dock yard was furnished with the necessary "fittings" and the canteen service has opened its doors in welcome to the Dominion's sailors and marines. The new resort will be known as the "recreation quarters" until the Canadian people have become more accustomed to the proclivities of sailors on shore leave.

REAPPORTIONMENT IS STARTED UNDER MOST FAVORABLE AUSPICES

Joint Meeting of House and Senate Committees Harmonious.

Three Points Adopted as Basis in Preparing the Bill.

Senator Cashman Claims That Distance Tariff Would Help Duluth.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work on a reapportionment bill was started under most favorable auspices yesterday afternoon when several important guide lines were laid out at a joint meeting of the reapportionment committees of house and senate.

The meeting was thoroughly harmonious, and there was no indication of obstructive opposition.

Three points, agreed upon beforehand by Chairman Congdon of the house committee and Chairman Hackney of the senate committee, were adopted by the joint session.

The first is that in the bills that will be prepared the senate shall not consist of more than sixty-three members and the house of more than 126 members. This leaves the senate as it is constituted at present, and adds six members to the house, thereby providing two house members to each senator. This is a maximum, and it does not necessarily follow that the bills proposed by the committee will provide for so many; but the probabilities are that they will.

The second suggestion approved by

FIRES DRIVE 1,000 INTO THE COLD

Conflagrations on East Side of New York Cause $150,000 Damage.

New York, Jan. 19.—Fires on the lower East side today caused damage of $150,000 and drove 1,000 persons out of their homes.

The greatest damage was caused by a blaze which burned out a six-story factory building on Elizabeth street. The loss here was approximately $100,000. The building is next door to the Elizabeth street police station and the prisoners were removed from the jail cells and placed in other stations for safe keeping. Tenement dwellers for some distance around were routed out.

Chinatown witnessed an exciting blaze a little later, when a five-story loft building was gutted. Three hundred and fifty lodgers in a hotel next door rushed to the streets half clad.

HEAVY DOWNPOUR.

Rain Has Been Falling for Thirty-Two Hours in Willamette Valley.

Portland, Or., Jan. 19.—A rain of almost unprecedented severity that already has lasted thirty-two hours, prevails over the Willamette valley and is doing immense damage. Reports have come of flooded railroad tracks. The streams tributary to the Willamette are threatening several towns and settlements. Precipitation at Portland since the storm began has been four inches.

The Santiam and Calapoose rivers have overflowed and the lowlands are flooded. The Albany Lebanon canyon has overflowed. Streets in Albany are under water and the water has put out the furnace fires at Albany college.

A mile north of Albany fifty feet of Southern Pacific track has been washed out.

Counsel Makes Argument Against Increased Freight Rates.

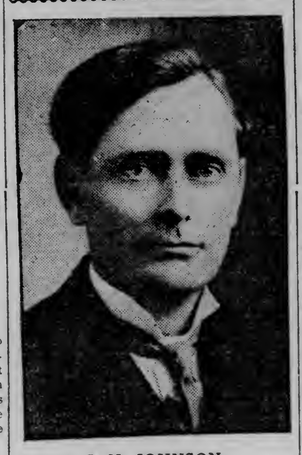

Washington, Jan. 19.—"No controversy ever existed before when the stake between opposing parties was so huge as this one, measured by the cold standard of dollars and cents."

Clifford Thorne, counsel for the Meat Producers' Association of the Middle West, today thus characterized the inquiry before the interstate commerce commission into the proposed advance of freight rates.

"Shippers and consumers want to see the railroad companies grow and prosper," he declared. "We are willing

BILL MIGHT CAUSE SPLIT

Senator Works Would Cut Down Representation of Large Cities.

Aims to Give Only Half Ratio Enjoyed in the Country.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator S. D. Works of Mankato this morning introduced in the senate a bill proposing a Constitutional amendment that will provide that the inhabitants of cities of more than 100,000 shall have only half the ratio of representation enoyed by residents in the country. This is suspected to be a move against reapportionment, with a view to causing a split between

HUMILIATED GIRL DIES FROM FIRE

Imprisoned for Stealing, Two Girls Set Fire to Clothes.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—Death resulted today from the fire started last night by two girls imprisoned in the Lemont, Ill., jail in an attempt to commit suicide because of the humiliation their arrest had brought to them. Miss Stella Maxwell, 22 years old, the elder, died today in the hospital at Joliet, where they were taken when rescued by firemen.

The other girl, Freda Kampka, who formerly was a singer in small theaters in Joliet, where both girls lived, was not expected to live through the day.

They had been arrested on charges of stealing furs at Lemont, where they had gone from Joliet to attend a dance. The furs were recovered.

BONILLA'S "NAVY" CLOSELY WATCHED

American Gunboats Will Allow No Bombardment at Present.

Washington, Jan. 19.—Until the attorney general completes the investigation, which he is conducting into the question as to whether or not the Hornet, the "navy" of Gen. Bonilla's revolutionary forces in Honduras, violated the neutrality of the United States, the vessel will not be permitted by this government to commit any definite act such as the bombardment of a port.

This was learned at the state department today. Every movement of the Hornet is being watched by the United States gunboats Marietta and Tacoma, now in Honduran waters.

If the department of justice decides that the Hornet used the American flag and the port of New Orleans in violation of neutrality, it is probable that she will be seized by one of the American gunboats and brought to the United States for trial.

STATE'S SIDE IS FINISHED

Prosecution Rests in the Trial of Mrs. Laura Schenk.

Defense Will Begin Introducing Its Testimony at Once.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 19.—Today is expected to see the last of the testimony for the prosecution in the trial of Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk, who is charged with poisoning her husband, John O. Schenk.

The defense is expected to open for its side this afternoon or tomorrow. J. J. O'Brien, chief counsel for Mrs. Schenk, said he might call every druggist and physician in and about Wheeling to show whether they had ever sold Mrs. Schenk poison of any kind.

When Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk entered the court room this morning she had recovered from the indisposition which caused the early adjournment yesterday and appeared as bright as ever after a refreshing sleep.

Theodore Fink was the first witness of the day and was called for the purpose of locating the Schenk residence on the island.

Chauffeur Recalled.

Chauffeur Lundy Wilson, recalled testified to the alleged visit to the residence of Dr. Myers. He said he was ordered by Mrs. Schenk to stop the car at a bend in the road from which point he could not see the Myers residence.

"Why did you not inform Mr. Schenk

SCHOONER IS IN SERIOUS PERIL

Drifting Helplessly in Fierce Gale Off Cape Blanco.

Eureka, Cal., Jan. 19.—Waterlogged, drifting helplessly before a furious hurricane, the lumber laden steam schooner Lakme, with fifteen men, is in serious peril off Cape Blanco this morning.

The steamers Asuncion and Argyle are standing by, but in the raging sea they are unable to give any aid. However, the wind which reached a velocity of about a hundred miles an hour during the night, appears to be subsiding.

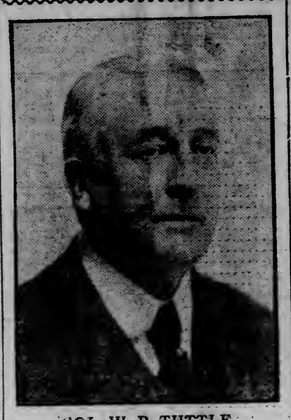

The first news of the Lakme's distress came in signals she sent to the wireless station at Cape Blanco yesterday afternoon.

The wireless operator sent out an "S. O. S." call and the call for help was picked up by the steamers Watson, Argyle and Asuncion. All three responded.

The crew of the Lakme tried to get clear of the derelict by launching a lifeboat, but the frail craft was smashed to splinters.

A line was passed to the schooner from the Watson, but it was snapped by the strain of the storm before a man could cross it. At midnight the Watson which is a passenger liner, left the scene.

RICHEST MAN IN NORTH DAKOTA LEGISLATURE

COL. W. P. TUTTLE.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.) — Col. W. P. Tuttle of Kidder county is reputed to be the richest member of the North Dakota assembly and is classed as a millionaire. Mr. Tuttle came to North Dakota from Chicago a number of years ago, having been engaged in the grain buying business there for a number of years. Two years ago he was a member of the house of representatives about two weeks, but at the end of that time his seat was given to John Storey as a result of a contest instituted by Mr. Storey. This year Col. Tuttle was elected by a big majority.

UNIQUE PLAN OF ELECTION

North Dakota Senator Proposes Nominations By Party Conventions.

But No Party Designation on Ballots at Regular Elections.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Party conventions for the purpose of nominating candidates for justiceships and school offices, county district and state, to participate in a non-partisan election, are proposed by Senator J. L. Cashel of Walsh county in a bill introduced in the senate. The bill that he has presented on that subject provides that the judges and school superintendents should be elected at the primary election in June, but in view of the fact that Mr. Cashel his since learned that such officials must be named at the general election in November, he will very likely withdraw that bill and substitute another making the change of dates.

The idea proposed by Mr. Cashel is unique. For some time a legislative committee of the State Bar association

BALLOT IS FRUITLESS

Sheehan Lacks Twelve Votes in New York Legislature.

Third Ballot Will Be Taken on Friday at Noon.

New York, Jan. 9.—The second joint ballot for United States senator taken today resulted as follows:

Democrats—Sheehan, 88; Shepard, 13; Parker, 7; Littleton, 2; Gerard, 2; Herrick, 2; Kernan, 2; O'Brien, 1. Republican—Depew, 81. Necessary for choice, 100.

After one ballot today the joint assembly adjourned until noon tomorrow, when the third ballot will be taken.

Governor Eberhart of Minnesota visited the assembly at today's session. He was escorted to the speaker's chair, where he made a short speech, congratulating the body on its appearance and conveying the best wishes of the people of Minnesota to the people of New York.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19.—The United States senatorship tussle is as intricate as ever. The legislature yesterday tried to choose the Democrat who will succeed Senator Chauncey M. Depew,

BRAINERD MAN IS KILLED BY TRAIN

Albert Hauser Found Dead on Railroad Tracks at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fearfully mangled by the pilot of a locomotive, the body of a man, identified as Albert Hauser, 305 Warsaw street, whose home is in Brainerd, Minn., was found lying on the Omaha railroad tracks under the high bridge last night. Not more than 100 feet away, another man, whose name is John Saul, was picked up seriously injured, apparently in the same accident. How it occurred the police have not yet been able to ascertain.

Both men were well dressed and in Hauser's pockets were found $10 in cash and receipts for other sums of money.

Coroner Jones believes that the men were walking together and were struck by an Omaha passenger train. He is making an investigation today in an effort to learn the details of the tragedy.

BALLINGER NOT FIT FOR OFFICE AND SHOULD BE FIRED, SAYS SENATOR

FLORIDA SENATOR ROASTS BALLINGER

D. U. FLETCHER,
United States Senator From Florida.

Fletcher of Florida Severely Arraigns Secretary of Interior.

Been Unfaithful to the People and Deceived the President.

His Ideals Are Merely Those of a "Professional Politician."

Washington, Jan. 19. — Admitting that no question of criminal guilt had been involved in the charges against Secretary Ballinger, Senator Fletcher, Democrat of Florida, of the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee, addressed the senate today in support of the Purcell resolution declaring that the secretary should no longer be retained in office.

"Studying the secretary's own testimony we are pressed to the conclusion," said Mr. Fletcher, "that the responsible functions, the chief powers as well as the work—other than detail, such as seeking callers, and signing letters which were not read—seem to have been placed on subordinates and employes. There has been lacking the constant presence of a guiding, directing, forceful head, fully meeting and appreciating the larger responsibilities of the office.

Cases Pending For Years.

"But for a few subordinates who have had experience there would be demoralization in the department and now there appear thousands of cases which have been pending for years yet undisposed of, notwithstanding the appropriation by congress, March 14.

WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE

Judges' Decisions on Indian Liquor Treaties to Be Discussed.

Logging Burned Timber on Red Lake Reservation Not Favored.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—All of the features of Judges Willard and Amidon's decisions on the Indian liquor treaties will be discussed at a White House conference this evening by the president, Secretary Ballinger, Commissioner Valentine and S. G. Nichols of the anti-saloon league. The visitors will go to the White House at 5 o'clock.

Logging of Burned Timber.

Representative Steenerson this morning called upon the secretary of the interior to urge action on a petition recently sent in by Red Lake Indians asking permission to log burned timber on their reservation. The department is not inclined to grant the request, as the winter season is now so nearly over that not much effective logging work, in its opinion, can be ac-

YOUNG WOULD GO TO THE PEOPLE

Willing to Submit His Candidacy to Special Primary Election.

Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 19.—The Iowa legislature made an effort today to elect a United States senator today to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Dolliver. The withdrawal yesterday of Guy Feely of Waterloo, has changed the situation materially. Moreover, it is stated unofficially that Warren Garst will withdraw. One vote was taken today as follows:

Young, 33; Funk, 22; Kenyon, 25; Byers, 14; Garst, 7; Franke, 1; Porter, Dem, 53.

The legislature then adjourned.

Senator Lafayette Young today issued this statement with the request that the other candidates for United States senator before the Iowa legislature sign it:

"I am a candidate for the office of United States senator at the hands of the Republican party. I hereby agree to submit my candidacy to the Republican voters at a special primary and agree to abide by the result.

(Signed.) "LAFAYETTE YOUNG."

SCIENTISTS BALKED.

Natives of Arkansas Refuse to Allow Them to Make Researches.

Marked Tree, Ark., Jan. 19.—Racial distinctions in the state of Arkansas have made it impossible for the field committee of the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia to search the prehistoric mounds on Little river, north of Marked Tree.

The report of the committee on its work during the year just closed has been made by Prof. Clarence J. Moore, who was in charge. The work consisted of opening the mounds on the St. Francis, Little, White and Black rivers, where a vast number of skulls and relics were found.

The work above Marked Tree was brought to a close on account of the hostility of the natives, who refused to permit the negro servants in the Philadelphia party to enter that section, establishing a "dead line."

PER CAPITA COST OF THE CITY GOVERNMENT IS $11.92

The per capita cost of running the city government was $2.12 greater in 1910 than in 1909, according to statistics which have been prepared by City Comptroller W. S. McCormick. The figures were prepared, using an estimated population of 80,000 as a basis. The cost in 1909 was $9.80 and in 1910, $11.92.

The net cost in 1909 was $784,078.46, which jumped to $953,627.58 in 1910. The largest proportionate increase came in the park fund, which jumped from $16,000 to over $100,000, due to the sale of bonds, the proceeds of which were used to purchase parks and playgrounds in all parts of the city.

A detailed statement prepared by the comptroller for the purpose of showing what items caused the increase, is given below:

AWARDS MADE FOR ACTS OF HEROISM

Twenty-Six Are Authorized; Some Medals and Some Cash.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 19.—Twenty-six awards in recognition of acts of heroism were made yesterday by the Carnegie hero fund commission. Sixteen bronze medals, ten silver medals and cash awards were authorized.

Nineteen of the awards were made in rescues or attempted rescues from drowning, three from fire, two from suffocation in wells and one each from train and shooting. In nine instances the heroes lost their lives and the award is made to a member of the family. One recipient of a silver medal is New York's street cleaning commissioner, William H. Edwards, who figured in connection with the shooting of Mayor Gaynor.

The report of the commission's investigator says that he "saved indeterminate persons from being shot by an assassin." Mayor Gaynor having been shot in the head at close range, Edwards threw himself upon the man. Edwards was wounded after he had thrown the man on the deck of the vessel on which the shooting occurred, the man was pinioned down, the pistol was discharged a third time.

Other awards are to Ray M. Taylor, aged 26, attempted to save Francis McCune from suffocation in a well at Summit, S. D., Nov. 19, 1907; silver medal and $1,000 to purchase a home.

James T. Mason, aged 48, helped save from drowning Mary E. Dolan, Von Holliday, Carrol V. Rector and W. B. Sweet, at Grand Rapids, Wis., May 26, 1909, bronze medal.

Jerome Miller, aged 44 years, saved William C. Stapel from a burning launch at Oshkosh, Wis., Oct. 16, 1908, bronze medal.

Guy F. Empey, aged 15, saved from drowning Cornelia F. Denne, aged 11, at Merrill, Wis., Nov. 19, 1906, bronze medal.

Charles McCabe of Chicago, aged 20, saved from drowning George Cummins, aged 23, at Saynor, Wis., June 18, 1909, bronze medal and $100 as needed.

Fred B. Karr of Seneca, Ill., aged 31, saved from being run over by train, William Damaszeewski, aged 7, at Kankakee, Ill., July 2, 1908. Bronze medal and $1,000 to purchase a farm.

This was the annual meeting of the hero fund commission and all officers were re-elected. Several changes were made in previous awards to meet changed conditions of the recipients.

CHILTON AND WATSON WIN

Nominated By West Virginia Legislators for United States Senators.

Chaleston, W. Va., Jan. 19.—W. F. Chilton of Charleston and Clarence W. Watson of Fairmont were nominated at the caucus of the Democratic members of the West Virignia legislature here last night to succeed to the terms in the United States senate, one of which is now held by Senator Nathan Scott and the other made vacant by the death of Stephen B. Elkins. Chilton was selected for the long term, while Watson was chosen to serve out the two remaining years of Senator Elkins' term.

Col. Chilton won the caucus nomination for the long term by defeating several candidates, his chief opponent being his old-time political rival Col. John T. McGraw of Grafton. The final ballot stood: Chilton, 42; McGraw, 29; Campbell, 5; Cornwell, 1; Henry C. Davis, 1.

Prior to the nomination of Chilton, Mr. Watson, who had led from the first, won the short term nomination by defeating a field which included several candidates who were also voted for for the long term.

William E. Chilton was born at St. Albans, W. Va., and is 53 years old. He attended common school and become a teacher, working on a farm in summer. While teaching he studied law and was admitted to practice in 1887. He later was appointed prosecuting attorney of Kanawaha county. He has long been prominent in West Virginia politics.

GREAT SUFFERER BROUGHT RELIEF

By Bake Oven

WILL MORGAN.

When one has suffered for three straight months, unable to move or bend his body at all, let alone walking about without the severest of pains, both night and day, and when the patient has found a relief and remedy, it is the most natural thing in the world that he is strong in the praise of the remedy that brought these great results. This was the experience of Will Morgan of 302 Palmetto street, who found no relief for this severe attack of rheumatism until he had taken the Bake Oven treatments of the great rheumatic specialists, Loughney & Loughney.

They gave him instant relief and he has nothing but words of praise for the treatment and says he will take a few more to be sure he has permanent relief. Mr. Morgan lives at 302 Palmetto street, Duluth, and he will vouch for the above facts.

Loughney & Loughney have all of the offices on the third floor of the Christie Bldg., on Fourth avenue west, between First and Second streets. Their hours are 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. Sundays, 9 to 12 only. Consultation is free.

SHOT FIRED AT OFFICER CHESMORE AT CLOSE RANGE

State Introduces the Powder Stained Cap in Evidence.

Defense Tries to Keep Out Statement Made to Police.

In the trial of Charles Melodrowski, charged with murder in the first degree for killing Officer Harry Chesmore, the state showed this morning that Melodrowski fired point blank at the officer and also that one of the shots was fired at very close range.

Three policeman's caps were introduced in evidence. One was the cap which the policeman wore when he was shot. It had a bullet hole through the top, with powder stains around the hole. Col. F. E. Resche, now probation officer, but a former captain of police, testified to firing holes through two other caps which were introduced in evidence. Shots were fired at five, eight, twelve and eighteen feet and the caps were introduced to show that the shot which went through Chesmore's hat was fired at about five feet, for the powder marks on the cap corresponded with those on the cap at which Col. Resche fired at a distance of five feet. The shots fired with Melodrowski's gun and the ammunition taken from the boy when he was arrested.

The state's case was not all put in this morning, Chief Troyer being on the stand when the adjournment was taken at noon. The chief started to testify to the statement Melodrowski made to him in the police station after the boy's arrest. Mr. Teare, the boy's attorney, endeavored to have the testimony shut out and was cross-examining the chief as to whether threats or promises were used in obtaining the statement, when the noon adjournment was taken.

John Holm, F. S. Campbell, Hans Holt and William Edward Elves, employes of the Duluth Street Railway company, testified this morning to finding a bullet in the car and also to the condition of the windows when the car was returned to the car house after the shooting.

Detectives F. A. Schulte and H. W. Toewe testified to finding Melodrowski and the Johnson boy in the camp and Lieut. Fritz corroborated their testimony. Charles E. Firoved, the hotel clerk, who was held up by the boys prior to the shooting, testified as to what occurred at the McKay hotel. His story was substantially the same as he told at the time of the crime.

The windows of the car, the gun, which Melodrowski used, and the cartridges found on him have been introduced in evidence.

William Dobowski, the conductor on the car on which Officer Harry Chesmore was killed, was the principal witness put on the stand yesterday by the state.

Dobowski told substantially the same story that was told after the crime was committed. He told of the policeman and his two boy prisoners getting on the car on Garfield avenue and of the shooting, which he said was done by Melodrowski. He said five shots were fired, the first and last taking effect, in his opinion. Dobowski had not completed his testimony when the court adjourned last evening and he was on the stand again this morning.

Three witnesses were examined yesterday, Sergeant Robert J. Gillon identified the clothes worn by Officer Chesmore when he was shot. Dr. Robert Graham gave testimony as to the cause of death.

GETS DRUNK IN ORDER TO HELP SHERIFF MEINING PLAY EXECUTIONER

Olof Lindberg, one of the regular old-timers at the police station, is under the impression that he ought to be in the county jail to help Sheriff Meining hang the two boy bandits indicted for the murder of Patrolman Harry A. Chesmore.

Olof is well acquainted with members of the police department, and when he hit town from the woods last night he promptly proceeded to drown his sorrow in the flowing bowl. He hadn't heard the news before and was deeply grieved. When he was brought into headquarters this morning he explained that he felt that Sheriff Meining might need his assistance. He was sure that the boys would be convicted and sentenced to the death penalty, and asserted that that was the only punishment which he wanted to see meted out to them. But he also claimed that the new sheriff has not been on the job long enough to do the job properly and that he ought to have his assistance, as he has been in touch with the sheriff's office such a long time. Olof has been sent to the county jail at regular intervals the last ten years, so he ought to know a little about the official who has been his landlord such a considerable length of time. He thought that Bates would be able to fulfill the duties of executing the boy bandits all right, and didn't want to see his successor "fall down." He explained that he didn't know of any other way to get inside the bastile, except by getting drunk, and said that was the reason he got a larger load than he could carry. The police say that Olof is slightly out of his head. He will be arraigned in police court late this afternoon or tomorrow morning.

SHERIFF HAD WILD GOOSE CHASE

Man Whom He Sought, in Old Haunts on the Bowery.

The sheriff had an unnecessary hunt for Gust Ferman yesterday. He sent a deputy out to Lakewood to bring him back to the city, a complaint having been lodged against him alleging insanity. It was claimed that he had threatened a man with whom he had been living.

When the deputy reached the scene, Gust, well known to the police as the "king of the Bowery" and at one time a hard character who always put up a fight before he could be arrested, had fled. It developed last night that he had sought his old haunts along the Bowery, where he succeeded in getting a large cargo aboard. He was sent to the police station by Patrolman Oscar Olson. In police court this morning he admitted that he had been sailing too many sheets in the wind and got $3 or three days. The court let him off lightly because he had not been in for a long time. That is, it was a long time for Gust.

Backache Means Dying Kidneys

A Remarkable Treatment That Saves the Kidneys—How You May Cure Yourself Quickly and Thoroughly.

With the progress of science comes one remarkable treatment for kidney diseases. It has been so thoroughly tested and its results have proven so revolutionary that a well-known firm in Michigan has undertaken its distribution into every part of the country.

Those who suffer from kidney trouble and the diseases resulting from it will be pleased to know that every package of this treatment is thoroughly guaranteed. This should assure at last a positive cure to every sufferer.

Every man and woman should know that backache is usually a well-defined symptom of advancing kidney disease which may end fatally unless treated in time; that rheumatism and bladder trouble are caused from nothing more nor less than kidneys that do not filter the poison from the blood; that dropsy, Bright's disease, diabetes and bladder-stones are caused by bad kidneys.

Once they are made to work properly, these diseases should quickly disappar.

This is done by the new treatment, Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills.

We urge every one who has pain in the small of the back, profuse or scanty urination, pains in the bladder, cloudy or foul urine, not to fail to get a package today of Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills, and drop all other kidney treatments. Senator Stevenson of Washington, writes from Olympia: "There is no question about the efficacy of Dr. Derby's Pure Kidney Pills in curing kidney and bladder trouble. I know whereof I speak."

Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills are now sold at all drug stores—60 pills—10 days' treatment—25 cents, or direct from Derby Medicine Co., Eaton Rapids, Mich. If you would like to try them first, ask your druggist for a free sample package. Then buy a package; you will not regret it.

PROGRAM FOR FREE CONCERT

A. R. Bjorkquist Will Be the Soloist Next Sunday Afternoon.

The program for the Masonic free concerts at the auditorium of the Masonic temple, Sunday, Jan. 22, at 3:30 p. m., follows:

Organ—Selections, "Fra Diavolo";
Overture, "Fra Diavolo" ..... Auber
Vocal—"Be Thou Faithful Unto Death," from the oratorio "St. Paul" ..... Mendelssohn
A. R. Bjorkquist.
Organ—"Ball Scenes," (a) Sentimentalk; (b) Third dance; (c) March Finale ..... Massenet
Organ—"Picturesque Scenes," (a) Angelus; (b) Bohemian Fete..Massenet
Vocal—"Come Into the Garden Maud" ..... Balfe
A. R. Bjorkquist.
Organ—"Flying Dutchman"—"Spinning Song"; "Flying Dutchman"—Overture ..... Wagner

For the next Sunday concert the soloist, A. R. Bjorkquist has selected two widely separated styles of music, the oratorio and the ballad. The first of his numbers is St. Paul's farewell at Ephesus and is beautifully tender. The second is the English ballad which once enjoyed an unparalled popularity.

In the arrangement of the operatic portion of organ music the overture has been placed last because it generally embodies the chief ideas of the opera and when the entire opera is given serves to prepare the mind for what is to follow; at least that is what is intended, but in this case only a very limited portion of the opera being given, the overture is placed last as a summing up of the whole. The first needs little explanation; it is, probably, one of the best known and enjoyable of its kind and the tunes from "Fra Diavolo" are whistled by many. The second organ number consists of two of Massenet's beautiful pieces; one depcting the usual scenes at a ball in three movements; the other the celebrated Angelus with its subdued and chorale like religiously inspired music which is given high relief by the fiery music of the second movement, the Bohemian Fete, in which all is rousing gaiety.

The last organ numbers are from Wagner's "Flying Dutchman," the first of the two is the Liszt arrangement of the celebrated "Spinning Song," one of Wagner's brightest and happiest pieces and with Liszt's master hand it has been made a charming number, decidedly in contrast with the last number, the overture, which opens with the theme of the Dutchman's curse, heard through the raging of the storm, at the climax of which Senta's tender theme is heard, followed by the impatience of the Dutchman as he puts into port where is heard the singing of the crew of a Norwegian vessel docked close by. But the Dutchman's doubts concerning the fidelity of Senta, impels him to put to sea again as the storm howls, only to be dashed to pieces on the rocks and at the end is heard again Senta's song, now one of triumph. This is a great piece of the descriptive character and is very easily followed even at the first hearing if the story is kept in mind. The program gives a good variation of style and contrast of composers and will be a very enjoyable one.

DEERWOOD'S LOCKUP IS MONEY GETTER.

Deerwood, Minn., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—"The new village lockup is a success," said N. P. Emil Carlson, the new mayor of Deerwood. "In one week we have collected more fines than Deerwood did in its entire previous history. We have one of the finest jails in the country and not a prisoner has objected to the accommodations afforded. They all pay their fines, too."

MUST OBEY ORDINANCE

Notices Are Being Sent Out to All the Hotel Proprietors.

Many of Cheaper Lodging Houses Claimed to Be Firetraps.

Notices are being sent out from the office of the building inspector to all hotels and lodging houses which were found to have been violating the provisions of the ordinance regulating fire protection.

At the request of the council all of them were thoroughly examined by the building inspector and found to be in deplorable condition. Many of them were nothing but fire traps, with practically no protection for the guests. This was true of all the second class hotels and the lodging houses, while even some of the first class hotels were lacking in some particulars. Not one of them complied with all the provisions. If the owners or occupants do not comply with the ordinance within thirty days after being notified by the building inspector they will be arrested and prosecuted. The section most generally violated was that requiring notices of the location of the fire escapes, the burning of a red light at night to designate their location, and the presence of a gong or gongs sufficiently large to arouse every sleeper in the place.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 19.—Senator Husting today introduced a resolution asking that both houses concur in the report in the senate committee which investigated the primary election campaign of 1908 and certify to the United States senate that that body investigate Senator Stephenson's title to his present seat; also that state officials be directed to carry out other recommendations of the findings. The resolution goes over until next week.

Senator Husting introduced other resolutions calling for amendments to the constitution. One provides initiative and referendum another for election of United States senators by direct vote and one for the recall of public officials.

It was claimed that he was in arrears for his board. The court first imposed a sentence of $15 and costs, but when he learned that Mr. and Mrs. Wilson had been "rushing the can" with Bollinger yesterday, he reduced the sentence.

An ordinance will soon be introduced in the council prohibiting the building of small cottages in the city so close together that there is no chance for air to circulate and get between the houses.

The step is being taken with the idea of improving sanitary conditions of the city. A number of small houses have been erected this year with no basements and but a few feet apart.

WANT LUXURIANT HAIR? THEN TRY THIS

"Every woman prizes luxuriant hair," says Mae Martyn, in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, "and many find that much depends on shampooing. Various preparations are used for this purpose, but few are free from injurious ingredients, and the result is thin, straggly hair and itchy scalps.

"A simple and inexpensive shampoo mixture can be made at home by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a teacup of hot water. This is poured on the scalp and rubbed until lathering freely, then the hair rinsed carefully and dried.

"Nothing so quickly promotes a healthy condition of the scalp as a canthrox shampoo, and its use is certain to produce glossy, luxuriant hair. Care should be taken to get an original package of canthrox."

Alfalfa yields from six to eight cuttings a year in the Gulf Coast Country.

Averages three quarters of a ton to the acre per cutting and clears a profit of fifteen to sixteen dollars a ton at each harvest.

Ten dollars a year covers every cost of production. This is just one of the unusual evidences of fertility which have made the Gulf Coast by all odds the most astonishing section ever opened to settlement.

It won't cost you much to visit this country and judge for yourself. Every first and third Tuesday of each month you can purchase a round-trip Landseekers' ticket to any point in the Gulf Coast country of Texas, from Chicago at $30.00, and from St. Louis or Kansas City at $25.00.

TO ASK COURT FOR "IMMUNITY BATH"

Indicted Meat Packers to Appear Before United States Judge.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—J. Ogden Armour, Louis F. Swift and other indicted meat packers who are charged with violation of the Sherman anti-trust act, will ask Judge Carpenter in the United States district court for an "immunity bath" late today.

The new "bath" will be requested on the grounds that the immunity granted by Judge Humphrey in 1906, precludes the prosecution of the present charges. Technically, the plea is known as a plea of abatement of a plea to quash the indictment.

It is said by the defense that the present charges include alleged violations of the law which occurred prior to 1906.

How to Get Rid of Catarrh

A Simple, Safe, Reliable Way, and It Costs Nothing to Try.

Those who suffer from catarrh know its miseries. There is no need of this suffering. You can get rid of it by a simple, safe, inexpensive, home treatment discovered by Dr. Blosser, who, for over thirty-six years has been treating catarrh successfully.

His treatment is unlike any other. It is not a spray, douche, salve, cream, or inhaler, but is a more direct and thorough treatment than any of these. It cleans out the head, nose, throat and lungs so that you can again breathe freely and sleep without that stopped-up feeling that all catarrh sufferers have. It heals the diseased mucous membranes and arrests the foul discharge, so that you will not be constantly blowing your nose and spitting, and at the same time it does not poison the system and ruin the stomach, as internal medicines do.

If you want to test this treatment without cost, send your address to Dr. J. W. Blosser, 692 Walton street, Atlanta, Ga., and he will send you by return mail enough of the medicine to satisfy you that it is all he claims for it as a remady for catarrh, catarrhal headaches, catarrhal deafness, asthma, bronchitis, colds and all catarrhal complications. He will also send you free an illustrated booklet. Write him immediately.

NEW LIBRARY IN SPRING

Proposed $20,000 Carnegie Building May Be Erected Within Few Months.

Site Purchased on Central Avenue---Building Outgrowing Present Quarters.

West Duluth's new $20,000 Carnegie library will probably be built in the spring, as the site has already been purchased by the city and the matter turned over to the library board for further disposal.

The new library will be erected on a site comprising six lots at the northwest corner of Central avenue and Elinor street, for which the city paid $3,600. Last fall, Andrew Carnegie promised a donation of $20,000 to the project, providing that the city purchase the site and spend at least 10 per cent of that amount, $2,000, annually for its maintenance.

At the present time, the matter is resting. It is understood that the members of the library board are looking over plans for an up-to-date structure and that as soon as spring comes, the contract will be let by the board, subject to the approval of the council.

The branch library, which is now housed in the Graham block will soon outgrow its quarters and will be in need of a more commodious place. Last year, the growth of the branch was nothing short of phenomenal, demonstrating that the institution has come to stay at West Duluth.

Among those who have followed the project closely and who are in touch with the situation are W. F. Bailey and Frances J. Sullivan of the library board and L. A. Barnes, former member, and alderman from the Eighth ward.

HEAVY VOTE IN EIGHTH WARD

Registration for Coming City Election Expected to Be Heavy.

That registration for the coming city election will be heavy in the Eighth ward this spring, is the prediction of those who are in touch with the political situation at West Duluth. There are two registration days, Jan. 24 and Jan. 28, before the spring election, Feb. 7, and the four aldermanic candidates are urging the people to be sure to register.

David Sang, who is perhaps the best known of the candidates, having been in the council before and having been at one time a member of the board of public works, is running as the Democratic nominee. Mr. Sang says that he believes that he will be elected by a good margin. He has been making a quiet campaign.

Otto Kruger, the New Duluth man, who is after the office, is the Republican nominee. He is also confident of victory. T. F. Olson, a local newspaper reporter, who came out recently as an independent, claims to have things lined up his way and looks for much support from all parts of the ward.

Charles Stevens, the Public Ownership candidate, has been making a quiet canvass and says that prospects look good. He will be one of the speakers at a public meeting, which will be held at Victor hall, Grand avenue, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The meeting is in the interest of the spring campaign and is held under the auspices of the Public Ownership party. Thomas Van Lear of Minneapolis will also be a speaker at this meeting.

Heimick. The annual report showed a prosperous year.

Free Skating Rink.

Proctor people have a new free skating rink, just established on a few of the vacant lots in the village. The new rink was made possible through the work of a number of the young men who donated their services in fixing up the ground, preparatory to the flooding. SIX KILLED IN MINE EXPLOSION

Serious Explosion in Property Controlled By Duluth People.

Helena, Mont., Jan. 19.—As a result of an explosion in the Keating mine at Radersburg, forty miles from here, yesterday afternoon, six miners are dead, two are badly injured and there is an unconfirmed rumor that two more are somewhere in the workings. The dead are: Ed Ryan, shift boss; Dan Ryan, his brother; Dan White, Percy Way, Louis Tucker and Harry Abbott.

It is thought that the powder magazine in the mine exploded. This magazine, which was said to have contained between 50 and 800 pounds of dynamite, was on the 200-foot level.

Julius H. Barnes of Duluth, secretary of the company, is on the ground at the present time, having left for the West several days ago. The stock of the mine is largely owned in Duluth. Local officers of the company state that the property is fully insured, both against fire and accident, but they deeply regret the loss of life resulting from the explosion.

EMMA GOLDMAN IS LOCKED OUT

Not Allowed to Enter Convention Hall of the Miners.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 19.—Considerable stir was created among the Socialist contingent of the United Mine Workers of America today by the locking out of Emma Goldman from Memorial hall, where the convention is meeting. Miss Goldman has been asking and making efforts to speak before the convention and today when she appeared at the hall a little after 10 o'clock, about 100 delegates to the convention met her. Last night about 150 of the delegates, after adjournment, met and adopted a motion to hear Miss Goldman and she appeared there in response to their request. The custodian said he had been ordered to lock the doors against Miss Goldman, and the delegates and Miss Goldman adjourned to another hall, where she spoke.

The credentials committee expect to be ready to report today. The report is certain to cause a clash between the forces of President Lewis and the Feehan faction.

President Feehan demands the seating of thirty delegates from the Irwin district. Lewis opposes it.

The report of the tellers on the election of president is expected today.

TERRY PRESENTED WITH GOLD MEDAL.

New York, Jan. 19.—In recognition of distinguished services to dramatic art, Miss Ellen Terry, the English actress was presented with a gold medal this afternoon by the founders of the New theater. The presentation was made at the New theater before a notable assemblage of men of letters, playwrights, musicians and the flower of stageland.

MUST EARN THEIR BOARD

Police Department Will Work With the Associated Charities.

Free Beds Will No Longer Be Available in Police Station.

The police department is working with the Associated Charities in ridding the city of loafers.

Capt. Tony Fiskett declared this morning that no longer will they be given a chance to sleep in the jail quarters night after night. "If they will not work, they'll have to go to jail," he exclaimed. "There is no longer any excuse for them to come here for a place to stay over night. They can go to the rock pile started by the Associated Charities and make enough to earn their lodging and also something to eat. We don't have to stand for the story any longer that they can't get a chance to do any work. If they are too lazy to go to the rock pile, let them get out of town before they are arrested for vagrancy. We don't want men of that character loafing about the city. It's either the rock pile or the county jail for them if they persist in remaining."

The first to get a sample of the dose which has been prepared for the vags by the municipal doctors was Frank Johnson. He refused to earn bed and bread at the cliff with his little hammer, furnished by the board of public works, and when he came around the second night he was booked for vagrancy. He pleaded guilty in police court this morning and got $10 and costs or ten days. The next time he comes around he will be given a double or triple dose. But it is not thought that after he serves his time he will enjoy the prospect of a second trip over the hill. With the county jail in its present crowded condition, it is anything but pleasant to be confined there. And it's still worse to be shoved outside these cold days to labor on the chain gang. For which reasons it is figured that Johnson will be glad to seek other and greener fields the first time he gets a chance to shake the snows of Duluth from his heels.

COPPERS HIGHER; TRADING ACTIVE

Shorts Cover at the Close After Dull Session—Firm Locally.

Coppers advanced sharply toward the close today and closed higher or on a level with yesterday's final prices. The early part of the session was dull and lifeless and values dragged. There was some selling but the market quickly became oversold and shorts had to hustle to get back their stock.

The local market was featured again by Keating. The explosion which killed six men occurred in the old workings where powder was stored. The company will not be liable for damages on account of the deaths of the men, as employers' liability insurance was carried. Julius H. Barnes, secretary and treasurer of the company is at the mine. He wired today that the explosion, which was on the second level, did not cause much damage and that the accident will not affect shipments which will continue at the same rate.

Keating sold at $1.68¾ to $1.56¼, $1.62½ and $1.56¼. Denn was strong, selling at $4.93¾ to $5. The full paid Scott showed considerable strength, also, selling at $6, a slight advance over yesterday. Red Warrior sold at $1.43¾ to $1.50, the old Butte & Superior sold at 92c and Calumet & Montana was traded in at 74c.

Amalgamated sold at $63.87½ to $64.25 to $63.37½ to $64.87½. Butte Ballaklava sold at $6.12½. Butte Coalition at $18.25 to $18.50 to $18.25. Calumet & Arizona sold at $46.50 to $46, Giroux at $6.37½. Superior & Pittsburg at $14 to $14.12½. North Butte at $28 to $28.25 to $28. Shattuck at $22.50.

A year ago at this time stocks began to undergo a series of sharp declines that continued during most of 1910. The fear of government action against corporations was pronounced and reconstruction of values to match the feeling of the market was in progress. In the first two weeks of 1910 the index price of a given number of leading stocks dropped from $111.87½ to $105.62½, reaction of $6.25. This year the swing was not more than 1½ points between the extreme prices of the same number of issues.

The average price of leading issues declined in 1910 about 17¾ points. The low point was about 25½ points below the level prevailing at the beginning of the year. Prices now average about 10 points under the level a year ago.

The old theory of a January rise has been lost sight of in the readjustment of values in the Twentieth century. The advance in January, 1903, lasted nine days, in 1906 nineteen days and in 1907, five days. In 1908, the year's highest prices were scored late in December; the market made its best record of 1909 in August. In both years lowest prices prevailed in February. There was no January advance.

Stocks average about $30 higher than in the panic of 1907 and $19 lower than the high level of 1906. This is the position of the market in contrast with the two extremes in the first decade of this century.

A year ago as the market started on its first sharp drop of the year in the forced revision of values to match government activities somebody observed, "This January movement is more than an episode; the whole 'technical position' has changed."

In this year there is no "episode" and scarcely a "technical position." The thing that was to be has gone on and worked itself out. Stocks have been reappraised, although those that are subject to the government's policy of corporation legislation are dependent to a large extent, on the definition of law as applied in the Standard Oil and the American Tobbacco cases or to be applied in railroad rate increase hearings. A year ago the big interests started to get out of the market, but strange to say the public did not carry the bag. It refused to take the burden and what followed is recent history. The question that arises is, has the liquidation been thorough? Has the reappraisement been concluded or must there be additional reconstruction before investors and business men can renew their activity with confidence? The professionals seem to be marking time in an effort to get a line on the future. The light ahead has not yet appeared, but some people think they can see its first gleams.

Undeniably there is much more hope now than two weeks ago. Many things have occurred in the new year to be classed on the side of encouragement. There seems to be no pressure on stocks and the market is in a fair position to respond quickly to positive influences. It is possibly that as the January rise of precedent has failed to come in late years, so the February declines of past years may have been anticipated in the continuous performances in 1910.

Clearly, the speculative position has had the most thorough overhauling it has experienced in many years and ought to be in fair shape now for moderate and gradual improvement under the new conditions, as soon as those conditions are made plain enough for men to know where they stand in business.

TELEPHONE CASE IS APPEALED

County Auditor Will Obtain Opinion of Supreme Court on Taxation.

An appeal was filed this morning in the case of St. Louis county against the Duluth Telephone company to compel the payment of taxes, and the supreme court will pass on the question in February, it is believed.

The county lost the case in district court here, Judge Dibell upholding the contention of the telephone company that it is liable for taxes under the gross earnings law of the state and that it can not be taxed locally.

County Auditor Halden contends that the telephone company should be put on the local tax rolls and the case grew out of that contention. The auditor will obtain the opinion of the supreme court on the subject, as he claims that if the telephone company is exempt, other industries would also be exempt from local taxation and the county would lose a great amount of revenue.

BRECKINRIDGE RECOMMENDED

Miller Asks His Reappointment as Postmaster at Pine City.

Washington, Jan. 19. — (Special to The Herald.) — Representative Miller today recommended the reappointment of J. Y. Breckinridge to be postmaster at Pine City, Minn. Mr. Miller also, this morning, had a conference with the fourth assistant postmaster general in reference to putting into operation a number of new rural free delivery routes in his district. These routes have long since been examined and approved, but have been held up owing to a lack of funds. The department will soon be in possession of an additional appropriation for the creation of new rural routes and Representative Miller is assured of early action in routes in which his constituency is interested.

Mr. Miller also took up with the postal authorities the question of new quarters for the postoffice at Hinckley. It has been decided that it will be advisable to leave the present quarters and rent more commodious rooms in the new brick building recently completed by the Oddfellows.

MEDICINE MAN'S HARD LUCK.

Beaten Twice, Fined, Put in Jail and Loses His Wife.

Deerwood, Minn., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Prentice, who ran a medicine show here, is having his share of troubles. He had a row with E. A. Smith, an assistant and retired from the trouble with a broken nose.

Officer Lamy escorted Smith to jail, but Prentice was too badly injured to be taken there, and was removed to a hotel. Both were later fined $10 and costs, which Smith paid by pawning his cornet and leaving town. The doctor has lost his wife, his trunk is in the hotel and his medicines and cures are in the hall and he owes his money for his fine. Up to the time of the ruction the show was a success and was attended by all of Deerwood who were unable to take in the grand opera in St. Paul.

HELD LIFE TOO CHEAPLY.

Ashland, Wis., Jan. 19.—Judge Parish did not conceal his indignation yesterday in passing sentence on John Falencik, a local saloon keeper convicted of manslaughter in the third degree for shooting and killing a man named Puchalski in his saloon several months ago, when the latter, who was intoxicated, refused to pay for the drinks. The court regretted that the jury had not returned a verdict of second degree murder, and said that the light verdict returned held life too cheaply. He gave Falencik the limit for third degree manslaughter, four years in Waupun.

PRINCIPLES SUGGESTED

For the Formation of a Central Banking Organization.

Currency Reform Discussed By National Board of Trade.

Washington, Jan. 19.—Currency reform will be one of the principal subjects for discussion at the closing session today of the convention of the National Board of Trade. A set of resolutions, adopted by the business men's monetary conference, which were presented by the delegates of the chamber of commerce of New York, the merchants' association of New York and the New York produce exchange, have been suggested for further action by the board.

The resolutions in general outline follow the Aldrich plan for monetary reform. State banks, however, are included within the membership of the proposed central organization.

The resolutions declare in favor of "a central banking organization" on the following principles:

"1—That such central organization be a corporation endowed with a large stock capital, and not merely an association of banks.

"2—That its stock capital be owned by incorporated banking institutions, whether under national or state charter, willing to assume equal duties as a basis for equal privileges.

"3—That its administration be divided between the government, the member-banks and commercial classes, in a manner which will safeguard against individual, sectional or political domination.

"4—That its business be limited to transactions with the government and with the incorporated banking institutions which become stockholders, i.e., member-banks, except as provided in paragraph nine, clause B.

"5—That dividends on its stock be limited to a fixed moderate return, and profits in excess of such dividends, after providing for a reasonable surplus and emergency fund, be turned over to the government.

"6—That its business be conducted through branches, to be established in the banking districts into which the country shall be divided, the member-banks of the several districts constituting joint associations and sharing in the administration of the branches.

"7—That it shall, free of charge, receive and disburse all moneys of the United States government in places where it shall provide offices.

"8—That it shall not allow interest on deposits.

"9—That it shall have power of issuing circulating notes payable in gold, to buy and sell bullion and deal in foreign bills of exchange, to rediscount commercial paper only for member-banks, to discount approved American bank acceptances and to buy and sell the bonds and treasury notes of the United States.

"10—That the central organization is ultimately to become the sole note-issuing power."

BALLINGER NOT FIT FOR OFFICE AND SHOULD BE FIRED, SAYS SENATOR

1909, of $1,000,000 to bring up the work.

"The removal of those who have been unwilling to act as fawning sycophants or play the role of servile underlings at the sacrifice of public interests, the people's property, the country's resources, did not meet the trouble or overcome the difficulties. The trouble was with the head of the department." In further indictment of the secretary he said:

Glavis Stories Correct.

"After considering the whole record we must believe the derelictions mentioned by Glavis were real, not imaginary.

"That the present secretary of the interior is not the man best fitted for the office he holds.

"That his conduct and associations and influences justly aroused suspicion; that he has been and is inclined to favor private interests rather than care for those of the public.

"That while no corruption is shown, it can scarcely be said that he is guiltless of official wrongdoing of a nature warranting criticism.

"That he was not in sympathy with the advocates of conservation as defined by the president and his predecessor, and by indirection and more or less deception, he set about doing that which caused serious injury.

Deceived President.

"That he has been unfaithful both to the public, whose property he had endangered, and to the president, who he has deceived.'

"Secretary Ballinger's methods we cannot approve—they are the ordinary methods of 'the boss' in politics.

"His administration we cannot indorse—it is the form of administration well recognized as of the 'machine' stamp.

"His standards of official conduct and public duty we must condemn—they are the ideals of the 'professional politician,' which lead to traffic in public office."

St. Croix River Dam.

The interstate and foreign committee tomorrow will grant a hearing to those interested in the proposed removal of the dams across the St. Croix river. The delegation upon arrival will have interviews with the Indian commissioner and Senator Clapp, chairman of the senate Indian committee, and Representative Burke, chairman of the house committee on Indian affairs.

High Salaries For Judges.

Senator Nelson today introduced an amendment to the executive and judicial bill increasing the salaries of all federal judges to-wit: Chief justice of the supreme court from $13,000 to $15,000; associate justices, $17,500; all circuit judges from $6,000 to $9,000; all district court judges from $6,000 to $9,000. BALLOT IS FRUITLESS but no candidate received the majority of votes necessary to election. Efforts to increase the following of William F. Sheehan, the leading candidate, or to unite the opposition on any one other candidate thus far have proven fruitless.

Mr. Sheehan, with ninety votes on the first ballot and within nine votes of election, may be no nearer Washington than Martin W. Littleton or D. Cady Herrick, who received but two votes. In fact there is a growing impression that if Sheehan cannot win, the successful candidate is as likely as not to be some one whose name has not yet been proposed.

That the "insurgents" regarded the result yesterday as a victory was apparent from their eagerness to continue balloting. But the party leaders had agreed to postpone further voting until today, and although the Republicans stood ready to help the anti-Sheehan men force a second ballot, further action was delayed. The second joint ballot will occur at noon today.

Possible new candidates mentioned are Nathan Strauss, Supreme Court Justice Martin J. Keogh and Former State Comptroller Martin H. Glinn. It is believed that any of these would prove acceptable to the New York and Kings county delegation if Mr. Sheehan and Mr. Shepard withdrew.

Mr. Sheehan, however, said he did not dream of quitting, and a similar declaration was made on Mr. Shepard's behalf by his friends.

LITTLE BUSINESS TO BE TRANSACTED

Lake Carriers' Association Has No Vexed Problem to Solve.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 19.—The annual convention of the Lake Carriers' association opened in Detroit today. According to President William Livingstone, there will be little except routine business transacted during the sessions, which will be concluded tomorrow. There are no problems relating to rates or labor matters to be solved.

The principal speaker at the banquet tonight will be Representative W. E. Humphrey of Washington.

The annual report of the Great Lakes Protective association made yesterday showed that in 1910 there were 177 accidents which called for an adjustment on the part of the association in 1909 there were 312 accidents reported. The officers were re-elected.

The Lumber Carriers' convention was held behind closed doors. At its conclusion it was stated that the proposed increase in rates did not come up for discussion. A labor contract with the Longshoremen's union was renewed for three years.

BILL MIGHT CAUSE SPLIT

city and country in which the hope of a just reapportionment will founder.

Chairman Congdon of the house reapportionment committee and Chairman Hackney of the senate committee offered in each house a concurrent resolution declaring it to be the sense of the legislature that any reapportionment bill that may be prepared shall provide for not more than 63 senators and 126 representatives, according to the unanimous decision of the joint committee yesterday. In the senate it was laid over until tomorrow, but in the house it was met by filibustering tactics that disclosed some of the opposition to reapportionment.

It was explained that its only purpose was to limit the size of the legislature, but as the resolution recited the provision of the Constitution that apportionment shall be based on population, some of the hostile members feared that they would be bound by it, if it was adopted, though by their votes to support the Constitution necessarily they are now bound by the same rule. The resolution was put on general orders to be considered later.

The house this morning adopted the joint rule, already approved by the senate, providing for the divided omnibus bill and adopted the amendments to its own rules proposed by the rules committee, limiting the stay of bills in committee to twenty days, providing that the house can recall a bill from committee by a majority vote at any time and requiring committees to file with the chief clerk a record of the votes in committee on all bills. The proposal to add ten Democrats and insurgents to the rules committee was voted down, nearly unanimously.

The house adopted a resolution by Washburn, Campbell and McNeill, protesting against the curtailment of the railway mail service that is said to be in progress under the postoffice department's policy of retrenchment. It was claimed that the service is being impaired and the clerks overworked.

Senator Hackney in the senate and Representative Washburn in the house offered resolutions favoring San Francisco for the Panama exposition.

The senate adopted Senator Nelsen's resolution demanding that the board of regents furnish itemized details of its requirements for equipping Elliot memorial hospital.

Following bills came in:

Senator Moonan—Increasing the telephone gross earnings tax to 6 per cent, and the insurance tax to 4 per cent.

Senator Dwinnell — Requiring that personal injury cases must be brought within three years.

Senator Nelson—Prohibiting wholesale dealers in any kind of liquor from getting retail licenses for others and from being interested in retail liquor establishments.

Senator Sageng—Repealing the law authorizing Sunday baseball.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

Le Sueur Poisoner to Hang.

Le Sueur, Minn., Jan. 19.—O'Malley, the Le Sueur county farmer, who poisoned his two stepchildren, was denied a new trial and the board of pardons refused to change his sentence, so he must hang.

READY AID TO FARMERS

Duluth Truck Gardeners Will Have Advantage of Experimental Tract.

Back to Soil Disciples Will Have Friend in Need.

Arrangements have been completed for one of the most thorough-going bureaus of information for beginners in the truck garden business at the Graysolon farms, ever attempted anywhere.

The extension service of the state farm school will have the management of a demonstration tract where those who buy lands of the Graysolon Farms company will be offered every possible assistance.

C. P. Craig said today that he has closed negotiations which insure that Duluthians who want to take advantage of the opportunity offered them, will get the highest expert advice available, so that any man possessing the proper spirit can make a success of a return to the land such as is made possible by the Graysolon farms.

This project is backed by some of the best known and wealthiest residents of Duluth, who seek, not so much to gain profit, as to do the greatest amount of good they can by making it easy for the salaried man to get a home and an acre on which to grow the things that will decrease the cost of his living.

"The demonstration tract will serve an excellent purpose," said Mr. Craig this morning. "We have planned it very carefully, five members of the faculty of the state farm school having devoted serious and careful attention to all the details. They are working out a scheme for this tract and their plan will be submitted to two of the most successful practical truck farmers in the state for criticism and advice. Then it will be brought here and we will go over it for a final examination. When it is put into operation, it will have passed the closest scrutiny. In the spring we will begin to till the soil on this demonstration tract, which will be from seven to ten acres in extent. The best and most adapted seed will be used and the methods by which the best results are attained will be followed. The stuff we raise will be marketed through the Producers' Co-operative market on Michigan street. The ground was broken last season and is now being fertilized.

"Statistics compiled by the federal authorities show that 63 per cent of the expenditures of the wage earner are for housing and for the table. The man who goes on one of these Graysolon farms will be able to raise all the vegetables, root crops and fruit his family will consume, and more. When he has such a property in going shape, it will be in effect an increase of 50 per cent in his income. That without consideration of what he may be able to sell, which will depend upon himself.

"When the city man goes onto one of these tracts it is probable that he will be entirely lacking in experience. The man who has had some experience will also be at a loss at times to know just how to go ahead. He may be in doubt as to what seed to use, how far apart to plant his strawberries, or any one of a thousand and one things. All he will need to do is to visit the demonstration tract. There he will find out all he may need to know. There will be no charge for this service. The object is to help the man.

"For too long a time the business of selling lands to a man and then letting him shift for himself with no attention from those responsible for his being there except to collect money from him, has been going on. We propose to see him through. We will do everything we can to help him make a success of his venture, and there is no reason why he should not succeed."

Prof. Cooper of the farm school, who is at the head of the extension work, has taken a lively interest in the planning of the demonstration tract. A representative of that department of state educational effort will visit it not less than once a week and the service will maintain a general supervision of the tilling of it.

PERMIT TO BUILD A DAM

Great Northern Development Company Will Push Coon Rapids Project.

President Taft has signed a bill granting the Great Northern Development company of Duluth permission to build a dam in the Mississippi river at Coon Rapids, six miles above Minneapolis.

C. C. Cokefair, the president of the company, who has been in Washington recently pushing the bill, said at the Spalding last evening:

"The proposed dam and power house at Coon Rapids is one of five separate power propositions on the Mississippi river between Minneapolis and St. Cloud, which have been located by the Great Northern Development company of Duluth. The available fall in the Mississippi river along the section of the river referred to is 156 feet, capable of developing approximately 100,000 horse power. The three upper locations were disposed of to Eastern capitalists some time ago, who recently sold them to the Minneapolis General Electric company. The development company still retains the two powers nearest Minneapolis, one at Coon Rapids and the other at Anoka, having a capacity of 35,000-horse power, which it will now proceed to develop and transmit either to Minneapolis or St. Paul."

This is the first dam permit issued through congress and the White House since the Roosevelt administration. Many requests have been made for permission to build power dams, but strong opposition developed in each instance and the projects were not approved. Mr. Cokefair gives Congressman Miller much credit for the successful issue in this instance. While a member of the National Conservation association, Mr. Cokefair is an advocate of the early utilization of water power sites throughout the country.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.
ODEUM and LYRIC—Photoplay.

Green Room Gossip.

Lola Merrill, who is appearing at the Orpheum this week, was one of the members of the "Bluebeard" company, which was playing at the Iroquois theater, during the memorable fire, which snuffed out 600 lives. Miss Merrill was appearing in the support of Eddie Foy at the time, and had one of the singing parts in the musical comedy. She escaped from the theater with only the dress she wore and a pair of stockings.

Miss Merrill is a sister-in-law to George Cohan and Sam Harris, who are probably the best known theatrical producers at the present time. Cohan and Harris married sisters of Miss Merrill. Miss Merrill is even better known in musical comedy circles than she is in vaudeville. For two years she had one of the leading roles in Sam Bernard's company, following her engagement with Eddie Foy. Last year she and her husband, for Frank Otto is her husband, went into vaudeville, playing the Eastern time, and this year they booked over the Orpheum circuit.

An act that is causing no little comment among Empress patrons this week, is that presented by Miss Itala. This is the first appearance in Duluth of this daring young artist, who comes direct from Europe, having been in this country only five weeks. She was booked by the London office of the Sullivan & Considine circuit. She is a product of the gymnasiums of Germany, and her equilibristic and head balancing feats have rarely been equalled.

Miss Itala is little more than a girl being scarcely out of her 'teens, but she is marvelously strong and lithe, and she has been a big hit at the Empress this week.

New programs of photoplay are being presented at the Odeum and Lyric theaters for the last half of the week. "In the Days of Chivalry" is the name of the new feature film at the Lyric which tells the romantic story of Aucassin and Nicolette, one of the most famous love stories ever told in poetry. The other numbers on the bill are: "The Stranger," and "The Misses Finch and Their Nephew Billy." I. S. Mistachkin is singing "The Girl From Old Chicago."

At the Odeum "The Midnight Marauder," which tells a most amusing story of a braggart's adventure with a burglar, is the feature film. "Romana's Father" is a dramatic little story, and "In the Shadows of The Past" is another attractive photoplay. Miss Elizabeth Maddox is singing "Sweet Girl of My Dreams."

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

SNOW

The thermometer got down to zero last night, as the weather man said it would. Today was moderately cold and the air was slightly raw. There will be snow flurries this evening and the temperature tonight will be about zero. A cold wave of moderate intensity is coming to the Head of the Lakes from Manitoba, but it is not carrying extreme temperatures.

A year ago today was an ideal winter day. It was crisp and cold and the sun shone brightly. The sun got up this morning at 7:47 o'clock and will set this afternoon at 4:51 o'clock.

Forecaster Richardson comments as follows on weather conditions:

"A cold wave of moderate intensity overlies Manitoba, and temperatures over that section have fallen 20 to about 30 deg. during the last twenty-four hours. This cold wave will reach the Head of the Lakes by evening, but no very low temperature is anticipated, simply a more or less decided change in comparison with the conditions that prevailed Wednesday. With an expected shift of wind to easterly, the temperature may rise somewhat in this locality during Friday. The low pressure areas overlying Eastern Ontario and British Columbia are largely responsible for the snow or rain that fell over the northeastern lake region, lower Mississippi valley, Western Gulf states and Northwest Pacific districts during the last twenty-four hours."

General Forecast.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

Upper Michigan — Local snows and colder tonight; Friday cloudy with snow near Lake Superior.

Wisconsin — Cloudy and threatening tonight and Friday; colder in northwest portion tonight.

Minnesota — Unsettled weather with probably light snow tonight or Friday; warmer in west portion tonight.

Iowa—Unsettled weather tonight and Friday; warmer in west portion tonight.

North Dakota — Unsettled weather with snow tonight or Friday; warmer tonight.

South Dakota — Unsettled weather tonight and Friday; warmer tonight.

Montana — Rain or snow tonight or Friday; colder Friday and in north and west portions tonight.

Shippers' forecast — Protect thirty-six-hour shipments of perishables against zero temperature in Northern Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin, and from about zero to 10 deg. above in the Eastern Dakotas, Southern Minnesota, Southern Wisconsin and the Michigan Copper country.

Makes a Pint of Finest Cough Syrup.
Cheap and Effective, Too.

The most effective and economical cough syrup can be made at home by any one, and in this day of high prices for foodstuff and clothing any family can appreciate a saving even on a necessity like cough syrup.

First, obtain of any well-stocked druggist 2½ ounces of essence Mentho-laxene. Empty it into a pint bottle. Then take a pint of granulated sugar, add a half pint of boiling water, put on fire and let come to a boil. Cool and pour in bottle. Shake the mixture well and take a teaspoonful every hour or two until cough is broken up; then take whenever necessary. Give children less according to age.

This mixture will break up a cold and cure a cough much more rapidly than any ordinary mixture, because it is not constipating, but laxative in action when 8 to 10 doses are taken daily. If your druggist does not have mentho-laxene, he can obtain it for you from the wholesale firms. Try this splendid recipe and you will never want anything better.

the committee was that no counties should be divided in forming senatorial districts save where conditions compel it, as in St. Louis, Ramsey and Hennepin counties, and where a city is in more than one county. St. Cloud is divided between Stearns, Benton and Sherburne counties.

The third suggestion was that so far as possible the various sections, when the total membership allotted to them is arrived at, shall get together and indicate the preference as to districts, and that so far as possible counties in congressional districts shall be grouped together.

Representative Districts.

Senator H. W. Cheadle of Duluth moved that not only senatorial districts but representative districts should be created, so that instead of having two or more representatives running at large in a senatorial district, each would be assigned to a separate district and be elected from that district alone.

Members of the joint committee feared that this would complicate the work of reapportionment so as to delay if not defeat it, and opposition arose. It was explained by Mr. Cheadle that after senatorial districts have been created it is an easy matter for the representatives to get togeher and agree upon a division of territory, which the legislature invariably accepts as a matter of courtesy. Thus Goodhue county, though a single senatorial district with three house members, has been divided into three house districts, and the house members run in these districts only, instead of at large. The Clay-Wilkin-Becker county senatorial district has three house members, but one is assigned to each county, and runs in that county alone. This has been done in many instances.

Senator Cheadle withdrew his motion, stating that it would be introduced again at the next meeting of the committee.

After the joint session, the senate committee held a separate meeting at which the chairman was empowered to appoint a sub-committee of one member from each congressional district, which, with the chairman as a member ex-officio, will draft a bill. This is the plan instittued in the house committee by Chairman Congdon, and it will, it is believed, greatly facilitate the work in both branches.

Wants a Smaller Senate.

Senator George P. Wilson of Minneapolis has advocated a smaller senate, and at the senate committee meeting yesterday he proposed an informal test vote on the proposition which resulted in an even break, six for and six against. While theoretically everybody agrees that a smaller senate would be better, Minnesota having the largest state senate in the country, it is not at all probable that any attempt will be made to reduce the size of the upper branch, because it is feared that it would increase the opposition to reapportionment by depriving more senators of the districts that elected them.

Work on the reapportionment bill will proceed tentatively from now on in both branches. The sub-committees will be appointed shortly, and in the meantime the chairman have their clerks at work on the groundwork. Actual reapportionment will be delayed until the census figures are complete. The figures by counties and communities are in hand, but the figures by wards and townships are not yet here, though they are expected any day.

Distance Tariff Bill.

The senate railroad committee will hold an open meeting tonight on the Cashman distance tariff bill, at which Senator Cashman will present his arguments for the measure, and arrangements will be made to hear the opposition that is expected to develop from railroad and commercial interests.

In view of the widespread interest in this measure, and the fact that its passage is by no means unlikely, The Herald has asked Senator Thomas E. Cashman of Owatonna, the author of the bill, to present his views as to its bearing upon the future of Duluth. Mr. Cashman believes that his bill would help Duluth instead of hurting it, and because that view is so sharply in contrast with the views of the leading commercial interests of Duluth, there will be interest in his statement, which is as follows:

"I believe that those in Duluth who oppose my bill have a strong impression as to the manner in which it might work out as affecting the interests of Duluth.

"I believe that the city of Duluth would derive more benefit from equal freight bills than any other city or town in the state.

"Duluth, situated as it is, on the head waters of the Great Lakes, has natural advantages which it cannot enjoy, or rather does not enjoy, on account of the manipulation of railroad rates, which I believe discriminate against Duluth, as well as every other city, town and village within the state, with the exception of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

"For instance, the coal rate from Central Illinois to points in Southeastern Minnesota, a distance of 450 to 500 miles, has been $1.40 per ton, while the rate from Duluth to these same points, a distance of 200 to 250 miles, is the same.

Want Coal Via Duluth.

"The people of Southern Minnesota would like to use certain grades of Eastern coal, which are shipped via Duluth, but the excessive freight rates from Duluth to those Southern Minnesota points prevent them from doing so.

"Why should not the people residing in the rural districts in Minnesota be given a reasonable coal rate within the state? In other words, why should not the railroad commissioners in Minnesota be authorized to establish an equal reasonable maximum freight rate on all commodities and classes on mileage measurement and service rates?

"You may say that the railroad commissioners did order a commodity rate, which was refused and contested by the railroad companies. This is true, but I believe the rates they named were too low on some commodities and for some distances.

"We do not ask for anything unreasonable. We are all willing to pay a rate that will enable the companies to successfully serve the public and give them returns out of which they can properly compensate their employes and give them fair returns on capital fairly invested.

"If we could control the rates within the state, I believe the majority of the surplus commodities produced within the state, as well as those of both Dakotas, would be shipped via Duluth, as that would then be our nearest and cheapest route.

"The people of Southern Minnesota are about 150 miles closer to the Eastern markets via Duluth, lake and rail, than via Chicago, rail and lake. This would give Duluth far more business than she now has. As far as I can see, it would benefit everyone, even the jobbers, who seem to be so much afraid of the proposed law, and for the life of me I cannot see where their interests would be injured, unless they are enoying a much lower rate than the published tariffs.

"A distance tariff law in Minnesota would not affect interstate shipments; therefore, would not benefit the jobber located in the rural districts on incoming shipments from points in other states. Of course, it would place them on an equal basis with their larger competitors when distributing to points within the state.

Chief Discriminations.

"The chief discriminations in this state are in the shipment of commodities, particularly livestock, lumber, coal, and other commodities not handled by the jobbers.

"I will cite one or two concrete examples. For instance, lumber is manufactured in large quantities at Cloquet, Minn. The rate on lumber from Cloquet to St. Paul or Minneapolis, a distance of 175 miles, is 5½ cents per 100 pounds, while from St. Paul to Owatonna, a distance of sixty-eight miles, it is 9 cents per 100 pounds. From St. Paul to Fergus Falls, a distance of 188 miles, it is 13 cents per 100 pounds. I find the rate on lumber from Park Rapids to Twin Cities, a distance of 209 miles, is 6½ cents per 100 pounds.

"The rate on iron from Duluth to Twin Cities, a distance of 161 miles, is 7½ cents per 100 pounds in carload lots, while from St. Paul to Austin, Minn., a distance of 100 miles, it is 12.2 cents per 100 pounds. I understand the rate on iron from Chicago to Austin is very little higher than from Duluth. This is discrimination against Duluth, as well as against the rural districts.

"I find that nearly all of the cities and towns within the state are discriminated against in favor of St. Paul and Minneapolis. Red Wing and Winona get the same rates on seaboard shipments as St. Paul and Minneapolis, but are discriminated against on lumber, iron, coal and grain, as lumber, coal and iron are the three commodities used in the manufacture of a majority of manufactured articles, take a much higher rate on like distances than St. Paul and Minneapolis, makes it impossible to manufacture at a profit anywhere in the state except St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth.

"The chief object of an equal freight law is to prevent discrimination. It charges the railroad commission with the duty of naming reasonable maximum rates based on mileage measurement and the value of the service, a rate that would fully compensate the railroad companies for short as well as long hauls, giving the producers or consumers, as well as the railroad companies, a square deal.

A Striking Contrast.

"For instance, the rates on lumber in Iowa, where they have had an equal freight rate law for twenty-two years, is 3.5 cents per 100 pounds for a 5-mile haul, which compensates the railroad company for the use of the cars while they are being loaded and unloaded. On a 70-mile haul it is 5 cents per 100 pounds. Please compare these with the rates on lumber from St. Paul to Owatonna. The rate on lumber for 200 miles in Iowa is 8.4 cents; 300 miles, 10.5 cents; 400 miles, 12.6 cents; 500 miles, 14.7 cents.

"This rate on lumber compares favorably with other rates in Iowa. This equal freight rate law would prevent the railroad companies from charging a higher rate than that named by the commissioners, but they could name as low a rate as they saw fit. However, if they should name a lower rate to any person in any locality they would have to name the same rates to all persons and localities in the state on their line of railroad shipping the same commodities the same distance.

"Senate File No. 5 is an exact copy of the Iowa law. This law has been found equitable and just in that state. It was fought out there in the courts for five years and finally declared constitutional."

Corrupt Practices Bills.

Candidates for office in this state would have to walk a chalk line, keep books and spend some time studying law if the bills covering corrupt practices, introduced in the house yesterday by Representative W. A. Fisher of Minneapolis and Representative W. T. Stone of Park Rapids should become law. They were briefly referred to in these dispatches yesterday, but they deserve further description.

In general terms the measures are similar, and Mr. Fisher's may be taken as an example. It limits campaign expense to the following purposes: Filing fees, space in public campaign books, traveling expenses, hall rent, contributions to party committees, and hire of challengers at the polls. The amount of campaign expenses, whether spent by the candidate or by anybody else for him, is limited to 25 per cent of the annual salary of the office sought at the primaries and 10 per cent at the general election. An independent candidate can spend 25 per cent of his porspective salary in all. No limit, however, is to be less than $100. Violation of these provisions is made a felony.

Here are some of the requirements of this measure:

Each candidate must keep a careful account of his expenses in a book provided for that purpose, and must show the date, purpose, amount and the person receiving the money, for each item. Committees must do the same thing and failure to do so or irregular beekkeeping is made a felony.

No corporation is to contribute to any campaign purpose.

No promise of reward of any kind can be made for campaign services.

Candidates cannot be solicited to contribute to any cause, political, religious or charitable, to buy tickets or to advertise in any book or program.

Candidates are forbidden to buy food, drink or entertainment of any kind for voters.

No person may solicit votes for any candidate or party on primary or general election day.

No public official may become a delegate to a political convention or a member of a party committee.

No public employe can solicit votes for the officer who appointed him to his public place.

No proxies may be used in political conventions.

Candidates must file statements of expenses, itemized, detailed and sworn to, and must swear that they have not violated any of the above inhibitions.

Any One May Complain.

Any elector may complain of any candidate's failure to heed the provisions of the act, and prosecutions are to take precedence of any other legislation before the courts. If there is no term of court in session, the court must call one and summon a special grand jury.

Forfeiture of office or nomination is one penalty for disobedience of the law; for others the prison yawns, for disobedience is a felony.

In both cases the Oregon campaign book plan is borrowed for application to Minnesota.

In the primaries there is to be a state primary election campaign book for each party, to be put out by the secretary of state, and a county campaign book for each county, to be put out by the county auditor. At the general election there is to be a general state book and a general county book in each county, in which all parties and candidates will be represented.

Candidates, in each case, may file their pictures and any matter they wish published, up to four pages of the book, paying fees graded from $100 a page for United States senators, congressmen, governors, justices of the supreme court, etc., down to $10 and $25 for city officers where cities adopt the plan. Those who are opposed to any candidate may have their reasons for opposition published in the same manner and for the same price.

Copies of these books must be sent to every registered voter.

There are differences in detail between the two sets of regulations. Dr. Stone's bill only allows expenses amounting to 15 per cent of the annual salary sought for instead of 25 per cent, but it provides that money spent in advertising, through the campaign book or otherwise, shall not count against this limitation.

If these plans are adopted, candidates for office will have to read up before they enter the political game.

State Board of Education.

Dr. W. T. Stone of Park Rapids is preparing for early introduction a bill providing for a state board of education to take over all the educational work of the state and correlate it. His measure is similar to the Kunze bill, described the other day in The Herald, but there is one marked difference. Mr. Kunze's bill excludes the state university, and Dr. Stone's includes it. Mr. Kunze thinks the university has problems enough of its own to keep the board of regents busy, and Dr. Stone thinks that if the educational work of the state is to be coordinated, it all ought to be co-ordinated, and not part of it only.

"The object is the unification of educational work," said Mr. Stone yesterday, "along the lines of the commission form of government, and without including all divisions of educational work it would be incomplete, illogical and inconsistent."

Senator Pugh of Duluth has been asked to amend his bill allowing policemen and firemen to get street car passes, so as to include mail carriers also. There is a fear that this would overload the measure, so he will introduce a separate bill providing for the mail carriers.

The house committee on express and electric lines yesterday recommended for passage the house bill allowing street railway companies to give free transportation to firemen and policemen. J. N. Johnson of Canby, a member of the committee, opposed it and said he would fight it on the floor of the house.

Spark Arresters.

The house committee on forestry yesterday afternoon recommended to pass the O'Neill bill putting on the roundhouse men instead of the engineers the responsibility of seeing that locomotives are equipped with spark arresters before they are taken out of the roundhouse. Under the present forest fire protection law the responsibility lies with the engineer, who has nothing to do with getting the engine ready to go out.

The house committee on taxes has acted favorably on the O'Neill bill authorizing the officials of Pennington county to extend on their books the taxes levied in that part of what used to be Red Lake county. It is said that real estate transfers are held up because the officers of the new county are unable to certify that the taxes are paid.

The senate selections committee has taken no action on the case of Henry Emmel's contest against Senator J. J. Ahmann, but it is likely that Senator Ahmann will retain his seat. The contest is based on the claim that Senator Ahmann was born in Germany, that he never has been naturalized, and that his father did not take out his second papers until after Senator Ahmann was 21 years old.

There is now pending a motion on Senator Ahmann's behalf to dismiss the contest on the ground that it has not been proved that he is not a citizen. The presumption attaches that, since Mr. Ahmann is elected, he is a citizen. The burden of removing that presumption rests upon the contestant. It is said that the lawyers on the committee are inclined to the view that the contestant has not proved that Senator Ahmann was born in Germany. Senator Ahmann, on advice of counsel, declined to testify.

The mileage for which the house members got pay yesterday at 15 cents a mile for the round trip amounts to 22,377 miles, or somewhat more than enough to go around the world.

FOR THE PUBLIC

New Formula Cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and Hoarseness in Five Hours.

Much is being done in these days to stop the ravages of consumption, but probably nothing has been so effective as teaching the public how to break up a cold and cure coughs, bronchitis, tonsilitis, etc., with simple home-mixed medicine. A laxative cough syrup, free from whiskey is the prime need. A cough indicates inflammation and congestion and these in turn are due to an excess of waste and poison in the system. A tonic laxative cough syrup rids the system of congestion, while relieving the painful coughing. Get the following and mix at home: One-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Shake the bottle and take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times daily. Give children less, according to age. Cut this out and save it for some friend.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: JAN. 22. I. Kings, xvi, 23-33: Omri and Ahab Make Israel Sin.

THE CONNECTION.

While Asa was giving Judah such a good reign down at Jerusalem, things were going from bad to worse up in the northern kingdom of Israel. In Judah there never was but one line of kings, from David down to the end; in Israel there were three dynasties before Omri, each introduced by the murder of the king. Omri was chosen by the army, after Zimri the usurper had burned the palace down over his own head, while Tibni was chosen by a large number of the people. Omri was the stronger, and, in four years, he had overcome Tibni and attached his followers to himself. He was the strongest and the worst king Israel ever had up to that time.

THE LESSON.

I.

Omri Worst So Far. 23-28.

"In the thirty and first year of Asa king of Judah began Omri to reign over Israel, and reigned twelve years; six years reigned he in Tirzah. And he bought the hill Samaria of Shemer for two talents of silver; and he built on the hill, and called the name of the city which he built, after the name of Shemer, the owner of the hill, Samaria. And Omri did that which was evil in the sight of Jehovah, and dealt wickedly above all that were before him. For he walked in all the way of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, and in his sins wherewith he made Israel to sin, to provoke Jehovah, the God of Israel, to anger with their vanities. Now the rest of the acts of Omri which he did, and his might that he showed, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel? So Omri slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria; and Ahab his son reigned in his stead."

1. POWER.—He was the greatest king Israel ever had in enterprise and constructive ability. Only one of his shrewd enterprises is spoken of here—the building of the new capital, Samaria. He had evidently shown the same foresight, ambition and determination when he was only a soldier, for he had won the highest rank in the army. Now that he is king, he displays added power. He was the choice of the soldiers for king, while Tibni was the choice of the people and on the death of Tibni, he won over the people completely—a great achievement.

The building of the new capital was a master stroke. It was on the oblong hill, bought of Shemer and named Samaria for him. He built this at an opportune time, after the palace had been burned by Zimri, and the people would not resent the change. It was a very valuable spot, for he paid two talents, equal to $4,000 and with a purchasing power equal to $40,000 in our money. It was valuable for its beauty, for it was about 400 feet above the valley and surrounded by a varied landscape extending to the sea. It was valuable for its strength—high and isolated and broad at the summit, so that it was almost impregnable, as Assyrians and Syrians and Macedonians and Jews afterward learned at different times. With the building of the new capital, the people entered on a new era as a world power. Abundant springs of water were near and fertile lands were around them.

In verse 27 we are told that the Chronicles kept of the deeds of their kings record many mighty and great acts of his, and elsewhere we learn some of them. He raised them from a small, distracted and insignificant nation to the level of a world power, united, ambitious and brave. He brought Moab under tribute and extended his territory, as we learn from II Kings, iii, 4, and also from the Moabite stone, discovered in 1868, on which Mesha, the king of Moab, recorded how Omri had oppressed them. He also made alliance with Tyre, for he married his son Ahab to Jezebel, daughter of Ethbaal, the usurper king of Sidon. That was cause of great evil, though it was probably considered a brilliant piece of diplomacy. Benhadad of Syria seems to have defeated him in battle, however, and established a right to certain special privileges in the city of Samaria, for his people. He established diplomatic relations with distant Assyria and made a great reputation for strength and magnificence. Over there they always spoke of the nation as "the house of Omri," even when another dynasty was reigning.

2. EVIL.—Personally, he was not more corrupt perhaps than others, but his public relation to the religion of the nation is what is spoken of. Jeroboam's sin was to pervert the religion of Jehovah for political reasons, and that is what Omri did, but in a worse way. The former legalized the use of idols in worshiping Jehovah; the latter legalized the worship of Baal, and he made idolatry compulsory in order to get on a level with the other nations and make it easier to form alliances with them. He perverted the faith of the people to further his political ambitions.

II.

Ahab Worst of All. 29-33.

And in the thirty and eighth year of Asa, king of Judah, began Ahab the son of Omri to reign over Israel: and Ahab the son of Omri reigned over Israel in Samaria twenty and two years. And Ahab, the son of Omri, did that which was evil in the sight of Jehovah above all that were before him. And it came to pass, as if it had been a light thing for him to walk in the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, that he took to wife Jezebel, the daughter of Ethbaal, king of Sidonians, and went and served Baal, and worshipped him. And he reared up an altar for Baal in the house of Baal, which he had built in Samaria. And Ahab made the Asherah; and Ahab did yet more to provoke Jehovah, the God of Israel, to anger than all the kings of Israel that were before him.

1. WEAK.—Incapacity for war, submission to his father's arrangements for him, submission to his wife and easy acceptance of the habits of other nations—these show it. Yet he had some skill at construction and diplomacy.

2. WICKED.—He bettered his father's example; carried his fashioning of religion in the interest of politics much farther, by building a temple for the priests of Baal and supporting 400 of them, besides feeding 400 more at his own table, thereby making idolatry convenient as well as compulsory. He made an asherah for the nature goddess, erected a bull for Baal, the symbol of the male power of generation. To him they sacrificed human beings and in his honor young women were dedicated to lives of shame. He thus permanently established the religion that Jereboam started. He may not have intended to drive out the worship of Jehovah altogether when he took on him the yoke of one of the most vile and powerful women history tells us of. But that is what he did. Over all the implements of lust and vice he hangs a splendor as of a permanent institution of the land. The nation's status is crystalized and its doom will come on, in time.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

Jezebel stands out on the page of sacred history as the first supporter of religious persecution. We learn from incidental notices that not content with insulting the religion of the nation by the burdensome magnificence of her idolatrous establishments, she made an attempt to crush Jehovah-worship altogether. Such fanaticism is a frequent concomitant of guilt. She is the authentic authoress of priestly inquisitions.—Farrar.

Bold, unscrupulous, firm of purpose, resolute in action, she was the Lady Macbeth of Israelite history, complete master of her husband, who was a mere tool in her hands, and the evil genius at once of her dynasty and of her country.—Rawlinson.

Christ sees a man in sin, and says: "Every power which that man sins with he might be holy with. Every faculty he serves the devil with he might serve me with. With all the richness with which he is wicked he might be good."—Brooks.

Wit and wisdom, sublime poetry and lofty philosophy, cannot save a nation, else ancient Greece had never perished. Valor, law, ambition, cannot preserve a people, else Rome had still been mistress of the world. The nation that loses faith in God and man loses not only its most precious jewel, but its most unifying and conserving force.—Fairbairn.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1—Why does the approval of another's sin make it our own?

2—Why is one to be judged by his treatment of God's law?

3—Why is a bad woman worse than a bad man?

4—Why is idolatry always a stimulus to lust?

5—When men start in to worship God and other gods, why do they always give God up?

6—Why is national destiny always dependent on national morality?

NEW EXCHANGE NEARLY READY

Zenith Telephone Company Will "Cut Over" Next Week.

Within a week, the Zenith Telephone company will be operating from its new branch exchange at the West end, the new $15,000 brick building constructed on Twenty-third avenue between First and Second streets.

When the "cut over" is made, a change will also be made in the system of calling for numbers. The city will be divided into four districts and every number will have a name for a prefix. The West end district will be known as Lincoln, the West Duluth district as Cole, the main uptown exchange as Grand and Lakeside as Park.

The West end exchange will employ about fifteen operators at the start. The long distance lines of the company are being removed from the main exchange in the Lyceum building to the West end. A new directory will be issued soon on account of the change in the system of numbering.

COLLECTING EVIDENCE AGAINST SALOON MEN?

Secret meetings of the newly formed organization are being held for the express purpose, it is said, of collecting evidence against alleged lid-tilting saloonkeepers.

It is understood that a committee will be appointed soon to make the rounds of the various places which are suspected and any evidence that is secured will be used in prosecuting the liquor men.

The United Temperance association comprises all of the West end temperance societies. Each of the cold water organizations has respresentatives at the meetings.

FIRE IN ORPHAN ASYLUM.

Bravery of Sister in Charge Saves All the Inmates.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 19.—Falling into line at the sounding of the fire alarm, 150 children, ranging in age from 5 to 14 years, marched from St. Joseph's orphan asylum last night and escaped uninjured from the flames which totally destroyed the main building and dormitory at an estimate loss of $75,000.

After the children and their attendants had left the building, Sister Maracolena, who was in charge of the home, turned back and made her way through the smoke-filled corridors to make sure none had been missed. On the fourth floor she found a postulant in bed, too ill to walk. Lifting her bodily, Sister Maracolena carried her to safety.

Rushing back into the burning building, the sister found and carried out 6-year-old Marguerite Ryberg, an orphan who also was too ill to save herself. A third trip to the fourth floor and an examination of every room satisfied Sister Maracolena that all the inmates had been saved. Then groping her way to the open air, she collapsed and had to be attended by a physician. She was soon revived, however, and resumed the work of caring for her charges.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Man Kills Woman and Then Himself in Oskaloosa, Ia., Hotel.

Oskaloosa, Iowa, Jan. 19.—Harry S. Attig, 38 years old, shot and killed Mrs. Rosetta Crill and committed suicide while the couple were in a hotel here yesterday.

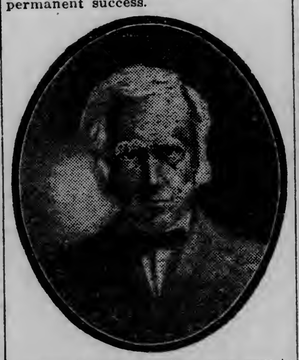

Attig had only a few dollars left of a considerable fortune inherited by him. His eye-sight also was failing and he was despondent.

Restful Sleep Restored—Indigestion Cured

MR. D. F. SIBERT, 81 Years of Age.

"Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is far superior to all else as a strengthener and health builder for the aged, weak and sickly," says Mr. D. F. Sibert, 81 years of age.

He writes: "I am always ready to render merit and justice where they belong, and will state that my experience with Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is that when taken in medicinal doses it is an excellent tonic. I am 81 years old and have suffered a great deal with indigestion and kidney trouble. These troubles were overcome by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. It induces sleep and creates thirst for a glass of water before breakfast. By this the system is the better supplied with oxygen. I find Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey far superior to all else, and while I am greatly opposed to taking spirits as thousands do, I will always use Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey." D. F. Sibert, Scotland, Archer Co., Texas.

MASSACHUSETTS DID IT.

Massachusetts did it.

By a majority of six the legislature voted to send Henry Cabot Lodge back to the United States senate. Butler Ames, the Republican who was Lodge's chief opponent, was given only seven votes. Other votes were scattered, but nobody got enough to count materially.

But the significant thing is the result, which is that Senator Lodge, the comrade-in-arms of Aldrich, Hale, Smoot and all the rest of the standpat contingent, has been re-elected to the senate. It means that while other states are going to be represented in that body by real progressives, Massachusetts is to be among those that are tied to the tail of the broken kite of "regular" Republicanism.

Perhaps the rest of the country had no reason to expect anything else from Massachusetts, but it somehow did. The election of Foss for governor was cheered widely, though the legislature remained Republican. Ex-President Roosevelt backed Lodge's campaign, but that feature, in the light of results to other candidates whom Roosevelt supported, may not have had much to do with the outcome. Neither is it likely that Lodge's eleventh-hour scramble to get on the progressive bandwagon counted much. Then what did?

Probably it was just this: The Massachusetts legislature, in spite of the Democratic victories in that and other states last November, refused to recognize the extent of the popular dissatisfaction with the rule that had been given the country by the men and interests with which Lodge always had been allied. Its own ranks remained safely Republican with a majority of twenty-two on joint ballot. Therefore the lesson did not come home, and the legislators could see no reason for turning down the man who had helped to bring about the downfall of the Republican party throughout the country.

Probably if Massachusetts had been operating under the primary law in the nomination of United States senators the result would have been different, that is, if it had a primary law under which the choice of the people was mandatory. But Massachusetts has no such law, and the result is that its legislature has returned to the senate one of the men who helped to burden the country with unpopular and undesirable legislation. The action means a black eye for Massachusetts and a clear gain throughout the country in favor of the principle of the direct election of members of the United States senate.

EUGENE ELY'S STUNT.

In spite of the duplicate horrors that accompanied the close of the old year in the aviation world, the men who fly have not given up their tasks. But they have learned caution from the fate of Hoxsey, so that they keep more strictly to the practical uses of the aeroplane instead of indulging in spiral glides and dips that serve no purpose except to make the spectator—and the aviator, too, probably—catch his breath.

Eugene Ely's feat of flying from the land to a warship and back adds a new achievement to the list of the air-men's deeds, and one that is of the greater interest because it demonstrates something of value. Being able to land on the warship and later rise and return to the shore, Ely of course could start his round trip from the deck of the vessel, fly over fortifications or other defenses, locate bodies of troops, and return to the ship with information that would be invaluable to an attacking force. The possibility of the feat has been claimed before by aviators, but its demonstration is worth a good deal to army and navy interests.

But the possibilities Ely's flight makes clear are not confined to war. He has shown that necessary communication can be had between ships and portions of coast that are unapproachable for one cause or another, as well as between two or more vessels. In fact, the demonstration that an aeroplane can be landed within a short space and with such surprising accuracy is exceedingly valuable. With the nonchalance of an experienced air-man Ely says "it was easy enough," but his accomplishment is too valuable to be dismissed in that brief fashion. It was one of the most interesting tests and the most worth while of any that the aeroplane has been put through in some months.

THAT COLD STORAGE SCARE.

Much is being made by the cold storage interests of what they declare to be the "necessity" for getting rid of the stocks they have on hand. It is interesting to see the men who have been manipulating the necessaries of life for their own profit taking such energetic measures to prevent the loss of that profit, as they tell us they are in imminent danger of doing. Perhaps it is unfair to question the motive when the result is to some small degree what the people have been wanting, but in this case it is impossible to keep from wondering about the ins and outs of this sudden fear.

Is production so much greater than it has been that the storage man cannot take care of the stuff? They have been face to face with increases in production before this, and have built new warehouses to take care of the food which they kept from falling into the hands of the consumers. Are they really over-stocked? Investigation in Chicago and elsewhere has shown that they have kept some articles, specifically poultry and dairy products, three and four and even five years, and surely they are not afraid that another year or two would spoil the goods any more than they have spoiled already.

All this may be the source of the scare, but it is more likely that the sudden fear the cold storage interests exhibit is something that has been kept carefully tucked away in those same warehouses all this time, to be brought out when the people should at last "get wise to" the storage game and demand an accounting of some kind. Maybe an analysis of this particular brand of fear would show that it is as aged as some other goods that the same interests have put on the market, even though the price of it is not as high as those of foodstuffs.

It is worth while to remember that the legislatures of Minnesota, Illinois, New York, New Jersey and some other states are taking an interest in the cold storage business, and are siding with the public in the matter. That is more than likely the real reason for the sudden anxiety of the storage people to clear their warehouses of the stuff they have had in them for months and years. With that out of the way, they could make a better showing when the investigators come their way, and perhaps could ward off legislation that would make them come to time and give the people the advantage which the public is entitled to demand from the men who make a business of manipulating the nation's food supply.

DO WE WANT HALF-CENTS?

There is a wonderful interest—wonderful no less for its extent than for the favorable comment which the proposal is exciting—throughout the country in the proposition that the coinage of 5-mill or half-cent pieces be resumed by the United States government. Probably to many of the present generation the idea of so small a coin seems novel, and yet there have been put into circulation in this country in the past no less than 7,985,222 such pieces. Their coinage was begun with the adoption of the American monetary system and the establishment of the mints in 1792, and continued until it was abandoned under an act of congress of Feb. 21, 1857.

There is much that could be said in favor of the resumption of the circulation of small coins. To be sure, their insignificance in value, as compared with the quarter, half-dollar and dollar, would reduce their use to a minimum in large commercial transactions, but in these days of close figuring of values and profits there seems to be a real need for the adoption of some such currency. It is customary for the housewife, in buying half a dozen of some article that is priced twenty-five cents, to give the butcher or grocer or baker the extra half cent. In payments of interest it is the custom to count the extra half cent involved in the calculation as a whole one. The thing has grown to be a habit. But somehow the practice always applies to the one who is buying, never to the one who is selling an article. Therefore, if a dealer is desirous of getting the last possible limit of profit out of his goods, he has only to make odd-numbered prices on dozens and bushels and pounds, and he reaps an unquestioned harvest of half cents that are clear gain. At the same time the consumer spends an equal number of half cents that are clear loss—he gets nothing for them.

It is in this one feature—the cost of living—that the currency of the half-cent would be most useful. In that usefulness it would apply most often to the advantage of the men and women who buy in small quantities. Therefore if the half-cent were to be restored to circulation it would be a benefit to the class of people who need it most, and as such the idea must appeal to the general public. The man who buys a winter's supply of coal at one purchase buys in even tons and pays even money. But the man who must buy a little at a time cannot afford to ignore the extra half cent that the splitting of prices often involves. It is the same with all other commodities that do not come in unbreakable units.

England has its farthing, which splits the penny into fourths; in France there is the 2-centime piece, equal to a little less than two-fifths of a cent; in Germany the pfennig, about one-fifth of a cent; in Norway and Sweden the ore, one-fourth of a cent, and in Russia and its dependencies the copeck is split into four parts, each worth about an eighth of a cent. The United States is the only nation which compels its people to give something for nothing in their smaller dealings. It would be well worth while to restore the half-cent to circulation.

BRIBERY A LA MODE.

If a candidate for public office wants to do a little bribing—or if the men who want him in office want to, which amounts to the same thing—it is all right, provided they do not go too far and bribe too many people.

That is the substance of the committee report in the Lorimer investigation at Washington. It raises a nice question, for it will need a careful decision by somebody of decided judicial temperament to determine just what extent of bribery is permissible under the statutes of the United States and the unwritten law of good taste.

Perhaps, under the circumstances, it would be as well to draw up a code something like this: A candidate for any city council may justly bribe fifty men to vote for him; a would-be legislator must limit himself to thirty-seven; a gubernatorial candidate cannot go beyond twenty-three; an aspirant to the national house of representatives must not exceed fifteen, and a prospective senator must keep within the limit of seven. Possibly a presidential candidate should be given wider latitude than any of these. That would be for the determination of the ultimate court. The system would have its advantages, for it would put a limit on the expenses of candidates in such communities as Adams county, Ohio, and would relieve the United States senate of a repetition of such experiences as those it is having today.

Meanwhile, what is to become of the standard legal motto that declares an action that is tainted in one respect to be tainted throughout? And for the matter of that, what becomes of the principle of political decency and honest government that should abolish all such corruption from the affairs of the state and nation? Maybe the senate can tell. It has a splendid opportunity just now, and when it gets through it will have the satisfaction of knowing that the voters at large will have their turn to do some telling when they go to the polls again.

Incidentally, it might be interesting to compare the votes on the Lorimer proposition that are cast by senators whose states have adopted the primary system of nominations to the senate with those of the men who look only to uninstructed legislatures for their return to office.

Beg pardon, but maybe it was the Lodgical thing for those Massachusetts Republicans to do.

Let us hope that neither New Orleans nor San Francisco will use unfair means to get the Panama exposition.

TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

Usefulness of Pussyfoot.

Cass Lake Voice: Ta-ta, Pussyfoot; hie you away to the wild and woolly West, where gun plays and gun men are in vogue.

Anyway, he supplied material for a lot of snappy paragraphs.

To Be Continued.

Brainerd Dispatch: Will the Minnesota legislature repeal the law prohibiting the sale of cigarettes or will its strict enforcement be continued?

We infer that this is a joke.

Apples, Not Sour Grapes.

Albert Lea Standard: A Chicago man who paid $5 for a barrel of apples found tucked away among the apples the following note, signed and addressed: "Dear Consumer: I received 75 cents for this barrel of apples. Will you kindly let me know what you paid for them?" There are evidently other things besides the tariff which contribute to the high cost of living.

How much of the profit—only $4.25—went to the railroads?

As to War Scares.

Carlton Vidette: This is the season of war scares, promoted, it is said by some, in order to get large appropriations for the army and navy and for the contractors who furnish military supplies. There is a report that the Japanese government has successfully negotiated with President Diaz of Mexico for a port and a depot of supplies on the Western coast. If there were truth in this, it would be cause for immediate interference by the United States government.

If Diaz attempted to pull off a stunt of that kind, his dinkey domain wouldn't last long enough to make a face at Uncle Sam.

Followers of Roosevelt.

Aurora News: There is no use denying that apparently the "big fellows" almost got Teddy's goat. But there remain a million agitators created by Roosevelt. What will the big fellows do with these?

The "big fellows" are beginning to wonder what the Roosevelt followers will do to them.

Morris Sun: It is said that the ship subsidy bill will be pushed in congress again this session. The fellows who are after this sort of graft never seem able to give up.

And it is to be hoped that Uncle Sam will refuse to "give up."

Shakespeare and Eberhart.

Cloquet Independent: The message of Governor Eberhardt was good and illustrates the famous lines of the immortal Shakespeare: "I could easier teach twenty what were good to be done than be one of the twenty to follow mine own teaching."

Meaning that the governor doesn't intend to take his own medicine?

Gordon and the Gang.

Hinckley Enterprise: Lieutenant Governor Gordon fulfilled his pre-election promises in the appointment of his committees, and the progressive element of the senate is in the saddle and the "old guard" is busy looking for a chance to cut the girth.

If the chance is seen, it is unlikely any of the old guard will have nerve enough to do any slashing.

Ton-Mile and Parcels Post.

Detroit Free Press: Engineering-Contracting, a "methods and costs" journal for civil engineers and contractors, has compiled figures on the comparative cost of carrying the mails and express parcels and its conclusions are deserving of consideration in the discussion of the parcels post question.

Roughly, the magazine finds that in 1908, the year taken for examination, the cost of carrying all mail was $209,890,000, and that the mail weighed 645,000 tons. The result, it will be seen, is that the cost per ton was $235, and, accepting the department's estimate of 3,000 miles, the average haul for second-class matter, as applicable to all mail, the ton-mile cost of postal operations amounted to 32½ cents in that year, which is presumably typical of all years.

In contrast with this rate, the magazine cites the average freight rate on American railroads, three-quarters of a cent per ton-mile, making the mail cost fully forty-four times as great as the freight cost. It notes incidentally, too, that the average cost of hauling farm products over poor dirt roads is not more than 25 cents per ton-mile. The essential part of the comparison, however, is with the operations of the express companies, and the interesting feature of the calculations lies in the conclusion that "we may be perfectly certain that the postal cost of $225 per ton of mail is at least two and a quarter times as great as the express cost per ton, with a strong probability that it may be three or four times as great." The details of the calculation are, of course, too bulky to be presented here, but the interested reader may consult the magazine and secure them.

The bearing of the computation on the parcels post discussion is obvious. The public pays the cost of carrying mails and express parcels, however they are transported, and it would be poor economy to divert a large proportion of the nation's shipments from a cheaper to a more costly agency. If the calculations of the magazine are accurate they must be given a place in the arguments now being indulged in by many people. The fact of their accuracy or inaccuracy will be easily tested by experts, and it is to be hoped, in the interest of a satisfactory settlement of the issue, that they will receive adequate attention.

Get Thee An Husband.

New York Evening World: Have you a little husband in your home?

For what is home without one of these, oh, my daughter?

Even as a Christmas tree without the trimmings.

Behold, a husband is the trimming on the tree of life.

He is a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

He is a decoration and a badge of merit more to be cherished than a Carnegie medal.

But a manless woman is an abomination under the sun!

She shall be cast out and covered with scorn.

The scoffers shall scoff at her, and waiters and porters and janitors shall not bow down before her.

Yet, behold, when anything in trousers appeareth at her side, she shall be covered with reflected glory.

For, lo, a woman is only a woman, but a man, though he be bald and fat and grouchy and frayed at the edges is a man for a' that.

And he looketh like a "tip."

Go to! She that hath not a husband shall find all her days flat, stale and unprofitable.

But a husband shall give thee work for thy hands to do.

Yea, he shall scatter thy carpets with ashes and newspapers; he shall make holes in his socks that thou mayest put them on again.

And what is life without an occupation?

Alas! how shall a lone woman bear the monotony of existence, with none to criticise her and none to argue with her; with no one to dictate unto her and nothing to get upon her nerves?

For, behold, a household without the morning row and the evening jar is more insipid than the village without a scandal.

Therefore I charge three, get thee a husband.

Yea, verily, verily, even a bought, borrowed or stolen husband is more to be desired than none at all.

For what profiteth it a woman, though she have every other luxury in all the world and have not a little husband in her home? Selah!

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 200 words—the shorter the better. CAUSE OF TUBERCULOSIS AND ITS PREVENTION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Permit me to trespass upon your time and space to express my opinion and views upon the subject of tuberculosis, its cause and the means which are being used to stamp out this terrible disease. It is seldom hereditary but acquired. Tuberculosis is not a contagious disease as contagion is understood, but is a communicable disease and can be prevented by the use of proper means.

Only those are attacked whose vitality is below the normal or healthy and vigorous condition. This condition comes from several causes combined and not from any one particular cause or condition; such as being poorly nourished, insufficient clothing and shelter; overwork in insanitary places and conditions where the person is exposed to extremes of heat and cold, impure air and close confinement under the conditions will render the person particularly susceptible to this disease. The practice of vicious habits especially among the young must not be overlooked. The statistics show that by far the greater proportion of cases of tuberculosis is to be found among the young. During the period of greatest activity of growth and development we find the greatest number of cases. This period is between the ages of 12 and 20.

The one geatest cause in producing this disease is "child labor" and the disease has increased in proportion as the child has been obliged to take his place as a wage earner. These are the facts and all efforts to stamp out the disease will only fail so long as the child continues under these conditions.

I wish to make this point emphatic that the disease will surely continue to increase until this practice is stopped. Under the present system it is impossible to do this, as in all or by far the greater number of cases where the child is obliged to work, the head of the family is unable by reason of disability or want of work to supply the proper means of life for them and the child as soon as able to do so must go to work or the family must suffer for the necessities of life.

Food, fuel, clothing and shelter are the necessities of life and without them we would surely die. These are now owned and distributed under the present system for profit by the few who have the means to control the manufacture and produce them. If the necessities of life were owned and distributed by the people for use only and not for profit, each would get his share and there would be no one who would starve to death in the midst of plenty as they now have to.

It seems almost beyond belief that we are obliged to make laws to prevent those who have the power to do so, from adulterating our food and poisoning us in every way possible for the sake of adding a few dollars to their wealth, but it is done every day, and this is not even the worst feature of it; after it has been adulterated and poisoned as much as they dare, we cannot get enough even then of it to keep us from want, it must be put into the cold storage and kept for years so as to get a higher price for it. These are the direct causes of the great increase in tuberculosis, and nothing but putting a stop to the system will put a stop to the spread and increase of this terrible disease. Medical skill and medicines are powerless to do this. Plenty of good nourishing food, warm and comfortable clothing, good, comfortable and well ventilated houses and plenty of fuel must be had before you can hope to check or stamp out this disease. Under our present system these necessities have gone higher and higher each year and wages have not been sufficient to purchase them, consequently they have had to get along with less and less until the child was able to help earn them.

Socialism will remove the causes and stamp out this disease and many other of the evils from which we are suffering today. The principles of Socialism are here to stay and will surely win, but there will be many lives sacrificed before it comes. Get some good work on Socialism and read it and understand it, and you will need nothing more to convince you of the truth of what I have said.

If you are afraid to do this, then read in the papers what the trusts and combinations are doing with your food and lives every day, for the sake of a few dollars more of profit, and then blame yourself if these things continue.

Socialism means for use, not for profit; the laborer shall have the full labor or product value of that labor, no more, no less. This will furnish all with plenty and leave enough for the sick and afflicted besides an old age pension. No one would be idle from choice as idleness would be a crime. Labor would be the only value and the measure of all values or products. Pardon me for taking up so much of your time and space in your paper but our "Theorists" do not seem to know what is meant by Socialism nor what it can do. Sincerely yours,

O. S. WATKINS, M. D.
Carlton, Minn., Jan. 17.

Noticing What One Sees.

G. L. Craik: "The Pursuit of Knowledge:" Another beautiful example of the way in which some of the most valuable truths of philosophy have been suggested for the first time by the simplest incidents of common life is afforded by Galileo's discovery of the regularity of oscillation in the pendulum.

It was while standing one day in the Metropolitan church at Pisa that his attention was first awakened to this important fact by observing the movements of a lamp suspended from the ceiling, which some accident had disturbed and caused to vibrate. Now this, or something exactly similar, was a phenomenon which, of course, every one had observed thousands of times before. But yet nobody had ever viewed it with the philosophic attention with which it was on this occasion examined by Galileo. Or if, as possibly was the case, any one had been half unconsciously struck for a moment by that apparent equability of motion which arrested so forcibly the curiosity of Galileo, the idea had been allowed to escape the instant it had been caught, as relating to a matter not worth a second thought.

The young philosopher of Italy (for he had not then reached his 20th year) saw at once the important application which might be made of the thought that had suggested itself to him. He took care, therefore, to ascertain immediately the truth of his conjecture by careful and repeated experiment; and the result was the complete discovery of the principle of the most perfect measure of time which we yet possess.

School With Native Experts on Staff.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Because a woman dreamed and worked for years to realize her dream, Cleveland will have a school where modern languages, French, German, Italian and Spanish, will be taught by teachers native to the countries. Pupils will learn to speak each of the languages "as well as though it had been learned in the country where it was invented."

Mme. Archinard will be at the head of the new school, which will be called the Practical School of Language, and which will be opened in a house equipped for the purpose not later than Jan. 30.

Mme. Archinard came to Cleveland eight years ago. She was born in Paris and for several years previous to coming here taught in a private school just outside of that city.

All this time it has been her great ambition to see a school started here where the languages could be taught in a practical manner, in a way that would enable each of the students to become proficient in pronunciation and in using the idioms of the language which he would study.

Already German, Spanish and Italian teachers have been engaged.

•••The Penfield Lock Stave company has been incorporated with a capital stock of $200,000. Its business will be the manufacture of staves and barrel heads under patents held by C. R. Penfield, who will be president of the new company. He was the originator of the Lockport Block company of Lockport, N. Y. The plant will be located at New Duluth and will employ about 500 men. Its capacity will be staves and heads for 8,000 barrels per day. A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Boston Transcript: Miss Hawtee (sharply)—You ask me to marry you. Can't you read the answer in my face?

Mr. Gaul—Yes, it's very plain.

Washington Star: "A number of performances are being described as improprieties," said one theatrical producer.

"Yes," replied the other, "it's getting harder every year to tell what improprieties the public regards as proper."

Buffalo Express: "I just had a letter from my cousin Genevieve, whom I haven't seen in ten years. I imagine she is very ugly looking."

"Why?"

"She says that she is teaching herself to swim."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Everybody emits rays. An angry man emits violet rays; a contented person emits pinkish rays."

"Sounds interesting. I wonder if my boss would emit a $10 raise of salary."

The Smart Set: Crawford—I suppose you'll have a yule log, wassail bowl, Christmas tree and all the other things associated with the festive season.

Crabshaw—No. I live in a flat, and the best I can do is a gas log, a bottle of prepared punch and diminutive Japanese tree in a pot.

St. Louis Star: "What's a dilemma?" asked one small boy.

"Well," replied the other, "it's something like this: If your fther says he'll punish you if you don't let your mother out your hair, that's a dilemma."

Lippincott's: A fat Christmas makes a lean January.

Life: Little George—O, mother, I made a fine swap with one of the fellows who goes to school! I've traded my mouth-organ for a spelling paper marked 100!

Judge: "Why do people have silver weddings, pa?"

"Just to show to the world what their powers of endurance have been."

Lippincott's: "What makes you so late?"

"I had words with the teacher."

"Indeed?"

"Yes; I couldn't spell them."

Boston Transcript: Mrs. X.—When my husband stays out all night I refuse to get him breakfast.

Mrs. Y.—When my husband stays out all night he never wants any.

Puck: Carr—That fellow, Motorton, is a pretty decent sort, isn't he?

Chugley—One in a thousand! Why, he never allows his victims to wait for an ambulance—always utilizes his own car.

Washington Star: "What is the hardest work you do?"

"My hardest work," replied Senator Sorghum, "is trying to look like my photograph and talk like my speeches when I get back to my home town."

Baltimore American: "Which one of the prisoners did you say was an athlete?"

"I guess it was the one who jumped his bail."

January Young's Magazine: "I am a great stickler," said Carter de Haven, who plays in "The Girl in the Taxi," "for neatness and order. A place for everything and everything in its place taught me that. I was shy, very shy, but one evening I mustered up courage to ask: 'When I say good night, do you think it would be proper for me to place a kiss upon your hand?'

"'No!' she sighed gently, and snuggled her head coyly on my shoulder, 'I should consider it decidedly out of place.'"

A man on pleasure bent may find himself on pleasure broke.

Cat Catches Live Rabbits.

St. Louis Globe Democrat: Tad, a large Maltese cat, has attained a reputation in St. Louis county as a successful hunter. The cat is owned by Roland L. Johnston of Fern Glen, St. Louis county, a St. Louis attorney, and former prosecuting attorney of St. Louis county. The cat has displayed wonderful ability as a hunter and has furnished the Johnston family numerous rabbit dinners. In return, Tad received cat delicacies.

Tad disappears from the Johnston residence and goes into the woods, where he will stay for hours at a time. Sometimes he returns dragging a rabbit, which he has captured. Tad does not eat the rabbits he catches, nor does he chew them up. He catches the bunnies by the back of the neck and drags them to the Johnston residence, alive and kicking.

THE OLDEST NATION.

New York World: The supreme court began the second decade of the twentieth century and the one hundred and twenty-third calendar year of the United States of America by issuing decisions upholding, in the World's Panama libel case and in the bank deposits guaranty case, the rights of the states in our federal government as they have been maintained from the beginning and as they were designed by the framers of the Constitution.

No other nation of consequence has lived so many years under a form unbroken and unchanged. No other is so old.

Not to speak of kingdoms of yesterday, like Norway, Montenegro and Bulgaria, the greater continental nations are all new. France learned from us the lesson of freedom and has had seven changes of established government since ours began. The present republic, forty years old, is the most enduring. The German empire dates from 1871; its states were pulled to pieces by Napoleon, put together in 1815, changed and rechanged during the '48 and after. The dual monarchy of Austria-Hungary was formed in 1867.

Holland and Sweden were rebuilt after Napoleon's fall and Belgium became independent in 1830. Italy will begin next month to celebrate in Rome her fiftieth anniversary. Spain gave Europe in 1812 the example of a free constitution, but from that day until 1890 had no stable government. Republican Portugal is in its first year. All the Latin-American nations are less than a century old. The United States of Mexico dates from 1867, the United States of Brazil from 1889. The Dominion of Canada, a true nation, was born in 1867; Australasia and United South Africa are much newer.

Japan changed her governmental system with the fall of the Shogunate in 1868 and the adoption of the constitution in 1889. Turkey's revolution is recent; so is the imperfect substitution of the constitutional monarchy for despotism in Persia and Russia. The new China is more than a phrase. All the Balkan states are new—Greece, the oldest, having been freed eighty-two years and under the present constitution forty-six years. Switzerland boasts of being 600 years old; in fact, the government was overturned four times in the nineteenth century, the present form dating from 1874.

The oldest great nation of Europe, nominally, is the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, which goes back to Jan. 1, 1801. But since that date the fact if not the form of British government has utterly changed from an oligarchy with a scarcely more than nominal crown. Trevelyan in his "Life of Macaulay" says that the trouble of 1832 was actually a rebellion, "but so brief and bloodless that history does not recognize it as a rebellion at all." It succeeded in practically every detail, but the revolution which the pliable unwritten constitution conceals is not yet complete. Now as it is since 1830, the British government may be new once more within the year.

As the oldest, firmest, most enduring nation, with central and local powers in stable equilibrium so dramatically reaffirmed in the defeat of the new nationalism at the polls and the defense of the Constitution in the courts, the great republic looks with keen interest upon the revolutions and experiments of its younger sisters.

WOMAN'S REALM.

The basis on which the Young Women's Christian association now stands was clearly defined last evening in the reports of the general secretary, Miss Ada Campbell and the treasurer, Mrs. Claypool, which were read at the annual business meting of the association, held at the building on Second avenue west.

At the present time the total membership of the association is 914, but with the membership campaign started today it is hoped that this number will be greatly increased.

There are seventy-two dormitory rooms, accommodating eighty-six young women and during 1910 there were 173 residents and 591 transients. This number seems quite large, but girls are turned away from there every day on account of lack of room to accommodate them and it won't be long before a new story will have to be added.

In the dining room a total of 133,167 meals has been served with an average price of 16.3 cents per meal. The average number served in the dining room a meal has been 121.

The meetings and classes in the educational department have been well attended, but this department showed a deficit of $425.28. This department has great chances for growth and for good work among the girls, especially among the foreign-speaking girls who are trying to learn English, and careful attention is being paid to this department. The total enrollment in this department was 706.

The directors chosen last evening were Mrs. W. B. Phelps, Mrs. C. H. Merritt, Mrs. W. S. Moore, Mrs. W. C. Agnew, Mrs. Carroll Graff and Mrs. Hugh Steele. These women were elected for three years. G. H. Claypool was elected trustee to succeed himself for four years.

After the transaction of all the business, an interesting program was given.

The Mandolin and Guitar club of the association played several numbers which were a surprise to the audience in their rendition, as the club was formed only three months ago and this was its first public appearance. Their numbers were very enjoyable and they responded to encores. The members of the club are: Misses Lillian Irwin, May Irwin, Georgia Johnson, Stewart, Marie Ceska, Sophie Ceska, Winnifred Andrews, Belle Munroe, Fannie Lippett, Sundberg, Granholm, Jan Meldrum and Florence Ohlke.

Mrs. Mary Nelson gave a reading of "Pauline Pavlovna" in an artistic way and was enthusiastically encored. Mrs. K. A. Ostergren and Miss Shesgreen gave the courtship scene from "Henry V" in pleasing form. Mrs. Ostergren was charming as the French princess and Miss Shesgreen as the English king was very convincing.

Beauty Aids

By MADAME MAREE.

A DELIGHTFUL SHAMPOO.

One of the finest things to use for shampooing is plain eggol. This can be had at any drug store, is inexpensive and makes a rich, creamy lather. Shampooing twice a month for a time will correct any faulty condition of the scalp and keep it healthy and pliant. This is especially good for those troubled with harsh scalps, profuse dandruff or excess oil. It also makes the hair soft, bright and fluffy.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

Edna: A good massage cream cannot be made with grease for a base. If you get three ounces of cerol at the drug store and dissolve in a pint of boiling water, stirring until cool and smooth, you will have a massage cream of superior quality. This massaged in the skin after washing and drying removes blackheads and all impurities, and gives to the complexion a ruddy glow of health which powder and rouge cannot imitate. This cream will not grow hairs and is expensive.

Freda: The hairy growth on your lip should not cause worry, as it is easily removed. Get an ounce of powdered delol at the drug store and mix a little with water to make a paste, then spread on hairy surface. After two or three minutes rub off and wash the skin. You will find this effective, and seldom requires repeating. The delol is a trifle expensive, but not nearly as costly as the electric needle.

Who is Sylvia? Sylvia is the third of the tribe of Pankhurst, famous throughout the world as the only original police guaranteed suffragettes. There are suffragists and always have been. The suffragette is a recent development. She is a suffragist who fights. The suffragette fights for what she considers her God-given and inalienable right to vote. Sylvia, of the tribe of Pankhursts, says she will let the chariot wheel roll over her neck if it would help the cause of woman suffrage. Good With the Evil

By HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD.

When a child commits its first theft of apple, or cake, or whatnot, the mother may feel a horrible fear of the apparition of the original cave-dwelling savage, of the foraging marauder, the highwayman, the thieving borderer, the vassal or serf who attended the high-handed raider who knew no other law than that of might.

When the child strikes its first angry blow she sees all that old original savage rising in him. "Opy the door," cried a 2-year-old child. "When I say 'Opy the door,' opy the door." And the mother knew that the time had come for her to obey tremblingly or to resist to the death the domineering spirit that had been laid to rest with bell, book or candle, capable of ruining the peace of a family to come as it might have ruined the peace of those dead and gone.

"You said that I would feel better when I had given away some of my caramels," said another re-embodied trait. "I don't feel any better. When shall I begin to feel better?"

And this mother saw something appaling as any old family ghosts, the old miserly spirit of one strain of his ancestry rising to contest, not with the desire for a peaceful existence, but with the spirit that loves luxury and ease so much that it never does right, but only with the slothful dislike of the consequences of wrong; and while others smile at the naivete of the urchin, she saw a problem before her as intricate as one in the calculus of imaginaries.

Perhaps it would help her to remember that one of the fairy fancies of science has been that owing to the thinner and lighter atmosphere of the planet Mars, the birds got the start there, in the matter of evolution, making the intelligent being of Mars, the human being there a winged creature, it is her art to make his moral atmosphere that which shall develop the winged being in her child's nature.

THE EVENING STORY

"Jasper De Clifford; Sandwich Man."

First Harvard, then Wall street, and later the Mills hotel and then the parks. And now the gutter; walking beween two boards which advertised a thin-waisted corset, the gutter.

As a sandwichman, Jasper De Clifford walked behind and before other sandwichmen and pondered deeply. Of course, he had long ceased to be Jasper De Clifford. He had become Jim Clark. It was better to be Jim Clark, even in a Mills hotel, and far better in the gutter.

So Jim Clark walked along the streets, always in the gutter, advertising a corset. He was an old man of nearly 40. Of course, 40 is not really old, but Jim was. Tall and thin, bent at the shoulders, haggard in face, long-haired; with eyes red rimmed and deeply sunken, with bent knees and a fearful hacking cough. Jim was utterly old at 40.

He had got his letter at Harvard and he would have killed you if you had reminded him of the fact as he walked along the streets in the gutter. And he had married Lucy Barnett—the prize beauty of a New York season. Lucy Barnett, pink cheeked, golden haired, blue eyed—a simpering miss, beautiful and rich, and utterly spoiled. A soulless fool of a girl, vain and weak, and wicked. She broke Jasper's life, and in two years drove him from heaven to hell, then she forgot all about him. Which, being interpreted, means that she ran away with a big, black-haired man from Austria, who scented his hair and wore diamond rings. Worst of all she took Jasper's daughter with her. The golden haired little Lucy had also gone when first De Clifford stood face to face with emptiness and hell.

That was the beginning of the end of things for Jasper. The scented note on his dressing room table, telling him that his wife and child had gone forever. That was the beginning of the end. Jasper De Clifford died at that moment and Jim Clark was born.

Drink helped Clark to gain his ascendency over De Clifford. Drink thinned De Clifford's face, painting blotchy streaks over healthy cheeks, dulling fine eyes, giving a firm mouth a slobberly, indefinite fatness. De Clifford, as I have written, went to a Mills hotel and became Jim Clark, drunkard, bankrupt, a borrower of golden coins from sympathizing friends. Greater fall from this condition is easy. The golden bororwings became silver loans, and then all credit died. Clark became destitute. He slept for nights in the park—or rather he tried to sleep. He got a few cents in the early mornings at a big hotel by courtesy of the proper porters; he lifted luggage from the tops of four-wheeled cabs for feeble drivers. Twice he had been sent to prison for being drunk.

And now he was a sandwichman advertising a corset.

All this rushed through his mind as he walked down Broadway that bleak day with the rain splashing on his boards on to his face and neck, and the biting wind eating into his feeble lungs, doubling him up with a fearful agony of pain. His was not a walk at all; it was a shamble, a tottering, bent-kneed, fearful shamble. One could read agony of mind and soul and body in that staring, wrinkled, red-streaked face of his as it stood out above the yellow of the corset poster. De Clifford has ceased to be, Jim Clark had ceased to be a man; he had become a shamed thing, a living personification of the utterly damned.

Then suddenly, just as the murky day gave birth to inky night, De Clifford came to life again. It happened in this way.

Crossing the road, tripping daintily in the manner of a thoroughbred, came a young girl. She was golden-haired, blue-eyed, pink-necked. With her came a woman and a man. All three passed just in front of the thing between the boards advertising corsets.

The girl, out of pity, spoke to the woman; there was a chink of money, and then child hurried back to the sandwichman and held out her hand, offering him money. The woman and the man stood by, watching and smiling.

Then the sandwichman, in a voice that carried with it the noise of a soul in torment, shieked one word, "Lucy!"

And De Clifford came to life again. The child stood stock still on the pavement's edge gazing up into the face of the man who had uttered her name in that terrible voice. The man and the woman stood rooted to the spot. People stopped in the street, commanded to stop by unseen power; for a moment the world seemed to stand still. Something awful had happened.

Really it was awful, though it was entirely comprehensible. De Clifford had been offered money—charity by his wife, through his daughter. His bent figure straightened, his red-rimmed eyes brightened, the hacking cough ceased, and his blotchy face turned pale as death—frozen death itself. With a clash the boards, glaring yellow and white boards, crashed to the ground, flung with a giant's strength, as De Clifford strode forward, unencumbered, straight-backed, as a sandwichman no longer, towards the man and the woman—his wife and her lover. There was a sudden bow, a sickening thud as the black-haired man fell backwards, and De Clifford had him by the throat.

The woman and the child shrieked, people rushed forward and tore the two men apart, and then De Clifford coughed again—the hard, awful, ceaseless noise of his coughing prevanting people from hearing what the woman and man were saying. They left a card with the policeman and drove away.

De Clifford, followed by a straggling crowd, was dragged, half-fainting, to the police station. Attempted murder—robbery with violence—mad—drunk—

He caught these words indistinctly.

Knew he was being charged. But most of all, he remembered the face of Lucy, his daughter, and the black, staring, frightened eyes of the man—stretched under him.

They put him in a cell, and the next morning, when they went to find him, they found that Jasper De Clifford, alias James Clark, was dead.

Granting Favors

By ALVA ARMSTRONG

Sometimes we are hurt to find that when we mean most kindly to a friend, and perhaps inconvenience ourselves considerably to do a favor, our act of self-denial is not appreciated, or, at any rate, appears not to be.

First of all, we must not always expect a perfect torrent of thanks conveyed in words when we perform a favor. It is well to remember that true gratitude does not always consist in returning thanks at the moment. Different people show their gratitude in various ways, so we must not misjudge persons if they do not profusely acknowledge anything we may have done to benefit them. It is far kinder to think that they won't forget our little services and that at the first opportunity they will most assuredly show their appreciation in a way, perhaps, that will be of far greater benefit to us.

True kindnesses done should really be performed for the pure love of doing good and for the regard which we have for our friends. There should not be the selfish thought of what we may gain, for any services rendered to those we love, nor should we allow our pride to feel hurt because their thanks may not be so effusive as we had hoped.

The truly unselfish girl never overestimates the value of her help or assistance, but will give whole-heartedly whatever she can, whether it be sympathy or more practical help, and will expect no demonstrative thanks.

A sweet disposition and kindly thoughts and actions are bound to win love all around. The heart that is overflowing with a desire to help one's brothers and sisters on their journey through life has its reward in knowing that good has been done, and that it is warmly enshrined in the mind of one who will not forget generous actions.

Very effusive thanks for a favor done or a kindly act performed are often much more meaningless than a few quiet words of appreciation which are really wholly sincere.

The really unselfish girl will think nothing of making sacrifices, and therefore will not expect warm thanks for the performance of things of which she herself thinks so little. It is self-pride that is hurt when good actions go unheeded.

The Kitchen

Celery Cream Soup.

This is a soup which is well worth the trying. In making it, cut a large head of celery into small pieces and stew it in one and a half pints of water till it is tender enough to pass through a sieve. Boil one and a quarter pints of milk in an earthenware saucepan with a grated onion, and add to this a thickening of flour mixed with cold milk. Let the whole boil for ten minutes. Then mix with the celery and a seasoning of pepper and salt, and just before serving stir in two tablespoonsful of melted butter.

Creole Baked Fish.

Cod or any firm fleshed fish will answer. A middle or tail piece is best. After scraping and washing arrange on a flat pan, pour over it and round a cupful of thin tomato sauce which has been well seasoned with onions and green peppers. Bake until the fish draws away from the bones, basting every ten minutes with the sauce, which is kept hot at the side of the fire. Serve with the remainder of the sauce.

Fruit Compote.

Put a quarter of a pound of lump sugar, one cup of water and the strained juice of half a lemon into a saucepan and let them boil quickly for ten minutes; then add any kind of fruit and cook slowly until clear and tender, but not broken. Then remove the fruit and reduce the syrup. Cream or custard served with the compote is a great improvement.

DULUTH TO GET SHARE

Agricultural Development of Montana Means Much to City.

Settlers Flocking Back to Claims Are in Need of Goods.

Duluth, the Minnesota seaport, is expected to enjoy a large share of the prosperity that will result this year from the agricultural development of Montana. There is special reason to look for a large increase in the business done in Montana by Duluth wholesalers and manufacturers, for thousands of settlers going back to that state after a period of absence from their claims and they will need goods to prepare them for the year's operations.

Last year these settlers left Montana in large numbers. There was a grass shortage, and the settlers appealed to the government for permission to leave their homestead claims, it being impractical for them to live there throughout the late summer and winter without fodder for their livestock. They were backed in their appeal by the influence of commercial organizations and the railroads and the government officials granted the desired permission. The settlers were given leave of absence for eight months, and they must return by April 1. Some of them are now going back to Montana and in a very short time there will be a stream of them pouring into the state from all directions.

Some are coming from points as far distant as Pennsylvania; others have been in states adjacent to Montana, and it is generally the case that they are generously supplied with money, but in almost every instance they lack supplies. This condition presupposes that they will be purchasers of all kinds of goods on a liberal scale.

Duluth Is Favored.

Duluth is the natural distributing point for all this vast territory. Situated at the Head of the Lakes, the Zenith city naturally looks to the West for a large slice of all the prosperity that abounds there, and if the observations of the agents of Duluth wholesalers and jobbers are to be relied upon, the trend of trade is decidedly in this city's favor.

The Puget Sound extension of the Milwaukee road will take in many thousands of new settlers this year to Montana lands now unoccupied, and many also who were there last year and went out for the winter. Duluth by virtue of location, has first chance at the big fertile country the Puget Sound has opened up, and many jobbing firms will put additional salesmen into that territory in the spring.

Lumber firms that operate lines of retail yards on the Northern Pacific, Milwaukee and Great Northern, and companies that operate lines of country grain elevators, expect a big year in 1911.

All the country west of the Missouri river promises a big trade this year. There is a strip traversed by one of the branches from the Puget Sound extension of the Milwaukee that extends from Faith to Isabella, that is typical of great sections in the West that, for the first time, will have railroad service in 1911. The land is good and new towns are springing up.

Some Virgin Territory.

Duluth wholesalers have their eyes on large areas like this that the Northern Pacific has opened up by extensions north and south from Mandan, N. D., on the big country in East Central Montana that was without a railroad until late last year, but will be well opened in 1911, and on the vast strech of land that lies north of the Great Northern rails and below the Canadian boundary line, where settlers whose lands lie adjacent to the Milk river irrigation project are jubilant over the appropriation recently announced and the determination of the government to push the work.

VERDICT FOR THE DEFENDANT

A jury in Judge Dibell's room returned a verdict yesterday afternoon for the defendants in the case of the Christie Lithographing & Printing company against the American Bonding company.

The jury held that the bonding company was not liable for the sum. T. J. Davis appeared for the plaintiff and Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell for the defendant.

SEASON OF 1910 DISAPPOINTING

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 19.—For independent vessel owners the shipping season of 1910 was disappointing in the extreme, but the ore and coal companies, who own their own vessels, profited by improved dispatch through the voluntary withdrawal of independent tonnage. In this manner President Livingstone of the Lake Carriers' association, characterized the season of 1910 today, in his annual address at the opening of the annual meeting of the association.

"The season of 1910," he said, "opened early and with a million tons of coal awaiting shipment at lower lake ports. But no sooner had the first big fleet reached the Head of the Lakes than it became apparent that there was a great surplus of ships. April 20 grain was taken at the profitless rate of 1 cent and vessels were awaiting cargoes at both ends of the route. In June the independent owners met at Cleveland and decided to withdraw 20 per cent of their tonnage for thirty days, yet the volume of freight continued to break all records.

"The wage scale of 1910 was higher than ever, the increases to all classes of labor averaging about 4 per cent.

"The open-shop policy of the Lake Carriers' association was continued and opposition to it practically ceased."

OBITUARY

Col. Nicholas Smith, aged 73, for many years one of the most prominent newspaper men in Wisconsin, veteran of the Civil war, author of "Grant, the Man of Mystery," and other pretentious works, died at Milwaukee Jan. 19 from injuries received from a fall last month.

William Tarr, formerly one of the most widely known distillers of the United States, died at Paris, Ky., Jan. 19, aged 86.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER.

Body of Well-Dressed Man Found in a Chicago Alley.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—A murder came to light here today when a milkman came upon the body of a man in a West side alley, carved and slashed in grewsome fashion. The victim bore no evidences of his identity. He was well dressed, his hands were soft and well cared for, and in his pocket was found a letter from a friend in Italy asking that the deceased look after the writer's wife and family.

Near by was found a short-handled ax, stained and covered with blood, and a few feet away were two revolver cartridges, empty. A revolver, empty, was found near an ash can near by.

First examination of the body gave no evidence of bullet wounds, but the torso and head were a mass of cuts. The victim was about 30 years of age.

CERTIFICATES ARE TAKEN UP

New Phase in Case of Former State Treasurer Bickford.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following closely upon the reorganization of the First State Bank of Bowbells, effected today, certificates of deposit in the office of state treasurer, given by that bank, were taken up and a total of $60,691.91 was turned over to Gunder Olson, the new treasurer. Payment was made at noon and places a new phase on the treasureship. The situation may prove extremely interesting.

Under the reorganization of the Bowbells bank, officers are named as follows: President, H. S. Steele, Mohall; vice presidents, J. E. Davis of Goodrich and Charles H. Baldwin of Minneapolis; cashier, W. R. Bond, Minot; assistant cashier, M. H. Powers, Zumbrota, Minn.

The certificates of deposit taken up by the reorganized bank were those for which G. L. Bickford, the retiring state treasurer, was arrested yesterday, and the fact that they have been made good, it is declared, does away with the charge of embezzlement that was preferred, as no actual shortage exists.

ATTENDS FOR FIRST TIME IN SIX YEARS

Czar of Russia Present at Ceremony of Blessing the Waters.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 19.—Emperor Nicholas was present at the annual ceremony of blessing the waters of the Neva today, for the first time since that eventful day in January, 1905, when the whole Romanoff family was threatened with death from a rain of grape shot, which, according to the official explanation of the affair, had been substituted, by an accident for a saluting charge in one of the guns of the Seventeenth battery of the First Horse artillery of the guard.

Today's ceremony happily passed off with no unpleasant incidents. A feeling of relief was noticeable in the crowd when his majesty left the scene.

VOTING AGREEMENT.

That Between Morgan and Equitable Trustees Made Public.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19.—The state insurance department today gave out a copy of the Equitable Life voting trust agreement executed between J. P. Morgan as the controlling owner of the stock, and Morgan J. O'Brien, George W. Perkins and Lewis Case Ledyard, the trustees, together with the correspondence on the subject passing between Mr. Morgan and the department.

The agreement is dated Dec. 31, 1909, and runs for five years. It is identical with that executed by Thomas F. Ryan in June, 1905, save that (it apparently being intended to operate only until a feasible plan for mutualization or its equivalent is worked out) the clauses in the Ryan agreement giving the trustees power to renew the trust every five years and themselves to put into effect a mutualization of the company have been omitted. Instead the agreement may be cancelled at any time by Mr. Morgan, this seemingly to permit the immediate carrying into effect of a permanent plan along the lines of his announcement when he acquired the stock in December, 1909.

Damage Actions Against Canadian Northern Go to Crookston.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forty suits against the Canadian Northern railway in which settlers in Northern Beltrami county claim losses by fires, which they allege were started by improperly protected engines on the railroad, the claims amounting from $1,000 to $8,000 each, have been sent by Judge Stanton from Bemidji to the local district court. The total claims amount to $65,000 and will be the feature of the June term of court here. The fires all occurred between June and September of last year, prior to the devastating forest fire which swept Baudette, Spooner and other places the first week in October.

The Crookston Lodge of Elks held the biggest meeting of months last night, when a class of twenty fawns were duly antlered. There is great activity in the local lodge at present, owing to the fact that their new building will be completed early in the summer.

New York, Jan. 19.—A storm of hurricane force, encountered by the steamer Cleveland on her way from Genoa, left marks on the vessel's superstructure which were still visible when the Cleveland arrived here today. The staterooms, which last their protective glasses, were flooded and carpets had to be taken up to plug the open portholes.

Washington, Jan. 19.—"That it is the sense of the senate that the Panama canal should be fortified."

Such is the full declaration of a resolution introduced in the senate today by Senator Money. The Mississippi senator announced his intention to speak on the resolution and it is probable that it will be used as a basis for general discussion of the question of canal fortification.

GIRLS WHO WORK SHOULD KNOW THIS

Writing on beauty topics for the Philadelphia Inquirer, Mrs. Mae Martyn says: "Liquid preparations are fast supplanting face powders, as it is found their continued use has a tendency to clog the pores, causing blackheads and other blemishes.

"I find," she says, "when face powders are tabooed and a liquid is used, the muddy condition soon disappears and the skin takes on a pink glow of health.

"One of the best and most popular lotions is made by dissolving 4 ounces of spurmax in ½ pint hot water, then adding 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine.

"This is much easier to apply than powder, and so simple and inexpensive to make that every woman should have it on her dressing table, while its use will be found invaluable for rough or blotchy skins."

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

FARGO MEET DRAWS MANY

Attendance at Tri-State Convention Thursday Is Best of Session.

Most Varied and Interesting Program of Meeting Being Considered.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—This is the greatest day of the Tri-State Grain & Stock Growers' convention from point of attendance. There are many visitors here from all over the Northwest attending either the Tri-State meet or some of the other ten conventions being held here this week.

Today's program was more varied and interesting than either of the preceding days. This forenoon was given over to the North Dakota Horticultural society, this afternoon to the American Society of Equity and this evening the annual concert by the Agricultural college cadet band will be given after which will occur the annual address by President Worst of the association.

Prof. McMeans of the North Dakota Agricultural college was the first speaker this morning and he discussed the "Farmer's Garden." E. C. Hilbourne of Valley City spoke on "Ornamental Trees and Plants in North Dakota." Prof. Waldron of Fargo discussed "Dry Land Tree Growing" and A. Brackett of Excelsior, Minn., spoke on "Starting a Fruit Orchard."

Equity Society Men Talk.

This afternoon the American Society of Equity had the right of way. J. M. Anderson, secretary of the North Dakota Union, spoke on what the society had done for the farmers of the state. M. F. Sharp, president of the national organization, told of the mission of the big organization. "What the Organized Farmers Have Done in Canada" was the subject of an address by Mr. McKenzie of Winnipeg.

After the band concert tonight at 7:30, Mrs. Louise Campbell will speak on what house economics mean. President Worst will deliver his annual address and rural school problems will be discussed by Prof. Larson of Madison, Wis.

During the forenoon the North Dakota union of the American Society of Equity held a special session. The discussion was on the question of a terminal elevator. The members of this state have subscribed $50,000 for that purpose. There will be a co-operative movement with the farmers of North and South Dakota and Minnesota and the matter of the location of the terminal either in the Twin Cities or in Duluth is to be decided before the delegates adjourn.

This afternoon the State Horticultural society is holding its annual meeting. Officers will be elected before adjournment.

The awards in the corn, the poultry and the dog shows will all be completed today. The high class of the exhibits in each has been a matter of a great deal of comment by the visitors.

Tomorrow is the closing day of the tri-state meeting.

These officers were elected yesterday by the Tri-State Grain Growers: President, John H. Worst, Fargo; vice president, Col. R. A. Wilkinson, St. Elmo, Minn.; secretary, T. A. Hoverstad, Fargo.

GRENEY MINN. VISITS DULUTH.

Greney, Minn., was in Duluth yesterday.

That is to say, P. J. Greney, returning from a trip to Mount Pleasant, Mich., was here between trains. He is the founder of Greney, Minn., which is between here and the border, a few miles from the Rainy Lake road, in the vicinity of Gheen.

But to say that Mr. Greney is the founder of Greney is not giving him credit for his many capacities. A few of his identities are:

Publisher of the Greney Weekly Herald.

Postmaster of Greney.

General merchant.

Deputy county auditor of St. Louis county.

Notary public.

Besides which, being daddy of Greney, the town, he maintains the attitude of a fond father toward all the kiddikins there. He has been a resident of the place for twenty years and is one of the best known men in that part of the country.

WOMAN ENDS TROUBLES-

Mrs. Olson of Calumet, Following Family Row, Kills Herself.

Calumet, Mich., Jan. 19.—Following trouble with her husband and the latter's relatives, with whom she lived, Mrs. Hjalmar Olson, aged 40, committed suicide last night by drinking three ounces of carbolic acid in the office of the prosecuting attorney of Houghton county. She had visited the office with her husband after she had been arrested for some family trouble. Her husband had refused to take her back home and while he was conferring with the prosecutor in an inner office she drank the poison, dying in great agony.

The Important Problem

confronting anyone in need of a laxative is not a question of a single action only, but of permanently beneficial effects, which will follow proper efforts to live in a healthful way, with the assistance of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, whenever it is required, as it cleanses the system gently yet promptly, without irritation and will therefore always have the preference of all who wish the best of family laxatives.

The combination has the approval of physicians because it is known to be truly beneficial, and because it has given satisfaction to the millions of well-informed families who have used it for many years past.

To get its beneficial effects, always buy the genuine manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

MOTHER LOSES HER OFFSPRING

Judge Flannigan Called Upon to Decide Case Requiring Solomon's Wisdom.

Menominee, Mich., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Even Solomon would have been puzzled to solve the problem that has just been passed upon by Judge Richard C. Flannigan of the Menominee circuit court. The judge has decided a suit for the possession of a child between the child's mother and its foster parents in favor of the latter. The case was that of Hattie Jahnek of Algoma, Wis., vs. Mr. and Mrs. August Collard of Nadeau, Mich., and was in the nature of habeas corpus proceedings for the possession of Mrs. Jahnek's 4-year-old child.

At the time of the baby's birth, the mother was between 17 and 18 years of age. She signed an informal release of the child to the mother superior in charge of St. Mary's home. Later she found that the child had been adopted by Mr. and Mrs. August Collard, well-to-do people of Nadeau.

Mr. and Mrs. Collard had become greatly attached to the child and although they had neglected to legally adopt it they took the necessary steps to this end the moment their possession of the little one was questioned.

Denied Assuming Child.

The mother of the child brought habeas corpus proceedings for its recovery, alleging that having left the little one in good hands she had not abandoned it, that the release given by her to the mother was illegal as she was under age, and that no notice had been given her of the child's adoption.

The court held that the fact of the child being left for a long time without any arrangements for its care or support constituted abandonment, although left in good hands; that there were also exceptions to the rule that a minor cannot be bound by a written contract, for in a case like this, where the welfare of the child demanded that somebody have authority over it, the mother having brought the child into the world was bound to care for it, or submit that it be cared for under the laws for that purpose. The court declared that unless such a position should be maintained, a charitable institution such as the Green Bay home would be unable to find homes for children, as people would not take them and become attached to them, with the chances of having them torn away.

PLACE FOR HEMANS.

Governor Osborne Appoints Opponent on Railroad Commission.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 19.—The fifteen Democrats in the state legislature yesterday made their first radical bid for recognition when the appointment of Lawton T. Hemans of Mason to be a member of the state railway commission, came up for confirmation. Mr. Hemans was the Democratic candidate for governor, and the successful opponent of Governor Chase S. Osborne, has placed him on one of the most important state commissions.

Senator James A. Murtha of Detroit, a Democrat, introduced a resolution calling upon the governor to present all the information in his possession concerning "serious charges made by the governor and other campaign speakers, that if true, would have a bearing upon Mr. Hemans' fitness to hold the honorable position to which he has been appointed."

The reference to criticisms made in the heat of the political campaign, was not taken seriously and the Murtha resolution was laid on the table without a roll call.

The appointment of Mr. Hemans was confirmed as were the appointments of F. J. Russell of Hart and J. B. Bradley of Eaton Rapids to be members of the state pardon board.

FILES ON PRIZE TRACT.

Forty Acres Near Warroad Is Now Claimed By A. Pousep.

Warroad, Minn., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. Pousep has filed on the much prized forty-acre tract of homestead land about ten rods north of the Canadian Northern depot that a large number of people including lawyers, doctors, land men, speculators, newspaper men, etc., have tried to file on the last three days since it has been turned down. It is considered worth $75 an acre and adjoins Chief Ma-mapuk's land, the tract having been under dispute before the interior department at Washington since the chief, about five years ago, took the piece as a part of his allotment and then relinquished it back to the government. Mr. Pousep is a Swede and has lived in this city about three years, during which time he has done janitor work and other odd jobs, while his wife takes in washing. He now intends to clear off his possession with the intention of establishing a market garden, at least until the time when it may come into demand for city lots.

SOLICITING A BRIBE.

Is Charge Preferred Against Otter Tail County Surveyor.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Jan. 19.—It has just developed that the late grand jury returned an indictment against Martin Alberg, a well known Henning surveyor, charging him with soliciting a bribe. Mr. Alberg has been a prominent surveyor in this county for years, and for a time county surveyor. He has been appointed engineer to draw plans and specifications for a large number of the ditches that have been dug in different parts of the county, and the indictment charges him with having solicited a bribe of $60 from Matt Lohi, who had constructed a ditch near New York Mills, the allegation being that he agreed to certify to the county board that the ditching was completed satisfactorily if the money was paid him, when the truth was that it was not completed satisfactorily.

Mr. Alberg was arraigned in the district court Tuesday forenoon. He entered a plea of not guilty and asked for an immediate trial, and the case has been set for Friday.

Health For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

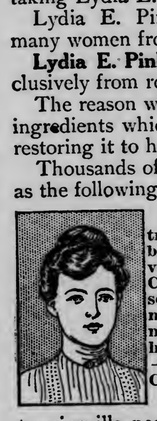

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless.

The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Coloma, Wisconsin. — "For three years I was troubled with female weakness, irregularities, backache and bearing down pains. I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking several bottles I found it was helping me, and I must say that I am perfectly well now and can not thank you enough for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me." —Mrs. John Wentland, R. F. D., No. 3, Box 60, Coloma, Wisconsin.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

MAY SEW UP THE SPIEL

Dunbar Continues to Win and Remains in All Events.

It now looks very likely that the Northwestern 'spiel will go over to next week. "Bob" Dunbar, if he continues to win will have the 'spiel sewed up. He can play but one game at a time and the others left in events will be forced to wait for him. If he is beaten this afternoon or tonight, the remaining contests can be gotten out of the way by Saturday night.

Up to the present time he has not lost a game. He is in every event and he looks good not only for the grand aggregate but for a greater part of the jewelry. He is going stronger at present than any other skip in the rink and his men are getting apparently better all the time. They have played on nearly every ice at the rink and this gives them an advantage over the others who have played fewer games. On the other hand he may not be able to stand up under the strain of playing in every draw and the unexpected is likely to happen. This morning he had an easy time in his game with Zauft of West Duluth, winning 13 to 7. The contest counted in the St. Paul Jobbers' event. He went right back on the ice after the Zauft game for a contest with MacRae of Duluth. This game is in the Western Curling club event. As soon as this game is over he goes on with Conkel of Arlington in the Duluth Curling club event. Dunbar is the busiest man at the 'spiel and his men seem to be in as good shape as any.

An Odd Game.

The Brewer-Bradley game was the feature of the early morning's play. At the end of the fifth head, Brewer had Bradley twelve down. In the end Bradley won by a score of 14 to 13. Brewer scored one in the first, one in the second, two in the third, six in the fourth and two in the fifth. It was here that Bradley got busy. He scored three in the sixth, one in the seventh, one in the eighth, three in the ninth, allowed Brewer one in the tenth, took four in the eleventh and by great work laid two in the twelfth.

This was a wonderful game of curling. There has been no game like it played up to this time in the 'spiel. In the beginning Brewer was more than strong and those who were watching the game lost interest in such a one-sided affair and began to watch the other games. When it was announced about the club that Bradley had won, it sounded like the impossible. The game was in the St. Paul Jobbers event and put Brewer out of it and put Bradley in the eights.

Whyte of Duluth administered to Covey of Phillips, Wis., an awful trimming in the St. Paul event, winning 13 to 2. Nearly all the other games this morning were won or lost by close scores.

W. K. Parkinson, third for Reedal of Phillips, Wis., left for his home this morning. Mr. Parkinson was ill from the time he reached the city. He was unable to play and the other three members of the rink have been playing through the bonspiel without him.

The scores of the morning game, the draw for 5 o'clock play and the tables corrected up to noon today showing the standing of the various rinks in the different events are given below:

POEHLER IS PRESIDENT

Duluth Man Chosen to Head Northwestern Curling Association.

President—Walter C. Poehler, Duluth.
First Vice President — Thomas McDermitt, St. Paul.
Second Vice President — G. B. Bredal, Phillips, Wis.
Secretary—A. W. Witbrow, Duluth.
Treasurer — F. W. Hargreaves, Duluth.
Executive Committee—Dr. C. B. Lenont, Virginia; A. G. MacAuley, West Duluth; Dr. R. C. Ogilvie, Superior; Charles F. Poehler, Minneapolis; W. D. Stewart, St. Paul.

The curlers of the Northwestern Curling association held their annual banquet last evening. They were out, 200 or more strong, and in the big banquet room of the Spalding, they ate and sang and talked, and told stories of bonspiels that have come and gone. After the banquet, the annual meeting of the association was held. Harry Hurdon declined re-election to the office of president for the third term and Walter C. Poehler, who has been secretary during the past year, was elected to the office of president. Ray Withrow, who is acting as manager of the present bonspiel, was chosen secretary of the association.

A motion was considered, but not adopted, providing for the holding of the bonspiel annually in Duluth, the expense to be apportioned among the different clubs. Although the motion was not adopted, it was decided to hold the next bonspiel in Duluth. Virginia was admitted to the association.

After the banquet had been served, Harry Hurdon, president of the Northwestern Curling association, opened the proceedings by introducing E. L. Millar as toastmaster. Mr. Millar was in his happiest vein, which is some happy, and his sallies were rich.

The Scottish Rite quartet, made up of Don Gearhart, Don Cole, Charles Applehagen and Adolph Bergquist, sang several selections after the banquet, each being a song of curling. The quartet was accompanied by A. F. M. Custance, who was responsible for some of the songs, and each number given was heartily applauded by the assembled curlers.

Stephen H. Jones welcomed the curlers on behalf of the Duluth Curling club and assured them of a good time every year if they visited Duluth.

Dr. C. B. Lenont spoke for the Virginia club and assured the curlers of the hearty co-operation and support of that organization. Others who spoke were George J. Mallory of the West Duluth club, Mr. Jackson of Rainy River, Ron Smith of Duluth, Mr. Mitchell of Port Arthur, Mr. Hourigan of Port Arthur, Tom McDermitt of St. Paul, Mr. Sullivan of Portage and "Bill" Hall, the father of curling in Minnesota. Mr. Hall extended an invitation to the curlers on behalf of the Maple River Curling Club of Sterling to attend a bonspiel there. John "Dub" Tresise sang several of his Scotch songs and had a hard time getting away from the crowd.

CANADIANS DEFEATED

American Rinks Win Annual Contest for International Trophy.

The Americans won the International event by the narrow margin of two points and these two points were due to the sensational work of "Bob" Dunbar of St. Paul, who skipped one of the American rinks.

In the fifth end in his game with Montgomery of Port Arthur the St. Paul man made the prettiest shot of the 'spiel. The Canadian rink lay shot and perfectly guarded. Dunbar's only chance was to make a long raise on a guard which was but a short distance from the hog line. The shot was executed in a perfect manner. The final scores were: Dunbar, 16; Montgomery, 2.

In this event Chase of Superior lost to Atkinson of Rainy River, 21 to 5. Reedal of Phillips helped the Americans along by winning from Southerland of Selkirk, 10 to 6.

This Will Stop Your Cough in a Hurry

Save $2 by Making This Cough Syrup at Home.

This recipe makes a pint of better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. A few doses usually conquer the most obstinate cough—stops even whooping cough quickly. Simple as it is, no better remedy can be had at any price.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. It has a pleasant taste and lasts a family a long time. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. Has a good tonic effect, braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, too, which is helpful. A handy remedy for hoarseness, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles.

The effect of pine on the membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norwegian white pine extract, and is rich in guiaicol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe has attained great popularity throughout the United States and Canada. It has often been imitated, though never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

PLANS FOR TOURNAMENT

Duluth Ski Club Delegates Will Induce Crack Riders to Come Here.

Directors Aim to Make February Meet Largest in History of Sport.

With the decision of the directors of the Duluth Ski club to hold but one tournament here the present season, plans were made yesterday to make that tournament the largest ever held in this city.

Every prominent rider who takes part in the national tournament at Chippewa Falls, which is scheduled for Jan. 28, will be seen by the Duluth delegates, with the idea of inducing these riders to come here for the big tournament of Feb. 12.

The meet will be advertised all over the Northwest, in every small town that is near to any of the railroads leading to Duluth. It is the ambition of the directors of the club to make this the biggest tournament, both in the number of riders who will participate and in point of attendance, that has ever been held in this country.

Because of the fact that the directors have decided to give but one tournament, also because they intend to advertise this meet as no other ski contest has ever been advertised in this part of the country, the committee which has taken charge of the arrangements is confident that there will be an attendance approaching the 10,000 mark.

The change in the slide has made the hill faster, as was proved by the record-making practice jumps, and the American ski record is due to be broken at the February meet in this city, if Fiering and the other Duluth cracks jump up to the form shown only a week ago.

A few of the best of the Duluth riders will go to Chippewa Falls with the intention of carrying off the first prize. There will be jumpers from all over the Northwest, and these jumpers will also, in all probability, be induced to show here by the fine prizes that will be hung up by the local committee.

CENTRAL READY FOR SUPERIOR

Crack Basket Ball Team Will Meet Strong Nelson Dewey Five.

The first important basket ball game of the present season at the Central high school will be played at the Central high gymnasium between Nelson Dewey of Superior and Central tomorrow, the supporters of the Duluth high school quint have not had an opportunity to see their team in a real game as yet, and are anxiously awaiting the initial performance Friday.

The Central five is practicing hard under Coach Schilling. Waldron has not yet recovered from his injured knee and will not play in Friday's game, if he is not needed. Osman, who is replacing Waldron at center, is improving fast but does not seem to get on to the team work as well as the regular center.

It would be hard to improve upon Capt. Harris and Johnson as forwards and both are in good condition.

Solheim is playing his usual consistent game at guard and Jerominus is improving every day and Coach Schilling has no cause to worry over the strength of his defense.

The second teams of the two schools will play a curtain raiser before the big game. Central can boast of a good second team as well as first quint. A large number of candidates were on the floor yesterday, but the second team will not be picked before today.

A large number of rooters will accompany the team from Superior and a large number of Duluth rooters will attend the game.

FREDDIE WELCH IS ON THE TRAIL OF AD WOLGAST

FREDDIE WELCH.

Freddy Welch is coming to America to look up Ad Wolgast, the artful dodger of the prize ring. If Welch only keeps after Wolgast hard enough he may get some action, because there is a limit to what the sporting public will stand. Welch also wants to meet Owen Moran, while Packey McFarland is looking for a chance to get at Welch. So the English lightweight champion ought to be kept reasonably busy while he is here.

ACH LOUIE! PLAYERS MAY DRINK BEER.

St. Louis, Jan. 19.—Bobby Wallace, the new manager of the St. Louis Americans, arrived in St. Louis yesterday from his home in Milvale, Pa.

Wallace does not believe in anti-drink clauses in the contracts of ball players.

"I think a little beer every day helps ball players," said Wallace, "and if you try to shut it out entirely, you are bound to offend some of them."

PARK POINTERS LOSE CONTEST

Kodahpa Club Hockey Seven Wins From Sand Dwellers By 7 to 0.

Last evening the Kodahpa club hockey team defeated the Park Point seven by the score of 7 to 0. The contest was played on the rink at Twenty-fifth avenue west and was one of the regularly scheduled games of the city league.

Three scores were made in the first half, the winners playing even faster and stronger hockey in the second session. Taylor and Clark played strong games for the Kodahpas, Roberts and Gillis playing a hard and up-hill contest for the Park Point aggregation.

The boys from across the wind-swept aerial bridge were outclassed by the downtown club, though playing hard right through to the call of the final whistle. The Park Pointers lack the team play of the finished aggregation, but have shown considerable improvement since the opening of the present season.

The line up:

Park Point.		Kodahpas.
Wasgatt	r.w.	Taylor
R. Gillis	l.w.	McCrae
J. Gillis	c.	Trathern
Fisher	r.	Clark
Roberts	c.p.	Caulkins
Mathews	p.	McKenzie

STANLEY LAMB CAPTAIN OF CENTRAL'S HOCKEY TEAM.

At a meeting of the hockey players of Central high school yesterday it was decided to form a representative hockey team to play any other high school teams in the state.

Stanley Lamb was elected captain of the seven. Among the candidates are: Gunderson, Wharton, Kerns, Le Duc, Brown, Harris, Wood, Boden. Captain Lamb issued a call for candidates today and many more are expected to report for practice at the Forty-seventh avenue rink within a few days.

Those at the head of this plan are of the opinion that a strong team can be formed at Central and within a few days challenges will be sent to the Virginia and Eveleth high schools and any other range town that may boast of a team. Games will also be arranged with Cloquet and Superior Central.

Grand Opening Tonight AT FRENCH RINK

25th Ave. W. and Second St. Good Music.

CONLEY AND DIXON IN DRAW

Fast Ten-Round Bout Between Featherweights at Kansas City Even.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 19.—Franklo Conley of Kenosha, Wis., holder of the bantamweight title, and Tommy Dixon of Memphis, Tenn., fought ten fast rounds to a draw here last night.

Dixon's whirlwind finish in the last round saved him from defeat. After seemingly being on the verge of a knockout for two rounds, he recuperated surprisingly and outfought his opponent in the tenth.

The battle was bloodless, although a slugging affray. The Kenosha fighter bored into Dixon from the opening gong, and Dixon, who has won the majority of his victories by out-pointing his opponents, was kept on the retreat.

But although Conley hammered Dixon's ribs and stomach at will, the Memphis boy returned the fire gamely. A left jab and a speedy right uppercut proved Dixon's greatest assets. His superior foot work saved him from much punishment, but Conley did not attempt to avoid blows, being content to rush into close quarters and give and take.

The battle was fought at catch-weights, Dixon having four pounds advantage. Conley weighed 121 and Dixon 125.

After the fight Conley issued a challenge to Battling Nelson for a battle to be fought at catch-weights.

FRENCH CLUB RINK WILL HOLD CELEBRATION.

The formal opening of the French club skating rink will be celebrated this evening. There will be a hockey game between the Adams and Fairmonts, and this game should be one of the best played at the rink the present season. In addition to the hockey game there will be some other features, such as music, skating, and the formal opening of the club. It is expected that the largest crowd of the season will be present, as the program is the most attractive that has been offered this season.

GOSSIP PICKED UP ALONG THE SPORTING HIGHWAY

Packey Shows He Has a Wallop — Conkle and His Trained Curling Stones—The Rival Golf Associations—Advertise the Summer Weather Also.

(BY BRUCE.)

Who said sweet Packy couldn't wallop?

You might answer that there have been many students of the late Marquis of Queensbury's favorite pastime, who have been deeply imbued with the notion that the stock yards champion lacked the punch to ever make him the world's champion. His performance against Jack Goodman, generally accounted a nut of tough fibre, has started the gossip going regarding this really wonderfully clever fighter.

There is perhaps not a boy fighting at the lightweight limit today who is as clever as this McFarland chap. He is the Jim Corbett of the little men. Most of the boys he boxes are made to look as foolish as an after dinner speaker, who has made a point so blunt that it fails to penetrate the intelligence of the gathered horde.

Any time a boy can go out and make Freddy Welch look queer in the boxing line, believe us, he is some boxing kid. This is what McFarland did at times in the recent London show, even the bloomin' English audience admitting the same.

The referee was about the only man who saw the fighting who held to the opinion that the fight was a draw. However, as the referee under certain circumstances is a very important person, his unsubstantiated opinion on this festive occasion counted more than the collective opinion of many hundreds of people gathered around the ringside.

But back to Packy's present rating. Good judges of boxing, several of them recently being here, Tammany Young in question, have expressed the opinion that McFarland will murder Attell. Down in New York they consider the Able evasion as a tacit admission on the part of the Hebrew that he cares nothing for Packy's party.

Attell, gents, is some lighter than the curly haired product of the district so thoroughly raked in the fire of intellectual thought of Upton Sinclair, and should not be expected to win; and yet the Attell boy has been selling what he could do to the present crop of lightweights, and in line with this hill top conversation of the featherweight champion, the crowl in the McFarland match does not look right.

If the public was sure that McFarland was a legitimate lightweight, it would be loud in its demand that he figure in the talk regarding a match with Wolgast. The public is not convinced on this point, and until it is, Packey will simply be considered as a wonderful boxer, a fighter who seems to be getting better all the time, and a boy who may figure as the welterweight champion, should that improvement continue to climb the husky hill of progress.

After watching this ere Conkle kid a lopin' down the ice, crying to that old Arlington stone of his like a country mother moanin' for her lost child at the state fair, one is driven to the clear conclusion that the Conkle boy has a plum lovin' disposition. He keeps a coaching that cold piece of granite, cold, eh, but not unresponsive, as some of the opponents of the Conkle youth will admit.

A Lovin' Disposition Has Conkle.

Like a mammy croonin' and talking baby talk to a pleaninny, or like a lady of paler complexion making funny sounds that sometimes go far to convince Mr. Darwin that there is grounds for his theory regarding our distant ancestors, this tall pine of Arlington carries on a loving flirtation with that rock of his.

When it leaves his hand he is on its track like a sprinter tagging the heels of a rival runner. Those long legs of his amble down the ice, like the lope of a lean coyote cutting up the long prairie miles, and all the time he is just naturally telling that stone the course to take, expostulating, imploring at times, and carrying on in general like a big lob arguifying and imploring with some sweet young thing in a blue dress, who has given him the sack and who is making him do a love Marathon before giving him even a howdydo.

Unadvertised by the press committee, unheralded, young Conkle leaped into fame the second day of the spiel. This chroonin' cakewalk of his has been one of the hits of the spiel. His curling seems to derive inspiration from this line of silver tongued oratory he carries on, and that old stone, like an old gray nag back on the farm, seems to heed every word of the tall pine of Arlington.

Now the gallery gossipers are wondering if this same old stone, which has behaved right well in the games so far, will get stage fright when it faces the bright new stones that are curled from the masterly hands of Mr. Herman-Keller Dunbar, the magician of the ice. You have seen country horses shy and grow nervous at the sight of the street cars, and the big speculation is whether this old steady stone of Conkle's will act skittish and get the jumps, when it is precipitated into the very classy company of Mr. Dunbar.

That question is due to be answered today, and a good crowd are curiously waiting for the outcome. To date, it may be said that most of the stones facing the Dunbar rocks have had palpitation of the heart. What of Conkle's pets? Wait and see.

Regarding Golf Expansion.

Yesterday a well known local golf player was discussing the golf situation as represented by the two big associations in this country, the Western Golf association and the United States association. At the next meeting next Saturday of the Western association, plans may be adopted that will expand the Western association, and it was of these plans that the Duluth player was talking.

He pointed out that there was little need for the expansion of the Western association, as the field in this country was covered thoroughly by the two associations, and added further that there was at the present time a Western man at the head of the United States association, the first time that any Western man had ever been elected as the president of that association.

If the Western Golf association decides to change its name and expand its territory and jurisdiction, it may mean a golf war with the United States organization. Some golfers believe this will be to the interest of the clubs out here in the West, while many well informed students of the game and its growth in this country, particularly here in the West, take the directly opposite view.

The very fact that two large associations are talking war, points out emphatically the growth of the game in this country. It has come to be one of the big sports of this country, and those who have the best interests of it at heart, might do well to go slow in the matter of taking action that will plunge two large and powerful associations into the bitter gall of antagonism.

Regarding Our Summer Weather.

A well known railroad official of this city was talking with the writer yesterday regarding the idea of having moving pictures taken of the ski jumpers. He suggested that the publicity committee of the commercial club have moving pictures taken during the summer of the boat races, or scenes at the summer fete, in as much as Duluth has in the past received all the advertisement along the winter weather line, and what we need at the present time is to advertise the fact that we have a brand of delicate and pink tinted summer weather on tap.

This gentleman also suggested that the carnival fete idea was an excellent one, and one that would go far in advertising this city as a place where they do actually have summer weather, where the straw hat is not known, and where flowers and even vegetables grow.

THE MAN WHO WON FROM ABE ATTELL

JOE COSTER.

Joe Coster has been a center of interest since he whipped Abe Attell. Those who saw the mill are divided. Some say that Attell was not in good form; others that he is played out; others that he was himself and that Coster proved himself the better man. Coster thinks he found Attell in good condition and gave him a clear whipping.

ON THE IRON RANGES

HIBBING FIRE LOSSES LIGHT

Efficiency of Fire Fighters Shown in Cheif McIlharghy's Report.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing was either exceedingly fortunate in the matter of fire loss during the past thirteen months, or the fires were very promptly handled by the fire department. The total amount of property of all kinds destroyed by fire during the period covered by Chief McIlharghy's report to the council was $7,022. There were 125 alarms and no less than 116 separate fires. The total insurance covering the property endangered was $115,440, and the estimated value of the property menaced by fire was $322,700. Only a very small proportion of the loss was uninsured. The report also shows that the department covered 111½ miles during the time and laid 29,500 feet of hose, and threw 1,794 gallons of chemical on the various fires, to say nothing of water. The efficiency of the department is shown by the fact that in a practically "wooden" town, out of 116 fires, 112 were kept within the limits of the place of origin, and 114 within the building in which they started.

HIS ECZEMA GONE AND BOILS CURED

Eczema Began When Three Weeks Old. Arms, Shoulders and Breast a Solid Scab. Boils Broke Out During Teething. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and He Was the Picture of Health.

"My son was about three weeks old when I noticed a breaking-out on his cheeks, from which a watery substance oozed. A short time after, his arms, shoulders and breast broke out also, and in a few days became a solid scab. I became alarmed, and called our family physician who at once pronounced the disease eczema. The little fellow was under his treatment for about three months. By the end of that time, he seemed no better. I became discouraged, and as I had read the advertisements of Cuticura Remedies and testimonials of a great many people who had used them with wonderful success, I dropped the doctor's treatment, and commenced the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and in a few days noticed a marked change. The eruption on his cheeks was almost healed, and his shoulders, arms and breast were decidedly better. When he was about seven months old, all trace of the eczema was gone.

"During his teething period, his head and face were broken out in boils which I cured with Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Surely he must have been a great sufferer. During the time of teething and from the time I dropped the doctor's treatment, I used the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, nothing else, and when two years old he was the picture of health. His complexion was soft and beautiful, and his head a mass of silky curls. I had been afraid that he would never be well, and I feel that I owe a great deal to the Cuticura Remedies." (Signed) Mrs. Mary W. Ramsey, 224 E. Jackson St., Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 24, 1910.

Cuticura Remedies are sold throughout the world. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Boston, Mass., for free book on the skin.

WOULD MAKE TWO OFFICES ELECTIVE

Proposed Change in Selecting Two Harbors Clerk and City Attorney.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting of the charter commission recently appointed by the judges of the district court was held Tuesday evening at the city hall. A petition was received from sixty-five of the legal voters of Two Harbors, asking that the charter commission proceed to change a certain section in the city charter, whereby the city attorney and city clerk should in the future be elected at the regular election, and not appointed, as under the present city charter. There was no action taken by the commission, as the commission was not complete, three of the appointees by the judge having failed to qualify.

The meeting was adjourned subject to the call of Chairman John A. Barton and Secretary L. D. Rose was instructed to write the judges of the district court about the vacancies on the commission board. John Kinsella, the newly elected county attorney, was present at the meeting and personally advocated the change.

Aurora, Minn., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—An attempt was made some time Tuesday night to enter the jewelry and confectionery store of August Toratti on Jackson street.

The parties making the attempt tried both the front and back entrances to the store and would have been successful in gaining entrance had it not been that the doors were both bolted on the inside. Toratti lives over the store and always bolts the doors besides locking them.

At the rear entrance five locks were opened and at the front the main door lock was unlocked. The parties evidently had a full assortment of keys in their possession.

YELLED ONCE TOO OFTEN.

Big Hibbing Finn Finally Exhausted Patience of Officer.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—There were more cases of a petty nature than at any time this year before the municipal court yesterday, all due to too much liquor.

An unusual case was that of Victor Isaacson, a big Finn, who had been amusing himself by rushing wildly out of a saloon door bareheaded, and shouting to the nearby patrolman, "You can't catch me." After this occurred several times, the patrolman started in to take a hand in the game, and as a result Vic found that he had entirely underestimated the powers of the Hibbing police and he was not only caught, but worse still, he was held. It cost him $20 and costs to again breathe the fresh air of Northern Minnesota. Another man started in to take the fresh air cure after dining at Mike's restaurant and forgetting to pay the bill. The bill was 30 cents and it cost him something over $3 to regain his liberty.

has been engaged in an effort to hit upon a plan of conducting a non-partisan election of judges that would work out satisfactorily and the members of this committee have recently considered the Cashel bill.

Senator Cashel's plan would make the plan of nomination quite plain, returning as it does to the old convention system. Each party would hold a county convention at which the candidates for the office of county superintendent would be nominated. District conventions would be held each four years to nominate candidates for judges of the supreme court, while state conventions would be held each two years to nominate candidates for the office of state superintendent of public instruction and for justice of the supreme court. If the new supreme court term law is adopted, one justice will be elected each two years hereafter.

Non-Partisan at Polls.

Then with the party conventions completed would come the non-partisan choice at the polls. An individual ballot would be provided on which would appear the names of the candidates nominated in the party conventions, but on such ballot no reference whatever would be made to their party beliefs.

Mr. Cashel has also introduced a bill doing away with the square at the head of the election ballot by which the entire ticket of a party may be voted by the single cross.

Another election bill fathered by the Walsh county man amends certain sections of the primary election law, making it fit in with his bill covering the non-partisan election of school officers and judges by eliminating them from the provisions of the primary law. The bill also does away with the percentage fee for filing, establishing a uniform fee of $5 for recording petitions of candidates for state offices; $3 for candidates for the state senate, $2 for candidates for house of representatives, with a fee of $5 for candidates for school and district offices, except in the case of county commissioners, coroner, assessors and surveyor, where a fee of $2 is provided and for county constables and justices of the peace a fee of only $1 is required.

Dividing Judicial Districts.

Members of the assembly from the counties embracing the Fifth judicial district are having a difficult time making a peaceable adjustment of a plan of division. One meeting of the delegation was held this week at which the situation was thoroughly discussed but no conclusion was reached.

The Tenth district members have not reached any agreement either but they expect to get together shortly.

From the northwestern section of the state where an effort is being made to create the Eleventh district out of Williams, Mountrail and McKenzie counties, no little work is being done. Frank Fisk, looked upon as a probable judgeship candidate in the event the division is made, has arrived in Bismarck and is helping the division plan along.

Exchange of Telephone Service.

A telephone bill that may meet with opposition was introduced in the senate by Mr. Pierce of Ransom county. It provides for an exchange of service between all telephone and telegraph companies operating in the state, and also gives the state railroad commission the power of fixing rates, which rates should not be higher than will return to the companies a profit of over 8 per cent per annum.

In cities it is provided that where there are two telephone companies, those companies must exchange service. That is, a party calling in on one line for a subscriber on the other company's line, must be connected up. The expense of such connection is to be borne share and share alike by the competing companies.

Anti-Cigarette Bill.

Lobbyists to oppose the passage of the anti-cigarette bill have arrived in Bismarck and will be on the ground for some time. Col. W. P. Tuttle of Kidder county has introduced a bill that abolishes entirely the sale of manufactured cigarettes in the state and he proposes to make an active campaign for its passage, while several organizations of the state have interested themselves in the proposition also. The bill makes an exception of jobbing houses doing an inter-state business.

House to Print Bills.

Finding that the abolishment of the publication of house bills was impracticable, the rules committee of that body at a meeting last night decided to recommend that the rule on that subject be done away with. It was found that the confusion resulting from the non-possession of printed copies of the bills was such as to render the rule very unsatisfactory.

Woman suffrage is proposed in a bill introduced by Senator Steel of Renville county, the bill being before the election and election privileges committee of that branch at the present time.

STATE'S SIDE IS FINISHED

as to what was going on?"

"It was no business of mine," he answered.

Alma Evans, the nurse, testified that Schenk had frequent crying fits.

"Did Mrs. Schenk talk to you concerning her gentlemen friends?"

"Yes. One day she showed me a flower basket and told me she appreciated it highly. It had been given her with violets, she said by a special gentleman friends of hers."

"Miss Evans, did you ever put arsenic into water used by John O. Schenk?

"No, sir."

"Did you ever put lead in his medicine?"

"No, sir."

"Did Mrs. Schenk narrate improper stories as to herself and other men?"

"She did," was the answer.

When cross-examined, the witness denied she knew Mr. and Mrs. John Mason at the hospital, nor could she remember whether Schenk was permitted to drink beer while there. She said she never saw the detective-nurse drink.

Subpoenas for Doctors.

During a recess, the defense had ninety-four subpoenas for the first lot of doctors which Attorney O'Brien will summon to find whether Mrs. Schenk bought poisons in Wheeling.

When Dr. D. H. Best was called he said he had been the Schenk family physician for twelve years, before John Schenk's latest illness. In October Schenk told him he had been ill several times. He examined the man and concluded he was suffering from Bright's disease and stomach trouble. He prescribed bismuth and codine to deaden pain. As a result of this treatment, Schenk improved and was able to go to work. Schenk then showed no signs of lead or arsenic poisoning. He also treated Schenk for tonsilitis, but there were no blue lines in his mouth. The doctor expressed the opinion that the sudden coming on of the October illness also indicated ptomaine poisoning. The prosecution rested and the defense argued a motion to dismiss the case.

Judge Jordan refused to discuss a motion for dismissal of the case argued and defense decided to begin taking testimony at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Prosecutor Handlan is to be first witness.

Mrs. Schenk Collapses.

Mrs. Schenk collapsed yesterday afternoon under the ordeal of the trial in which she is charged with administering poison to her wealthy husband, John O. Schenk. An hour before the usual adjournment she had to be taken to her room in the jail, overcome by the strain. The trial temporarily was suspended.

Hundreds of women were sorely disappointed at the announcement of Judge L. S. Jordan that he deemed it best for the moral interests of the community that women should be excluded from the trial, and that hereafter none should be admitted to the courtroom. The orders were carried out yesterday afternoon.

The defense yesterday apparently scored. Through persistent questioning of physicians summoned by the state, it was brought out that Schenk had been attended by many physicians, and that many drugs had been prescribed. The drugs included bi-chloride of mercury, arsenic and several others. Through cross-questioning it was shown that some patients are more susceptible to their action than others, and that lead poisoning may result from absorption as well as taking directly into the stomach.

The day was practically given over to the testimony of the medical experts summoned by the state. Every physician who was called to the stand stated in answer to the hypothetical question, enumerating the symptoms detailed thus far, that Schenk's condition showed plainly that two poisons were in his system—lead and arsenic.

to be liberal in the truest sense, but the charges exacted by the road must be reasonable.

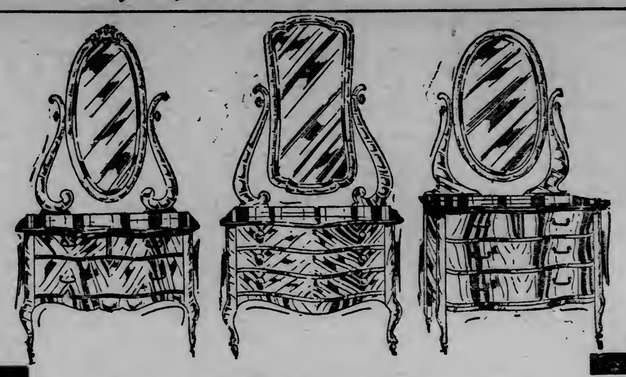

"If you permit a slight increase in either official classification territory or in Western trunk line territory, two consequences will follow: The existing schedule of rates will be adopted as a reasonable scale, without having been investigated; and the present capitalization of the companies will be accepted as representing their value."

Mr. Thorne said during the last ten years the average market prices of commodities, at wholesale, had increased about 11 per cent, while the average market prices of forty transportation companies increased 106 per cent.

"I have compiled the figures for the last twenty years showing net earnings and after subtracting all operating expenses and all taxes, I find that for the year ending June 30, 1910, the American railways had a net income amounting to over $70,000,000 greater than ever before in their entire history. I find that the net earnings of American railways have not only increased in gross, but they have increased for every train hauled one mile, and for every mile of railroad."

Gentlemen:

"I am a reader of the ——Weekly and I notice they give you a great deal of criticism of late.

"When they first began to criticise you I became somewhat interested and began to wonder what your Grape-Nuts breakfast food was like, and as my curiosity got the best of me, I bought a package and I liked it so well have used several packages. And to my surprise I find I am gaining in weight and feeling fine.

"Since using Grape-Nuts I have talked with several people about them and they all think as I do, that they are the best breakfast food on the market today.

"So in this case a knock is a boost with those who use Grape-Nuts."

Stack and others for the construction of sewer in Eighth street from Fifth avenue east to Sixth avenue east, with outlet, and the petition of Harry C. Anderson and others for the construction of a sewer in Eighth street from a point 140 feet west of Eighth avenue east to Sixth avenue east, with outlet, having considered the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

H. P. CURREN,
WILLIAM L. BERNARD,

The Committee on Fire Department introduced a resolution authorizing the board of fire comisioners to advertise for bids for furnishing a combination chemical auto and hose wagon, action on which, on motion of Alderman Shartel, was postponed for one week with the request that the committee obtain a fuller report of the necessity of the same from the board of fire commissioners.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Fire Department, to which was referred communication from the building inspector reporting the inspection of hotels in the city, find that of the fifty-nine buildings inspected none of them were found to comply with section 4, title 2, part 4 of the building ordinance relative to fire protection. This section of the building ordinance provides for the lighting of stairways and passage ways and fire escapes and provides for the installation of alarm gongs and the posting of directions to fire escapes in each sleeping room. It is the opinion of your committee that the requirements of said section should be strictly enforced. A full compliance with this section would work hardship on no one, and would tend to reduce the risk of loss of life in hotel buildings in the city. We therefore recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

JOHN HOGAN,
H. P. CURREN,
Committee.

Resolved, That the building inspector is hereby directed to enforce the provisions of section 4, title 2, part 4 of the building ordinance as regards the hotels of the city.

Alderman Curren moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed Jan. 16, 1911.

CHAS. J. HECTOR,
JAMES A. WHARTON,
JOHN HOGAN,

MOISTURE IN OKLAHOMA

Wheat Declines on Reported Rains in Southwest—Many Damage Rumors Current.

Foreign Condition Bearish and Cables Are Lower—Flaxseed Easier.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 19.—Wheat declined today on account of precipitation in Oklahoma and predictions of milder temperatures for the leading winter wheat states. While there were many reports of damage, yet the impression is growing that the wheat has not been seriously hurt and that the bulls will spring additional "scares" in order to sustain their position. Wheat firmed slightly this afternoon on reports that several large orders had been placed for flour, including one for 25,000 barrels by the National Biscuit company.

May wheat lost ¾c and July declined ¾c. Cash was 1c under May. Oats gained ¼c, rye and barley were unchanged. Durum declined ⅜c.

May laxseed lost 1c. The market was fairly active. There were more sales to arrive than for some time which was responsible for the softness of the market. The late bulge at Buenos Ayres was due to a "corner" on the market. The estimate of an exportable surplus of 14,000,000 bu was put out for effect. A cable today said the exportable surplus was now placed at 20,000,000 bu. The buying of 400,000 bu by Minneapolis crushers does not mean that this lls crushers does not mean that this is not especially important. The drawback on the cake is 7c and not 3c nor 5c as intimated by an interview with an officer of a Minneapolis crusher. Cash flax was 2c under May. La Plata linseed at Antwerp was quoted at $2.243.

Cables came lower on account of liberal Argentine shipments. There was less pressure to sell ments. There was less pressure to sell from Australia. The continental demand for wheat was slightly improved. Reports from Russia were favorable, cables saying that snow had fallen in the Southwest, affording protection to the wheat from the cold weather. The outlook generally is favorable. Arrivals from the interior are liberal but the market is steady under a foreign demand. Shipments from Russia this week are expected to be liberal. Indian shipments will be less liberal.

Reports from the winter wheat states continued to give hints of damage. Many messages were from Missouri saying lice and sleet had hurt the wheat. From Eastern Kansas came messages that the only covering of the plant was ice. A message from Kansas City said the sleet and ice covering extended 200 miles west of that place and fifty miles to the south. Eastern Nebraska is said to be affected as well as the eastern half of Kansas.

There was some precipitation in Oklahoma today and last night. Otherwise the weather map showed the winter wheat states to be dry. The drouth conditions have been relieved slightly in Kansas and to considerable extent in Nebraska, but in Kansas and Missouri the condition is serious.

MARKET GOSSIP

Northwestern crushers have bought 400,000 bushels of flaxseed from Argentina for shipment to Minneapolis. The cost was about $1,100,000. The purchase was made in the Buenos Ayres market. The acquisition was rather unusual although more than 7,000,000 bushels of seed were brought into this country last year by crushers. Most of the stuff went to Eastern grinders.

The seed was bought for January-February shipment. It is in the nature of an insurance as all of the purchase may not be imported. If any of the seed is not needed it will be sold at London or Antwerp. It is probable, however, that not only will all of the 400,000 bushels be required but additional purchases will be made. The Northwestern crushers have been getting seed from Canada this year, also.

The seed will be brought to this country probably by way of New Orleans, as the railroads between Chicago and that port have made special rates on flaxseed shipments from the Gulf to the Windy City. Lower rates are also in effect from Philadelphia and New York to Chicago and some of the stuff may come by that route. E. C. Warner, president of the Midland Oil company of Minneapolis, who bought the bulk of the stuff, said:

"We hope to get back 3 to 5 cents a bushel of the import duty on what we import. In whatever degree we afterward export the manufactured product we are entitled to a drawback, under the existing law, but this cannot be accurately determined in advance.

"As to paying for it, we will have to send the money, I understand, to London," Mr. Warner continued. "The present London market for Argentine seed is about $2.30 a bushel and the price of seed in Minneapolis is about $2.73. We use 15,000 bushels of seed a day in our mill, and as we have an oil trade that must be taken care of, we have turned to Argentine seed as a final source of supply against existing scarcity at home. North and South Dakota and Minnesota ought to raise 25,000,000 bushels of flaxseed in an ordinary season, but they have not done it of late, and even at that the oil industry has grown so large that the production is no longer equal to the demand."

Liverpool Corn Trade News summary of crops abroad follow: "United Kingdom—Crop outlook fair; weather unseasonable, cold and wet. France—It is unlikely that there will be a full acreage sown to winter grains, but it is expected there will be liberal sowings of spring. Government is accepting foreign wheat for the troops. Continued heavy imports of foreign wheat are expected. Weather is wintry. Germany—Crop outlook generally favorable. Foreign demand continues; weather is wintry. Hungary—Crop outlook fairly satisfactory; there is no snow; weather seasonable. Roumania—Crop conditions favorable, with weather seasonable. Italy — Crop conditions generally satisfactory; there is an improved demand for foreign wheat. Supplies of native wheat very scarce. Spain—There have been heavy snows during the week, but crop conditions satisfactory. Australia—There has been an increase in chartering vessels for moving new crop. Russia—Crop conditions are satisfactory, although temperatures are low."

The Van Dusen-Harrington company says: "A somewhat unusual condition in the grain movement on this crop is seen in the fact that with receipts in the Northwestern markets from Aug. 1 to Jan. 1 about 20,000,000 bu less than last year, stocks are about 12,750,000 bu greater. The bulk of the shortage in the receipts is at Duluth, while the greater part of the increases in stocks is at Minneapolis."

Weekly Argentine estimates—Wheat 1,440,000, last week 560,000, last year 472,000; corn 680,000, last week 1,930,000, last year 272,000.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: Market opened easy under liberal offerings prompted by forecast of larger Argentine shipments this week and the heaviness in Buenos Ayres at the close, and values were ¼d lower. Following the opening there was further pressure in March on predictions of liberal Russian shipments this week and favorable crop accounts from there. During the morning there was some covering by shorts and prices advanced ¼@⅜d from the low. Support was stimulated by the improved demand for Plate parcels and less pressure on Australian offers and more inquiry for spot, with some demand from the continent wheat on passage. At mid-day the market was steady and ¼d to ½d higher from the low and ½d to ¾d lower than yesterday. Corn was steady at the start and unchanged to ¼d lower, with the pressure in American grade. Argentine forecasts are for very light shipments this week and crop accounts from there continue bad, and these caused support in Plate trade. During the morning there was a decline of ¾d on the easiness in America, liberal American offers and an easier demand for both Plate and American parcels. At mid-day the market was easy and ¼d to ½d lower than yesterday with the pressure in the American grade.

Indian shipments this week will be 552,000; last year, 1,024,000; last week, 160,000. Broomhall predicts that the shipments from the port of Kurrachee next week will aggregate 768,000 bu. His agent at Kurrachee cables that the weather in the Punjaub has become fine following ample rainfall and the crop outlook is satisfactory.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Breaking of the Drouth in the Southwest Eases Wheat.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—Breaking of the drouth in Oklahoma eased the wheat market today. Some places reported that the rains had revived fields which had been considered as beyond assistance. Other dispatches said that because of the downpour the damage by dry weather would be confined to extreme high lands and to soft wheat. Predicted heavy shipments from Russia and the Argentine proved of further aid to the bears. Trade here, however, was very light. Opening prices were ⅛@¼c to ¼c lower all around. May started at $1.01 to $1.01⅛, touched $1.01¼@1.01⅜ and fell back to $1.01⅛.

Enlarged receipts at primary points, especially in the Northwest, led to an additional decline. Recovery ensued on a big flour purchase here, but the close was easy with May at $1.00⅞, a net loss of ⅜c.

With Argentine corn being pressed for sale notwithstanding bad crop reports, the market in Chicago tended downward. May opened ⅛c to ¼c off at 49⅞c to 50c, and for some time held near the lower level.

La Plata reports of rain caused further weakness, but big exports induced a rally. The close, however, was easy with May at exactly the same price as twenty-four hours previous, 50⅜c.

Oats were slow, but were sustained by a few resting orders at a shade under the market. May started a sixteenth down to an equal amount up at 34½c to 34⅝c, and steadied at 34⅛@34⅜c.

Provisions developed firmness on account of a lighter run of hogs west. First sales were 2½c to 7½c higher with May options at $18.92½ for pork, $10.02½ to $10.05 for lard and $10.02½ to $10.05 for ribs.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Easier Tone Rules in Wheat With Further Decline in Prices.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 19.—A slightly easier tone ruled in wheat today and a further decline was registered in prices. Heavy receipts, lack of support, easier foreign markets and sentiment less bullish were the factors of the decline. Trading light and of scalping nature. Both May and July closed ½@⅝c lower than yesterday. Local elevator stocks decreased 195,000 bu for five days. Minneapolis today received 369 cars of wheat, against 365 a year ago; Duluth 45 against 73, and Winnipeg 34 against 156. May wheat opened $1.07⅞; high, $1.07⅞; low, $1.07@1.07¼; closed, July wheat opened $1.08⅛@1.08¾; high, $1.08¼@1.08¾; low, $1.07⅞; closed, $1.07⅞@1.08.

Cash wheat was a trifle firmer. Demand showed slight improvement. Mills and elevators both buying. No. 1 northern sold for 1c under May to 1c above. Closing prices: No. 1 hard, $1.08¾; No. 1 northern, $1.06¼@1.08¼; to arrive, $1.06¼@1.07¾; No. 2 northern, $1.04@1.06¾; to arrive, $1.03¾@1.06¼; No. 3 wheat, $1.02@1.05¾. No. 3 yellow corn, 43¾c. No. 3 white oats, 31@32c. No. 2 rye, 80¾@81c.

Millstuffs — Shipments, 2,990 tons. Demand excellent and prices advanced. Shipments increased. Bran in 100-lb sacks, $22.00@22.50.

Flour—Market held about steady; shipping demand slow. Millers say they rather have directions on orders booked than new business. Clears, near an exporting basis, but patents way out of line. Prices unchanged. Shipments, 42,941 bbl. First patents, $4.95@5.35; second patents, $4.85@5.25; first clears, $3.35@3.75; second clears, $2.35@2.95.

Flax—Receipts, 15 cars; year ago, 40; shipments, none; demand continued strong for both spot and to arrive at 2c under the Duluth May contract. Closing price, $2.67.

Barley—Receipts, 78 cars; year ago, 64; shipments, 26. The barley market was a trifle firmer today. Offerings were liberal and the market was active. Demand good for all grades. Malting barley sold in a range of 1c higher to 1c lower than yesterday and feeding unchanged to 5c higher. Closing range, 65@91c.

New York Grain.

New York, Jan. 19.—Close: Wheat—May, $1.04⅜; July, $1.03½. Corn—May, 58¼c.

Liverpool Grain.

Liverpool, Jan. 19.—Closing: Wheat—Spot firm; No. 2 red, western winter, 7s 4d; futures quiet; March, 7s ⅝d; May, 7s 1d.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 19.—The cotton market opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 4 points and active positions sold 3 to 4 points lower right after the call, under scattering liquidation inspired by the somewhat disappointing cables and reports that new England spinners favored a curtailment of 25 per cent until business improved. The same large spot interest whose buying of the near months was the feature yesterday, gave the market support again on the setback this morning. Southern advices continued bullish as to the spot situation, and, while more or less unsettled in tone, the market steadied up to practically the same closing figures of last night before the end of the first hour.

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 14.90; middling gulf, 15.15; sales, 700 bales. Futures closed barely steady; closing bids: January, 14.60; February, 14.66; March, 14.77; April, 14.86; May, 14.99; June, 14.99; July, 15.01; August 14.69; October, 13.35.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Traders Bearish Early and Vigorously Attack Standard Issues.

Reaction in Final Hour and Close Is at Best Prices.

New York, Jan. 19.—The stock market developed an irregular tone today on a moderate volume of business. American Smelting opened half off and sold down steadily to a decline of 1¼. Reading declined ⅝ and there were fractional losses on Amalgamated Copper, United States Steel, Northern Pacific and Chesapeake & Ohio. Union Pacific, St. Paul, La Clede Gas and Brooklyn Transit rose moderately.

Union Pacific and United States Steel were the weakest features of the active group, both selling materially below yesterday's close. The coalers were less affected, though exhibiting some weakness. Norfolk & Western and Pennsylvania were heavy. St. Paul, which was strong in contrast to the other railway issues, advanced a point, and subsequently losing part of the gain. The metal shares were heavy.

Acting on the assumption that the recent material advances in a number of minor grade stocks were for the purpose of unloading on the specialized market leaders, the room turned bearish today and made a vigorous attack on the standard stocks. An early demonstration of strength in the grain markets did not extend to the grain carriers and the sagging of the latter to hold the market and there was a subsequent material recession all around in which Union Pacific, Reading, Canadian Pacific, New York Central, Northern Pacific, Western, the copper stocks and Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste Marie sold 1 to 1½ below yesterday's final prices. The bond market was irregular with a notable contraction in the dealings.

The market closed strong. Prices made good headway upward in the final hour, with United States Steel, St. Paul and other issues selling at the best of the day. There was a large advance also in Lacede Gas. American Can preferred and North American, the last named rising nearly five points.

SEED FOR FOREST FIRE SUFFERERS

Mattson's Bill Made Special Order in House for Next Tuesday.

Cheadle Wants $20,000 for Improvement of Burntside Forest.

County Option Bill Likely to Be Introduced Next Week.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house this morning, after receiving Representative Mattson's bill to provide free seed for the sufferers from last fall's forest fires, made it a special order for next Tuesday noon. The bill appropriates $25,000 to be used for this purpose, the seed to be distributed by the college of agriculture to applicants whose requests are filed with the county auditors and approved by the county boards of the several counties.

• • •

Senator H. W. Cheadle of Duluth this morning offered in the senate a bill appropriating $20,000 for the care and improvement of Burntside forest, near Ely, including the construction of roads and trails.

• • •

Senator T. M. Pugh of Duluth introduced a bill allowing mail carriers to take street car passes. Senator Wallace of Minneapolis introduced a similar bill.

• • •

A county option bill has been prepared, and will be introduced next week, it is said, by Representative F. L. Palmer of Minneapolis. It provides that 25 per cent of the voters in any county may call an election on whether the county shall go wet or dry. After an election has been

AGENTS' REPORTS ARE SUPPRESSED

Revelations of Conditions in North Carolina Are Revolting.

Washington, Jan. 20.—That Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor has suppressed much of the reports of the agents of labor bureaus, because of their revelations concerning private lives of factory workers in North Carolina and other southern states, was asserted in the senate yesterday by Senator Overman. He stated that some of the reports were so revolting in character that if printed, the law would prohibit their transmission through the mails.

The statement followed an inquiry by Secretary Beveridge as to the publication of the investigation into the employment of women and child labor made a few years ago by the bureau of labor. It was at this juncture that Mr. Overman made his statement concerning the course of Secretary Nagel.

"I heard of the character of some of these reports," he said, "and went to Mr. Nagel about them. He told me that the revelations were such that he felt called upon to suppress them. It would seem that some of the agents had taken it upon themselves to investigate the private affairs of the people when the law authorized an inquiry only into labor conditions."

HITCHCOCK CRITICIZED

Postmaster General's System of Economy Is Not Approved.

Representative Steenerson Says It Affects Efficiency of the Service.

Washington, Jan. 20.— Postmaster General Hitchcock's economy of administration in the postoffice department came in for sharp criticism in the house of representatives yesterday during consideration of the postoffice appropriation bill.

Representative Small of North Carolina, Bartlett of Georgia, Borland of Missouri and Saunders of Virginia, on the Democratic side, and Representative Steenerson of Minnesota on the Republican side, declared that the plans were seriously affecting efficiency, especially on the rural free delivery routes. They denied that the postal deficit was being wiped out without detriment to the service.

Mr. Small declared that the rural service was being discriminated against. He said that while the department did not hesitate to create a deficiency in one branch of the service, it was declining to spend $1,700,000 of the appropriation for an increase in the rural routes.

Mr. Small asserted that when congress provided for additional service, its will should not be thwarted by executive action.

St. Louis County Delegation Thrashes Over the Various Local Measures.

Municipal Lighting Bond Bill Held Over Until Next Meeting.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The St. Louis county delegation spent a long evening last night thrashing ovre the various local measures that have been sent down, and while not many of the bills were recommended out to pass because most of them, needed further consideration, considerable progress was made.

The bill raising the salaries of the officers of St. Louis county took the most time, not only because of the fact that substantial raises are asked for, but because there were many details as to clerk hire, etc., that seemed to require close study; and the bill was finally laid over for a week in order

THOROUGH INQUIRIES

Into All Branches of the State Government Under Criticism.

Bill to Reduce the Width of Roads to Three Rods.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thorough investigation of the state drainage work, the state fair, state printing and any other state matters that seem to need looking into forms the program of the committees on public accounts and expenditures of both the senate and the house.

A conference was held yesterday afternoon between sub-committees appointed by each committee to lay out a plan of work, and it was decided that the house committee shall take up the drainage investigation, the investigation of the state's printing bills and the usual formal investigation of the accounts of state institutions, while the senate committee will take up the investigation of the state fair and the usual formal investigation of the accounts of state officials.

A meeting will be held by the joint committees next Tuesday, when Anton Schaefer, the state public examiner whose reports have indicated several spots that apparently need looking in-

DISCUSSION OVER CANAL

Fight Over Its Fortification Begins in House of Representatives.

Keifer Argues for Neutralization and Hobson Against It.

Washington, Jan. 20.—The opening gun in the fight for the fortification of the Panama canal was fired in the house of representatives yesterday, although the postoffice appropriation bill ostensibly was under consideration.

Representative Keifer of Ohio, spoke for an hour in favor of the neutralization of the canal. He was answered by Representative Hobson of Alabama.

Gen. Keifer declared that the latest estimate of $12,000,000 for the fortification of the canal would not be sufficient. He asserted that it would cost at least $100,000,000 to so fortify the canal that it could be held against the attack of a first-class power. Gen. Keifer asserted that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, which still is in effect, specifically provides for the neutralization of the Isthhmian waterway.

"For 100 years," he said, "the United States has been committed by treaties to the neutralization of the canal across the isthmus, regardless of the nation that built it."

The importance commercially to the United States to the continued use of the canal during the time of war, he

BIG SUM TO RUN STATE

Cost $8,731,288 to Operate North Dakota in Past Year.

State Treasurer's Office to Be Investigated During Eight Years.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—It cost $8,731,288.38 to operate the state of North Dakota during the year of 1910 according to a statement just made public by the retiring state treasurer, G. L. Bickford, in which he sets forth the complete revenue of the state during that period, as well as its expenditures. This statement was made up for the benefit of the legislative assembly and is somewhat of a new departure.

The total income of the state during the year in question was $9,606,206.16 from all sources, with direct taxation raising $2,868,779.75 of that amount. Interest form the permanent school and institution, together with the sale of such lands, also helped increase the total considerably. The in-

BRAIN OF ALMYRA DEITZ AFFECTED

Result of the Sheriff's Bullet, Says Her Father.

Neenah, Wis., Jan. 20.—John F. Dietz stated while in this city that his daughter, Almyra, is failing as a result of the bullet wound she received when shot by deputy sheriffs. He says he has received word that her brain is affected and that she is subject to frequent fainting spells which are sapping her vitality.

Dietz and his son, Clarence, are visiting here with relatives, and it is probable the family will remove here. Plans are being made for a public Dietz meeting, as the family has many sympathizers in this vicinity.

John and Clarence Dietz were guests of honor at a banquet given by the Elks. The former declared that the $20,000 relief fund which had been raised in Milwaukee has never been nor never will be paid him, because of his break with Rubin, his attorney. Dietz is enjoying the best of health.

FATE OF CHARLES MELODROWSKI IS IN THE HANDS OF JURY

Trial of 15-Year-Old Boy on Murder Charge Completed.

Jurors Retire to Consider the Evidence Shortly After Noon.

Morning Session Occupied With Attorneys' Talks and Judge's Charge.

The case of Charles Melodrowski, the 15-year-old boy charged with murder in the first degree for killing Officer Harry A. Chesmore of the Duluth police department Jan. 6, was given to the jury in district court shortly after noon today.

The testimony was all in when court adjourned last evening and the morning session was given over to the arguments of the attorneys. County Attorney John H. Norton stunned up the state's case and C. C. Teare, who was appointed by the court to defend Melodrowski, made a strong plea for the boy.

Judge Cant's charge covered murder in the first, second and third degrees and not guilty. He explained the different degrees of murder to the jury and instructed the twelve men to bring in a verdict in accordance with the evidence of one of the three degrees of murder or of not guilty being possible under the evidence.

Relying on the contention that the shots which caused the policeman's death were fired accidentally while the officer and the boy were scuffling for

LA FOLLETTE IS IGNORED BY TAFT

Appoints Wisconsin Official Without the Senator's Indorsement.

Washington, Jan. 20.—The nomination of Guy B. Goff of Milwaukee, a son of Circuit Judge Nathan Goff of West Virginia, to be United States attorney for the Eastern district of Wisconsin, is expected to widen the breach between Senator La Follette and President Taft. The Wisconsin senator wanted the president to appoint W. J. McElroy of Milwaukee but Mr. Taft declined to do so. Mr. Goff was named without Mr. La Follette's indorsement.

Confirmation probably will be opposed in the senate by Mr. La Follette who says the selection of Goff was brought about by Mr. Norton, secretary to the president.

UNWRITTEN LAW FAILS

Michigan Man Is Sent to Prison for Murdering Friend.

Dead Man Violated the Sanctity of His Friend's Home.

Manistique, Mich., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Reliance upon the so-called unwritten law failed to save Joseph Uinaff, who was tried in circuit court here this week before Judge Steere, convicted of murder and sentenced to from thirteen to twenty-six years in the Marquette prison.

Certain extenuating circumstances surrounded the crime, and these Uinaff's attorneys appealed to in vain to save their client. The murderer and his victim were for years firm friends working together in the same mine. When Carlfield contemplated visiting his native land, he promised Uinaff to call and see his friend's young and beautiful wife.

On his return from Bulgaria Carlfield boasted that while he was abroad Mrs. Uinaff had lived with him as his wife. Uinaff had moved to Portland, Or., but he learned of the story being circulated by Carifield and returned to Michigan to find him.

Upon his arrival he secured the confession of Carifield in the presence of witnesses, and then, inviting him politely to take a walk with him, stabbed him in the back.

ONE ACTION DISMISSED

Attorney General's Case Against Former Treasurer Bickford Dropped.

Justice Pierce Rules That County Attorney's Action Takes Precedence.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—One action instituted against Former Treasurer Bickford was dismissed this morning, being that commenced by Attorney General Miller. State's Attorney Smith of Burleigh county succeeded in having the attorney general's criminal action against Bickford dropped through a motion argued today, declaring that the action instituted by him took precedence over that of Miller. The attorney general filed an amended complaint when the court called the case.

In ruling on this point, Justice Pierce stated that the affidavit of Justice Perry, before whom the state's attorney's action against Bickford was brought, and of Sheriff Barnes, showed clearly that Smith's action was the first to be instituted and that it had the right of way over that of Miller.

This leaves only one action against Bickford, that instituted by state's attorney, and hearing on that will not be held till Friday, Jan. 27, a continuance being taken. Bickford is free now on a bond of $10,000. He was represented by D. C. Greenleaf of Minot in this morning's proceedings.

RICH IRON ORE STRIKE ON CUYUNA

Brown-Williams Interests of Duluth Have Exceptionally Good Fortune.

Biggest Thing in Mining World for a Year, It Is Said.

Ironton Lot Purchasers Selling Properties Back to Eager Venders.

Will C. Brown, manager for Paine, Webber & Co., and David Williams, vice president of the First National bank, have struck a large deposit of iron ore on their land on the Cuyuna iron range, this state. They acquired 171 acres on the south shore of Little Rabbit lake about a year ago and started drilling almost immediately. Their land was supposed to be in the trend of the ore formation and exploration has proved the existence of a large tonnage.

The first drill hole was 400 feet from a line extending from discoveries of ore on a nearby tract owned by Gust Carlson and another tract owned by Minneapolis people. It showed up low grade ore running about 39 per cent iron until the footwall was encountered. A second hole 200 feet nearer the supposed line of the formation disclosed the same body of ore and a hole on the line has shown up ore running from 59 per cent fifty-three feet from the surface, to 62 per cent at greater depths. The hole has been put down 165 feet.

More Than 100 Feet Wide.

The three drills have shown up a body of blue hematite ore more than 100 feet wide. The average phosphorous content is .088 and this is decreasing with depth. It is expected that the drills will show up high grade Bessemer ore at depth. The ore body has a dip of 70 deg. Mining men say the

NEGOTIATIONS ARE NEARLY COMPLETED

Conference Between United States and Canada on Reciprocity.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Unless unforeseen details arise to block the progress of the conference today, the reciprocity negotiations between the United States and Canada will be completed on Saturday. The representatives did not meet in joint session yesterday but will confer today in what they expect to be a final session.

Charles M. Pepper, counsellor of the state department, one of the representatives of the government said that rapid progress had been made.

"There's a mass of detail to be gone over," he declared. "The Canadian ministers and their assistants met by themselves yesterday to get it in shape for the conference today. We hope to be through by Saturday."

Mr. Pepper escorted the Canadian representatives and their assistants to the White House and presented Jonn McDougall, commissioner of customs of Canada, who arrived yesterday, to President Taft. In the party were W. S. Fielding, minister of finance; William Patterson, minister of customs, and the members of the Canadian board of experts, J. H. Russell and Major H. V. Rourke.

In a letter to a member of the legislature, Judge Parker said that Mr. Saunders and those who voted for him could do him a favor if they voted for Mr. Sheehan.

The letter says in part:

Rev. Raymond Basil, asociate pastor of St. Clement's Catholic church, will be toastmaster at the annual banquet of the Young Men's Sodality, which will be held Tuesday evening at the Esmond hotel, Twentieth avenue west and Michigan street, commencing at 8:30 o'clock.

It is expected that covers will be laid for about fifty, and there will be but few invited friends outside of the membership of the club, which now comprises about forty active members. The society has been active in athletic circles for the past ten years.

A committee is now arranging the program. It will comprise a number of speeches and songs. The officers of the Sodality are: Lawrence Drohan, prefect; William Pavden, first assistant prefect; Benjamin Owens, second assistant prefect; John Schlitz, treasurer, and John Miller, secretary.

REV. RAYMOND BASIL.

SUPERIOR LODGE MEMBERS VISIT THE WEST END.

Members of Harmony Lodge, Independent Order of Good Templars, about fifty strong, came to the West end from Superior last evening and furnished an evening of entertainment for the members of North Star Lodge, No. 11 of the West end at Sloan's hall.

The visitors rendered a program of speeches and music, and following this, the local lodge served refreshments. The trip from Superior was made in sleighs. Tomorrow evening, about seventy-five of the West end lodge members will comprise a sleighride party which will visit the Superior lodge.

DEDICATION WILL BE POSTPONED

New St. Clement's Church Will Not Be Completed Until May.

Dedicatory services for the new $60,000 St. Clement's Catholic church, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street, now being constructed, will probably not be held until about the middle of May, instead of in April as was first expected.

The work on the building has not progressed as rapidly as was planned, and arrangements for the dedication as far as a date is concerned, will have to be changed. The affair promises to be an elaborate one and it is probable that several high prelates will be in attendance.

Practically all of the exterior work of the church has been completed. In fact, there is nothing more to be done to the exterior except in the rear, where there is a small shingling job. The interior work will require considerable time.

The towers of the church which are among the highest in the city, the west one standing 128 feet in height, have been completed and workmen are now engaged in taking down the scaffolding.

West End Shortrails.

William G. Carlson of West Second street has gone to Minneapolis to visit friends for a few days.

Mrs. Peter Olson of 2333 West Tenth street is ill at her home.

Oscar Carlson has returned to his home at Virginia, after a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Simonson of 2102 West Superior street.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Swedish Mission church was entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alfred Bodin of 1112½ Garfield avenue.

Rev. J. J. Daniels, pastor of the Swedish Mission church, returned this morning from Iron Junction, Minn., where he conducted the funeral of Leander Johnson, a resident of that place, who died yesterday.

Rice's Point Lodge, No. 80, A. O. U. W., of the West end, held a special election last evening to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of J. A. Miller as recorder. Joseph Olson was named to fill the vacancy. The regular election took place at last month's meeting.

A grand opening was held last evening at the skating rink of the French Naturalization club at Twenty-fifth avenue west between Second and Third streets. There was a program of good music and a large number in attendance.

Weather: Generally cloudy and colder tonight and Saturday; cold wave tonight, temperature 10 below.

to, will be called in to tell the committee anything he may have to offer.

There have been reports that this year's investigations would be more than the usual formal affairs, and yesterday's decision to go down the line with all the branches of the state government that have been unlucky enough to attract criticism bears out those reports.

The meeting was attended by Senators Murray, Works and Swanson from the senate committee, and Representatives Pfaender, Edwards and Moriarty from the house committee.

To Reduce Width of Roads.

A bill offered in the house today by Representative Joseph R. Keefe of North Redwood will, if it is passed, add to the productive area of the state about 160,000 acres of land, worth at the low average of $30 per acre at least $5,000,000.

He will accomplish this by proposing a bill reducing the width of roads throughout the state from four rods to three. While the law now requires that public highways shall be four rods wide, much less than that is used for road purposes, and the result is that on each side of the average road there is a vacant and idle area which is worse than waste, because it is a breeding ground for weeds which scatter their seeds through the adjoining fields, costing the farmers of Minnesota an incalculable sum every year in damage from deteriorated farm yields.

It is figured by Mr. Keefe that three rods is ample width for public roads, and that the proposed reduction of one rod will not only add eight and a quarter feet of rich soil to the farms on either side of every road in the state, but will reduce the size of the waste land along the roadside where weeds are allowed to go to seed to the injury of the farmers, causing a loss in the state's production of agricultural wealth that can hardly be estimated.

According to the state highway commission, there are at least 79,000 miles of public highways in this state. The passage of Mr. Keefe's bill would add to the productive area of the state land equal to an area one rod wide and 79,000 miles long. That makes nearly 160,000 acres, worth at the lowest calculation $5,000,000.

In Mr. Keefe's own county of Redwood, where land is worth at least $50 an acre, his bill would redeem from the roadside waste 3,000 acres, worth, $150,000.

Educational Measures.

The committees on education of the senate and house held a joint hearing yesterday afternoon on several pending educational measures. Representatives of the county superintendents were present, and urged three points: First, consolidated rural schools; second, a relaxing of the compulsory education law so that the elder farm boys and girls can work on the farm during the last spring and early fall; third, more pay, longer terms and more help for county superintendents. The county superintendents favor the consolidated rural school because it is evident to them that the old system of isolated one-room schools, poorly equipped and compelled to take such teachers as they can get, is a failure. They are for the relaxation of the compulsory education law because it is impossible to enforce it now without imposing hardships on farmers who need the help of their children during seeding time and harvest time. They are, for more pay and longer terms—for the same reason other people would be for them if they were county superintendents. Their representatives did not oppose the plan of imposing educational qualifications on county superintendents, and it is probable that when that needed improvement is made, arrangements will also be made to give these officials better pay—they don't get as much as many of the pedagogues under their direction now—and longer terms. Two years is barely long enough for any public official to get adjusted to his work, and if his first term is his last, as often happens to the best of county officials, he leaves his public place just as he is becoming of real value to the public. The county superintendents think they ought to get as much money as other county officers, unless education is of less importance than the matters handled by other county officers.

Rural Consolidated Schools.

The hearing was confined largely to the rural consolidated school idea. Chairman Kunze of the house committee read an abstract of a bill which he is preparing, similar to in general terms but differing much in details from that prepared by Dr. W. T. Stone of Park Rapids, described in these dispatches recently. Mr. Kunze's bill recognizes three grades of rural schools, and provides state aid as follows: Four-department schools, $1,000 a year; three-department schools, $750 a year; two-department schools, $500 a year. In addition, it is proposed that the state shall contribute one-fourth of the cost of the school building, such contribution not to exceed $1,500. The school must be provided with at least two acres of ground.

This plan differs from Dr. Stone's in that it offers smaller state aid, does not provide for repayment to the state of the money paid for building, and allows two acres of ground instead of ten. Dr. Stone's plan makes the consolidated rural school tract a state experiment farm in summer, which Mr. Kunze's plan does not.

In both cases it is required that the school district shall provide transportation for the pupils, and that instruction shall include agricultural, industrial training and domestic science.

The discussion was generally favorable to the consolidated rural school idea, and though one or two speakers said there were difficulties in the way, such as the reluctance of school districts to merge their identity in the consolidated districts, the impression seemed to be that none of these difficulties are insurmountable.

To Restore Fort Ridgley.

O. H. Clarke of Duluth is here cooperating with the senators and representatives from Nicollet, Renville and Redwood counties in the preparation of a bill which will be introduced soon with the ultimate purpose of redeeming the site of historic Fort Ridgley from waste, of restoring the old stone fort and of making the site the permanent camping grounds for the state militia.

At present all that is asked is an appropriation for the purchase of about half a section of land surrounding and including the site of the old army post against which a horde of embattled Sioux warriors one time fought in vain, resisted by a staunch little band of devoted whites. This will take about $25,000, and Mr. Clarke and the members from that section of the country think the expense well warranted because of the beauty of the spot, the fact that it is one of the most notable historic places in the state, and the fact that it will adapt itself admirably to the needs of the state militia after the present contract for the Lake City grounds expires.

Fort Ridgley is—or rather was—situated in the northwestern corner of Nicollet county. The fort is gone, long since. The military reservation reverted to the government and was homesteaded long ago. The granite walls of the old fort were carted off to build the foundations of the homes of surrounding farmers. A few years ago the state bought five acres there and erected a monument.

How Mr. Clarke came to be interested in the matter is this: He spent his boyhod days there, from 1861 to 1873, and played as a boy around the fort. He knew well the colonel in command, who happened to be the father of Representative Albert Pfaender of New Ulm, the Democratic leader of the house.

A few years ago Mr. Clarke spent a Fourth of July on the scene of his boyhood adventures, which included several alarms from Indian marauders —one imaginary, when he and his companions fired several shots at a non-commissioned officer, thinking him an Indian, and once when they saw real Indians who were where they had no business to be. He found the state's monument—in the back yard of a shack—grown up with weeds, neglected, forgotten except in tradition. It occurred to him it was a pity, and ever since he has been working on the project of having the state buy the site, restore the old fort, and make the place a state park and headquarters for the state militia. The Herald had an interview with him some time ago in which he explained the plan, and he has been corresponding with the newspapers in that section and with the senators and representatives, with the result that a bill carrying out his plan will shortly be introduced.

The house is unusually well pleased with its chaplain, Rev. Moses E. Maxwell of St. Paul. His prayers are short, as the house desires; in fact, they might be called, if it is not irreverent, tabloid prayers. Yet there is a new, a pregnant and an inspiring thought in every one of them.

The University Appropriation.

The state university probably will get what it needs at this session, but it will have some hard sledding, because of the rural impression that the university is using up a lot of state money, that there isn't sufficient check on its expenditures, and that it is better to spend money on the many who never can hope to get to the university than on the few who do get there.

An estimate of the university's needs —not including the $636,000 emergency appropriation for the completion and eqipment of buildings previously authorized by the legislature—presents the formidable total of $5,409,895.

The contest of ex-Senator Ray G. Farrington against Senator S. J. Froshaug was submitted to the senate elections committee yesterday afternoon, and was referred to a sub-committee composed of Senators Haycraft, Gunderson and Boyle. Froshaugh was elected on the face of the returns by a small vote, and Farrington instituted a contest which showed his election, also by a small vote. The Froshaug case is, that the ballot boxes were tampered with, and Froshaugh ballots marked so that they were thrown out on the recount. The issue turns on the question whether the burden of proof is upon Froshaug to show that the ballot boxes were tampered with, or upon Farrington to show that they were not tampered with or were kept in such shape that it is unlikely that they were molested. This, it is said, is a nice question of law which it is the duty of the sub-committee to decide.

STANDS BACK OF THE DENTAL WORK WE HAVE BEEN DOING FOR DULUTH PEOPLE—FOR TWENTY YEARS WE HAVE BEEN PRACTICING DENTISTRY IN YOUR MIDST.

When our first patrons have stuck by us during these years, when they have brought their families and sent their friends here to have their teeth fixed, crown or bridge work done, is it not proof of the satisfying results of our work.

Remember, too, that you expect your dental work to LAST FOR YEARS. It always inspires confidence to have that work done by a reliable dentist who is well established, one to whom you can always go back if things are not satisfactory. It's expensive experience when you get cheap work done and then have to go to a good dentist in the end. Better have it done right in the first place.

We are here to stay, and to make good every time, should there be any fault in our work. We are not "old fogey" either, but have one of the finest equipped dental offices in the city. We keep abreast of the times in all that is practicable in the newest methods recognized by first-class dentists all over the country.

We guarantee our crown and bridge work perfect in material and workmanship. Mechanical accuracy in the fitting is our forte.

HEARING ON DAM BILLS

Committee Listens to Arguments From Rival Companies.

Decision Will Not Be Forthcoming for Some Days.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house committee on interstate commerce today granted a hearing on the St. Croix river dam bills. Representative Stevens of Minnesota and Lenroot of Wisconsin have each introduced bills. The Stevens bill grants right to construct a dam across the St. Croix at a point about nine miles above Nevers dam to J. D. Markham and associates of Rush City.

Lenroot's bill gives St. Croix River Lumberman's Dam & Boom company, a Wisconsin corporation, and St. Croix River Navigation & Improvement company, a Minnesota corporation, both subsidiary companies of Stone & Webster of Boston, the right to raise Nevers dam sixteen feet or construct a new dam within 1,000 feet of the present structure. Representative Stevens presented a letter from J. D. Markham of Rush City outlining the plans of his company, which proposes to expend $300,000 on the improvement and furnish power to the cities of North Branch, Rush City and Pine City, in Minnesota, and Grantsburg, in Wisconsin.

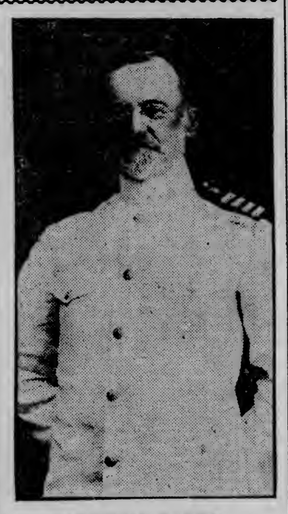

Representative Lenroot explained his bill and Thomas B. Royce of Boston, representing Stone & Webster, informed the committees of the plans of his company. He argued that more power could be generated by the improvement his company contemplates than one proposed by the Rush City corporation and that the cost would be less, hence the water to consumers would be less.

If the right to alter existing conditions as to the St. Croix dam is granted to the Stone & Webster company, it would be necessary for them to get a new franchise from the Wisconsin state legislature which would subject them to the supervision of the Wisconsin Power commission.

Members of the committee suggested that Wisconsin laws might regulate these companies so far as Wisconsin was concerned but that would do nothing for consumers across the line in Minnesota, where most of the power would be used.

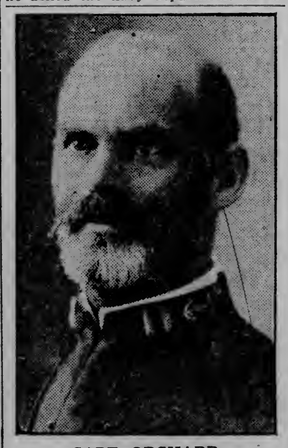

Mr. Royce replied that the companies would not charge one price in Wisconsin and a higher one in Minnesota, but he admitted there was law to prevent that. The committee took no action today on these several bills and may be many days before a report on them is forthcoming.

CAUSED SCANDAL IN UNITED STATES NAVY

ADMIRAL BARRY.

A scandal has developed in the navy over the retirement of Admiral Barry. It is said that the officers serving under him in the Pacific fleet made certain discoveries concerning him, which were discussed in conference and the result was a demand on the admiral that he resign. Instead of doing so he asked the navy department to allow him to retire two weeks before the time that his retirement was expected to occur and the department granted his request. Capt. Orchard was one of the committee of three officers who went to the admiral and demanded his resignation. The admiral is quoted as saying that he retired prematurely to avoid a scandal which he believed would injure the navy.

WILL OFFER COUNTY $10,000 SANITARIUM FOR CHILDREN

If the sum of $10,000 is raised by private subscription and a sanitarium for children erected in connection with the proposed new county tuberculosis sanitarium, will the county take it over and maintain it?

That is the question which will be put up to the county board this afternoon, at its meeting in the courthouse.

For several weeks past a number of public spirited men and women in Duluth have been working on the plan for a sanitarium for children who are threatened or afflicted with tuberculosis. They have good prospects of raising the $10,000 which will be needed for the building, and it is proposed to operate it in connection with the new county sanitarium.

The county board will probably take action on it this afternoon, but up to 2:30 o'clock had not reached this order of business, as a number of routine matters had to be disposed of.

A CHECK ON COUNTERFEITING.

Philadelphia Record: Our government prints its currency and numbers its bills in a series of four, so that every piece of paper money turned out bears one of the check letters, A, B, C, D. One of these letters is always in the upper left hand corner and in the lower right hand corner.

The placing of the letter on the bill is determined by this rule: Divide the last two figures on the note by four. Should the remainder be 1, the check letter must be A; should it be 2, the check letter is B; 3, the check letter is C, and nothing, the letter D.

Should this rule of four fail to work on any purported United States currency note, one may safely wager all he has that the note is bad. Some counterfeited bills are right as to their check letters, but a great many are not so if the rule of four works. The bill may be still bad, but if it does not it is surely bad. This rule applies only to United States currency and not to national bank notes.

DRINK CURE AND A SQUARE DEAL.

At Least One Chemical House Gives Its Patrons Good Value for Their Money.

The following letter from a grateful woman in the Middle West, whose home has been saved, speaks for itself. The name of the writer, is, of course, withheld, for all such correspondence is considered by the Company absolutely confidential.

"Dear Sirs:—As I feel I owe you a debt of gratitude I can never pay, thought I would drop you a few lines and tell you what your medicine has done for my husband. He has not touched a drop of anything to drink in over a year. My home is like a heaven on earth since that awful curse has been removed and I feel that I can never thank you for your kindness in being so prompt in sending the medicine. Husband took it willingly and is more than proud to think he can go to town and not want to visit the hotels and saloons. When I think of the years I lived with a drunkard when so little would have stopped it, I cannot help but feel that I cannot thank you for what you have done for me."

If the White Ribbon Remedy Company, the well-known manufacturers of the famous Remedy for the alcohol habit, succeed in carrying their splendid treatment into the homes of the drinkers in this city they will have earned the lasting gratitude of the homes saved and of the community at large. Hard drinking means hard times for the family as well as the loss of health and manhood for the drinker.

The White Ribbon Remedy is honestly made by honest people, with the sincere desire to help the homes that are being injured and, perhaps, even desolated by alcohol. It is odorless, tasteless, contains absolutely no habit-forming drugs, may be administered secretly if desired, and has proven its efficacy so many times that those who earnestly desire to win the drinker from the alcohol habit may begin treatment with the utmost confidence that splendidly gratifying results will follow.

White Ribbon Remedy costs $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00; and may be obtained of all the Hegeman & Co.'s stores, New York city, or direct from the White Ribbon Remedy Co., Boston, Mass.

WOULD ABOLISH THE U. S. SENATE

Social Democrat Introduces Resolution in Wisconsin Senate.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 20.—Senator Zophy (Social-Democrat) introduced a resolution today for the abolishment of the United States senate.

In the assembly Mr. Hahn (Social-Democrat) introduced a resolution memorializing congress in favor of a parcels post.

Mr. Hahn also introduced a resolution to investigate the liquor traffic. The resolution cites the system relating to the regulation of the liquor traffic in various counties and calls for the appointment of a joint committee of both houses to investigate different plans and report to the next legislature some method that will be best adapted to the social conditions and needs of the people of the state. The resolution was adopted.

MUCH COAL IS NOW EXPORTED

Growth in the Last Decade Has Been Very Large.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Coal and coke exports from the United States in 1910 aggregated $45,000,000 in value, and in addition to this more than $20,000,000 worth was supplied to vessels engaged in the foreign trade, making a total of $65,000,000 worth of coal passing out of the United States in the calendar year 1910. In 1900 the total value of coal and coke exported (aside from that supplied to vessels in the foreign trade) was about $23,000,000; about twenty years ago about $7,000,000 and thirty years ago $2,000,000. Thus the value of coal exported to foreign countries in 1910 is practically double that of ten years ago, six times as much as that twenty years ago and twenty-two times as much as that thirty years ago. The quantity exported has grown from a little over 500,000 tons in 1880 and about 2,000,000 in 1890 to approximately 8,000,000 tons in 1900 and 14,000,000 in 1910, aside from the 6,000,000 tons supplied to vessels engaged in the foreign trade.

Coal is thus becoming one of the important articles of exportation in the foreign trade of the United States.

Walker, financier and president of the defunct California Safe Deposit & Trust company of San Francisco, is charged in a suit filed here. The principal defendant is Mrs. Althea Walker, the widow. She is accused of plotting to deprive Walker's children by his first marriage of securities worth $500,000.

Among those accused with Mrs. Walker are Margaret Walker Smoot and Clarence N. Walker.

MAD COYOTES CHARGE TOWN

Many People and Dogs of Durkee, Or., Are Bitten.

Baker City, Or., Jan. 20.—A band of mad coyotes charged into Durkee last night biting many people and dogs. The settlers armed and waged war against the intruders for many hours. Then they turned their guns against the dogs, killing every one in the village, fearing that the rabies, which are rampant among the coyotes in the district, would spread.

SISTERS DIE ON SUCCESSIVE DAYS

Two sisters of a well known Duluth resident died within a period of two days this week, one in Ontario and one in Alberta. Mrs. Janet Clow is the bereaved sister. Both of those who died were the mothers of former residents of Duluth.

Mrs. Elizabeth Johnstone Gillespie, mother of Angus and John A. Gillespie, died yesterday at Stayner, Ont., at the age of 73 years. Angus Gillespie is now a resident of Troy, N. Y., and his brother lives in St. Louis. Until a few years ago both of them were Duluthians.

Mrs. Mary Johnstone Beveridge, another sister of Mrs. Clow, died Wednesday at Calgary, Ala., at the age of 79 years. She was the mother of F. D. Beveridge, another former resident of Duluth, who is now a capitalist of Calgary.

FALLS DEAD ON FLOOR OF SALOON.

The body was taken to Crawford's undertaking rooms after it had been viewed by Coroner McCuen. An autopsy was held today and death was found to have been due to tubercular hemorrhage. Erickson was about 35 years old. But little is known of him.

FATE OF CHARLES MELODROWSKI IS IN THE HANDS OF JURY

possession of the revolver in the street car, Mr. Teare made a strong plea for the boy. He based his argument on the boy's statement that he had pulled the gun only to scare the officer and that he fired the first shot with that end in view. He contended that the boy did not fire directly at the officer and that the officer was not wounded until the struggle for the gun began.

Mr. Teare argued that there was no premeditation and no intent to kill and without the intent the crime could not be murder.

Posed as "Bad Man."

County Attorney Norton argued for a conviction of murder in the first degree. He said the boy, fired by the lurid tales of nickel novel authors, had held up the hotel and toted the gun in order that he might pose as a "bad man." He said when the shooting of the policeman and the spectacular escape possible under those circumstances suggested themselves to Melodrowski's mind, he acted in accordance with the suggestion, fired to kill and committed a premeditated murder. Mr. Norton contended that the youth of the boy should not be taken as a circumstance warranting the lessening of the degree of the crime. He said the boy was fully capable of realizing the enormity of the crime and was therefore amenable under the law the same as if he were fully grown.

There were few delays and no hitches in the trial of the youth. Just two weeks after the shooting took place the case was in the hands of the jury and it is expected that a verdict will be returned this afternoon or this evening. The fact that a state law prohibited the admittance of the public to the trial took some of the interest from it and the morbidly curious were sadly disappointed.

It is expected that a minor criminal case will be tried before Algot Johnson, the other 15-year-old boy charged with murder in connection with the killing of the policeman, is placed on trial. Johnson was not in the court room during the trial, which ended today. He was called to testify but acted on the advice of his counsel and refused to do so.

Melodrowski went on the stand in his own behalf yesterday and told the story of the McKay hotel robbery and the shooting of the officer. Melodrowski claimed that the shooting of Chesmore was purely accidental. He said he first told the officer to throw up his hands and he fired when Chesmore failed to comply. He said that during the scuffle for the revolver it was fired several times, the fatal shots being fired at that time.

Melodrowski said that the holdup at the McKay hotel was planned about a month before it was executed. He said that he and Johnson wanted to go out West and become cowboys. They decided to hold up the night clerk of the hotel in order to get money to carry out their plan. He said that they had both read a great many dime and nickel novels and their plan to become "bad men" was the result.

Algot Johnson, the boy who was with Melodrowski in the holdup and when the shooting occurred, was called to the stand yesterday, but he stood on his constitutional right and declined to testify, his attorney having told him that he might incriminate himself, he said.

ASKS VOTES FOR SHEEHAN

choose, do me a favor by casting your vote, not for me, but for Mr. Sheehan. The unjust attacks on Mr. Sheehan should not operate to weaken the support of his friends, but should cement and strengthen their uncompromising efforts for his election.

"I appeal to you and to all loyal Democrats to see to it by your votes and influence that Mr. Sheehan who has the majority vote in caucus, should receive majority vote of the members of the legislature.

"Any other course is subversive of the principle of majority rule.

"You are at liberty to publish this letter.

"Very sincerely yours,
"ALTON B. PARKER."

After reading the letter Mr. Saunders said that it would not change his attitude nor would it make the other six assemblymen who voted for Parker change their views.

RICH IRON ORE STRIKE ON CUYUNA

strike is one of the biggest in the iron mining world in the last year. Just how many million tons will be disclosed is uncertain. The property will be thoroughly explored and engineers believe one of the largest iron ore deposits on the Cuyuna will be developed.

Sell Lots Back at Profit.

Purchasers of lots in Ironton, the town on the Cuyuna that grew from nothing into a teeming community in lass than a week last summer, are selling their holdings back to the townsite company, and it is understood that they are getting fancy prices for the holdings. It seems that no mineral reservations were included in the deeds transferring the property, and now that ore bodies have been found under the lots the Brown interests, which control the townsite, are eagerly snapping up all the lots they can get in that particular part of the town.

Judge J. T. Hale of Deerwood, who is in the city today, accompanied by his son, Paul M. Hale, said he was not advised as to the conditions of the sale of lots in Ironton, but he talked interestingly about development work now in progress on the Cuyuna.

"The Inland Steel company of Chicago is sinking a shaft on a tract leased from George Crosby. It is in N. W. N. E. 11, 46-29. The shaft will be concrete. It is to be a four-compartment shaft. This company also is interested in a lease on ore land in the north half of section 11. The Inland lease on the Crosby property includes S. W., S. E. same section and range.

"The Salisbury Mining company, in which my associates and myself are interested, is drilling in section 6, southwest of Brainerd. The Salisbury recently made a lease to the Northwestern Improvement company of 120 acres, adjoining the Barrows Exploration company's lease from the Brainerd people. On the latter tract they are blocking out the ore body and in the spring will put in their shaft. Another shaft is being put in on the Armour property in N. E., N. W., 11, 46."

Judge Hale said all the shafts being put in on the Cuyuna range are of concrete and all are of the latest and most approved style of construction, with steel head frames.

"The Liver Pills act So Naturally and Easily."

Such a statement, coming from the cashier of a bank, shows what confidence responsible people have in these pills. Mr. A. L. Wilson after trying them wrote:

"I have used Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills and also your Anti-Pain Pills, on myself, with good results. The Liver Pills act so naturally and so easily that I scarcely know that I have taken a pill. Frequently being troubled with headache I take an Anti-Pain Pill and get immediate relief in every case."

A. L. Wilson, Sparta, Ill.

Mr. Wilson wes for a number of years cashier of the First National Bank of Sparta.

Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills are different from others. Many kinds of liver pills are "impossible" after one trial on account of their harshness. Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills do not act by sheer force but in an easy, natural way, without griping or undue irritation. They are not habit forming.

FOR SALE BY E. M. TREADWAY.

SOO BUYS ITASCA LINE

Logging Road Will Be Extended and Made Branch Line.

Road Extends for Fifty Miles North of Deer River.

The Soo railroad is to purchase the so-called Itasca road, a logging line, and extend it at each end, and the road when completed will constitute a division of the Soo, with division headquarters probably at Deer River, where the Minneapolis & Rainy River railroad, which owns the Itasca line, has built a fourteen-stall round house.

Appraisers have been appointed by Judge Stanton, preparatory to the institution of condemnation proceedings on the part of the Minneapolis & Rainy River company, which proceedings are undertaken for the purpose of perfecting title to the right-of-way. In the past but very little attention has been paid to the right-of-way title, as the road has been engaged exclusively in logging operations. Now that it is to be sold to the Soo, it becomes necessary to perfect title.

Grand Rapids and Deer River are among the more important towns on the line, which extends north from Deer River a distance of fifty miles, and south to within eighteen miles of Remer, on the Soo main line, to which point it will be built.

The Itasca Lumber company, owned by the same interests as own the Minneapolis & Rainy River road, is operating only two or three camps this year and probably will clean up next year. These interests also control the Deer River Lumber company, which is installing new machinery in its plant at Deer River and has a timber supply for fifteen or twenty years. It is believed this company plans to establish a box factory which will employ a large number of men. The Deer River company plans on a big cut next year.

MUST KEEP AWAY FROM POOL HALLS

Police Will Enforce Law Against Minors Playing the Game.

The police have started a campaign against the practice of allowing minors to frequent pool and billiard halls in the city.

The first raid was made last evening on the place in the basement at 18 East Superior street, conducted by Di Marco & Erspamer, when Arthur Witz, 15 years old, the son of Samuel Witz of 423 East Superior street, was taken into custody by Detectives Toewe and Terry.

John Thompson, who was in charge of the rooms, was also brought to headquarters for allowing the boy to play. Both were released on their own recognizance to appear in police court today. Under the law both the minor and the proprietor can be punished for conviction of this offense. Many complaints have been made by parents to the authorities that their boys are spending altogether too much time in places of this character.

Thompson entered a plea of not guilty to allowing minors to play when arraigned in police court this morning. His trial was set for this afternoon. The case of the Witz boy will be taken up by the juvenile court.

BABE STRANGLED BY ITS MOTHER

Infant Found Dead in Bed at Bethel Rescue Home.

Accidentally strangled by its mother while she slept, the infant daughter of Alice Wanamaker died yesterday afternoon at the Bethel rescue home.

The child was sleeping with its mother, who was lying with her arm around the baby. As she slept she must have dropped her forearm over the baby's mouth and nose, for when she awoke the child was dead. Death was evidently due to strangulation, and Dr. F. F. Clark performed a post-mortem examination yesterday afternoon. Death was due to accidental strangulation in his opinion.

The body was taken to Flood & Horgan's undertaking roms, and the funeral will be held tomorrow.

said, should not be overlooked. Gen. Kelfer declared that during the consideration of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty in the United States senate, all amendments looking to the striking out of the neutrallization clause, were voted down.

Mr. Hobson took issue with the gentleman from Ohio on many points. "In the question of any important matters in the history of civilized nations," he said, "can the gentleman cite one case where any nation having a vital interest at stake, ever undertook to guard and protect it through neutralization?"

"In connection with what he would term the validity of neutralization through treaty or international law, I would refer him to the question of the latest and most binding treaty in the world, namely the treaty of New Orleans which neutralizes and guarantees the integrity of the Balkan provinces. This was negotiated in 1878 and is still in full effect and yet only two years ago Austria undertook to annex some of those provinces, without even a protest.

"He refers to the Suez canal. The British distinctly refused to let the word "guarantee" enter the treaty under which its neutralization was effected. In that treaty the word is that the contracting powers 'agreed' and not 'guaranteed.' The British had it stricken out, and it had not been in effect but a few years when the English themselves violated it and used it as a base of operations to overcome the sovereignty of Egypt. And then the British in 1876, during the Russo-Turkish war, said 'we will permit no act of war.' They control that canal and have ever since. They have put up fortifications along the source of it, which, with their control of the sea, gives them absolute control of that canal as much as we could possibly get out of the Panama canal. With the building of the Suez canal, combination between Europe and Asia was settled.

"The communication between Europe and Asia is not affected by the Panama canal, but the Panama canal will put every foot of coast line on the western shores of all the Americas at the mercy of European powers.

"It will put every foot of coast line on the Atlantic and the Gulf coasts of the Americas at the mercy of any Asiatic power, which they were not before.

"What it connects is the Americas.

"It puts the East and West coasts of the Americas into communication. It is essentially an American proposition.

"Our forefathers, with the instinct of their day, felt that in questions that are essentially American we shoiud not be voted down by combinations of European nations. That is the foundation of the Monroe doctrine.

"If we now invite the great military powers of Europe to join us in this purely American affair, we shall simply abrogate the Monroe doctrine."

KILLS BIG EAGLE.

Little Falls, Minn., Jan. 20.—While on his way home from Rice Lake a few days ago, John Michalke saw a large bird in a pine tree, which he shot and upon investigation it proved to be a bald eagle, something quite rare here. It measured seven feet from tip to tip.

FARMERS' CLUB AT HERMANTOWN

Duluth Getting Valuable Advertising From Co-Operative Market Association.

A. B. Hostetter, agricultural director of the Duluth Commercial club will go to Hermantown tomorrow to address the farmers of that community and urge them to lose no time in organizing a farmers' club, so that they may no longer miss any of the advantages to be gained by affiliating with the Producers' Co-Operative Market association.

The Commercial club has received a letter of inquiry concerning the co-operative market from the Commercial club of Dodge Center, and evidences of the large volume of valuable publicity the city is securing through means of the growing fame of this association continues to be received daily.

Among the inquirers is an agricultural paper published at Aberdeen, S. D., and a copy of a publication has been received from Arkansas which contains a reprinted article that first appeared in another journal, and which had not previously come to the attention of the club officials here.

The importance of this publicity to Duluth and Northeastern Minnesota is obvious. When the patrons of agricultural publications read that the farmers in the territory contributary to Duluth have organized for the purpose of disposing of their produce, it is inevitable that they conclude there are here prosperous and growing farming communities. That is the information which Duluth wants to spread broadcast.

When The Stomach Stops

Working Properly, Because There Is Wind In It, Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to Set It Going Again.

A Trial Package Free.

The doctors call it flatulency, but unprofessional folks know it as "wind on the stomach," and a most distressing state of things it is. It is a serious condition of this great motor organ. Always annoying and painful in the extreme, at times often leading to bad and fatal results. The stomach embarrassed and hampered with wind cannot take care of its food properly and indigestion follows, and this has a train too appalling to enumerate. The entire system is implicated—made an active or passive factor in this trouble and life soon becomes a questionable boon.

All this is explained in doctor books; how undigested food causes gases by fermentation and fomentation in which process some essential fluids are destroyed—burnt up—wasted by chemical action, followed by defective nutrition and the distribution through the alimentary tract of chemically wrong elements and as a consequence the stomach and entire system is starved. Plenty of food, you see, but spoilt in preparation and worse than worthless.

A deranged stomach is the epitome of evil; nothing too bad to emanate from it, but the gas it generates is probably its worst primary effect and the only way to do away with this is to remove the cause. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets go to the root of this trouble. They attack the gas-making foods and render them harmless. Flatulency or wind on the stomach simply cannot exist where these powerful and wonderworking little tablets are in evidence.

They were made for this very purpose to attack gas making foods and convert them into proper nutriment. This is their province and office. A whole book could be written about them and then not all told that might be told with profit to sufferers from this painful disease, dyspepsia. It would mention the years of patient and expensive experiment in effort to arrive at this result—of failures innumerable and at last success. It would make mention of the different stomach correctives that enter into this tablet and make it faithfully represent all.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not alone intended for the sick, but well folks as well; for the person who craves hearty foods and wants to eat heartily and run no risk of bad effects, they act like a charm and make eating and digestion a delight and pleasure. They keep the stomach active and energetic and able and willing to do extra work without special labor or effort. Don't forget this. Well people are often neglected, but the Stuart Dyspepsia Tablets have them in mind.

A free trial package will be sent any one who wants to know just what they are, how they look and taste, before beginning treatment with them. After this go to the drug store for them; everywhere, here or at home, they are 50 cents a box and by getting them at home you will save time and postage. Your doctor will prescribe them; they say there are 40,000 doctors using them, but when you know what is the matter with yourself, why go to the expense of a prescription? For free trial package address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

NINE-YEAR-OLD BOY IS HANGED

Michigan Lad Evidently Murdered in Playhouse Used By Boys.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 20.—Foster Campbell, 9 years old, was found dead last night hanging from a rafter of a shack which the boys of the neighborhood had built for a playhouse, the position of the body indicating that he had been murdered.

For several days it is said, the boys had been quarreling among themselves as to the question of precedence in the "gang" and finally it was decided to tear down the little building.

Coming home from school yesterday the Campbell boy and a companion proceeded to the shack to remove such parts of it as they had contributed to its construction. Taking a large piece of tin from the place, the two boys went to a hill a short distance away and after coasting for a while, Foster Campbell returned alone to the shanty. That was the last time he was seen alive. When he did not return home last evening his mother and elder brother set out with a lantern to find him. Upon entering the playhouse, which was only about eight rods from their home, they found the little fellow dead.

The police have no clue upon which to base an arrest. Several of the boys of the neighborhood have been questioned, but all stoutly maintain their innocence and deny any knowledge of the crime.

BILL RAISING SALARIES OF COUNTY OFFICERS LAID OVER FOR WEEK

to get W. J. Stevenson, special counsel of the county, down here to talk things over, and to give the members more time to think over the salary increases.

The proposed increases are as follows:

Office.	Present salary.	Proposed salary.
Sheriff	$4,000	$5,000
County attorney	3,600	4,500
First assistant county attorney	2,000	3,000
Second assistant county attorney	1,200	2,500
Clerk to county attorney (new)		1,500
Register of deeds	3,000	4,500
Superintendent of schools	1,800	3,000
Assistant county superintendent	1,200	2,000
Judge of probate	3,600	4,500

The bill restoring the sheriff's pay for boarding prisoners to 30 cents a day was approved. The census, in advancing St. Louis county past the 150,000 mark, raised this to 60 cents a day.

The Sheriff's Bond.

The bill to fix the sheriff's bond at $8,000—it used to be $5,000 and the population change increases it to $25,000—was laid over, the members of the delegation feeling that the matter involves too small an amount to warrant the enactment of a law to cover it.

The delegation approved the bill providing a new system of examination of the accounts of cities, villages, townships and school districts, to replace the present law, which is likely to be declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. The new plan is to provide a deputy state public examiner, to be brought into the county at the request of the county board and to be paid by the county. The county examiner is now appointed by the county auditor, and as the law applies only to St. Louis county by a classification which is admitted to be dubious, the success of the present attempt to knock out the law is likely.

Five bills were received from the city council. The bill requiring the county treasurer to collect city assessments at the same time as he collects real estate taxes, and putting upon that official the burden of collecting them, was approved.

Municipal Lighting Plants.

The bill authorizing cities of the first class with home rule charters to issue bonds to the amount of $750,000 to buy or build municipal lighting plants was laid over until the next meeting. As it stands the bill clearly includes St. Paul, which does not want it, apparently, even if Duluth does. City Attorney Fesler will be asked to amend it so that it will apply only to Duluth. It will also be amended, before it is considered by the delegation, so that the people must vote on the bond issue before it is made, so that the interest on the bonds shall not exceed 5 per cent, and so that the bonds must be sold at not less than par, plus commission—in other words, so that it will not be possible to shave the bonds to get rid of them.

It was reported to the delegation that opposition might develop to the bill, and one reason for laying it over was to find out if Duluth really wants to embark on a municipal lighting plant enterprise, and to let those who have anything to offer on it be heard.

The delegation considered the bill putting assessments on the same basis with taxes as liens, and laid it over for explanation from its author, because it appeared to be ambiguous.

The other two bills, one authorizing the city to exchange park property for other property to be used for park purposes if the park board requests it by a two-thirds vote and the council favors it by the same vote, and the one validating bonds heretofore issued for permanent improvement revolving funds, were approved.

The bills that were approved will be introduced immediately.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

SUPREME COURT TO DECIDE IT

Judge Willard's Indian Treaty Decision Is to Be Appealed.

Washington, Jan. 20.—A conference lasting from 5 o'clock until 7:30 took place last evening at the White House, between President Taft, Secretary Ballinger, Commissioner of Indian Affairs Valentine, W. G. Calderwood of Minneapolis, and Secretary Nicholson of the Anti-Saloon League.

Assistant Secretary to the President Rudolph Forster, announced that no statement would be given out at this time concerning "the Indian country."

While President Taft had intended to issue an order modifying two of the old Indian treaties which were executed when Minnesota was a territory and also to send a special message to congress relative to the treaty of 1855, it is now understood that since the decision of Federal Judge Willard the president, Secretary Ballinger and Attorney General Wickersham are of the opinion that the courts after all must finally determine and decide as to the real meaning of what constitutes "Indian country" and what does not—also which is paramount police power in northern Minnesota, state or federal supervision.

To this end, speedy arrangements will be made to have the United States supreme court pass upon Judge Willard's decision.

Just how the issue will be joined in this appeal is to be worked out by the department of justice and whether the federal government or the Anti-Saloon League becomes the appellant in the case of the twelve Bemidji saloons, the Willard decision is to go up to the highest tribunal.

It was claimed by Mr. Calderwood, who represents the anti-liquor interests of Minnesota, that the agreements made between the Chippewa Indians and the federal government when the Indians ceded their lands, was a solemn and binding contract to be kept inviolate after Minnesota was admitted into the Union as well as before.

Meanwhile pending a decision by the supreme court, it is quite probable that the question will come up in the senate when the Indian appropriation bill is considered. Senator Gallinger, who introduced a resolution calling for reports of the special agents who undertook to put the lid on in Minnesota, will have something to say.

WANT TEACHERS FOR PHILIPPINES

Examination in March for Securing List of Eligibles.

Washington, Jan. 20.—The United States civil service commission announces an examination on March 8 and 9 at all the principal cities of the United States for securing a list of eligibles from which to make selections to fill positions in the Philippine teaching service. The places to which between sixty and one hundred will be appointed for next school year are high school positions, as teachers of English, mathematics, history, science, domestic science and home economy, industrial and manual training subjects and supervisors of the more than 4,000 schools taught by over 8,000 Filipino teachers.

This is a field which requires the services of young men of superior qualifications, excellent character and good preparation, who are able to maintain a position of influence among a rapidly developing people. For the right kind of men there are excellent opportunities to take a large part in the solution of some of the problems now confronting this country and at the same time gain an experience and training which will be of great value.

The government offers entrance salaries of $900 to $1,200 and transportation to Manila, with promotion to $2,000. This is the last examination of the present school year, and those who are appointed as a result of this examination will be expected to sail for Manila within the next few months, ready for the opening of the new school year.

Any one desiring further information may receive it by writing to the bureau of insular affairs, Washington, D. C.

ELOPERS FIND ALL DOORS SHUT

Rejected By Groom's Rich Parents and Bride's Poor Father.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 20.—Willis J. McCook, Jr., eldest son of the millionaire attorney, Willis J. McCook, Equitable Assurance society director, Carnegie Steel company counsel and friend and confidential adviser of Carnegie, is the central figure in an elopement sensation.

The junior McCook, barely 20, disappeared from home Thursday of last week on the eve of the departure of the McCook family for an European trip. He returned with a bride two months his junior, Margaret Norris, daughter of Ephraim Norris, a carpenter.

The pair were married at Cumberland, Md. When they returned from Cumberland the groom's father refused to admit him to the McCook home. The parents of the bride also refused to take them in. The McCooks are Roman Catholics. The Norrises, who are Scotch Presbyterians, have very strong scruples on the matter of religion.

The couple, turned out from both houses, took a modest flat in the mill suburb of McKeesport, where young McCook obtained work in a mill office as draftsman.

The McCooks have moved in the highest social circles. There are four daughters in the family. The two boys are the youngest of the family. The McCooks are descendants of the "Fighting McCooks" of Ohio. The McCook home in Fifth avenue is one of the most beautiful homes in Pittsburg and contains a private marble chapel, which its owners furnished at an expense of $200,000.

CHAMP CLARK FOR SPEAKER

Democratic Leader Unanimous Choice of the Party Caucus.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Champ Clark of Missouri was chosen speaker of the next house and given a rousing ovation on mention of his name for the presidency; a ways and means committee, previously agreed upon to name the standing committees and frame tariff legislation for the next congress; a New York member read out of the party; a grist of resolutions, and a host of speakers—these were the features of last night's caucus by Democratic members of the incoming house.

There were only eight absentees among the old and new Democrats of the Sixty-second congress. Martin W. Littleton of New York was one of those missing.

The program arranged by the leaders was carried out almost to the letter.

Mr. Underwood of Alabama, long the lieutenant of Mr. Clark, heads the new ways and means committee.

The caucus developed considerable difference of views as to the method of selecting committees, but when the time came for voting the Fitzgerald resolution to leave the committees to the speaker's selection was beaten, 29 to 166, and the Foster resolution placing that power in the ways and means committee, carried by 166 to 7.

ARE MELTING SNOW.

Kittson County Farmers Are Hard Pressed for Water.

Hallock, Minn., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—While the water question causes worry, the fear that was entertained two and three weeks ago, that moisture would be so scarce in the spring as to effect this year's crop is largely dispelled by the abundant snow fall of the past two weeks. Farmers throughout Kittson county continue, however, to find it hard to get the water they need for household and for their stock and many are melting ice and snow for water as surface wells have in nearly every instance given out and the only two streams that water can be hauled from now are north and south branches of Two river.

PAUL MORTON PASSES AWAY

President of Equitable Life Insurance Company Dies in New York.

Seized With Cerebral Hemorrhage in the Hotel Seymour.

New York, Jan. 20.—Paul Morton, president of the Equitable Life Assurance society and secretary of the navy under Theodore Roosevelt, died of a cerebral hemorrhage in the Hotel Seymour here last night. His wife and his eldest brother, Joy, were summoned to his side immediately after he was stricken, but he never regained consciousness, and at 6:45 o'clock, an hour after the attack, he died.

Mr. Morton was unconscious from the moment of the stroke and neither recognized those about him nor spoke.

Mr. Morton himself did not know that his life was in danger, but his family, his physicians and a few close friends knew that his condition was precarious, and that his life depended on his taking particular care of himself.

Brother Tells Story.

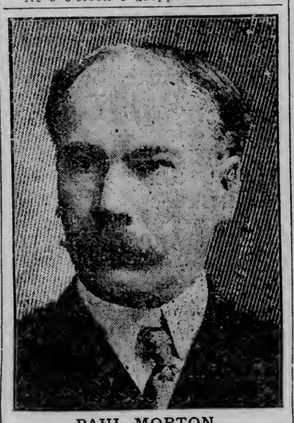

Joy Morton, after he left the room where the body lay, gave a full account of his brother's ill health and sudden death.

"Paul and I took luncheon together at noon today," he said.

"I had come on from Chicago only this morning and Paul met me at the station. We went to the Equitable building together, where at Paul's request I attended a meeting of the board of directors, at which he presided. Then we had luncheon in the building and sat talking until perhaps 2:30 o'clock.

"'See you at the house at 6 o'clock or a little before,' I said as we parted. I never saw him alive again.

"At 6 o'clock I dropped into his office, thinking we might go up town together, but he had left before me. So I went on up to the house alone, where I met Mrs. Morton and we drank tea together.

PAUL MORTON.

Usually Very Punctual.

"She knew that Paul had promised me to be home at 6 o'clock or before, and as it grew late, she turned to me and said:

"'Isn't it odd that Paul is late, he is always so punctual?'

"The words were hardly out of her mouth before the telephone rang and the butler brought the bad news. 'Mrs. Morton,' he said, 'the Hotel Seymour telephones that Mr. Morton has just fainted.'

"We jumped into an automobile and were there in a jiffy. F. J. Berwind was there before us. They had telephoned to the Metropolitan club, to Paul's office and to others of his friends.

"He was on the fifth floor of the hotel where he had an appointment with a lawyer, whose name I am not sure of. They told us that he had fainted in the hallway on his way to his friend's room, and that they had carried him into a vacant apartment.

Rejected By Examiner.

"Now let me tell you a little about my brother's health. About the first of last December the Equitable got out what is called a Christmas policy and when everything was in readiness it was suggested that it would be fitting to make out the first policy in the name of the president of the company. Paul was examined and Dr. Wells, the chief examiner for the company rejected him.

"Of course it was a shock, but Paul never dreamed how serious was his case. It alarmed his family, however, and we had him come on to Chicago to be examined by Dr. Frank Billings That I think was Dec. 5. Paul laughed at us. 'They are only trying to scare me.' I remember he said, of course Dr. Billings didn't tell Paul what he found, but he did tell me. 'Your brother's blood pressure is too high,' he said. 'He has auto-intoxication.'

"Then I came on to New York to find out what they thought here. Dr. Isaac Adler, the family physician told me that Paul was suffering from a kidney and arterial condition indicating bright's disease. Dr. Wells told me that he had rejected Paul because his tests showed traces of albumen. 'Your brother,' he said, 'is feeling the effects of what we call an unbalanced ratio.'

Very Temperate Man.

"Paul was a very temperate man. He ate sparingly and drank and smoked not at all."

Here the narrative, told with spirit, eagerness and a wealth of detail, ended suddenly. Joy Morton had done all he could to tell of his brother's closing hours and when his task had ended the tears suddenly welled into his eyes and he could not find words.

"This is tragic," he ended abruptly. "He was my younger brother—the last of us. Treat him kindly gentlemen."

In the anteroom of the Hotel Seymour, while Mr. Morton was talking, stood Thomas Fortune Ryan, E. J. Berwind and Theodore P. Shonts, all of whom had been summoned by telephone. Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins Smith, Jr., daughter and son-in-law had joined Mrs. Morton upstairs.

Coroner's Physician O'Hanlon said that from the history and symptoms there was no doubt in his mind that death was due to arterial sclerosis, a hadening of the walls of the arteries, terminating in a cerebal lesion. He thought that Bright's disease was indicented, but there would be no autopsy. A permit for the removal of the body to Mr. Morton's home was granted immediately.

WOMAN'S INDEPENDENCE AN AID TO DIVORCE.

New York, Jan. 20.—"What makes divorce frequent in this country is the fact that women now find it easy to be financially independent of their husbands."

This is the learned opinion of Judge W. B. Neff of Cleveland, who during the term of court just ended granted 428 divorces, breaking all records for his town and county.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, head of the woman's party, was asked to express an opinion about it. She promptly sustained Judge Neff.

"Certainly it's true, and there can be no question about it," said Mrs. Ca...

"Forty-two years ago, according to John Stuart Mill, only three women ever had applied for divorce in England. That was because the wife's property belonged absolutely to the husband after marriage and if she left him for no matter what cause—ill treatment or infidelity—she could take nothing with her.

"Today the great majority of divorces are granted women and the principal cause of divorce is infidelity. Women have urged their greater financial independence to insist upon a higher standard of family life. That's why divorce is an optimistic symptom of our times.

"Man cares more for the new woman than he ever cared for the old."

AT THE MERCY OF JAPANESE

Could Easily Seize the Pacific Coast, Says Representative Humphrey.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 20.—"Japan could seize Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, the Bremerton government navy yard, five great trans-continental railways, fortify mountain passes and have an empire upon which to live before the United States could get 75,000 troops to the Pacific ocean," declared Representative Humphrey of Washington, in an address at the annual banquet of the Lake Carriers' association here last night. The inefficiency of the United States merchant marine was the subject of Mr. Humphrey's address. He said in part: "The nations of the earth know our condition and they know we are utterly unprepared for war. They know that our army is too small, that our navy is practically helpless because we have no merchant vessels as an auxiliary. They know we have no transports for the one and no auxiliaries for the other.

"The war department will tell you that in case of a contest we would need for transports 250 vessels. We have not in both oceans combined twenty vessels fit for this purpose. We are more helpless today than was Russia at the beginning of the war with Japan.

Does Not Prophesy War.

"I do not prophesy a war with Japan. It would be a crime against humanity. But the only guarantee of peace on the Pacific ocean is to be prepared for war.

"Japan has 600 merchant vessels on the Pacific fit for transports. The United States has six. Japan can transport 500,000 troops at one time, the United States not more than 10,000."

Yesterday afternoon's session of the association was principally taken up with the election of officers and naming of the executive committee. The officers were re-elected and the executive committee stands practically the same as last year.

AGED PREACHER'S WINK

At Grown Girl Pupil Causes Trouble in Ohio School.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 20.—State School Commissioner John H. Zeller, after almost losing his sight in research, has finally concluded that there is no law whereby a pretty "school marm" can be discharged because an aged preacher, perchance, winks at her pupils. His opinion on this momentous question is given to the school board of Brown township, Vinton county.

That portion of the population in that township, which shuns scandal, noticed upon numerous occasions that the aged minister was a visitor at the young lady's school. But to make matters worse some one saw the old man slyly wing at a grown girl pupil, and the steam of sensation began to pop off.

The board "fired" the teacher because of the wink, and then libel suits were threatened. A new teacher had been installed. The old teacher, on a compromise, was rehired.

Now the board members are paying the new teacher out of their own pockets, and will have to continue to do so, so far as the laws are concerned, for the old teacher will continue to teach the school in spite of the alleged scandalous winks.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

COLDER

A dense fog enveloped the city early today. The mist gradually lifted but the day remained damp and warmer than for some time. A few snow flakes fell early but the promise of snow, indicated by the clouds, wind and dampness of the atmosphere, did not materialize until nearly noon. The thermometer got down to 11 deg. above zero in the night and the weather moderated rapidly in the morning but this evening it will turn colder and by tomorrow morning the mercury may descend to zero or 10 deg. below.

The freezing line went further north than in several weeks indicating the moderate temperatures in the Southwest where winter is "breaking up." In the Northwest a cold wave is spreading and it will hit the Head of the Lakes tonight or early tomorrow morning.

A year ago today the weather was ideal although toward evening a high wind appeared to make life uncomfortable for pedestrians. The sun got up today at 7:46 a. m. and it will set at 4:53 o'clock this afternoon.

Forecaster Richardson comments as follows on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours, snow or rain fell over Canada, Pacific states, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming, as a result of low pressure areas central this morning over British Columbia, Colorado and Minnesota. Temperatures have also risen somewhat over central Canada, and Middle and Southwestern states. A cold wave condition has developed over Alberta, affecting the greater portion of the extreme Northwest. This cold wave will doubtless reach the Head of the Lakes tonight and it will be attended by strong westerly winds and a return to zero temperatures."

General Forecast.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Wisconsin—Unsettled weather with light snow tonight or Saturday; colder.

Minnesota—Cloudy with a cold wave tonight; Saturday generally fair with colder in eastern potion.

Shippers' Forecast—Protect thirty-six hour shipments of perishables against zero temperature in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Michigan copper country.

Green Room Gossip.

Harry Linton who is at the Orpheum this week appearing in the sketch "At The Piano Store," tells a good story of the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno, last July. Mr. Linton happened to be in San Francisco at the time, and went to Reno to see the fight.

"For two or three days before the fight," said Mr. Linton, "the hotels out there were so crowded that they were sleeping on the floor and standing up in the corner. You couldn't get a room to yourself for any price. People doubled up as they never had before, and a man was lucky to get any part of a bed from a half to a quarter. This story is straight, for I heard it myself. I was standing in the lobby of the Golden hotel one morning, when a tousled, unkempt individual came down to the desk and said to the clerk: 'Say, look here, old man, you'll have to find me a place to sleep. I can't stand this any longer.'

"'Well, how long have you been here?' asked the clerk.

"'Three days.'

"'Where have you been sleeping?'

"'I have been sleeping on a sick man, but he is getting better and won't stand for it any longer.'

James Finney, the swimmer who is at the Empress this week, is a great advocate of swimming as the ideal exercise.

"There is no better exercise in the world for a man or a woman than swimming," he said. "It develops every muscle in the body, and is splendid exercise for the lungs and heart. Like every other exercise it should not be overdone, and a person unaccustomed to the water should not attempt racing or try to swim too far at first. It develops the arms and chest and abdomen and back. For a woman there is nothing that will develop the form better than swimming. There are no more nearly perfect women physically than my three daughters, and they have been in the water since childhood. The Australian women are great swimmers, and no place do you find finer looking women. Their skins are clear; their complexions wonderful, and their figures perfect. They are probably as fine samples of womanhood, physically, as you will find in the world. The same is true of the women in Southern California, who frequent the bathing beaches. It is the best exercise I know of."

Valuable Items for Men

Health and strength hitherto unknown will be felt surging in rich red blood through the arteries and veins and life's greatest ambitions may be realized as never before, if the following special treatment is followed by those men, and women, too, who are stricken with that most dreaded of all afflictions, nervous exhaustion, accompanied with such symptoms as extreme nervousness, insomnia, cold extremities, melancholia, headaches, constipation and dyspepsia, kidney trouble, dreadful dreams of direful disasters, timidity in venturing and a general inability to act naturally at all times as other people do. Lack of poise and equilibrium in men is a constant source of embarrassment even when the public least suspects it. For the benefit of those who want a restoration to full, bounding health and all the happiness accompanying it, the following home treatment is given. It contains no opiates or habit-forming drugs whatever. Mix it at home and no one will be the wiser as to your affliction.

The treatment is simple, thorough and correct. Leading druggists supply the main tinctures, extracts and essences in one-ounce bottles, ready to mix. Get three ounces syrup sarsaparilla compound, mix with one ounce compound fluid balmwort, and stand two hours. Add one ounce compound essence cardiol, and one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom). Shake well and take a teaspoonful after each meal at one at bedtime.

The ingredients are used for various prescriptions.

NORTHFIELD MAN HEADS DAIRYMEN

Mr. Schilling Again President of State Association—A. J. McGuire Talks.

Litchfield, Minn., Jan. 20.—The dairy farmers of Minnesota were given some good advice by Supt. A. J. McGuire of the Northeast experiment station at Grand Rapids, Minn., in addressing the State Dairymen's association meeting here this week while speaking to the subject, "Perfect Dairy Records a Necessity."

He stated that while Minnesota has the best buttermakers in the country, we have neither the best dairy farms nor the best cows. He attributes this to the fact that Minnesota farmers do not know what their herds are doing. He advised farmers to purchase no pure bred cattle without the dairy record of the animals; sometimes scrubs are found among pure bred stock.

H. W. Griswold of West Salem, Wis., spoke on "The Dairyman's Machine." The machine is the cow and as such should be given every care, kept healthy and in the best of condition, he said. He favors the Guernsey, Jersey and Ayrshire breeds as the best dairy cattle.

Better, Not More Cows.

Charles Nelson of Rosendale said that Minnesota has today about three times as many cows as twenty years ago, but still farmers have badly neglected increasing the production of cows. He says the need of today is not more cows, but better cows properly fed and managed.

J. C. Joslin of Chicago, in remarks on "Criticism on Butter," stated that creamery butter is growing poorer every year. This statement did not have reference to the butter shown at this meeting, but generally. Only 49 per cent of butter reaching the markets scores 89 or over, he said. He thinks it time for dairymen to take a brace or suffer loss of business in favor of the oleomargarine. He congratulated the Litchfield creamery on stamping out tuberculosis.

Membership Has Tripled.

W. F. Schilling of Northfield, who has headed the association for two years, was again re-elected president. During Mr. Schilling's administration the membership has increased from 300 to nearly 1,000. Prof. A. J. McGuire of Grand Rapids was placed in nomination but withdrew in the interest of harmony. Other officers elected were: Vice president, Andrew French, Plainview; second vice president, Charles Nelson, Rosendale; secretary, F. D. Currier, Nicollet; treasurer, J. M. Jack, Stanton.

The visiting dairymen were tendered a banquet by Litchfield citizens Wednesday night, at which over 425 were served. President Schilling was master of ceremonies and W. I. Nolan of Minneapolis, toastmaster.

Patricide Gets Seven Years.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Jan. 20.—Judge Wickham sentenced Felix Fourboul, Jr., to seven years at hard labor at Waupun for the murder of his father five and a half years ago. Judge Wickham gave him the limit and in passing sentence scored him severely.

Have Beautiful Hair; Dry Shampoo Method.

The beauty editors of many of the prominent ladies' journals are advocating the use of the "dry shampoo" in preference to any and all methods for beautifying the hair. It is claimed that this method is superior to washing the hair and creates a clean, lustrous, wavy head of hair in a short time. No matter how dull and lifeless the hair, the following dry shampoo will soon work wonders if regularly used: With 6 ounces of powdered orris root, mix 2 ounces of antiseptic vilane powder. Keep in a tight jar or box and at night apply a tablespoonful, distributing it through the hair with the fingers. In the morning use comb and brush to remove, and all excess oil, dirt, dandruff, etc., will be removed with it. Men and women both use it with the utmost satisfaction. Obtain the ingredients of any well stocked druggist.

Philadelphia Lady Says:

Mrs. G. J. Anton, No. 2054 No. Alder, Philadelphia, says: "CascaRoyal-Pills" are the best I have ever taken. They have done me a wonderful lot of good, and are unequaled for chronic constipation. You can publish this if you wish."

Any reader suffering with constipation, indigestion, nervousness, sleeplessness, blood and skin troubles, can have a Free trial package of Blackburn's CascaRoyal-Pills, by addressing a postcard to The Blackburn Products Co., Dayton, Ohio. Sold by all druggists in 10c and 25 c packages.

clothes are always a good bargain; there's no special reason why we should ever sell these clothes at less than the regular prices; they're always worth the money. But we have to buy for each season a certain margin of surplus—you'd think it a queer clothing store that was sold up clean at the end of a season.

So now, while spring goods are about to arrive, we're making room for them by cleaning up our fall and winter stocks. We do it by quoting prices that will do it.

Two Investigations to Start.

The legislature now has two investigating committees ready for action, the house having concurred yesterday afternoon in the resolution providing for a committee to investigate into the expenditures of the state ga. e board of control during the past year. The state treasureship investigation resolution, originating in the house, had already been concurred in by the senate, but under the provisions of a new resolution adopted by the house yesterday afternoon, the period of investigation is to be eight years instead of two. The examination is to be complete and a request is made for a report covering the manner in which deposits have been made with banks during that time. Attorney General Miller says that the recovering of the money in the state treasury will not stop the criminal proceedings begun against Bickford, who latter has secured Mr. Greenleaf of Minot as one of his attorneys.

Both the legislative committees, it is expected, will effect organizations immediately and proceed with the work that is to be done. The fish and game committee investigation was charged with completing its examination and making the report by the twentieth day of the session, but will very likely ask additional time.

Yesterday afternoon the senate resolution providing that the work of the assembly be closed in forty-five days and that the legislature adjourn at the end of that time was killed. The report from the committee as for an indefinite postponement, that report being adopted after considerable discussion, the vote being 32 to 14.

State Hail Insurance.

For the purpose of establishing a state hail insurance department, Senator Wallin of Ward county proposes a concurrent resolution amending the constitution of the state. Under his proposed amendment to the constitution the state legislative assembly would be empowered and authorized to provide by law for the establishing and maintenance of a department of hail insurance, and the manner of operation to be prescribed by the assembly.

Representative Cunningham has introduced a bill appropriating $30,000 annually to cover indemnity for glandered horses ordered destroyed by the state livestock sanitary board.

Under the terms of a bill introduced by Senator George E. Duis of Grand Forks, power is given to cities to carry on public works where it is found that bids submitted are not satisfactory. Payment may be provided for by special assessment as in the case of contract work.

During the year 1910 there were 26,542 residents permits and ninety-seven non-resident permits for hunting issued in the state according to a report just made public by the state board of game and fish control.

Drainage Bill Favored.

The first drainage bill to be reported back to the house favorably, that of O. J. Sorlie of Traill county, provides that owners and lessees of land may construct open or covered drains, discharging the same into natural water courses or any natural depressions whereby the water will be carried into natural water courses or into some drain in the public highway. It is provided that no drain shall be constructed should it cause the water to overflow a natural water course.

While two bills relating to the wolf bounty were reported by the state affairs committee of the house for indefinite postponement, it does not necesarily mean that the movement for the abolishment of the state bounty has been defeated. The committee still has two more bills having the same object in view and one of these, it is understood, will be amended by the committee and reported back to the house favorably.

MARKET HAS WEAK TONE

Failure of Chicago Cold Storage Firms Will Bring Butter Reductions.

Bull Movement in Coffee Market Believed to Have Reached Climax.

The produce market is slightly lower although the chief reductions have been confined to the butter and egg department.

The dairy branch of the produce trade has weakened on account of the financial difficulties of several big produce men in Chicago and elsewhere who have been unable to protect their cold storage holdings and who have been forced to throw large suplies of butter and eggs on the market. The cold storage men of this country are under the necessity of finding a market for a surplus of 40,000,000 pounds of butter. The difficulty in making a market for this surplus is apparent when the increased production of butter is considered.

The production of all descriptions is about double the consumption at this time last year. With this large make of butter being thrown constantly on the market, holders have found it impossible to move storage stocks as rapidly as is consistent with conservative business principles. Last year storage men judged the ratio of the consumptive demand to the production correctly and supplies in storage were not burdensome. Prices held firm all winter and storage people cleared a profit on their accumulations.

This year the situation has been different. In the summer when a drouth was supposed to be burning up the fields in the dairy states the cold storage men and speculators began to buy butter at comparatively high prices for the winter's supply. Later rains came and the drouth conditions were relieved. Pastures were revived and although the early crop of hay generally was a failure yet the late crop turned out well. Hay prices did not break records as had been expected. The big corn crop was also an adjunct to cheaper and more liberal production of butter.

Stocks Accumulate.

Stocks of butter were piling up in cold storage for use in the winter while creameries were turning out heavy supplies. The make of butter in the leading districts increased heavily and the manufacturing activity became more widespread. Stocks began to accumulate from the immediate make to the detriment of supplies which had been placed in storage several months ago. The result was inevitable. Somebody's back was carrying the load and somebody's back had to break. All descriptions of butter are more reasonable and the outlook is for an easy market in the immediate future. Retailers, generally, have not yet followed the wholesale decline.

The egg market is active but featureless. The supply of fresh descriptions is slightly heavier and prices are easier in sympathy with the decline in other egg values. Fresh eggs command a premium of 4c, wholesale, and by the time the article reaches the consumer the difference in price between the standard variety and the fresh article has about tripled.

The cheese market is strong and featureless. Trading is fairly active and the consumptive demand holds up satisfactorily.

Receipts of oranges are more liberal and the run will continue heavy. Prices are comparatively low and there is little possibility of prices declining further. Oranges are coming from California. Florida is shipping first class grape fruit which is meeting with an excellent demand. The consumptive requirements of grape fruit are growing heavier each year. The fruit is meeting with more favor as it becomes better known.

* * *

Stocks of apples in the East are low. It is possible that prices will advance soon as the market is firm and has a tendency to stiffen. Most apples are in boxes and the box trade is large. Imported Malaga grapes from Spain are the only grapes in the market and are meeting with a fair demand. Cranberries are showing a little life at stiff prices.

* * *

The potato market is fairly firm. The cold weather has been responsible for the firm market as shipments have been delayed and a large proportion of consignments were carelessly shipped and were without adequate protection, arriving here considerably frostbitten. The onion market is slightly higher.

Consumers of coffee, the poor man's drink, probably will not gnash their teeth on learning that most receivers believe that the price of coffee has gone about as high as it is liable to soar although prices are not expected to decline. Green coffee, it is believed, has gone as high as is warranted even by the strong statistical position of the bean.

Admitting that coffee has been lower in the past than was justified by the cost of production and that it is still one of the cheapest foods, the trade, which is on the bear side, believes that coffee bulls in Brazil and at the port markets on the Continent and here have gone about as far as they can with safety.

There has been no material falling off in the consumption of coffee on account of higher prices. Up to a retail advance of 6c or 7c the consumer is not disposed to show his objection. Beyond this advance it is likely that consumption might decrease as the consumer reduced his daily allowance. Coffee, like many other articles in common use, is affected by the changed manner of living on the part of the people—a demand that everything they use must be wrapped in attractive packages delivered at their homes in showy wagons and handed over to them by a neatly dressed man or boy. Women expect premiums when they buy at a coffee or tea store. All of this adds to the ultimate cost of the goods but these facts are seldom taken into consideration. Under such circumstances, coffee at 35c a pound seems reasonably cheap.

The world's visible supply of coffee Jan. 1 was 14,165,000 bags. At the close of the crop year it is expected that there will be a world's visible of 11,000,000 bags or 1,000,000 more than had been expected a few weeks ago. The reason for the increased estimate is the larger Brazil crop and smaller deliveries from port stocks than had been predicted. The growing Rio and Santos crop is estimated at 14,000,000 to 14,500,000 bags which will be more than required for the world's consumption before the next crop.

FARIBAULT WILL VOTE ON THE COMMISSION PLAN.

Faribault, Minn., Jan. 20.—At a special meeting of the council Wednesday night, Feb. 7, was chosen for holding the election on the new city charter or commission form of government.

The new charter has been published and many objections are being found. About one-third of the commission selected to draw up the new charter refused to sign the final draft, saying that it was not adapted to the city. Among these was the chairman of the commission.

Seven Years for Murderer.

Canby, Minn., Jan. 20.—At the trial in Granite Falls of Carl L. Johnson of this place for the murder of Andrew Spellum, the jury returned a verdict of manslaughter in the second degree and Judge Powers sentenced him to seven years in the state penitentiary.

Marinette to Pave Six Blocks.

Marinette, Wis., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council has decided to pave six blocks with cement this year. Members of the council who have inspected the cement pavements elsewhere favor that material.

A FAT WOMAN HATES SOCIETY

Fat people have to get into clothes that are designed for people of normal physique. The men wear dress suits and look like comic pictures. The women wear low-necked dresses to their evident humiliation. This is why it is often said that a fat woman hates society. Fat is as much the mistake of poor health as anything else. The things that make fat should be making good blood, bone and nerves. The secret is that the digestive machinery is out of gear. The juices make fat in too large quantities. This fat impedes circulation, cramps the heart, suppresses the liver, crowds the lungs and interferes with the stomach. Marmola Tablets are harmless. They are taken after each meal. They help digest that meal as nature intended it should be digested. They remove the fat already made at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces a day and they leave no flabby skin or wrinkles. They are sold wherever drugs are sold, or in the same category with harmful patent fat reducers. They contain Marmola, Cascara Aromatic and Peppermint water. If you do not care to call upon your druggist, send 75 cents to The Marmola Co., 491 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., and they will send you a large, full size case by return mail in plain package postage paid.

SOUNDS WARNING.

Attorney General Says Distrust of Officials Should Be Checked.

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 20.—Attorney-General Wickersham sounded a warning last night against the popular tendency to distrust various branches of the government.

The attorney general spoke before an audience of more than 400 jurists and lawyers who have gathered in Syracuse for the annual meeting of the New York state bar asociation. Senator Elihu Root presided.

In opening his address, the attorney general said: "Abuse of the power of political organizations in the past has resulted in popular distrust of them and of those in authority in them. These tendencies give rise to the fear that the movement toward better government may ignore the constitutional channel through which it may accomplish its purpose without damage to the structure of our government."

OBJECT TO ECONOMY.

Railway Mail Clerks of Twin Cities Threaten to Strike.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 20.—At a meeting of railway mail clerks of St. Paul and Minneapolis, held here at Richmond hall, threats were made to strike unless Postmaster General Hitchcock withdraws his policy of economy. The Railway Mail Clerks' association of the Twin Cities and other postal service organizations have completed arrangements, it is said, for organizing a secret society, and this is believed to herald a strike.

A resolution was passed at the meeting favoring the action of the railway mail clerks on the Tracy-Pierre line of the Northwestern railroad, who rigidly refused to keep up the run of a clerk who had quit the service. Before Postmaster General Hitchcock's order for economy went out, the local clerks say that vacant runs were kept up by substitute clerks, but now these susbstitutes are not given employment, and in their places regular clerks run extra.

HALF VALUE AND FULL VALUE ASSESSMENTS.

The state tax commission has puzzled some of the folks by its recommendation that assessments for purposes of taxation be made hereafter at full value, and then cut in two for the purpose of levying the taxes.

For instance, the St. Peter Free Press says: "The tax commissioners recommend that hereafter assessments be made at 50 cents on the dollar instead of the real value. Why that should be done is not very clear. To find one-half the value, the real value must be ascertained first, and there is nothing gained by cutting it in two afterwards and as much lower as the assessor sees fit, as is done at present. On the face our tax rate appears to be ridiculously high, when as a matter of fact the rate probably averages less than one-fifth the value of the property assessed. If property were assessed at its full value, as contemplated by law, the amount of taxes to be paid would be just as low, but the rate would not run up to anywhere from 15 to 20 mills. Pass a law compelling assessors to have some regard for their oath of office and enforce it."

It may seem complicated, but it isn't, a bit.

The law now requires that property shall be assessed at its actual cash value; but no property is so assessed. Every assessor and every officer associated with assessments violates his oath of office many times each day. Assessments are made on hit-or-miss percentages, which run all the way from 20 per cent or less up to 75 per cent, varying with individuals, with wards, with townships, with counties—varying in every direction most absurdly.

What the state tax commission seeks is uniformity. There can be no equality of taxation without uniformity of assessments, because he who is assessed at a higher rate than his neighbor pays an undue proportion of the taxes. If every piece of property in the state were assessed on an equal basis taxes would be equal, whether that basis were 100 per cent or 1 per cent.

Obviously the easiest way to secure uniformity is to assess everything at its full value. It is impossible to have uniformity when the percentage system is used, because percentages will vary with the men estimating them.

What the St. Peter Free Press and others do not understand is why the tax commission doesn't recommend assessing all property at its full value and letting it go at that, since that would be uniformity and is the easiest way of arriving at uniformity.

That's very simple, too.

Many laws in this state are based on assessed valuation. Bond issues, for instance, are limited to certain percentages of the assessed valuation, and most communities keep right up to the limit. If the valuations were largely increased, as they would be if all property were assessed at full value, the limit of bonded indebtedness would be enlarged accordingly. Everywhere it would be doubled, and in most places it would be trebled. And too many communities issue all the bonds the law allows, because it is easy to get credit and let the future pay the bill.

So that a large increase in assessed valuations would open the door to a large increase in bonded debt.

Many official salaries, too, are based on assessed valuations. Counties having assessed valuations of so much pay so much to their county officers. An increase of assessed valuations would mean a wholesale increase in public salaries—which would be good for the officers drawing the salaries but bad for the public treasuries.

That is why the tax commission favors assessing all property at its full value and then cutting the result in two; and the legislature, after studying the situation, will agree with the commission.

THE VALUE OF A VOTE.

What is your vote worth?

Or put it this way: In the next mayoralty election in Duluth John Smith and William Jones will be opposing candidates for mayor. Suppose that a week before election Smith called on you at your home or place of business and offered you $5 to vote for him. Would you take it, or would you try to get him to raise the price? Or would you refuse the offer at once? Or would you take the money and then vote for Jones? Or would you wait to see what Jones would offer? Or would you collect something from both of them and then vote for whichever you pleased? Some way the thing resolves itself into Ben King's lines:

——I would, wouldn't you?
Or wouldn't you? Anyhow, what would you do?

Now here: That is exactly the position that several hundred men found themselves in, down in Adams county, Ohio. It also duplicates what happened in the Illinois legislature. You condemn those men who sold their votes, but what do you know about the conditions? Perhaps the qualifications of the opposing candidates were evenly balanced, and it really made no difference, for that and other reasons, to the voters, who got the benefit of their respective ballots. They merely saw in the situation a chance to make a little money on the side without infringing on their own deeper principles, and they took that chance. Put yourself in the same position and what would your vote be worth?

In the vote-market, which exists in spite of its illegality, the value of a vote depends, as do values in all markets; on the relations of supply and demand. Of course there are markets, like Wall Street for example, where the supply and demand are controlled by artificial means, but the relationship to price is not affected by that fact. But do you realize that when your vote is considered at its real value, not as YOUR vote, but A VOTE, its price is beyond the power of all the wealth in the universe?

Here is the principle on which its worth is based: True government depends on integrity, and intelligence. The moment you remove honesty from the choice of public men, you loosen the keynote of the arch of popular government. A man who will try to buy his way into office is unfit for that office, though he may have ability, training, experience and all else that goes to make up the best kind of official. His lack of integrity alone is enough to offset all the rest. After he had paid you to put him in power, would you feel sure that he was using that power to public advantage? You could not.

Figure out the value of your vote on that basis and you will find that its worth is not to be estimated in terms of money. And that is the true basis of its value. It is part of the system on which American government is founded, and it is worth just as much as the entire system, for if you remove the principle you ruin the whole structure.

That is what your vote is worth when somebody wants to buy it. Also, and remember this, it is what it is worth when you throw it away by failing to go to the polls on election day.

PAUL MORTON SUMMONED.

It was with a shock that the business and financial worlds received news of the death of Paul Morton. Not that his interests were closely linked with the more powerful business concerns of the country, or that his personal work counted materially in the conduct of those concerns, but because he was a man of acknowledged ability and his age gave no apparent warrant for expecting his death. For years he has had responsible positions, first in railroad affairs, then as a member of President Roosevelt's cabinet and later as president of a big insurance organization. It was reasonable to suppose that his career had at least a score of years yet to run, and its sudden termination was wholly unlooked for except by members of his immediate family.

Mr. Morton was born at Detroit, Mich., in 1857, and began his business career at the age of 15 when he became a clerk in the offices of the Boston & Maine railroad. He became identified later with the Santa Fe, and rose to the position of second vice president of that system, leaving it to join the Roosevelt cabinet as secretary of the navy. It was in that position that he became best known to the general public, and when he left it in 1905 to head the Equitable, his selection was generally considered justified by his known ability. It is the fact of this ability, together with that of his comparative youth, that gives his death the character of a deprivation to the business of the country, for there seemed no reason to expect his public services to end for some years to come.

THE LITERARY MARKET.

According to reports from Washington, there has been a steady decline in the number of copyrights sought and issued in the last few years, and 1910 has taken the lead in the falling off. From this it is being argued that there are fewer persons writing than there were a few years ago; in fact, that in the literary market the supply is getting closer to the demand, and that the aspirant for a place in the literary world may hope to see prices going up if the present falling off in manuscripts continues.

But there is room for a good deal of doubt in this theory of production. It is not at all likely that there are fewer writers today than there were formerly. Look over the best known fiction magazines of the day and you will find names that were unknown a few years back. Nearly every month brings somebody into prominence who has been heard of but little if at all before. Besides, it is the nature of the human mind to try to express itself in ink, and not only has this nature not altered, but more and more persons are gaining the courage to attempt such expression.

Then what is the matter with the copyright as an index? Just this: There are fewer books copyrighted because there is less demand for books. The reading world, and by that is meant the fiction followers rather than those who seek "heavier" matter, is wrapped up in the short story, and the short story belongs in the province of the newspaper and magazine rather than of book publications. After a year of serial publication some author or publisher will gather up a series of related stories and put them in book form, but this process is slow compared to the immediate rush to copyright any piece of writing produced.

Perhaps the short story fad will pass and the people will get back to the old-time long novel in their reading, but that does not seem likely. There is merit in the short story. Often it requires more real art to develop a plot in 5,000 words or less than in 100,000, particularly where character study is involved. The public, too, has less patience today with long stories. The hurry of the age has got into the reading as well as into everything else, and the tabloid novel is more popular than ever.

Probably this is the secret of the falling off in copyrights. That production has lessened is unlikely, but the change in the character of production easily would account for the statistics from the capital.

TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

T. Roosevelt in Print.

Mesaba Ore: Mr. Roosevelt is lucky now if he gets onto the page with the losts and founds.

Under which classification?

The Lady and The Goat.

Stillwater Gazette: Just because Sister Fuller of the Little Falls Transcript, a few years ago when she was a very young girl, was butted or kicked by a goat, into a jumbled up mass of humanity, she now refuses to indorse the aforesaid animal as being superior to or cheaper than the cow as a milk producer. Some people never will forget little episodes that happened in their youthful days.

If this conjecture is an accurate one, it is to be assumed that the young lady was delighted when somebody "got her goat."

"Sparking" on Modern Plan.

Gilbert Herald: The young fellow with a top buggy was the country girls' ideal in our mother's days, but now the young man has to come around with his auto.

And the beauty of it is that in a great many instances the young man of the farm has the auto.

On the Tracking of Robbers.

Princeton Union: The police authorities are looking for a gang of train robbers whom they suspect are hiding in Seattle. They should search Minneapolis.

It is difficult to decide whether this knock is aimed at the police or at Minneapolis.

Steppin' On 'Em.

Cass Lake Times: No, Belinda, the corn convention at Columbus is not a meeting of chiropodists.

Ouch!

Dealing in Votes.

Pine County Pioneer: The man who sells his vote should be disfranchised and the man who buys it should be sent to the penitentiary and disfranchised for life. The man who climbs into public office by peddling appointments should get both penalties and the fellow who goes about preaching the gospel of discontent should be banished.

The United States senate would get the exile back home and exonerate him, which is the reason for much discontent, whether it is preached or not.

Concerning Dogs That Talk.

Eveleth Star: In Germany there is a dog that can speak seven words. No woman is likely to have much respect for a dog that can't make use of a more extensive vocabulary than that.

Which puts one in mind of that old story about the unsophisticated ruralite who after gazing with astonished incredulity at a camel, asservated: "H——, there ain't no such animal."

Shaving the Neck.

Virginia Virginian: Don't brag just because your dog has got a flitter brand of fleas than your neighbor's. Perhaps his canine makes 'em hustle more.

Ever notice how few dirty necks there are since the fifteen cent shave came into vogue?

It is possible that the juxtaposition of these paragraphs is of any significance?

Cause For Rejoicing.

Wabasha Herald: Venus is said to be inhabited by such prehistoric game as the dinosaur, ichthyosaur, etc. It won't be long before we'll be reading "Venutian Game Trails," by an American hunter.

If this expectation is realized there will be rejoicing of the unconfirmed sort in senate and "street."

Genesis of the Pipe.

Of the development of the clay pipe the London Chronicle remarks: "In their various shapes and sizes the clay pipes of different centuries curiously illustrate the changes in smokers and smoking. The Elizabethian pipe was so small that when dug up as they sometimes are, they are commonly called 'fairy pipes.' But the size reflects the high price of tobacco at that time, and also shows that the first smokers, as soldiers, sailors and men of action, wanted a short and handy pipe, suited to their habits.

"The lengthening of pipes toward the end of the seventeenth century under William III., but also of the way smoking was increasing among men of higher social status. The yard long clay would be used only by men of position, whose ease and smoke were not to be suddenly and rudely disturbed.

"The laborer had his short 'cutty,' which he could carry in his waistcoat pocket, but the long clay was meet only for such dignitaries as churchwardens, so that the pipe took the name of its user."

Other Claimants for Corn Honors.

Richmond (Va.) Times-Democrat: Corn is evidently king in Minnesota. The people of that prosperous state will celebrate the greatness of the grain by having a corn dinner on Feb. 3. Everything eaten at this dinner will be made of corn, the menu suggested by Prof. C. P. Bull of the chair of agronomy at the Minnesota College of Agriculture, being:

Corn Soup, Illinois Style.
Corn Fritters, with Illinois Corn Syrup.
Corn Pone, Southern Fashion.
Escalloped Corn, a la Minnesota.
Iowa Corn Bread. Parched Corn.
Corned Beef, South St. Paul Style.
Corn Starch Pudding, Bourbon.
Parched Corn "Coffee."
Corn Cob Pipes (Missouri).

The ex-North Carolinians in Minnesota, it may be added, will probably partake of another famous corn product just before dinner.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Have you put your New Year's resolutions in cold storage yet?

Do the best you can, then you need not worry because you didn't do better.

One can admire a knocker who uses his little hammer to keep his own fences in repair.

Every man has a place in this busy old world, but a lot of us have trouble in locating it.

It may be all right to laugh and grow fat, but when people begin to call you "Fatty," it's no laughing matter.

New Type of Labor Leader.

Kansas City Journal: John A. Murray, president of the American Brotherhood of Cement Workers, is a pioneer in a movement that will herald the dawn of industrial peace. He does not deal in theories nor in dreams. He is above all things, entirely practical. To him the frenzied agitators and the mobs mean nothing for the laborer beyond self-inflicted privation and suffering. He is big enough to look at the labor problem from more than one angle. He sees that others have "rights" as well as the man who throws the brick or places the cowardly dynamite bomb. If labor leaders were all of this type, wage earners would prosper and peace would generally prevail.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

HELPING FARMERS WILL HELP DULUTH.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The action of the city council in authorizing the health commissioner to erect a trestle and build a short spur from which manure collected in Duluth can be loaded on cars for shipment to the farming country about Duluth is most commendable. It is certainly appreciated by the farmers who live in this section of the country. We can use considerable quantities of it to great advantage. In helping to enrich the soil of the territory tributary to it, Duluth is also helping itself. We feel certain that the money is well expended and will be returned to Duluth in benefits in a comparatively short time. I did not know of the action which had been taken until I came to Duluth yesterday and got into conversation with several other men who are interested in farming in this county, and wish to extend my thanks to the council and the health commissioner for their consideration. The others with whom I talked feel the same way and I also speak for them.

A YOUNG FARMER.

Duluth, Jan. 20, 1911.

A Lecture Spoiled.

Tit-Bits: The senior major was giving the benefit of his advice and experience to a youthful "sub."

"See here," he exclaimed! "This is your first dinner, and—well, go easy with the decanter, my boy. Remember esprit de corps and—er—and all that sort of thing. Here's a good tip. See those silver candlesticks there? When you can see four instead of two—why, clear out—go home. See?"

"Perfectly, and thanks awfully," replied the young officer. "But don't you think you had better go home at once? There is only one candlestick."

Why Indeed?

New York Sun: Plums, says a writer in a Southeastern Kentucky paper, should be cultivated in the state of Kentucky. The Louisville Courier-Journal adds approvingly:

"There is likely to be a rather lively movement to give the plum a place of honor in the farm orchard."

Plums are native to the Balkan states, where they grow profusely in every valley, where every man plants them to protect his home, and distills the fruit into slivovitz and rakija to fortify him the year round. These fiery brandies, according to Balkan temperance authorities, inspire revolutions and breed blood feuds. An American consul once said that Bulgaria was the Breathitt county of Europe, a Bulgarian who had found a refuge in the Kentucky hills replied that Breathitt county was the Bulgaria of America. There seems, then, to be more than the usual significance in this advocacy of a substitute for the two standard products made somewhat profitless through "night riding" and spread of the "Drys." Kentucky is, no doubt, a natural home for the plum; but why put temptation in Breathitt's way just as it is reforming?

Old Tower Made Into a Museum.

Foxboro correspondence Boston Globe: The Foxboro Historical society will hereafter hold its meetings in an odd building which also serves as fireproof quarters for its great number of valuable curios of local history.

The building was converted from an old stone water tower. Its site is one of the historical spots of the town, being known as Powder House Hill. The old town powder house stood on the hill from 1818 to 1858. The stone tower supplanted the powder house. The tower furnished water for local business and private residences more than half a century ago, and a windmill pumped the water.

The stone tower with windows and doors inserted and the whole roofed over gives two sizeable rooms about eighteen feet in diameter. In time it is proposed to build on third and fourth stories for library and observatory rooms and a wing extension, but this addition may not come for years. The observatory will then be furnished with a $250 telescope which has been donated, and the high school astronomy class will have the use of the room.

Absinthe.

Alliance Temperance Almanac: Absinthe liquor is now prohibited in three European countries, Belgium, Holland and Switzerland. The dangers of absinthe were early known and denounced, but it is only in recent years that thought has been given to prohibiting liquor. To Belgium belongs the honor of taking the lead. In 1905 its lower house voted the prohibition, which one year later was ratified by the upper chamber. As absinthe was drunk in only a few great cities, the prohibition in Belgium has rather the character of a preventive measure. The temperance people of Switzerland urge the complete prohibition of the manufacture, importation and sale of absinthe throughout the Swiss republic, by means of a petition signed by 168,000 electors they demanded a vote on the question, and in spite of the opposition of the government backed by the whole liquor party the prohibition was voted on July 5, 1908, by a large majority, and came in force on Oct. 7, 1910.

In Holland, where absinthe drinking has never prevailed to any considerable extent, prohibition was voted in 1910 as a preventive measure. There remains a great consumer of absinthe in Europe, France. Great but till now useless efforts were made to obtain prohibition by parliamentary enactment. Prohibitive measures, backed by deputies and senators of all parties, were submitted but never discussed. A petition with 300,000 names was sent to the chamber of deputies, who, threatened by the clamors of the innkeepers, did not dare to interfere.

Looking for Trouble.

Sir Henry D. Wolff in "Rambling Recollections": An anecdote used to be told of Lord Stratford and the diplomatist whom he succeeded in the United States. Every effort was made to prevent their meeting, as both were known to possess very violent tempers. It was, however, impossible to avoid their being together for one evening, and Lord Stratford dined with his predecessor. After dinner the host offered Lord Stratford a cup of tea. Lord Stratford, beaming with conciliation, said, "This tea is very good." Thereupon his host rose up in fury and said, "I understand the taunt, sir! My father was a tea merchant!"

Society's Obligations to the Derelict.

Sir Edmund F. Du Cane in "The Punishment and Prevention of Crime": The duty and advantage of helping prisoners to find employment after expiating their offense in prison was soon recognized when it began to be understood that the community had some duty to, and some interest in, those who had fallen into crime, besides that of terrifying them or revenging itself on them. The first statute in which this principle was embodied was passed in 1792, when judges and justices were authorized to order any prisoner on discharge to be conveyed by pass to his parish, where, of course, he had a claim to be cared for; and in the Gaol act of 1823 the visiting justices of any prison were authorized to forward prisoners to places where they could find employment, the funds to be provided from bequests and benefactions belonging to the gaol, or from the rates.

A Whooping Cough Cure.

London Daily Mail: "Will you please give mother a nut to put a spider in, as baby's got the whooping cough?" This extraordinary request was made to a Tiverton shopkeeper this week by a little girl whose mother believes that if she imprisons a live spider in a nutshell and ties it around the infant's neck the whooping cough will disappear when the spider dies.

EXIT THE FAMILY BIBLE.

Life: Publishers say that the institution known, or once known, as the Family Bible has almost gone out of use. Bibles abound, but they are smaller ones, handier to read. It is the big Bibles, with the family record in the middle, between the two Testaments, that is said to be disappearing.

Well! All are families of no account nowadays in this country, that they should keep no records? The Family Bible was not much read; it was too big; but it was carefully preserved and children were entered in it when they came, and marriages and deaths. A family Bible used to be included among wedding presents. Has anybody seen one lately among the properties of a new bride?

In various cities the social registers keep tab on some selected families, but they are hardly statistical enough in their stories and concern comparatively few people. As far as they go they record marriages and deaths, but not births. You can't get people's ages out of the social register. For that you have to go to the "Who's Who" books, but they are even more select than the registers. The telephone book is more catholic in its inclusions but very meager in statistics.

Why doesn't somebody get out a line of handsome family Bibles with the Bible part omitted—slim, handsome octavo books, bound to last, and with due pages in them for the family record? This generation needs for use in cities a family record book for which there is room in a flat.

The Recompense.

New York Tribune: The late William James of Harvard, in his lectures on the psychology of childhood, had a Thanksgiving story that illustrates well the queer currents of a child's thought.

A father, one Thanksgiving morning—so the story runs—showed his little son a history of New England.

"Here is a picture of the Puritans going to church," he said. "What good and pious men! Notice their sugar-loaf hats. They walk in single file through the deep snow, and each man carries a gun."

"What do they carry guns to church for?" the boy asked, with sudden interest.

"For fear of the Indians," was the reply. "The Indians were apt to lie in wait for them at every turning. Ah, what pious men they were to be sure! Think of them the next time you want to shirk your religious duties. Through snow and sleet, through bitter cold, through the perilous ambuscades of the savage Indians, they wended their way to the church. Sunday after Sunday, with pious, thankful hearts. Yet you"—

Said the boy: "I'd go to church every day in the week if I could get a shot at an Indian on the way."

Treasure Under Ice.

Norway, Me., Advertiser: Never in the history of Lake Pennesseewassee was there better skating. The ice is so clear that objects can be distinctly seen on the bottom of the pond, and those who navigate motor boats are locating the rocks and shoals. Walter Pride lost a gold watch chain in the water last summer and the first of the week he saw it on the pond's bottom, cut through ten inches of solid ice and fished up the chain none the worse for its watery sojourn.

Why Is It That:

When a girl of twelve talks nonsense she is stupid?

When a girl of 20 talks nonsense she is naive?

When a dying woman talks nonsense she is delirious?

Reflections of a Bachelor.

The Empty Cage.

Take away the empty cage
And hide it from my sight,
For my gay light-hearted songster
Passed away in the night.

How oft when my heart was weary,
And perplexed with cares and ills,
I sat me down beneath his cage
And listened to his trills.

And though the gilded prison bars
Confined his pretty wings,
He seemed to soar among the stars
And sing of heavenly things.

He sang of happy days in June,
When life was just a dream,
Of orchards white with fragrant bloom
Of lilies by the stream.

He sang of all that's sweet in life,
And never a note astray,
And never a note of pain or strife,
For he was glad and gay.

Put away the empty cage,
The little life has fled,
And the wonderful gifted prisoner,
Is lying cold and dead.

Brandy, Externally Applied.

London Annual Review, May, 1807: The popular custom of pouring brandy into the shoes or boots, with a view of preventing the effects of cold, was the occasion of the death of the late Alderman Hankey.

Feeling his feet damp and cold, he was induced, at the recommendation of some friend at the hall where he had been dining, to pour a glass of brandy into his shoes, in which state he walked homeward. He was almost immediately seized with an inflammation, which, in a few hours, terminated fatally.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

New York Press: Hewitt—Lend me your ears.

Jewett—I can't: I've lost my head.

Detroit Free Press: "I saw that Dr. Cook admits that he didn't find the North Pole."

"Well, that makes it unanimous, doesn't it?"

Christian Register: "There's no danger," said the doctor, "It's only a carbuncle coming on the back of your neck. But you must keep your eye on it!"

Buffalo Express: "How it is that that exasperating old Scalsey is always in the public eye?"

"I don't know, I'm sure. Perhaps he is a human cinder."

Boston Transcript: "She swore she'd get even with him if he divorced her, and she did."

"How?"

"She became his second wife's dressmaker."

Chicago Record-Herald:: "They say he fell in love with her when he saw her dancing in her bare feet."

"He probably inherited his liking for bare feet. His father laid the foundation of his fortune as a chiropodist."

Cleveland Leader: "May is dreadfully disappointed in her fiance."

"What's the trouble?"

"She's just found out that all those beautiful things he quoted from Shakespeare weren't original."

Puck: Nebuchadnezzar was lunching in his accustomed style.

"All flesh being grass," he reflected, "this must be beef as it is mowed."

And chuckling hoarsely, he took another chaw.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "What shall we do with this job lot of odds and ends?"

"Put 'em in a prominent place and mark 'em 10 cents a grab. Every family buys a present for father."

Fliegende Blaetter: Uncle—My dear boy, it's a fact that the bacilli on paper money have caused many a death before now.

Nephew—Well, uncle, you might let me have a few notes. I'm very tired of life.

Possum Breeding.

London Globe: Mr. Le Soeuf, curator of the Sydney Zoological gardens, has proposed the breeding of opossums in Queensland on systematic lines. The skin of these little furry animals has become so valuable that unless some protection is accorded possums may soon become extinct. Mr. Le Soeuf would select, he says, a site sheltered from the westerly winds, as possums like protection from the cold while they are feeding. They do not like to be disturbed, either, by the winds shaking the branches while feeding. The land should be fenced with six-foot galvanized iron to keep them from climbing or jumping over.

Ancient Lineage.

New York Herald: Committee of the National Civic Federation declares American court procedure is 100 years behind the times. Must have been going over the records of some of those cases that began before any present judge was born and are still pending.

TO WAR AGAINST THE BLACK HAND

Italians in Ohio Are Banding Together for Their Protection.

Youngstown, Ohio, Jan. 20.—Italians of this city and the state have announced their intention of uniting to fight the Black Hand in this section, which in the last few months has shown itself fearless of the law.

The leaders of the new movement are keeping secret their plans, but it is known they will raise a large sum of money to ferret out the gang of blackmailers.

The gang has made itself felt in a number of outrages in Lowellville and vicinity; the latest being the kidnaping of a 14-year-old girl in Hillsville, Pa., two miles from Lowellville.

An attempt was made to blow up the house of a Lowellville Italian also, in which the perpetrator's left hand was blown off in a premature explosion. The wife of an Italian saloon keeper, who gave evidence against the Black Hand gang which was routed out of Hillsville three years ago, was slashed across the face by an alleged agent of the gang, who was captured and will be placed on trial here in the next few weeks.

In Youngstown, a number of cuttings and shootings have been traced to the Black Hand, but the evidence never has been obtained to fix guilt definitely.

According to Italians in this city, the blackmail levied in Youngstown is tremendous in the total. So strong is the band in this section that Italians fear to tell its demands, but keep paying agents what they demand. It is said that there is a nest of Black Hand operators in the lower end of the city.

The plan to be followed will be similar to that in New York, where a fund of $100,000 was raised for a fight which now is bearing fruit. As much money as possible will be raised here and the evidence obtained will be used against the operators to drive them out of business.

INVENTS AEROPLANE TO SOLVE LANDING PROBLEM.

Urbana, Ohio, Jan. 20.—Dr. C. M. Wanzer of this city claims to have invented an aerial craft which will overcome the problem of gravitation to a large extent and will be capable of sustaining itself even after the engines have been shut down. Dr. Wanzer is preparing to organize a company to manufacture his monoplanes and hopes to locate the industry here.

Dr. Wanzer's machine is much larger than any monoplane now made, and is constructed largely of very light, but unusually strong hollow metal, this material being used entirely in the frameworks. There are several motors supplying power, all hitchd to one drive shaft, so that in event of one failing another will furnish power to propel the craft. The inventor claims that should the power entirely be shut off the craft will sustain itself in the air even after the momentum very materially is decreased, enabling the pilot to make a safe landing.

One of Dr. Wanzer's cherished schemes is to establish an aerial navigation company from coast to coast. He is working on the organization of a $1,000,000 company, both for manufacture of his machine and to promote an aerial company.

LAKE PARK OPERATOR ALLEGED TO BE SHORT.

Moorhead, Minn., Jan. 20.—H. H. Gellerman, operator at Lake Park, was taken from a Northern Pacific train yesterday afternoon by the Moorhead police and placed under arrest at the request of the Lake Park authorities. It is stated that Gellerman is short in his accounts to the extent of $200 or $300, and he is held here to await the arrival of the Becker county officers.

LEGEND IS SHATTERED

Unsuspected Depravity of Tourist Mankind in Tyrol Is Exposed.

Life of Luxury Familiar in the Dolomites as at Newport.

Vienna, Jan. 20.—Austrians are staggering under a painful shock, caused by the unsuspected depravity of tourist mankind.

Until three weeks ago they cherished the dear delusion that their scenery had escaped desecration of rich and vulgar tourists. Especially, said the native guide-book, Tyrol is unspoiled. No male loungers in evening dress, no insipid belles in merry widow hats profane our austere hills. Our tourists are simple, hardy visionaries, who come to commune with awful Nature.

"The women" wrote Herr Falck in his book, "wear blouses and serge skirts and the rough-shod men bring their baggage in knapsacks. A shirt, a toothbrush, a thumbed volume of Grillparzer are all they need. Yes, our Tyrol is unspoiled and cheap, and alone in corrupt, luxurious Europe it recalls the golden age."

And now murder is out, and the native guide books are being thrown into the fire. The tragedy happened thus:

In the skyscraping Dolomites, near an azure lake which images piercing Mount Latemer and myth-girt Rosengarten, rose until lately the mighty Karersee hotel. It sheltered 500 tourists of prosperous mien, who usually seemed quite as keen on their dinners as on awful Nature. Sometimes the modest herdsmen around caught sight of decollete shoulders, and starched shirts; and the gigantic hat boxes hardly semed to indicate excessive simplicity. But people who nurture illusions know when to shut their eyes and Vienna's newspapers chorused: "Thank heaven for glorious Tyrol, the cheap, the Arcadian, the free!"

List of Losses.

On a sunny morning last August fire seized tho Karersee hotel, and wiped it out. The guests escaped. Their ropes, merry widow hats, jewels, corsets, powder-puffs, and reserve peroxide-dyed fringes were frizzled to dust. And when they claimed compensation, the court, regardless of Austria's feeling, demanded lists of their losses.

The lists are now being published and a cry of anguish is rising from disillusioned Austria. For in luxury, show and vanity it appears that simple Tyrol is no better off than Paris, or sinful Monte Carlo, or millionaire Newport, Rhode Island.

In order to be suitably dressed for climbing Rosengarten, and wandering through the forests on Latemer, most of the Karersee tourists brought more robes and hats, and jeweled adornments than would fit in the trousseau of a Vanderbilt bride.

A pretty lady from Hamburg claims for seventeen dresses, valued at $1,900, for fourteen hats valued at $400, for five evening mantles and cloaks, and for eighteen pairs of lacquered shoes. Her six heavy trunks, dragged painfully 5,000 feet above sea level, perished in the flames. A keen English mountain-climber brought with her twenty dresses and a dozen pairs of shoes. A Frenchwomen's claim includes four boas of different furs. Her sister arrived with forty-two pairs of stockings. A girl of 19 says she brought only twenty-four pairs of stockings, but she made up for the moderation with three umbrellas and seven parasols. Her governess claims for nine hats and thirteen dresses. And scores of other visitors claim for trunkful of silks, lace, ostrich feathers, gems, gold, ivory, fans and staylaces enough to stretch from Innsbruck to Saint Stephen's church at Vienna.

But alas, not one tourist claims only a knapsack, a toothbrush, and a shirt. Even Austrians themselves betrayed the Arcadia legend. A Salzburg professor's wife lost 112 collars, forty-eight handkerchiefs, and nine pairs of shoes. She lost three suits; another forty-seven shirts. A third had started mountaineering with eight walking sticks and five jeweled breast-pins, and the son of a Hungarian wheat exporter arrived with a necktie for every day of two months. With these neckties the simple Tyrol legend is dead; and henceforth Austria must blush with shame beside Trouville and Monte Carlo and millionaire Newport.

Austrians, however, part with delusions slowly; and are given to hunting for sophistical consolations. Maybe, say some, the sixty-tied man is an artist, who aspires to harmony between nature and art. That would explain everything. He would wear a green tie on pine-clad Latemar, a pink one on the son-flushed Rosengarten and a sapphire-blue one when rowing on Karar's translucent lake.

But these fraudulent arguments impose only on the few. "The legend of Tyrol's Arcadian simplicity," say the many with a sigh, "is vanished never to return."

POLITICAL COAL GOES TO A DESERVING WIDOW.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 20.—Another striking evidence of the cordial relations between members of the Republican and Democratic organizations in Philadelphia has come to light. During the recent holiday season anouncement was made that the Vars, political bosses, would give away 3,000 tons of coal. The distribution was in the hands of well known retainers of the downtown bosses. It is reported that at least 300 tons of coal were distributed or about one tenth of the press agent's report.

During the distribution a Democratic division leader downtown went to the Republican worker in charge of the coal and suggested that a half ton be sent to a house designated, intimating that the coal would be well used there. The coal was delivered as requested and a widow, with three small children, was grateful.

A few days later the Republican in charge of the coal distribution met the Democrat and the former proceeded to upbraid the latter.

"You're a scoundrel," he said; "I've made an investigation and find there is not a d—— voter in that house."

QUESTION IS PUT TO CRUCIAL TEST

Washington Judge's Method of Reforming Crooks on Trial.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Can a crook reform?

This question, which has confronted the world for ages, and which possibly has never been successfully determined to the entire satisfaction of criminologists, is about to be put to a crucial test here in the district.

Placed in charge of Probation Officer I. D. Porter, of the district supreme court, to determine whether he will probably avail himself of an opportunity afforded by a recent act of congress to show if he is made of "sterner stuff," an admitted criminal, who has served two sentences in penitentiaries, and who has chosen the name of Frank L. Smith, is a free man. When given his freedom he had just pleaded guilty to a charge of housebreaking and larceny.

With the release of the young man, who is but 25 years old and a native of Ohio, the probation system is to be placed on the defensive, and if Smith can exercise sufficient will power to do better it will be but another instance of the wisdom of the judgment of Justice Wright, of the criminal court.

SOCIALIST PASTOR QUITS.

Leaves the Church Because He Thinks It Is Cowardly.

Meriden, Conn., Jan. 20.—The Rev. Dr. Dubois H. Louix, pastor of the Center Congregational church, who has embraced Socialism and has written a novel presenting his theories of dealing with the present-day social problems, has resigned. In his letter he said:

"If you will understand my terms, I hold it without question that organized Christianity today is dissolute. It is playing fast and loose with the principles for which Christ died. It dare not be true.

"A church today is a social organization with religious and moral tendencies. It must require doctrines that are congenial and undisturbing. Out of its necessities it feels that it must keep its ears to the ground to make sure that the world of wealth is not offended by it.

"For this reason, to be true to my ministry, I must stand outside the pale of pastorate that I may voice my protest purely. I have counted the cost. The doors of the churches will be closed to me. Our colleges could not afford to welcome me into a professor's chair. Business doors are closed.

"For two months, while occupying this pulpit, I have been testing the fact. I am still knocking for some door to open where I may support my family, doing an honest work while speaking the message of an honest minister, and, if necessary, can dig."

PUNCH BOWL WAS SAFE.

Wealthy People Hid Silver, But Relatives Thought It Stolen.

New York, Jan. 20.—The solid silver, gold-lined punch-bowl, worth a small fortune, is safe; but before its safety was assured there was much doing in Dyker Heights, Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Stern, wealthy residents of Dyker Heights went away on a pleasure trip. After examining every door and window, they turned the key on their palatial home over to Mrs. Stern's sister, Mrs. Baum, who lives nearby. Mrs. Baum was to make a daily visit to see that thieves had not stolen the furnace or robbed the ice-box, which, in these days of high living, would have been their objective.

On her first trip Mrs. Baum noted that the rare punch bowl was missing. The police were called. Detectives were engaged; rewards were offered. The punch bowl was an heirloom and the officers were spurred in the search. Mr. Stern was wired to come home quick; the punch bowl had been stolen. He didn't come home. Instead he telegraphed:

"We hid the punch bowl before we left to keep it safe from burglars. It ought to be behind the stairway leading into the pantry."

The punch bowl was found there, and the police were called off.

Many Dairy Cows Condemned.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 20.—J. J. Hanson of the Southside Dairy, is a heavy loser as the result of the condemning of cattle under the test for tuberculosis. Within a few days Dr. Dunham of Fargo has condemned sixty head of the Southside Dairy herd, and, of course, this big bunch of cattle is segregated and awaiting the disposition to be made of them by the state.

Reliable Laxative for Old People Given Free

Life is so arranged that there is a close resemblance between infancy and old age. By this is not meant the mental but the physical faculties. For example, the organ of digestion is the most difficult thing the child has to contend with, as it is that of the old person.

When a person gets past middle life his power of digestion decreases, and continues to grow weaker, and for that reason so many old people are habitually constipated. They try everything recommended from hot water to strong cathartics without avail. Now, if there is any one thing a person of advanced years should not take it is a cathartic. The bowels cannot stand it. What is required is a mild, gentle, non-griping liquid laxative.

You have it exactly as required in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Papsin, which stands today, after a generation, as the ideal remedy for old people, women, children and all others who require a mild, natural remedy. We could give the names of thousands of old people who use nothing else but Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, among them Mr. A. A. Lewis of Bentonville, Ark., and Mr. Enoa Gilpin of Danville, Ill.

They first sent to Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle, which every reader is invited to do, and then, having tested it and found it satisfactory, they bought it of their druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. Their words of public praise should prompt the present reader to at least send for a sample bottle. It costs nothing. Results are absolutely guaranteed or money will be refunded.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample, address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell Building, Monticello, Ill.

STOTT BRIQUETS

The Best Fuel—the Cheapest Fuel

$6.25

for a ton of pure, smokeless, cinderless, easy-to-handle ANTHRACITE COAL—that's what STOTT BRIQUETS are—PURE ANTHRACITE SCREENINGS, and one of the advantages they have over the natural anthracite is that "THERE ISN'T A CLINKER IN A CARLOAD."

Recent exhaustive tests in the stores and homes of the Twin Cities brought out the fact that the STOTT BRIQUETS are "the best ever" for every kind of furnace, range and heater known—save only self-feeding heaters. Here's a letter from a practicalist stove man:

Mr. H. V. Rendell,

Dear Sir:-

You ask the writer to state to you his observations in reference to Stott briquettes. Would say that Messrs. Boutell Bros. of this city, to whom the writer has sold our stoves and ranges for the past twenty years, have been having a test in their salesroom of the briquettes for the past two weeks, and I can truthfully say that for cook stove and range fire boxes it is the best fuel in my opinion. I consider that they excel anthracite fuel in the ordinary cook stove and range fire box, for the reason that the fire can be gotten under way in a great deal less time than with anthracite fuel. The bane of the stove manufacturer's life is the complaint made by those operating the anthracite cook stove and ranges with anthracite coal who lack experience in handling this fuel. They expect to be able to build a fire and get a meal in fifteen or twenty minutes, which as you know from the nature of the fuel is impossible. Consequently there is a great deal of trouble with parties using anthracite coal.

As regards bituminous coal, it is needless to state that on account of the filth, dirt and smoke it is anything but popular, whereas with your briquettes you arrive at a happy medium and furnish the kind of fuel I consider ideal.

I also note that your briquettes burn to an absolutely pure ash, which is not the case with anthracite coal used in cook stoves and ranges generally.

Yours truly,

C. H. Conner

STORY HOUR FOR CHILDREN

Attractive Feature Will Be Added to West Duluth Library.

There will be a "story hour" at the West Duluth branch public library tomorrow, to which all the school children of the lower grades are invited.

Miss Mary Shesgren, who has been conducting this feature of the public library work, will be there to entertain the children. The "story hour" will be at 11 o'clock.

The story-telling last year was a popular feature of the work at the West Duluth branch and on every occasion a large number of the children attended.

The West Duluth branch is located in the new Graham block, near the postoffice.

A DAVID HARUM IN WEST DULUTH.

An amusing story of a horse trade this morning is going the rounds on Central avenue.

A worn-out, broken-down nag was sold to a farmer for $30, the former owner being a West Duluth man, who was keeping the animal at a local sales stable.

After the deal was closed, the farmer was dissatisfied with the purchase and wanted his money back. Not being in accordance with Hoyle, the former owner refused to make the exchange.

The farmer finally compromised with the man who sold the horse, the agreement being that it should be bought back again for $10.

While the farmer was preparing to leave the stables the "critter" was again sold for $20.

At the livery stable, they are wondering who got "stung" the hardest, as the horse is a heavy eater.

MRS. ERICKSON MAY BE DEPORTED.

Steps may be taken by Commissioner of Immigration McDonnell to have Mrs. Mary Erickson, 20 years old, wife of Edward Erickson of Saginaw, Minn., who was arrested with George Rodovich in a West Duluth hotel on statutory charges, Tuesday evening, deported.

She was not born in this country and six months ago, it is alleged, she deserted her husband, who was living on a farm near Saginaw.

The authorities have not learned as to whether Erickson, her husband, is a citizen or not.

DIES AFTER A LENGTHY ILLNESS.

Fred Warila, 23 years old, single, died last evening at St. Luke's hospital after a year's illness. He was a resident of West Duluth for the past five years and formerly was employed on the Missabe ore docks.

Warila's parents reside in Finland, and he leaves no relatives in this country, except for a cousin, who at the present time is working in a lumber camp north of the city. He has been notified and will be here to attend the funeral.

Warila came to this country about six years ago from Finland. He was a member of the Swedish Finnish Temperance society of West Duluth, which will have charge of the funeral. The services will be held Monday afternoon, probably from the Richter's undertaking rooms where the body was taken. Burial will be at Oneota cemetery.

PROCTOR HAS STRONG BASKET BALL TEAM.

The Proctor basketball team has nearly completed its schedule of games for the coming season. The players are now in good form and expect to annex a string of victories this winter.

Next Tuesday evening the quint will journey to Duluth to meet the Brockle-hurst business college team. On Jan. 27 the Cloquet aggregation of players will come to Proctor and will play the local five at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

On Jan. 31 the Proctorites will go to Superior to play a return game with the Matt Carpenter team.

OVERHEAD CROSSINGS WILL BE DISCUSSED.

An important meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club will be held this evening, when the members will hold a conference with several of the council members and the city engineer over the matter of overhead crossings to be installed by the Canadian Northern on some of the thoroughfares at West Duluth.

The club members object strenuously to having any posts set in the street when the bridges are constructed. According to plans filed with the city clerk, the road proposes to construct the spans with supporting pillars placed in the middle of the street. This is true at least with the overhead crossings on Grand avenue and Fifty-ninth avenue west.

Lectures on "Ben Hur."

Before a large audience Rev. W. R. Palmer of Biwabik, Minn., delivered a lecture on "Ben Hur" last evening at Merritt Memorial M. E. church, Forty-sixth avenue west and Halifax street, the address being the second of a series in a lecture course scheduled for this winter.

Rev. Mr. Palmer handled his subject in a very creditable manner, and the audience seemed well pleased with his efforts. The talk was illustrated by stereopticon views. Mr. Palmer is grand chaplain of the state order of Odd Fellows.

BOY'S PARENTS ON WAY TO DULUTH

Will Not Arrive Before Jury Returns Verdict in Murder Case.

This afternoon Chief Troyer received a letter from the police authorities of Chicago, stating that the parents of the Melodrowski boy, now on trial on the charge of murdering Policeman Harry Chesmore, had been located and notified of the trouble of their son and that they will leave for Duluth immediately. They are not likely to arrive before the jury reports, however. The address of the parents of the boy is given at 1430 Emma street, Chicago.

Another communication was received from the police authorities of Cleveland, Ohio, stating that the record of the boy had been investigated. He attended the public schools in the Ohio city until June, 1909, and so far as the investigation of the Cleveland police goes, there is nothing against him in this regard.

He has no juvenile court record, the letter states, and as far as is known did nothing of a criminal nature in that city. His right name is said to be Stanislaus.

It's the Quality
Of the work done at the DULUTH BUSINESS UNIVERSITY that has made this school and its great body of students so successful. While other so-called schools have eked out an existence, this institution has constantly forged its way to the front until today it stands without a superior among the business colleges of America. It guarantees satisfaction in all its departments. Has day and night sessions. Location. 118-120 Fourth avenue west.

Were Not "Rushing the Can."
The statement in The Herald last evening that James Bollinger's fine had been reduced in police court yesterday morning because the court had been informed later that he had been "rushing the can" with Mr. and Mrs. Wilson of the West hotel, West Superior street between Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues, was incorrect. The fine was reduced because of other statements which were made to the court after sentence had been imposed. Bollinger was arrested on a charge of being drunk and entered a plea of guilty. It was claimed that he made some nasty statements to Mrs. Wilson when they had a difference over a board bill. The statement in question was made by Bollinger in the police station and not to the court, and it is denied by Mrs. Wilson.

FOUND PROVISIONS ON DESERT ISLAND

Supplies Left There By Warship Saves Lives of Shipwrecked Sailors.

Albany, West Australia, Jan. 20.—Three of the crew of the British freight steamer Parisian were lost when the vessel was burned at sea. The survivors arrived here yesterday on a British transport which picked them up on St. Paul island.

The Parisian sailed from New York on Oct. 29 for Melbourn with a cargo of merchandise. She carried no passengers. Fire broke out in the hold on Dec. 13.

The survivors unfolded a tale of adventure today when they had recovered from their sufferings. For two days they were at sea in open boats and then followed twenty-three days on a barren island. The deserted ship was forty miles from St. Paul island. The sea was running high and it was bitterly cold. The men suffered intensely. For hours they battled desperately, then one of their number toppled over dead. The body was dropped overboard.

A few hours later a second member of the crew died, and still later, a third. These bodies were brought ashore.

A safe landing was made and the men found provisions left by the crew of the Freuch vessel of war Eure, in 1893. Preserved meat, biscuits, woolen underwear, blankets and matches were found. Upon these supplies they subsisted for three weeks. Watch was kept for passing vessels and on Jan. 11 the British transport came in view. The steamer took the shipwrecked on board.

The population of the Western provinces in 1900 was 440,000 and in 1910, 1,700,000, while the five principal cities increased their total of building permits 86 per cent in 1910 as compared with 1908.

BURNS DAY BANQUET.

Specially Attractive Program Provided for Anniversary Event.

The Burns anniversary celebration and banquet at the Spalding hotel Jan. 25 is to be an exceptionally attractive event. It always is the big social feature of the year for Clan Stewart, Order of Scottish Clans, which will give a banquet, and for the occasion this year an especially good program has been arranged.

The banquet will begin promptly at 7 o'clock p. m. There will be songs and speeches, and the toast of the evening, Robert Burns, will be responded to by Ex-Mayor James Gray of Minneapolis. Warren E. Green, assistant county attorney, will respond to the toast, "The Ladies," Royal Counsellor A. G. McKnight to the toast, "Our Adopted Country and the Order of Scottish Clans."

The musical program, consisting principally of Burns songs, will be rendered by Miss Maud Mattson, Miss Gladys Reynolds, Phillip Gordon Brown and John Matheson. Highland dancing will be a feature of the entertainment. The banquet and concert will be followed by a dance program of twenty numbers. Flaaten's full orchestra will furnish the music.

For a "quid" Scotch Night Clan Stewart's 1911 celebration promises to excel anything of the kind given in previous years.

The sale of tickest will be limited to 450. Four hundred have already been disposed of, and as the capacity of the large dining room is limited to 450, no tickets will be sold at the hotel.

SOUTHERN ROADS BUSY.

P. W. Morrow Tells of Heavy Tourist Travel Over Them.

P. W. Morrow, Northwestern passenger agent for the Louisville & Nashville railway, is here today on his annual inspection of traffic business in this section of the country. The Louisville & Nashville traverses territory which attracts the eager tourist fleeing from the rigors of the North, and there is now a heavy tourist passenger travel over that line.

This has been a particularly good winter for tourist travel, said Mr. Morrow, and the Southern railroads have reaped the benefit. Mr. Morrow added that the greatest improvement in railroads of this country was to be found on the Southern roads, which in general improvement are reflecting the progress and industrial changes that are taking place in the Southland.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROBERT LUECK

To the Voters of Second Ward:

Having been a resident of St. Louis county for over twenty-nine years, actively engaged in the grocery business, also being a heavy tax payer of real estate, I respectfully solicit your votes at the election, Tuesday, Feb. 7, as alderman of the Second ward, on the Republican ticket. If I am your choice, I promise to administer the affairs of the office, do the square thing for the Second ward, and in general for the city's interests at all times without fear or favor. I am not tied up to any interest, individual or corporation. It is impossible for me to see each voter personally, so I take this means of soliciting your support. Respectfully yours, ROBERT LUECK.

How to Stop Drinking

Give Orrine and Destroy All Desire for Whisky and Beer.

Can Be Given Secretly.
Try It At Our Expense.

We are in earnest when we ask you to try ORRINE at our expense. We will give your money back, if after a trial you fail to get results from ORRINE. This is a very generous offer. It gives the wives and mothers of those who drink to excess an opportunity to try the ORRINE Treatment. It also shows our confidence in the merits of ORRINE. ORRINE is recognized as the best and most successful remedy the world has ever known for Drunkenness or the so-called Liquor Habit. It is a very simple treatment, can be given in the home without publicity or loss of time from business, and at a small price. Read the following letter from Dr. Nolte, Elgth and Race streets, Philadelphia. It will tell you about some of the wonderful results from the ORRINE Treatment:

"I have had a remarkable case of inebriacy under my personal observation. The patient drank heavily for fifteen years and reached a degraded condition, which caused the breaking up of his family and separation from his wife. Every hope was given up of ever saving the man from his strong desire for drink, and only a mother's interest finally persuaded him to voluntarily take treatment for his diseased condition. It was my pleasure to recommend ORRINE, your liquor habit cure, and the treatment was taken faithfully. This was two years ago and the patient is now in a healthy condition and still abstains from the use of stimulants. I have sold ORRINE for a number of years and have always found it to be satisfactory. I believe you have an exceptionally good treatment for this disease."

ORRINE is prepared in two forms. No. 1, secret treatment, a powder, absolutely tasteless and odorless, given secretly in food or drink. ORRINE No. 2, in pill form, is for those who desire to take voluntary treatment. ORRINE costs only $1.00 a box. Write for Free ORRINE Booklet (mailed in plain sealed envelope) to ORRINE CO., 457 Orrine Building, Washington, D. C. ORRINE is recommended and is for sale in this city by W. A. Abbett, 205 West Superior street, 930 East Second street, and 101 West Fourth street.

BUSINESS OF PORT SHOWS INCREASE FOR YEAR 1910

Fewer Vessels Arriving and Departing But They Carried Bigger Cargoes.

Report of Collector of Customs Contains Interesting Statistics.

Although the arrivals and clearances at the port of Duluth during 1910 fell off from those for the previous year, there was an appreciable increase in the tonnage handled, according to figures compiled in the office of Collector of Customs L. M. Willcuts.

Last year there were 7,463 arrivals and clearances, representing 22,488,109 net tons, while in the previous year there were 7,609 arrivals and clearances, representing 24,407,216 tons. Despite the falling off in the number of vessels, the receipts at the port of Duluth amounted to 2,509,527 tons, as compared to 1,752,472 tons in 1909, while the shipments amounted to 15,236,228 tons as compared with 14,594,553 tons in 1909.

The figures as given out by the collector of customs are those for Duluth only and do not give an idea of the total business in the harbor during the year. As the Duluth-Superior harbor is one port, the annual report of the United States engineers on the traffic will give a more adequate idea of the amount of business done, the report covering the whole harbor.

The figures of the customs office show the business on the Duluth side of the bay and in almost every classification an increase is shown in receipts and shipments.

The coal brought to Duluth docks during the year amounted to 2,259,276 tons. The quantities of some of the other important commodities received are: Salt, 259,258 bbl; fresh fish, 426,937 lb; salt fish, 995,850 lb; logs, 2,500,000 ft; nails, 316,225 kegs.

The greater part of the outgoing tonnage is made up of iron ore, of which 13,473,064 tons were shipped from the Missabe dock, which is the only ore dock on this side of the bay. Some of the important commodities shipped and the amount of each are: Wheat, 10,212,817 bu; oats, 812,926 bu; barley, 208,000 bu; rye, 31,000 bu; flax, 805,465 bu; corn, 40,500 bu; flour, 228,751 bbl; feed, 10,728 tons; lumber, 219,641,022 ft; lath, 2,339,000; shingles, 15,526,500.

Imports to Duluth from foreign countries show a big increase for 1910, but there is a falling off in exports. The imports free of duty were valued at $120,285, against $47,868 in 1909, while the dutiable imports amounted to $278,724 as compared to $95,290 in 1909. The exports for the year were valued at $2,507,078, as compared to $5,624,286 in 1909. The principal exports are flour, grain and iron ore, the ore going to Canadian furnaces and the flour and grain to European countries.

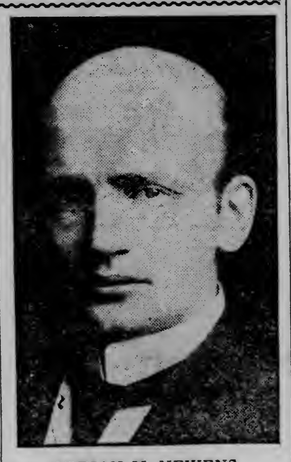

WILL INTERPRET "THE SKY-PILOT," RALPH CONNOR'S FAMOUS NOVEL

Adrian M. Newens, one of the clevcrest monologists before the public and also one of the best interpreters of character reading, will interpret Ralph Connor's famous novel, "The Sky Pilot," at the Y. M. C. A. meeting for men, Sunday at 3:30 p. m.

Mr. Newens is at the head of the department of oratory and literature of the University of Iowa, and is one of the most widely known men on the public platform.

He has some very interesting and important things to say to the American people outside of his lecture, according to the advance notices that have preceded him. He has made an exceptionally thorough study of the literature of this country and is peculiarly fitted to interpret the characters of Connor's famous novel.

Mr. Newens will appear at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and will supply one of the best attractions of the season's course.

CRIPPLED BUT WILLING

Aged Man With Sister to Support Looking for Work.

Charity Worker Wants Unfortunates Given Chance to Earn Living.

In a little three-room basement, right in the heart of Duluth, live an old lady and her still older brother. They have been residents of Duluth for forty odd years, and they have worked steadily up until the last year. Now the old woman has recurrent attacks of rheumatism, which confines her to her bed and the old brother has to be at home part of the time to nurse her. He is nearly 70, not so strong as he used to be, but still ready to do anything he can.

He says: "If I could only get a few hours' work a day, like street cleaning or carpet beating, I could spend the rest of the time taking care of my sister, and we would not have to break up our little home. But nobody wants me to work for them because I am old, and I would rather be hungry than ask for charity."

Isn't there somebody in Duluth who could use him? It would only take $4 a week for him and his sister to live on. Since he has been a wage earner and a self-respecting citizen for forty years, it seems merely justice to allow him to finish the very few remaining years of his life without becoming a pauper, the charity workers say.

A more typical case is that of a one-armed man who can do more with that one arm than many a man does with two. He can act as a janitor, can do light and simple bookkeeping and, in fact, is surprisingly capable considering his defect. But he says he meets the same answer everywhere he applies for work, "I can't use a man with one arm," and he doesn't get a chance to try.

"There are few ways in which more real and lasting good can be done than by giving work to such people," said one of the charity workers today. "If everyone who wants to help would go a little out of his or her way to see what they have to do that can be done by such people, and would give the Associated Charities or some other society the first opportunity to supply the help needed, that would indeed be the truest kind of charity.

"The finest form of charity is not that which merely doles out a little help each day leaving the recipients no better off in the end than they were in the beginning. The best kind is really not 'charity' at all: it is giving a man his social due, lending a brotherly hand so that he can get on his feet and be independent of any one.

"There is no one so difficult to help as the man or woman with some physical handicap, with only one leg, or one arm, or with poor eyesight, etc. And this is not because they are not willing to help themselves, for often they are pathetically eager to find some work where they will receive enough to keep body and soul together. And often they are surprisingly capable and efficient, being stimulated by their very defect to work all the harder and make up for what is lacking.

"But many a man who will give hundreds of dollars to charity will not give a man with one arm a chance to prove what he is worth, because that would not be running his business on the principle of getting the greatest results with the fewest employes."

The copper market was strong today. There was some selling by little professionals early in the day, but large interests came to the support of the market later and the market crept upward.

The market reached the level of values touched on the bulge last October and for this rason there was some selling by people who believed that it had gone far enough. The local market was fairly active. Two Harbors Finns Get Too Handy With Their Knives.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arick Marlinson, Victor Hjart and Victor Kronquist, all Finns, engaged in a fierce fight with some Swedes, names not known, Wednesday night. The Finns are said to have used their knives freely before the police took a hand and arrested the knife-wielders. Kronquist was let go, after paying a $10 fine, but the other two were bound over to the grand jury. As they are alleged to have been in the country but a short time and to belong to the class called "undesirables," an appeal will be made to the federal authorities to have them deported.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

GOSSIP PICKED UP ALONG THE SPORTING HIGHWAY

Champion Sculler Wants to Turn Pugilist—Ordemann the American Wrestling Hope—Ten Eyck Should Get Results With Boat Club Crews—"Doc" Reid in Duluth.

(BY BRUCE.)

There is another lad who would turn from the lane of a certain athletic endeavor and walk boldly forth onto the highway of pugilistic purpose. The latest aspirant for pugilistic hopes, and his number is probably around the 9876 mark, is no other than Arnst, the champion professional sculler of the world, the same chap who not so long ago took the title from Barry, the Englishman.

This flirting with the passing show on the part of the big oarsman calls to mind the attempts certain other men have made in the past to become boxers of 14 karat brilliancy.

Remember when the athletic world was all agog about the repeated statements that Frank Gotch was going right after the title, would challenge Jeffries, etc.? Frank may have been sincere in the belief that he could make just as great a pugilist as he was a wrestler. He was fast and strong, and his muscles were not bound, as is the case with so many grapplers. He fought Boomer Weeks on the coast, a big fireman, and this son of nature knocked about all the fight out of Frank, according to the various reports of the fray.

"Doc" Roller is another man who has harbored in his thatch the fighting bee. The last time the genial surgeon was in this city, he spoke about his bouts with some of the boxers in the West. He stated that he could make good at the game, but found wrestling more profitable, as it seemed as if the hand of the law was raised against the fighters.

It is very doubtful if Dr. Roller would ever make a third rater in the fighting game. He is big and strong, but for years his muscles have been trained for pulling and not pushing out with snap and precision the blow that must have both speed and power to make a fighter even dangerous.

Tom Jenkins, the former heavyweight wrestling champion, the man who surrendered the American title to Gotch, used to talk about his ability as a fighter, and upon one occasion occupied a great deal of space in the newspapers through the issing of a challenge to James J. Jeffries, in which the wrestler offered to figit the champion fighter one of those care free battles, in which biting, strangle holds and even gouging went.

It is needless to say that the challenge was never taken seriously. It has been it is very probable that the wrestler would have been in for the beating of his life.

Casey, a football player of some small college, tried the fight game and found it vastly different from football. He did not succeed, though this may have been because he lacked the ability and not because he was a football player. Baseball players have threatened to break into the game, but as yet no prominent player has ever been known to make any impression as a great fighter.

Herr Placke, the Hollander, who was a wrestler and weight lifter before he was exploited on the American public as a fighter, was another shining example of the man, who, because he was big and strong, imagined that he could fight. Kid McCoy, far from his best and going down the ladder that leadeth to the valley of Allin, pounded the giant until his face resembled mucilly a beefsteak that has been quarreled over by two hungry bull pups. He was the veriest tyro in the ring, and yet some wise sporting men were impressed very much by him—before he entered the ring.

Once Eugene Sandow stated that he could lick any fighter in the world. Jim Corbett was the champion of the world at that time. He offered to bet real money that he could stop the German strong man in three rounds. Sandow never called the Corbett proposition, and after that never was heard from on the fighting thing.

It has been this way down the length of the pugilistic path; few athletes have ever come from some other field of athletic achievement and leaped the barrier that let them into teh rich green of the fighting pasture. This Arnst is big and may be very fast, but his exercises all these years have been against hitting out from the shoulder, and he never could become a champion if he trained industriously and assiduously the rest of his active athletic years.

More About Henry Ordemann.

Over the country today the press is commenting on the wonderful showing made by the big Minneapolis Norwegian against George Hackenschmidt, the Russian Lion.

Some very wise writer would have it that the Lion is going back and is not the man he was when he first wrestled Gotch that sensational match in Chicago. Others give Ordemann full measure of the credit that rightfully belongs to him for the really wonderful showing he made against the strongest man Europe has produced in the last twenty years.

The calm truth of the matter is that Ordemann today stands as one of the greatest wrestlers in the world. The young Norwegian has shown great advancement in his proefssion the present season, and those who wonder at his showing up in some respects of the man who is supposed to be next to the greatest wrestler in the world, on his lowest rating, fail to give Ordemann credit for the strides he has made.

In looking over the field for the successor to Gotch, the choice at the present time seems to lie between Ordemann and Westergaard, with the odds in favor of the Minneapolis Norwegian. It would seem that Henry has improved faster the presnat season than any other wrestler before the public, and his great showing the other evening is the climax to the great matches he has wrestled the present wrestling year.

How much better will Ordemann get? That is the question that is bothering the lovers of the sport. Can this country produce another American wrestler who will be able to defend the title against the foreign giants? It required years for Gotch to develop. Will Henry Ordemann, the holder of the American belt and the man generally looked upon as the hope of the wrestling world, as Carl Morris is at the present time held as the pugilistic prop, develop as Frank A. Gotch developed after he was defeated by Tom Jenkins at Cleveland?

If you could answer this question you would relieve the mind of hundreds of people who follow the fortunes of the wrestlers, for here in America we want to keep the belt at home, and Ordemann seems the most likely man to defend that belt in the future, seems the man who some day may be as great as Frank Gotch is at the present time.

He will have to go a long way, you may think. Not so very long, when you come to think of the marvelous showing this young man made last Tuesday evening. Was Gotch as good at the time he possessed no more experience than Ordemann has accumulated on the mat?

Think it over.

Long have some of the followers of rowing in this city yelled for a professional coach. At last their wish has been granted. Edward Ten Eyck has been engaged and will show whether a coach of long experience can mould a winning crew from the material that has accomplished nothing for the club during the past four years or more.

Ten Eyck Should Make Good.

Speaking from the physical standpoint, the candidates of the Duluth club are superior to the oarsmen that the other clubs place in their shells. It may be that these men lack the rowing instinct, gameness or whatever it is. In the past their failure to meet with success has been attributed to poor coaching. Last season it was a cinch that the coaching was far below the standard of the year before last, and many students of rowing at the Kenora regatta did not hesitate in the least in declaring that with proper coaching the Duluth crews would have won a large share of the prizes hung up at the big Northwestern rowing regatta.

However, that is past, and some one has remarked wisely that it is no use crying over spilled milk, even if it wasn't skimmed. The thing to do lies ahead of the officials of the club, and they are evidently bent upon placing the best crews upon the water or discovering the reason for the lack of the grand thing called success.

Ten Eyck made a good reputation at Wisconsin. There seems to be something radically wrong about the athletic University of Wisconsin, and Ten Eyck's leaving should not in the least be taken as a reflection of his ability. With the right kind of response from the oarsmen here the former world's champion sculler should turn out a crew that will at least make a better showing than the crews of the two past seasons, especially the crew that was so beautifully trimmed at Kenora last July.

Genial "Doc" Reid Was With Us.

"Doc" Reid is known in fight circles the length and breadth of the country. He has some of the best boys of the country under his managerial wing, and at the present time has Tommy Dixon, the same lad who gave Frankie Conley the hard ten-round go down Kansas City way the other night in his charge.

"Doc" simply dropped in on his way through to the East, as he has a number of friends in this city. Reid has followed the fight game for years and his opinions on the fighters are therefore of interest. Unlike many of the people who are at the present time lampooning Champion Wolgast, the Chicago impresario holds the opinion that Wolgast is one of the toughest boys in the country, has a good left and will take a lot of beating before any kid is going to con him.

It may surprise a great many, but the Chicago man is of the opinion that Wolgast will beat Owen Moran. He believes Packey McFarland is the boy who can defeat Wolgast, for with the exception of Attell, "Doc" believes the stockyards fighter is the cleverest boy in the country.

The record made by McFarland would bear out the Reid opinion. Reid says the Chicago boy can make 133 and be strong. If this is so, there is little questions in the minds of the majority of those who follow the fighters but that McFarland is one of the most dangerous men in the lightweight class.

Another mooted question which was answered yesterday by the Chicago manager was in regard to the relative abilities of Coulon and Conley. Reid believes that Coulon will prove the victor if Conley will make the weight. Conley, according to "Doc," is a strong, rugged fighter, possessing little science but a glutton for receiving punishment.

Battling Nelson is through, according to Reid who adds that the Battler was a great fighter in his day and generation. At the present time there are indications that the fight game will be opened in Chicago, after the next mayoralty election.

Fast Basket Ball Game Scheduled for New High School Gym.

About the first real hard basket ball contest of the present season will occur this evening when the crack Central high school team of this city, one of the best quints in this part of the country, will meet the strong Nelson-Dewey team of Superior.

Those who have followed the Central team the present season state that the bunch is even stronger than the team which made so good a showing at Madison last season. Central has won every game the present season with ease and it remains to be seen what kind of showing the boys will make against a strong combination of basket throwers.

It is generally believed that Central will triump, but no walkaway is looked for. The contest will be decided in the new high school gymnasium. Following is the line-up.

JAP MAY TRYOUT WITH CHICAGO CUBS.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—Ito Sugimoto, a Japanese, wants to play ball with the Cubs. Ito made known his ambition in a letter to President Murphy yesterday asking permission to go South with the team next month. In his request, couched in the best English, the Japanese athlete announced he knew baseball perfectly and merely asked a trial.

Murphy immediately forwarded the correspondence to Manager Chance at Glendora, Cal. Sugimoto is a small man, 21 years old, with considerable infield experience acquired in Honolulu and on semi-professional clubs around San Francisco, where he is now living.

President Murphy says he favors taking Ito to New Orleans for a tryout. If the deal goes through, the Cubs can claim the distinction of breaking in the first Japanese in the history of the major leagues.

LAMY LOSES AGAIN TO ROBERT McLEAN.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 20.—In races that were not remarkably fast, Robert McLean of Chicago last night made good his claim to the national indoor skating championship by defeating Edmund Lamy of Saranac Lake, N. Y., the former champion at the National Amateur races.

"GREAT TEAM," SAYS ZEIDER

Chicago, Jan. 20.—"It is my honest conviction that Hugh Duffy will hand a big surprise to the baseball fans of the country in 1911. Duffy has the pitching staff, and with a strong team back of his hurlers look out."

This is the opinion of Rollie Zeider, captain of the Chicago White Sox in 1910. Zeider writes from his home in Auburn, Ind., that he is in the pink of condition for the fray in the spring, and says when the bell rings for the opening of hostilities he will be there to battle his best for the success of Comiskey's team.

"Few people realize that it will be a different team entirely that will play for Comiskey than the one that opened the schedule in 1910. I don't know what the line-up will be this year, but the team that can beat the White Sox in 1911 will win the American league pennant. With such men as Lord Meloan, Dougherty, Cholnard and Bodie batting for the White Sox, the pitchers on the opposing teams will certainly be up against it. Give any of the White Sox pitchers three runs and see how many games he will lose. Look at the games we lost last year by one run. If we had had a little more batting strength there might have been a different story to tell at the end of the season. I expect to see Duffy pull ahead this year. Of course, when the team was losing last year he got his knocks—all managers do, unless they win, and how can they win without the material? The same is true of a ball player—if he is winning he is all O. K.; if he is on a losing team he is the worst ball player in the world. Put Ty Cobb on a losing team, one that finishes down in seventh place, and see whether he pulls off so many brilliant plays and bats .400. It takes more than one star to make a pennant winner.

"If I have a stiff fight on my hands to gain a place on the regulars, why, I will be tickled, because I like a fight of this kind. I know that I will be in the best condition of my life as a ball player and I don't think I will have to bum. All I have to say is that if there are several fighting for a position may the best man win.

"I have been outdoors every day constantly since I left the team last fall. I lay my good condition to the fact that I have been doing nothing except hunting this winter, every day imbibing the good, cool air—nothing is better for a ball player than lots of exercise in the open, and I guess I have had my share."

ARNST MAY TRY PRIZE FIGHT GAME.

Wellington, N. Z., Jan. 20.—Search for a white man to defeat Jack Johnson has reached this far-away land and there is considerable talk of trying to force Richard Arnst, champion oarsman of the world and formerly champion bicycle rider of Australia, to try conclusions with the Giant Black.

Arnst already is trying himself out boxing privately with men who know the game from start to finish. Among his tutors are: "Snowy" Baker, the Australian professor; Jimmy Clabby, the clever American welterweight, and Ray Bronson, the American lightweight. He will also work with Billy Papke's "Cyclone Johnny" Thompson.

Arnst has a magnificent build for an athlete. He stands a shade over six feet and weighs, in condition, close to 200 pounds. Unlike wrestlers who have tried the fight game, only to find themselves muscle bound, he is free from that handicap, his shoulders and biceps muscles being flexible and free for action. He has a chest expansion of twelve inches and wonderful stamina.

Arnst expects to visit the United States shortly.

MARTIN JOHNSON WILL MEET CHRIS PERSON.

Chris Person and Martin Johnson of this city today signed for the preliminary to the big match between Henry Ordemann, American champion, and Karl Lehto, which will be decided at the Lyceum theater next Thursday evening.

Johnson has been a persistent challenger of Person, and the meeting between the two men promises to be no less interesting than the meeting between Ordemann and the husky Finn.

George A. Barton, the well known sporting writer of Minneapolis, is coming to the Head of the Lakes to witness the contest, and it is said that quite a large delegation from the Mill City will be up to see the contest.

Ordemann is one of the greatest wrestlers the world today, and his coming to Duluth holds a lot of interest for the fans here, as his career has been followed closely by the fans of this city. Many people here feel that Ordemann is almost as much a resident of this city as he is of Minneapolis.

JACK WHITE HAS BETTER OF SCHULTZ.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 20.—Jack White of Chicago easily outpointed "Battling" Schultz of Toledo at the Shubert theater last night in a ten-round no-decision boxing bout. The boys fought at 126 pounds.

White had the advantage in eight out of the ten rounds and in the sixth knocked his opponent to the floor twice, the bell saving the Toledo youngster from a knockout.

HOPPE LEADS MAYER IN BILLIARD MATCH.

Philadelphia, Jan. 20.—Willie Hoppe yesterday drew further ahead of Joe Mayer, the Philadelphia amateur in their handicap billiard match. In the afternoon Hoppe scored 400 points to 180 for Mayer, but in the play last night the Philadelphian gained a few points on the world's champion, scoring 294 points while Hoppe made his 400.

CLUB DIRECTORS CHOOSE SKI JUMPING TEAM.

The following men will be sent to Chippewa Falls, Wis., as representatives of the Duluth Ski club, to take part in the big national ski jump which will be held Jan. 28 and 29: Ole Fiering, John Mangseth and John Evenson, professionals, and George Jacobson, Arnold Olson and E. S. Hendrum, amateurs.

These men have been selected by the directors of the club as the best possible representatives of the association. It is expected here that they will bring home some of the prizes.

Will Play Virginia.

The hockey team of Central high will play the Virginia high school team Saturday evening.

THE SAD SWEET STORY OF BOB DUNBAR'S LIFE.

(The Clarion editor hated to let anything good about anybody get into these columns, but Dunbar has the Duluth bonspiel sewed up tight, and has yet to lose a game. So he is entitled to all the attention he is attracting.)

By Bruce.

The loudest noise of the present bonspiel is Bob Dunbar.

He may probably be called the greatest curler in the world. He has mastered the science of the game as no other man has in the memory of the oldest players of the game. His strength lies in his consistency, for Dunbar never plays a bad game and his poor game has generally proved better than the best of others.

Once Mr. Hans Wagner, owning great fame as a batter, was asked the secret of hitting. He replied in that blunt manner peculiar to the Teuton: "Hit 'dem where they ain't."

Mr. Dunbar's success the present week came by 'petting 'em where they were," and hence after the shot they were not. His eye is clear and his hand steady and firm. When he lets 'er go you can gamble that he will come almost within inches of a perfect shot.

Bob has been curling for more than twenty years. He started out with Bill Carson of Winnipeg. That was with the old Thistles. Bill is still alive and is one of the best known curlers of Canada. Later Dunbar was associated with Jamie Baxter, a Scotchman who was a character in Winnipeg. Jamie has since passed to his reward.

One time Dunbar was playing third for Jamie Baxter, in one of the big events of Canada, when the last shot was to decide the game, and the shot was Jamie's, by the way.

Dunbar went down and gave Jamie the ice and down she came. The shot was two feet wide and went clear through the house. As Jamie came walking forlornly down the ice Bob walked up to meet him.

"Jamie, man," he wailed, "how did you ever miss that shot."

Jamie's Answer.

The answer of Jamies is part of Canadian curling history.

Here is what he said:

"Well ye se, Bob, I slippit in the hack, broke my gallusses, and my breks were comin' doon and I was a' trachled."

Evidently the explanation was satisfactory, for it is said that the youthful Dunbar did not call his chief.

Bob Dunbar was born in Colchester county, Nova Scotia, and is a true "blue nose." He drifted to Winnipeg in the early days and has figured prominently in the curling history of that city. A little over twelve years ago he came to the United States, and since that time curlers in the Northwest have been familiar with the achievements of this wonderful exponent of the ancient Scotch game.

Dunbar's record of 62 out of a possible 72 points, is said by curlers to be the highest record ever made. Fred Palmer of Winnipeg, according to eminent authority, comes the nearest to the Dunbar record, having made a record of 50 out of a possible 72.

What is the secret of the success of Robert the Scot? That question has been asked about 467 times during the course of the present spiel. Jamie Myron says he is a natural curler—he is also a curler by cultivation. Dunbar has probably spent more hours on the ice than any other man who has played the same number of years. St. Paul curlers here say that Dunbar is on the ice every day of the season, as regular as the working of an ancient Swiss clock, whether the other members of the rink are there or not.

Despite the fact that Dunbar is a small man, close observers of the game say he can throw a stone faster than any man at the present spiel. There are some big and powerful curlers here, too. Before entering the curling game Dunbar was a runner of exceptional ability and later took to the bicycle racing game. One time the forks of his wheel broke and the curling world came near losing its greatest star.

Dunbar Is Modest.

Dunbar is modest and some say really as shy as a girl during her first year at boarding school. Like the late Schafer of the billiard world, he seems wholly oblivious to the spectators. In fact, he has been compared more than once to the greatest of all cue handlers. He is in a class by himself. There is no curler in the country today who is his equal. This is an opinion that has been gathered by closely questioning those who have seen the best of the present day on both sides of the line.

Bob shys when the conversation turns to himself. Last evening he was sitting in a corner of the observation room, waiting for his game with Conkel. He was asked to tell something of himself.

"Ah now don't," quoth Bob; "It's nothing but practice, and any one can curl as well as I, if they will practice hard."

He will talk about others, but honetsly hates to tell of himself. One thing he stated yesterday—that the curlers of America and Canada were far superior to the curlers of Scotland. "We played a Scotch rink at Winnipeg five years ago," said Dunbar, "and they never won more than one game in the spiel. We have by far the best curlers on this side of the water."

Jamie Myron has known Dunbar for the past twenty years. He has curled with him and against him during these many seasons. Yesterday he stated that in all this time he had never seen or heard Dunbar do a thing that was not the act of a good sportsman. With all the talk that his wonderful curling has caused, Dunbar has never changed a whit in that quiet demeanor he bore during the first days he started curling with Bill Carson.

He is a headline attraction of every spiel he curls in, a true wizard of the ice, is Bob Dunbar.

Arlington's Loss Is Duluth's Gain.

Here is a good change for curlers. Guess who this is. Far be it from the Clarion to mention any names but this man is red haired and plays lead for Robertson. He is the original little bunch of sunshine. He is always happy, though sometimes tired. He had to get out of Arlington for a little while, they say, so he came to the Duluth bonspeil. There is no prize but we can have a lot of fun guessing who he is.

"WILD BILL" SHAVER LIKES CITY LIFE.

This is "Wild Bill" Shaver of Virginia. He plays third for Johnson when he is in shape. "Wild Bill" is some curler, believe us. He works so hard that he contracts for and usually gets, a headache. Virginia is a pretty tame berg for "Bill." He goes to the moving picture show every time a new film is advertised. There is something about moving pictures that appeals to "Bill." He has seen a lot of them in Duluth and he says they are just as good if not better than the ones in Virginia.

"BILL" SHAVER.

"Bill" is one of the most persistent curlers at the bonspiel. The other day in a game against Ron Smith he stamped his foot and stated that he would not quit until he made a good shot. "Bill" was still at the rink this morning. "Bill" is, outside all these things, a good fellow and we are glad to have him in our midst. He is getting used to life in the city and can now find his way about town alone. At least, he knows where he can get directed from one place to another.

THREE GENERATIONS O' CURLERS BOLD.

They are great curlers, they are, those boys from Arlington, Wis.

This is the town that sent two rinks with only seven curlers in the club.

Yesterday George McMillan, a young man of 74 years, father of Gabriel (Rope) McMillan, the tall and angular member of the Arlington rink, wrote to his son, expressing regret and extreme sorrow over the fact that he could not be present and throw one stone.

There are three generations of curlers in the McMillan family. There is Grandfather George, 74 and going on 75, who gets out and occasionally beats tall "Gabe" and the other boys, just to teach them the proper respect for age.

Then there is son "Gabe" the "human rope" who is here at the spiel, and his son, 12 years of age, who curls with the older members of the Arlington rink. The other day sonny asked Father "Gabe" to buy him a new pair of rocks.

Grandfather McMillan has been curling for fifty-six years. He has been a student of the game and knows its history like a fond mother knows the disposition of her loving child. In his letter to son "Gabe," young George, only 74 and growing younger, advised his son. "Keep your head cool, your feet warm and the fear of God before you and you will be all right."

Grandfather George adds, further—"I see by the paper that you have the man who was present when the game of the broom and stone was invented, but I think there is some mistake.

"'For how long it dates in bygone years

Let antiquarians tell
For Geordie First o' Scotia's kings
He used to play himsel'
And aye sin' then we love the game,
The game for health and glee.
So give to me the curling stane,
The roarin' rink and Tee.'"

Son "Gabe" adds that if father continues to feel as well as he has, he will probably be seen at the next bonspiel.

COMES FROM PHILLIPS, WIS., AND ADMITS IT.

Here is the man who plays lead for Covey of Phillips, Wis. This is an excellent likeness of Sam Richardson of Duluth, but it is supposed to be G. M. Chamberlin. There is no joke about Chamberlin's ability as a lead.

CHAMBERLIN.

He is in action all the time. The man who made the picture says that it was hard to catch him in any position as he was in a hundred different ones in the brief space of a few minutes. On the ice he seems to feel and he certainly does act, like a 2-year-old. G. M. comes from a small town, but he has played that curling game before. It is easy to see that.

The Hit of the Spiel.

The hit of the local 'spiel is Conkel. He is from Arlington, Wis., and he and his men have been playing a great game since the 'spiel first opened Monday morning. Conkel chases every stone down the rink and makes a noise like a howling Indian. His men never can tell whether he says to sweep or to leave it alone. When he is trying to curl and eat a lunch at the same time it is particularly hard. He is one of the best little skips and he looks, while curling, just as he does in the picture.

Third for Dunbar.

Here is a rear view of Bert Halstead, third man for "Bob" Dunbar of St. Paul. We thought he looked better in this position. Halstead is an iconoclast. He is always kicking whether it be on the ice or at the lunch counter. He says they are trying to starve him in Duluth. Halstead has a line of talk that is meant to peeve and rattle the Conkel is running Dunbar a close second for headline honors.

HALSTEAD.

men on the other side, and from what we learn about the rink, this is a big part of his game. He is a good curler and his hack weight shots are a feature of his work. He comes down the rink with the speed of an arrow and as heavy as a tone of ore, and when the stone strikes there is always a scattering.

NEW ITALIAN CLUB FORMED

Young Italians of this city have formed an athletic club. A meeting was held Wednesday evening in St. Peter's church and steps were taken to form the organization. There are forty members at the present time, members secured at the initial meeting so that the prospects are bright for a very large and prosperous organization.

Another meeting will be held in the near future, when further steps will be taken and the election of officers probably held. It is the intention of the members of the club to include basket ball, general athletics, as well as literary and musical features on the program.

Those who attended the initial meeting Wednesday believe that the next meeting will result in the membership being doubled. There are some very clever Italian athletics in the city, and the organization of the club will no doubt result in developing some very good performers.

ADAMS AND FAIRMONTS WILL MEET AT HOCKEY.

This evening the strong Adams team will meet the Fairmonts at the French rink, Twenty-fifth avenue west. The Adams are hot in the running for the championship of the city league and they will naturally count on winning the game of this evening. On the other hand the Fairmonts have shown considerable improvement and should put up a hot fight. The game will be called at 8:15 and should prove a good contest.

ALL AFTER BOB DUNBAR

If He Isn't Beaten 'Spiel Will Last Until Monday.

St. Paul Rink Still Has a Clean Record of Victories.

"Will some one please beat Robert Dunbar of St. Paul? We want to be home for Sunday. We can't go unless Mr. Dunbar loosens his hold on some of the events."

That is what one out of town curler said this morning. The 'spiel is now almost sure to go over until Monday.

The St. Paul man has the whole affair sewed up and very soon the others will have to wait for him. He is playing every draw each day and in spite of his wearing work, he and his men seem to be getting stronger as play goes on.

This morning he had an easy time with the Murray rink of Minneapolis, winning 13 to 6. Murray played a better game than the score would indicate. He made some beautiful draw shots but usually left the shot open for Dunbar, and his men fell down at critical stages of the game.

The weather today was ideal for curling. The ice was just hard enough. The first few days the ice was rather too brittle for the best curling.

The most sensational game of the morning was that between Elmer Whyte of Duluth and Holland of West Duluth. Both men played rattling good games. Whyte came up from behind after being seven down at the end of the sixth head and beat the Western man out, 15 to 14 after making several sensational draws and raises.

Whyte's Fine Work.

A guard that was fully ten feet in front of the ring, Whyte raised in for shot with perfect judgment and exactly the right weight.

On the last shot in another head Holland lay shot and guarded perfectly. The shot stone could be barely seen, and it lay close to one of Whyte's. Again Whyte made a perfect shot, getting by his own stone by the margin of a hair and laid. He made four in this, the tenth head.

In the Western, Wade lost to Duncan by a score of 11 to 15. This was a good game, and at one time during the game they were tied up with an even score. In the same event West, Duluth, slipped one over on McLennan, Duluth, winning by a score of 10 to 6.

Chase of Superior had a romp with Iltis of West Duluth, winning easily, 12 to 4. Robertson of Arlington defeated Dunlop of Duluth, 8 to 5. Reedal of Phillips defeated Hurdon of Duluth, 11 to 10. This was a mighty close contest. At one time Hurdon was seven down. He took a brace, made nine points, making him two to the good. When Reedal scored a three head in the eleventh and one in the twelfth, it finished the game, although Hurdon found time in between to score a one head. All these games counted in the Western event.

In the Spalding event Bradley defeated Smith, 12 to 7. Dr. Catterson defeated Bruder, 20 to 3.

In the St. Paul event Dunbar won from Murray, 13 to 6.

There were but two games in the Minneapolis event. Zauft defeated McLeod, 13 to 7, and Whyte defeated Holland, 15 to 4.

Dunbar and Hurdon.

Dunbar and Hurdon are playing this afternoon in the fours of the Duluth Curling club event. This is the second crack Hurdon has had at Dunbar, Dunbar won the first game. The winner of the match will play either Smith or Robertson of Arlington in the finals.

The Ordway event was started this morning. The Ordway trophy is donated by Mr. Ordway of the Crane-Ordway company of St. Paul. It is only for rinks outside of St. Paul, Minneapolis or Duluth.

There are but six rinks at the 'spiel to play for it. Pratt of Eveleth will meet Lenont of Virginia and Benson of Virginia will meet Johnson of Virginia. The winners of the Pratt-Lenont contest will meet Greening of Eveleth and the winner of the Benson-Johnson game will meet Fedennick of Eveleth. The winner of these games will play off in the finals for the trophy.

The detailed score of the games up to this noon together with tables showing the standing in the several events held by the different rinks follows:

Equity Society May Ask Legislation Aimed at Boards of Trade.

The Fargo Meeting May Adopt Resolutions for Inspecting of Books.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minesnota legislature may be asked to compel all grain boards of trade of that state to keep their records and books open for public inspection, as resolutions to that effect may be adopted at a district meting here of the American Society of Equity. This district is composed of Minnesota and both Dakotas. A secret session is in progress here today, but it is reported that their action may be taken. The delegates are discussing methods of conducting the proposed terminal elevator, for which funds have been subscribed. The resolutions committee will also ask the North Dakota legislature to enact a bill providing for the appointment of a state inspector of elevators, to look after the business in this state and also to co-operate with the grain boards of Minnesota and Wisconsin. The resolutions committee is composed of H. C. Brown of Minneapolis, a member of the North Dakota grain commission; C. F. Rakow, Wheatland, N. D.; O. H. Olson, New Rockford, N. D.; Bert Cole, Campbell, Minn., and H. F. Halverson, Sheyenne, N. D.

Hill's Absence Changes Program.

The absence of J. J. Hill of St. Paul, caused a rearrangement of the Tri-State Grain meet program today. Mr. Hill had promised to deliver an address as he had done in former years, but wired that he had been unexpectedly delayed by the railway matters in the East.

The attendance today is large, almost equal to yesterday, which was the big day of the week.

Because of adverse crop conditions the attendance has not been up to the standard of two or three former years, but the men who remained away were those who usually came for an outing. The enthusiastic, earnest workers were just as numerous as formerly.

Thomas Cooper of Minnesota was the first speaker this morning. He was followed by Prof. Martin and Prof. Abbott of the North Dakota agricultural college, and E. S. Delancy of Valley City.

This afternon Prof. Bolley was the chief speaker. He is state seed commissioner and discussed the work of his department and the efforts being made to prevent the sale of adulterated seeds.

NORTH DAKOTA EDITORS MEET

Annual Meeting of State Press Association Opens at Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the North Dakota Press association began here today and will continue tomorrow.

The usual addresses of welcome were put off until this evening when the visitors will be entertained at a banquet.

The session opened this morning with the annual address by President J. B. Burgster of Jamestown. The afternoon session was given over to the report from the legislative committee and the discussion took up the greater part of the afternoon.

This evening the Commercial club will tender the members a banquet at the Hotel Frederick. Addresses of welcome will be delivered by Mayor M F. Murphy, President M. J. Lander of the Commercial club, and President F. L. McVey of the university.

The session will close Saturday noon, the morning speakers being Editor Scott of the Ben Franklin Messenger, Secretary Spencer and S. C. Theis, both of Minneapolis, but the Ben Franklin club will be in session all afternoon. There are several women in attendance with their husbands and though no special program was arranged for them the local women are making their stay pleasant with informal home entertaining.

PRISON MACHINES IN GREAT DEMAND

Mowers and Binders Made at Stillwater Are Wanted By Farmers.

Stillwater, Minn., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Orders for reapers and mowers are being received at the state prison in numbers far surpassing expectations. Following the announcement made recently as to prices of farm machinery and binder twine inquiries began to pour into the office of the superintendent of industries.

The sales of binders and mowers the past two days have been many times more than was expected. The orders are coming rapidly every day from implement dealers of the state wanting to buy or secure the agency for reapers and mowers.

Not only the low prices, but the excellent quality of the machines tested last year have commended the prison made machines to the public. The farm machinery factory will be worked to its capacity until the end of the season so that there may be turned out as many as possible of the harvesters and mowers. It will not be possible to manufacture the machines in sufficient quantities to meet the demand.

PAPER MEN MEET.

Print Paper Makers of Wisconsin Attend St. Cloud Meeting.

St. Cloud, Minn., Jan. 20.—A number of prominent capitalists of Wisconsin who are interested in the print paper industry have been here this week to attend a special meeting of the Watab Pulp & Paper company at the plant at Sartell.

Among those in attendance at the meeting were Karl Mathie of Wausau, Wis., formerly of this city; Louis Dessert, president of the Watab Pulp and Paper company; Neal Brown, John Stark and Otto Mathie, all of Wausau, Wis.; Jacob Martenson of Oak Park, Ill.; Ray Johnston, John Parrish and Dr. T. Haugan of Grand Rapids, Mich.; I. N. Bushong of Gladstone, Mich.; C. J. Winton of Minneapolis and Frank Leaven of Neenah, Wis.

The stockholders are engaged in making an inspection of the plant to see the progress of the construction work which is being carried on there and to plan out the work for the coming year.

MAD BULL TOSSES CHILD INTO TREE

Little One Catches on Friendly Limb, Otherwise Might Have Perished.

Brookston, Minn., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald).—Anton, the 3-year-old son of Herman Erickson, a settler residing a few miles north of this village in Culver township, had a very narrow escape a few days ago from being killed by an angry bull on his father's farm. The boy had been watching his father, while he was working about the barn and had wandered into the yard in the rear of the stable. The bull charged on the youngster, catching him on its horns and throwing him in the air. Luckily the child landed among the branches of a nearby tree, hanging there until his screams brought his father from the barn.

With the exception of a few bruises the child was unhurt, but the parents were badly frightened. Mr. Erickson says that ordinarily the animal was very tame, but that the child had been wearing a new read overcoat which he believes angered the bull. He thinks that had not the boy been caught in the branches of the tree the bull might have killed him before he could have come to the rescue.

DENFELD JUNIOR WARDEN.

Duluthian Chosen Fourth Highest Officer By State Masons.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 20.—Concluding one of the most successful and largest in point of attendance of any lodge of grand lodge meeting ever held within the state, the annual communication of the grand lodge of Minnesota, A. F. & A. M., was brought to a close late yesterday afternoon.

Most of the time was spent in considering the report of Past Grand Master William A. Patton of Duluth.

Following are the new officers elected: Elmer A. Kling, Little Falls, grand master; Owen Morris, St. Paul, deputy grand master; W. Hayes Laird, Winona, senior grand warden; Robert E. Denfeld, Duluth, junior grand warden; David W. Knowlton, Minneapolis, grand treasurer, and John Fishel, St. Paul, grand secretary.

TO TRY MOELLER AGAIN.

North Dakota Physician Alleged to Have Caused Woman's Death.

Minot, N. D., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ward county term of the district court will open here next Tuesday with the newly appointed Judge Leighton presiding. The calendar is a long one. The most important case to be tried is that of the State vs. Dr. Thor Moeller of this city, charged with second degree murder. The case received wide publicity at the previous trial when the doctor was convicted. The prosecution resulted when is was learned that Miss Gina Llen, a music teacher, had died as the result of a criminal operation. Both Moeller and one Dale, with whom Miss Llen came to Minot were arrested, tried and convicted. Moeller appealed his case to the supreme court and a re-trial was ordered.

BUILDING BIG SCOWS.

For Great Lakes Dredging Company at Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, Ont., Jan. 20.—Although neither the Dunelm nor the Trevor will be placed in the Western Dry Dock company's graving dock this winter, still this does not mean that there will not be any work carried on at the ship building plant.

It is said that quite a force of men will be engaged at the plant this winter. It is stated that two large steel scows and probably a tug will be built.

Although nothing definite can be learned, it has been stated that the two scows will be the largest built for the Great Lakes Dredging company. They will be of the latest design. The work on these will be commenced almost imediately. The tug to be built will be a duplicate of the Whalen.

The shipbuilding plant is now about ready to start the work and just as soon as possible a number of men will be engaged on scows and tug.

The work of building the boats for the lake trade will be started, it is said, next summer.

WOULD POSTPONE TAKING EFFECT OF THE TREATY.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Jan. 20.—On behalf of the commercial fishermen of the Lake Superior and St. Mary river district, Attorney George McCallum of this city has enlisted the aid of Representative Young and Senator William Alden Smith in an effort to postpone the taking effect of the proposed international fishing treaty between the United States and Canada.

Senator Smith has promised to do his best to prevent the treaty going into effect until Jan. 1, 1912.

The fishermen of these districts have large amounts of money invested in apparatus, which would be rendered worthless under the treaty, and many of them, it is said, would be financially ruined if not given more time to make the required changes in equipment.

WOMAN'S REALM.

Minnesota women are beginning to take notice of woman's suffrage. That is, they have begun. The fever has reached them and for some time the movement has been growing and gaining strength in this state.

During the last few months women in St. Paul and Minneapolis and other club women of the state have been doing all they can to bring about equal suffrage and senators and representatives say that a number of women are doing very earnest and persistent "lobbuying" at the state capitol.

Duluth women have not taken up the woman's suffrage banner let, though there are a number of women who are enthusiastic over it. But they have been using their influence as far as possible to control the passage of acts and bills in the legislature on which they have decided opinions. A bill which they now have under consideration although they have taken no definite action against it is the Denegre bill which if passed will repeal the law requiring the signature of the wife in the transfer of property. The women will hardly give up this right without a fight and the women's clubs all over the state are now considering the matter.

The national bill to create a bureau of public health is being fought by men and women alike all over the state and there has been some activity among Duluth women on this matter and through their efforts large lists of signers to the Medical Freedom league, which is a large organization, whose purpose is to oppose the passing of this bill, have been obtained among Duluth women.

Rhyme and Reason

By FRANK L. STANTON.

Let the Light Come In.

If the joy o' livin' you're wantin' for to win,
Throw the doors an' windows wide—
let the light come in.

Solemn are the shadows—
Shadows o' the night;
Hear the birds a-singin'—
Singin' in the light.

Trouble will not tarry—fix her wings for flight,
If she finds you're livin'—livin' in the light.

Farewell to the shadows
Darkening on the way.
When you are a brother
To the break o' day.

Household Economy

To Preserve a Silk Skirt.

Do not choose a silk dress that has much dressing in it, as it cuts much more quickly.

Do not fold it in a box or chest of drawers, as the dresses will quickly cut. Hang it by straps attached to the waistband.

Put a silk skirt on a narrow band; pulling it on a drawstring, besides giving greater bulk, cuts the material.

Do not save a taffeta petticoat It will very possibly cut from hanging too long in the cupboard, so it might as well be worn.

A Flannel Dressing Gown.

No woman's wardrobe is complete without a comfortable dressing gown which, for the autumn and winter, should be made of nice soft flannel material. The simpler the dressing gown the better—absence of tucks and frills being desirable. The gown should be cut quite loose-fitting and allowance made for any possible shrinkage of material after washing. The neck is cut square and is devoid of collar, a band of embroidery taking the place of the latter. The embroidery is continued down the front of the gown, and is repeated on the wide-mouthed sleeves. It is needless, perhaps, to suggest any of the new plain or fancy Pyrenees flannels for the making up of the dressing gown; they are soft and warm and excellent for the purpose. Were the gown intended as an invalid's robe rather than as a dressing gown, cashmere would be highly suitable, in such colors as pale blue, coral pink, heliotrope, or bright navy blue.

Hints for the Boudoir

By MILDRED WYCKOFF.

Care of the Teeth.

There is a right and wrong way of performing the simplest task—even many who are most particular in matters of cleanliness are not careful to use the toothbrush night and morning. Many yet fail in using the brush properly, and thus render their efforts to a great extent valueless.

The tooth brush should be used briskly and firmly, and the back of the teeth as well as the front should feel its touch. This is a point neglected by a great many who are, nevertheless, scrupulously clean.

A Beauty Hint.

It is no unusual thing for the figure to sink in rather unbecomingly between the arms and the bust, and in cases such as this it is advisable to introduce little pads of cotton wool covered with Japanese silk, or sarcenet, into the coat or bodice worn, securing the pads in the position required to improve the appearance of the figure.

* * *

Failing Hair.

"Could you give me advice to stop hair failing?" asks Eunice.

It often happens that hair falls considerably at this time of the year, but you must continue to give it a good brushing night and morning. If you apply a little cocoanut oil to the roots, and massage it well in at night three times a week, you will soon notice an improvement in the condition.

Constant Blushing.

"Could you give me advice for constant blushing?" asks Nellie.

You will probably outgrow this habit as you get older, and must go into company as much as possible. Bathe your face with rosewater, and powder with equal parts of starch and boracic powder if you get very flushed, as this will soothe the skin.

The Doctor

Bleeding From the Nose.

In the case of young people bleeding from the nose, or epistaxis, is sometimes of frequent occurrence. If the patient is well and hearty it is not all a serious matter, and needs no treatment, in fact, it very often relieves headache. When it comes on it is a mistake to lean down over a basin as is very usually done, with the head as low as the neck will allow, or to encourage the flow of blood by blowing the nose. In this, as in any other cases of hemorrhage, the first thing is to raise the bleeding part as high as possible, so that the head should be held well back. Instead of blowing the nose, sniff gently and merely dab the escaping blood with a cloth. A blood vessel being overcharged, has burst, and nature is trying to close it with a clot of the blood, so that by blowing the nose you are simply frustrating nature's efforts and prolonging the time that will elapse before the bleeding stops. If this does not soon occur, the nostrils should be plugged with a piece of cotton wool soaked in a 7 per cent solution of common salts.

Care of the Teeth.

An eminent authority on teeth says that if the mouth was thoroughly washed out at night and the teeth rubbed with very fine precipitated chalk just before retiring, there would not be one case of decaying teeth and receding gums where there are now four.

* * *

Good Ideas.

Table linen should be ironed with heavy irons until perfectly dry to look well.

Household brushes last much longer if washed regularly. Remember that they should never be allowed to rest on the bristles.

Receptacles for cut flowers should be neutral in color and in shape follow the main lines of the flowers. When highly colored fanciful shapes are used the beauty of harmony is destroyed.

THE EVENING STORY

MISUNDERSTOOD

By William Randall.

Wind clouds driven by wore streaming high up across a gray-green sky, but the thatch hardly lifted on the roof of the duck decoy. David Baldwin straightened his figure, bent with years of crouching behind the breast works and eyed the wide bay, whose pinkish flats were hardly covered by the incoming tide. The water was opaque and sullen, and the roar of it, on the outer edge of the bar, was very heavy for this period of the tide. Not a bird was in the air nor a duck in sight on the water. "A good storm's coming," he said, and walked back down the covered way to the little wicket gate at the north.

From here his vision could command the length of the shining bar, lying like a huge monster asleep. He rested his arms on the top of the gate and waited. Half a mile to the north a black spot topped the dome and ran down to the shingle on its western side. His expression was not one of pleasure. He watched the figure of his son walking in the lee of the ridge with an almost hostile intentness. Every Saturday afternoon the boy came to the decoy with his father's mail, and on each occasion Baldwin watched for him at the gate with the same parental air.

As the boy came staggering up, Baldwin swung the gate behind him, and silently led the way into the shack.

"It's rough on me that I should have a son like you, Fred. There ain't one ounce of sporting spirit in you. You don't know a goose from a duck, and you couldn't hit either if you was sitting on that fence."

"Do you mean you think I'm a coward, dad?" said Fred.

His father tossed the letter he was reading upon the table and stalked to the cupboard to prepare their humble meal.

When supper was over and the dishes put away, Baldwin went out to feed the ducks. As he opened the door a whirl of snow blew into the room, and the uproar within made Fred catch his breath, it was so furious. He had half a mind to follow his father, but presently Baldwin returned white from head to foot and breathing deep.

"This is a storm," he said.

He took off his coat and heavy shoes, and stretched himself comfortably on the lower bunk. The boy likewise prepared to "turn in" for the night.

Sleep was a long time in coming, and it was not a steady slumber when it came. To Fred the storm sounded more dangerous each time he woke. Something struck the end of the shack a crushing blow that caused the structure to lurch. As Fred started up in his bunk, one leg swinging free, chill water poured down.

He bounded out and groped for his father, calling. Another solid blow fell; a corner of the roof sagged, and a great body of water rushed in.

His father was up, standing in ankle-deep water, before Fred could call again. He gripped the boy by the arm.

"Are we swamped?" he said. "We must get out of this."

They waited, listening to the growl of the great waves as they rolled with increasing noise and speed across the beach. Two had gone before it and spent themselves against the dune. But Baldwin knew from the thunderous par that this one would leap the ridge of sand, and just as it struck he thrust the boy through the dorway and pulled down against the rear of the dune.

A hissing wall of water jetted over them, and the already shaken little house surged from its bed and slid down the beach with a crackling of timbers.

"Can we get out?" asked Fred.

"Go for the boat," his father said. "Maybe we can make the pines in her. We can't stay here."

They ran through the wind to the cove, where the boat lay. A gust of wind blew them into her helter-skelter, and before they could ship the oars, they were out, swooping dizzily, on the bay. A cross wave caught the frail craft, turned her turtle, and threw father and son into the sea.

Fred had one manly accomplishment, at least. He could swim like a duck. Up he came, striking out well, in time to see the bottom of the boat fade away in the gloom.

His eyes searched the broken water for his father, and presently he saw his head and one raised arm close to him. His father perceived him at the same instant. A few strokes brought them together.

"Come on, dad; we're not far out! We'll walk to the Pines."

"Walk!" Baldwin groaned. The water was close to his lips. "My leg's hurt, go if you can."

Fred pressed back resolutely the fear that assailed him, "Put one hand on my shoulder. We can make it."

Linked together, the two lost much of their buoyancy. The combs of the waves driven by the wind, beat in their faces. Often they could not rise with the quick swells, and went through them, choked and bufeted. The pressure on Fred's shoulder grew heavier. His stroke lagged, the muscles of his thighs cramped, he held his face determinedly towards the bar, and fought forward with an unbeaten spirit. And at last his foot, dropped at a venture, touched hard sand.

As they staggered through the shallows, Baldwin limping on his wrenched leg, a wave swept over the bar, and in the rush of seething water about their knees they were for a moment in danger of being carried again into the bay.

"I can't reach the Pines," said Baldwin, "but there's no other place to try for."

The surf was leaping the bar along its whole length. Out of the gloom in which Fred and his father walked would come a great flare of silver and a roar that drowned the sound of the wind. Twice they were caught, and twice Fred pulled his father, lame and spent, from the grasp of the water. The heart of the boy rose to meet the demand upon his courage.

Baldwin realized, and was ashamed yet proud. He was not a strong swimmer at the best, and the wrenched leg was almost useless, but he would not acknowledge again that he was beaten. He wanted to win through and show this boy of his that he had misunderstood him.

They reached the sunken area, beyond which rose the low bluffs crowned with the stunted pines from which they took their name. The water ran through in a wild ribbon. But the surf was breaking also where they stood with an increasing violence.

"Come on, dad!" shouted Fred. "I can see the trees!"

They chose what seemed a propitious moment and, splashing in, began the fight with the chill current. Half way over Baldwin gave out.

"Hang on, dad! I can make it!"

Swept almost beyond the bluffs, they made the bayside slope at last. Fred caught at the tough beach grass whipping in the wind, and clung to it until his breath came to him more easily. A few steps and they were on the bare sand. They crawled up the loose slope and under the roof of the little matted grove.

"We're safe here at last," said the boy. "We made it, didn't we?"

The father did not answer. He reached out and grasped his son's hand. And the silence spoke more eloquently than words.

ON THE IRON RANGES

VIRGINIA STRONG FOR NEW COUNTY

But Eveleth Commercial Club Goes on Record Opposing Division.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald)—The Commercial club last night listened to stirring speeches in advocacy of the proposed division of St. Louis county, making Virginia the county seat, and plans were discussed for entertaining the delegates expected here next Monday from other range towns to discuss the subject. It is expected that nearly 200 people will come here for the meeting.

The meeting will be given at noon Monday, at Hawkinson hall. After a dinner given by the local people, business sessions will be held. A committee consisting of Mayor Hawkinson, Alderman Michael Boylan, Judge J. H. Fleming, A. N. Thompson, W. R. Byrne and J. R. Krogdahl was appointed to visit the business, professional and mining men and urge upon them the necessity of turning out to the big meet next Monday.

Secretary W. J. Archer reported that the club's membership had increased largely since the movement for county division had been launched and that now the club had a membership of something over 200.

At a meeting of the delegates next Monday it is expected that a bill will be drafted asking the state legislature to amend the law so that a special election to vote on the proposition of dividing the county can be held. As the law now stands a proposition of this nature must be voted upon at general elections, but as the next general election will not be held until 1912, the meeting next Monday is expected to ask that it be amended so as to allow for a special election, which the Commercial club plan to have held some time during the coming summer.

Eveleth Club Opposes Scheme.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald)—At the annual meeting of the Eveleth Commercial club last evening, the following officers were unanimously elected: J. C. Poole, president; John J. Gleason, vice president; George A. Perham, second vice president; Morris Nathanson, third vice president; John P. Tredinnick, secretary; Ralph M. Cornwall, treasurer.

Retiring Secretary Fred E. Lister, who will soon remove to Virginia was made an honorary member of the club, and in his speech of thanks he informed the members that he would still co-operate with the local organization.

After hearing County Commissioner Neil McInnis, and Dr. C. W. More, a member of the county poor board, the club went on record as opposing county division, and in answer to a communication from the Virginia Commercial club requesting that three members be sent to the county division meeting at Virginia, Monday, George A. Perham, John Glode and James Floyd, were appointed and instructed to present the sentiment of the Evelethians against the movement.

County Commissioner McInnis informed the meeting that there was also some talk of dividing the present county up into three sections, making a county seat of Hibbing as well as Virginia, also that he understood the mining companies were opposed to the division on the grounds that it would lessen the influence of this section in state affairs. Dr. More spoke of the many details and funds required by a new county, and expressed his opinion that the matter should be submitted to the voters.

The dues of the club were fixed at $5 per year. A public affairs committee of nine that are to be elected in April was also created. A new constitution providing for nine committees was adopted.

A communication setting forth the importance of interest in a mining school on the range at the state university was read, and a committee of three, George A. Perham, County Mine Inspector W. H. Harvey and Burton O. Greening appointed to investigate the matter.

CATARRH

A SYSTEMIC BLOOD DISEASE

Catarrh is not merely an affection of the mucous membranes; it is a deep-seated blood disease in which the entire circulation and greater part of the system are involved. It is more commonly manifested in the head, nose and throat, because of the sensitive nature of these membranes, and also because they are more easily reached by irritating influences from the outside. The symptoms of Catarrh, such as a tight feeling in the head, nose stopped up, throat clogged and dry, hacking cough, etc., show that the tiny blood vessels of the mucous membranes are badly congested and inflamed from the impurities in the circulation. To cure Catarrh permanently the blood must be purified and the system cleansed of all unhealthy matter. Nothing equals S. S. S. for this purpose. It attacks the disease at its head, goes down to the bottom of the trouble and makes a complete and lasting cure by PURIFYING the blood. Then the inflamed membranes begin to heal, the head is cleared, breathing becomes natural and easy, the throat is no longer clogged, and every unpleasant symptom of the disease disappears. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and for this reason is the most certain cure for Catarrh. Book on Catarrh and medical advice free to all who write.

BOY DETECTIVE GETS EVIDENCE

Eveleth Boy, Angered at Blindpiggers for Giving Father Drink, Routs Them.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Michael Lopech, one of the many Austrian boardinghousekeepers in the Adams location, who were recently tried for blindpigging and found guilty, and who has been out under $100 bonds, paid his fine of $50 and costs. He is the fourth of the seven alleged blindpiggers who were tried by Judge Prince, who have already paid their fines. Two are still being held, while the case against the seventh, Michael Blazovich, has been dismissed because of conflicting testimony.

The cases against all the boardinghouse-keepers were instituted through the efforts of Carl Falkenberg, a 16-year-old lad, who claims his father was ruined by the alleged blindpiggers giving him drink. The boy, in company with two other minors, visited the homes of the indicted boardinghousekeepers, secured evidence against them and then presented it to the city authorities who prosecuted the cases.

FAMOUS BUYCK CASE ON AGAIN

Action Against Bondsmen of Treasurer Who Went Short to Be Tried.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are 103 cases scheduled for trial at the district court beginning here Tuesday, the largest number of any term since the range court was established. Eighty cases are for trial by jury, eleven court cases and twelve divorce actions. Thirty-three jury cases, five court cases and one divorce action were continued from last term.

The grand jury will convene in the forenoon Tuesday and it is said that there will be considerable work for that body to act upon.

Beginning with this term the petit jury will not assemble until the first Monday after the first Tuesday upon which the court is by law to convene. When it convenes the court will sit to call the calendar, to receive the report of the grand jury, to hear motions, divorce cases, and any and all other matters submitted to the court without a jury until the day of the assembling of the petit jury, except Saturday.

The first jury case on the calendar is the famous case of the Town of Buyck against the Bankers' Surety company. The Bankers' Surety company gave bonds for Hippolyte Buyck, former treasurer of the Town of Buyck, and who it is alleged was short $20,000 of the town's money. There are also a large number of personal injury cases scheduled for trial at this term and which suits involve thousands of dollars, as well as many other important cases which will keep the court and jury busy for several weeks.

Baking Helps

Valuable Suggestions

By Mrs. Nevada Briggs, Exponent of the Art of Baking, as taught by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill

Helpful Cake Making Hints

Always sift flour and K C Baking Powder at least three times. The more sifting, the lighter the cake. Remember that! To cream butter and sugar quickly, warm the sugar slightly. Beat yolks of eggs with rotary beater. Whip whites of eggs with flat spoon whip. Water makes lighter cakes; milk makes richer cakes.

To mix a cake, first cream butter and sugar thoroughly, then add yolks, if used. Then alternately add moisture and flour that has been sifted with baking powder and stir until smooth and glossy, adding egg whites after thoroughly mixing.

Always use K C Baking Powder.

Biscuit Helps

Always sift flour and K C Baking Powder at least three times.

Have shortening cold and firm. Mix dough as soft as it can be handled. The softer dough goes into the oven, the lighter the biscuit when it comes out. It is easier for K C Baking Powder to do its work in soft than in stiff dough. Mix biscuits very little. Do not knead. Stir up with spoon or knife and press in shape to roll on floured board

With K C Baking Powder results are sure and certain. Ask your grocer for K C.

CLUB AGAINST PARCELS POST

Tower Organization Circulating Petitions Against Congress Enacting Measure.

Tower, Minn., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a special meeting of the Commercial club last evening the communication of the Virginia Commercial club on county division was considered and the chair appointed W. H. McQuade, J. D. Murphy and G. D. Tizer as delegates to the meeting to be held at Virginia Monday.

Another petition was also ordered circulated for signatures asking congress to refrain from passing a bill for the establishing of a parcels post it being considered detrimental to the country merchants while of advantage to the great mail order houses which are such fierce competitors of the country merchants.

Other communications were left for the secretary to handle to the best advantage and others were tabled.

The meeting was well attended and was presided over by Prof. Cartwright, superintendent of schools, as both president and vice president are temporarily absent from the city.

MITCHELL BUSY PLACE.

Lots of Freight Being Handled in Yards Near Hibbing.

Mitchell, Minn., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—More business is being done here and more freight of all kinds handled this year than during any previous winter, the average daily being in the neighborhood of 120 cars handled at this point. Twenty-nine cars of freight or general merchandise consigned exclusively to Hibbing merchants passed through here yesterday. About forty cars of logs are being handled daily and seven or eight cars of lagging for the mines in the vicinity. Contrary to the general impression that much of the timber cut this winter would be found to be of an inferior quantity, it is proving quite up to the usual standard and in some cases better, while the fine condition of the logging roads adjacent to the loading tracks makes the work easy and more profitable than for many years past. The logging crews are larger than usual, and this gives employment to many of the miners that are laid off for the cold weather. Nearly twice as many trains and switching crews are being kept working this year than during the previous winter.

WILL PRACTICE STRICT ECONOMY

County Board Adopts a Conservative Policy for the Ensuing Year.

A policy of strict economy will be carried out to the letter by the Douglas county board the coming year. This course was decided upon yesterday at a meeting of the board members.

The treasurer's report show that the total receipts for the year to be $438,404.07, and the disbursements $363,904.95. The cash on hand in the county treasury, Jan. 1, 1911, was $74,489.10.

The board decided to adopt a piece of road extending from Wentworth to Poplar, paralleling the Northern Pacific right-of-way, as a part of the county highway system.

The board decided to pay bounty money for hawks, gophers and crows. The county will pay 25 cents a head for hawks, 20 cents for gophers, and 15 cents for crows.

Supervisor Keup of the Town of Superior yesterday stated that a meeting of the settlers and the taxpayers of the town had been called for Feb. 28, when action would be taken on certain road and bridge matters.

The settlers plan to build a steel bridge over the Nemadji river on the Black River Falls road, near Boyleston. The petition asking that the county make an appropriation to cover the cost of the erection of the bridge was turned down when presented by Supervisor Keup yesterday. He stated that in all probability the settlers there would build it themselves.

Lower Courts Prohibited From Meddling With New County.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lower courts are prohibited from interfering with the organization of Pennington county, a part of Red Lake county set off at the fall election.

The supreme coprt in an opinion this morning discussed the conflict of statutes which cover the appeal of cases involving the result of votes by the people, and decided that in this case the court of the Fourteenth district has no jurisdiction. The order asked for by the Pennington county people for a writ prohibiting further action is sustained.

A resolution was introduced in the senate memorializing congress that coolies be kept out of this country when the new treaties are made with Japan and China, and the house adopted a resolution asking that all undesirable foreigners be barred from the United States.

WHEAT HAS RECESSION

Values Slide When Little Bolders Liquidate—Market Is Nervous.

Winter Wheat Gets Beneficial Moisture in Scattered Areas—Flax Off.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 20.—Wheat declined today after a nervous session. The Minneapolis and Chicago July deliveries led in the downturn and helped to tilt the scales against the May bulls. There was some liquidation from the little bulls, but the big fellows are reported to be standing pat. Precipitation has been general in Oklahoma, rain or snow is predicted for Missouri and wheat in Kansas and Nebraska is declared by a competent authority to be in a seasonable condition. The recession was pronounced after noon, values sliding precipitately. Foreign crops are reported to be improving. Rains have fallen in Argentina, but this factor is of more importance in corn than in wheat. A prominent element of weakness was the soft cash position in the Northwest.

May wheat declined ¾c and July slumped ¾c. Cash was 1c under May. Oats, rye and barley were unchanged. Durum declined ¾c.

May flaxseed lost 2½c. There were a few sales to arrive. A sale for May delivery was made at $2.69. La Plata seed for January-February shipment was quoted at $2.262 at Antwerp, an advance of about 2c since yesterday.

Wheat opened strong on higher cables, but quickly fell on selling from a few bears. The market got needed support, however, from the bulls and the shorts ran quickly when they saw the guiding hand appear, although news generally was bearish.

Cables were up when shorts covered on account of lighter Argentine shipments, and an improved demand for spot wheat. The continental demand for wheat was improved. World's shipments will be comparatively light, amounting to 8,400,000 bu, exclusive of North America, according to Broomhall's estimate.

The world's situation is slightly more bearish than a few days ago. Sellers are pressing wheat for sale in foreign markets, offers from Canada and Australia being more liberal. Offerings from Russia continue moderate and the crop in the Southwest is looking better.

Precipitation was predicted today for Missouri, but a cold wave will strike Kansas and Nebraska tonight. Predictions of colder weather in the Southwest caused a firmer tone in wheat toward noon. The Modern Miller says that in most parts of the Southwest where drouth prevailed rains have fallen. Oklahoma reports beneficial precipitation. Elsewhere, says the report, moisture has been general with a snow covering in the northern part of the winter wheat territory. Most reports, says the Modern Miller, indicate the wheat to be in a seasonable condition.

The cash markets in the Northwest were easy, which caused the initial decline at the leading Northwestern cash market, resulting in a systematic recession of prices at Chicago before the bulls came to the support of the market. Sales to arrive from the Northwestern interior are more liberal. The firmness in the markets later in the day was partly induced by reports of a better flour trade. The demand is not urgent, but buyers are showing less indifference and are coming into the market for small lots. A larger volume of new business is being booked. A Minneapolis mill did some export business yesterday to Cuba. The feed market is strong. Receipts in the Northwestern primary markets continue small.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—The wheat market at the opening was firm and ½d higher. The heaviness in America was offset by the light Argentine shipments to the United Kingdom and reports covered, following the opening there was very light offers and with large buying here of March by a large firm this month advanced another ⅞d with May ½d higher. There was an improved demand for spot and cargoes were light and more firmly held with an improved demand. Toward mid-day there was some little disposition shown to take profits on the extreme advance and prices lost ⅛d to ¼d. Manitoba offers were freer and the demand for cargoes showed some abatement. At this time the market was nervous and firm with prices ½d to ¾d higher than yesterday. The corn market opened ⅛d higher for Plate grade while American was unchanged. The strength was due to light shipments from Argentina and the steadiness in American cables. The market on the whole was dull and following the opening prices remained unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Quick Scalping the Rule of the Day in Wheat Pit.

Chicago, Jan. 20. — Quick scalping was the rule today in the wheat pit. The crowd bought early and then turned sellers on the resulting bulge. These tactics were aided by the fact that the Liverpool market showed a rise due to the lightness of Argentine shipments for the United Kingdom. On the other hand mild weather in the American winter belt afforded a reason for not staying too long with the bulls. The opening was ¼@½c higher with May covering the extreme range at $1.01⅛@1.01⅞. A decline to $1.00⅞ followed.

Buying became rather free aagin because closing Liverpool cables showed strength, but the market suddenly dropped after news of shut-down of Minneapolis flour mills. The close was weak, with May ½c net lower at $1.00⅜.

Farmers were not selling corn freely and commission house demand was sufficiently brisk to make the market firm. May opened ½ to ½@⅝c up to 50⅜ to 50⅝@50½c, reacting later to 50¼c.

Insufficient rain in Argentina helped to strengthen the market till wheat turned weak late in the day. The close was easy, with May a shade net lower at 50@50⅛c.

Oats, although very dull, improved a trifle with corn. May started ⅛@¼c higher at 34⅞@35c, ut fell back to 34⅞c.

Provisions were easy because of lower prices for hogs. First sales went 5c to 12½c under last night's figures. May options being disposed of at $15.80 for pork, $9.95 for lard and $9.95@9.97½ for ribs.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

General Selling Movement During the Morning Causes Downward Trend.

Buying Orders in Copper Stocks Produce Advance Towards Close.

New York, Jan. 20.—With few exceptions prices at the opening to the stock market today indicated an irregular tone. Canadian Pacific declined 2⅛. American Smelting ⅛ and Union Pacific ⅜ and United States Steel ¼. Northern Pacific, Reading and Tennessee Copper improved fractionally.

Under the influence of a brisk movement prices yielded sharply in the early trading. Chesapeake & Ohio, Norfolk & Western, Amalgamated Copper and United States Steel lost a point below yesterday's close. Offerings at the lower level were absorbed readily and there was a partial recovery, Northern Pacific leading with an overnight gain of a point.

The trend of prices on the stock exchange was downward, in response to a general selling movement which was continued throughout the morning. Sentiment was mixed, though professional traders were inclined to be bearish and to weaken the market further with short selling. St. Paul was today ready on the belief that there would be no reduction at present of dividend rates. In stock exchange circles the feeling that there would be no immediate betterment in Norfolk & Western dividends caused that stock to lose some of its recent gains. Notable strength was shown by a large number of inactive industrials and specialties, including North American, National Biscuit, International Harvester and Tennessee Copper. Bonds were steady.

The market closed steady. Buying orders were distributed in the copper stocks and there was an immediate response, Tennessee Copper gaining 2¾, American Smelting and National Lead 1 and Amalgamated Copper and Utah Copper a large fraction. Better conditions were noted in the general market also, but there was not much demand for the railroad list.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case, Alworth building.

DULUTHIANS WHO ARE DOING "THINGS WORTH WHILE"

Lieut. Charles Wilcox of the West Duluth Police and His Work Among the Children.

LIEUT. WILCOX.

The "kids" at West Duluth think a lot of Lieut. Charles Wilcox, who is in charge of the police station at that end of the city. And that's because the lieutenant thinks just as much of the "kids."

Lieut. Wilcox has the welfare of the youngsters in his part of the town at heart. He not only talks to them and for them, but he does everything within his power to make things pleasant for them. Last summer he made a big hit when he started the swimming pool at a favorable spot on the bay front. It was a success from start to finish. It was greatly appreciated, and this was shown by the fact that scarcely ever did any of the dozens who made use of it fail to observe the simple regulations laid down for their own safety.

Everybody knows, or ought to know, that "boys will be boys." Nobody knows it better than the genial West Duluth lieutenant. Only in extreme cases, when no other steps will suffice, is he harsh with juvenile offenders who come under his jurisdiction. He's a juvenile court all by himself. He has a rare faculty of winning the boys' confidences. With all the facts in his possession he "puts it up to them," as to whether or not they have done wrong. Almost invariably the youthful transgressor will confess that he should have done differently, if he feels that he has strayed from the straight and narrow path. The lieutenant gives all of them a chance and has accomplished results.

But it's not only with the kids that Lieut. Wilcox is popular. He is frequently the arbiter in family difficulties. West Duluth has its quota of domestic troubles and a considerable share of them are carried to the lieutenant. He generally takes the couple into his private office and handles them in much the same manner that he does the youngsters, as to getting the facts and learning who is to blame. He talks hard, common sense to them, such as they can understand without going to the dictionary, and nine times out of ten he sends them on their way with their differences patched up.

Lieut. Wilcox is a "daddy" to the "kids," a peacemaker to the adults and the guardian of the peace to the citizens of West Duluth. Besides that he is one of the most efficient police officers on the local force.

McCLEARY GETS NEW POSITION

Elected Secretary of American Iron and Steel Institute.

New York, Jan. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—James T. McCleary former member of congress from Minnesota and assistant attorney general, has been elected secretary of the American Iron and Steel Institute, with headquarters in New York city. Commenting on the Institute and its work, Mr. McCleary said:

"More and more in this country the people are ruling its affairs directly. Whether this rule shall be wise or unwise will depend largely on the extent and the truthfulness of the information possessed by the people.

"Many of the wiser and farther seeing of the captains of industry, having faith that the vast majority of our people desire that justice and fair dealing shall prevail, have concluded that in the management of large business enterprises, semi-public in character, safety for all concerned lies in telling the people about the condition and the conduct of the enterprises. Among those who are acting on this principle are the leading spirits in the iron and steel industry. They are endeavoring to deal with each other, with their respective stockholders, with the public and with the government, in the spirit of absolute frankness.

"To the end that full and exact information may at all times be available, the American Iron and Steel Institute has been organized. I feel honored in having been selected as its secretary, upon whom chiefly falls the responsibility for prepraring the data."

WOULD HOLD UP ROYALTIES

District Court Invoked By Minneapolis Woman to Restrain Payments.

Asking an injunction to restrain the Oliver Iron Mining company, Van Buren Mining company, Rogers Iron Mining company and Shenango Iron Mining company from paying royalties now due the Blue Ore Mining company, Katherine I. McDonald and D. C. Bell, guardian of Marguerite and Dorothy McDonald, have started proceedings in the district court against the companies named and Michael W. McDonald.

Mr. McDonald is an officer in the Blue Ore Minng company and the Chicago Ore company, according to the complaint. In September, Mrs. McDonald brought an action for divorce and also filed several actions for the recovery of stock, the proceedings being instituted in the district court of Hennepin county.

The plaintiffs in the action filed today allege that the different actions filed previously were dropped as a result of a stipulation between the parties, under which Mrs. McDonald and the two children were to receive certain money and property, the Northwestern Trust company of Chicago being the trustee. It is alleged that Mr. McDonald has failed to keep his part of the agreement and the action filed today is intended to hold up the payment of rayalties until some agreement can be reached by the parties or the stipulation carried out.

MANY ACTIONS BASED ON FIRE

About 100 People Claim Damages From Iron Range Railroad.

One of about 100 cases which are pending against the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company as a result of a fire which swept through the Knox location on the range, June 9 of last year, is on trial before Judge Ensign and a jury in district court.

The action now on trial was brought by Angus Goddard, who claims that his household goods were destroyed by the fire, and he asks $750 damages.

The basis of the actions is the allegation that the railroad company allowed combustible material to accumulate along the right of way and the failure of the company to have adequate spark arresters on its locomotives was responsible for the starting of the fire which swept through the location.

Thirty-six cases growing out of the fire have already been filed in district court and it is said about 100 in all will be filed, the total amount of damages claimed being in the neighborhood of $300,000.

SOLDIER WAS POOR HUSBAND

Mrs. Olga Sharpley Says Short Married Life Was Unhappy.

Harry S. Sharpley, a soldier in the regular army, didn't make a very satisfactory husband, according to the complaint filed by Mrs. Olga Sharpley in a divorce action instituted in district court today. She says they were married at Vancouver, Wash., Aug. 3, 1909, and he deserted her Dec. 1 of the same year. While they lived together, he often threatend to kill her she alleges, and shortly after her marriage she was forced to go to work as a domestic in order to support herself, as her husband would not contribute to her support. She is 20 years old and her husband is 21. She asks a divorce and custody of the one child.

GUN CLUB GIVES BALL.

Very Successful Social Affair Is Held at the Armory.

Last evening the Northwestern Gun club of this city, one of the largest clubs of its kind in the country, gave its fourth annual ball at the Armory, the spacious drill floor of the big building being completely filled by the dancers. It is estimated that there were nearly 300 couples on the floor.

Never has the club given such a successful entertainment as the ball of last night proved to be. It was larger than its three predecessors and shows the growth of the club and the added interest that is being taken in its social features.

George Kreager, John Wold, F. Heldman, J. Patchkowski, and Bert Jeroninus, members of the arrangement committee, were given much credit for the success of the affair.

Between dances members of the club discussed the coming summer shooting season, which is expected to be the most successful in the history of the organization. Many members have joined the club since the close of the shooting last fall, and with the prospect of a tournament here the coming season, interest in trap shooting has increased.

OLOF'S HOPES WILL NOT BE REALIZED.

Olof Lindberg, who said yesterday that he got drunk so that he could be sent to the county jail to help hang the boy bandits who have been indicted for the murder of Patrolman Harry A. Chesmore, entered a plea of guilty in police court this morning.

But he will probably be disappointed, as he got only five days on the hill and unless he keeps on getting drunk and being sent to the county bastile, he will not see a realization of his hopes.

Olof stated yesterday that he thought the new sheriff had not been on the job long enough to properly conduct a hanging and was willing to give him the benefit of his experience, acquired in many sojourns back of the bars of the county institution.

APPEALS FROM AWARD OF COMMISSIONERS.

The appeal of Nestor Wittila from the award of the commissioners who appraised his land taken in condemnation proceedings by the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railway company, went to a jury in Judge Dibell's court room in district court this afternoon.

Wittila's land is in Section 30, 49-15, near Short Line park. The commissioners awarded him $743 for the land taken by the railway company, but he claims he was damaged to a much greater extent and the jury will determine the extent of his damages.

PROSPERITY WAITS ON RAILROAD RATES.

Increased prosperity in the lumber steel, iron and other lines waits on settlement of pending controversies over railroad freight rates, according to Hugh McLean, Jr., a member of the lumber firm of McLean Bros., of North Tonawanda. He is here with E. L. Vandervoort of the lumber firm of Smith, Fassett & Co. Lumber stocks at Buffalo and Tonawanda are larger than usual at this time of the year, he said, and business is quiet, but he is hopeful of an early upturn and says the public is confident that the railroad rates will be equitably adjusted, but prefers to await the fact rather than to anticipate it.

STATE TAX COMMISSION DISCUSSES TAXING OF MINES AND MINERALS

Figures Showing Increase in Valuations of the Iron Properties.

Gain of $160,183,436 or 248 Per Cent in Four Years.

Says Methods Now Used Equitably Assess Iron Ore Deposits.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—In another section of its annual report, which precedes the complete annual report only by a short interval, the state tax commission discusses the taxation of mines and minerals and reservations of mineral rights.

The pamphlet goes extensively into a description of the three Minnesota iron ranges, the Vermilion, the Mesaba and the Cuyuna, and of the processes of exploring and mining, before proceeding to the essential feature of the report, the valuation of the iron mines for purposes of taxation.

On this point the report says in part: "One of the most important problems that confronted the tax commission when it was first created in 1907 was the valuation of mines and mineral properties for purposes of taxation. Prior to that time no definite method of ascertaining the quantity, quality or value of iron ore in any given description of land has been adopted by the state. The attempts of local assessors to value iron ore properties on the hit or miss plan often resulted in grave inequalities and were generally unsatisfactory to both mine owners and the state. The commission early realized the necessity of devising some system of measuring values that would be fair to the state and the owners of mineral properties, and at the same time be so scientifically correct in principle as to admit of little dispute. * * * Having decided upon classifications and rates, the commission proceeded to list and classify the 2,116 different mines, mineral properties and prospects. The reports submitted by the mining companies and owners of iron properties in St. Louis and Itasca counties gave a total tonnage of 1,191,969,757 tons. The commission assessed the tonnage properties at $186,720,026, and acreage pros-

THINK ASSOCIATE HANGED THE BOY

Note Written With Chalk Found on Outside of Shack.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 21.—That little Foster Campbell, whose dead body was found hanging in a shack built by the boys of the neighborhood, met his death at the hands of a former playmate, is the opinion of the police. Yesterday they found on the outside of the shanty a misspelled note with chalk in childish characters as follows:

"Good-bie, Davel. (Signed) Loise H."

"Davel," the police believe, was intended by the writer of the note to mean "devil," and "Loise H" evidently was intended to convey the impression that Loise Herren, 7 years old, the closest friend of the dead lad, was responsible for his death and had scribbled the farewell.

It is the belief of the police that some older boy detected Foster Campbell tearing boards from the shack over which the children had been quarreling for several days and in order to frighten him knotted a rope about the little fellow's neck and tied the end to the rafter. The rope was drawn too tightly and death resulted from strangulation. Then, the police believe, in attempting to direct suspicion against the Herron child, the guilty boy wrote the "good-bye" note and fled.

JAPAN MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

Premier Congratulates Country on Greatly Increased Business.

Tokio, Jan. 21.—Premier Katsura, in introducing the budget for 1911-12 in the lower house today, congratulated the country on the greatly increased business reported during the last year. To the gain of 480,000,000 yen the manufacturing industries alone contributed 140,000,000. The premier said that an equal or even greater economic development might be expected in the coming year.

The budget figures have been revised since originally announced to make allowances for the appropriation of several million yen for the prevention of damage by floods. The totals are: Ordinary receipts, 492,000,000 yen; extraordinary receipts, 59,000,000 yen; ordinary expenditures, 407,000,000 yen; extraordinary expenditures, 144,000,000 yen.

This year's naval supplemental appropriation is 14,000,000 yen. During the next six years 274,000,000 yen will be used for railway improvements, including the reconstruction as a broad guage road of the line from Tokio to Shimoneski. The premier also outlined the government's plan for improvements in Korea.

AGREEMENT IS REACHED

American and Canadian Commissioners Arrange for Reciprocity.

Details for the Schedules Will Be Announced Later.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The American and Canadian reciprocity commissioners shortly after noon today began their last session of their treaty conference. All of the members were present and also Secretary Knox. They met behind closed doors at the state department. Shortly after an announcement was made that an agreement had been reached. A statement to the press will announce the basis of the understanding. It is not expected to include details of the schedules affected.

At the conclusion of the session the commissioners jointly issued the following statement which was all they could say in regard to the result of their undertaking:

"The negotiators have reached an understanding which, when certain formalities are completed will be made public at Washington and at Ottawa. It is thought this may be done next Thursday."

WEST INDIANS ARE PREPARING TO FIGHT

Port Au Prince, Haiti, Jan. 21.—Orders for the mobilization of the troops in the depuartment of the North have been issued. Meantime Haitian soldiers are hurrying to the Dominican frontier.

The republic is much wrought up, and a feeling that Haiti will be compelled to fight out its boundary dispute with Santo Domingo is prevalent.

COUNTY JAIL CROWDED AND INSANITARY

County Board Takes First Steps Toward Providing New Building.

Delays of Courts and Great Number of City Prisoners Commented Upon.

Board Will Investigate Conditions and Act at Next Meeting.

By the apointment of the entire membership of the board as a committee of the whole, with Joseph Cummings as chairman, to report at the February meeting on conditions at the county jail, the need for a new jail and the steps that should be taken for raising money for the new institution if the need for it was evident, the county board took initial steps this morning toward building a new jail for St. Louis county.

Incidentally, individual members of the board decried the crowded and insanitary conditions at the present jail and ascribed the failure of the city to maintain a workhouse for short term prisoners and the delays in disposing of cases in district court as reasons for these conditions.

"There may be reasons, but I cannot see them, for keeping prisoners in the county jail for months before trial and then for months and even years after trial, conviction and sentence," said Chairman Neil McInnis. "If criminal cases were disposed of with dispatch, we would not have such crowded conditions in the jail.

GEN. E. A. WILLIAMS
Of Burleigh County, N. D.

Blanket Raise of $500 in State's Attorneys' Salaries Proposed.

Registers of Deeds Also Claim Their Pay Is Inadequate.

Bill to Place All the Sheriffs on a Salary Basis.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nearly half a million dollars has been asked by the Normal schools of the state for permanent improvements and maintenance during the coming two years in bills that have been introduced in the house and senate. The three schools, as shown by the bills, want the following amounts: Valley City, $205,000; Mayville, $37,899.31; Minot, $252,000.

The Valley City appropriations measures were introduced by Representative Ployhar and Senator Whitcher, while the Mayville bills were fathered by Senator Elken and Representative Sorlie. There are two Valley City bills, one of them making a request for $190,000, and the other asking $15,000.

In the Mayville Normal appropriations bill the principal item is one of $10,000 for the construction of a student's hospital. This need is one that has been felt for some time and the trustees of the institution are particularly anxious that it be allowed. The second item is one of $9,399.31 to reimburse the local, interest and income funds for money spent on grounds and general library during the past two years. SCHENK HOPED WIFE WOULD BREAK NECK IN AUTO, SAYS WITNESS

DETECTIVE NURSE IN THE SCHENK CASE

JULIET KLEIN,
Whose Real Name Is Mrs. Zoeckler, Was Employed by the Prosecution to Secure Evidence Against Mrs. Schenk.

Tells of the Millionaire Buying Her a New $6,000 Machine.

Defendant Will Probably Not Be Placed on the Stand.

Defense Will Soon Finish Side Without Plea of Insanity.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 21.—Just before court opened Prosecutor J. B. Handlan said in his opinion Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk would not be placed on the stand by the defense. He supported it by adding that the night of her arrest she promised to tell him all about the case, but had failed to do it.

Dr. S. L. Jepson, who examined Schenk in company with Dr. Hupp, the prosecution's star witness, was then called to the stand.

The witness told of having visited Schenk in the hospital and making various tests.

"From what you learned," asked J. P. O'Brien, "plus what Dr. Hupp told you, didn't you come to the conclusion that he was suffering from gastric troubles and not arsenical poisoning?"

"No, I could not say that. We had evidently some arsenic."

On cross-examination he said that Schenk was undoubtedly a big healthy man before his alleged poisoning and had lost much weight since.

Mrs. Jane Hedges furnished the first real thrill for the defense. On direct examination she said:

"Albert Schenk told me that John had bought his wife a $6,000 automobile and that he said, 'I hope she breaks her neck the first time she goes out in it! I will leave no stone unturned to get rid of that woman and another out of the family.'"

On cross-examination Mr. Handlan sought to establish the fact that the witness was an enemy of Albert Schenk who had headed a syndicate for the purchase of a large tract of land and that suit had been brought against her. She would not admit this, however, and declared that she is on friendly terms with Albert.

It was stated by the defense at noon it would probably rest its case at 5

TAWNEY IS MENTIONED

May Succeed Norton as Secretary to President Taft.

Has Been Holding Frequent Conferences at White House Recently.

Washington, Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to an announcement from the White House, last night, Charles D. Norton, who has been secretary to the president for the last six months, will soon retire. His successor, it is said, already has been selected, but just who the appointee is, has not been made public. It is believed, however, that he is a man of political experience, who will be able to aid the president in mapping out the coming campaign. Several names are suggested as possibilities for Mr. Norton's successor. One being mentioned is that of James A. Tawney, the veteran chairman of the house appropriation committee, whose term will expire March 4, next. Mr. Tawney has been holding frequent conferences at the White House recently, and has been known that he is slated for an important job under the administration. Another is that of Martin Egan, who conducts a newspaper in the Philippines.

Sunday's freak flight will probably be the last Lieut. Honeywell will make before starting on his long distance flight to Canada in an attempt to break the world's record.

WOMAN ROBBED AND DESERTED

Mrs. Emma Church of De Pere, Mich., Relieved of Roll of $820.

Menominee, Mich., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Emma Church, a prosperous shop-keeper of De Pere, alleges that she was robbed and deserted here by W. H. Duer of Fond du Lac. Duer is alleged to have deserted his family in Fond du Lac and to have made love to Mrs. Church in De Pere, winning her consent to go with him to Duluth to be married. They stopped in Menominee en route, and here it is alleged by the woman, she was relieved of a roll of $820 by Duer, who then deserted her.

Duer returned to Wisconsin, where he was arrested and sent to Waupun for abandoning his family. Immediately on his release from Waupun he will be arrested by Sheriff Joseph Kell and brought to Menominee to answer to the charge of grand larceny.

PULLS A RAZOR ON SIR THOMAS

English Sportsman Has an Awkward Adventure With Lunatic.

London, Jan. 21.—Sir Thomas Lipton had an awkard adventure at his country place today with a supposed lunatic, who exhibited a razor to emphasize a request for financial assistance. Sir Thomas excused himself from the visitor and notified the police who took the man into custody.

Early in the day Sir Thomas had received a telephone message purporting to come from Scotland Yard headquarters and asking him to make an appointment for a detective who wished to see him.

Later the alleged detective called and saying that he was in desperate financial straits and must have help, produced a razor. Sir Thomas made an excuse to leave the room and quickly communicated with the police.

EXILED SENATORS MAY RETURN HOME

Fifteen West Virginians Are About Ready to Go Back.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 21.—The fifteen voluntarily exiled West Virginia state senators, who are in Cincinnati, may return home Monday. Senator Meredith, the chairman, said today:

MAIL BOX PLAN IS KNOCKED OUT

Receptacles Will Not Have to Be Placed on Houses.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The proposal that after Jan. 1, delivery of mail by city letter carriers should be made only at such residences and places of business as should provide at the door or entrance suitable receptacles for its deposit, was knocked out of the post-office appropriation bill in the house today.

WARRANT FOR HOTEL MAN

Charles Boyle Fails to Appear in Compliance With Order of Court.

Accused of Contempt in Violation of an Injunction.

Charles Boyle, proprietor of Boyle's hotel on Superior street, appeared in district court this morning, in compliance with an order of the court for him to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt in failing to observe an injunction of the court, but he did not appear until a warrant had been issued and a deputy sheriff sent to bring him into court. Mr. Boyle asked for a delay in the proceedings and the matter was postponed until 3 o'clock, in order to give him time to consult with an attorney. Mr. Boyle was discharged on his own recognizance.

Some time ago an injunction was obtained by the Independent Cigar company, restraining Mr. Boyle from selling any cigars on the premises occupied by him and that company except cigars purchased of the company. The injunction was the result of the terms of a lease held by the cigar company. Complaint was made that Mr. Boyle was persistently violating the injunction and an order was issued during the past week calling upon Mr. Boyle to appear this morning and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt.

Mr. Boyle was not in court this morning when the case was called and Judge Cant ordered that a bench warrant be issue and Mr. Boyle summoned into court under it. He appeared a little later and obtained the postponement until this afternoon.

BATTLE FOR BLOOD IN SACRED PRECINCTS OF THE Y. M. C. A. GYM

Wrestling Bout Stopped at Crucial Moment By Timely Appearance of One of the Secretaries.

"When Greek Meets Greek, or a Modern Mat Vendetta."

Filled with thrills, full of action, a most realistic production of the tragedy of wrestling, presenting some of the most life holds!

Carefully note the feature outlined in the program, and then follow the story carefully. It has plot, action, color and a denouement that ranks with some of the best of Miss Libbey's prolific pen. The denouement brings the story to a dandy dramatic close; which is the true intent and purpose of a denouement.

Yesterday afternoon two innocent looking lads appeared at the desk of the Y. M. C. A. While the bright light of eager action might have lurked in their eyes, there was nothing in the least suspicious or vicious about their appearance. They were Greeks, and stating that they wished to take a little exercise, the mind of the young man at the desk was gently wafted on the wings of sweet romance back to the halcyon days of the Greek human development colony.

He assured the young men that the gymnasium of the association was constructed especially for that specific purpose, with the ethical as well as the physical development in the mind, and welcomed them. Some of the stuff might have been over the heads of the young men, but they grabbed the consent sign from the beaming expression on the young man's countenance, and thanking him humbly, took it on the run for the dressing room.

Nothing was suspected—why should there be? The splendid little fantasy about the nothing stirring over the house around Christmas time, was reflected in the quiet of the big building. Serenity pursued its placid path, undisturbed by the sharp edged rock of trouble.

Hint of Trouble.

But suddenly Mr. Bevis, who runs things general at the big gentle thought institution, reported that there were rumors of some strenuous work going on in the exercise room, off the big gymnasium. Mr. Bevis stated that it had been reported, kind of noised around, that the boys were getting kind of rough like.

Now Rev. J. A. McGaughey used to be the champion wrestler of the Lake Forest college. Pardon the expression, but he was a beaner on the canvas. He was so good that his college friends once advised him to follow the wrestling game. But, as Mr. Kipling has stated many times in his dollar-a-word prose, that is another story.

Anyway, Mr. McGaughey, who is really fond of wrestling, the amateur and pleasureable kind, hurried up. 'Tis well he did, Clementine.

Just at the point of gentle intrusion of Mr. McGaughey one of the young men had the other young man's arm stuffed in his mouth and was trying to hide his perfectly white teeth in the cringing flesh of the other young man.

Here indeed was a situation filled with dramatic possibilities. But, hold, more was to follow. With a great heave the young Greek, whose hand was impersonating a human sandwich, hurled the other man on the hard boards of the floor. Then he rose in righteous wrath.

Lurid Language.

The language he let forth was picturesque and filled with emotional feeling. The words were sequential and their continuity was unbroken by the pacific presence of the Rev. McGaughey. After the young Greek who had been bitten purged his system for the time being of the oaths, he, as a sort of anti-climax, told the other Greek that he "didn't know a damn think about wrestling."

To get his bearing and to more thoroughly realize the situation, the Rev. McGaughey gazed around the room and his roving and nervous glance took in some fifteen or twenty dark skinned men, like characters out of history, standing against the wall, also squatting like the comic opera bandits around the camp fire, with the lust of battle, but slowly cooling from their eyes.

Mr. Olson, the young man who assists in the conducting of the affairs of the physical department, was called to the scene, and in his capacity of a qualified judge of a mat soiree, declared the bout off and ordered the wrestler to ungird their loins for atheletic purposes and to hastily dress to meet the rigours of zero weather; in other and more specific words, to beat it for the cold outside.

It seems that the two young Greeks, who so humbly represented themselves as lovers of physical and ethical exercise, were Greeks holding a Greek grudge, which, William, according to history, is some grudge. Now there is the history of the two Greeks who once met on—but then that is another story. But to the Y. M. C. A.

These sons of sunny and also temperamental temperament, have harbored a grudge for some time it seems, being brought into being by a serious dispute over their wrestling abilities. The gentle Y. M. C. A. was to be made the goat; they were going to settle a side bet, entertain their friends, settle the difference, in fact, they did everything but finish the match and collect gate money at the door of the ethical exercise sanctum.

But the hunch of Mr. Bevis, the appearance of Mr. McGaughey, the coincident issuance of expressive oaths, the little incident of the bitten hand, the other detail of the bump on the floor, and the fiery feeling of the partisan look as colorless and tame as a methodist meeting following a strenuous week of revivals, prevented the match, the battle, if you will, being completed.

The two Greeks will have to select some livery barn or back room barred from the knowledge of the police, it would seem, to settle that little grudge. But the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium! Perish the thought; it's terrible, and some of the young men at the institution, the young man at the desk, particularly, refers to it only with reluctance, and states that the two grappling Greeks deceived him in willfully misstating their intentions.

IS OPPOSED BY VAN LEAR

Minneapolis Socialist Says Commission Plan Is Not Adapted to Large Cities.

Will Speak to Duluth Audiences on "Why I Am a Socialist."

Thomas Van Lear, one of the leading Socialists of the state, is not in favor of the commission form of government for all cities. He states that it may work out satisfactorily in the smaller cities, but not in the larger communities. Mr. Van Lear is the man who so nearly succeeded in being elected mayor of Minneapolis.

He explains that in the smaller places the number of officials will not be materially changed, but that they will be greatly reduced in the bigger places. Mr. Van Lear states that after th commission form is established it will be a hard matter to overthrow it and that after the novelty is worn off the people will begin to lose interest, leaving the commission to fall into a rut with fewer men at the helm than under the present form.

Mr. Van Lear will speak tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at Victor's hall, Fifty-sixth avenue west and Grand avenue, West Duluth, on "Why I Am a Socialist." In the evening he will discuss the same subject at Great Western hall, Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street. Mr. Van Lear is an eloquent speaker and it is anticipated that he will have large audiences.

He did not care to commit himself as to whether or not the commission form would work out well in Duluth or not. He was very optimistic as to the future of the city, stating that he is finally convinced hat in a few years Duluth would be much larger than it is at the present time.

Mr. Van Lear asserted that he is opposed to the bill which it is proposed to pass cutting down the representation of the cities in the legislature. He explained that the majority of the working men are compelled to live in the city by force of circumstances, and that the representatives from the country would not be in a position to deal intelligently with the problems which confront the larger centers of population.

NEW HOME FOR NEW JOBBERS

Rust-Parker-Martin Company Will Let Contract for Building.

The Rust-Parker-Martin company will let a contract for the construction of the building in which its business will be housed, some time this week.

The structure will have eight floors and will be of reinforced concrete and will be 260 feet in length, with a frontage on Lake avenue. It will be an L-shaped building. The location of the structure is adjacent to that of the Northern Shoe company. The Rust-Parker-Martin company is the youngest and one of the lustiest of Duluth's jobbing houses and when it is established in its new quarters, local business men will look for a decided increase in the volume of jobbing business conducted from this city, an expectation which is based on the sure foundation of the growing success of the concern to date.

HE BOUGHT MANY VOTES

City Attorney of Danville, Ill., Makes Startling Confession.

Spent $8,000 for an Office Paying Only $100 Per Month.

Danville, Ill., Jan. 21.—City Attorney Frank Jones, who managed the campaign of Sheriff John M. Shepard, today made a complete confession of the part he had taken in vote buying both in the primary and general election and he announces he is willing to go before the grand jury and tell all he knows. The confession was made after a conference with his friends, who told him that under the circumstances it was the best thing he could do.

Jones, who made his confession to several newspapermen and in the presence of friends, said that he had bought a large number of votes for Shepard and had kept a memorandum of the names of the men he bought and the amounts paid each. Only a few days ago he had destroyed it, he said. However, he said, that he believed he could remember a number of them and he was willing to go before the grand jury and tell them.

Jones also suggested that there be a mass meeting of all successful and defeated candidates and ward captains and that a resolution be adopted to go before the grand jury Monday and tell everything. Jones says there is no doubt in his mind but that hundreds of names of men who have sold their votes are known to various candidates and politicians, and that they should be made to tell them.

Creates Sensation.

The confession has created a sensation and it is expected that numerous others will follow from men who hope to receive an immunity bath from the state.

Jones has long been prominent in politics and has been city attorney nearly two years. He admits that he used money in his own election, but does not remember the amount. He told one newspaper man that it would run to almost $8,000. His office pays $100 per month and is for two years.

Mayor Platt is willing and anxious that the mass meeting be held. He says he will attend and thinks every other candidate should do the same. Mayor Platt was elected nearly two years ago and it was asserted at the time that a great deal of money was spent in his behalf, but he has always insisted that any votes were bought he knew nothing of it.

Sheriff Shepard this afternoon admitted buying votes but said he would not go before the grand jury to confess, since it would be impossible to secure a jury to convict any man who bought votes.

HORSE VICIOUS; GETS $2,102

Joseph Gauthier Recovers Damages for Injuries to His Wife.

A sealed verdict returned by the jury last evening in the case of Joseph Gauthier vs. Jack Stone in the United States court was opened this morning. It awarded the plaintiff $2,102.

Mr. Gauthier sued for $5,000 for loss of services on account of an injury, alleged to have been sustained by his wife in a runaway of a horse which he purchased from Mr. Stone. He alleged that representations were given at the time of the purchase that the horse was gentle and quiet, whereas the reverse was true.

Another action, brought by Mrs. Gauthier on account of her injuries was continued until the next term of court.

FEEHAN SEATED IN CONVENTION

Opponent to President Lewis Victorious in His Contest.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 21.—Francis C. Feehan, president of district No. 5, Pittsburg, Pa., whose seat in the convention of the United Mine Workers of America was contested by Thomas Caput of the same district, was seated in the national convention today.

Feehan is fighting President Lewis, who opposes the seating of the thirty delegates from the Irwin district.

NO ELECTION IN VOTE FOR IOWA SENATOR.

Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 21.—The joint ballot on United States senator by the Iowa legislature today resulted:

Young, 26; Funk, 22; Kenyon, 24; Byers, 11; Garst, 7; Franke, 2; Judge H. M. Towner, 1; Claude Porter, Dem., 45. Absent and not voting, 20. Necessary to elect, 80.

MIGHT GO IN CHICAGO, BUT NOT IN DULUTH.

"Of course, you know Jim?"

"Nope. Don't know whom you mean."

"Why, I mean James J. Pappatheodorokoummount," said E. S. Spencer in the Hotel Lenox lobby today.

And he really said it. When his hearers had been revived, they demanded an explanation of the outrage, and with an air of a grieved innocence he produced a card, which had that self-same name on it, printed in type and informing the reader that Mr. Pappatheodorokoummount transacts business on South Halstead street in Chicago.

Besides spring that Pappatheodorokoummount stuff, Mr. Spencer admitted that he sells tobacco and that he is going to sell a lot of it in Duluth.

EVELETH FEELS IT IS SLIGHTED

Expected That Census Would Include New Territory Taken in Recently.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The announcement from Washington today that Census Director Durand announced Eveleth's census as 4,014 was received here with feelings of disappointment, as it was expected that the enumerators when taking the census would include the territory taken in by the city last spring.

It is claimed that Mr. Hollister promised to enumerate residents of Central Division No. 2, the Adams and Fayal locations, about 2,500 people make them part of Eveleth proper, but this was not done.

Everyone familiar with the situation knows that this city, with its growth of the past few years and the annexation of last year, has more people than 4,014 and many are chagrined that such a report will be sent out broadcast by the press associations.

VESSEL MEN ALARMED.

Differences in Big Lines May Result in Another Rate War.

Berlin, Jan. 21.—News dispatches from Hamburg represent shipping circles there as alarming over the prospects of differences between the Canadian Pacific and other English lines affecting adversely the trans-Atlantic shipping pool and perhaps resulting in a rate war.

The Canadian Pacific's cancellation of all agreements concerning the Liverpool Canada traffic would affect all lines, as a reduction in the passenger rates to Canada would divert traffic from the ports of the United States.

Man Is a Machine!

When He Breaks Down, the Cause Is a Mechanical Cause. Drugs Cannot Cure It.

From man's brain to all the organs of the human body, there flows an electric power. This life-sustaining intelligence is communicated through the body on a system of nerves, similar to the wires of an electric light or telephone system.

When our telephone system gets out of order and does not do its work, the electrician knows that the wires are not connected right, and something is interfering with the carrying of the message. He removes the cause, which is a mechanical cause, and your message goes over the wire all right. The same is true with the human electric system. Since the main line runs through the spine, a slight misplacement of the vertebrae of the spine, can cause the nerves, which carry the message, to be pinched.

Such a pressure stops the full flow of life-giving power, and in consequence some organ, or organs, suffer through the lack of this necessary intelligence.

Drugs cannot relieve that pressure or remove the pinched condition of the nerves. The pressure can be removed, as Dr. Riesland does it, but drugs could never do it.

The vertebrae are separated by spongy cushions. When these cushions are in perfect condition they perform two important offices. First, they make possible all the various and complex motions of the spine. Second, they prevent the nerves from being squeezed for they hold the vertebrae of the spine apart, so that no jerk or jar can suddenly pinch them.

You also owe your health to these cushions. Imperfect cushions in the spine often close the switches of the human electric system and prevent the free flow of the full life-giving current.

Now, apoplexy, rheumatism, nervousness, heart disease pneumonia, paralysis, diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys, eyes, ears, throat and skin, have all been cured by the Chiropractic method of dealing with disease and practiced with such great success by Dr. D. W. Riesland, at his large and completely equipped chiropractic offices at 707-708-709-710-711 Palladio Building, Duluth, Minn. You better see Dr. Riesland today.

WILL RESUME TROPHY PLAY

West Duluth Curlers Have Several Events to Be Finished.

Monday evening the West Duluth curlers will pick up the threads that were dropped during the bonspiel excitement and a number of the trophy events, which are in the finals or are nearing completion, will be cleaned up and new ones started.

Wade and Macauley will mix early in the week in the finals of the Hurst event. The two other jewelry trophy events, the Bagley and the Esterly, are nearing the finals.

The Esterly affair is played in squad style. Wade's Kids are leaders of one squad: Iltis leads another, and Holland and Zauft have yet to play for the right to be high men in their divisions. This event will be cleaned up this week and it is also expected that the Bagley will be brought to the finals within a few days.

The Hendrickson, the West Duluth Commercial club, the Burns and the Union Match company events are among the other contests scheduled for the winter.

BOAT HOUSES MUST BE REMOVED.

A footbridge, which will replace the old Waseca street wagon bridge over the slip on the bay front between Sixty-first and Sixty-third avenues, may necessitate the removal of several boat-houses, in order to make way for the improvement.

A number of the houses are under the old bridge on both sides of the slip, says Street Commissioner Joseph Becks, and he is notifying the owners to remove them so that work can begin at once on tearing down the old structure. Ten or twelve launch owners have houses in this slip.

The old Waseca bridge was condemned some time ago as being unsafe for wagon traffic, and since that time has been used by pedestrians only. Recently the board of public works ordered the old structure torn down and a new footbridge constructed.

Commissioner Beck will probably start work on the job next week.

The horse became frightened at Fifty-seventh avenue west and Roosevelt street and was traveling at a fast clip when the cutter, which it was pulling, tipped over in the snow just as the animal rounded the corner at Roosevelt street and Central avenue.

Mr. Warner was tipped out into a snow bank, fortunately escaping injury. A small boy was also in the cutter with him and he was also unhurt. Before either could get to the horse, the animal was off again down the street.

It dashed down Central avenue on the sidewalk on the east side of the thoroughfare. Pedestrians cleared the way and it was finally stopped by Officer Monahan in front of 310 Central avenue.

LAWYERS DISCUSS PROPOSED LEGISLATION.

The St. Louis County Bar association met at the Commercial club this afternoon to consider the bills proposed for enactment by the legislature with the object of reforming the system of court sessions in this city. It is proposed to remake the schedule so that there will be five sessions annually. The sentiment of the local bar is strongly in favor of this move.

There is a bill before the legislature providing that there shall be sessions of the district court six times a year in the range, three of them to be held in Hibbing and three in Virginia. It is also provided in this bill that there shall be established in each of these cities the offices of deputy sheriff and deputy clerk of the court and that these deputies shall be paid not less than $2,000 a year. There is in this bill a stipulation that any court officer in Duluth who is called upon to supply it shall furnish any part to a suit in the proposed range courts a certified transcript of any document of record, without cost.

These are among the features of proposed legislation to which the local attorneys devoted their attention today.

The association adopted a resolution indorsing the proposition in favor of holding five terms of court in Duluth, but referred to a committee of seven the range proposition. Another meeting will be held at the Commercial club two weeks from today to hear the report of this committee.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

IDEAL FOR YACHTING

(Impression of the yachting and boating game in the Middle West. Written for The Herald by Albert Crouch, naval architect.)

After one year spent in this section of the country, and after a careful study of the yachting game in all its stages during this time and for ten years previous to this time in New York city in the very heart of the yachting game, it seems clear to me that this means of recreation and sport, which is one of the healthiest, cleanest and best means of relaxation from the activities of the business world, is only in its infancy in this section of the country.

The water conditions are excellent throughout this whole section, and nowhere in the United States has the writer found more ideal water conditions than are found at Duluth. There are no limits to the yachting game with a river for small boats, launches and canoes; one of the finest harbors on the range, three of them to be held in Hibbing and three in Virginia. It is also provided in this bill that there shall be established in each of these cities the offices of deputy sheriff and deputy clerk of the court and that these deputies shall be paid not less than $2,000 a year. There is in this bill a stipulation that any court officer in Duluth who is called upon to supply it shall furnish any part to a suit in the proposed range courts a certified transcript of any document of record, without cost.

These are among the features of proposed legislation to which the local attorneys devoted their attention today.

The association adopted a resolution indorsing the proposition in favor of holding five terms of court in Duluth, but referred to a committee of seven the range proposition. Another meeting will be held at the Commercial club two weeks from today to hear the report of this committee.

nature ever made, which is adapted for the use of launches of all types and sizes; and beyond that, the great Lake Superior giving access to the lakes and all the great waterways of this country for cruising to an unlimited extent.

I believe no more ideal water conditions are found anywhere than these. Yet with all these natural advantages there are very few men of means active in the game. Most of the boat owners in this section of the country are not men of means, they are with few exceptions men of small means, very enthusiastic, but not able to get the high class boats, the kind of boats which give the best satisfaction and do the real promoting of the sport. In the East we find the men of wealth are in the yachting game, and in it strong, and we find there the men whose names are foremost in the financial world are also the leaders in the yachting game.

Many men in speaking of the motor boating game in this country have expressed the idea that the automobile had spoiled boating and taken the people from the water sport. In reality, I dare say that nothing has done more to promote boating than the automobile and automobile engine. When the automobile first came into use, it is true the wealthy yachtsman left his boats and took to the automobile for pleasure, but he soon tired of his automobile for pleasure purposes, using it now almost entirely only as a means of transportation and in the East has long since returned to the water for his real sport. He comes back to the sport with a knowledge of the gasolene engine from the experience of his automobiling and in getting his motor boat, wants one which will be as reliable as his automobile, also he is now not content to ride six or eight miles an hour, but may want to go anywhere between twelve and thirty miles an hour. It has been my experience in the East that the best owner wants a better and better boat every year, and nothing that the best naval architects can get up and the best boat builders can build, is too good for them. The comparison of the power boats of twelve years ago, and the high-class boats of today is similar to the comparison of the first automobile and the wonderful machines of 1911.

That Duluth will be in the near future, one of the biggest yachting centers in the country is my honest belief. The men who can afford good boats have just started in the game, and each high-class, seaworthy, reliable boat which is placed on your water here will bring many more next season. The old idea of motor boats or motor cruisers, as unreliable and dangerous will be entirely lost with the advent of men of means into the game, who now are just starting to place boats worthy of being called real boats in your waters.

OPEN MEET IN BIG TANK

A city swimming meet, the most pretentious effort in this line by the athletic officials of the Y. M. C. A., will be put on at the big tank of the association Feb. 3. The meet will be open to all the amateur athletes of the city, and it is expected that the crack water performers of Duluth will be seen in interesting competition.

The program includes a 20-yard swim and also a swim on the back of like distance. There will be a 100-yard swim, a plunge for distance and a swim under water. A beautiful bronze medal fob will be given to the winner of each event.

In addition to the swimming races and exhibitions, there will be some relay races, water polo, rescue from drowning exhibition, fancy swimmng, diving and floating.

The public is invited to be present, and as this meet is expected to be the best ever put on at the Y. M. C. A., a large crowd is looked for. This is the first event of its nature that has been opened to every athlete of the city, so that a large list of entries will probably be the result. Entries should be sent to Prof. A. B. Wegener of the Y. M. C. A. physical department.

MERCURY HITS 12 DEG. BELOW

Forty-Mile Gale Also Helps the Coal Dealers' Business Some.

Your store of coal in the little old bin right handy to the furnace won't diminish any more tomorrow than it did today, in all probability.

The weather man says the prospects are for a continuation of the weather today, which was pretty fair, considering that this is winter. Last night was the night of the big wind. Technically it reached a velocity of forty miles an hour. This morning at 7 it was considerate enough to modify its speed by one-half, which means that its velocity was twenty miles an hour.

Nice bracing weather when you went out to get the milk this morning—12 below zero. The milk was frozen at Qu'Appelle, which is in Canada, and at Winnipeg. In Qu'Appelle it was 24 below, and in the Manitoba town it was 20 below, which seems like a discrimination against Duluth. This country really maintains the weather bureau, no matter what reports we get from Canada, and this looks like a Medicine Hat trick. At Minnedota the temperature was 20 minus.

There is a high pressure over the Dakotas, not because the legislatures are in session in those states, but because the weather man says so. This seems to have something to do with the forecast for tomorrow, but that guess may be wrong.

EXPRESS COMPANIES REDUCE THEIR RATES.

New York, Jan. 21.—Officers of Canadian and American express companies last night announced a reduction in through rates soon to take effect between all offices of the United States and those of Canada. It is said that many of Canadian companies have held back up to the present because the customs regulations at the Canadian border require so much extra work that a reduction in existing rates would in many cases work a hardship.

INSIDE HISTORY.

Some Self-Explanatory Letters.

Battle Creek, Mich., Jan'y 7, '11.
Dr. E. H. Pratt,
Suite 1202, 100 State St.,
Chicago, Illinois.

My Dear Doctor:

"Owing to some disagreement with magazine several years ago they have become quite vituperative, and of late have publicly charged me with falsehoods in my statements that we have genuine testimonial letters.

"It has been our rule to refrain from publishing the names either of laymen or physicians who have written to us in a complimentary way, and we have declined to accede to the demand of attorneys that we turn these letters over to them.

"I am asking a few men whom I deem to be friends to permit me to reproduce some of their letters over their signatures in order to refute the falsehoods.

"We have hundreds of letters from physicians, but I esteem the one that you wrote to me in 1906 among the very best particularly in view of the fact that it recognizes the work I have been trying to do partly through the little book, "The Road to Wellville."

'I do not sell or attempt to sell the higher thought which is more important than the kind of food, but I have taken considerable pains to extend to humanity such facts as may have come to me on this subject.

"In order that your mind may be refreshed I am herewith enclosing a copy of your good letter, also a copy of the little book, and if you will give me the privilege of printing this over your signature I will accompany the printing with an explanation as to why you permitted its use in publication in order to refute falsehoods, and under that method of treatment I feel, so far as I know, there would be no breach of the code of ethics.

"I trust this winter weather is finding you well, contented and enjoying the fruits that are yours by right.

"With all best wishes, I am,"
Yours very truly,
C. W. POST.

Dr. Pratt, who is one of the most prominent and skilled surgeons in America, very kindly granted our request in the cause of truth and justice.

Chicago, Aug. 31, 1906.
Mr. C. W. Post,
Battle Creek, Mich.
My dear Sir:—

"I write to express my personal appreciation of one of your business methods, that of accompanying each package of your Grape-Nuts production with that little booklet "The Road to Wellville." A more appropriate, clear-headed and effective presentation of health-giving autosuggestions could scarcely be penned.

"Grape-Nuts is a good food in itself, but the food contained in this little article is still better stuff. I commend the practice because I know that the greed and strenuousness, the consequent graft and other types of thievery and malicious mischief generally can never be cured by legislative action.

"The only hope for the betterment of the race rests in individual soul culture.

"In taking a step in this direction, your process has been so original and unique that it must set a pace for other concerns until finally the whole country gets flavored with genuine, practical Christianity.

"I shall do all that lies in my power to aid in the appreciation of Grape-Nuts, not so much for the sake of the food itself as for the accompanying suggestions.

"Visiting Battle Creek the other day with a friend, Dr. Kelly of Evanston, Illinois, while I was consulting with Mr. Gregory, my friend visited your factories and came away greatly amazed, not only at the luxurious furnishings of the offices generally and the general equipment of the place, but with the sweet spirit of courtesy and kindness that seemed to fill the air with a spiritual ozone that was good to breathe.

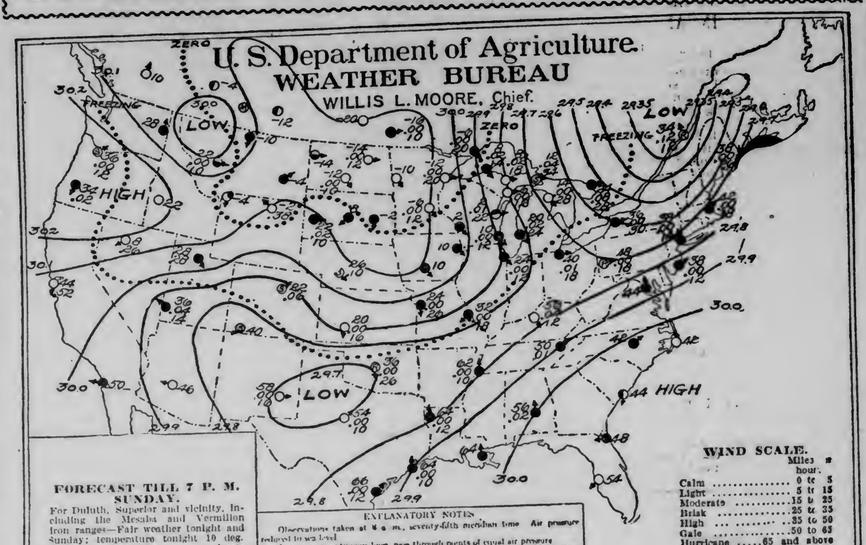

"The principles expressed in the little booklet, "The Road to Wellville," I well know are practical and they work in business of all kinds, including sanitariums, as will be fairly tested before time is done.

"I know you will not regard this letter of appreciation as an intrduing one. It is simply the salutation of good fellowship to you from a man who, although he has never seen you, feels drawn to you by the kinship of thought.

"The only thing that makes a man live forever in the hearts of his countrymen and his race is the good that he does. Your position in this respect is an enviable one and I wish to extend my congratulations."

Yours respectfully,
E. H. PRATT.

MELODROWSKI WILL HAVE TO SERVE LIFE SENTENCE

Claimed That This Is Only Sentence Possible Under Law.

Algot Johnson Will Be Placed on Trial Monday Morning.

Charles Melodrowski will probably be sentenced to serve in state prison for the term of his natural life for the murder of Harry A. Chesmore, whom he shot to death in a street car several hours after he had held up the McKay hotel Jan. 6.

The statement that such sentence will be imposed by Judge Cant is based on the statements of lawyers who have given careful thought to the question of what is possible, and therefore is a conjecture, and nothing more, but it is based on reliable opinion.

"We, the jury in the above entitled action, find the defendant guilty of murder in the second degree and recommend him to the mercy of the court." Such was the verdict.

There is an apparent triangular conflict of laws bearing on this case. One Minnesota statute provides that a person who commits second degree murder shall be sentenced to life imprisonment. Another says that any infant—and any individual less than 16 years of age is an infant, while Melodrowski is only a fraction more than 15 years old—who commits a crime shall be committed to the state training school and there confined until he reaches his majority, unless the state in its wisdom prefers to free him before that time. The third statute provides certain restrictions as to the conduct of affairs at the state training school and says that those who are in confinement there shall be minors who have committed crimes other than murder.

In the state and county departments of justice the third statute mentioned is considered as of predominating importance, as compared with the second. Therefore the first mentioned statute, providing for a life tenure of existence in the state penitentiary, controls.

Means Life Sentence.

The conclusion, to the lay mind, is that Melodrowski will go to Stillwater for life.

The jury's recommendation of the culprit to the mercy of the court is without effect. It merely represents the humanitarian impulse of the individual jurors, who were reluctant to doom the boy to death, but did not care to ignore their duty to the community to the extent of finding him guilty of third degree murder, as they might have done.

Sentence was deferred. That may mean Melodrowski will be called as a witness in the trial of Algot Johnson, who was his accomplice in the McKay hotel hold-up. If he is a witness in that trial, it is probable that he will attempt to lay the onus of the crime on Johnson, who is said by some of the authorities to have been the brains of the enterprise. If he does that, he can only injure Johnson and do no good to himself, because he is already convicted and doomed to a life in prison. But his advisors may believe he will, by following that course, provide himself with facilities for an easy egress from Stillwater a few years hence.

Before the Melodrowski case was put on trial, the defendant's counsel proposed to the county attorney, John H. Norton, according to common report, that the defense should be permitted to enter a plea of guilty to a charge of second degree murder. Mr. Norton refused to consider the proposition, it is said, declaring that the case was of too great importance to the state for any informal arrangements of disposal to be made. He contended that it was the duty of the state to submit the case to a jury, that the utmost penalty might be imposed should the evidence convince a jury that it was deserved. When Mr. Norton was interviewed this morning he declined, of course, to comment on the verdict.

The trial was an example of speedy justice. Just two weeks after the shooting, Melodrowski had been arrested, tried and convicted.

Johnson's Case.

Algot Johnson will be placed on trial Monday morning for his share in the crime. He did not shoot at Chesmore. That fact will probably make it a difficult matter to convict him as a participant in the crime of homicide. He is of the same age as Melodrowski.

Melodrowski and Johnson entered the McKay hotel on the morning of Jan. 6 at 4 o'clock, through different entrances. Each of them carried a revolver. They had been employed there as bellboys and were very well acquainted with the lay of the land. One version has it that Melodrowski did the talking in the hotel; that he told the night clerk and night porter to hold up their hands and that he was the one who rifled the cash register. Another version is that Johnson was the foremost; that he commanded the hotel employes to throw up their hands. At any rate, Melodrowski fired a shot in the hotel. The clerk refused to take their threat in earnest and walked towards the telephone to call the police to remove the disturbers. Thereupon Melodrowski fired, the shot striking the floor.

After tying the clerk and porter to pillars in the dining room and rifling the cash register, the robbers departed. Some time later a guest came up from the bath rooms in the basement of the building, heard noises in the dining room and released the prisoners. Without delay the clerk notified the police and the chase for the bandits began. Officer Chesmore caught them on Garfield avenue and was taking them to the police station when the murder was committed. He had failed to search them and when the car reached a point between Seventh and Sixth avenues west Melodrowski took a revolver from his pocket and deliberately shot the policeman. He fired five shots and three of them struck their captor. The boys sat on one side of the car and the good-natured policeman on the other. He was a perfect target, and his death came almost instantly.

Melodrowski and Johnson took refuge in flight and another bandit hunt was begun by the police. A mail carrier on a rural route put the officers on their trail and it was not long before they were found lying in bunks at a lumber camp twenty-two miles from Duluth.

That ended the criminal careers of two hopeful emulators of Jesse James.

ADRIFT ON ICE FLOE IN LAKE

Skater Is Carried Away But Rescued By His Companions.

Lake Superior came near claiming its first victim of the present winter when Arthur Hagen, 2205 Water street, was carried out into the lake on a small ice raft which broke away from the main body yesterday afternoon.

The young man had been skating on the sheet which has formed next the shore, in the vicinity of Twentieth avenue east. He had gone out towards the outer edge to set some fish lines, and before he knew what had happened he was adrift on an ice raft about 300 feet square. Fortunately the wind was not strong or the ice would have broken to pieces before assistance could reach the youth.

Several other people were skating in the same vicinity, but luck was with them and the ice on which they were enjoying themselves did not detach itself from the shore, although the occurrance is not uncommon. After a diligent search they found an old row boat on the shore. No oars and oar locks were available, but makeshift paddles were secured. A skater and a fisherman volunteered to attempt the rescue with the means at hand, and made their way to the ice raft on which Hagen was isolated. After much careful maneuvering they succeeded in getting Hagen and two dogs with him, into the craft. In a comparatively short time they had Hagen and his dogs safely on terra firma. In the interim Hagen's parents had been notified and they were on the shore to meet him.

ing at a cost of $4,000; a greenhouse for $2,500, and with $1,500 for the improvement of the campus are other items on the bill.

Valley City, not so modest in its requests, wants $75,000 for a building for industrial arts; $15,000 for a students' hospital; $40,000 for a men's dormitory, and $15,000 for furnishing the dormitory. For maintenance Valley City asks $45,000. The $15,000 item for furnishing of the domitory is included in an independent appropriation bill.

Salaries of State's Attorneys.

Salaries of state's attorneys are inadequate, according to a bill introduced in the house by Mr. Thompson of Ward, and under which a blanket raise of $500 per annum is proposed for the state's attorneys of all counties in the state. It is pointed out that the additional duties given the state's attorney through enactment of new laws renders the present salary inadequate. The salary law sought to be amended was passed only two years ago. Under the terms of the bill now proposed in counties having an assessed valuation of $500,000, the salaries are raised from $300 to $800 a year; in counties having an assessed valuation of from $500,000 to $1,000,000, the salary is raised from $500 to $1,000; counties of from $1,000,000 to to $1,500,000, raised from $600 to $1,100; $1,500,000 to $2,000,000, raised from $700 to $1,200; $2,000,000 to $2,500,000, raised from $800 to $1,300; having a valuation of from $2,500,000 to $3,000,000, raised from $1,000 to $1,500; having a valuation from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000, raised from $1,200 to $1,700; having a valuation of from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000, raised from $1,500 to $2,000; having a valuation of from $7,000,000 to $8,000,000, raised from $1,750 to $2,250; having a valuation of over $8,000,000, raised from $2,000 to $2,500.

Register of Deeds Also.

Registers of deeds also ask for an increase in their salaries and their bill was introduced by Gen. E. A. Williams of Burleigh county. Under the old law the salaries went as low as $500 a year in counties having an assessed valuation of under $500,000, with registers in counties of from $500,000 to $1,000,000 valuation receiving $750, while those in counties of from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 valuation receive $1,000 a year. Under the provisions of the proposed law the lowest salary allowed is $1,200, that amount being provided in all counties having an assessed valuation of less than $1,500,000. In counties having an assessed valuation of from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000, the new bill provides a salary of $1,400, whereas the present law allows $1,200. In counties of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 valuation, the salaries as proposed would be $1,500 as against $1,400 at the present time.

The old law made a salary of $1,600 in counties of from 3,000,000 to 5,000,000, but the bill provides that in counties of from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000, a salary of $1,600 shall be allowed; in counties of from $4,000,000 to $4,500,000 salary of $1,700 is fixed, and in counties of from $4,500,000 to $5,000,000, a salary of $1,800 is allowed, being $200 greater than the present amount.

A big change is also made in counties of from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000 assessed valuation. The old law allowed $1,700 a year in that range but the bill now proposed gives several graduations. A county of from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 pays $1,900; from $6,000,000 to $7,000,000 valuation pays $2,000, and a county of from $7,000,000 to $8,000,000 pays $2,100.

In counties of from $8,000,000 to $9,000,000, the old law provides $1,800 shall be the salary, while the new law provides $2,200. In counties of $10,000,000 assessed valuation, the old law provides $2,000 salary, the same being the highest salary allowed. The new bill provides a salary of $2,300 in counties of that valuation. Counties having from $10,000,000 to $11,000,000 valuation must allow a salary of $2,400, and counties of $12,000,000 valuation or over must allow $2,500 salary for the register of deeds.

Sheriff On Salary Basis.

Sweeping changes in the method of determining salaries of the sheriffs are also provided, Senator Wallin fathering a bill that will, if passed, place sheriffs on a salary basis, with all fees collected being covered into the office of the county treasurer.

Representative Fritz of McHenry county has a bill that the railroad companies will not take to very kindly. It requires that all railroad companies must stop all passenger trains at the county seats through which they pass a sufficient length of time to receive and let off passengers with safety. This would result in some important time card changes on both the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific railroads, as they operate trains that do little else than hesitate at a number of important county seats.

Must Be Citizens.

To become a deputy state, county or city officer, or member of any kind of an official board, one must be a bona fide resident of the United States, if the provisions of the Welo bill on that subject are enacted into law. The present law provides that an alien who has declared his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States may be employed as a deputy, clerk or member of such board, but under the terms of the Welo bill such aliens would not be entitled to appointments.

County commissioners want an increase in their salaries also, Senator Jacobson having introduced a bill that provides for a salary of $5 a day as against $4 at the present time. His bill also provides that, should a member of the board engage in other official duties while attending a regular meeting and drawing the regular salary of $5 a day, no additional compensation shall be allowed.

Initiative and Referendum.

The initiative and referendum is already giving the judiciary committee of the house cause for concern. At several sessions recently bills covering that question have been up for consideration and on one occasion the bills were nearly recommended for indefinite postponement.

It is understood that the committee will make a report to the house in such a manner that the members will have ample opportunity of discussing various phases of the principle, but that report will not be forthcoming for some little time.

Representative R. C. Burnett, who two years ago made an unsuccessful fight for the passage of a bill coverlng the question of drainage assessments and the right of a land owner to appeal from such assessment, will make another fight for that measure. The bill provides that the appeal shall be taken to the district court and there the trouble can be decided. Under the present laws the drainage board is supreme and its decision final.

The senate resoltuion asking congress to abolish the plan of distributing free garden seeds was concurred in by the house on motion of Mr. Sorlie.

Stott Briquets, "the modern wonder fuel," is for sale by all fuel dealers, $6.25 a ton. Matchless for kitchen ranges.

HIS HARDEST TASK.

Governor Eberhart Says It Is to Apportion 250 State Jobs.

New York, Jan. 21.—Governor A. O. Eberhart of Minnesota brought the greetings of 2,000,000 Minnesotans to more than 100 members of the Minnesota Society of New York at their annual dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria last night.

"Why, I went up to Albany and took a look at your legislature, and even then I felt proud of Minnesota," said Governor Eberhart, amid laughter. "You cannot go before the Minnesota legislature and buy a measure through," he continued. "The old-time lobbyist has lost his hold and the standard of men in legislative has risen perceptibly. We are progressing to cleaner and better government."

He said his hardest task as governor was to apportion 250 jobs among 3,000 office seekers, each one of whom has worked as hard as have the others.

WEST END
REGAINING HIS REASON

West End Newsboy Recovering From Effect of Horse's Kick.

Again Able to Help His Widowed Mother Support Family.

Although fighting a hard battle to eke out an existence for herself and her four small children, and struggling hard to keep the wolf from their door, Mrs. J. Bryde, a widow, living in a little home at 305 Garfield avenue, is perhaps one of the happiest mothers in Duluth.

She has reason to be happy for she was placed in the rather trying situation of seeing her 15-year-old son being robbed of his reason through an accident, which was thought at one time to have permanently impaired his mind. She nursed him in his illness, cared for him patiently during those spells during which his mind seemed to be a blank and deserves the reward of seeing the boy restored in his faculties.

Wilbert Bryde, a Herald newsboy, on Aug. 21 of last year was kicked in the jaw by a horse and knocked senseless. The accident occurred when the lad was feeding some horses kept at a stable near his home. The horses belonged to a teamster, employed by P. McDonnell, the contractor, who last summer, paved Garfield avenue.

WILBERT BRYDE.

The lower jaw bone was fractured, according to Dr. C. L. Haney, the attending physician. Also some teeth were knocked out. It was considered miraculous at the time that the blow did not kill the lad. Strange to say, the fracture healed in a remarkably short space of time. During the time that he was under a physician's care, the boy showed no signs of the accident impairing his mind, but about a month afterwards, his mother noticed it coming on.

He talked incoherently at times, forgot how to read and write, played around the house as a 6-year-old boy and was obliged to give up his work as a newsboy, cutting off a part of the revenue of the home. His mother states that he used to play in the sand for hours. At times, he would insist upon selling his papers and would start off for the up-town district and half of the time would not reach there, often straying off to some place in the West end.

Mrs. Bryde often worried as to his whereabouts and said that some nights he would come home pale and sick. In the meantime, his sister Grace, 11 years old, would sell papers. The boy often got mixed in his directions and on several occasions had to be shown the way home by strangers.

In December the boy showed signs of being restored to his reason and has picked up wonderfully since that time. Now he is as bright and active as anybody of his age. He attends the Adams school at the West end and keeps up well in his studies. During his spare hours he sells papers and manages to bring in a little income to support the family.

Mrs. Bryde says that she cannot express her thankfulness for the boy's recovery. Like a few other families on Garfield avenue, the Brydes are "squatters," that is they have a shack of their own located on vacant railroad property, thus saving the item of rent. Mrs. Bryde purchased the two-room cottage last summer for $75 and is still paying for it at the rate of $5 a month. Her only income, except what she takes in from washing is $10 a month, which she receives for taking care of a motherless baby.

Besides Wilbert and Grace, there are also two other children in the Bryde family. They are Joseph, aged 9, and Vernci, 5 years old. Mrs Bryde stated that her husband had been dead for about eighteen months.

GOOD JUMPS ON WEST END HILL

Weekly Tournament Is Expected to Bring Out Amateur Riders.

With ideal weather conditions, it is expected that the weekly meet at the slide of the West End Ski club at Fourteenth street and Miller's creek, will be well attended tomorrow. The place is popular for amateur jumpers and some record jumps may be made.

A number of the members of the club who have been practicing on the slide at Miller's creek will probably enter the general tournament at the Chester creek hill on Feb. 12 and compete with others for amateur honors.

Jumps ranking from 85 to 100 feet are common at the West end slide and this winter, more than in past years, boys ranging in age from 12 to 18 are taking advantage of the hill and are doing some good jumping. There have been no accidents on the hill as yet.

WILL INTERPRET SWEDISH FOLK LORE.

Hilda Hellstrom Gagne of Stockholm, Sweden, an interpreter in Swedish folk lore, will appear in an entertainment tomorrow evening at Bricklayer's hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street. The affair will be under the auspices of a local Swedish society.

HILDA HELLSTROM.

Mme Gagne will be remembered by Duluthians, having given a number of delightful concerts at Lester Park last summer.

Missionary Meeting.

A missionary meeting will be held by the Young People's Society of the First Swedish Baptist church tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Swedish temple, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. "Our Foreign Population" will be the topic under discussion.

The following program will be carried out: Hymn, Scripture reading, invocation; solo, Miss Hulda Lundstrom; topic, "Where From?" Carl Person; topic, "Where To?" Miss Agnes Johnson; reading, "Russian Baptists in Pueblo," Olga Hagberg; address, Rev. Swaney Nelson; hymn.

West End Shortrails.

Members of North Star Lodge No. 11, Independent Order of Good Templars, will visit Harmony Lodge of Superior, at the latter's club rooms, across the bay. The trip will probably be made in sleighs and there will be about fifty in the party.

Rev. Angus McKenzie of Bruno, Minn., will preach another of his Gaelic sermons at the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. It is expected that a large number will be in attendance, especially among the Scots of Duluth.

David Swanson, a West end young man, who has been attending the North Park Theological seminary at Chicago, studying for the ministry, is visiting friends and relatives in the West end for a few days. He will address a young people's meeting at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. In the evening he will occupy the pulpit at the same church.

Oscar Larson of Coleraine, Minn., is visiting friends in the West end for a few days. He expects to return to his home early next week.

H. G. Johnson of Virginia was in this end of the city yesterday.

Olson & Crawford, undertakers, 2118 West First street.

Torpedo Boat in Trouble.

Copenhagen, Jan. 21.—The newly-built torpedo boat Vesta, which left Karlsgrona, Sweden, yesterday, on a trial trip and was later reported as missing, was towed into this port today. She was discovered in a drifting condition with her propellor shaft broken.

COUNTY JAIL CROWDED AND INSANITARY

When a man is sentenced to the state prison, he should be sent there as soon as the papers can be prepared, instead of being held in jail for weeks and months. If a man is sentenced to be hanged, he should be hanged if he deserves it, or his case should at least be disposed of without the county being burdened with his keep for a year or more."

"The city should have a workhouse for its short term prisoners, drunks and vagrants, who are sent to the jail for three, ten, thirty or sixty days and must be crowded together if they are to be kept there at all," said Commissioner Joseph Cummings. "Some of those men, who are in many cases merely unfortunate, not vicious, are kept in the basement of the jail, where a dog should not be kept, while men who have really committed grievous crimes against society are given light airy quarters on the third floor. We cannot properly take care of the flood of city prisoners in the present jail, and I believe the city should take care of them with a workhouse."

May Condemn Jail.

Mr. Cummings told the board that L. G. Foley, state inspector of jails and lockups, visited the jail about a week ago with members of the county board and was vigorous in his denunciation of conditions. Mr. Foley threatened to condemn the jail unless some steps were taken by the county to provide a new building in which prisoners could be properly cared for.

The discussion over the new jail was brought up by Commissioner Ryan, who moved that the board take steps toward erecting a new building at some suitable site more convenient to the courthouse. It was brought out in the discussion that followed that it will be necessary for the county to be bonded for the money to erect the new building and an enabling act will have to be put through the legislature if that step is to be taken.

JOSEPH CUMMINGS,
Who Heads Committee of County Board to Investigate Jail Conditions.

Members of the board suggested that an investigation should be conducted by a committee before the board take any definite steps. The committee of the whole was then appointed by Chairman McInnis, with instructions to report at the next meeting on the conditions in the present jail, the need for a new building, the probable cost of it and the steps that would have to be taken by the board. The next meeting of the board will be held Feb. 6, and the report will be made at that time.

The board this morning awarded the contracts for the county printing and supplies. F. H. Lounsberry & Co. were awarded the contract for blanks and court calendars for the Duluth court, W. E. Hannaford of Virginia, the contract for printed supplies for the range court; Wendlandt Bros. company, the contract for books and Chamberlain & Taylor, the contract for office supplies.

COPPERS WEAKEN AT MARKET'S CLOSE

Values Act Well in the Early Hours—Bank Statement Is Good.

The copper market today was strong from the opening to near the end when values suddenly drooped on account of profit-taking on the hard spot. The express companies have made large reductions in rates in many parts of the country, and the traders regard this as a plan to forestall any possible legislation directed at the companies and their rates. The steel business is improved and officials expect foreign business for this year to be the largest in the history of the corporation. Pig iron shows some improvement. A well known copper magnate in an Eastern newspaper interview said today that he believed copper stocks will show a further reduction this month and that the red metal situation will go on a more favorable plane. The bank statement today was moderately good.

The United Metals Selling company has reduced its price for electrolytic copper to 12½c. Lake is quoted at 12¾c.

Amalgamated sold at $64.75 to $65 to $64.37½, Calumet & Arizona at $48.25 to $47.87½, North Butte at $28.75, Giroux at $6.68¾, Greene at $6.50 to $6.75, Butte Ballaklava at $6.12½, Superior & Pittsburg at $14.25 to $14.12½, Denn sold at $5, Red Warrior at $1.56¼, Carman at 92c and Sierra at $1.75 to $1.87½.

The various interests operating in the porphyry district of the Globe Camp, Inspiration, Miami, Keystone and Live Oak, have entered into a side line agreement which will avoid any possibility of friction concerning operating developments in the future.

Inspiration should add tonnage very quickly from now on, probably at the rate of about 2,000,000 tons per month. It is now costing the company about ½ cent per ton to place ore in sight, or $5,000 for every 1,000,000 tons developed, which is very cheap development work.

ARRESTED IN EITHER EVENT

Dominic Maas Tells a Hard Luck Story to the Court.

Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Maas were arrested yesterday afternoon on complaint of Truant Officer H. J. Gude, who charged them with not compelling their daughter, Anna, to attend school. The father pleaded that if he whipped his child to force her to go to school he was threatened with arrest, and that if he didn't do so, the child refused to go to school, and he was arrested anyhow.

The court thought that he could keep the child in school and continued the case until Jan. 28 to give him an opportunity to do so. Should the child remain away from school, Maas will be severely dealt with unless he is able to show better reasons than he presented yesterday.

NORTON TO RESIGN.

Probable That Secretary to the President Will Leave His Post.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The fact that Charles D. Norton, secretary to the president would retire from that position in the more or less near future and return to private business in Chicago, was disclosed yesterday in connection with the proposal to increase the salary of the position from $6,000 to $10,000 a year.

It was stated in the sub-committee of the senate committee on finance that while Mr. Norton strongly urged the increase in connection with the reorganization of the White House staff, he had declared that he would not himself get the benefit of the increase.

It was said at the White House that from the beginning of his work as secretary Mr. Norton had an understanding with the president that after the White House staff had been reorganized, he would be free to return to private business.

It was said that Mr. Norton's successor was long ago decided upon, but that no announcement on that subject would be made at present.

MEMORY BAD.

Joseph G. Robin, Indicted Banker, Appears in Insolvency Court.

New York, Jan. 21.—Joseph G. Robin, the indicted head of the Northern bank and Washington Savings bank, both of which were closed by the state superintendent of banking, was examined in the United States bankruptcy court yesterday.

Robin's examination is the first step by his creditors to ascertain the amount of his estate. The indicted banker appeared to be in excellent health, but of uncertain memory. Three alienists were present.

The exact amount of his holdings was uncertain. Robin said he owned approximately 4,000 shares of Northern bank stock, 17,000 shares of the Fidelity & Development Co., $50,000 worth of bonds of the South Shore Traction company, 71,000 shares of the Aetna Indemnity company, 100 shares of the Reid Lumber & Timber company, and an unknown interest in various other corporations.

"Did you tell any gentlemen just before Christmas that they could go to your apartment and take whatever stock they found there?" Robin was asked.

"They have said I am crazy," he replied, "but I was never crazy enough for that."

GAS KILLS FOUR IN PHILADELPHIA FRIDAY.

Philadelphia, Jan. 21.—Gas got in its deadly work in two different places in the Tenderloin section of the city yesterday when five persons were found overcome, five of them dying before they could be resuscitated.

John Boyle and his sister, Nellie, and John Keefe were found in one of the houses and were dead when they were removed to a hospital. Charles Weier and Sadie Rossman were found overcome in a room in a lodging house. Weier was dead and the woman in a serious condition.

A slot gas meter was responsible for the death of the first three. In the case of Weier and the woman the police are not certain whether it was an accident.

MR. E. W. RUSSELL, the Duluth representative of the National Cash Register Company has returned from Dayton, Ohio.

There for a week, with 187 other salesmen and system experts from all over the U. S. and Canada, he studied new, improved store systems and methods of protecting the merchants of this community.

A new plan, "Get a Receipt," is considered by all of the system experts at the convention as the greatest advance in business system for storekeepers made in years.

Mr. Russell says:

"I think this the most valuable plan yet devised to protect a storekeeper's cash and credit sales and all the transactions that take place between customers and clerks; to protect clerks against mistakes; to increase the efficiency of sales organizations; to save the time of business houses; and to get new customers."

HEAVY BLASTS BREAK WINDOWS

Mining Explosions Near Hibbing Homes Furnish Work for Glaziers.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some of the residents of the north end of Second avenue had a pretty bad shaking up yesterday, when their front windows were smashed by blasting on the Oliver property at the north end of Second avenue. Complaints have been made for some time that the engineers in charge were using too heavy blasts, considering the nearness to the residences, but no notice was taken and finally the matter has culminated in the breaking of the windows in the houses fronting on Second avenue.

The premises to suffer worst were the two-story frame houses adjoining the Barrett block, which had practically all their upstairs windows smashed and some of the lower ones. In the Barrett block, the shock was not so heavy, as being of brick construction it offered a more soad resistance to the tremors of the ground when the heavy explosion occurred. It is understood that efforts are to be made to have the charges decreased, as during the past summer a large piece of rock was blown through the roof of a nearly house and the occupants only escaped injury or death by a miracle.

GRAND RAPIDS WINS.

Beats Hibbing Basket Ball Players Score of 28 to 14.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The high school boys' basket ball team went down before the Grand Rapids five last evening, when the latter claimed the honors of the game by a score of 28 to 14. The game took place in the gymnasium of the high school and was somewhat marred by the latter half of the game being played by the flickering light of oil lamps as the electric light service once more failed, through the fire at the power house. The play was fast and furious and some good work was done by both teams. At the end of the first half the score read 12 to 12 and the local fans had high hopes of coming off the victors in spite of the fact that the boys from Grand Rapids had scored heavily in the last part of the second half. Hibbing did well at the start and got 11 to Grand Rapids 5, and it was at this point of the game that the hopes of the home team ran highest. Will Schirmer played a fine game and was the star of the Hibbing Highs throughout the whole game. Fred Cobb was unable to play and the home team felt his loss badly.

VIRGINIA BOWLERS ARE HAVING LOTS OF FUN.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The bowling game continues to absorb attention and nearly every night there is lively contests for supremacy among the different clubs of the city and other range towns. Currie's Kittens have won the majority of games during the week.

The Kittens in the first game got a total score of 2,419 against 2,218 for the Olivers, the latter being defeated by 201 pins.

The second game resulted in the defeat of the Olivers by 354 pins, the score being 2,333 against 1,979.

The Nealys of Chisholm were defeated by the Kittens by 127 pins, the score being 2,444 against 2,272.

The Nealys were also defeated by the Olivers by a score of 25 pins in their game at the Oliver club alleys Friday night.

The high scores for the week at the Lusk & Sigel alleys were: Young, 213, 212; Knutson, 219, 211; Clark, 209, 208; Taylor, 216, 214; Eilers, 207, 211; Morneau, 209, 16; Rivers, 222, 219; Currie, 221, 220.

AURORA FANS GETTING BUSY

Winter's Cold Does Not Deter Making Plans for Coming Season.

Aurora, Minn., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a baseball meeting just held, George E. Webb was elected manager of the Aurora team for the coming season. F. V. Anderson was elected assistant, and C. H. Graham was elected secretary treasurer.

The meeting was held in the council chambers and was most enthusiastic. The prospects for a strong team this season are very bright. The new work opening up around Aurora will furnish employment for any amount of good players and there is already a good team on the field.

A better and larger grounds than ever before is in sight and it is thought that it will be possible to enclose them before the season starts, thus placing the game, on a strict business basis at the beginning of the season.

PLEASED WITH NEW EDIFICE

Chisholm's New M. E. Church Just Dedicated, Subject of Pride.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not only the congregation of the First M. E. church but friends of the church who belong to other congregations are proud of the achievements of the church in building and dedicating a new edifice, as told briefly in The Herald of Monday. Rev. Charles P. Keast, the pastor, who has labored hard to bring about the present splendid edifice is also being complimented.

The dedicatory exercises last Sunday were the most notable ever held here. Bishop Robert McIntyre of St. Paul assisted by Rev. Dr. M. P. Burns of Minneapolis and the Rev. Dr. E. K. Copper of Duluth, were present.

Bishop McIntyre preached the dedicatory sermon at the morning service, laying emphasis upon the church as a human as well as divine institution, showing why all men should indorse and uphold it. Dr. Burns preached the evening sermon and set forth the value of the church as an institution in the community.

Subscribe Liberal Sum.

During both services an appeal was made for funds to provide against the church's indebtedness, and something in the neighborhood of $2,000 was pledged for that purpose the money to be paid in one year.

The music during the day's services was in charge of Jesse Madsen, chorister, and Mrs. C. M. Beek, organist. A male quartet furnished a splendid selection at the evening service.

The building has been under course of construction since July 15 last, and was completed and furnished just one day before the dedicatory exercise.

The main audience room seats 160 people, and with two smaller rooms opening into it, the seating capacity is increased to 200.

All the windows on the main floor are of art glass, furnished by St. Germain Brothers of Duluth. Each smaller window has a suitable emblem and the two larger east and west windows a very appropriate and beautiful figure.

The pews are of golden oak, polished and rubbed, and all inside woodwork is stained and varnished to match.

Hard Maple Floors.

The floor is of hard maple, and having been scraped and smoothed after it was laid, gives a very pleasing finish.

The lower floor has a ten-foot ceiling and with kitchen and parlor makes a very convenient place for holding the social functions of the church, as well as a suitable place for the primary department of the Sunday school.

The membership and friends of the church are highly pleased with their new house of worship and Rev. Mr. Keast, the pastor, has received many congratulatory words as to the credit this new church building is to the town.

HIBBING IN DARKNESS.

Part of Village Service's Knocked Out By Fire.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.) — About 8 o'clock last night the auxiliary boiler house of the power plant took fire. The building, a single story wooden structure, burned rapidly and the fire though small was spectacular and was watched by shivering crowds until the brigade got it under control. A very high wind was blowing and some fear was felt for the houses in the vicinity on account of the showers of sparks that were flying in all directions, but the prompt work of the department soon put the fire beyond the danger point and kept it within the building in which it originated. A biting wind blowing all the time did not make the efforts of the firemen any easier, and although fortunately it did not get beyond control yet it was not much of a picnic for the men while it lasted. Owing to the shortening of the supply of steam by the cutting out of the boilers necessary in fighting the fire the lights were out over a portion of the town and in some districts it was more than an hour before they were turned on again.

MERCIFUL JUDGE GETTING REWARD

Hibbing Young Man, Against Whom Sentence Was Suspended, Lives Correct Life.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Brady of the municipal court is treasuring a letter he has received from a young man who owes the fact he is not today laboring under the blot of a jail sentence to the judge's action in suspending sentece against him to give him another chance. The young man got into bad company, took to drink and was arrested during a saloon brawl several months ago. When brought before the judge the latter after hearing his story of the fall through bad associations and believing his promise to travel the straight path suspended sentence. The young man is now working for one of the mining companies and living a correct life.

He has written the judge as follows expressing his gratitude (the writer's name being suppressed for ovious reasons):

"I take the liberty of addressing you this letter to thank you a thousand times for your wisdom and kindness, not only me, but to my dear father and mother, for suspending my sentence of thirty days. Sir, I am living up to the conditions that you let me out on. I gave the officer $3, to give to the man that hurt his ear, and I haven't taken a drink, and I intend to remain so in the future. Your honor, I thank you again for letting me go. It would learn me nothing to send me to jail, and now I am happy and I am sure I am making others happy too, by sending them a letter every week. I again thank you a million times, and shall always remain your friend."

Dr. C. N. Brooks, the agency physician at the Nett Lake reservation, was in Tower Friday. He recently came from Chicago, where he took postgraduate work in medicine.

Work of repairing the shaft at the Soudan mine is progressing satisfactorily under the direction of Supt. McCurdy.

The iron properties about Tower are being extensively drilled, and shaft sinking progressing as rapidly as the difficult nature of the rock will permit. In most cases the work can only be prosecuted by blasting.

The logging business continues very active. Long days and short nights are the order at the larger lumber camps. As the weather is of very uncertain quantity, the very largest amount of work is being done regardless of the discomfiture of men or beasts. The cold season is usually all too short for lumbering.

FAMILY BURNED OUT.

Disastrous Blaze Visits John Horwath's Home Near Ely.

Ely, Minn., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Hreiad.)—Shortly after 7 last night the fire department was called out by fire discovered in a dwelling at the Pioneer location. A line of hose was laid and water soon had the fire under control. The interior of the house was badly burned as was also the furnishings. It is presumed the fire originated from a stove pipe passing through a partition. The building was owned by John Horwath, who occupied it with his family and the loss has left the family in poor circumstances.

HUSBAND IS BOSS.

Woman Must Live Where He Says, Declares Hibbing Judge.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The charges Mrs. Tony Dravich preferred against her husband of beating her did not hold water when aired before Judge Brady in municipal court yesterday.

The evidence disclosed there were two sides to the case and incidentally two men in it. One of the men was said to have paid more attention to the woman than the husband approved. It also transpired that the husband had tried to get his wife to go to West Duluth with him, but she preferred Hibbing and refused to go.

In dismissing the case Judge Brady informed the woman that it was her place to go where and when her husband told her, "You tell her that he is boss" said the judge to the interpreter, "and that she has got to go where he tells her to." It cost the wife $9.50 to get out of the courtroom, the complaining witness having to pay the costs.

TWO VIEWS THAT SHOW THE FERTILITY OF THE LAND IN NORTHERN MINNESOTA

TIMOTHY AND RED TOP HAY ON SWAMP LAND DRAINED ONE YEAR BEFORE.

RED CLOVER, SECOND CROP, TWENTY-NINE DAYS OLD AND THIRTY-FOUR INCHES HIGH.

Northern Minnesota agricultural opportunities are being brought to the attention of the people of Illinois in a strikingly effective way by the exhibits contained in the Minnesota car of the Great Northern train that is making a tour of the Middle Western states. James A. Larson, assistant secretary of state, is in charge of the car, succeeding Sam S. Fullerton in that capacity when Mr. Fullerton appealed to State Immigration Commissioner Welch for relief. Mr. Fullerton is anxious to return to the employ of the state in the fish and game commission, and to accommodate him Mr. Larson was prevailed upon to take charge of the car temporarily.

The exhibits shown in the car were gathered and arranged under the direction of the immigration commissioner and they include many varieties of excellent Northern Minnesota products. These are attracting the attention of thousands of residents of Illinois, in which state the car has been visited by hundreds of interested persons each day. Valuable information concerning the opportunities offered in Northern Minnesota in literature prepared by the immigration commissioner's staff, and a number of lithographs are shown which tell in a striking way of the productive qualities of Northern Minnesota soil.

Among the lithographs exhibited are the two reproduced above. The larger one shows the harvesting of a first crop of timothy and red top hay on drained swamp land in Northern Minnesota, one year after drainage.

This drained swamp land is among the most productive soils to be found anywhere, and there are thousands of acres of it awaiting the coming of the settler. This part of the state has become famous for the fine grasses it grows in such abundance, and it is because of the fact that grasses do prosper so exceedingly well here that those best informed are confident Northern Minnesota is destined to be the best dairying district in the state.

The other cut shows a field with a second crop of clover, twenty-nine days old and thirty-six inches high. This, too, is a Northern Minnesota field. The third crop of clover on this land was plowed down when eighteen inches high.

In a region where such clover is shown in this picture it is a foregone conclusion that the best of agricultural prospects exist. Any one in the slightest degree posted on farm values will appreciate what this means and therefore it is considered a certainty that many settlers, after viewing the exhibits and lithographs, which are reproductions of actual photographs, will come to Northern Minnesota from the points visited by the car.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MAY SEND ALL BACK

Man, Woman and Three Children Alleged to Be Illegally in Country.

Arrested at Crookston on Allegation Immigration Laws Were Violated.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—United States Immigration Agent B. O. Holton of Winnipeg came here yesterday and arrested Mrs. Piernel Felicien, her three children ranging in years from 1½ years to 4, and Charles Gueler, the charge against the man being he brought the woman into this country for immoral purposes and against the woman that she came into the country for immoral purposes, and that the three children are liable to become public charges. All came from France and following a hearing before a United States commissioner are being detained pending instructions from the immigration officials at New York, the man and woman having entered that port last May as husband and wife.

Leave Husband in Hospital.

Mrs. Felicien and Gueler claim that with her husband and children they all left a small town in France last spring for the United States. Mr. Felicien, they claim, took sick suddenly in France and was taken to a hospital. He wanted his wife and children to come on and commissioned Gueler to take care of them till he recovered and could follow. They further state that Felecien is still ill and in a hospital, and therefore has been unable to get here.

Gueler, Mrs. Felicion and the children came first to Michigan, where they remained for a month, when Mrs. John McKill, the widow of John McKill, who was an uncle of Mrs. Felicien, wrote them to come to Crookston and that they could have a home with her. They came last June with Gueler and all went well until about two months ago, when Mrs. McKill ordered them all from her home. They refused to leave and the officials were appealed to by Mrs. McKill, who gave them information as to the real status of things and she made some ugly charges. City Attorney Loring communicated with the immigration authorities which resulted in the arrival of Immigration Agent Holton, who returned from Winnipeg. The fact that they entered the United States as man and wife leaves the inference upon which the charges for deportation are based.

Both Protest Innocence.

Gueler and Mrs. Felicion protest their innocence of the charges preferred, but the agent is certain they will be deported together with the children. The story the principals tell has aroused much local sympathy for them. Gueler claims that he is just carrying out his pledge to Felicion in paying for the support of the woman and her children, and if their story is true the case is a remarkably pathetic one. Gueler is a skilled workman and has been employed upon the new convent school since his arrival here. Sympathizers here are trying to locate Felicien and see if their story is true, which might result in their being allowed to remain.

SAULT STE. MARIE MAN AGAINST IT

Check for $4,000 Received Four Years Ago for Taxes Is Not Good.

Sault Ste. Marie, Jan. 21.—James T. Bennett of Detour, formerly representative in the state legislature from the Chippewa district, may be called upon to pay a deficit of more than $4,000 that occurred in his office when he held the position of county treasurer four years ago. The shortage was brought to light in a report of Charles G. Clarke to the board of supervisors.

It is claimed that Bennett accepted the checks of Victor E. Metzger, at that time a well known business man of the Soo for taxes which were repudiated by the banks when presented for payment. Metzger promised to make them good, but kept putting off the matter until his failure, in which he lost all of his property. Bennett never made a report of the transaction to the county officials, but in lieu of the Metzger check gave his own personal check for the amount of the shortage, which was never cashed but which has since been carried as cash on the county books.

Bennett is said to have received from Metzger a couple of lots in the Soo, the value of which is not to exceed half of the amount of the checks he gave for taxes. The matter has been referred to a special committee, of which Mayor Frank P. Sullivan is the chairman, for investigation.

Bennett is looked upon as a victim of circumstances and no one in the county believes that he profited in any way of the transactions. He will probably have to make good the amount of his check, amounting to $4,066.70.

GREAT DITCHING PLANS ON FOOT

Northwestern Minnesota to Do Much of That Work During This Year.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—This year promises renewed activity in drainage work throughout this section. During the past two years work has been pushed on the big general drainage plan affecting Roseau, Marshall and Red Lake counties and a portion of Beltrami county, and work on the main ditches started at that time is rapidly nearing completion, though last fall it became so dry that some of the floating dredges had to suspend operations from lack of water.

As a result of the drainage done, and that planned for the coming year, hundreds of thousands of acres have been converted into the richest of agricultural lands, and fully as much more, which was sufficiently dry on an average season, will now make crops sure on wet seasons as well, and will permit of farm work being started much earlier in the spring on any year.

Surveyor O. L. Hamery of this city reports several big ditching propositions in Marshall and Beltrami counties for the coming year. Judical Ditch No. 12, which lies mostly in Beltrami county and will empty into Marshall County Ditch No. 2, has just been established. It is forty-three miles in length and in it 524,427 yards of dirt, the moving of which, together with the cost of culverts and bridges, is estimated to cost $77,853. The date for the letting of this contract will be announced in a short time. Feb. 3 has been set for the date of the letting of the contract for Judicial Ditch No. 15 at Warren, Marshall county. There were 300,000 yards in this contract and the cost is estimated at $32,000 exclusive of the cost of culverts and bridges.

Marshall County Ditch No. 22, near Radium and Viking, a short ditch, will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000. These are but a few of the new drainage projects definitely decided upon and there will be a great many more, the dry season not in any way having checked sentiment in the line of the necessity of good drainage.

PATRIARCHS DANCE CLOG.

Five Old Timers of Red River Valley Very Chipper.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—This week five patriarchs, all pioneers of the Red river valley, have been holding reunions at their various homes. Two of them are close to the century mark and the other three average over 80. The reunion was caused by a visit here of Ambrose Godbout of East Grand Forks, who will be 91 years of age May 14, and who is still spry. He has been visiting a son, Eli, at McIntosh, for a month and visited here with another son, Samuel, who is on the police force. He makes his home with a daughter, Mrs. Anthony Lesser of East Grand Forks, but until two years ago resided in Crookston.

The oldest man in the quintet of old pals is Charles Benoit, who will be 93 next March. He came to the valley thirty-two years ago and for years resided on a farm near Red Lake Falls, but now makes his home with his daughter, Mrs. Oliver Caron of this city.

Ephraim Trombly, the next oldest, is 87, and resides in this city. He settled three miles east of Red Lake Falls thirty-four years ago, but has resided here for many years past. He is also a Civil war veteran.

Ephrone Sampere, 77 years of age, is still able to work and draw a man's wages at common labor, and works for the city most of the time. He is a Civil war veteran and has lived here for a quarter of a century.

Benjamin Champagne, also 77 years of age, settled in Russia township twenty-seven years ago, but moved to Crookston as a retired farmer several years ago. Every one of the old men are able bodied and in their reunions cracked jokes, and at the Trembly, Champagne and Sampere homes, each did a clog dancing stunt to show that they were not "has-beens."

TWO WIVES ON HANDS.

J. W. Allen of Minneapolis Mixed Up in Odd Legal Tangle.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 21.—What may be one of the greatest legal tangles in the history of the Hennepin county court will be unraveled by lawyers and judges in the strange case of John W. Allen, or J. Wesley Allen, as he is sometimes known, who finds himself burdened with two wives when he thought he had but one, and who has had divorce papers served against him by his first, while he is trying to secure a divorce from Wife No. 2.

The fact that Allen is an Englishman, that both wives are English, and that both marriages were performed in Canada under English law, and that the English law holds a person dead after seven years of absence, is adding complications. Lawyers say the second marriage was made in good faith and that no charge of bigamy can be brought. They say Wife No. 2 is not a wife, as both English and United States laws do not recognize polygamy, and such being the case, Allen cannot secure a divorce from a woman who is not married to him.

Mrs. Allen No. 1 is in Hurley, Wis., and it is from there that she is bringing her suit. She was married to Allen in 1889 in Calgary and disappeared in 1902. Mrs. Allen No. 2 is living at 2919 Olive avenue north, while Mr. Allen is living at 1124 Hennepin avenue.

LOGGING ROAD BEING REMOVED

Dismantling Property of the Northland Pine Company Near Pine River.

Pine River, Minn., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steam logging railroad belonging to the Northland Pine company, a branch of the Weyerheauer interests, which runs from Cross Lake to Longville with various feeders and spurs, is being torn up and the entire equipment being brought to this place and Jenkins where it is being loaded upon cars. Part of the equipment will go to Saskatchewan, Can., part to some point in Montana and the remainder will be shipped to Chicago.

It is not known just who the purchasers are but a large crew of men are at work getting things in shape so that the steel and other accessories may be brought from the extreme northern point of the road near Long Lake southward to Swanburg, about the center of the line, and Cross Lake the southern extreme of the line of road. The work of tearing up the track is being done by the agent of the Jones Purchasing Agency, Minneapolis, and the contract of delivering the stuff on the M. & I. at this point and at Jenkins has been taken jointly by W. J. Curo of Jenkins, and W. B. Jones of Sylvan. The hauling will be done by team, the distance from Swanburg here being fourteen miles, and the distance from Cross Lake to Jenkins being nearly as far.

Job Costs $12,000.

The figures of the Curo-Jones contract, it is said will reach about $12,000, and the entire cost of tearing up and transporting the equipment to this line of railway is estibated at about the same figure.

The Northland Pine company has not used this line for three years, and it has furnished subject for a great deal of railway talk at times regarding different purchasers who had projects for new railways that would tap the section of the country east of here.

There are about fifty miles of railway line, including three locomotives, 100 logging cars, a number of dump cars, sawmill and other accessories.

It is recommended that if they offer the added studies, that the state aid be raised $750 each.

OWE MINISTER PAY.

Charge Against St. Paul Preacher of Embezzling Falls Flat.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 21.—Following evidence submitted only by the plaintiffs, Rev. David C. Lebahn, whose arrest Monday followed charges of embezzlement made by members of the German Lutheran hospital association, was dismissed yesterday on motion of Assistant County Attorney Ryan in police court. The preacher was not even called upon the stand.

"This is more of a civil case," was Judge Hanft's comment. The evidence drawn from the complainants showed that Rev. M. Lebahn had been president of the association for the past year, and also its spiritual advisor. For his work, he received a salary of $1,100 a year. The association still owed him $170 for 1910 services before Nov. 1, all of his November and December salary, amounting to $182, and $200 which he had advanced personally to pay a note given by the association and which was not yet due.

Ten Eyck and the Rowing Game in Duluth—Baseball as a World-Wide Sport—The Murray "Kid Rink"—Daring Westergaard Will Meet Ordemann—Wrestling Pictures.

(BY BRUCE.)

An old oarsman, one who has seen some of the greatest rowing races in England and this country, who was present at the time when they pulled Ed Hanlon's shoes off and nailed them over the boathouse door, was talking yesterday of what Ten Eyck should accomplish with the rowers of the Duluth Boat club.

Now this man has seen the very best of them, and he knows a lot about rowing, and he expressed the opinion that Ten Eyck's coming is going to do a lot for rowing in these parts. Here's hoping that it does.

Naturally we want to win with the eyes of the people of Duluth glued on the efforts of the boys of the home guard. Though the past has been made bleak with discouragements, somehow the boys don't lose faith, and with a professional coach of the standing of the scion of one of the most famous rowing families this country has ever produced, there should be sufficient improvement among the boys to turn out at least one winning crew.

It is to be hoped that Ten Eyck will inaugurate several sweeping reforms. It seems passing strange that the crews of this club cannot win, when you come to think that the oarsmen of the Duluth Boat club possess the finest physical qualifications of any of the rowers at the Northwestern rowing regattas.

Ten Eyck will be paid for discovering the fault that lurketh in the training methods. It may be that the boys do not row enough, and it may be some other more radical fault. Those who have compared the Duluth crews with the crews of St. Paul and Winnipeg, have arrived at the conclusion that we do not row enough.

Last year St. Paul did not really expect to make very much of a showing at the Kenora meeting. Then came Kennedy of Yale. He was with the St. Paul boys for about ten days, and in that time he brought the crew along with such a masterly hand, showed such an insight in the imperfections of the style and the individual faults, that the crew was almost transformed in that short space of time.

Kennedy came shortly before the time set for the Kenora meet. It is said that he yanked some of the men of the eight and placed them on the rowing machines, teaching them the proper stroke and other details, at a time when they were supposed to have about reached their highest point of form.

It is to be hoped that Ten Eyck will reach this city soon enough to give the Duluth men some coaching on the machines. Oarsmen can learn a lot before they ever get on the water, and this is especially true of the green men, as witness the wonders accomplished by the veteran, Kennedy.

In the past, each season has been called a period when the Duluth crew was due to win. If the efforts in the past have been strenuous, indications point to the superlative of effort the coming season. It means a lot to the local organization, as the engaging of a coach as famous as Mr. Ten Eyck would indicate, and with the right kind of spirit, let us all hope that the long deferred dream will be realized.

In yesterday's Herald was published the story of a Japanese youngster applying to Charles Webb Murphy, the fancy waistcoated owner of the famous Chicago Cubs, as a candidate for the team.

Baseball As a World Sport.

This is important, in the fact that it points to the wonderful spread of baseball. Some time ago an article appeared on the Herald sport page, pointing out the fact that some day baseball would be played in almost every country on the globe, and that world's series would be all the name indicated.

Since that time, which was only a short time ago, this country has received a call for a professional player to teach the game to the little brown men, and we hear now and again rumors of how Joe Tinker is going to Australia to teach the great national pastime to the Australians.

In Cuba the game of baseball has become immensely popular, and it is said that the descendants of the noble Don have shown real ability as players. In South America today they have been so busy with revolutions that little time has been given over to the game, and yet reports are carried in every once in a while, telling of a game played down in the insurgent belt.

Mexico is coming to the game one of these days. The spread of baseball has been most remarkable, and it has all come about in the past year or two. With Cuba sending several crack teams to this country the coming summer, and Japan about to invade our shores once more, for it will be remembered that a Japanese college nine has played several games on the Pacific coast, one can guess what the future of the great summer sport will be.

It is a great game, and it has ever been kept clean and honest. Herein lies the secret of its success. When President Hurlbut, the first executive of the National league, if memory is not agog, stamped out the element of gambling and dishonesty among the players, he set a precedent that has been followed in the after years. Those of us who love the game, do not wonder that finally the other countries of the globe are showing enthusiasm over it.

Young Mister Murray has won a large following the present week by his hard playing.

Murray's Rink Has "Went" Some.

He capped a great showing at the present 'spiel by his sensational defeat yesterday of the great Conkel, in that 13-head game. There were quite a few crowded around and shook hands with the boy skip.

It is a pleasure to add right here that Mons Murray is a member of the fourth estate. He writes curling for the Minneapolis Journal and has helped to boom the sport in Minneapolis the present winter. Being a newspaper man, Kid Murray is naturally nervy and never believes than anything is quite impossible.

Yesterday Conkel had him down 8-3, yet he kept right on playing. If he hadn't been a member of the optimistic press, it might have been that discouragement would have clouded hope of sweet victory off the horizon. But Murray kept coming, and he won, Bill.

The rink has been one of the favorites of the 'spiel. Their game has always been watched by a big gallery. They are working hard all the time, they are a clean lot of boys, and Joe Schuler is just as much a boy as the other Kids. If the Murray kids should not have come—well, the 'spiel would not have been quite the same.

Down Minneapolis way the genial press writers are daring Jess Westergaard to set foot in the city. They say he wants to wrestle Ordemann in Des Moines, when the only thing that city has is about 75,000 population and a commission form of government.

They are Daring Westergaard to Come.

Westergaard is a Swede and Ordemann is a Norwegian. These races have not the most cordial love, and if the Westergaard chap should happen to put one over on the Ordemann man in the Mill City, complications would be interesting, to say the least.

Minneapolis has so many Swedes that the Americans go out of the city on the Fourth of July and hold a reunion. These Swedes might flock to the support of Westergaard, even though Henry is accounted as one of the greatest citizens of the Mill City. This bond of racial remembrance burns strong at times in the breast of man.

Ordemann has been on the trail of Westergaard for over a year now, and if the two meet it will be hard to get the crowd into the spacious Minneapolis auditorium. They should make one of the greatest matches wrestled the present season. Ordemann, close followers of the game believe, has a little on the husky man from Iowa—but then Westergaard has come some the present season, as his great record will show.

Those who remember the immense amount of interest that was shown last season in the meeting between Gotch and the giant Pole, Zbyszko, may also be interested in the announcement that the pictures will be shown in this city.

Wrestling Pictures Will Be Shown.

They will be run off as a preliminary to the meeting between Ordemann and Lehto, and as they require over thirty minutes to show all the details of that famous mat battle, the films will furnish an unusual attraction to lovers of wrestling.

They are of special interest at the present time, since it has been definitely announced that Frank Gotch has come out of retirement, and will meet either Hackenschimdt or Zbyszko, who despite his defeat at the hands of Gotch, is one of the greatest wrestlers the world has ever produced.

It may be remembered that the second fall in that match went something like 27 minutes. Gotch was required to exert every ounce of his wonderful strength, to resort to every strategy known to the mat game, and use every trick in his extensive repertoire, to defeat the Polish champion.

The pictures were run off privately, and it may be stated that they are unusually clear and show with remarkable clearness every detail of the meeting between two of the strongest men of the modern world. The Polish people of this city, who are intense admirers of the prowess of their countrymen, are taking an unusual interest in the coming of the wrestling pictures.

CAN OLD BOB STILL FIGHT?

Theatrical Man Believes With Two Good Hands Fitz Could Beat Johnson.

Dayton, Ohio, Jan. 21.—"Old Bob Fitzsimmons would give Jack Johnson the beating of his life if he had good hands," said Joe Edmonston here today. Edmonston was Fitz's theatrical manager after Jeffries had beaten him the second time in 1902.

Edmonston says Fitz is as good physically as he was ten years ago. He broke his hands on Jeffries' head in their second fight. He tried to fight again, but when he let loose of his old man-killing punch he was hurt worse than the other fellow.

"I fixed up a musical comedy for Bob," said Edmonston. "A little clogging was more to his tune than lots of slugging. His pedal joints were limberer than his knuckles. The show was called 'Peck and His Mother-in-Law,' and say, it was some show. People just flocked to see Fitz. And they saw some perfectly good acting and dancing, too.

"The next year we tried something more pretentious. It was a real thriller with a title that ought to have been fireproofed. It was called 'Fight for Love.' It brought in so much coin that it ran three years—and then it was really a crime to kill it.

"Bob thinks the brainy boys know a little bit about everything but themselves. He thinks there they belong to the kindergarten class. 'Run into any bank or office any day,' he says, 'and take a look at the pasty-looking parties sitting behind mahogany desks. They have a bottle or two of tablets near their elbows and about twice a year they go away to get doped up for a few months more.

"'Now what they really need,' said old Bob, 'is a good punching each day. They need the dead prodded off of 'em. Also no booze and dope for a spell.'

"That is Fitz's dream—to start such a place for men. He has the farm at Dunnellan, N. J., and it will be a swell place when it's fixed up as he plans. I'll wager there will be 500 down-and-out gents there all the time getting made over. Bob can do the job, believe me.

"Bob will never be happy until he gets back into his work again. He has got to use those busted fists to get any real enjoyment out of life. The worst of it is, he knows that in spite of his 56 years he has got it all over every other fighter, and that it's just fists that stand in his way. If Santa Claus had sent Bob Fitzsimmons a fresh set of mitts, Jack Johnson would have received a challenge Dec. 26 or late on the evening of the 25th. And he would have been licked, too.

"But as it is, the training farm down at Dunnellan will have to bring Fitz all the rest of his joy in this life. Too bad stores don't sell hands and fluid inside of 'em."

A BUSY YEAR FOR WOLGAST

Cadillac Youth Says He Will Lick All His Challengers.

"This is going to be my busy year," says Ad Wolgast. "I'm going to lick every man who thinks he has a license to fight for the lightweight title. As soon as I finish up with one I'll yell 'Next' and get busy again."

This announcement will bring joy to the hearts of a half dozen or more young 133-pounders. George Memsic is dee-lighted at the possibility of getting an early date with Wolgast. Owen Moran, Freddie Welch, Lew Powell, Anton Lagrave and misnamed "One Round" Hogan and the irrepresible veteran, Bat Nelson, all are clamoring for a chance at the Dutch demon. Yes, indeed, this is going to be Ad's busy year.

Welch His Hardest Opponent.

Of all the men named, Fredie Welch, the English champion, is the man whom Wolgast feels will give him the most trouble. Fear is unknown to Ad, but he figures that Welch is the lad who is going to worry him the most. It was in the cozy private office in the rear of Jim Jeffries' place that Wolgast unbosomed himself on this subject while in Los Angeles last summer. Here are the champion's exact words:

"Welch is a wonderful boxer, and what's more, he can hit a whole lot harder than most people give him credit for,' said Ad. "Welch not only hits hard and often, but he keeps pecking away at the same spot. He hits this spot at will, he's so clever, and the effect of a continual jabbing on the nose or in the eye is enough to worry an ordinary boxer into a frenzy.

"When I fight Welch, as I eventually will, I'll go into the ring with my mind made up to the effect that I am going to be hit more times than any other boxer ever hit me. Now, I'll explain to you how I will whip Welch. I've mapped out my plan already.'

To Cover Up at Start.

"To begin with, I'll insist that the match be for forty-five rounds. I'll crouch and cover up, but keep forcing Welch backward all the time. I'll keep this up for twenty rounds, and if I'm not mistaken, Freddie will be a pretty tired young man at the end of that time. Then I'll cut loose and start tearing after him. Once I get him tired out, I know I can finish him.

"Should I be forced to accept a 20-round match I'll cover up the first twelve rounds and plan to knock him out some time during the last eight rounds. You see, nothing tires a man more than to be forced backward. You remember the Colma battle between Britt and Nelson? It was owing to the fact that Nelson kept boring in and forcing Britt backward all the time that Jimmy was worn down to a stage where it was easy for Nelson to finish him. This same plan will work for me against Welch. You just wait until we come together and see if I'm not right."

JONES PEEVED AT WOLGAST

Veteran Manager May Quit World's Lightweight Champion.

Cadillac, Mich., Jan. 21. — Tom E. Jones, manager of Lightweight Champion Ad Wolgast, is so much wrought up over the liberty taken by Wolgast in signing a contract with Philadelphia Jack O'Brien for three appearances in Philadelphia while he (Jones) was absent from the city last week that the relations of the champion and his manager are near the breaking point.

To make a long story short, a dissolution of partnership between Ad and Tom is apparent.

The contract signed by Wolgast does not let Manager Jones in on the division of the wealth to be derived, and that is where it hurts.

"It was not a square deal," said Jones last night. "My agreement with Wolgast stipulates that I am to have charge of all negotiations for fights and am to have a certain percentage of Wolgast's share. Wolgast had no business to sign that contract with O'Brien without my consent, and if he does not give me the share of the receipts my contract with him calls for, I will call off the bouts. I have a legal right to do so."

Wolgast was not around his customary haunts last night and his view of his manager's attitude could not be obtained. Ad is a strong-minded young man, however, and it is believed by men who know him best that he will go through with the fights and let Jones seek redress in the courts afterward, if he chooses.

The two men have been on such good terms, however, that they may adjust their differences amicably.

GOPHERS BEATEN.

Illinois Basket Ball Team Wins By Close Score at Minueapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 21.—Illinois defeated Minnesota last night in a basket ball game by the score of 18 to 17. The game was rough in the extreme and the outcome was in doubt until the final moment.

VISITORS AN EASY MARK

Nelson Dewey Defeated at Basket Ball By One-Sided Score.

Harris and Osman Prove Stars of Contest—Second Quint Also Wins.

Last evening the crack Central high school basket ball team defeated its old rival, the Nelson-Deweys of Superior, by the score of 51 to 9. While the game was fast throughout, the visitors were outclassed by the locals and at no stage of the game was there any doubt of the outcome.

At the end of the first half the score stood 12 to 2 in favor of the high school of this city. It was in the second half that the Central team really showed the best playing, scoring 39 points to the 7 scored by the Superior boys.

Waldron and Johnson were absent from the Central lineup, and their absence undoubtedly weakened the playing of the Duluth five. Kenneth Harris and Osman substituted for these players and in the second half the playing of Osman was one of the features of the game. In the second half he threw seven baskets.

Capt. Morrey Harris registered 21 points for his team, throwing six field baskets and nine fouls. Osman secured nine field baskets, Solheim securing four and Kenneth Harris two.

Capt. Bjork of the visiting team scored 6 of the 9 points hung up by the crowd from across the bay, and was in the game every minute of the time. The remainder of the Superior five were outclassed by the fast playing of the Duluth boys.

In all departments of the game the Duluth quint showed strength. The defense of the Duluth boys was such as to give Superior little chance, while the shooting of baskets was at times brilliant. The team work of the Duluth boys was far better than that of their opponents.

The game was played in the new gymnasium of the high school and proved a fitting dedication of the new athletic hall. The second team of Central seemed enthused with the winning thing also, defeating the Superior second quint by the score of 35 to 10. Mars played a great game, scoring seven field baskets.

Next Tuesday evening the Centrals will play the Y. M. C. A. team and this game will be one of the features of the local season. On the showing made by the two teams the present season, the high school boys look the stronger.

The scores:

Duluth.		Superior.
K. Harris	f	Bjork
M. Harris	f	Horst
Osman	c	Adams
Solheim	g	Quinn
Jeronimus	g	Rands

For the second game the lineup was:

Duluth Second.		Superior Second.
Higgins	f	Moore
Mars	f	Lemeaux
Kelly	c	Smith
Bondy	g	Newton
O'Brien, Johnson	g	Rands

Summary—First game, 6: Referee, L. Young. Field goals, M. Harris, 6; K. Harris, 2; Osman, 9; Solheim, 4; Adams, 1; Bjork, 1. Scores from fouls, M. Harris, 9; Bjork, 4; Quinn, 1.

MUST MEET MAHMOUT.

Frank Gotch Insists That "Hack" Wrestle Famous Bulgarian.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—"There are two wrestlers who are conceded to have the best chance of taking my title away from me—Yussiff Mahmout and Hackenschmidt. I have defeated both men, but it is claimed the Turk has improved wonderfully during the three years since I met him. If the two will get together and fight it out—decide which is the better man—I will sign with the winner for the world's title in a minute."

The above is the ultimatum of Frank Gotch, world's champion wrestler. He stated that Hackenschmidt, whom the Iowa giant dislikes intensely, must qualify for a meeting by defeating some other first-class grappler, and in Gotch's opinion Yussiff Mahmout can pin the "Lion's" shoulders to the mat in a finish match. Gotch says he is willing to sign with Mahmout just as soon as he disposes of Hackenschmidt, but intimates that he doesn't want many matches, just a few with the "top notchers."

GERMAN INVENTS NEW SLED FOR USE IN DEEP SNOW

NEW TYPE OF SLED.

This is a new type of sled, invented by a German, to be used in deep snow. It has a single runner and looks something like a bicycle. It is propelled by the operation of pedals and a cog-tooth wheel. It should be more exciting than the ordinary sled, because one has all the uncertainty of balancing while going at great speed down hill.

ADAMS WIN AT HOCKEY

Defeat Their Old Rivals, the Fairmonts, By Score of 2 to 0.

Game Marked By Individual Play and Lack of Team Work.

Last night the Adams hockey team of the city league added further to its standing in the race by defeating the strong Fairmonts by the score of 2 to 0. Arnie Olsen scored the first goal about ten minutes after the opening of play in the first half, and shortly after this Grenner shot one in from scrimmage, and this ended the scoregetting for the evening.

Olsen and Grenner were the stars for the Adams, playing a strong game, while Goal Hammerbeck played a great game for the defeated Fairmonts. His blocking and guarding in the second half was clearly the feature of play.

The game was fast, marked by strong individual playing, but at times both sevens were somewhat lacking in team play. In the second half both teams showed improvement in this regard. The weather was very cool and was not conducive to the best playing. The crowd was small.

The lineup:

Adams		Fairmonts.
Kris	g	Hammerbeck
Erickson	p	Ostdahl
W. Olsen	c	Bully
A. Olsen	c	Ashley
H. Grenner	r	Bijould
E. Olsen	rw	Berg

Goals, Arnie Olsen, H. Grenner; referee, R. MacCrea; judge of play, S. Clark; timekeepers, McKenzie and Otterson.

CHICAGO SEVEN AT HOUGHTON

Portage Lake Hockey Team to Meet Illinois Athletic Club.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Portage Lake hockey team and the team representing the Illinois Athletic club of Chicago will battle at the Amphidrome rink, this city, Monday and Tuesday nights of next week in the first series of games between the two clubs for the Western championship.

The Portage Lakes will meet the Detroit Athletic club team of Detroit, a Cleveland team, probably the Pittsburg Athletic club or the Pittsburg Bankers, and others which are coming up into the Northwest for games this winter. Later the Portage Lakes will visit Chicago, Detroit, Minneapolis, St. Paul and other cities where hockey is played in the Central West. No Pittsburg trip will be taken this year.

The Illinois Athletic club's team is made up, for the greater part, of former players on teams in this district, Calumet, Houghton and Hancock, and of old International league players. The teams will line up as follows for next Monday's game here:

JOHNSON WILL MEET KAUFMAN

He Will Bet $10,000 to $5,000 That He Can Knock Out White Man.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 21.—Jack Johnson, heavyweight puglist, last night offered $10,000 to $5,000 that he could knock out either Al Kaufman or George Cotton. In the case of Cotton, the champion is willing to fight the moment the contest is arranged and guarantees to win in less than ten rounds or forfeit $10,000. As to a fight with Kaufman, Johnson was not specific, excepting to state he would want four weeks in which to prepare himself.

The subject seemed to worry Johnson. He went to a newspaper office tonight and made out a $10,000 check, payable to the newspaper and left disappointed when the newspaper refused to hold the money. He insisted that he would place the check with some reputable person before leaving the city.

Earlier in the day he made a statement that he had no intention of entering the ring for six months. According to Johnson he will quit the show business at the conclusion of his engagement here next Saturday night. After visiting his mother in Chicago he will go to San Francisco for two months and will then tour the world, going either to Australia or London first.

Johnson's offer to meet Al Kaufman dissipates a Chicago rumor to the effect that the champion had already been matched to fight twenty rounds in London in April.

Mauritz Harris of Superior defeated Ole Johnson of the same place in a handicap wrestling match, the contest being held before the local Order of Owls. Harris secured the dreaded toe hold and seriously injured big Ole, the latter refusing to give up. While it lasted the contest was one of interest and showed the clever class of little Harris.

ORDEMANN AND CUTLER.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 21.—Henry Ordemann has accepted the challenge of Charles Cutler of Chicago for a finish wrestling match with the toe hold barred and the bout will be put on at the Auditorium on the night of Feb. 1.

In the early fall Ordemann and Cutler opened the wrestling season in Minneapolis with a somewhat unsatisfactory result. Cutler won the first fall while Ordemann was a trifle careless, but right then the Norsk started into serious business. He went after Cutler and clamped a toe hold on him. Cutler had a weak knee, incident to a training injury received in the days when he was a boxer and getting a bad hold on this leg Ordemann literally put the Chicago man out of business. He was on crutches for quite a while after the match and is just now getting back into trim.

KALAMAZOO WINS.

Ice Boat From That Town Is Victor Over Madison Yacht.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Jan. 21.—By winning over the Princess yesterday, the Wolverine took the first heat in the ice yacht race for the Stewart trophy, and indications are that for another season, at least, the Madison ice yacht club will be compelled to race over the Gull Lake course for the trophy retained by the Kalamazoo Ice Yacht club.

The Hilo, the little craft which created a world's record on the first day of the races by winning the Hearst trophy, did not finish the race yesterday.

Hoppe the Victor.

Philadelphia, Jan. 21.—Willie Hoppe last night defeated Joe Mayer, amateur billiard champion of this city in the final block of their handicap match, 400 to 305. Hoppe's grand total was 2,000 to 1,083 for Mayer. The terms of the match were that Hoppe was to play 2,000 at 18.1 against Mayer's 1,400 at 18.2.

AT THE THEATRES

THE COMING WEEK IN DULUTH THEATERS

LYCEUM—Friday and Saturday, Gertrude Elliott in "The Dawn of a Tomorrow."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.
ODEUM and LYRIC—Photoplay.

AT THE LYCEUM

At the Lyceum next Friday and Saturday with Saturday matinee, Jan. 27 and 28, Gertrude Elliott will present "The Dawn of a Tomorrow." Miss Elliott comes direct from Chicago where one of the critics raved over her as follows:

"Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's vivid and exhilarating study in hope is one of the most gratifying, lesson-teaching, grave and gracious sunbursts the broader drama has given to the century and surpasses anything else acomplished by the prolific and keen Mrs. Burnett. The play keeps a refreshing originality and depth, a quality of truth and guaranty of sincere humanity, which are altogether unrivaled and remain unaltered in their universal significance. The wild cry of the desperate man to the unsparing intangible God, streams through the agonies reaching from the dying millionaire to the garret where Polly and Glad hide their pal. Through all the tragedy there shines the holy peace of certanty and the benign influence, the ever-present help in time of trouble. It is altogether invigorating and full of spiritual refreshment and exhilaration and Miss Elliott bestows upon it beauty of artistic worth, a personal charm and profound understanding of the play's message of hope and determined acceptance of divine principle and the faith which removes mountains.

"She has developed physically and professionally in an extraordinary degree. Her beauty has rather, more of the seductive diablerie than her famous sister, but Gertrude has grown remarkably like Maxime and has taken on height as well as weight, which makes her extremely lovely. Her voice rings true and clear, she has direct candid and rather boyish gestures of great force and much picturesque dramatic fervor and she has a rich comedy and a flowery pathos exquisite and almost musical in its intensity. Her Glad is a revelation of good taste, delectable humor, gay comedy, tragic flights of instantaneous but vehement force and a symmetry reflecting much of Forbes Robertson's notable delicacy of art and mastery.

Sydney Booth played the scoundrelly Oliver Holt and Fuler Mellish, a the old school actor, gave verity and dignity to Sir Oliver. Phillip Leslie gave a spirited and brilliant performance of Lord Tommy, which is one of the contrasting elegances of Mrs. Burnett's diversified points of view in this sodden panorama with its one gleaming light. Scott Gatti played Dandy with great sympathy and youth and the various criminals and boys of sorrows, men of brutal violence and crass, ignorant, faithful women were capitally done. Julia Blanc gave an imense characterization of the pounded and heroic Bet and Angela Ogden played Polly beautifully.

"Not only has Miss Elliott made an undeniable hit but the play possesses imperishable human touches which will live and enough fascinations to attract patrons of all sizes of hat, all makes of soul, and all kinds of good hearts and feelings.

"Call of the Wild," a dramatization of Frederick Remington's absorbing novel, "John Ermine of the Yellowstone," is the attraction offered at the Lyceum on Jan. 29 and 30.

While the novel itself held the attention of countless readers, the play is calculated to hold the attention of theater goers for several seasons to come. It is a concise and well directed effort in the way of dramatization and all the vital points of the book are incorporated in such fashion as to make it possible for the onlooker to grasp the trend of the author's fancy and enter into the spirit of the love affair between Ermine, the child of the Yellowstone hills, and the pampered daughter of the United States army officer, who has been assigned to this picturesque region.

Mr. Woodruff is said to give an excellent performance in the role of Ermine. The scenery provided in the production is fresh and timely for the most part and includes many of the original sets designated by the artist-author when the play was presented for the first time by James K. Hackett.

William H. Turner in George Ade's best effort, "Father and the Boys," will be seen at the Lyceum soon. Miss Louise Carter, the leading lady of the company, is said to be not only bright and vivacious but to exhibit some stunning gowns which she knows how to wear.

In order to play her role in "Miss Nobody From Starland," the scenic musical production that comes to the Lyceum soon, Bertie Beaumont, a member of Mr. Singer's new company, had to learn how to speak Italian. Miss Beaumont studied Italian at school, but she hired a special teacher at the beginning of the season's rehearsals.

Manager Marshall announces the early appearance of Al H. Wilson and company in the new mirth-provoking comedy entitled "A German Prince," written by the late A. C. Gunter and produced under the personal supervision of Manager Sidney R. Ellis, whose productions in the past will be a guarantee of the excellence of Mr. Wilson's new offering.

AT THE ORPHEUM

A dog who can multiply, add, subtract, divide, write his own name, draw a square, a circle and a triangle, and perform other wonderful feats, will be the principal feature of the Orpheum bill for next week, which contains three other headline acts.

"Marvelous Dick" is the name of the dog, and his Duluth appearance will be the first on the Orpheum circuit. The dog has recently been brought to this country from Europe, where he was a genuine sensation. His manager secured Orpheum bookings and the dog will open his tour of the Orpheum circuit in Duluth. Little is known of the animal here, outside of the newspaper comment made in Europe, but some of his tricks are said to be almost uncanny. Dick scorns to do the usual tricks taught to trained dogs, but solves problems in arithmetic, and writes his own name in large letters which can be seen from all parts of the theater. The booking manager writes to the manager of the local theater that Dick will prove one of the sensations of the season on the circuit, and will be the most talked of creature in Duluth next week.

There are three other feature acts on next week's bill, making it the equal of the Christmas all-star bill in this respect.

Bernard and Weston will also open their tour of the Orpheum circuit in Duluth. The fact that two acts will open their tour here next week deserves more than passing notice. Hitherto most of the new acts, especially the feature acts, have been sent to the coast to open, playing the large cities on the coast before coming East. It is evidently the intention of the booking department to change this, and have some of the acts at least, open in the East and then go West. Duluth is ideally located as a city in which to open a tour of the circuit, being on the eastern boundary of the circuit, and it is likely that this city will be made the starting point for the tour of many of the larger acts in future.

Bernard & Weston come to Duluth direct from Hammerstein's vaudeville theater in New York city, probably the most noted vaudeville house in the East. They scored a genuine hit before the blase and hypercritical audiences that frequent that theater, and they ought to make good on the Orpheum circuit. Their act is classed as a piano act, and it is warmly praised in the last issue of Variety, which is the vaudeville managers' guide. Outside of those facts little is known of the team in the West, and Duluth will have the chance to judge.

Old-time theater patrons will welcome the appearance of Maurice Freeman, who is known as one of the best character actors on the American stage. "Tony and The Stork" is the name of the offering of Mr. Freeman and his company. "Tony," an Italian, has sent his wife to a sanitarium, where he goes two weeks later to see her, after borrowing the necessary money from his brother. When he arrives, he is told that his wife and her baby are dead. Crazed with grief and rage he attacks the superintendent, and tries to strangle him, but is prevented. As he is being led from the sanitarium a grip is handed him, which he is told his wife brought with her. He does not recognize the grip, and this brings about an investigation, which develops the fact that there were two women of the same name in the sanitarium, and Tony's wife is still alive. The little sketch is the work of John B. Hymer, and it gives Mr. Freeman opportunity to display all the emotions from great rage and grief to the height of happiness. He is supported by what is claimed to be a carefully selected company, and the sketch has been the headline attraction in the majority of the Orpheum theaters where it has appeared, although it takes third place in Duluth next week.

Few people who attend circuses pay any attention to the names of the performers, although the acts are remembered, when they are of a sensational nature. The Flying Banvards, therefore, will mean little to the average Duluthian, but the majority of those who attended the Ringling Brothers' circus here three years ago, will remember the sensational flying trapeze act presented by a troupe of six people, which was the advertised feature of the performance. These Flying Banvards are coming to the Orpheum next week as the fourth feature act on the bill. Since their circus engagement they have been touring Europe, appearing in the principal German circus, and later at the great London Hippodrome, where they made a deep impression. They have returned to this country and are touring the Orpheum circuit, being featured in the majority of the houses, as the biggest acrobatic act on the circuit.

The other three acts on the bill, while not feature acts, are claimed to be fully up to the Orpheum standard. Sonny Stanley and Ruby Norton will present what they claim are "a few new vaudeville ideas," as the billing reads. They have a singing, dancing and comedy sketch, which was warmly praised by the Denver vaudeville critics, where the act appeared last week.

There hasn't been a bicycle act at the Orpheum for many weeks, and Ben Beyer and Brother should be welcomed as a novelty. They present an act which they call "The Cycling Messengers," appearing dressed as telegraph messenger boys, and performing some novel and surprising tricks on their bicycles.

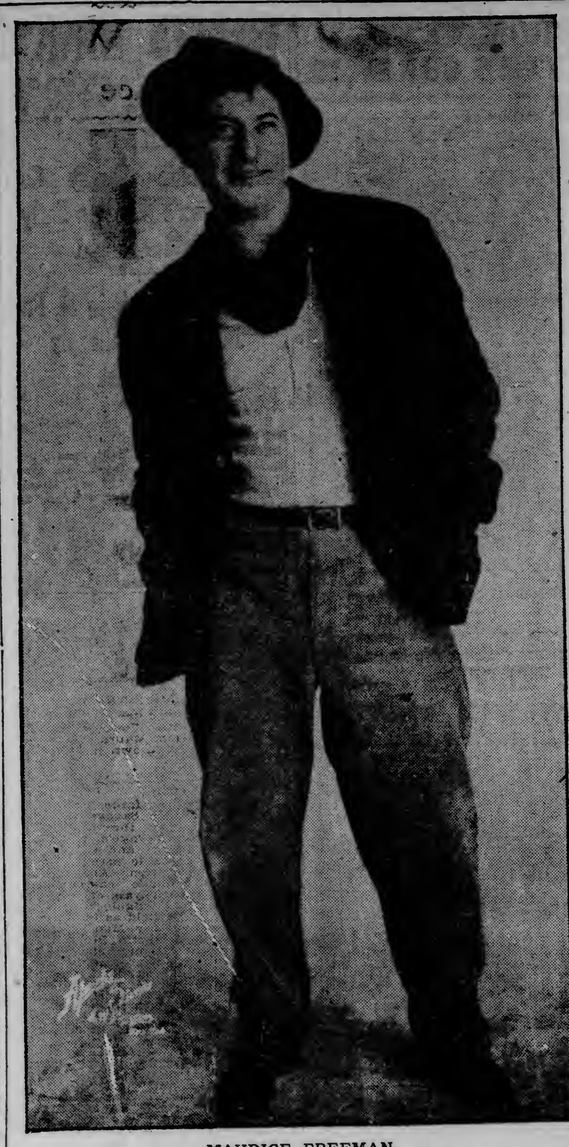

In almost every musical turn in vaudeville, the xylophone is introduced, but generally as an afterthought, apparently, for few performers have made a study of this instrument, merely preparing one or two tunes, which they play on it to fill out their act.

Paul Florus calls himself the virtuoso of the xylophone, and is claimed to play this much abused instrument in the manner in which it deserves.

The Orpheum pictures and the overture by the Bradbury concert orchestra will complete the bill. The opening performance will be given Sunday afternoon, and the bill will continue all week, with a daily matinee.

* * *

The Imperial Russian dancers will feature one of the Orpheum bills early in February. The dancers are now on their way back from the coast, and will be in Duluth in the course of two or three weeks. There are three members of the company, their names being Alexander Volinlen, Lydia Lapokawa, and Theodore Lapokawa. They are all from the Imperial Russian ballet at St. Petersburg and were brought to this country by Charles Frohman and Charles B. Dillingham for a musical production, which failed to materialize. They were then turned over to the Orpheum circuit. While they do not carry the elaborate orchestra carried by Mordkin and Pavlowa, although they have a special musical director, they have been freely compared with their talented countrymen on the coast, where they have been appearing in the same cities with Mordkin and Pavlowa.

AT THE EMPRESS

The Empress bill commencing Sunday afternoon promises to outdo any show that has appeared at the Empress in some time. The shows that Sullivan and Considine are presenting over their circuit this season are as good as money can procure, and are without a doubt the best line of vaudeville ever offered at popular prices in America.

The feature attraction for this week's program will be Jack Rogan's musical comedy success, Charles De Haven and Jack Sydney with Seven Matinee Girls. A carload of scenery and electrical effects which they carry goes to make it one of the best vaudeville attractions in the country. A recent criticism of the act says: "The act has a fascination that is impossible to resist. It has aristocratic distinction, debonair sparkle, dash and snap with everyone in the cast a sure fire artist. The comedy comprises four different stage settings each produced with gorgeous scenery and brilliant electrical effects."

The scenes introduced are as follows: Lobby in Hotel Breslin, New York city; Concourse of new Penn R. R. station, New York city; midwinter and the grand finale. The midwinter scene shows the boys and girls coasting and is said to be very realistic and true to nature. The musical numbers will be, "At the Telephone," "Maybe You're Not the Only One Who Loves Me," "Darling Daughter Mandy," "In the Days of Old," and "Frisco Swing," which everyone will be whistling, singing and humming before it has long been introduced in Duluth. The Milwaukee Journal says: "DeHaven and Sydney with their Matinee Girls have caught on big at the Empress. Many of their songs will become contagious as the act is an extravagant and entertaining production with good lyrics and pleasing music. The scenic effects are clever and they with the dazzling wardrobes worn make it a most enjoyable bit of good entertainment."

Jere Sanford, who will be remembered as the "Siren Sweet Singer," which indicates to only a small degree the charm of his performance returns to the Empress with a brand new collection of songs. Mr. Sanford is a clever whistler and yodeling comedian and his repertoire will consist of songs that have captivated the vaudeville clientele of every important city in the United States. He is considered to be the greatest yodeler in vaudeville and he interjects humorous imitations in his offering that create uproarious laughter. Mr. Sanford has only been in vaudeville a short time but he has endeared himself with the variety public to a truly marvelous degree.

A most humorous and laugh compelling comedy is "Who Is It?" which is the title of the sketch which will be presented by Jack Springer and Ruby Church. The playlet is the work of Charlotte C. West, the noted dramatist, and is considered to be the best she has ever written. The sketch was written for laughing purposes only and never fails to attain the desired results. Miss Church and Mr. Springer are the season's latest recruits to vaudeville, having long been identified with the legitimate in the support of William Faversham in "The Squaw Man," and many other players of distinguished note. Miss Church has a stage presence which finds favor with the audience the moment she steps upon the stage and by her clever work she easily retains the favor she has already secured.

Juggling acts that are just juggling acts are as a rule dry and tiresome, but in Edwin George one holds a wizard at juggling, the press agent claims—a wonderful comedian and a monologist without a peer. "Should Mr. George use only one of these three accomplishments, he would certainly be received with great favor, but he combines the three and is certainly having wonderful success," says the advance sheet. He has a natural gift of humor which he uses to good advantage, and this with his wonderful juggling makes his part of the program a most delightful one.

The Braggaar Bros., comedy gymnasts, bring to Duluth an act which is claimed to be far different from anything ever presented in this city. These boys are from Australia and as is the case with foreign acts, their offering is thoroughly original. These original foreigners are without peers in the fun making line and their act, which consists of grotesque gymnastics and a travesty wrestling bout, is claimed to be the very essence of humor. These grotesque gymnasts are making their introductory American tour and come to the Sullivan & Considine circuit from the leading theaters of the Old World.

The bill will close with the usual moving pictures, which will be Pathe's newest and best subjects. Matinees are given daily at 2:45 and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved one week in advance by either telephone. A special school children's matinee is given every Saturday afternoon at 2:30. All scholars under 14 years of age are admitted for 5 cents. Special attention is paid to the amusement and comfort of ladies and children at all times.

NEW PROGRAMS OF PHOTOPLAY

Attractive Bills Scheduled at the Odeum and Lyric Theaters.

New programs of photoplay are billed for both the Odeum and Lyric theaters for next week.

At the Odeum, "His Trust," a dramatic film; "The Count and the Cowboys," a comedy, and "Rival Dramatists," a comedy, will be the films shown. Miss Maddox will sing "Gliding on the Snow."

At the Lyric the program will consist of: "The Old Water Jar," a dramatic film; "The Sophomore's Romance," a comedy film, and "Doctor Cupid," a comedy picture. I. S. Mistachkin will sing "Moonlight Dear."

The story of "The Old Water Jar" is told as follows:

Pau Puk, an old Indian, views with pride his handiwork on the old water jar, recording some of the striking events of his past life, and these afford him his only diversion, for he is shunned by his people, even the little children avoid him and his heart seems to be embittered against all mankind.

While studying the pictures on the jar, he suddenly realizes that he is a bad Indian, and as he beholds each picture and the scene is re-enacted in his own mind, his conscience troubles him and he tries to shut out the visions from his mind's eye.

First he beholds himself gambling with a fellow-brave with whom he duels and kills. The next picture he sees himself playing false to an Indian maiden. He looks upon the third picture, where he scalps a helpless soldier, then he glances at himself killing an innocent child in the attack on a family of pioneer immigrants. In terror he tries to flee from the consciousness of this horrible deed, covers the old water jar with his blanket, and penitently prays to the Great Spirit for forgiveness, and feels the tender influence of the divine breath of pardon. Filled with inspiration, he takes up the old water jar and paints in the last panel a picture of the sacred guardian of the soul. Reverently and admiringly he gazes intently on this, his final record and his masterpiece. Weak in body, strong in spirit and purified in soul, he rises in attitude of supplication, but falls dying into the arms of a brother, surrounded by his people. He smilingly beholds a vision of the Great Spirit beckoning him to the "happy hunting grounds."

The story of "Doctor Cupid" is as follows:

Cupid is a specialist in aching hearts and for sick men and maidens. Alice Linton falls in love with Percy Primrose, a young poet. Papa Linton says: "Cut out the poetry and keep the muse out of the family." He will not father-in-law a sentimental versifier.

Alice is deeply smitten with Percy and she cannot be comforted, falls into a decline and looks very ill. Her father is anxious about her and hastens to see the family physician. Percy consults the doctor in advance of the father, however, and tells him all about Alice's trouble and his love for her. The old doctor is a friend of the young people and arranges to help them.

When the father calls, the doctor feigns sickness and sends Percy, disguised as "Doctor Cupid," to attend the young lady's case. Dr. Cupid comes to see Alice, and after making himself

BILL FOR WEEK OPENING WITH SUNDAY MATINEE, JAN. 22

MARVELOUS DICK — "Marvelous Dick" is the most wonderful dog ever seen on a vaudeville stage. He can multiply, add, subtract, write his name, and do the most amazing tricks. This is not an ordinary trained animal act. Dick's tricks are almost uncanny.

BERNARD & WESTON — These two clever young men are just opening on the Orpheum circuit, coming direct to Duluth from Hammerstein's theater in New York, probably the best known vaudeville theater in America. They were a hit at Hammerstein's and they ought to be worth seeing.

MAURICE FREEMAN AND COMPANY — Anyone who has followed things theatrical has heard of Maurice Freeman, one of the greatest character actors on the modern stage. Here he is on a vaudeville bill at vaudeville prices, and in a wonderfully clever little sketch called "Tony and The Stork."

THE FLYING BANVARDS — Do you remember those wonderful aerial performers who were featured with Ringling's circus when it visited Duluth three years ago. You will see them next week at the Orpheum.

STANLEY & NORTON — This is just a neat little singing and dancing act, with some entertaining vaudeville novelties.

BEN BEYER & BROTHER — It is a long time since the Duluth Orpheum has had a bicycle act. This is one of the best of them. These two boys are known as "The Cycling Messengers."

PAUL FLORUS — You have heard a Xylophone tortured scores of times. Come next week and hear it properly played for once, by Paul Florus. That is all he does.

THE KINODROME AND THE OVERTURE BY THE CONCERT ORCHESTRA WILL COMPLETE THE BILL.

known, she immediately begins to improve. "Marvelous!" cries her father. Dr. Cupid calls the next day, and Mr. Linton notices the doctor and his daughter are very fond of each other.

The climax comes when Dr. Cupid asks Mr. Linton for his daughter and gains his consent to their marriage, then removes his wig and reveals himself—Percy Primrose, the poet.

The deed is done, papa cannot go back on his word, and Percy wins Alice as his inspiration and poetry of life.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

William Faversham will present "The Faun," the new Knoblauch play, at Daly's theater in New York, on Wednesday. His engagement is to extend for four weeks. "The Faun" is an unusual play and speculation is rife as to how it will eventually be received.

• • •

Lew Field's newest efforts is to be called "The Henpecks," and is to be presented for the first time at the Broadway theater in New York next week. The cast includes Mr. Fields, Lawrence Wheat, Bert Leslie, Joe Kane, Steve Maley, Frank Whitman, Joe Keno, Gertrude Quinlan, Ethel Johnson, Blossom Sealey, Edith Frost and Lillian Lee. The book is by Glen MacDonough, the lyrics by E. Ray Goetz and the music by A. Baldwin Sloane.

• • •

"The Blue Bird" is to end its run at the Majestic theater in New York on Jan. 21. The play will then be moved back to the New theater, where it will be reinstated in the repertoire with the addition of the new scene recently written by Maurice Maeterlinck.

• • •

Charles Frohman will produce on Jan. 31 a new farcical comedy called "The Zebra." The play has been completely adapted to American life and placed in typical American scenes in a version made from the original French by Paul M. Potter. In its original form "The Zebra" is now running at the Nouveautes theater, Paris. For the American adaptation the scenes of "The Zebra" have been laid at New London, Conn. The cast for the new comedy will be as follows: A. Hamilton Revelle, Richie Ling, Lawrence D'Orsay, Alexander Clarke, Alfred Hudson, Sr., Henry Hall, Ernest Cossart, Aubrey Lowell, Adelaide Nowak, Vera McCord and Irene Fenwick.

• • •

Frederick Thompson is writing a play which he will produce shortly, the principal scene of which is laid in Death Valley. Sounds a bit melodramatic. Vivian Martin is to be featured in the production.

• • •

Marietta Olly, who make her debut on the vaudeville stage at the Plaza music hall on Monday, will present a one-act play entitled "Helene," by Henri Bernstein. Her cast will include John Emerson and Hardee Kirkland.

• • •

Kitty Gordon will make a plunge into vaudeville at Hammerstein's Victoria tomorrow. It will be only a dip, for her engagement is limited to this single week at the Victoria. She will sing some new English music hall songs which have never been heard in this country and will wear three new and elaborate Parisian gowns.

• • •

Rehearsals of Charles Klein's new comedy, "Maggie Pepper," have begun. This is the piece selected by Henry B. Harris as the successor to "The Chorus Lady." This success, however, will continue on the "road" with Edna Aug, who has been with "The Commuters," in the title role.

• • •

Truly Shattuck's contract with Joe Weber, under which she succeeded Gordon, covers the next two years. Miss Shattuck is featured in the advertising, and has made a real hit.

• • •

"The Balkan Princess," one of the greatest London musical successes of recent years, will have its American premiere a week from Monday in New Haven, going thence to Providence and Boston before coming to Broadway. A fine scenic production has been provided, together with an admirable company.

• • •

The reported joining of Ben Teal with Jack Levy to make vaudeville productions will be merely a side line with Mr. Teal, and will in no measure lessen his activities as a leading director of "legitimate" productions. In this field Mr. Teal's time is booked far ahead.

• • •

Vaudeville has claimed Miss Percy Haswell. At the Majestic theater, Chicago, on Jan. 23, she will appear for the first time in a playlet by Allan Fawcett, called "Master Will's Players," the "Will" in this instance referring to the immortal bard. Miss Haswell is a well known stock actress and has also appeared in many metropolitan successes. She has also played Shakespearean roles, which fact, in the main, is responsible for the writing of "Master Will's Players." In the sketch Miss Haswell plays a dual role—that of Lady Alice Pemberton and Master Savage. The scene is laid in a room of the White Hart Inn during the Elizabethan period, and there are but three characters—an actor, the innkeeper and Lady Alice.

Instead of "Gay Claudine," the new C. M. S. McLellan-Ivan Caryll musical play is to bear the title of "The Pink Lady." Klaw & Erlanger will produce this piece about the middle of next month. In the cast are Frank Lalor, Crawford Kent, John E. Young, George E. Mack, Harry Depp, Newton Lindo, Joseph Carey, Riley Chamberlain, Hazel Dawn, Alice Dovey, Alice Hegeman, Alma Francis and Mildred Barrett.

• • •

"The Barrier," dramatized by Eugene Presbrey from Rex Beach's novel of that name, will receive its first local presentation at the Olympic next week.

• • •

Fritzi Scheff concluded her tour in "The Mikado" last Wednesday evening in Louisville. She has gone to the Kentucky home of her husband, John Fox, Jr., for an indefinite period of rest.

• • •

Vera Michelena, who peremptorily left the cast of "The Girl in the Train" last week to visit her husband, Paul Schendler, in Chicago, who she claimed was sick, has returned to the company, while her husband is in a Philadelphia hospital.

• • •

Blanche Deyo, the wife of Walter Jones, of "Baby Mine," signed a five years' vaudeville contract with Gus Sulkey last week, by the terms of which she is shortly to appear in a new and elaborate production. The act will be ready in about a month.

• • •

Mrs. Sarah Cowell Le Moyne has been engaged by Henry W. Savage for the part of Truth in the production of "Everywoman." The engagement was made possible by a special arrangement with Liebler & Co., who hold Mrs. Le Moyne's services under contract.

• • •

At the Belasco theater, Los Angeles, in the near future, there will be produced a play by Mrs. H. C. De Mille, entitled "The Way Out." The piece was originally written for Lillian Russell, and if the presentation of the play in Los Angeles discloses the requisite amount of merit, Joseph Brooks may select it for Miss Russell's medium next season.

• • •

Katherine Kaelred, who achieved a personal success in Henry Arthur Jones' new play, "We Can't Be as Bad as All That," is to play her original role in "A Fool There Was," when it is produced in London. The Jones play, by the way, is to leave New York shortly. Whether it is to continue on the road is problematical.

• • •

On Jan. 25, at Atlantic City, Francis McKee will produce a play of contemporary life by Walter Hackett, entitled "Our World." For the principal roles he has engaged Doris Keane, Vincent Serrano, Amelia Gardner, Campbell Golan, Malcolm Duncan, Olive Murray, Julia Grey and Herbert Budd.

• • •

After this week Julius Steger will leave the ranks of vaudeville to become a Klaw & Erlanger star. The production which he will head will be launched in the early spring.

• • •

Liebler & Co. have provided George Arliss with two leading women in the new Louis K. Parker comedy, "Disraeli." One is Elsie Leslie, recently leading woman in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," the other is Margaret Dale, last seen in "Father and the Boys." Others in the cast are Courtenay Foote, Alexander Calvert, David Torrence, Marguarite St. John, J. L. Mackey, Lelia Repton, Douglas Geoffrey, Constance Kirkham and Dudley Digges.

The difficulty which Bertha Kalich has had to secure a good play has driven her to revive her first success on the English-speaking stage, "The Kreutzer Sonata."

The engagement of James Lackaye for an important and intricate role in Rupert Hughes' farce, "Excuse Me," which Henry W. Savage will produce shortly completes the cast for this newest of Mr. Savage's offerings. Mr. Lackaye's talents and superior training are a valuable asset to any theatrical organization. Among the long list of his notable characterizations, his finished portrayals of James Ogden in "Hon. John Grigsby," and latterly with David Warfield as Cory Wilbur in "The Grand Army Man," are vividly recalled. His Martin Berry in "Shore Acres," and Simon Peter Martin in "York State Folks," attained him distinction as an actor of rare technique and subtlety. He was the original Larkin Bunce in "Cameo Kirby"; and last season he was the featured player in the role of Senator Langdon in "The Gentleman from Mississippi." He is in every sense a natural actor, versatile in his scope, and particularly excels in the broad touches of farce.

In Mr. Savage's production of the Hughes play, Mr. Lackaye will essay the part of an affluent inebriate, who looks upon married life as a huge joke and whose jovial and care-free disposition radiates throughout the entire action of the farce.

Henry W. Savage announces that Walter Browne's modern morality play, entitled "Everywoman," will be in readiness for production early in February. The titular role has been assigned to Laura Nelson Hall, and the remaining thirty principal characters are now being cast and rehearsals will begin immediately. The scenery is completed with the costumes, designed by Hy Mayer, the well-known artist and illustrator, are now in the maker's hands. George W. Chadwick, the foremost American composer, has completed the incidental and choral music, which will be a big feature in the production, and will employ an orchestra of forty-two pieces.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR WORK ACCIDENTS

For One Quarter No One to Blame—Many of Remainder Really Unavoidable—Ignorance and Exhaustion Cause Many Accidents.

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau.)

The factory or mill superintendent, the claim agent or the general manager of an industrial corporation sometimes says: "Nineteen out of every twenty accidents come from the carelessness of the men who are hurt. If I hadn't been in this business so long, I wouldn't believe some of the things they'll actually do. Why, I remember"—and he gives an instance to prove his statement.

Many believe that this represents the whole truth of the responsibility for work accidents. Often in industrial communities the declarations of such men are the main source of effective public opinion on the subject. There are people who believe that men are killed in some of the enormous industrial plants the story of whose destruction never reaches the outside world. Workmen as well as thousands of others commonly think of each accident as a separate incident, and draw no general conclusions. Their point of view, therefore, does little to balance that of employers and bosses; and so most of those in a community whose opinions count believe that "95 per cent of the accidents are due to the carelessness of the men."

In spite of this, there is a growing conviction that our laws do not give just compensation to workmen injured at their labor under conditions where it is seldom possible to assign direct personal fault to any one. Danger is inherent in modern methods of production, construction and transportation. Accidents are to a certain extent inevitable, and men are bound to be killed and injured so long as industry is not carried on slowly and carefully, with safety as the first concern of all.

To discover how far responsibility for work accidents can be located, the coroner's records in Pittsburg for an entire year were examined for all cases of persons killed in industrial accidents. This was supplemented by personal visits to the witnesses and to the homes and families of the workmen killed. Coroner's records are usually scant and the testimony tends to favor one side. The witnesses are usually employes of the company, including ordinarily the superior of the victim. His first instinct is to clear himself of fault and his next to save his employer. The easiest way is to blame the dead man. So any analysis based on such records can only give indications rather than absolute conclusions.

There were 526 fatally injured, of whom 195 were steel workers, 71 miners, 125 railroad hands and 135 miscellaneous workers, including electric linemen, teamsters, elevator men, street railway employes, carpenters, painters and others. Half of these were American-born citizens, 70 per cent skilled workmen, and 80 per cent under 40 years of age. Indications of responsibility for 410 fatal accidents, for in a number of cases it was impossible to obtain evidence, were secured as follows:

Victims	132
Fellow workmen	56
Foremen, etc.	49
Employers	147
None of these	117
Total	501

In a number of cases responsibility was divided, which explains the difference between 410 and 501. In over 100 cases from all the evidence available no one was at fault. These accidents, according to common judgment, would be called unavoidable. For instance, a teamster standing on a heavy load of machinery and driving out of the factory, bent down to escape the top of the gateway; as he did so some piece of iron under him slipped, he lost his balance, fell to the ground and was run over. Since 26 per cent of the fatalities are unavoidable, it is not true that for 95 per cent the victims are to blame. In fact there was indication of such carelessness in only 132 instances and in only sixty-eight of these was the man killed solely responsible.

Ignorance explains a large share of these latter, the ignorance of boys who are "green" at their work, of the confused foreigner, who, for the first time finds himself part of swift and complicated processes. In twenty-two cases the victim was "green." One had been at his work but four hours. Thirteen were not men but boys from whom carelessness must be expected. Then there were twelve deaths due to sudden vertigo, epilepsy, etc. In only eight cases, less than 2 per cent, was there indication that intoxication was the cause of the accident.

Of forty-seven cases that an average employer would ascribe to carelessness of the workman, twenty-two accidents were due to ignorance, thirteen to extreme youth, four to physical weakness, and eight to drunkenness. Of the remaining eighty-five, some were heedless, some inattentive and others merely rash. For the heedless no defense can be offered, but long hours, heat, noise, and speed sap the powers of attention while often rashness is really a necessary quality for those in dangerous trades. In reality only 32 per cent of the fatal accidents are attributable to the carelessness of the victims. In the carelessness of fellow workmen these same elements that we have met with enter in about the same proportions.

In modern industry actual responsibility for safety rests largely upon the foremen and under superintendents. Foremen are of all kinds. There are cowards, who exact of their men risks they will not take themselves. Some go in themselves where they will not allow a man to venture. Often, however, from hurry, indifference or forgetfulness, a boss sends a "green" man to a place of danger. His recklessness is largely due to environment and a desire to increase output.

The employer was considered responsible in 147 cases. This does not mean a personal conscious failure on his part in every case but rather that the accident can be traced to an inadequacy in that portion of the producing machinery for which he, if any one, is responsible. Most of these accidents can be laid to imperfect inspection or to lack of reasonable provision for safety in the construction of a plant or organization of the work. Insufficient lighting at night and absence of warning signals in foreign languages, or even any, explain many accidents. Ten children under 16 were killed of whom seven were at work unsuitable for them because of the inherent danger.

Employers often show considerable disregard for safety in the construction of plants and equipment, in the organization of work, and in the employment of children. Not all the accidents could have been avoided but proper inspection would have prevented many.

FINANCIAL CONDITIONS IMPROVE

New York, Jan. 21.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Improvement in financial conditions has been a marked development in the past few days and to some extent has been accompanied by a more active trade distribution, although the industrial contraction of the last half year is still in evidence.

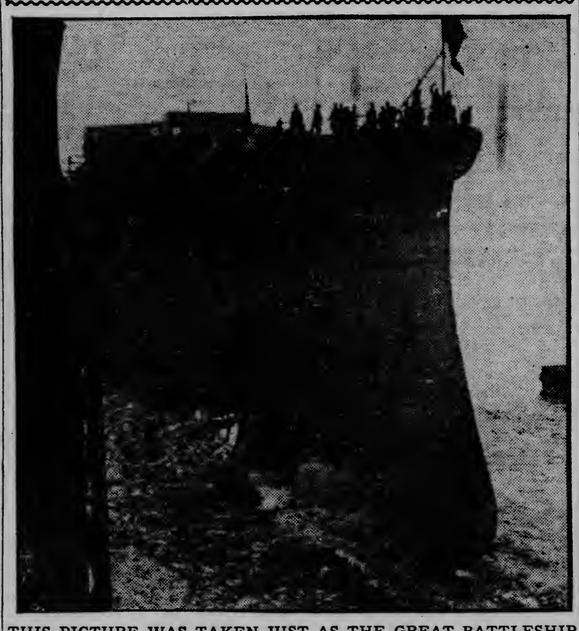

This improvement is reflected as encouraging in the iron and steel market. While production is still only half of producing capacity and there is no decided change in conditions, yet there is new export business of note and increased buying by the railroads. Copper is slightly weaker owing to the fact that stocks are heavy, notwithstanding the big world consumption.

Many large drygoods buyers have been in the primary market, but their operations are still along conservative lines. A considerable export trade has been done with the Far East in the past seven weeks. Prices are getting a very fair share of trade. Cotton blankets have been sold at slight advances. The largest factories have booked substantial orders, especially on the fancy and better grades and a fair spring business is reported on printed wash goods selling at 7½@16½c per yard.

Retailers are buying more dress goods and wash fabrics. Against these favorable features must be set meetings of manufacturers to curtail production because of the inability to secure values for finished merchandise commensurate with the cost of raw materials and general cost of production. Men's wear and dress goods mills are gathering business for fall, yet complaints of very close prices are general.

Footwear conditions show a substantial improvement. Orders for spring delivery are larger and New England manufacturers, in some cases, have accumulated a larger reserve of orders than for many months past. There is a more confident feeling all around and the prospects for a steady normal business from now on, are very encouraging. There has been a further easing off in prices on certain varieties of hides, but the market has failed as yet to develop the weakness that was expected on account of the closing of tanneries and the materially reduced working in of hides. Some improvement is shown in the leather market with an increase in sales this week and a slightly firmer tone to prices.

SHOOK DICE

With Man Who Stole His Wife to Settle Her Ownership.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 21.—After finding his eloping wife in Chicago in company with the man he considered his closest friend, Camille De Clerque of this city induced the woman to return to her home, and then shook dice with Achille Duwill, her admirer, to see who should have possession of the woman.

While the men were in the midst of the game they were interrupted by a policeman, who placed the trio under arrest for disorderly conduct.

De Clerque and his wife were ordered from the city, and Duwill was sent to jail for fifteen days.

RELATIVES SEEK GUARDIAN

For Wealthy Ohioan, Who Bequeaths Estate to Bank Cashier.

Canton, Ohio, Jan. 21.—Samuel Ruddy, aged 65, a wealthy Stark county farmer, who mysteriously disappeared and later was found at the home of a neighbor, made a will leaving the bulk of his $100,000 fortune to the cashier and teller of an Akron bank, with a few minor bequests to relatives, according to attorneys at a hearing upon an application to appoint a guardian for Ruddy.

"It's none of your business," replied Ruddy on the witness stand when asked whether or not he had made a will. He made the same answer when questioned concerning the value of his estate.

Efforts to compel the witness to answer were futile, and Judge Bowe ruled that he could not be forced.

TWO-TON MAGNET

Quickly Removed Steel Splinter Imbedded in Man's Eye.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 21.—A two-ton magnet at Rose Polytechnic institute was used to extract a steel splinter from a man's eye after an oculist had tried in vain to remove it by a surgical operation and at the same time save the sight. The patient was placed standing near the magnet, and his head was turned so that the direct drawing force would be applied to the eyeball. The splinter flew quickly to the surface of the magnet.

FORGIVEN BY HIS FATHER

Is Young McCook Who Eloped With a Carpenter's Daughter.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 21.—Willie McCook, Jr., son of a wealthy Pittsburg attorney and society leader, who was turned from his home when he came back to Pittsburg after eloping to Cumberland with a carpenter's daughter, has been forgiven by Willis F. McCook, the father.

Young McCook is working for the Pittsburg Steel company, and he and his wife are living in two rooms in Glassport.

Ephraim Norris, the father of the girl, still holds out against the pleadings of his friends and has not received his daughter at his home.

Willis F. McCook and family have gone to Europe, but before leaving Pittsburg the father intimated that he will arrange matters so that his son would not need to work at low wages in a mill to support his bride.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Duluth Candidates for Offices On Athletic Board of Control.

Minnesota Song Book Will Be Ready in About a Month.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Duluthians are watching with great interest the election campaign for offices on the athletic board of control. Three Duluth men have announced themselves as candidates. Harold Cant is out for president, Jack Bush for vice president and Ed Mentzer as medio representative.

Minnesota Song Book.

Songs from the college of medicine, college of agriculture, an "Ivy Song" for the tradition at commencement time, and about three other characteristic songs are all that are necessary to complete the contents of the Minnesota song book. The book is being compiled by W. W. Norton, '09, who is at present director of music in the University of North Dakota, and will be on the campus within the next month or so. The table of contents includes songs from nearly every department in the university. "Hail Minnesota" will be given the prominent place, and "Rouser," "How Would You Like to Be Chicago?" the songs from the "Prof. and the Princess" and the "Toast to Prexy" will also be featured.

Try-Out for Men's Chorus.

Over seventy-five men tried out Monday for parts in the men's chorus of "The Girl in the Moon," and appearances point to a remarkably well voiced company. Edgar Allen is very enthusiastic over the result of the try-out and thinks it points favorably to a good opera. Another opportunity to try for parts will be given early in the week.

"There are to be sixty people in the company," said Allen, and I think we have made a very good start. Only a few of the old men tried out. I expect to hear from the rest at the next try-out."

Flowers at Junior Ball.

In accordance with a movement started some time ago to bar the giving of flowers at this year's junior ball, the officers and committees of the association have decided to do away with the custom. There will be no flowers at the junior ball this year. Resolutions passed by the four inter-fraternity clubs, the Tau Shonkas, Triangles, Tillikums and Adelphians indorsing this movement were handed to the officers of the junior ball association with the above result. It is likely that this will become an annual custom.

Euterpean Club's Trip.

Thirty-six men and women made the trip to Faribault Saturday with the Euterpean club, including Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle Scott, Miss Grave Garrish and Mr. Muryama. Sunday morning at 10:30 a concert was given in the chapel of the School for the Feeble Minded, and the club was entertained at dinner at the school, returning to Minneapolis Sunday afternoon. The club is in better shape financially this year than ever before, as a good sum was cleared from the performances of "Hanu San."

All-Senior Parade Postponed.

Because President-elect Vincent cannot come, owing to the proximity of finals, and because of interference with other attractions, the all-senior parade and spread will be postponed from Feb. 2 to Feb. 9. Seniors from all departments will march in the parade.

French Lectures.

Prof. Gustav Michant of the department of literature of the University of Paris will be at Minneapolis in February to lecture under the auspices of the French department. Prof. Michant is now in this country lecturing at the instance of the French alliance, which every year brings one or two of the most famous scholars of France to this country for this purpose. Prof. Michant will lecture in St. Paul on Feb. 13, on "Daudet and His Work." On Wednesday, Feb. 15, he will deliver a lecture in the auditorium of the law building on "Moliere and His Work."

The Sociological Census.

The census work of the department of sociology, which has been going on for almost a year closed last Saturday, when all students were expected to hand in their slips. Last semester 13,000 slips were handed in, and this semester the remainder of a total of 30,000 has been completed. The students will be assigned the work of arranging the mass of material in ethnic groups. The work represent an original plan in the department, and when completed this spring will show many interesting facts about the make-up of the population of Minneapolis.

Prize Poster Contest.

A prize poster contest has been arranged by Edgar Allen and the board of governors of the Men's union for the new men's opera "The Girl in the Moon." Ten dollars will be awarded for the best poster of the new play. The design will be used exclusively on street cars, billboards, programs, and music covers.

Passing Mark Fixed.

At a meeting of the faculty recently, it was decided that in order that a student remain a member of the university he must have a passing mark in at least 40 per cent of his work and in the final examinations. At present it is not definitely known just how many students will be affected by this faculty ruling, but there may be quite a number who will find the doors of the university closed to them after the examinations. All freshmen who fall below in one-half of their work will be required by the students' work committee to take the same work over the following semester.

Scandinavian Lecture.

Prof. A. A. Stomberg, professor of Scandinavian languages and literature is in correspondence with Prof. Arrhenius of the University of Stockholm in an effort to bring him here for a series of lectures on his investigations in physics and chemistry. Prof. Arrhenius has had an urgent invitation from President Northrop and it is probable that he can be induced to come. He will be in Boston during March, and if he comes to Minnesota will probably lecture here in April.

BUTTE & SUPERIOR IS NOW FINANCED ON GOOD BASIS

President Wolvin Optimistic Over Future of the Company.

Butte-Ballaklava and Anaconda Trial to Start on Monday.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—"According to the arrangements which I have just completed, the Butte & Superior Copper Mining company is now financed on a good basis," said President A. B. Wolvin while in this city and just after he had concluded all negotiations for tiding the company over the financial difficulties which it has encountered for some considerable length of time. President Wolvin gave out a financial statement which he had prepared for the purpose of showing to the interests with which he has been negtiating. It was compiled up to Nov. 30 of last year and shows that $2,217,045.81 has been expended in the purchase of property, equipment and development. The indebtedness of the company at that date was $527,764.36, exclusive of $84,500 in outstanding second mortgage bonds. There were $150,500 in first mortgage bonds due Jan. 1 of this year and arrangements have been made for the extension of these bonds for one year. The total indebtedness includes a loan of $147,706.98 from the American Metal company. This can be paid in installments at the rate of $1 per ton of ore mined or can be repaid in full. Mr. Wolvin says the Butte & Superior has been making money since July last and that the net profit up to the close of the year was $110,676.92. He says that during December the output was increased from 380 tons daily to 500 tons daily and he hopes within the next two months to further increase the output to 600 tons daily. Mr. Wolvin is always optimistic, so he declares that in a short time the company will be earning net $1,500 a day or a total of $540,000 a year on an output of 600 tons a day. "During the year," he says, "the company will earn at least double the amount necessary to provide for all obligations and will have a handsome sum for those who have invested their money in the stock of the company."

Blue Bird.

The Blue Bird Mining company elected directors the other day and made plans for extensive development work. The directors are: P. E. Bradshaw and James S. Bradshaw of Duluth, J. B. Foraker, Jr., of Cincinnati, and Alvin P. Nipgen and Barton Mitchell of this city. The Blue Bird is located in the Radersburg district and has a shaft down 200 feet, which is to be lowered to a depth of 500 feet. Electric power is to be installed at once. Some ore taken out runs $32 to the ton in gold.

Parrot.

Four of the six minority stockholders of the Parrot company, who several months ago applied for the appointment of appraisers to value the property on the ground that the sale to the Anaconda company under the merger terms was unsatisfactory, have withdrawn their suits by permission of the court, but two have not only decided to fight the matter out, but have engaged another attorney and brought suit in the United States court to have the sale set aside. William E. Wall and Louis Foss are the two who are to remain in the fight, and B. N. Richardson, H. B. Jackson, Mary A. Knight and Isaac Bradford of Boston are the ones who informed Attorney Kyle that they had been settled with and desired to dismiss the action. In the suit brought in the United States court, it is stated, that a reasonable value of the property is $50,000,000 and that the dumpings and tailings claimed to be of no value are worth $5,000,000. It is asserted that through the management of the affairs of the company a total of $100,000,000 has been lost to the stockholders and that through other transactions the total amount lost to the company is about $200,000,000. It is stated in the complaint that through the sale of real estate there was a loss of $10,000,000. It is mentioned that among the real estate disposed of was $3,000 worth in Jefferson county to Henry F. Kroyer of New York. The attorney for William E. Wall and Louis Foss asked that the court continue the application for the appointment of appraisers until the case just brought be disposed of, but this was objected to and the judge intimated that he would consider the matter and appoint the appraisers. The sale of the Parrot company property to the Anaconda company was made at a special meeting on April 30 of last year, against the protest of the stockholders named above, who afterwards brought the suit for the valuation of the property by appraisers which is perfectly legal under the laws of Montana. The Parrot company received 90,000 shares of Anaconda stock in return for the property.

Mines in Good Shape.

In consequence of some stories floating about that some of the mines of the district were not in a condition for men to work in, a joint committee of the house and senate of the state legislature has been in the city inspecting the underground workings of the properties and has returned to the capital much impressed with the very fine condition it found the mines in regard to ventilation and sanitary conditions.

Big Debts and Little Cash.

Two remarkable reports of Nevada mining companies, incorporated under the laws of the state of Montana and having all New York and Philadelphia directors, have been filed with the clerk and recorder of this county. The two companies are incorporated for $1,000,000 each and the actual cash paid in in one company was $11 and in the other $7. The aggregate debts of both concerns total $161,691.93. One company is known as the Goldfreed Mines company of Nevada. The report states that the amount of stock issued in payment for the mining property is $999,989 and the existing debts are $18,234.04. As before stated, it is incorporated for $1,000,000 and the actual cash paid in is $11.

The Southwestern Nevada Mines company is the name of the other concern and the capital stock is $1,000,000, and $7 has been paid in. Stock for $999,993 was issued in payment of the property. The existing debts amount to $143,367.89. The directors are: L. A. Dessau, H. L. Frideburg, A. W. Joseph, F. C. Armstrong and M. E. Bernheimer, all of New York; Charles R. Miller of Philadelphia and Malcolm McDonald of Tonopah, Nev. The company was incorporated in 1904, and Butte is given as the principal place of business.

Columbia-Butte.

Another annual report has been filed with the county clerk and recorder of a mining company known as Columbia-Butte Mining & Milling company. The president attaches his signature to the statement and declares that the company is hopelessly insolvent and has ceased to incur financial obligations. The property is in Jefferson county and the capital stock is $200,000, of which $20,000 was paid in in cash and the remaining $180,000 given as payment for the property. Ono Henry T. Heyder held a mortgage on the property for $57,000, and he has foreclosed the same.

The officers of the company are all Butte people with James Doull, who is connected with the Clark interests, as president. Some of this stock is held by Eastern people, principally in New York and Boston, but not in any large quantity.

In Emery District.

G. J. Kirby of Wilmantic, Conn., and some local people have taken hold of the Universal Lodge in the Emery district, near Deer Lodge, and are doing some extensive development work. A fine showing is being made in gold, silver and lead. Mr. Kirby made an inspection of the property, and while in this city on his way home spoke in most enthusiastic terms of the outlook. He said: "I have the utmost faith in the ultimate success of most Emery district mines. Adequate exploration will furnish a number of heavy producers and large dividend payers. The camp has a future and the careful investor now will reap rich returns."

Pilot-Butte.

The Pilot-Butte does not now expect to commence operations until the last of February or early in March, as the machinery ordered will not be here for at least thirty days yet and some time will be required to get it in position and ready for work. In the meantime everything is being gotten ready for the reception of the new equipment and as little time as possible will be lost when it once reaches the city.

Tuolumne.

The Tuolumne company is now shipping on an average of about 350 tons of ore a day, which is running from 10 to 12 per cent copper. At the same time development work is going on and large bodies of ore are being blocked out and the sinking of the shaft from the 1,400-foot level is proceeding and good progress is being made. The management has received bids or offers from at least two smelters for the treatment of its ore, but as yet no decision has been arrived at. The contract which was entered into with the Clark interests and which was transferred to the Washoe smelter when the Butte Reduction works was sold to the Amalgamated, expires early in February. It is just possible that it may be determined to continue the shipment of the ore to the Anaconda smelter, provided it is found just as satisfactory as any arrangement which can be made, although it is known that the East Butte company is rather anxious to secure the ore for its smelter.

Butte-Ballaklava Suit.

It is now positively asserted that the suit of the Anaconda company against the Butte-Ballaklava will certainly go to trial on the date set, which is Jan. 23.

WILL RESUME OPERATIONS

North Homestake and Minnesota Mines to Start Up Again.

Deadwood, S. D., Jan. 21.—Prospects in the Maitland district are improving since the first of the year, and it is expected the North Homestake and the Minnesota Mines company, the two principal properties there, will resume operations within a few weeks. The North Homestake, which has been idle for about a year, has just completed some improvments about the mine and mill and is in shape to start up. It is the intention to sink the present shaft from the 200-foot depth to 300-foot level, or below the quartzite formation and into the slates, which were penetrated and prospected with a diamond drill. It is also intended to open up more thoroughly the flat ore measures which for some years past have been supplying ore.

The output from the Portland-Clinton companies' mines in the Bald Mountain district is steady. The high-grade ore is being shipped to the smelter at Omaha at the rate of about 400 tons a month. It averages better than $20 a ton gold and is being taken from an almost unlimited supply. Of the lower grade ore about 600 tons a month is being shipped to the Lundberg-Dorr & Wilson mill at Terry. At the same time the ground across Annie creek is being attacked.

Word from the Bear Lodge district, just over the line in Wyoming, brings news that Alfred Nobs, principal owner in the Copper Prince property, has found a ledge of exceedingly high-grade gold ore that runs several thousand dollars to the ton and shows free gold. This ledge is six feet wide and is exposed fifteen feet from the surface and is now being opened up. The gold is visible to the naked eye and the strike is believed to be substantial. For years the Bear Lodge district has been the scene of many small finds of rich ore and its development is nearly all surface work. There are about a dozen principal companies, nearly every one of which has found rich float or streaks of high-grade gold ores, but the mother lode has never been located. Recently, State Geologist Hall carefully examined the district and declared that it was one of the best mineralized and most regularly defined districts in the West. Several of the companies, including the Copper Prince, on which the new strike has been made, are now preparing for deeper and more permanent development.

SINK SHAFT AT INDIANA

At Drill Hole Which Yielded Rich Core of Copper Rock.

Michigan Company Ceases Operation on the So-Called Bee Tract.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Indiana Mining company has broken ground for a shaft on the site of the No. 2 drill hole, which a year ago yielded the sensationally rich core of copper rock reported at that time. The shaft, sinking vertically, has attained a depth of about twenty feet and as nearly as can be calculated will enter the copper deposit at around 110 feet from surface. The overburden at this point is made up of clay and gravel with no indications of quicksand, a condition that is expected to facilitate shaft sinking.

Wolverine.

The Wolverine Copper Mining company is giving uninterrupted attention to the development of the Osceola formation traversing the Eastern limits of its property. The area on the lode is rather small and may be wrought through a single shaft which is now sinking and has reached a depth of 220 feet. Little or no copper has been opened in this work, and until drifts are run out in the formation nothing can be definitely known concerning the value of this lode on the Wolverine tract. The prospects are that a low grade though profitable mine will be developed.

Lake.

The Lake Copper company is running what will probably be the last crosscut connecting the present shaft with the Lake deposit. This is at the eighth level. A new shaft of larger dimensions and therefore greater capacity will be sunk about 500 feet north of the old shaft now doing service, and together with sinking and upraising carried on simultaneously as planned should be available in record time once that work is begun. Development work continues to disclose an excellent grade of copper rock at both points and particularly northward at the sixth and seventh levels in which laterals is exposed what is probably the richest runs of ground yet opened in this property. The new compresor plant stands practically completed and will be in commission shortly. A new steel shaft rockhouse is planned, and a permanent steam hoist with capacity to hoist a ten-ton load from a depth of 5,000 feet has been ordered.

Michigan.

The Michigan Copper Mining company has suspended operations in the so-called Bee tract after a year or more of exploratory work. Developments not altogether favorable and lack of working capital are the reasons given. The Bee early offered commercial possibilities and some very rich ground was uncovered in drifting but this condition did not persist to depth nor to any great extent laterally. Activity is now confined to diamond drilling with two outfits in service. A complete geological cross section of the property is being obtained by this means.

Mass.

The Mass Consolidated Mining company continues with the work of unwatering the long idle "B" shaft, and already has this work sufficiently advanced to permit a resumption of operations at that point. Developments in the southerly "C" shaft are at the moment particularly encouraging. The company is giving more attention to the creation of ground reserves than it has in the past and in this respect is filling a long-felt want. The New Mass lode, the discovery of which proved a sensation about a year and a half ago, has not developed into the bonanza predicted at that time, and is now receiving attention at this time.

Algomah.

The Algomah Mining company has put a fourth drill hole through the formation in which the exploratory shaft is sinking, but apparently has not succeeded in finding anything of commercial value at this point. The drill has been removed to a position further west and in the probable course of the several copper-bearing lodes disclosed in the exploratory operations of the South Lake company next north. The ore body opened in the Algomah shaft continues to hold out laterally and for a distance of quite 400 feet reveals copper ore of undoubted commercial value. While the exploratory work by means of shaft and drifts has proven very encouraging the drill developments are rather unpromising.

CHURN DRILLING DURING WINTER

Giroux Expects to Open Big Ore Body in Ely Limestone.

Ely, Nev., Jan. 21.—Copper ore should be coming from the big Giroux shaft this month, as the tenth level of the Alpha ore body has been connected with the big five-compartment shaft and there is nothing to prevent the inauguration of active mining operations at this point. There is one crosscut which has opened the ore body for a distance of sixty-five feet, and it averages 10 per cent copper, with gold and silver values besides. The Giroux will not be a big producer until the twelfth level is opened, and the report says of the developments there as follows:

"Connecting up the pipe lines from the steam plant on the surface to the pumps at the 1,200-foot station in the Giroux shaft is proving a tedious operation. There are three lines to be installed; one six-inch line for steam, one eight-inch line for air, and one sixteen-inch line to carry the water when the pumps are started. Work has again been discontinued in the crosscut from the 1,200-foot level toward the Alpha workings. The crosscut had reached a distance of about 350 feet from the shaft when the work was stopped until such time as the pumps are ready to handle the water which must be soon encountered in the crosscut."

The Giroux interests are very confident of opening a big ore body in the Ely limestone, which will rival Bisbee. The company will continue its churn drilling work all through the winter, and in preparation for this has covered its steam pipes to prevent freezing.

CEASE WORK AT ELENITA MINE

Expense of Taking in Supplies Supposed to Be Reason.

Cananea, Mex., Jan. 21.—W. B. Hosmer, an old Cananean, and well known throughout the Southwest, stopped over on his way from the Elenita mine at Bisbee. He has been employed at the Elenita for more than a year, but the temporary cessation of work has resulted in a practical abandonment of the camp. No cause for the step has been given, other than the expense of conveying supplies that the isolated position of the mine is responsble for it. Col. L. W. Powell visited the camp a few weeks ago, but made no announcement at the time.

PRODUCTION OF VANADIUM

Colorado Output in 1910 Much Larger Than Ever Before.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 21.—Vanadium production is an industry of increasing importance in Colorado. Although the development has not been extensive, the extent of the territory in which vanadium ore is found, the discovery during the past year of deposits of a higher grade than have previously been opened, and the possibilities of a largely extended use when the supply becomes dependable, point to a further extension of operations. The vanadium industry of the state during the next few years may be expected to take rank with the tungsten industry.

As much of the vanadium ore produced in Colorado is shipped by the various producers direct to Liverpool, no satisfactory estimate concerning the total production of the state can be made. It is safe to say, however, that the Colorado production of vanadium in 1910 was considerably larger than ever before. Unlike tungsten, vanadium has felt the effect of the depression in the steel industry, and the market has failed to absorb the increasing output of the principal producers. The price which had been stable at $5 a pound for the metallic vanadium contents of the alloy up to last July, dropped to $4 flat. Price fluctuations may be expected until the vanadium industry has acquired a magnitude and permanence comparable to the present standard of the tungsten industry, and the vanadium prices are likely to reach the stability that is now characteristic of tungsten prices.

Vanadium ore of an exceptionally high grade was discovered in several places during the past year in Colorado. It was first found in April, 1910, in the Joe Dandy mine of the General Vanadium company, near Naturita, and it was called kentsmithite in honor of the metallurgist and vanadium expert, J. Kent Smith of Liverpool. A body of the same kind of ore was discovered in November near Sawpit, on the San Miguel river. From the first discovery mentioned, shipments have been made by Wilson & Lund for the last eight months. A carload from the deposit opened on the San Miguel river has just been shipped to Liverpool.

The metallic vanadium content of the ore shipped by Wilson & Lund has averaged about 3 per cent, and the price paid at the point of shipment has been $1.00 a pound for the vanadium in the ore, or $60 a ton for the ore.

AMAZON MINE IS SHOWING UP WELL

Four Feet of Excellent Ore Intersected at Depth.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 21.—W. H. Graham, superintendent of the Amazon-Montana Development company, was in the city a few days ago from the property at Amazon, just the other side of Boulder, on the Great Northern railroad, reporting that splendid progress is being made with the work of development. The crosscut on the 350-foot level has intersected the first vein, showing four feet of an excellent quality of ore. The crosscut is being pushed ahead to intersect the main vein, and it is anticipated that it will reach the vein within a very short time.

Simultaneously with the work of running the crosscut, a drift will be run in both directions on the vein which has just been cut, and, basing results on the character of the ore found in the same vein at a depth of 250 feet, and the extent of the deposit, developments at the present depth should be highly encouraging.

TWIN BUTTES OFFICERS.

S. H. Hoff Succeeds the Late E. P. Hackett as Treasurer.

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 21.—The Twin Buttes Mining & Smelting company this week elected officers as follows: Michael Earles, president; W. A. Barber, first vice president; Robert Nunnemacher, second vice president; S. H. Hoff, treasurer; James E. Higgins, secretary; F. E. Gelfuss, assistant secretary. Directors for three years, Michael Earles, W. A. Barber, S. H. Hoff; directors for two years, John G. Baxter, W. B. Hill, J. R. Ricketson; directors for one year, R. Nunnemacher, George P. Mayer, and David S. Rose. The mine is looking fine and is shipping daily.

HAVE ADDED TO HOLDINGS

Oglebay, Norton & Co. Secure Riverton Mine in Iron River District.

Exploratory Work Resumed in Amasa Field of Menominee Range.

Oglebay, Norton & Co., of Cleveland, already important operators in that locality, have added the old Riverton mine to their holdings in the Iron River district of the Menominee range. The property was recently abandoned by the United States Steel corporation. It has been idle since 1906, prior to which time it had produced and shipped more than a million and a quarter tons of ore. It is not the intention of Oglebay, Norton & Co., to pump out the old workings and restore them to the active list—indeed, they are quite well exhausted and have yielded about all the product that could be taken out with safety—but it is the plan to explore and open that portion of the property as yet undeveloped. This can be done advantageously from Oglebay, Norton & Co.'s Chatham mine, which adjoins the Riverton. Drifts are, in fact, now being extended into the newly acquired ground and some ore is being taken out. It is believed the Riverton will prove a valuable acquisition to the mining properties of the big Cleveland concern.

The Huron Mining company has materially curtailed operations at the Youngs mine, a property in the Palatka field of the Iron River district. Of the force of 125 men, 100 have been laid off. The Youngs has 100,000 tons of broken ore in the stopes, ready to be hoisted, it is estimated, in addition to which 40,000 tons are in stock on the surface. Only this is about all that will be shipped next season, operations in the meantime will be conducted on a comparatively small scale. The Huron Mining company is controlled by Ohio furnace interests and in addition to the Youngs it has the Groveland and McDonald mines, which also are Menominee range properties.

Goodman and Gleason to Ship.

The New York State Steel company is making excellent progress with the development of the Goodman and Gleason properties near Iron River. Some ore will be shipped the coming season. At one of the twin properties, a 12 by 12 shaft is being sunk. The ore lies at considerable depth at this point and the drifting that will open the deposit will not be started for a number of months. At the other property, an incline shaft is down to the first level, from which point the ore is already being tapped. An engine house, a boiler house and a number of dwelling houses have been constructed and shafthouses are in course of erection. These are being built of fir timber procured from the Pacific coast. An air compressor is in commission, as is a hoisting engine, and foundations for other machinery have been laid.

The Rogers-Brown Ore company has resumed exploratory work in the Amasa field of the Menominee range, after a suspension of three months. Diamond drilling is being done. The contract is held by the St. Clair Exploration company of Duluth. Longyear & Hodge of Marquette have put another drill into commission in the Crystal Falls district. This one is located near the old Mastodon mine. The work already accomplished in this portion of the Menominee range by this diamond drilling concern has attracted considerable attention, particularly the results achieved in Section 15, 44-33, and various mining companies have sent representatives to the field to look the ground over.

Withdraws From Field.

The St. Clair company has surrendered its contracts for drilling various properties in the district adjacent to Ishpeming, Marquette range, and has withdrawn from the field. The rocks of the district are erratic and are costly to penetrate. Carbons are at high figures these days and they go to pieces rapidly in some of the broken jasper ground of the Ishpeming country. The exploratory work for the Jones & McLaughlin company will be continued by the Duluth Diamond Drill company. This is in progress near Iron Mountain lake and at the Winthrop location, in both of which localities there are good prospects of finding ores of merchantable value. The Jones & Laughlin company's Lake Angeline mine, within the city of Ishpeming, is being operated only in a quiet way, although were it desired the output could be materially increased. The product is used for mixing with the fine grained Mesaba ores of the company. The Lake Angeline has produced 8,500,000 tons of ore since its opening many years ago. This has made a deep gash in its deposits, but the mine is far from being a corpse. It will be producing a long time yet.

Both the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company and the United States Steel corporation will continue throughout the winter their diamond drill operations in the district west of Ishpeming. The former has several drills in operation in the territory between its Cliffs Shafts mine at Ishpeming and its Barnes property, six miles distant, while the Steel corporation is drilling north of Champion, in the vicinity of the old North Champion property. The latter was largely an open pit proposition and a low grade of ore was produced, but it is thought that ore of higher grade will be found at depth. In this event, a good sized mine will doubtless be developed. The tract is in a direct line with Hanna & Co.'s American mine and the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company's operations, and there is an excellent chance of finding a large deposit. Some years ago, when the Champion Iron company operated the North Champion property, it was thought that the ore in that vicinity was all of low grade and exploration was not extended to any considerable depth below surface. Two shafts were sunk, but both of them were shallow. The location is ideal for mining operations.

Organization Delayed.

George J. Maas of Negaunee and his associates, who some months ago announced that they were to organize a mining company for the operation of their property, between the American mine and the point where the Steel corporation is now drilling, have not yet carried out their plans. The organization has been deferred on account of Mr. Maas' illness. Diamond drilling carried on under the personal supervision of Mr. Maas has revealed the existance of a large deposit of high grade ore, with millions of tons of low grade material capable of concentration, and there is assurance that the prospective mine will be one of the most important of the Marquette range properites. The American mine, which has proved to be an exceedingly valuable property since taken over and developed by M. A. Hanna & Co., will give employment to a materially increased force of men the coming season. Operations this winter are proceeding briskly. Dwelling houses are very scarce in the locality and to accommodate its men in this particular the company is arranging for the construction of a considerable number of cottages.

The Cleveland-Cliffs company has reduced the working force at its Cleveland Lake mine at Ishpeming to the extent of 175 men and until the shipping season opens the property will be operated only on a single shift basis. Lack of stockpile room explains the curtailment. The ore heretofore has been shipped to Marquette and stocked there. It has frozen in the cars, however, and because of the difficulty and the cost of handling it, the winter shipments have been suspended. Many of the men affected have been given work at the Smith and Stephenson mines, in the Swanzey district. In this latter field, the Cleveland-Cliffs company has closed its Princeton No. 1 mine, also because of the lack of stocking ground. The employes have been transferred to the Princeton No. 2 property and the Stephenson mine.

OVER ONE MILLION FROM IDITAROD

Shown to Be Easily Alaska's Banner First Year Camp.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 21.—More than a million, to be exact, $1,002,550.64, came from the Iditarod during 1910 to the United States assay office at Seattle alone. In this was included the shipment which came overland to Seward and which reached the assayer Dec. 30, but which was not assayed until after Jan. 1. It was roughly estimated at $216,000, but it will be counted now in the 1911 receipts. The gold, however, is part of the 1910 output and with the knowledge that some dust went elsewhere and some is still in the camp serving as circulating medium the Iditarod is easily Alaska's banner first year camp. There are now no pessimistic prophets of the future of that region. Some of the best informed say that $7,000,000 from the Iditarod-Kusko-Kivin-Innoko country, all one vast gold bearing region, is a safe and sane estimate for 1911.

Moore and Julian are the two promising creeks of the Kuskokwim and are easily reached from the Aakotna, a navigable tributary of the Kuskokwim, the Iditarod or the Innoko. In fact, Moore creek is the hub and the other regions bear a remote resemblance to the spokes of a great wheel.

Sam C. Anderson, writing from Ophir City on the Innoko, says: "The strike on Moore creek, a branch of the Takotna, looks like the big thing Alaska has been expecting for half a dozen years." The transportation companies are preparing for a great rush and will place light draught river boats on all the upper navigable reaches and branches of the Kuskowim. The whole interior region for hundreds of miles in all directions from this new found hub, Moon Creek, is made up of almost continuous gravels of more or less positive richness. There are 50,000 square miles, almost unprospected, of unbounded possibilities.

Assay office figures show Tanana in the lead with Nome second and Iditarod third for 1910. The total receipts for the year were $11,216,688.94. Since 1898 the institution has taken in $199,345,561.08 of virgin gold, more than half of which was paid for in minted coin placed directly in circulation in Seattle. This was the chief contributing cause of Seattle's phenomenal growth during the last decade.

MILLION-ACRE FARMERS OF AMERICA

Their Vast Tracts Put to Shame the Most Princely Tracts of the Peerage in Old England—One Man, E. J. Marshall, Boasts of an Estate of Four Million Acres—Two Million-Acre Farms That Are Owned and Managed by Women—The Lordly Estate of New Mexico's Last Territorial Governor—Gen. H. G. Otis the Largest Producer of Alfalfa in the World—The Son of Mrs. Hetty Green a Million-Acre Farmer—Other Large Farms of America.

Written for The Herald by E. J. EDWARDS ("Holland").

(Copyright, 1911, by E. J. Edwards.)

Although the term "gentleman farmer" has come into somewhat frequent use in this country, the expression "landed aristocracy" still has a foreign flavor and suggests those who have inherited wide acres from lucky ancestors who acquired them by royal patent or some other agreeable exercise of the "divine right" of kings. Possibly, it calls to mind some of the titled landlords of the mother country—the Duke of Buccleuch with his almost regal demesne of 460,000 acres, the Duke of Fife with his 249,000 acres of Scottish moorland and arable fields, the Marquis of Bute with his paltry 117,000 acres of coal lands and truck farms, the Duke of Devonshire with his 186,000 acres of sheep pasture and picturesque landscape, the Duke of Westminister with only 30,000 acres of farm land, but consoled with the right and title to 600 acres in the heart of London.

Landed proprietors they are, indeed, but their real estate holdings are not to be compared, in point of acres, with those of several American farmers who find in 1,000,000 acres or more a field not too expansive for their supervision. One of these American land barons, E. J. Marshall, is the owner of an estate in the great Southwest which contains no less than 4,000,000 acres. Besides it the historic entailed estates of Great Britain fade into comparative insignificance.

Mr. Marshall's landed domain is in two ranches of 2,000,000 acres each. One of them extends 170 miles along the international boundary line west of El Paso, Tex. Every inch of it is as historic as Blenheim. For generations it has been the scene of fierce and numerous conflicts between the border men of Texas and Mexico, and many an Indian uprising has brought Uncle Sam's regulars to its vicinity.

The other 2,000,000 acre tract borders the Grand Canyon of the South and East. Most of this land was formerly a part of the United States forest reserve, and it has been so developed by irrigation that it has become one of the most valuable cattle ranges in America, and a considerable portion of it is also available for tillage. At present Mr. Marshall is not engaged in intensive farming on either of his estates. This vast area whose proper cultivation might sustain the population of a state is the feeding ground of 100,000 head of cattle, a variety of farming that appeals strongly to its proprietor despite all Secretary Wilson's efforts to make intensive farming popular.

In Mr. Marshall's case the passion for landed proprietorship appears to have been congenital. Born without even a remote prospect of acquiring any considerable quantity of it, inheriting nothing except a sound physical endowment and the pluck to resist discouragement, his first venture was a 2,000-acre ranch in Texas which was "almost concealed from view by mortgages." Mr. Marshall declares that it was his effort to clear off the incumbrance on this property that taught him how to combine cattle, land and banking so as to make the operation profitable. At any rate, he borrowed the money to buy the cattle which finally paid for the land. The outcome was so satisfactory that he continued the practice until he became the greatest landed proprietor in America, perhaps in the world. Banking, cattle and land is still his winning combination.

That Mr. Marshall comes legitimately enough by his taste for accumulating acres is made plain by his family history. Practically every male ancestor of his line was influenced by a similar ambition, although he did not always achieve it. It was the pursuit of it that led his grandfather to his death. As a lawyer this Marshall became so interested in the subject of the old Spanish land grants that he made his way to New Mexico—then a journey involving enormous risk and personal discomfort—with the purpose of acquiring title to some of these valuable tracts. It was in those uncertain days when Gen. Sam Houstan was in the saddle for Texan independence, and the general needed all the help he could get in order to carry out his scheme. His argument that the triumph of his cause would further the favorable settlement of the land grant matter seemed so reasonable that the lawyer consented to accept a position on Houston's staff and wait until the war was over before proceeding with the business which had taken him so far away from home. He served faithfully until the capture of Santa Ana, but in a gallant attempt to prevent the escape of that resourceful Mexican leader he was drowned in the Rio Grande.

Virginia Ann King, America's Woman Farmer.

Five years ago all the newspapers in America were making public all that could be gathered concerning Lady Mary Hamilton, only child and heiress of the premier duke of Scotland and the richest young woman in the United Kingdom. At that time she was about to be married to the marquis of Graham, heir of the wealthy Duke of Montrose, and great stress was put on the fact that Lady Mary would be mistress of one of the most extensive landed estates in the world when her husband-to-be should come into his dukedom.

Now all the time these accounts of Lady Mary's prospects as a land owner were being paraded before the world with dazzling insistence there was at least one woman in America who was not overcome by the story of the Scottish girl's landed pre-eminence. The statement that some time in the uncertain future the bride-to-be would come into possession of an estate comprising 160,000 acres seemed scarcely worth exploiting to a member of the gentler sex, who was already in undisputed possession of many times that land area.

This American woman, born at Greenville, Tex., and still a resident of that prosperous agricultural county town, is the owner of more than ten times as many acres as Lady Mary will ever be able to call her very own. Even were the deeply-entrenched British law of primogeniture to be abolished and she should come in for the combined Hamilton and Montrose estates she would still be the possessor of only about a quarter as much real estate as belongs to Virginia Ann King, the most picturesque of American million-acre farmers.

Nor are Mrs. King's broad acres spread out in arid stretches that are real estate only in name, part and parcel of the old time Llano Estacado, that fabled Texan No Man's Land, which has disappeared from the map. Lady Mary Hamilton's estate is for the greatest part of that variety described by the glib London agent as "the grandest grouse shooting in the kingdom, sir." Mrs. King's million-acre farm is made up of dozens of the most fertile and best cultivated homesteads in Hunt, Jones and Shackelford counties, provided with the most modern of improvements and tilled after the most up-to-date methods.

The late Capt. Richard King was a Mississippi river pilot, who freighted goods for Gen. Taylor, during the Mexican war and took as part payment for his services an old Spanish land grant on the frontier, the very thing Mr. Marshall's ancestor cotered, but did not achieve. At first it was a doubtful proposition, for when Capt. King went to claim possession of his new estate he found it tenanted by outlaws and renegades of every description, and he speedily realized that he should have to fight for his rights or relinquish them. He had acquired a taste for adventure in his river operations, and the opportunity to conduct a small war on his own account appealed to him. So he recruited a band of those who were of the same way of thinking and proceeded to fight his way into full possession of his domain.

He succeeded in dislodging the armed interlopers and then began at once to develop his property. The grant as it stood originally was considerably larger than the state of Rhode Island, with a soil so deeply fertile that no artificial enrichment would be needed for more than one generation. Long before his passing, this original estate of Santa Gertrudis had reached a state of productive expansiveness that would have amazed the heiress of the Hamiltons had she been permitted to compare it with the scanty returns from her moorlands.

Fortunately for the perpetuation of the million-acre-farmer class, the administration of this princely estate fell into capable hands. Capt. King had married a Texas girl who had made farming on a mammoth scale her chief study in life, and at his death she assumed the reins without a doubt as to her capacity to undertake the task.

"It never occurred to me that there was anything else for me to do," Mrs. King said recently. "Of course, I realized that it was going to keep me busy, but I was used to that and liked it. I suppose if I had stopped to consider that it was seventy miles from my front gate to the veranda of my house I might have faltered, but my mind was so full of getting 5,000 acres of grain harvested and off my hands that I didn't have time to think of the size of the field."

Before a year had passed Mrs. King had demonstrated her ability to conduct farming on a larger scale than had been the practice even in Texas. To the great surprise of her competitors in the market, she not only kept the famous King ranch up to its usual standard, but launched out into new fields with a boldness that subjected her to much criticism from those who were less keen witted. During her husband's lifetime, cattle raising at the ranch had been confined practically to native stock, although Capt. King had contemplated stocking some of his farms with improved breeds. This scheme was put into execution by his widow, who began by making a considerable outlay of capital for imported stock contrary to the advice of many local cattle men, who had convinced themselves that there was no money in fine stock bred in Texas.

Again Mrs. King showed them that they were in error. Her experiments with imported Herefords and Devons were so successful that in time she abandoned the business of fitting native stock for the beef market and confined herself exclusively to the breeding of blooded cattle and horses. For many years the King ranch has stood foremost in the rearing and marketing of this pedigreed stock, and its herds of Herefords and shorthorns are the largest and finest in the world, and the high-bred horses which are the product of the King stables are famous for their quality in all the markets of the world.

To those who meet her for the first time Mrs. King is a distinct surprise. It is not easy to recognize a woman of her unique achievement in the dignified and retiring matron who greets a visitor with a timid smile and proceeds to talk agreeably and intelligently on any subject outside of "shop." Her voice is low and instinct with that quality which has come to be known as cultured. Were one required to place her geographically, Boston or its vicinity might suggest itself, but Texas—never. She has traveled much and has been a keen observer.

Although Mrs. King has made no attempt to acquire an art collection, she enjoys the reputation among dealers and producers of being an authority in such matters. The walls of her beautiful winter residence at Corpus Christi, Tex., bear evidence of her discrimination in this direction. One of the rare portraits hanging in her music room is a replica of a "Duke of Devonshire" in the British national gallery.

"It's a lovely picture," said a woman friend who dropped in to have a view of it before the general public was admitted. "But while you were at it, why didn't you buy the real thing—a real live duke, I mean? You certainly can afford it, and they are so fashionable just now."

"If I were a marrying woman," was the reply, "I don't suppose I should let the mere fact that a man was a duke stand in the way, but just at present I am interested only in the pedigrees of four-footed animals."

In recent years Mrs. King has had an efficient aid in her son-in-law, R. J. Kleberg, who has also learned the trick of combining banking with agriculture at a profit. Mr. Kleberg is president of the industrial congress of Texas, a non-political organization devoted to the upbuilding of the commonwealth. It was on the great ranch managed by Mr. Kleberg that the pioneer scientific investigation into the Texas cattle fever was made, resulting in the discovery of one of the most valued antitoxins used in stock raising.

Rhoda May Rindge and Her Landed Domain.

Another American woman whose landed domain is so far-reaching that it makes the Scottish estate of Lady Mary Hamilton-Graham seem like a thistle patch in comparison is Rhoda May Rindge. Left a widow with an estate so vast in acres that she did not know how to estimate it, Mrs. Rindge resolved to become a practical farmer. It took her the better part of two years to locate and inspect all her holdings. Much of her land is in the semi-tropical regions of the Southwest, some of it across the Mexican border. She discovered that she was the proprietor of vast forests of mahogany and other rare woods, and she began immediately to take steps to put this product on the market. She also established a system of tenant farming on some of her Southern estates, the soil of which is adapted to the cultivation of pineapples, bananas and cocoanuts, and has been active in bringing into use a wonderful Mexican fibrous plant as a rope-making material.

Until the death of her husband, the late Frederick H. Rindge of Cambridge, Mass., this million-acre woman farmer knew nothing of the practical side of agriculture. Her husband, who was a fellow student of Theodore Roosevelt at Harvard, was interested deeply in aboriginal research and devoted himself to the collecting of material illustrative of the history and customs of primitive American races. During his lifetime Mr. Rindge was regarded as an authority on such matters, and he bequeathed his unique collections to Peabody museum. Although he had come into possession, by inheritance and otherwise, of vast tracts of land in the United States and Mexico, he took little interest in agriculture from a practical viewpoint. It remained for his wife to convert his valuable but unprofitable landed interests into money makers. This she has done in less than five years. In that time she has made herself one of the wealthiest women in the world.

A Group of Texas Million-Acre Farmers.

In his lifetime the elder John V. Farwell, the famous Chicago merchant who founded the fortunes of the family of that name, was the sole proprietor of a ranch of 3,000,000 acres in the most productive district of Texas. This land was acquired by the original owner as payment by the state for work done on public buildings, especially on the state capitol at Austin. Ex-Senator Thomas W. Palmer of Michigan inherited an immense tract of land obtained by his father in the same manner, an estate which became of great value in the course of time. The original Farwell grant has been reduced to about 800,000 acres, which the present owner, Walter Farwell, has brought into a state of high cultivation. Mr. Farwell is what is popularly known as a book farmer, theoretical first and practical afterward. Contrary to the experience of some of those who have applied this method of agriculture, Mr. Farwell has made a brilliant success of his experiment. The Farwells—Mrs. Farwell is the daughter of Mrs. Stephen A. Douglas by an earlier marriage—occupy the big ranch house at Channing during the summer and spend the winters in England.

Another Texas farmer whose land holdings exceed those of any peer in Burke's Peerage is Col. W. B. Worsham of Henrietta. The colonel is the owner of a single farm of 40,000 acres and is also the proprietor of vast cattle ranges in the western part of the state. Like Marshall and Kleberg, he has become a multi-millionaire from banking, brewing, oil refining and a dozen other industrial ventures and has invested his overplus in lands. Col. Worsham has been the builder of his own fortunes, having begun life as a cowboy and worked his way by sheer dint of energy and native shrewdness into the million-acre farmer class.

Although Edward H. R. Green has recently changed his voting place from the Lone Star State to New York City, he still remains in possession of enough land in that commonwealth to retain his membership in the million-acre group. He is the owner of rich agricultural tracts in almost every county of Texas, an estate covering a greater area than half a dozen of the crack British baronial grants. Most of his land is tilled by tenant farmers on shares, and the plan has proved to be highly profitable.

One of the Green farms in Southern Texas, on which the proprietor grows strawberries for the February market, is underlaid with a bed of cement which, in Mr. Green's opinion, only awaits development to put the famous holdings of the Duke of Portland into obscurity. When he gets through helping his mother in some of her high financial flights the colonel—this is his social distinction in Texas—is going to get busy at that cement deposit and the vim that has characterized all his other development schemes—as for example, his transformation of the Texas Midland railroad—which, when it came into his hands was about as sorry a specimen of a railroad as could be found anywhere—into a condition of high efficiency.

Down in Texas, where the colonel is loved immensely, it is a common opinion that he resembles his mother in only one particular—he has inherited her capacity to transmute most of the ordinary things of life into gold. Fortunately for him, his methods of performing this clever and delicate trick do not conflict with the happiness of his fellows. The colonel is an altruist of the "live and let live" variety, and he has a habit of so arranging his business ventures that the "other fellow" doesn't get hurt fatally.

The estate known as Cordo Blanco in the fertile Texas Panhandle, is one of the most extensive stretches of farm land under individual ownership and management in America. It is the property of W. Tom Waggoner, and an idea of its extent may be gathered from the fact that recently its proprietor presented each of his three children with a slice of it as large as the state of Rhode Island. Nor does it appear that he robbed himself in the process, for he admits that he has left for his own use "a garden patch with an estimated area of 1,000 square miles." If there is a titled land owner in the United Kingdom who could duplicate this little spasm of parental affection, now is his time to speak.

Other American Land Barons and Their Holdings.

There is at least one million-acre farmer in the new state of New Mexico—the last territorial governor, William J. Mills, whose wife, daughter of the late Wilson Waddingham of West Haven, Conn., inherited from her father intact, the big Spanish land grant, known as Pablo Montoya. Originally, this famous tract embraced several millions of acres, but since it came under the supervision of Mr. Mills, it has been divided into several ranches, one of which, the Bell ranch, is under the personal oversight of the governor. Next to Mrs. King, the proprietor of the Bell ranch is the owner of the biggest and finest collection of blooded cattle in the country. His herd of registered shorthorns has the run of a range of 715,000 acres, all fenced, and a patrol of cowboy fence riders is employed to guard the stock.

Another notable member of the American landed aristocracy is Gen. H. G. Otis, who, in addition to conducting a newspaper in Los Angeles, is engaged in farming on a large scale in the Cocopaw Indian country, in the delta of the Colorado river. The general is proprietor of a landed estate of upward of a million acres, which he intends to convert into the biggest cotton plantation in the world. In developing his mammoth farm, he has succeeded in solving the labor problem by employing large numbers of the native Cocopaws, and has found them satisfactory in every way. At present the general's main crop is alfalfa, to the culture of which he has devoted an acreage greater than that of any other farmer in the world. The alfalfa crop is fed on the premises to one of the biggest herds in the country, and both tilling the soil and caring for the cattle are carried on exclusively by the Indians.

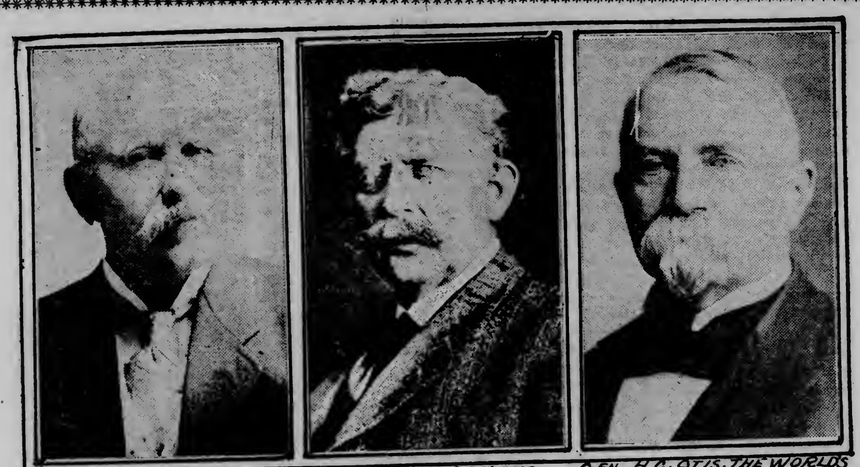

Gen. Otis' farm is part of the "wonder region" of the Colorado basin. It is located in the center of the spouting mud geyser district and contains many of those famous natural curiosities which resemble nothing so closely as small volcanoes with an output of boiling mud instead of ashes and lava. No other spot in the United States has a record of higher temperature than is registered during long stretches in this fertile bottom land, but the productiveness of the soil, after it is made available by irrigation, is almost beyond belief.

Altogether, it is a part of the national domain unlike any other spot in America. The native Cocopaws bear small resemblance to the accepted Indian type—they are as dusky as Moors, as muscular as trained athletes and as amiable as Eskimos. Wrestling is as popular with them as it was with the Greeks and Romans. One of the men of the tribe employed by Gen. Otis, a giant weighing more than 500 pounds, is credited by his employer with wrestling ability sufficient to put him in the front rank of mat artists.

According to records in the office of Prof. Spillman, expert of the United States agricultural department, there are many farms situated in various parts of the country on which the acreage devoted to a rotation of crops exceeds that of most of the great landed estate of Europe. While most American farms of the million-acre class are devoted especially to the raising of cattle, horses, sheep and goats, there are to be found, in almost every state of the Union, men engaged in practical agriculture on a scale that makes the most extensive European farming seem trivial in comparison.

Col. James M. Smith of Smithsonia, Ga., tills 23,000 acres and makes use of a private steam railroad to haul his crops to the shipping point. He practices crop rotation after the most approved fashion. Besides marketing $127,000 worth of cotton the past season, he harvested 12,000 bushels of wheat, 15,000 bushels of oats, 23,000 bushels of corn, 10,000 bushels of turnips, 6,000 bushels of cowpeas and shipped 20,000 pounds of butter. The farm at Smithsonia is a model in its way, an example of intensive farming carried on after the most scientific method. The estate has 600 neat dwellings for the farm hands and over a thousand mules and horses supplement the work of the steam and electric labor-saving equipment. "Land is becoming too valuable to be treated in a slipshod manner," Col. Smith declares. "My advice to the young is never to be afraid of becoming too intelligent to follow farming as a life business. I have never seen a successful farmer who had any more sense than he could find use for."

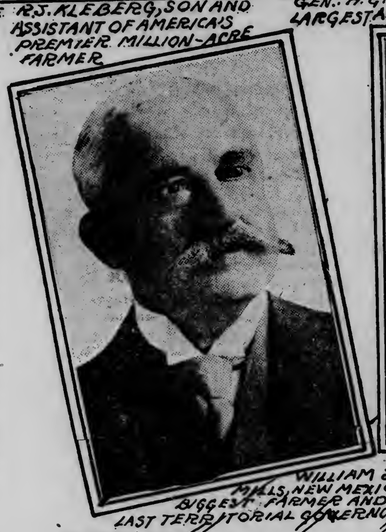

At Chugwater, Wyoming, at an altitude of 7,500 feet, is the Swan ranch, containing 280,000 acres, almost three times the size of the landed estate of the Duke of Portland. Congressman Asle J. Cronna of North Dakota is reputed to be the premier individual wheat farmer in America. There are a number of co-operative growers of wheat whose acreage exceeds that of Mr. Gronna's wheatfield, but thus far his 8,000 acres have made the best showing. Another highly cultivated Georgia farm is at Danville, 12,000 acres owned and operated by Col. Hughes. The Funk farm at Bloomington, Ill., contains 40,000 acres, and the Wadsworths, famous in history and politics, are proprietors of a tenant system embracing seventy model farms in the best part of Livingston county, N. Y. The Reddick Bros. of Columbus, Ind., cultivate 29,000 acres in the Mississippi bottoms and the famous Rankin farms, which center around Tarkio, Mo., constitute an estate amounting to 23,000 acres.

CONGRATULATIONS TO HAMMOND.

Minnesota's lone Democratic representative in the new congress is to have a generous share in the good things that come to his party as a result of the election of last November—that is, if increased responsibility is to be counted among the good things, and it must be so reckoned by any man fit to hold public office. In the Democratic caucus Representative Hammond was chosen to membership on the ways and means committee of the house, of which Representative Underwood of Alabama will be chairman by virtue of seniority.

It will be a great change for Mr. Hammond, for it means that from being a member of the minority in the committees on banking and finance and on mines and mining, he becomes one of the majority in the most important committee in the entire house organization. For the ways and means committee will be the body that will determine the membership of other committees in the house in the Sixty-second congress, and that power, wrested from Speaker Cannon only after a bitter fight, means virtually direct control, as far as it can be exercised before bills actually are introduced, over whatever measures may come before congress.

And even that is only part of the work which will fall to Representative Hammond of Minnesota and his fellow-committeemen, for upon the ways and means committee of the house will devolve the task of framing whatever tariff bill the Democrats may see fit to introduce. There is where the greatest problem and probably the greatest fight of the Sixty-second congress will originate. With the interest of the people of the nation in tariff matters enflamed to a white heat by the passage of the Payne-Aldrich bill, no committee in Washington will be watched more closely than the ways and means committee of the next house, and its members will have oportunity to do immense service for the country by their management of the situation and the problems that come with it.

It is to such a post as this that Mr. Hammond of Minnesota has been assigned by his Democratic colleagues, and the Minnesota man is to be congratulated on that fact. He has had little chance heretofore to show his mettle as a statesman. Now the opportunity has arrived in full measure, and The Herald extends to him hearty good wishes for success in his new field of public service.

IT SOUNDS WORTH WHILE.

State Senator J. L. Cashel of Walsh county, North Dakota, rather sprung a surprise on the Northwest when he proposed his scheme for nonpartisan elections to educational and judicial offices in that state. He favors a return to the convention system of nomination as far as these two classes of officers are concerned, and thus far his plan is not novel. But after the nominations have been made he wants the ballots to bear the names of the candidates only, without party designation, and it is there that he goes wide of the custom in elections in this country.

Perhaps Senator Cashel has hit upon something worth while. He claims for his plan that it would remove the offices included in its operation from partisan politics, and that is one of the best motives possible where offices of those characters are concerned, as well as regarding local elections generally. Party nomination is perhaps the most convenient manner of getting the names of candidates before the people, but under his plan of printing the ballots, the party designations would drop as soon as the nominations were made. Incidentally, the scheme would do away with the practice of voting a straight ticket that included educational and judicial officers, and that would help materially in accomplishing the removal of those offices from the political field.

Senator Cashel's idea is not wholly new. In Canada and England ballots bear the names of candidates without party designation, but tell after each name the occupation or profession of the candidate. In the case of educational offices such designation might be advisable if North Dakota adopts Senator Cashel's suggestion, though it would hardly be necessary as far as judicial candidates were concerned. At any rate the bill offered by the Walsh county man appears at first glance to have merits that should command attention, perhaps even in the light of possible extension of the system to other offices than those he designates.

DISPOSING OF REFUSE.

The Herald was glad to receive and print the expressions sent by "A Young Farmer" to the Open Court regarding the action of the city council in providing for the distribution of manure from the stables of Duluth among the farming districts of the county. There is another side to the proposition than that stated by the correspondent, for besides helping the farmers, the removal of the refuse from the city will be a protective measure that will help to keep the community free from disease and from insect pests. It is well for the people of Duluth to realize that the farmers appreciate the action of the council, and it is to be hoped that the step will prove but one in the building up of mutually advantageous relations between Duluth and the agricultural areas around the city.

This arrangement for the disposal of manure makes easier another step toward insuring the health of the city by increasing the possibility of similar disposal of garbage. St. Paul and other municipalities have been disposing in this way of kitchen refuse for years, and the farmers have been glad to get it. With the new arrangement for distributing stable refuse to the farmers, it would seem easy to arrange for similar distribution of refuse from the kitchens, and so rid the city of one of the greatest menaces to the health of the people. It is a development of the plan that is worth adopting, and the health department should arrange for such service if possible before the return of the weather that will turn the putrid messes in the back yards and alleys of the city into active dangers to the public health.

EXPENSIVE FOOLISHNESS.

Some interesting figures anent the parcels post agitation are presented by Frank B. Lord in Norman E. Mack's National Monthly. They are interesting not only because they show the enormous revenue that exists in the carriage of packages, but because their consideration shows that the failure of the United States government to take up that service is a piece of absolute foolishness and one that is costing the people, through an annual deficit in the postoffice department, millions of dollars every year. Here are the figures as Mr. Lord gives them:

> In 1909 the gross receipts of the American Express company were $31,909,721. Its net earnings from the express business were $1,809,254, upon a capitalization of $1,716,004, or an annual profit during the year upon the capital invested in the company of 105.6 per cent.
> In 1909 the profits of the Wells-Fargo Express company were 70.7 per cent. The net earnings of the Adams Express company, the United States Express company, the Southern Express company and other big express companies were correspondingly large.

In the matter of government carriage of parcels, as has often been pointed out, the United States is tagging along miles and miles behind the rest of the world. In Belgium the postoffice takes parcels up to 132 pounds in weight, and in Germany and Austria up to 110 pounds. But in this country you must limit the weight to four pounds or Uncle Sam will refuse to accept your patronage. England, Canada, Australia, even little Cuba have provisions for government transportation of packages, and in Japan, where there is one-cent letter postage and a parcels post, the government makes a net profit of something more than $9,000,000 a year out of its postoffice. Maybe this is one of the things on which Representative Humphrey bases his opinion that the Japs are enough smarter than the American to conquer this country in war.

Meanwhile, the Republican house is ripping and raring and tearing its hair over how it might transact business if it were minded to transact any, and a Republican senate is so busy in the whitewash shed that it can't find time to think about anything else. To be sure a Republican president, after due consultation with his judicial temperament, has recommended that the parcels post be established in the least remunerative part of the service, but the men who framed the postoffice appropriation bill did what he didn't dare do, and left the question of parcels post out entirely, they were so excited with admiration over the fact that Republican Postmaster General Hitchcock lost only $5,000,000 of the people's money in the last year.

The United States needs a parcels post. But the interests represented by the express companies want the money, and the Republican party is sticking to its old principle. Therefore the country continues to need the parcels post.

THE WIDOWS AND ORPHANS.

And now it is the Sugar trust that is putting forth the old, old story about the widows and orphans who hold stock and who are in no way responsible for the misconduct of the officials. The plea is made in the matter of fraudulent drawbacks for which the United States government is demanding settlement. The Sugar trust has offered to refund $700,000, but Uncle Sam reasons that if so much as that is offered voluntarily, there ought to be more than that amount refunded to make the reparation anywhere near complete. Therefore the government is considering a demand for a full million, and the trust is making the plea that such a repayment would take the money away from innocent persons.

Isn't it about time that that idea was done away with once and for all? When a man commits robbery or uses the mails to defraud or does any one of a hundred other actions that are contrary to law, he is shoved into prison and told to stay there awhile. And there is no particular provision made for his family. Why should more care be exercised for those who draw an income from a commercial organization that breaks the law than for the family of a man who does so individually? If there is any reason it is not apparent. The plea of the "widows and orphans" is nothing but an excuse put forth by the men who draw big sums from the corporation and who are surprised and hurt when anybody suggests that they should be made to suffer financially for the wrongs they commit against the public.

JUST ANOTHER VICTIM.

There were expressions of varied opinions among the thousands who last night read The Herald's extra telling of the conviction of Charles Melodrowski of murder in the second degree for the killing of Patrolman Harry Chesmore. The first words of many who read the story were to the effect that it was a strange verdict in view of the apparent deliberateness of the crime. Then, with the thought of the youth of the prisoner, the decision of the jury was accepted as not unjustified. But it was noticeable that in most of the conversations overheard there was less of sympathy for the boy than of feeling that it would be putting the state in a bad light to execute so young a person, even for so horrible a crime.

Such feelings are but natural, and that they were shared by the jury is indicated not only by the fact that the verdict was in the second degree but that the court was asked to be as lenient as it might reasonably be toward the prisoner. Probably, on second thought, even those who last night declared that the boy should be hanged will change their opinion. As a matter of fact, Melodrowski is himself a victim, and though his attitude at the reading of the verdict would indicate that he does not realize either the enormity of his act or the awfulness of a life of imprisonment, he is none the less a victim. It was lurid literature, sensational trash of the cheapest sort, that directed his mind into the channels that led to his crime.

Considering his mental state it probably is better for himself as well as for the public that he be kept in confinement, where his vain imaginings cannot endanger more lives. But while Melodrowski is kept behind bars and is made to bear the punishment that society must perforce mete out to those who strike at its fundamental principles, what about the influences that led the boy into crime? Trashy literature, sensational stories of robbery and bloodshed in which the value of human life is disregarded and which serve no purpose except to inflame the imagination of youth, continue to circulate in boys' hands, continue to be purchasable at various places in this and other cities, continue to flaunt their gaudy glories and staring titles in the faces of the very lads who would most easily be led astray by them. That being true, it is only a question of time when another case like that of Melodrowski will develop, and that time may be measured in hours instead of months.

Somebody is responsible for the circulation of that kind of rot, and thereby is responsible for incidents like the Melodrowsk case. Somebody is responsible for the admission of such rot to the news stands of Duluth. If there is no provision in the ordinances for stopping this traffic in boys' minds such provision should be made.

AN EXTRA SESSION.

It begins to look as if the Sixty-second congress will meet sooner than was expected—that is, if President Taft really is in the hurry he claims to be in about getting some of his recommendations enacted into law. That the senate will accomplish anything to speak of at this session other than the seating or unseating of Lorimer and Stephenson and the settlement of the Ballinger matter becomes more doubtful every day, and March 4 will be here six weeks from today. The senate has some unpleasant work on its hands, and as the men involved in the unpleasantness are all Republicans, it is natural that the Republicans should want to take care of these cases as soon as possible.

In the house, too, the president's recommendations are not making much headway. Most notable of all the actions taken thus far is the execution of the tariff commission bill that was presented by Representative Longworth. Maybe the bill was only presented for exhibition purposes. In the light of the summary treatment it got at the hands of the house committee its presentation at all seems to have been a needless waste of energy and flub-dub. With Payne and Dalzell appointed to draw up the measure that finally will go to the house for action there is not much hope for the cause of a useful, practical and really valuable tariff commission.

It has been suggested that the commission proposal could and will be made abortive by the appropriation of funds to continue the present commission on its present basis for a couple of years longer, and so tie the hands of those who want a real tariff commission. It would not be very surprising if the standpatters in congress, knowing the way their masters feel about the matter, take some such course. They must remember, however, that if they do that they will only be adding to the troubles their party will face in 1912 and confirming the public in its opinion that the Republican pledges of 1908 were not a platform, but a scaffolding, cunningly hidden by oratorical bouquets and deceptive bunting of the kind that will not wash. In short, that their soulful paeons about the interests of the nation at large were nothing but what Huckleberry Finn would call "soul-butter and hog-wash." Even as they hung their hopes on that scaffolding, so the voters will have a chance to hang the builders' political existence alongside those hopes, and make the picture complete and enjoyable.

It is rather odd to contemplate—the idea of a Republican president calling a Democratic congress in extraordinary session to enact measures that a Republican house rejected. But if President Taft was not four-flushing when he made those recommendations, the outlook is that this will be just what he will have to do.

THOSE SHOP EXCURSIONS.

If a stranger stopped a resident of Duluth, one who is interested in business here and has lived here for a number of years, and asked him the volume of this city's annual jobbing trade, do you think the Duulthian would be able to give anything like an accurate estimate?

Do you know the total tax valuation of Duluth property and how it compares with that of any other city that might be named?

Do you know what are the chief articles of manufacture in Duluth?

There are any number of such questions that would be asked by a possible prospective resident and business man here, and any information the local business man gave him might be just the determining factor in his reaching a decision.

Then there are cases on record where men from other cities have asked Duluthians what progress the city was making as a manufacturing center. And out of his ignorance the Duluthian said: "We've tried to boost that end of the city's interests, but without much success."

Think of such a reply when, as a matter of fact, there are more than 200 manufacturing concerns, large and small of every description, in Duluth, and all are prosperous.

The shop excursions being planned by the Duluth Commercial club are for the benefit of the citizen who doesn't know about these things, and through him for the benefit of Duluth. These excursions will be held at intervals during the late winter and early spring months, and perhaps later, beginning early in February.

The "Get Wise" shop excursions will be successful just to the extent that the business men of Duluth take advantage of the opportunities they will offer to learn about the city as it is. The plan has been approved and applauded on all sides. It is up to the people themselves to determine its success, and its success means added advantages to Duluth.

Anyway, Illinois has furnished a horrible example to those legislatures that are deadlocked.

TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

Bumps and the Hobble Skirt.

Austin Transcript: A Chicago cloak and suit dealer has gone bump financially on account of an overstock of hobble skirts which he could not sell. This is a great compliment to the ladies who would not use them.

But before he went bump it is probable that a goodly number of the ultra-fashionable did likewise.

Arizona and New Mexico.

Faribault Journal: Now that Oklahoma has decided what its capital shall be and is to have a Cruse for a governor, perhaps it will permit Arizona and New Mexico to take the national stage for newcomers.

"Five rooms, a bath and a piano" ought to help some to attract public attention to Arizona, which infant commonwealth Charles Purdon would represent in congress with that phrase for his slogan.

Suffrage in South Dakota.

Little Falls Transcript: G-r-a-ci-o-u-s! The prospect ahead seems to be that the women of South Dakota must vote on whether they want to vote or not, if a bill introduced into the legislature there by Senator Perley should not have its throat cut. Those South Dakotas are not the men we have been led to believe they are if they can't settle that question for those poor women.

Perhaps they are too chivalrous to be on the square about it.

Senator Bailey's Wishes.

Winona Independent: Senator Bailey wants the whole tariff subject thrashed out at one time; and that's about what one could expect from Bailey. He wants the log rollers to have a chance.

The poor (?) Texan doesn't seem to be growing in popularity a bit.

Selling the State Fair.

Cambridge North Star: Why not sell the state fair to some private individual and let him enjoy its troubles? It was reported two years ago that someone was willing to pay $1,000,000 for it. Where is that man now?

What's the good of a state fair without legislative appropriations?

Living Away From Home.

Ogilvie Sentinel: Librarian Putnam cannot live in Washington on $6,000 a year. However, a good many of us are getting along on a little less than that.

But we don't have to live in Washington. However, there are gentlemen who would be willing to live there, no matter how small the income.

Bragging and Braggarts.

Coleraine Optic: When you hear a man bragging about his ancestors, it's a safe bet that he has nothing else to brag about.

Except, possibly, his ability as a bragger.

Are Quite Combustible.

Red Wing Republican: It has been sagely remarked that the best thing about some of our "six best sellers" is that none of these volumes are fireproof.

Here's a match.

Millions for Roads.

Aitkin Age: The state of California is to spend $18,000,000 on a system of highways in the interior. This is the most gigantic step in road building that is planned anywhere and should stimulate other states to get away from their timidity on highway expenses.

Minnesota's road needs must be more extensive than those of California, and the legislature is in session.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Judge: Woggs—Where was your son educated?

Boggs—He wasn't. He went to college, that's all.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "What do you do for a living, Mose?"

"I'se de manager ob a laundry."

"What's the name of this laundry?"

"Eliza Ann."

Boston Transcript: Marie—When you spoke to papa, did you tell him you had $500 in the bank?

Tom—I did.

Marie—And what did he say?

Tom—He borrowed it.

Philadelphia Record: Tommy—Pop, what is ennui?

Tommy's Pop—Ennui, my son, is a disease that attacks people who are so lazy that they get tired of resting.

Washington Star: "I believe in calling a spade a spade," said the emphatic person.

"That's right, friend," replied Bronco Bob. "There was a man who nearly lost his life by gettin' into a game an' tryin' to call a spade a club."

Baltimore American: "When Mr. Jobbs saw the burglars coming, did he bolt the door?"

"No, he didn't stop for that. He bolted himself."

Toledo Blade: "What do you consider a statesman's most valuable knowledge?"

"The knowledge of when to change his mind," quickly answered the standpat senator from a progressive state.

Pittsburg Observer: "What shall we say of Senator Smugg?"

"Just say he was always faithful to his trust."

"And shall we mention the name of the trust?"

Fliegende Blaetter: Creditor—Is your master at home?

Servant—Yes, please walk in.

Creditor—Thank heaven, I shall see some money at last.

Servant—Don't make that mistake. If he had any money, he wouldn't be at home.

Baltimore American: "Now, my boy, you say you do not know what the head of a regiment is called? Your papa is a soldier, isn't he?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Well, who makes him mind?"

"Mamma."

Life: The man who owes everything to his wife seldom pays it back.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Is she a bride?"

"An inveterate one."

Punch: The egotist (sitting opposite diner)—Waiter! take this gentleman's soup away; I can't hear the band.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Does it pay to worry?"

"It pays to worry father. He coughs up twice as handsomely."

Baltimore American: "I wouldn't give a copper for this man of yours," said the irate father to his pleading daughter.

"That's all I want, pa," she rejoined, in a flash.

"What's all?" growled the astonished parent.

"Give him a copper, pa," she answered. "In other words, give him assent."

An English Sparrow Slayer Club.

London Standard: Farmers in Codford and district have formed a club for the destruction of sparrows, which are so numerous that they have become a pest to this part of Wiltshire. The rules provide that each member shall kill no fewer than 100 sparrows by April 30, or be fined 1d a head for any under that number not destroyed.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

EXPLAINS CAUSE OF AEROPLANE DISASTERS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The recent sad fatalities to my friends, Arch Hoxsey and Ralph Johnstone, prompts me to address you in view of giving my opinion as to the cause, especially in view of the fact that no theory has been advanced upon which deductions could be made or propounded among those skilled in the science of aerodynamics that could be attributed to the direct cause of the recent disasters referred to, including that which befell Mr. Moisant and some others before him.

An aeroplane in flight with its nose dipped towards earth at a degree wherewith it no longer retains an angle of incidence towards the line of descent, and wherein the center of pressure is entirely gone from under the main plane, eventually, by gravity, develops such terrific speed that it becomes impossible to again right the machine; the small area of surface on the horizontal control becomes inadequate to counteract the tremendous pressure now exerting its full force upon greater area of exposed surface, namely, that running along the main plane on top, near its leading edge.

I am of the opinion the extremely daring aviator desiring to execute a sensational rapid glide towards the earth while in flight, or while performing a spiral dip, likewise the aviator who makes too quick a landing, unconsciously allows the center of pressure under the plan to remain at zero for far too long a period, for, after executing either of the above mentioned performances, gravity has already begun to play an all important part, causing him to travel towards the earth with an ever increasing speed, he has already dipped the nose of his machine towards the earth, the aeroplane no longer retaining an angle of incidence towards the line of descent, the tremendous power of head-on pressure caused from the terrific speed the forces of gravity have brought about, is now directed against, and on top of the forward end of the main plane. This volume of air pressure becomes almost as a solid offering a resistance likened to a stone wall exerting its tremendous force against and on top of the parabola of the curved surfaces of the plane situated immediately back of the leading edge, the pilot eventually pulls at his levers in an endeavor to bring the machine to an even keel towards a horizontal line of flight only to find the area of surface on the horizontal control is now insufficient to counteract the head-on pressure directed against the top from the edge of the main plane, the latter offers an area of surface to this head-on pressure many times in excess of that possessed by the horizontal control, and so the aviator is entrapped to his doom.

As it is not considered practical, by many, to increase the surface of the horizontal control, then may I suggest the advisability of encouraging inventors to produce a safety stop, to be put in use on the control levers of aeroplanes that will prevent flying up or down beyond a certain safe angle. Sincerely yours,

JOSEPH W. CURZON.

The Men of Yesterday.

From an article by A. Maurice Low in the National Review of London: It is a curious thing that the two men who so long dominated their parties are now out of touch with them. Mr. Roosevelt has still a very considerable following, but it is a minority instead of the majority that it once was. Mr. Bryan deludes himself with the idea that he is still able to exercise power, but no one else is deluded. The men who control in congress, and the men who won victories in their states, and constitute the new force in Democratic politics, are not under the influence of Mr. Bryan, nor will they be ruled by him. Mr. Bryan will always be an interesting figure and will have the personal respect of every one who knows his good qualities, his sincerity and his zeal, but he need no longer be regarded as a political figure of the first order. He will no longer dominate national conventions. He will no longer be able to prevent nominations or to defeat men he opposes. He has ruled his party for fourteen years, but now his reign is over.

Fishes Don't Need Ears to Hear.

Philadelphia North American: Just because fishes haven't ears is no reason why they can't hear, according to Dr. Arthur Gordon Webster, professor of physics in Clark university, who recently opened a series of lectures on "Sound in Speech and Music" at the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Webster declared that sound is motion. "The outside of the ear," he said, "is not necessary to hearing. It is possible to hear through the teeth. This can easily be proved by putting a pencil between the teeth and holding it on the sounding board of a piano.

"There has been much discussion as to whether fish can hear. Some persons have declared that fish cannot distinguish sounds because they have no ears, but sound is motion, and as long as vibrations reach the inside of fishes' heads, it makes no difference whether they have ear orifices or not."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Haste to Get Poor.

Why this hot-footed scramble among the millionaires to get rid of their money? Have we not been told from our youth up that every American boy should early become a worshipper at the shrine of success and by means of frugality, industry and sagacity, take his place in the millionaire class in due time. Do not "get-rich-quick" schemes flaunt themselves in our faces as we open our morning mail, and is not the money getting passion taking firmer possession of most of us from year to year?

Yea, verily, but set directly athwart this stream of tendency an opposite disposition appears. John and Andrew and other captains of industry and masters of finance seem to be carrying on their old game of competition, but this time they are rivals in the effort to part with their fortunes on such ways as their kind hearts and shrewd judgments prompt them to do, and they are not the only men who are imitating Santa Claus not simply at Christmas time, but all through the year.

Evidently the deep seated desire to grab and get it being met by a counter passion to give and serve. Whether or not the turn of the tide has really come we hail these indications as harbingers of a better day. It need not be insinuated that possessors of great wealth may thus be atoning for any wrongs in their methods of obtaining it, or that they want to make their peace with their maker before the summons comes, as it must shortly come, to render an account of their completed lines. Let us interpet their generous impulses generously and believe that they have been moved by the best impulses to scatter far and wide what in former years—the years of their youth and prime—they had the skill and wit to accumulate.

It certainly looks as if the prophecy of one of these men to the effect that in coming years it would be discreditable to die a millionaire would be fulfilled not many centuries hence, and perhaps sooner than pessimists think. At least the rich man will in coming years have to explain and vindicate himself before a quickened public conscience which more and more demands the equalization of human burdens and opportunities. The taxes which legislative bodies are prone to put upon large and inherited incomes and other restrictions by which entrenched wealth is being hedged about, reveal the trend of public sentiment.

But why should a man wait for old age, or wait for government intervention before he realizes that one great value of money is the service it can render others and not its possessor. Most rich men come to realize that the palaces and yachts, the equipages and style with which they surround themselves in due season pall upon one built for higher things, and many a man and woman now living in the midst of luxury of the most ampel and material sort, would give a good deal to recover the zest of the days when they were much poorer, and indeed scrimped so far as earthly possessions go.

The only sensible and safe course is for the money-maker and the money-getter at the outset of his career to look upon money simply as a means to an end, and that end the serving of humanity. God gives him the power to get money and he has a right to exercise it, but he must seek it chiefly as a tool wherewith he can add something to the higher and finer life of the world. He may frankly admit that he is after money, but after it for moral ends in order that he may bring about certain needed changes in society, that he may educate the illiterate, feed the hungry, clothe the naked, but an end to international discord.

Only such an aim dignifies the pursuit of wealth and the kingdom of God will come fully in the world when the money-makers are in as great a haste to give away as they are to acquire, when they look upon themselves as stewards and trustees but not as sole owners of what they have. This attitude will make them more scrupulous concerning their methods of acquiring money, more careful about their personal expenditures, more eager and more competent to give away money where it will do the most good.

And for those of us who are not millionaires or never expect to be the lesson is also needed that sharing what we have, be it little or much money, be it knowledge or influence or good cheer, is the only way to live happily and to die contentedly.

A New Irish Bird.

London Daily Mail: Mr. Collingwood Ingram, a well known naturalist, has discovered in the pine woods of County Sligo, Ireland, an entirely new indigenous bird to be added to the list of British birds. Such an event has not occurred for nearly fifty years.

The new bird is allied to the coal tit (Parus ater), which, although it is distributed throughout the world in various forms, in no instance has a distinctive variation so pronounced as in the new species, in which the parts of the plumage that in all other coal tits are pure white assume a clear sulphurous yellow hue. These parts are the cheeks and a spot on the back of the neck.

He was so impressed with the dream that Saturday at daylight he went to the spot, and sure enough, there stood the old horse with his load precisely as he had been left Monday evening.

London Globe: Seventy-five years ago the first railway was introduced into Germany. The experiment was naturally on a modest scale from Ludwigsbann, joining up Nuremburg to Furth. The first locomotive used on the Nuremburg Furth line was named the Adler and was made under the superintendence of Stephenson in England. It cost £660.

ORATORY AND DECLAMATION

By SAVOYARD.

Champ Clark is always interesting and entertaining, whether he employ tongue or pen, and his article on "Orators," in the Century has that steady flow that is characteristic of his style. For example, here is the tribute the Democratic leader pays Bourke Cockran and it is well deserved:

"William Bourke Cockran of New York was the last great orator to grace the house of representatives. Cockran is the highest type of Irishman, and was educated thoroughly in France. He is a profound student, a man of large erudition, with an emotional temperament, with a thorough mastery not only of English but of French, Latin and Greek. He has a superb voice, a vivid imagination and a commanding presence. His sentences are polished as thoroughly as those of Edward Everett or John James Ingalls. The greatest achievement of an orator is to force applause from a hostile audience. Time and again I have seen men who dissented toto caelo from what he was saying applaud Cockran until their hands were blistered. He won them, temporarily at least, by his magnificent oratory, his wonderful sentences and his personal magnetism. Men listened to him with delirious delight. The day he left the house he was more popular there than he had ever been, and men of all shades of political opinion sincerely regretted his departure."

I have heard many great orators, and in his class Cockran is the first—above Bryan, above Follows, above John Young Brown, above William C. P. Breckinridge even. But in his comments on Cockran and Bryan, does not Mr. Clark lay too much stress on elocution? Cockran and Bryan are declaimers to persuade. Your real orator is a logician to convince. Who ever heard of Cockran or Bryan convincing anybody? Webster and Pinckney convinced. Stephen A. Douglas and Benjamin H. Hill confounded an adversary.

Nor do I agree with Mr. Clark that "the greatest achievement of an orator is to force applause from a hostile audience." That is peculiarly the work of the declaimer, and is founded on voice and manner, more than on mind or matter. The "greatest achievement of an orator" is to say something that his hearers will remember and ponder. That was famously illustrated in the memorable debate between Douglas and Lincoln in 1858. According to Mr. Clark's definition, these two men were not in the same class. As groundlings viwed them Douglas, a physical dwarf, was a giant, and Lincoln, the physical Hercules, was the pigmy; but Lincoln, lame and halting of delivery, managed to say something that put the entire North to thinking, and thus the great war was precipitated. That was oratory.

Again at Gettysburg, Edward Everett was the "orator of the day," and his oration was ornate, splendid, even for him. But who reads it? On the other hand, the few minutes' talk of Abraham Lincoln, that day made, was the greatest oration ever made in our hemisphere, and it will live as long as the language, as long as letters. But Lincoln was no declaimer, "no orator, as Brutus is." Ungainly of manner, homely of feature, harsh of voice, hesitating of speech, as a declaimer like Cockran and Bryan a hopeless failure, and yet this man, in the space of five minutes, put himself at the head of all American orators.

Oratory is from the pen as well as from the tongue. Sir Walter Scott, who could not speak at all, put in the mouth of Jeanie Deans the supplication before Queen Caroline that is one of the most powerful orations in any language. He that will read it without a tear has a callous heart. I wish I had space to copy it here.

And that same Sir Walter Scott puts into the mouth of the mendicant, Edie Ochiltree, at the time of the threatened invasion by Bonaparte, a tribute to the British government that I regard as a greater oration than Bourke Cockran ever delivered in the American congress:

"Me no muckle to fight for, sir? Isna there the country to fight for and the burnsides that I gang daundering beside, and the hearths o' the gude-wives that gie me my bit bread, and the bits o' weans that come toddling to play wi' me when I come about a landward town? Deil! An I had as gude pith as I ha' gude will, and a gude cause, I should gie some o' them a day's kemping!"

That is not declamation, but it is patriotism incarnate, fresh from the heart, and it filled the soul of the man. That is oratory.

Charles James Fox, pronounced by the highest authority, Edmund Burke himself, as the greatest debater the world ever saw, defined oratory to be "reason redbot." He was no declaimer as Cockran and Bryan are. His mind was so luminous that it teemed with thoughts struggling for utterance, and he sputtered the words off his tongue so fast they chased one another in the eagerness for articulation. He was by no mans a pleasing speaker, but his reply to Pitt in the debate of the breach of the treaty of Amiens is one of the greatest orations in the English language.

Then there was Edmund Burke, the greatest orator who ever spoke our tongue, whose most masterly orations were delivered to empty benches, notably that most masterly production, "The Nabob of Arcat's Debts." Indeed, Burke was called "the dinner bell," for when he rose to speak, nearly everybody left the scene to eat. So far from getting applause from an adversary, he got none—at the zenith of his powers—from his friends even. His was a wretched voice and a wretched delivery, but his was the greatest mind since Bacon, and no mortal man equaled him in acquired knowledge. But he was more; he hated injustice with all the intensity of a mighty soul and he smote it with all the strength of an Olympian demi-god.

On the other hand, his fellow-countryman, Sheridan, could

"Hark a fish out of the water,
And water out of a stone."

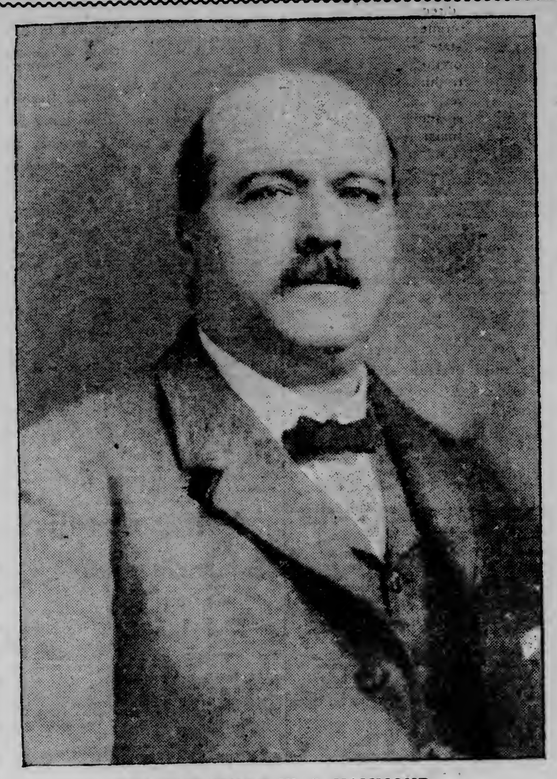

He could persuade; he extorted applause from the enemy and at the close of his speech in the house of commons on the debate of the charges against Warren Hastings, the effect was so profound that the sitting adjourned without motion or vote for that procedure. That was declamation a la Cockran-Bryan; but on the impeachment of Hastings, whose speech lives? Burke's, though both Sheridan and Fox were his colleagues in that prosecution.

• • •

Perhaps the consensus is that Webster's reply to Hayne was the greatest oration of our Federal senate; but Webster was no declaimer like Cockran or Bryan, and only the skeleton of the speech we read was delivered that day. The immediate effect was insignificant, for even that magnificent peroration was but the frame of what Webster made it in subsequent revision. Indeed, Webster was not spontaneous. His mind labored. His famous apostrophe to the power of England—"the drumbeat heard around the world"—had been heard around the world and studied long before its delivery, and laid away for subsequent use.

There are orators and declaimers. I move Champ Clark that he amend his title by striking out "orators" and inserting "declaimers."

HAMMOND GOES ON THE NEW WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE

CONGRESSMAN W. S. HAMMOND.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The election of Representative W. S. Hammond of Minnesota as a member of the Democratic committee on ways and means in the next congress, which was made at the party caucus on Thursday night, will give him a voice in the framing of the tariff bill which the Democrats will present to the new congress. It has been a good many years since a Democrat from Minnesota served on this important committee. The Republicans of the state have been represented on it many times.

The Minnesota member owes his assignment to the good offices of Champ Clark of Missouri, who was nominated for the speakership. The Democratic "hog combine" allotted the place to the Ohio delegation. The members from that state became embroiled in a row, with the result that they were unable to make a choice. Accordingly Mr. Clark recommended the assignment of Mr. Hammond. He was put on the slate, which was adopted in accordance with the program prepared in advance of the caucus. The personnel of the committee is: Underwood of Alabama, chairman; Randall of Texas, Harrison of New York, Brantley of Georgia, Shackleford of Missouri, James of Kentucky, Kitchin of North Carolina, Hull of Tennessee, Dixon of Indiana, Rainey of Illinois, Hammond of Minnesota, Hughes of New Jersey and A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Hammond's place on this committee gives him an opportunity for leadership. He will not only have a voice in the making of the new tariff bill, but he will be in a position of influence by reason of the fact that the ways and means committee, in accordance with the resolution passed last night, is charged with the duty of naming the other standing committees of the house.

It thus becomes the most powerful committee in the house organization.

AN IMMIGRANT LABOR TARIFF

Minimum Wage for Aliens Suggested—American Common Labor Bankrupt—Real Protection for Laborer Needed.

By PAUL U. KELLOGG,
Associate Editor The Survey.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

The Federal Immigration commission has made its report, and the old war is on between the restrictionists and the anti-restrictionists over the literacy test.

The commission recommends the exclusion of all immigrants who cannot read and write in some language, as the simplest method of cutting down the flow. And that the flow should be cut down, they pile up facts to show that so long as every rise in wages operates merely to suck in unlimited surplus populations from Europe and Asia, no permanent raising of our standard will be possible.

On the other hand, those who are zealous that the United States shall not be closed to the oppressed of other nations, point out that, it is not the cultural deficit of a husky country lad of Croatia that threatens American standards. It is the fact that he sells his working day for less money than a family can live on that counts.

Now, in Australia, they have adopted minimum wage legislation. These laws provide that in any depressed trade, a board representing the employer, the employe and the public can set a standard of pay below which nobody can be hired. Ideas of freedom of contract, and the effects of interstate competition which might push to the wall any industry or state which tried to raise wage standards by law, have stood in the way of such a plan in the United States. But why not apply it nationally to the current of immigration itself which floods in and keeps the day labor rate down below a living wage in all industries?

Let us look at the situation.

If, by poverty, is meant the inability of an adult male to maintain a family on his earnings then American day laborers fall as truly below the poverty line as the 27 per cent of families that Rowntree found in York or the 30.7 per cent that Booth discovered in London. The rapid expansion of industries and the constant inflow of new immigrants have disguised the situation; but the figures which the commission gives, drawn not from one industry but from twenty, clear away these disguises and we see the brutal fact that unless a woman supplements the wages paid her man by corporation or contractor, she cannot bring up children. The commission gathered 750,000 individual schedules, visited 23,000 families, made detailed reports on 250 communities. Of more than 22,000 wage earners, 18 years of age or over, writes W. Jett Lauck, expert in charge of the industrial investigation, the average annual earnings were only $455. Less than two-fifths of all immigrant households were supported solely by the earnings of the husbands, and more than one-fourth derived part of their maintenance from boarders or lodgers.

"True," writes Prof. H. Parker Willis, editorial adviser of the commission, "a very large percentage of immigrants have come to this country either unmarried or without their wives and children; but where families exist it is necessary for the wife to perform a substantial amount of paid work in order to keep the family together. The percentage of women thus employed is materially greater among immigrants than among native Americans, thus showing the extent to which the immigrant has been reduced not merely personally, but in family life, to a basis of commercial exploitation."

In other words, as a family proposition, the common laborer cannot make both ends meet on the wages he gets in America. As a social group, American common labor is shown to be bankrupt.

Enormous impetus has been given to American industries by the exploitation of this raw labor supply. It is as if the chambers of a coal mine, once cleared with pick and chain-saw, were automatically to flood themselves with new fuel to be had for the digging. It is not enough to urge that the men scatter into the country districts after transitional work as unskilled labor. Crowded tenements, insanitary milltown courts, construction camp barracks, and the shacks of outlying mining towns are scarcely reasonable way stations to country life. Nor is it enough to urge that the unskilled men move up to the highly paid grades. Even if this were so the group remains—60 per cent of the whole force in steel production, for instance—and, unless there is a change in industrial policy, hundreds of American towns will permanently bear the stamp of household life at under $2.00 a day.

We say, in our child labor certificates, that a child cannot go to work until he is 14, and until he has gone through a certain grade in school. Why not have an immigrant labor certificate and provide that until an alien is naturalized, he cannot be hired for less than a living wage, say $2.50 per day. If he wants to sell his labor for a song after that, he can do so as a free American citizen but while he is a greener, his helplessness could not be used to cut down wages. The adaptation of this principle of the Australian minimum wage might, it seems to the writer, be made the basis of a national program of immigration control more comprehensive and simple than any yet advocated. As it would involve aliens, who may be disposed to have a different constitutional status from natives, it would seem that a measure could be framed which would avoid the question of freedom of contract in its ordinary form. The measure might also be limited to corporate employers (and contractors for corporations) who are recipients of special legal advantages not possessed by individuals, and might therefore be subjected to the imposition of this restriction in hiring. By such a provision the plan would not interfere with the minor employments of farm and store which absorb a proportion of each year's newcomers. The proposal would give new alignment to the forces for and against immigration restriction in this country. The various patriotic organizations which are opposed to shutting off America as a refuge for the oppressed would find in such a law no impassable barrier, and at the same time it would tend to bend their energies toward constructive schemes for distributing their co-religionists and fellow countrymen throughout the country and upon the farms. Its conceivable reaction on American industrial conditions would be even more important. If $2.50 worth of labor had to be gotten out of a man in a day, the work would be put into his hands as a developed stint and not as a piece of lumbering drudgery. The effect on the organization and pay of skilled labor would be cumulative; nor would the change come at once in such a way as to dislocate industry.

DULUTH BOYS STUDYING THE SCIENCE OF AVIATION

CURTISS CARMAN,
Leader of the Aeroplane Club.

The Boys' Department Aeroplane club met last evening with eighteen members present, and a purchasing committee was appointed to purchase the material with which to make the models. The members of the club this week will pick out the models they desire to make, and then as many as can will draw their own plans. Each member of the club has own bench in the manual training room of the boys' department, which has been transformed for the present into an aeroplane shed. Actual work will be commenced next Monday under the direction of Curtiss Carman, who is the leader of the club.

The club will offer a prize for the first aeroplane that will sail a distance of twenty-five yards. A small library of books dealing with the subject is on hand. A scrap book will be kept, each week, and the members of the club will bring any helpful article they have read on aeroplanes. Talks will also be given from time to time.

The practices for the boys' department minstrel show will commence Wednesday at 4:45. The first part of the entertainment will be a play written by Stanley Lamb, in which seven members of the boys' department will take part. Stanley Lamb and Chester McLeod, who made such a hit in last year's performances, will again act in the capacity of end men with a big line of brand new jokes. Earl Bradley, who will be the business manager again this year, says that the minstrels will eclipse all previous efforts.

Much interest is being manifested in the boys' exhibition that is to be held in April. Boys all over the city are commencing to work on their exhibits. Boys do not necessarily have to belong to the department in order to put on an exhibit. It will be open to the boys of the city. The new class in domestic science that is being added to the list this year is going to prove a popular one. Candy, cake and bread made by boys, no doubt, will be a novelty. It is possible that the boys' department may have a short course in domestic science.

The high school Bible classes met Tuesday evening with an attendance of thirty-six. There are five classes. The boys meet for dinner at 6:15, enjoy a good social time for twenty minutes, then adjourn for a thirty-minute Bible study. Popular and interesting courses are used. They have been prepared especially for older boys.

Harris, Brown and Emmons are subs, and Mr. Carey is acting as faculty manager. All the students wish the team success and are hoping that it may hold up the reputation made by the Central football and basket ball teams.

The City union held its monthly executive committee meeting on Tuesday evening, Jan. 17, at the home of the Rev. B. V. Black. Reports from officers and committee chairmen showed that the work of the union was being well taken care of. The matter of having the Rev. Arthur Ellwoods address the Endeavorers of the city was discussed and it was decided to accept his offer. The union decided to ask Mr. Ellwood, who is a well-known lecturer, and who has engagements with the local Y. M. C. A. and Bethel, to address them on Friday, Feb. 10. It is expected that considerable impetus to the work of Christian Endeavor societies will result from the visit of Mr. Ellwood.

The First Christian society has elected the following new officers: President, Homer Holdren; vice president, Esley Tidball; recording secretay, Miss Ethel Elde, and treasurer, Gordon McDonald. The election was held at a business meeting Monday evening, Jan. 16, at the home of Budd Nell, 418 Eighth avenue west. A large percentage of the membership of the society was present and following the business session those present met socially.

The Westminster society, which is one of the most progressive societies of Duluth, is planning a special service for Feb. 5 in commemoration of Christian Endeavor Day, which is Feb. 2. Feb. 2 is observed by Christian Endeavorers as the birthday of the society, as thirty years ago on that date the first society was formed. This society expects to observe the day with several special features. So far it is announced that both the pastor, Rev. John G. Leitch, and Mrs. Leitch, who is an eloquent speaker, will take part in the meeting.

SONS OF HERMAN WILL HOLD CONVENTION HERE

Annual Meeting of Grand Lodge Will Be Held in Duluth.

About 150 Delegates From All Parts of State Will Attend.

The thirty-fifth meeting of the Minnesota grand lodge of the Sons of Herman will be held here, Jan. 24 and 25. The convention of two days' duration will be held in the Owls' hall.

About 150 delegates will attend the convention. There are sixty-five lodges in the state of Minnesota and each lodge will be represented. All of the grand officers will attend and some well known Sons of Herman from other states will be guests of the Minnesota grand lodge at the convention.

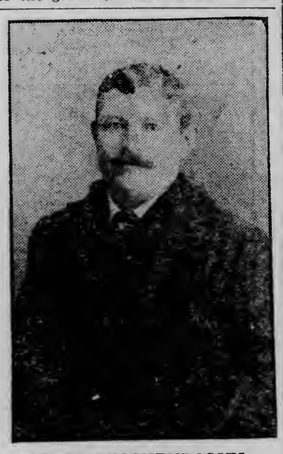

Gustav Collatz, former president of the North Pole lodge, Duluth, is in charge of the arrangements, which will include a reception and entertainment for the visitors.

There are two flourishing lodges in this city, the North Pole and the West Duluth lodge. The former is the older and has about 140 members. The president is Peter Beschenbossel. The West Duluth lodge, although much younger than the North Pole lodge, has had a rapid growth. It has thirty members, and Hans Kuchenbecker is president.

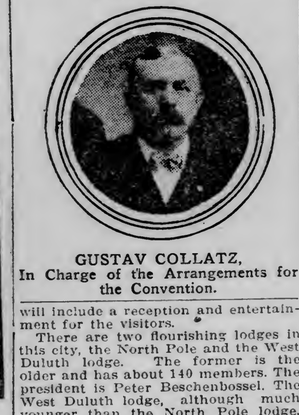

Gustav Borchert of Minneapolis is grand president of the Minnesota grand lodge, and Carl Harpke of St. Paul is grand secretary. It is probable that Duluth will land one of these high offices at the convention next week.

CARL HARPKE
Of St. Paul, Grand Secretary of the Sons of Herman.

President of North Pole Lodge.

FIVE DAYS WITHOUT FOOD IN COLD CAR.

Cumberland, Md., Jan. 21.—Charles O'Neil, 21 years old, was rescued from a refrigerator car here last night in a serious condition. He said he had been locked in the car, which was empty, five days and five nights without food or water. O'Neil said he was working on a railroad in the West, and at the request of his mother in West Philadelphia, was returning home. At St. Louis he entered the refrigerator car and later found he was locked in.

COUNTY WILL MAINTAIN IT

Will Take Over Sanitarium for Children If It Is Erected.

Duluth Women Planning to Raise the Fund By Public Subscription.

If a fund be raised by private subscription for building a children's pavilion in connection with the proposed county tuberculosis sanitarium, the county will take over the pavilion and maintain it. That assurance was given a delegation which appeared before the county board yesterday afternoon to interest the board in the proposed pavilion. The delegates were Mrs. A. W. Hartman and Mrs. A. M. Marshall.

As stated in The Herald last evening, the proposed pavilion would cost about $10,000, which sum a number of public-spirited women propose to raise. Before going ahead with the project, however, they wanted the assurance of the county board that after the pavilion should be erected, the county would assume the maintenance expense, amounting to about $8,000 a year. The proposed pavilion will include a schoolroom and quarters for a teacher, as well as for a nurse and the children receiving treatment.

There is no tuberculosis sanitarium in the state having a children's pavilion in connection. The children should have quarters separate from the adults, in the opinion of the Duluth women interested in the plan, and such provisions have proved very successful in other places. With the assurance that the county will maintain the pavilion, the women will start out to raise the money, and they expect little trouble in doing so when the need and possibilities of such a pavilion are understood.

HERE IS A PROBLEM FOR BRIDGE LOVERS

Suppose the dealer at bridge finds himself with this hand; Hearts—king, eight, seven; diamonds—queen, five, four, two; clubs—ace, eight, four; spades—ace, nine, three. Suppose he makes it no trumps, and the ace of hearts is led. Suppose, further, that dummy lays down these cards—Hearts—ace, six, four; diamonds—jack, seven, three; clubs—king, nine, seven, six, three; spades—queen, six.

What sort of a plan of campaign would you outline as dealer for the management of the two hands?

That is the problem proposed by the well known English bridge player, W. Dalton, in his article, "Lady Claverton's Bridge Class," in the current issue of the Strand. Probably the average bridge player would solve the problem as one of the members of the class suggests. She proposes to win the first trick in her own hand, and then to clear the club suit, keeping the ace of hearts in dummy as a card of re-entry.

But Mr. Dalton, posing as Reggie Holford, teacher of the class, demolishes this plan at once. The dealer, he says, has two certain tricks in hearts, four in clubs with ordinary luck and one in spades—seven altogether. But nine are necessary in order to win the game. How is he to get the other two?

If the leader should happen to have five hearts, and should be able to get in with them, three heart tricks with the ace and king of diamonds would save the game from going to the dealer. The leader's problem, then, is to stop the heart suit from making.

"If often puzzles me," says Reggie, "why so few players ever think of holding up two commanding cards of their opponent's suit. They will all hold up one—say the ace—as long as possible, but it never seems to occur to them that it is doubly valuable to hold up two, especially in a case like this where it is of vital importance to block the suit."

So the dealer passes up the first trick, letting the leader's partner win with the jack. When the two of hearts is led back the dealer takes it with his king, figuring that the leader's partner has no more hearts to lead. The dealer then leads a small club, Reggie explaining that he is bound to lose one club trick and that he might as well lose the first.

"Suppose I play out the ace and king," he says, "and the dealer held three clubs originally, he must come in on the third round, whatever his clubs were. He then clears his hearts and has the ace or king of diamonds to bring them in with. As it is, he cannot possibly win a club trick unless he has four, which isn't likely."

The leader's partner wins the club trick and leads a small diamond which the leader takes with the ace. Now the only possible card of re-entry which the leader can have is the king of spades. If he has it he will clear his heart suit, trusting to the king of spades for re-entry; if not, he will return to the diamond lead. He leads a diamond and his partner lets

OUR YOUNG FOLKS PAGE

A NEWSBOY HERO.

THE Newtonville boys had a fine coasting place. It was down a steep hillside, and away from the the business thoroughfares of the town. There every evening might be seen from one dozen to one hundred boys with their sleds, enjoying the fine winter pastime of flying down the long hill, to walk deliberately up it again. And with them were their sisters and girl friends, and an occasional mother or "big" sister to see that they did not run into danger. One evening when a fine, heavy and solid snow lay on the ground the children turned out in force to enjoy it. The hillside was dotted black with them, and their gay shouts and merry laughter could be heard a long way off.

"The children are having a fine time tonight, son," said old "Granny" Rich. She was speaking to her grandson, Scotty Rich, a palefaced chap of 12. Scotty was a newsboy and lived with his aged and widowed grandmother. His parents were dead.

"Yep, Granny," said Scotty. "Wisht I had a coaster. Thought I'd make enough on extras this winter to have one. But it seems extras don't sell so well as I'd planned. Funny how men won't buy an extra. Think they get it all in the next mornin' daily, I reckon."

"Yes, an' times are close this winter, son," explained Granny. "I had set my heart on your havin' the coaster, and also a new pair of sidewalk skates. But times are too hard. You see, I get only this small pension from the government because I'm an old soldier's widow. But it ain't enough to keep you and me, you see. So, we have to take all you can earn sellin' papers, son, to keep the wolf from the door. But after this year, maybe you'll do better. You're learnin' lots at night school, sonny, and you'll be fitted to get into business of your own, maybe. I often see you with a fine news-stand down by the Railroad Hotel where you'll get a big patronage."

"That'll come with time, Granny," said Scotty, hopefully. "I'll be ready to quit school in a year or two. Then I'll hustle a job that'll bring us—you and me, Granny—a good livin'."

Then the happy shouts and laughter of the coasters came through the walls and windows of the little wooden building occupied by old Mrs. Rich and her grandson. And the old lady resumed: "As I was sayin', Scotty, the youngsters are havin' a fine time on the hill. Oh, I wisht I had your grandpap's knack for doing things. I'd take that old wooden box out in the shed and make you a sled. He could 'ave done it, an' well, too. Oh, he was a great man, son!"

"And a great soldier," added Scotty. And his eyes raised to a cheap crayon portrait on the wall. It was of a fine-looking, strongly built man in his prime. "Grandpap looks every inch a general," Scotty said. "Wisht I could do something great—something brave, like he did."

Granny sighed, "but grandpap had to pay dearly for his bravery," she said, shaking her head slowly. "He was a brave soldier—a fine officer after he was made captain. Ah, he did his duty for his country!"

"Yes, Granny, he died for it," said Scotty. "He couldn't have done more."

Then Scotty went to the woodshed to cut kindling for morning use. As he was pulling about among some broken boxes his eye fell on a big packing box that his grandmother had kept for some future use. "Ah," said Scotty. "that's the box Granny said a coaster—a little bobsled—could be made from. Wonder if I could make one? Believe I'll try."

A little later Scotty was busy in the kitchen, Granny watching him and giving suggestions concerning his work. He had borrowed from a neighbor a saw, hatchet and plane, and with the addition of his strong pocket-knife and a few nails soon had a very good "home-made" sled, with wooden runners, of course. But the runners were nice and smooth, and put together securely. It was not Scotty's first carpenter work. He had built kitchen shelves and benches and window-seats for old "Granny." So he knew how to use the tools and nails to good advantage.

"Now a piece of that old clothesline will do for the front," said Granny. And he went into the cellar and cut from a looped-up clothesline five feet of rope to tie to the front of Scotty's sled.

When all was done, the sled ready for use, Scotty looked at the clock. "Too late to try it tonight, Granny. It's half-past 10! Who could believe that I have been three hours making that sled? Well, hours do fly when one is preparing for a good time," he said.

Scotty was sitting upright on his sled, and knew that he could manage to miss the runaway horse and dray.

"Yes, son, and I hope you'll have many a pleasant hour on the hillside with that little home-made sled," said the dear old grandmother. "And now we'll go to bed. You must get up early in the morning, you know."

"Yes, must sell all my morning papers, getting ready for any afternoon extras," said Scotty.

The next day was Saturday and Scotty had no night school to attend. So he got through with his chores and went out to the coasting hill to enjoy an hour with his new sled. Hardly had he appeared, however, when the other children, who had fine steel-framed coasters to ride on, began to laugh at him and to ridicule his "home-made" sled. "Look at it!" cried one boy. "Say, it must have come out of the ark! Gee, it will go like a washtub! Just about as clumsy!"

Then a roar of laughter went up at Scotty's expense. His face reddened, but he was not a coward, and dragged his sled to the top of the hill, preparatory to coasting down. The children stood in groups, discussing him and his "funny-looking old home-made sled." But Scotty did not pay any heed to their thrusts, and took a comfortable position on the sled and started down the hill. At the same time a very fine sled started also; seated on it was the boy who had cried out to him so insultingly just a minute before. They ran almost neck and neck toward the bottom of the hill, Scotty turning a deaf ear to the boy's rude and unfriendly taunts about his sled.

When about one hundred feet from the bottom of the coasting hill, where the sleds found a good landing place on an untraveled road, a crazed horse hitched to a four-wheeled dray dashed round the corner and made toward the very spot that Scotty and his tormentor would reach within the space of a few moments. Scotty was sitting upright on his sled and knew that he could manage to miss the runaway horse and dray. But the boy who raced beside him was lying face downward on his coaster, and evidently was too busy taunting Scotty to notice the danger that threatened him. Scotty had no time to think. His first impulse was carried out instantly. He threw himself from his sled—which was a few feet from the boy's sled and slightly in advance of it—just in time to stop the sled's progress and to grasp the boy in his arms. The two rolled over two or three times in the snow and their sleds went on toward the bottom of the slippery slide.

When Scotty seized his racing opponent, the fellow tried fighting him off. "What are you about, you numbskull!" he bellowed in Scotty's face. "I'll give you what you deserve for this—if you call it a joke."

But the watching crowd on top the hill were cheering wildly, and after two or three brief seconds, when Scotty and his companion-in-arms stopped rolling and sat up, the latter heard such cries as "Good for the News Kid! He saved Bert's life! Good for the chap with the bum sled!"

Rubbing his face, the boy, whose name was Bert, looked inquiringly at Scotty. Scotty pointed a finger toward the bottom of the slide. "Look at our sleds," he said. "And see that runaway horse going down the street? He ran over your coaster just now. Good thing you weren't on it."

It took Bert some minutes to understand it all. Then truth dawned in his mind. He stood looking at Scotty, shame in his face. "Gee," he said at last, "I was a pup, wasn't I? Was poking fun at you at the very minute you saved my life. Say—I don't know what to say—I'm so ashamed of myself. I've been a fool—a big-headed fool. But—where is your sled, old man?"

"There, unhurt," said Scotty. "It stopped soon after I tumbled off. Its wooden runners don't go like steel runners, you see."

"Say—will you shake my hand?" And Bert held out a hand to Scotty. "And I'll not ask you to forgive my conduct—that would be too much. But—as sure as my name is Bert Jackson—I'll show you that I know how to repay a good turn. Come—let's go to the top of the hill. My, but that horse is going some, isn't he?" And both boys looked after the poor, crazed runaway horse.

When they reached the top of the hill Bert took Scotty's arm and, bowing to his rich and finely dressed comrades, said: "Here's a hero—a brick of a kid, girls and boys, and he's going to become one of us—if he will. Three cheers for the Newsboy who is BIG-HEARTED enough to save a fool's life, a fool who hopes to repay his great service in some way."

Scotty felt a bit abashed. Playing the hero was not in his line, but he could not get away from the girls and boys who swarmed—50 in number—about him. Each one wanted to shake his hand and to say something nice to him. So, blushing like a girl, Scotty stood there, wishing he could break away and run home to his dear old "Granny."

The next day three boys, Bert leading them, tapped at the door to Scotty's home. When "Granny" admitted them Bert dragged in behind him a fine coaster, one that any boy might be happy to own. And he bore a letter from his father to Scotty, asking him to call at his office on a little matter of business.

"You see, ma'am, this little present (designating the coaster) is for Scotty, your grandson. I know it is a trifling thing, but I haven't any other way of expressing my gratitude to him. But in the years that are to come I want to be a friend to your grandson—a friend he may call upon in any sort of pinch or trouble. And—papa has a proposition to make to him."

And Bert's father's proposition was a very good one. He proposed that Scotty and his grandmother move into one of his pretty residences, where half the house should be set aside for their use and the remaining rooms let to another tenant. Scotty's grandmother should be caretaker, thus paying their rent in looking after the place. Scotty was to attend school along with Bert, and work on Saturday—certain hours—for Bert's father, who was a wealthy merchant.

"Well, well, son, that home-made sled just carried you right into good luck," laughed good old "Granny" a few days after they had moved into their new quarters. "And you don't have to sell papers any more, but can go to school and learn all about books and business. Oh, I am so thankful things have turned out in this way for my fine boy."

"And I mean to prove myself worthy of Bert's and his father's kindness to me," declared Scotty. "I only saved Bert from sliding under that runaway horse's feet. And just see what they—Bert and his father are doing for you and me, Granny."

"Dear, unconceited boy," smiled "Granny."

Then they sat down to supper to talk it all over.

The Monkey's Salvation.

A MONKEY was wrecked on the ocean;
His craft had no power of motion.
But his wits were not dull
For he lassoed a gull
And was saved by his fortunate notion.

BE KIND.

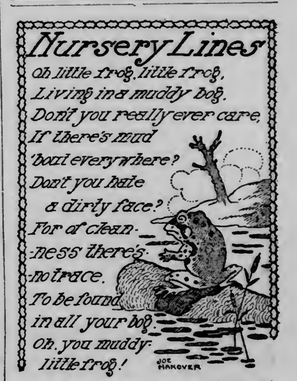

BE kind to the unfortunate
For you can't judge his life;
His path has ne'er been smooth like yours,
But full of toil and strife.

Be kind to the unfortunate
Whose life knows naught that's sweet;
For Poverty, Discouragement
May lead astray his feet.

Be kind to the unfortunate;
Give him a brother's care—
A helping hand, a friendly smile—
When you meet him anywhere.

Be kind to the unfortunate;
He's low and you are high;
And a reward you'll justly earn
From the Great God in the sky.

Three Little Red Apples.

A STORY FOR WEE ONES.

ON top the big basket, just outside the grocer's door, lay three red apples. Underneath them, and all round them, were other apples, brothers and sisters, no doubt. But all the others had varying colors, such as green and yellow. Some were pink-cheeked on one side and apple-green on the other, with variations of shades. But the three little apples of which this story tells were red, redder, reddest. Not one spot of any other color marred their richly-tinted jackets. They were as beautiful on one side as on the other. And that is why the grocer had put them topmost of the basket of apples displayed outside his door.

As they lay there one of them nudged the other and said.

"Where do you suppose we will go, brother?"

"I was just wondering about that myself," replied the apple nudged. "Since leaving the dear old orchard in Maryland I have been bounced about so much that nothing surprises me now. Well, we have seen something of the world, so far, brother."

The first apple said, "Aye, we have."

Then the third apple, that had been listening to his companions, put in: "And we'll see even more, I'm thinking, before we end our time by sitting snugly in a pie or a dumpling. Ah, apples like us are not eaten at once, for persons buying us want to keep us to look at for a while. So, I guess we'll live some time before we go to our destiny in the shape of pie or dumpling."

"I'm happy in any case," smiled the second apple, the one that had been nudged. "If only people knew that we enjoy being eaten as much as they enjoy eating us, they'd never hesitate about putting an end to us."

"That's because we're born to be eaten," said apple number one.

Just then a lady, leading a little boy, came along. As the little boy's eyes fell on the three red apples he cried out: "Oh, mamma, I want one of 'em." The lady stopped to give the smiling grocer an order, and the tradesman took up one of the apples (the one that had done the nudging) and gave it to the little son of his customer. As the child took it greedily, the lady said:

"What do you say to Mr. Jones for the nice red apple, Johnnie?"

"Thank you, sir," said Johnny, making ready to bite the apple.

But at the moment his attention was attracted by a basket of mixed nuts. "Oh, mamma!" he cried, "I want some nuts."

"Give me a nickel's worth of nuts for Johnny," said the lady, handing a five-cent piece to the groceryman. In another minute the red apple was stuffed into a tight, dark pocket which smelled of marbles, old leather, rubber bands, a greasy top, a soiled mitten with its thumb pulled off, and two rusty pennies. The owner of all these desirable things was busy cracking nuts between his teeth. The apple was entirely forgotten.

After the lady and the little boy had disappeared down the street, the two red apples winked at one another. "He's gone," whispered the one who had been nudged. "He'll soon know his fate."

"Thank you, sir," said Johnnie.

"Yes, and I have an inkling that we'll soon follow, for we are the choice of the whole basket of apples. All the others are two-sided or freckled. We'll go soon."

And they did go soon. Within five minutes, along came a young man, leading a dog by a strap. He paused, took a dime from his pocket and bought some apples. Among the apples the grocer put into the paper bag was red apple number two.

"Ah, left till the last," wailed the one remaining red apple. Then his lamentations were stopped by a little girl, who picked him up, saying to the grocer: "How much for this pretty red apple, sir?"

"One penny, my little lady," replied the groceryman. The little girl produced the penny and took the apple. Off toward school she ran, the third apple stuffed into her school bag. At recess she took the apple out and ate it, giving every second bite to her little chum. And together they soon had eaten through to the core. There they found several pretty brown seeds and told their fortunes with them. And so ended red apple No. 3.

And now we'll return to the first apple—the one that was taken away from the basket first. As you remember, it went into the bulging pocket of a little boy named Johnnie. Well, after Johnny had eaten his fill of mixed nuts—cracking and eating all the way home, which was five blocks from the grocery store—he drew from his pocket the red apple and looked it over. "Ain't it a bee-u-ti-ful apple, Mamma?" he asked, as his mother took off his overcoat and overshoes. They had reached home and were in the living-room.

"Yes, it's a very nice apple, almost perfect in color and shape," replied Mamma.

"Yes, it's almost too pretty to eat," Johnnie declared. "Think I'll save it till cousin Minnie comes over and give her half of it." Then Johnnie put the red apple on the table in the living-room and ran up stairs to finish some work he was doing in his own room. He was building a boat to sail in the bathtub and wanted to have it ready for the water before his cousin Minnie came in the afternoon.

After Johnnie had gone up stairs and his mother had gone to the library to read a late magazine, Cook came bustling into the living-room with broom and duster. It was her cleaning day. As she swept the feather duster about over the furniture her eye fell on the red apple on the table. "Och, that Johnnie is always carryin' me fruit from the kitchen and litterin' up the tables wid it. I'll jest put this back where it belongs." So saying, Cook took the apple to the pantry and was about to toss it into a pan of apples that stood on a shelf. But the bright color of the pretty thing held her eye. "My, but you're a beaut," she said. "Guess I'll take you to me little niece, Katie Darlin'. She's that fond of pretty apples. Ach, the little dear has been sick. So I'll jest bake a nice apple dumplin' fer her and put some hard sauce wid it, I will."

That evening, after her work was done, Cook went to visit her married sister and carried along the daintiest bit of an apple dumpling for little Katie. The red, red apple was inside that dumpling. It seemed almost prophetic that it should turn into a dumpling—after the conversation on top the basket of apples.

Well, Katie ate the dumpling in a jiffy and said it was the finest-flavored one she had ever tasted. And so disappeared another of the red trio.

And now to return to apple No. 2. He was inside a bag with several other apples of indifferent color and shape. He was the very undermost one, and when the young man, leading the dog, began eating from the bag, our choice red fellow was not brought forth. The young man ate three of the apples, leaving our red one and two others in the bag. These he took home and gave to his young brother, a boy of seven. Mr. Seven-year-old was just going out to join some boys at coasting down the hill, for it was during the noon hour, and he had 20 minutes to play before going back to school. So, apples bulging from his pockets and sled dragging behind, he went merrily to the coasting hill. There he gave an apple to each of his two friends, keeping one for himself. The fine red one fell into the hands—and almost instantly into the capacious little stomach—of Pete Handy. And Pete did not leave even the core. He ate the juicy red apple—skin, seeds and all. Not a morsel remained to tell the tale.

And so they went their ways, the red apples three. And each was happy in his own way, glad to follow out the path made for him by Mother Nature, whether it be in pie, pudding, dumpling or just plain raw.

Katharine and Robbie in the Alps.

A VERY heavy snow had fallen during the night, great drifts of it being piled in fence corners, on south sides of buildings and in cross streets, where the wind swept round in circles. And then the temperature had fallen, freezing these small mountains of snow till one could pass over them without danger of breaking through.

At a window stood Katherine Kingdon, aged 12, and her little brother, Robbie, aged nine. They were enjoying the great snow without.

"Oh, just see that drift across the street!" cried Robbie. "Almost as high as Mr. Brown's house, isn't it?"

"Yes, it looks like a mountain," replied Katherine. "See how it goes up in the middle to a point? It's like the pictures of the Alps."

"Oh-h-h-oo!" ejaculated Robbie, flattening his nose against the window pane. "Oh-h-h-oo! wisht we could go out and climb the mountain," he added.

Then an idea came to Katherine. "I'll asked mamma," she said. And away she ran to her mother's sewing-room. "Oh, mamma, may Robbie and I explore the Alps this morning? We'll not stay out till our feet ache or our fingers tingle. We'll come in every 10 minutes and get warm."

Mrs. Kingdon looked up from her sewing. "But, dearie," she said, smiling, "the Alps are so far away. If you were to take the fastest train to New York and there embark on the fastest boat it would take you something like 12 days to reach the Alps. So, I fear you'll have to postpone your exploring those wondrous mountains till sometime in the far future."

"But—I didn't mean the sure-enough Alps," explained Katherine. "I meant our play Alps—Robbie's and mine. We call the snowdrifts the Alps. May we put on our warmest things and go out to explore the drifts down the street? There is quite a mountain in front of Mr. Brown's house."

Mrs. Kingdon smiled indulgently. "All right, dear. But you must fetch your wraps here, for I must see that you are properly clothed for the climb up the Jungfrau."

Katherine broke into a happy laugh, clapping her hands. "Oh, mamma," she cried. "Robbie and I will play that the big drift is the Jungfrau. And we'll have to have some Alpine staffs, won't we?"

"Certainly, you couldn't climb the old Jungfrau without staffs," agreed Mrs. Kingdon. "While you are getting your wraps — yours and Robbie's — I'll look about and find some staffs for you."

"All right, mamma," said Katherine, running off toward the living-room to tell Robbie all about their plan. "I'll fetch Robbie and our wraps to your sewing-room right away, mamma."

Mrs. Kingdon, ever happy while indulging her dear children in some innocent amusement, went to the hall and took down an old walking-stick belonging to Mr. Kingdon. Then she searched through the kitchen for something to take the place of another walking-stick.

"There's that old broom—the one on the back porch that's good for nothing," suggested Maggie, the woman-of-all-work. "I can chop the handle off for you, ma'am, if you say so."

"That's a good idea, Maggie," said Mrs. Kingdon. "You may take the hatchet and chop off the broom end. The handle will do admirably for Robbie's use as an Alpine staff."

Ten minutes later Katherine and Robbie were out in the street, going toward the Jungfrau that loomed 15 feet high in the air just in front of Mr. Brown's house. They carried their mountain staffs. Katherine having the old walking-stick and Robbie the broomstick. They felt as though a great adventure was ahead of them. Mrs. Kingdon told them that she would watch the clock and at the expiration of 10 minutes would call them in to get warm. Then they would be ready for a second journey to the Jungfrau, and then a third, and so on till they had explored the celebrated mountain to their heart's satisfaction.

After reaching the mountain Katherine and Robbie began to climb, using their staffs to keep them from sliding backward. They had almost reached the summit when their attention was attracted by someone tapping on a window in Mr. Brown's house. Katherine and Robbie were happy to see Jack Brown looking out at them. Jack was of their age—coming between Katherine and Robbie—and was Robbie's chum.

"Come out," cried Robbie, beckoning to Jack with his stick.

"Yes, come and climb the Jungfrau," said Katherine, also beckoning to Jack.

In another minute Jack appeared at the front door, overcoated and warmly wrapped for the ascent up the frozen snow drift. And he carried a staff also, one in the form of an old umbrella stick. It had a good, crooked handle, which made it very useful.

Just as the three little folks were reaching the top, Katherine, by virtue of her sex and superior years, being permitted by her companions to set foot on the pinnacle first, there happened a very happy surprise for them. There, at the base of the Jungfrau, and at some 50 feet distance from the children was Mrs. Kingdon, and she had Robbie's kodak in her hands. "Take your positions," she called out, "and then stand still till I get a snap."

"Oh, mamma's going to snap us on top the Jungfrau!" cried Katherine, her eyes sparkling with pleasure and anticipation.

"Stand still till I get a snap."

"Come, take position!" Robbie and Jack at once struck brave and daring attitudes, Robbie, making believe he was about to slip from the mountain side, was holding excitedly to his staff, which was firmly planted in the snow. Jack was in the act of climbing a very dangerous point (the danger being suggested in his face and attitude) and was looking boldly at the window of his own home, where his mother stood smiling out at him. Katherine took a more unassuming attitude, leaning gracefully on her walking stick and smiling into the camera.

After the pictures were snapped, Mrs. Kingdon told them their ten minutes had expired and that they must run into the house to get warm. Jack accompanied his play-fellows to their home and there Mrs. Kingdon gave them some bread and jelly, and they all talked over the excitement of the morning, the climbing of the Jungfrau.

"And we'll print your pictures on post-cards and you may send them to all your friends," promised Mrs. Kingdon.

And that was how Katherine, Robbie and Jack came to be called "The Alpine Climbers," for that was what they wrote across the postcards on sending them to their young friends.

"It was a great day—when we went to the top of the Jungfrau," Katherine would say when describing her trip into the Alps.

And her mother would laugh and reply: "And it was a daring venture for three little folks like Katherine, Robbie and Jack."

DEMAND FOR ACREAGE CANNOT BE SUPPLIED

Land Available for Platting This Year Scarce in Market.

Valuation and Taxation—Wise Purchases Have Given Good Returns.

Inquiry for acreage is the feature of the real estate market at this time. Dealers find that great numbers of people are anxious to get title to acreage either within or near the city limits and in the course of answering inquiries, they also find that owners of that class of property are holding it closely and there is little on the market.

The more remote acreage, that which is available only for farms and is not easy enough of access from the city to be suitable for cutting up into market garden tracts at this time, may be obtained at reasonable prices, but land suitable for residence lots and market garden plots is hard to get at any price.

Several deals in acreage are now in the air and they are expected to be brought to earth within the next few weeks so that the purchasers will be able to arrange the preliminaries for platting the property and putting it on the market early in the spring. There will be a rush of market garden districts and residence additions on the market in the spring to be sold on the easy payment plan and everybody interested in the business is making plans to be on the market as early as possible and get in early in the rush with their offerings.

As far as the general market is concerned, there is very little moving and January bids fair to rival December as the dullest month ever in point of deals closed. Since the first of the year, there has been more activity in inquiry and negotiation, however, and the dealers believe that the best real estate market Duluth has had in years is in prospect for the coming year.

A few pieces of improved residence property, a number of residence lots and a few tracts of lower-priced acreage in the district northeast of the city have made up the bulk of the deals closed during the past few weeks. There has been some inquiry for improved business property, but all property of that class is being closely held and any that is on the market is held at prices that are anticipatory of profits and regarded as prohibitory at this time by careful investors.

Real estate men are interested in the recommendation of the state tax commission that property be valued at its full value and that cut in half for purposes of assessment. As agents for owners and as large holders of property themselves, real estate men are always interested in taxation and assessment matters. Although the reason for cutting valuations in half for taxation after they had been made on the full value of property is not quite clear, real estate men would be satisfied with that or any other system which would bring uniformity of valuations. The lack of system in making valuations in Duluth has always been a source of annoyance to real estate men, and the determination of J. Allyn Scott, the present assessor, to make a new valuation on a more uniform basis was received with satisfaction by real estate men.

"It doesn't make much difference in taxation whether valuations are fixed at full value or one-half or any other percentage, if all property is assessed on the same percentage of its true value," said one dealer and agent yesterday. "There is a big difference, however, in valuations, some of which are made on 20 per cent of full value while others are close to full value. In Duluth, different classes of property have been assessed on different percentages of value and the consequence is that some property pays more and other property less than its full share of taxes.

"When the present assessor began his work, real estate experts in Duluth offered to give him every assistance in determining the true value of property if he would give assurance that he would assess all property at some fixed percentage of its true value. The only objection to fixing valuations for taxation purposes at full value would be that Duluth would be paying more than its share of state taxes. If the state would adopt some definite system, matters would be simplified, so that real estate experts all through the state would feel free to assist assessors in determining the full value of property and getting valuations down to a systematic basis."

"The man who buys land wisely at points which are regarded as remote and holds it for increases that come after many years is often regarded as lucky, while he is usually entitled to be known as an astute dealer with foresight, and the courage to act on his own convictions," said a dealer yesterday in discussing increases in property.

"When nearly twenty years ago a Duluth man began to put his money into land up the river he was regarded by many people as a crank on the subject, throwing his money away and making himself land poor. When the United States Steel corporation went into the market to buy land for its steel plant it found that man in the market with nearly all the land available in that district and the company had to treat with him. He owns more land in the vicinity of the plant—land that is constantly increasing in value and will continue to increase. He was not only lucky. He had the foresight to see that land on the river would be valuable some day and he had the courage to put his money into it and stand by his convictions.

"When another Duluth man started to buy up East Superior street property a few years ago, many Duluth people couldn't see his object. They didn't think that the business district would ever extend in that direction. Land on East Superior street went up from $100 a front foot to $200 and then to $300 and it is hard to get property there now at any price. The man with the foresight, the money and the courage owns a good deal of property in that district and it is very valuable.

"There have been thousands of such opportunities in Duluth, but only a few people have taken advantage of them. They are the men who have money and the valuable property now. The man who goes into the real estate market on a large scale with foresight and firm convictions as to why the property will be more valuable is making a mistake. If he gets in on any great increases in values, he is lucky, but few men who have made big money in Duluth land have been lucky only. They have combined foresight with luck and have outstripped others who have been in the market just as long and with just as strong desires to make money."

BEAUTIFUL CONVENIENT HOME WHICH WOULD COST $9,000 TO BUILD IN DULUTH OR VICINITY

The above drawing is a practical and artistic solution for a south side of the street location, placing the main rooms to the sunny exposure and also treating the north elevation with dignity as the one that is most easily seen. The walls are of brick of subdued weathered tone, laid up in Flemish bond with darker colored headers at intervals to give a "texture" to the walling and by the arrangement of bricks diagonally and by the use of tile and colored cement, an inexpensive refinement has been added above the first floor windows. The roof is of bluish green slates and contrasts with the brickkwork to the benefit of both. The painting of the exterior woodwork white, would be the finish to a dignified, permanent and picturesque exterior.

The plans show living room, dining room, hall, kitchen, pantry and toilet on first floor, arranged in the most convenient manner, with easy communication and separate entrances to each room, short distance from kitchen to entrance and back staircase. The second story is divided into four bedrooms with large closets and bathroom and a billiard room and bedroom under the roof.

The kitchen and pantry will be finished in birch, the dining room and hall in selected birch, the living room in stained oak and the bedrooms and bathroom in white enamel with floors of maple.

The above design would cost, inclusive of heating and plumbing, in Duluth and vicinity, the sum of $9,000.

FEW DEEDS RECORDED

January Is Quiet Month in Office of County Register.

Real Estate Men Look for More Activity After This Month.

This week has been one of the quietest in history in the office of the register of deeds and January promises to be one of the quietest months. Not only have few warranty deeds been filed, but few instruments of any kind have been filed—few compared with the usual rush of business in that office. In closing up the business of the year, many people rush instruments of all kinds to the register for record and the consequence is a falling off in business immediately after the first of the year.

The increase in inquiry, prospects of activity in residence lots on the easy payment plan and indications that farm land business and market garden tract sales will increase during the coming year have cheered real estate men so that they regard the present dullness with equanimity. They are busiher during dull times than when many deals are being closed, for they are working hard to respond to inquiries and further negotiations. They look for a change in affairs after this month passes and cold snaps let up some and as spring approaches, business is expected to assume proportions that will make the summer in 1910 one of the best the real estate market here has had in years.

MANY HOMES TO BE BUILT

Activity Promised for New Additions During Coming Season.

Cold Weather Has Put Check on Work Now in Progress.

Continued cold weather has not been acceptable to the builders and outside work has progressed little during the past week. No new work has come out, though architects say they are busy and that the next month will bring out several important building announcements.

Companies engaged in building under contract for payment by monthly installments say that the demands on them are likely to swamp them with work during the coming summer. Many people who bought lots on the easy payment plan last summer are anxious to put the lots to use and the companies building houses on easy terms offer exceptional opportunities to those people.

Many substantial homes will go up during the summer, as the building limits of the city are constantly being extended toward the corporate limits. The Woodland district will probably see the most pronounced building boom, while Lakeside will not be far behind. In the central part of the city a number of fine residences will go up in Crescent View park, Congdon park, Greysolon division and other divisions which went on the market last year. In Chamber's First division and Highland there will be considerable building and other additions will share in the general activity.

Few permits have been taken out in the office of Building Inspector S. M. Kielley this month as little new work is getting under way. Following are the permits issued during the past week:

To M. Dicesare, frame store, Fond du Lac	$ 1,500
To H. Siegrist, foundation, West Eighth street, between Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth avenues	500
To J. Ritke, frame dwelling, Eighth avenue east between Eighth and Ninth streets	1,500
To A. E. Halverson, frame dwelling, Sixteenth avenue east, between Sixth and Seventh streets	2,000
To E. Archambault, frame dwelling, Hermantown	700
To Imperial Iron Works, foundry, Polk street and Fifty-second avenue west	10,000

STATE TAX COMMISSION DISCUSSES TAXING OF MINES AND MINERALS

pects and miscellaneous iron lands at $4,986,656, making a total assessment for 1907 of $191,706,682."

Hastily Prepared Estimates.

Of this total $177,699,562 was in St. Louis county, and $14,007,120 in Itasca county. The 1908 assessment was based on tonnage estimates hastily prepared by the mining companies to meet the immediate needs of the situation. In addition, the tax commission had a very limited time in which to classify the different mines and mineral properties. While the reclassification resulted in a tonnage increase of 1,219,202 tons, "there was a net decrease of $11,495,989 in the assessed value of mineral properties as compared with 1907, the total assessment for 1908 being $180,210,693." Of this total $164,381,474 was in St. Louis county and $15,829,219 in Itasca county.

In 1909, according to the report, a rearrangement of classes was made, the various mineral properties being classified as active mines, reserves and sub-reserves. The ore in the mine was assessed at from 14 to 33 cents a ton according to the class in active mines, and from 3 cents to 21 cents in "reserve" mines. The total valuation in that year was $204,526,139, with $187,193,557 in St. Louis county and $17,332,582 in Itasca county.

The total tonnage estimated by the commission in 1909 was 1,310,190,194 tons, as against the first estimate in 1907 of 1,191,969,757 tons. Of the 1909 estimate, 1,143,229,409 tons were in St. Louis county and 166,960,785 tons in Itasca county.

Higher Valuations.

Still higher tonnage, still higher assessment rates, and therefore much higher total valuations, developed in 1910. Says the report: "Changes were made in the classification of a number of mineral properties in 1910. Several reserves had become shipping mines during 1909 and were re-classified and assessed as active mines in 1910. New tonnages, developed by exploration and through the work of the school of mines, were added to the assesment rolls. The total increase in tonnage amounted to 66,690,593 tons, from which 29,284,496 tons were deducted for shipments during the year, making a net tonnage increase over 1909 of 37,406,907 tons. After the work of reclassification has been completed and new tonnages and reserves has been added to the assessment rolls, the commission made a general raise of 5 per cent on all mines, reserves and other lands in the ore belt.

"The total assessed values of mines, reserves and other lands in the ore belt under the new rates adopted in 1909 amounted to $224,669,845, being a net increase of $20,143,706 over 1909, and a total increase of $44,459,152, or 24.7 per cent over 1908."

The following table shows what has happened since the tax commission was created:

Year—	Tot. tonnage.	Valuation.	Other Land.	Total.
1909				$ 64,486,409
1907	$1,191,969,757	$186,085,296	$5,621,061	191,706,682
1908	1,103,188,959	174,863,832	5,347,081	180,210,603
1909	1,310,190,194	190,008,838	5,517,301	204,526,139
1910	1,347,596,291	220,423,038	4,246,807	224,669,845

The average value per ton in active mines was 22.4 cents in 1907, 22.9 cents in 1908, 22.4 cents in 1909, and 23.8 cents in 1910. The average for reserves increased from 11.2 cents per ton in 1907 to 12.3 cents in 1910.

During this time, while the total estimated tonnage has steadily increased, shipments of 25,611,384 tons were made in 1906, of 29,180,975 tons in 1907, of 18,098,884 tons in 1908, of 29,284,496 tons in 1909, and of 30,308,583 tons in 1910; a total shipment of 132,484,332 tons while the assessed tonnage increased 25,000,000 tons more than that amount.

Big Increase in Valuation.

Says the report, in concluding its discussion of the taxation of iron properties: "Since the organization of the tax commission in 1907, the assessed value of mineral lands has increased from $64,486,409 to $224,669,845; a gain of $160,183,436, or 248 per cent in four years.

"In 1906 the assessed valuation of mineral properties represented 8½ per cent of the total real estate assessment of the entire state, while in 1910 it had increased to 22.2 per cent of the total. This large increase is due in part to the opening up of new mines and to the development of new tonnage by exploration, and in part to the comprehensive method inaugurated and followed by the commission for ascertaining and verifying tonnages and values for purposes of taxation.

"It has been the policy of the commission to keep in close touch at all times with development work on the iron ranges. We are thus enabled to keep fully informed of new discoveries and new tonnages, of changes from reserves to active mines, and of many other matters of importance affecting mineral values. Our records contain complete data of each 40-acre tract of land in the iron ore belt, and when drilled and test-pitted, show grades, tonnages, classification and assessed values. Mining companies and owners of mineral properties that have been explored readily respond to our requests for information relating to their properties, and in nearly every case furnish us with blue prints showing explorations and analyses of ore samples, for which courtesy we here desire to make due acknowledgement.

"We believe that the commission has the mining situation well in hand, and that the method adopted of classifying and valuing the various mineral properties and of verifying tonnage estimates and grades enables us to determine values with a reasonable degree of accuracy and to equitably asses the great iron ore deposits of the state as rapidly as explorations furnish us with the necessary data."

Committee on "State Affairs."

The house state committee met yesterday afternoon, but took no action on Representative Rice's resolution providing for a committee of one from each congressional district, to be known as a committee on "state affairs." It is proposed that it shall be the duty of this committee to examine all important legislation, to file the information it gathers in such a manner that it will be open for the use of the members, and generally to help out the members of the house in their desire to be informed as to the merits or demerits of pending legislation. Representative Rice appeared before the committee to advocate his bill, and Representative Mattson, though approving the general idea of providing some means of assisting the members to do their work intelligently, thought it might be better to employ a lawyer to help the members frame their bills and to study the measures introduced by others. The resolution was laid on the table for further consideration.

Members of the Hennepin county delegation state that the University club, which is the subject of a pending resolution by Representative Robinson calling for an investigation to see whether state university students or instructors are connected with it, has no connection whatever with the state university. It is the successor of the Roosevelt club, a political organization formed of Roosevelt admirers among college men. When the passage of the colonel from the presidency rendered the use of his name less apt as a title for such an organization, the new name was adopted. While the club is limited to college and university men, it has nothing to do with the state university, and has more members who have been graduated from other schools than members who have been graduated from Minnesota.

Forest Fire Conditions.

The house in committee of the whole yesterday advanced to the calendar Representative Robertson's joint resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to look into the conditions in the border country, where forest fires worked havoc last fall. The text of the resolution is as follows:

"Whereas, The northern part of the state was during the summer of 1910 devastated by forest fires, by which many settlers and other persons resident therein were deprived of houses, machinery, horses, cattle, and in many instances the necessities of life, and

"Whereas, Private subscriptions to the extent of $75,000, approximately, have been tendered by the people of the state of Minnesota to such stricken part of said state, and no direct contribution thereto has as yet been made by the state of Minnesota, and

"Whereas, Said private contributions are not sufficient, and the dictates of humanity demand that said state should contribute thereto; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, By the house of representatives of the Minnesota legislature, the senate concurring: That there be, and authority is hereby given to the speaker of the house of representatives and the lieutenant governor as presiding officer of the senate, to appoint a commission of five members, three from said house and two from said senate, to investigate the said conditions and make report thereof to said legislature as soon as practicable, together with any recommendations that said commission may deem advisable and necessary in connection with the relief work now being carried on therein, and particularly as to any amount that said state should contribute thereto.

"Resolved, That the necessary funds for the payment of the expenses of said commission, not exceeding the sum of $1,000, be and the same are hereby appropriated from any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Boyle to Be Orator.

Senator James P. Boyle of Eveleth has had the honor of being invited to make the principal address at the forthcoming Lincoln day banquet of the Lincoln Club of St. Paul. He has accepted the invitation, and will talk on Abraham Lincoln. This banquet is the big political event of the winter in St. Paul.

The senate committee on taxes and tax laws held its first meeting yesterday afternoon and considered some of the measures pending before it. A sub-committee, consisiting of Chairman Carl L. Wallace of Minneapolis, G. H. Sullivan of Stillwater and C. J. Gunedrson of Alexandria, was appointed to consider the several bills relating to the mortgage registry tax. There are bills in to repeal it altogether, and other bills cutting it from 50 cents per $100 to 25 cents.

The committee recommended for passage, a bill exempting from taxation the property of firemen's relief associations.

Senator Wallace's bill exempting from taxation Minnesota public bonds, including those issued by the state, county, city, school district, village and township, was recommended to pass.

The house committee on elections, of which Representative L. D. Brown of Little Falls is chairman, will begin next week to take up the important measures now before it, including the many forms of the Initiative, the referendum and the recall, the Oregon plan of electing United States senators, and the extension of the primary election system to state officers and United States senators. The senate committee has all these measures before it, as well as the woman's suffrage bill, but it will be kept busy for the present with the pending election contests.

RANCHMAN COLLAPSES

expected she will be called as a witness by the defense.

R. P. Dickerson, at whose ranch Ketchel was staying when shot, collapsed last night, it is said, as a result of the strain of yesterday's session of the trial. At his home this morning it stated his condition is serious. Callers were refused admission to the house.

Said To Be Ketchel's Father.

Marshfield, Mo., Jan. 21.—A sensational turn was given to the trial of Walter A. Dipley and Goldie Smith, charged with the murder of Stanley Ketchel yesterday, when attorneys for the defense announced that they would attempt to show that R. P. Dickerson, the wealthy ranch owner, on whose place Ketchel was killed, was the reputed father of the pugilist.

All of the state's direct testimony in the trial of Walter Dipley and Goldie Smith for the murder of Stanley Ketchell, a pugilist, had been presented when court adjourned last night. It is expected that the defense will complete its case today.

Only one new feature developed in the trial today, that being a question regarding whether the dead pugilist's real name was Kleeal. He always maintained this was his correct name.

R. P. Dickerson, a millionaire, on whose ranch Ketchell was killed, had been summoned as a witness for the state. He did not take the stand, however. It is reported that he will be subpoenaed by the defense.

o'clock today and it would not resort to the insanity plea.

Husband Ill for Long Time.

The defense yesterday introduced testimony to show that her husband, John O. Schenk, whom she is charged with poisoning, had been ill for a long time before the time the state alleges the woman administered the poison to him. To support this claim, the lawyers for Mrs. Schenk put on the stand Charles B. Hughes, a railroad man and Dr. A. B. Best, the Schenk family physician.

The afternoon session of the case was enlivened by several tilts between the attorneys. The defence sought to put on the stand Dr. Robert E. Sleppy of Pittsburg, to impeach the testimony of "Miss Klein" or Mrs. Eleanor Zoeckler, the detective-nurse who testified for the state that Mrs. Schenk had offered her $1,000 to administer a poison pill to her husband.

Attorney Boyce said that he wished to show by this witness that the detective nurse was addicted to the use of morphine. The state objected and was sustained, the court holding that this is not proper contradictory evidence.

Failing in this effort, failed in this attempt, they put on the stand Charles B. Hughes, a railroad man, who testified that long before Mr. Schenk's trip to Europe he had told the witness that he was suffering from nausea, vomiting and abdominal pains, the same symptoms the physicians for the state had testified that Schenk had been suffering from when they attributed the cause to poisoning.

RECIPROCITY HURTS WHEAT

Agreement Between United States and Canada a Bearish Factor.

Stop-Loss Orders Uncovered Toward the Close—Flaxseed Is Weak.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 21.—Wheat dropped like a shot in the closing minutes of today's session after a nervous trend caused by early buying on resting orders and later selling on account of stop-loss orders. The fight between the bears and the bulls was more in evidence today than for some time. The climax came in the last half hour. A few minutes before the close a flash came from Washington that a reciprocity agreement had been reached between commissioners of the United States and Canada.

Before the details were known traders began to sell wheat and in all markets wheat was dumped into the pit so fast that it could not be absorbed. It was the general belief that any reciprocity agreement between this country and Canada would provide for free entry of wheat into this country or a very small duty, at the least, instead of the present duty of 15c a bushel.

The selling wave uncovered a bunch of stop-loss orders that swelled the huge volume of wheat pouring into the pits from the country longs and professional bulls who fought desperately but to no avail. May wheat in this market dropped 1c in about twenty or thirty minutes and the decline in other markets was in the same proportion. Winnipeg, naturally, was not so weak. The market there was less nervous than on the American side and although values declined in sympathy, the recession at Winnipeg was not as great as here.

The commissioners representing the two countries will meet at Ottawa next Tuesday to complete certain details and formalities when a formal statement probably will be issued. Whatever the commissioners decide upon is not final, of course, but it is not expected that there will be much opposition from Canada to the plan and it is believed that the United States government will be favorable.

Wheat cables were about unchanged. The weakness on this side was offset by the continental demand for wheat. The cold wave in this country is spreading. Crop damage talk was moderate but bearish news prevailed and stop-loss orders made people forget about the bullish reports emanating from the winter wheat states.

May wheat lost 1⅜c and July declined 1¼c. Cash was 1c under May. Oats lost ⅛c, durum declined ¾c. Rye and barley were unchanged. Flour prices dropped 10c a barrel today, a total decline of 20c in two weeks. Prices are now 10c higher than before the recent bulge of 30c which was in sympathy with the last upturn in wheat.

Flaxseed was dull and fairly weak. May sold at the close at 1½c off. Cash was 2c under.

MARKET GOSSIP

Chicago Record-Herald: One of the Northwestern agricultural experts estimates that Montana will ultimately surpass Kansas and North Dakota as a wheat producer and thus become the largest wheat producing state in the Union. Her area is 146,572 square miles against 82,158 square miles in Kansas and 70,837 square miles in North Dakota. The western half of Montana is partly mountainous. The expert, Prof. Shaw, says that Montana will ultimately raise 100,000,000 bu of winter wheat. Her yield last year was 6,000,000 bu winter and 4,000,000 bu spring. The area sown to winter wheat last fall was 387,000 acres, or 67,000 acres more than was sown for the last crop.

Chicago Record-Herald: One of the traveling salesmen for a leading cash distributing house, familiar with the milling trade in adjacent territory from an experience of many years, reports that the condition in Michigan is quite remarkable. In canvassing millers at the recent winter meeting of the Michigan Millers' association at Lansing, he discovered that not over 45 to 50 per cent of last year's wheat crop has been used, including the quantity seeded, and he estimates that Michigan has 7,000,000 bu of her last crop yet to market. None of the smaller mills will come to the Chicago market this year for cash wheat, as they are getting it steadily at their mill doors. Larger mills will only need an occasional car for blending purposes. All of the mills reported an excellent flour trade for the first half of the crop year, as they have been getting much business which ordinarily went to spring wheat millers, but was diverted to winter this year on account of high prices. One of the big mills in the southern part of the state reported it had not yet gone out of the county for a single car of wheat. This mill is ordinarily a steady buyer in Chicago.

Following the opening and during the remainder of the morning shorts were nervous and with light offerings prices advanced ⅛d to ¼d with the strength in March. The fact of light Argentine

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Steadiness in Liverpool Gives Bull Traders Renewed Confidence.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—Steadiness at Liverpool gave renewed confidence today to bull traders in wheat, notwithstanding weakness sat Minneapolis. The depressing situation in the flour trade, particularly the shutting down of mills, caused considerable selling, but the effect was only temporary. Light Argentine shipments to the United Kingdom and good European demand for Australian cargoes formed the basis for the comparative strength reported by cables. Opening prices here were a shade to ⅜c higher. May started at $1.00½ to $1.00¾, a rise of ½c to ⅝c, reacted to $1.00⅛@¼ and rallied to $1.00⅝.

Canadian reciprocity talk and reported closing of more mills at Minneapolis caused a sudden drop. There was a quick rally on denials of shutting down of mills, but the close was extremely weak with May at 98⅞@99c, a net loss of 1⅝@1½c.

Corn was governed by wheat. Trade was extremely dull. May opened a shade to ⅛c@¼c up at 50⅜c to 50¼c, receded to 50c and recovered to 50¼c.

Lightness of country sales held the market fairly steady. The close was at 49⅞@50c for May, a net loss of ½c.

Oats were even more dull than corn and merely reflected the changes in the larger grain pits. May started unchanged to a shade off at 34⅝@¾c to 34¾c, touched 34⅝c and rallied to 34⅞c.

Provisions were active, several houses were heavy buyers of lard and ribs, but commission houses and scalpers sold freely, and prices did not radically alter. First sales were 5@7½c up to 2½c off with May options at $18.70 to $18.75 for pork, $9.85 to $9.87½ for lard and $9.85 to $9.92½ for ribs.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Heavy Stop-Loss Orders Cause Drastic Decline in Wheat.

Minneapolis, Jan. 21.—Heavy stop-loss orders during the late session were brought out and caused a drastic decline in wheat prices. May closed 1¾c lower than yesterday and July 1⅝c lower. The Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 21.—The cotton market opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 1 point and ruled very quiet during the early trading. Cables were a shade better than due, but not sufficiently so to stimulate any fresh buying of consequence and prices workd only 2 or 3 points above the closing figures of last night during the early trading as a result of scattered covering and a little demand for trade sources. There appeared to be more or less confusion as to the probable showing of the census report at the opening Monday and the market acted as if scattering accounts had been pretty well evened up for over the holidays.

Futures closed steady. Closing bids: January, 14.84; February, 14.71; March, 14.82; April, 14.92; May, 15.03; June, 15.03; July, 15.05; August, 14.74; October, 13.30; December, 13.25. Spot cotton closed quiet; middling uplands, 14.90; middling gulf, 15.15; sales, 829 bales.

SELLING IS CONTINUED

Stocks Start Lower, Following Lead of the London Market.

Movement Narrow, Most Active Issues Showing Yielding Tendency.

New York, Jan. 21.—Following the lead of London, where Americans were generally lower, the local stock market opened today with a resumption of the selling movement. United States Steel, Atchison, Amalgamated Copper, Rock Island, Southern Pacific and Lehigh Valley declined substantially in fractions. A few gains were registered, St. Paul, Northern Pacific and Colorado & Southern rising ½ each and Colorado Fuel ⅝.

The movement in prices was narrow, most of the active issues showing a yielding tendency. The buying movement of yesterday in St. Paul and Northern Pacific was resumed, the latter advancing a point. Some of the industrials which had been in demand at rising prices for several days scored further gains, National Biscuit being especially strong. Realizing sales of Laclede Gas as a result of the announcement of the new stock issue sent it down over 2 points. The Gould stocks were higher, particularly Missouri Pacific.

The market closed heavy. There was some activity in the Erie issues, the first preferred rising 1¾ and the second preferred 1½, but the market otherwise was listless and without essential changes until near the close, when it went off fractionally on increased business. Texas Company declined 1.
